

Volunteers needed for Special Olympics

The Special Olympics Track and Field Meet, the world's largest program of athletic training and competition for people with mental handicaps, is April 22 at Estacado High School.

In keeping with their goal to make Americans more aware of the special needs of the handicapped, the Reese Noncommissioned Officers Association is looking for volunteers to support this event. People are needed to serve as flag bearers, starters, award givers, timers, huggers and more.

From basketball to bowling, gymnastics to weight lifting, the Special Olympics produce quality athletes with a strong desire to excel. However, the Texas Special Olympics produces something else — it produces heroes.

A Special Olympics hero may not be well known, but is always well meaning. These heroes are not measured by accomplishment, but by effort. They do not become winners, because they already are winners.

These qualities personify the Texas Special Olympic athletes, as well as the coaches, volunteers, families, contributors and corporate sponsors who make the games a reality.

Perhaps the best part of being a volunteer is that the giving is not one-way. The affection, energy and effort that Special Olympic athletes display is contagious.

From the hugs at the finish line to the smiles on the competitors' faces, the Texas Special Olympics makes volunteers feel good about themselves.

In the past, Reese volunteers sponsored the opening ceremony, known as the "Parade of Flags." The ceremony was originally established and performed by the Reese people for the Area 17 Special Olympic Track and Field Meet. This ceremony was the only one of its kind, and was named best ceremony by the Texas Special Olympic directors.

Reese also provided assistance with security, honor guard, photography, fund raising, publicity, finances and awards. The awards included the Special Olympian of the Year presentation.

A meeting will be held April 21, 5 p.m., at Simler Theater for volunteers. The meeting is focused on job duties during the Special Olympics.

Last year, 242 Reese personnel volunteered their time to help the Special Olympics. Participation is open to everyone. If you'd like to help out, call CMSgt. Leonard Minzer, 3633, MSgt. Leslie A. Wallace, 3704, or your unit first sergeant.

Conversion questions answered

The last maintenance conversion update meeting was April 4 at the Mathis Recreation Center.

During the meeting, various questions were asked. The most commonly asked questions relating to the conversion were:

Will military married to military be considered for a join-spouse assignment; and what if my spouse is not assigned to a maintenance squadron?

Our Headquarters Air Training Command counterparts have informed us that during the maintenance conversion at other ATC bases, 100 percent of all personnel requesting join-spouse assignments have been reassigned with their spouses.

Will those personnel who previously had assignment be offered the same assignment with a later report-no-later-than date (RNLTD)?

Headquarters ATC counterparts will try to work similar assignments for those personnel who previously had an assignment.

When is the last day I can submit a special duty application?

Special duty applications will be processed by HQ ATC up to the last day of the conversion (currently Dec. 1).

Can retraining be delayed for first termers and career airmen with school dates prior to the conversion?

Headquarters ATC states they have little or no control over first termers, but for second termers/career airmen retraining will be delayed until after the conversion.

Will senior noncommissioned officer assignments be handled differently than other enlisted personnel?

Chief master sergeants' assignments will be handled by the chiefs group while all other assignments are worked the same.

What will happen to personnel who refuse retainability for their assignment and have 11 months or less before date-of-separation (DOS)?

Personnel can be assigned to duty out of their control Air Force Specialty Code (AFSC) until their date of separation.

What about early outs?

Early-out separations will be approved in accordance with AFR 39-10 for valid reasons only. Requesting an early-out because there is a maintenance conversion is not a valid reason.

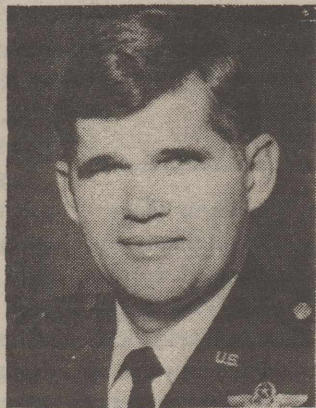

For further information on the maintenance conversion and how it will affect you, contact TSgt. Rebecca Byrd, Manning Control, 3361.

Commander's Perspective

By Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr.
Wing Commander
64th Flying Training Wing

Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr.

Has everyone checked their clocks? No, I'm not talking about daylight savings time or quitting time. I'm talking about the time we have left before the Air Training Command Inspector General's inspection.

One month from now, 90 inspectors from Randolph AFB will arrive here to begin a thorough, two-week look at our programs and readiness. This inspection is just another of firsts for Reese, firsts which include the Model Installation Program and specialized undergraduate pilot training. In 30 short days, we will undergo ATC's first combined unit effectiveness inspection/mission capability inspection of a flying wing.

One month isn't a long time, but we shouldn't have that much left to do. For the past several months, we've emphasized programs — from self-inspections to fixes for identified problems. I've had Lt. Col. Rufus Hutchinson and his Base Exercise Evaluation Team exercising the base with scenarios that should have us up and ready for anything the IG will throw at us. Through it all, the base has performed well.

During this next month, I want to change the emphasis. Up until now, you've all been working to please someone else, whether it's been your supervisor, a BEET inspector or the IG. Now it's time to start working to please yourself.

Take pride in your own programs or your own jobs. No one knows your own job better than you do. You know the strengths and weaknesses of your programs. You should be proud of the job that you do — proud to the point of wanting to brag about the super effort you're putting forth.

I realize that this is quite an exaggeration, but when those inspectors arrive, you should almost want to meet them at the plane and show them your area first.

Pride, professionalism and attitude — These are more than just words written on the flightline hangars. We have the most enviable record of inspection ratings in the command, which is part of the reason we were chosen to undergo the command's first combined UEI/MCI. It will soon be our turn to show the command what we do here at Reese.

All of the other flying wings are watching us, waiting for the results. Let's show them that Reese still knows the moves it takes to be the crown jewel of ATC.

Civilian concerns over conversion addressed

By Romeo R. Garcia
Civilian Personnel Officer

These are challenging times for the entire Reese community. As we do our daily jobs to fulfill the mission the question on everyone's mind is, "Will the maintenance function stay in-house or go to a private contractor?" As we anticipate the results of the A-76 Cost Comparison Study, we must prepare for both possibilities.

Contract stays in-house

We will know that the hard decisions made in designing the Most Efficient Organization (MEO) were the right ones.

Our current employees will serve as the core of the restructured maintenance workforce. Placement of our folks into the MEO will be through a combination of processes: Merit Promotion competitions, Management-Initiated Reassignments and Reduction-In-Force procedures. Promotion opportunities for some current workers are very real, while employment opportunities for other community members will increase dramatically. Immediate manning of the new maintenance organization will receive the highest priority.

The working environment in the MEO will present new challenges to maintenance personnel. Working within an all-civilian workforce, MA civilian employees will comprise both the management and labor elements used to achieve the mission. The production level of the streamlined organization will require a maximum contribution from each person to meet production goals. Cooperation among workers and between workers and management officials will be the secret to our success!

The Reese civilian workforce has established an enviable record of responding to mission needs. Making the Most Efficient Organization function properly will be our greatest test to date. We will be the center of attention as we strive to prove that an all-USAF civilian team is highly competitive when compared to a private industry, profit-oriented contractor.

For the last two years, the Central Civilian Personnel Office (CCPO) has been in the process of encouraging employees to review and up-date information in the Official Personnel Folders (OPF). Now is the time to review your OPF. Ensure that all records are current and that your Experience Brief clearly and fully displays your work history. Make sure your OPF truly reflects you!

Contract goes to private industry
Should this occur, the guessing will be over! We will be able once again to plan our personal and work lives knowing the actual situation.

Efforts to identify possible placement opportunities for Maintenance personnel have been underway for some time. The difficulty of such placements arise from the specialized skills used in maintenance positions. Many of these are not readily suited to support-type jobs.

While some MA employees will be placed in other positions throughout the base, others will be referred to different USAF and Department of Defense

(DoD) installations for placement through the Priority Placement Program (PPP) for displaced employees. The skills of those affected will be matched against existing job openings in employee selected zones. While registration into the PPP will be mandatory, the acceptance of any job offer will depend entirely upon the individual.

To help themselves, employees may wish to consider registration into the DoD Overseas Employment Program and the Central Skills Bank (CSB). These programs are recruiting tools for the DoD. Either program may result in continued federal employment, in work assignments and locations specifically desired by the individual.

Displacement of employees occurs when positions are deleted or cancelled. Through the Reduction-In-Force (RIF) procedures employee's rights and benefits are protected. A RIF notice is issued to affected employees at least 60 days prior to the displacement action. It is critical that employee records be updated and as accurate as possible prior to beginning the RIF process.

Continued employment

While no one can guarantee it, employment of our maintenance civilians, either by a private contractor, or for an in-house all-USAF workforce, appears to be viable. The superior specialized skills in the MA workforce make them prime targets for recruitment by the contractor or for placement by the Air Force. One thing rings out loud and clear, however, Reese Air Force Base needs YOU!

Cordon guard

Would you know what to do?

An armed robbery has just been attempted at the Enlisted Open Mess. The suspects, a male and female of average size, have barricaded themselves inside the building with four hostages.

Security police have been informed that shots were fired from the south exit of the club and one passerby has been wounded. The suspects are threatening to kill their hostages.

As security police attempt to gain control of the situation and the disaster response force mobilizes to respond to the crisis, you are tasked by a security police official to be a cordon guard.

If this were to really happen to you, would you know what to do?

A cordon is a line of troops barricading or guarding a designated area. The area can be only a few hundred square feet or as large as several thousand. For example, if an aircraft crashed, a cordon would be established to keep people away from the crash site. It would safeguard passers-by from injury while preventing any disruption of the investigation and/or rescue efforts.

By regulation, people selected as cordon guards do not have the option to turn down the duty. Once you are assigned a cordon position, you cannot leave the cordon guard post until instructed by the cordon supervisor.

No one, regardless of rank, may enter or exit a cordon (except for base exercise evaluation team members and higher headquarters inspectors.) All entries and exits through a cordon must be by way of entry control points.

People who are stopped on their way to work and told they can't enter an area because a cordon has been established must wait until entry has been granted. However, cordon guards may suggest alternate routes around the cordon.

If you are a cordon guard and someone attempts to wrongfully gain entry, there are certain actions you should take. You should attempt to restrain the individual (with a minimum of force) and signal the cordon supervisor. If members of the media (such as newspaper or television reporters) request entry, they should be denied. Media representatives must be escorted by public affairs personnel when on base.

Basically, everyone should be patient in situations where cordons are established. They should also understand that the cordon guards are trying to protect lives and resources — so respect the cordon boundaries.

Air Force seeks programs to keep pilots

Testifying before the House Armed Services Subcommittee on Military Personnel and Compensation, Lt. Gen. Thomas Hickey, deputy chief of staff for personnel, said the Air Force is having problems not in attracting aviation candidates, but in "retaining pilots in whom we have invested millions of training dollars and years of experience."

"Presently, pilots are leaving faster than we can train replacements," he told lawmakers during his March 1989 testimony. General Hickey characterized aviator retention as "the most serious problem facing the Air Force." He told lawmakers, "In the 12-month period preceding the bonus, Air Force lost three experienced pilots each day and we needed to retain two of these mid-career aviators for force sustainment."

He cautioned House members, "If the Air Force continues to lose pilots at the present rate, there is no question that combat effectiveness will be endangered." General Hickey explained that during the first three months of fiscal year "89", the pilot cumulative continuation rate fell 3 percentage points to 40 percents, 23 percentage points below the level needed to sustain a combat ready force.

General Hickey said sustained airline hiring of at least 5,000 pilots per year to replace retirements and feed expansion has created a long-term demand on limited aviator resources. "In the past two years, more than 60 percent of airline hires have been former military pilots—a trend is projected to continue well into the next decade," he said.

Although a number of non-monetary initiatives have already been taken that will help, he stressed, "decisive action is needed now to improve retention and keep it healthy over the long term."

"Even with continued authority to offer the current pilot bonus, our inventory will be more than 1,000 below requirements by 1994," he added.

"The problem is not attracting qualified applicants to fill cockpits, but retaining pilots after training," he explained.

During the January 1989 Officer Training School Pilot Selection Board, there were more than 762 applicants for 175 pilot training seats.

General Hickey cautioned lawmakers that the Air Force does not have sufficient active-force cockpits or flying hours to replace the losses unless "we degrade our present combat unit experience levels to a dangerously low point."

He said he does not feel shifting the burden to the guard and reserve would help either because that would also mean increased demand in guard and reserve hiring from a smaller seasoning source in the active-duty force.

"We, therefore need to maintain the current mix of active and Air Reserve component cockpits and flying time," General Hickey said.

He testified that retention of navigators and rotary wing pilots is for the moment, adequate. "Today, our aviator retention concerns are focused on fixed-wing pilots," he said.

"Lucrative airlines employment opportunities," he continued, "are the root of low fixed-wing pilot retention. So pervasive is their demand that the airlines continue to aggressively recruit not only mid-career pilots, but now those approaching retirement eligibility and even those who have already completed 20 years of service

"The military services can never win a salary war with airlines," he continued. "However, we must recognize the increasing value of the pilot resource through higher compensation."

Although the fixed-wing aviator bonus program is a near-term step in the right direction, General Hickey testified, "It will fix only 60 percent of our problem. The specific ingredients of a good long-term solution are debatable, but more competitive compensation is a centerpiece in all major pilot retention studies."

General Hickey told the Lawmakers, "To eliminate our aviator shortage in the future, we need to improve retention now and make sure the solution will work over the long term. There are no cheap answers."

We must invest in the cost of competitive compensation if we expect to keep experienced, combat-ready aviators who can win in the air." (AFNS)

AFA begins Reese recruitment drive Monday

The Air Force Association, a national, nonprofit organization that fights for better benefits for Air Force people and supports a strong national defense posture, kicks off its annual membership drive at Reese Monday.

According to Base Membership Drive chairman, 1st Lt. David J. Carrell, AFA's effectiveness in support of the Air Force and its needs is directly related to the size of its national membership, which is open to all active duty, Reserve, Guard, and USAF civilian personnel.

The Air Force Association is the only organization that represents the entire Air Force family. Col. Jack Nuding, USAF retired, president of the AFA Lubbock Chapter, expressed that "The Association has long been regarded as the Air Force's professional society and, through its active duty Advisory Councils, hears the needs of the Air Force people, takes positions on those needs, and fights for them."

It is in a unique position to help the Air Force since it has over 350 chapter organizations located in all 50 states and at many overseas locations. In this area, membership dues are only $21 for one year and $48 for three years and include affiliation with the AFA chapter in the Lubbock area.

AFA members enjoy many varied benefits including a subscription to the highly regarded Air Force Magazine, eligibility for several low-cost group insurance programs, an automobile lease program, car rental discounts, an AFA/VISA card, an employment transition service, as well as numerous opportunities to work with all elements of the Air Force family and community leaders to solve problems and effect change.

The drive will continue through Friday, May 26, 1989. For more information contact your unit representative:

Six UPT Class 89-07 members win awards

Members of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 89-07 graduated April 7. In addition to receiving their wings, six members of the class received awards for performance in various areas.

First Lt. John D. Noah was awarded the Commander's Trophy, which signifies the class' top overall graduate. He also received a Distinguished Graduate award.

Second Lt. Michael W. Harrell was awarded the Flying Training Award (Top Stick) and was noted as a Distinguished Graduate.

Second Lt. John K. McMullen was also selected as a Distinguished Graduate.

The Academic Training Award was presented to 2nd Lt. Deborah J. Myers.

The Leadership Award was presented to Capt. Derreck D. Walters.

Layne B. Packer received the Outstanding Second Lieutenant Award and the Citizenship Award.

In addition to the class members' awards, four instructor pilots and two crew chiefs were presented awards.

Captains Gregory Heckler and Edward Wheaton were selected as the T-37 and T-38 Academic Instructor Pilots, respectively.

First Lts. Michael DuPrier and

Michael Jordan were selected as the T-37 and T-38 Flightline Instructor Pilots, respectively.

SSgt. Jerome Williams and SrA. Anthony Griffin were selected as the T-37 and T-38 Outstanding Crew Chiefs, respectively.

Seven members of the class will return to Reese as instructor pilots. They are: 2nd Lt. Milton C. Campbell III, Joseph L. Morgan, Gregory M. Reiter, Scott B. Baker, Deborah J. Myers, Steven R. Neilsen and John P. Whitney.

Other members of the graduating class were: Capt. Robert C. Burgess; and 2nd Lts. Donald R. Anderson, Torsten K. Arnold, Aaron J. Booher, James G. Chambers, Michael J. D'Argenio, Jay F. Graser, Ukie E. Howell, Allen B. Ingle, Mark M. Josephson, David H. Kelly, Michael S. McCutcheon, Chad M. Stevenson and Lewis W. Williams.

Housing service offered to relocating Reese members

The Air Force has approved a program to provide housing relocation service to our members without any contractual agreement with the Air Force.

According to Paul Young, Reese Housing Referral Assistant, the service will be strictly a "ven-

Care needed during spring cleaning

Danny E. Gillum, chief, Environmental/Contract Planning, cautions Reese employees and housing occupants to be careful of what they dump during spring cleaning.

The concern is over waste water in the base lakes possibly being contaminated by improperly disposing of various products during spring clean ups.

Even though the lakes on base do not provide us with drinking water, the base tests the lakes twice weekly for heavy metals, chemical oxygen demand and chemical solvents. The state and Environmental Protection Agency reviews Reese's test records yearly.

According to Mr. Gillum, some products such as solvents, paint stripper, gasoline and oil-based paint can contaminate millions of gallons of water if put into the sewage system.

Although such contamination would not pose an immediate health threat, it can exceed the allowable limits set by the state and Environmental Protection Agency.

On-base agencies must go through the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron's Environmental/Contract Planning Branch, Bldg. 555, to dispose of these materials.

Mr. Gillum suggests that when Reese Village residents dispose of such materials, they should fill the container with an absorbing material such as wood shavings and place in the dumpster.

For more information, call Mr. Gillum at 3914.

dor-to-member" relationship and should expedite the buying and selling of homes to include mortgage assistance.

Vendors can be expected to offer our members other services to include such areas as rountal assistance, property management and spousal employment assistance. However, the additional services are "vendor unique" and not necessarily offered by all vendors.

According to Mr. Young, vendors participating in the program will provide a single point of contact to the member for the entire relocation. The member will then be put into contact with an associate realtor at both locations and a contact to commence mortgage processing. The program will offer such services as pre-qualification or loan approval for a new home, while the member is still at his/her current duty station, contingent only on the appraisal value of the new home to be purchased. As mentioned above, vendors will provide a potpourri of other services to help make their packages more attractive to the member. You can expect the vendors to offer their services on an a-la-carte basis, and they all will have the capability to provide the nationwide relocation services. It will be up to the members to determine which vendor offers the best package for their individual needs.

It should be emphasized that the Air Force does not endorse any vendor. It is strictly the member's choice to opt for the service. Other than setting aside a specific area in the housing offices for the program literature, the housing offices will not offer any other special considerations to these vendors except to let the member know that the service is available and where the information is located.

The base housing office has a list of vendors participating in this program, and at the present time has five local and five out-of-state vendors. To pick up a list or pamphlet on these organizations that are available, drop by the family housing office, right outside the main gate or call 3601 for more information.

Reese shines at talent show

By Sgt. Kimberly Nelson
Staff Writer, Roundup

The 1989 Base Talent Contest was held at Simler Theater April 7. Awards were presented by Col. Monroe

S. Sams Jr., commander, 64th Flying Training Wing. Master of Ceremonies was TSgt. Richard Holmes, from the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron.

Assisting the competitors with background music were stage band members:

John Ellis, lead guitar; Gary Bellshaw, keyboards; Larry Hammett, bass guitar; Richard Barnett, drummer; and Clyde Shannon, audio engineer.

The competition judges were MSgt. Willie Lee, from the 64th Student Squadron,

Roundup photography

Reese personnel wanting the base photo lab to shoot or process photos for publication in the base newspaper must first coordinate the request with the public affairs division.

To obtain authorization for such audiovisual support, either contact the Roundup staff at 3236 or bring a completed Air Force Form 833 by the public affairs office, Bldg. 800, Room 202, for review/approval.

The base photo lab will not accept work requests citing the base newspaper or public release as justification unless the request has been validated by the public affairs division staff.

Montgomery GI Bill

New legislation has been passed by Congress regarding the Montgomery GI Bill. The open enrollment period is now through June 30. During this period, members who enlisted between July 1, 1985 to June 30, 1988 and declined to participate have the opportunity to reconsider their choice. A $100 per month pay deduction for 12 months from the member's pay is required. This deduction may not be stopped and is non-refundable. The $1,200 must be paid while on active duty. Alternate payment options are possible for members with insufficient retainability to pay the $1,200 prior to separation. The Veterans Administration will add $9,600 to the member's contribution, resulting in $10,800 for education expenses. For more information, contact the Education Center, 3634, Bldg. 920, Room 139.

Garage sale

For more information, contact Sgt. John Slusser, NCOIC, Personnel Readiness Unit, 3159.

Don't forget DEERS

In order to get their Civilian Health and Medical Plan of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) claims paid, CHAMPUS-eligible persons must be on DEERS.

DEERS is the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System, a nationwide computerized data bank that contains (or should contain) the names of all active-duty, deceased and retired military sponsors and their CHAMPUS-eligible family members and certain former spouses.

When a CHAMPUS claim is submitted to the claims processor, the processor checks to see if the patient who received the care is listed in the DEERS computer file as eligible for CHAMPUS benefits. If the patient's name doesn't show up on DEERS, the claim will be denied until the matter of eligibility can be cleared up.

Active duty and retired military sponsors are automatically entered in the DEERS data bank — but their dependents are not. Sponsors must take action to enroll their eligible family members in DEERS. If you're eligible to use CHAMPUS and you aren't signed up with DEERS, or aren't sure whether you are, contact the nearest military personnel office and find out how to do so.

For information about DEERS enrollment, you may also contact the DEERS Telephone Center Monday - Friday from 6 a.m. - 5 p.m. Pacific Time at this toll-free number: 1-800-538-9552.

Teaching the teachers

UPT isn't always last stop at Reese

By Sgt. Kim Nelson
Staff Writer, Roundup

Even after 52 weeks in Undergraduate Pilot Training, for some the training in a T-37 and T-38 is not over.

UPT graduates returning to Reese as T-37 or T-38 instructor pilots must attend Pilot Instructor Training at the 12th Flying Training Wing, Randolph AFB, Texas.

The training lasts for approximately 26 consecutive weeks and covers contact, formation, navigation, simulator, instrument and ground training in both the T-37 and T-38.

Randolph has the only Pilot Instructor Training units in the Air Force. A T-37 instructor class costs approximately $149,000 per student, T-38 classes cost $248,000 per student and at any one time there may be as many as 120 students enrolled in the program.

Each year, pilot instructor squadrons train approximately 500 fully qualified instructor pilots for the T-37s and T-38s.

In fiscal year 1988, 236 T-37 and 230 T-38 instructor pilots were trained, 12 of which were females. A large majority of PIT students are first assignment instructor pilots, selected from UPT to become instructors for UPT bases.

Once they graduate from PIT, the newly trained instructors are assigned to Air Training Command UPT bases where they teach the novices to fly military aircraft.

A spokesperson from PIT commented,

Classroom instruction

"We teach pilots to teach pilots. We teach the teachers."

Each class selects a "Top PIT graduate."

Some top grads at Reese are 2nd Lt. Steve Collins, H Flight and 1st Lt. Stu Page, A Flight — T-38s; and Capts. Ian Sullivan and

Tae Kwon Do

Class offers youth chance to excel

Float like a butterfly...
Andy Hernandez, 9, shows the form that has earned him praise in two recent Tae Kwon Do tournaments...

By Sgt. Mike Breslin
Staff Writer, Roundup

The saying, "Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee," is well known as the trademark of former boxing champion Muhammad Ali. However, it also describes a sport that's catching on with Reese youth.

Classes in Tae Kwon Do, a form of the martial arts, are being offered twice a week at the base youth center. According to In Ho Oak, the center's instructor, the sport differs from other martial arts.

"Tae Kwon Do is a very traditional and original martial art from Korea," said Oak, who holds a black belt. "We use more kicking techniques than hand motions. Eighty to 90 percent (of the technique) involves footwork and kicking.

"Traditional karate and other martial arts have a forced movement in their technique, but Tae Kwon Do requires a lot of flexibility. You have to 'float like a butterfly and sting like a bee,' like Ali used to do," he pointed out.

Flexibility isn't the only thing the sport requires of its participants. "You have to commit yourself to the training," Oak said, noting that it takes a great deal of instruction and dedication to master the art.

Two good examples of how dedication can pay off are Andy Hernandez and Alan Codd, two of Oak's students at the center. During a recent tournament that the center students participated in, Andy, 9, and Alan, 6, came away with a total of three trophies for their performance.

The victory marked the first time Alan had won in competition. Andy had received a medallion for his performance in a Snyder tournament earlier this year.

Tae Kwon Do tournament participants win or lose based on the points they score against their opponent. The contact is non-stop. Oak, who is choosy about the quality of tournaments he enters his students in, said his class competes about five to seven times per year. The class's next competition is the Texas State Junior Championship May 13 in Dallas.

The classes are offered at the center from 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. Monday and from 1 - 2 p.m. Saturday at a cost of $20 per month. The classes are open to boys and girls. To find out more, call the center at 3820.

A member of the 3500th Mission Support Squadron broke the same record twice as a three distance races events were held on Reese Saturday, courtesy of the base physical fitness center and the West Texas Running Club.

Scott Brickerd's time of 1:16:24 in the men's senior half marathon set new marks both on base and in the WTRC. His nearest challenger in the race finished 40 minutes off his record-setting pace.

Excelling in cross-country running is nothing new to the 36-year-old captain — he's the defending Air Training Command champion.

On his latest accomplishment, Brickerd said, "I knew it was going to be windy, so I didn't press. I kept an even pace, and I relaxed when the wind started hitting me.

"On the way back (over the course), I had the wind at my back," he pointed out.

Brickerd said he runs every day to stay in shape, and he likes to compete about twice a month.

While his run may have been the highlight of the day, it wasn't the only strong race Saturday. Winners in five other divisions and two other races took honors during the day. They include:

Men's open half marathon: Charles Bagwell — 1:38:22; Drew Bailey — 1:40:25.

Men's open 10-kilometer run: Tom McCarthy — 45:41; David Doby — 47:08; David Miller — 47:22.

Men's senior 10-kilometer run: Denny Grady — 50:06; Allen Timm — 59:59; Randy Pratt — 1:02:50.

Women's open 10-kilometer run: Sandra Grice — 50:20; Jodyne Vernlund — 50:42; Kathleen Doby — 51:38.

Men's two-mile run: Pisan Srinial — 15:24; William — 19:03; James Washington — 19:47.

In the men's senior half marathon, Raymond Brady (1:56:21) and Bobby Gamer (2:15:08) finished behind Brickerd.

Base team readies for tourney

One of the more popular forms of exercise in the Air Force today is racquetball. With the availability of courts and equipment in Air Force fitness centers, it's no surprise that what starts out as a means of staying fit becomes many people's sport.

With the number of people who play the sport, competition at base-level tournaments is keen, and only the best can hope to represent their base in higher-headquarters tournaments.

The five people representing Reese in the Air Training Command tournament Tuesday through Thursday at Chanute AFB, Ill., are no exception. Between them, they've played at command level more than 10 times.

The five Reese representatives come from four different divisions: open (two representatives), masters, seniors and women's.

The winner of the open division competition on base was Victor Riveras. Riveras, who has played in competition for more than three years, is a member of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps program at Texas Tech. Although this is his first military tournament at command level, he said he feels confident going in.

"I've worked hard on my game ever since I won the base tournament," he said. "I hope to finish high in the standings. I plan to give 110 percent."

Riveras' companion from the Reese open competition will be Robert Wilson from the 64th Supply Squadron. Wilson placed third in the division. Since each base has two open entries in the command tournament, he was chosen for the team when the second-place finisher, Joe Buchwald from the 64th Flying Training Wing, was unable to go to command level.

Wilson, who will be competing at command level for the first time, said he's looking forward to a "learning experience. I'm going to try to pick up different shots that people use," he said, adding that he hoped it would increase his chances in competition next year.

Frankie Schalk, USAF Hospital-Reese, took top honors in the masters category, beating out Civil Engineering's Michael Keller. Schalk, a nine-year veteran of the sport, will be representing the base for the fourth time. Schalk said he expected to see a lot of familiar faces at the tournament.

The seniors division champion, John Robertson from the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, said he feels "pretty good" going into the tournament. Having defeated security police's Danny Thomas in the base competition, Robertson will now make his third appearance in command competition. "You tend to feel nervous going in, but you settle down after the first match," he said. With 15 years of racquetball under his belt, Robertson has the most experience in the Reese contingent.

The fifth representative, supply's Doreen Peck, took first place on Reese after consecutive second-place finishes the last three years. She defeated Cindy Gordon, also from supply, to take this year's title.

By her own admission, Peck didn't do very well at the ATC tournament last year, but she's looking to improve on that performance. A lot of her optimism is based on the attitudes of the competitors in last year's command competition.

"The girl who won first place at last year's (ATC) tournament taught me a few things that have helped my play," she said. "Everybody at the tournament was real helpful, pointing out each other's mistakes and helping others improve their game."

Sports shorts*Slowpitch tournament

A men's slowpitch softball tournament will be held April 21 - 23 at Reese. Awards will be given to top six finishers in the tournament, and they include bat bags, shirts and golf caps. In addition, special awards will be given for most valuable player, golden glove, most home runs and best bat.

There are 16 slots in the tournaments, and the entry fee is $100 per team. The deadline for registration is Monday or as soon as all the slots are taken. Teams who want to participate must pay a minimum deposit of $50 before the deadline.

For more information, contact Larry Wood at 253-2210 or Jake Trevino at 885-3783.

Summer bowling league

Three new bowling leagues are forming at the Windmill Lanes at Reese. The leagues will run for 15 weeks, and the bowling fee will be $5 per person per league.

In the "Improve Your Average League", bowling instruction will be available and people who complete the season will receive a bowling bowl and a card good for 45 free games. The league begins May 1.

The "Funtime League" begins May 2. In this league, half of each week's prize fund will be distributed back to the bowlers and the other half will go toward an end-of-league cookout.

The third league, for parents and children, begins May 3. Bowling fees will go toward a season-end trip, which will be decided on by the bowlers.

For details, call Windmill Lanes at 3116.

Golf lessons

An instructor certified by the Professional Golfers Association, Dick Davis, is available to give Reese golfers a few tips on their game.

The High Plains Golf Course is offering these lessons for $5 per hour. To find out more, call 3819.

Batting cage price cut

The Youth Center has reduced its prices on the batting cage and pitching machine.

The new fees are: $2 for 15 minutes; $4 for 30 minutes; and $8 for one hour.

The cage's operating hours are: 3-8:45 p.m., Monday through Friday; 1-8:45 p.m., Saturday; 1-5:45 p.m. Sunday.

Parents are reminded that youth must be accompanied by someone 18 years or older to use the equipment. For more information, call the center at 3820.

Teen softball

The Youth Center is forming a teen softball league. Teens 15-18 years old are eligible for the team, which will play in the intramural league in the upcoming season.

Players must be center members to join. To find out more, call 3820.

FMS goes on tear

Field Maintenance Squadron player Tyrone Deutsch, left, goes up to stop a spike by teammate Dave Simmons during pre-game warmups at the Reese Fitness Center. FMS was on a tear last week, improving their record to 8-1 to lead the American League (as of press time). The maintainers downed Security Police, Civil Engineering and Student Squadron in successive games to place themselves two-and-a-half games ahead of the second-place Organizational Maintenance Squadron team. In the National League, the 35 Flying Training Squadron 'A' team improved its perfect record to 8-0, maintaining a one-game lead over the 54th FTS 'A' team. (U.S. Air Force photo by Sgt.
