Activities round out busy two weeks

The last two weeks of fast-paced action will finish with a bang today as several big events take place on Reese.

Perhaps the biggest happening is the inspection outbrief by the Air Training Command inspector general. The outbrief, scheduled for 10:30 a.m. in the base theater, will afford wing members feedback regarding their inspection. Seating in the theater is limited and will be divided between base units, so people should call their orderly rooms for seating information.

The chief of the inspection team had words of praise for wing members, "For the entire inspection team, I say thank you to the men and women of Reese AFB for your support and cooperation during the inspection," said Col. Billy M. Boyd. "The results of the inspection are indicative of the quality of people assigned to the 64th Flying Training Wing and your support of the ATC mission."

To mark the end of two-week evaluation, a wing picnic will be held at 3 p.m. in the base picnic area and will run throughout the afternoon. Food will be replenished periodically, and refreshments will be available for people who can't be at the picnic at 3 p.m. Everyone on base is welcome.

Amidst the wing's busy flying schedule, safety will be the primary focus during today's observance of Mission Enhancement Day '89.

"Mission Enhancement Day offers us an opportunity to identify and correct potential problem areas that cost us our greatest resource — people," said Maj. Turner R. Clark, Reese project officer for the day. "We always need to keep the mission in perspective, ever mindful of safety."

As part of the day's activities, Maj. Tim Strongin, an expert on aviation psychology, will give special briefings. The briefings will deal with human factors and how they play a role in aircraft mishaps. In addition to these briefings, many units here have safety-oriented events planned today. To find out what's going on in your unit, call your orderly room.

Mishap halts safety streak

Reese T-38 aircrews logged more than 144,000 safe flying hours prior to a mishap here Sunday.

The mishap occurred early Sunday evening while on a training mission. The T-38 landed short of the north end of the center runway. The crew members were not injured.

The crew members were 1st Lt. Blake Mahan, instructor pilot and his student, 2nd Lt. Tanya Farres.

The full extent of the damage to the aircraft is still being determined at this time. A board of qualified Air Force officers is investigating the mishap.

Reese T-38 aircrews went nearly two years without a mishap. The last Reese T-38 mishap was June 11, 1987, when an engine failed after takeoff from Cannon AFB, N.M. The aircraft landed safely and there were no injuries.

Class 89-09 grads receive wings, awards

Members of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 89-09 graduated May 19. In addition to receiving their wings, six members of the class received awards for performance in various areas.

Second Lt. Kenneth C. Folger was awarded the commander's trophy, which signifies the class's top graduate. He also received a distinguished graduate and flying training award (top stick).

Second Lt. Kristofer K. Schoen was also selected as a distinguished graduate, and was awarded the academic training award.

Second Lt. Scott O. Pinkham was also selected as a distinguished graduate.

Second Lt. Roch B. Larocca was presented the citizenship award.

Second Lt. Clifton J. Wade was selected as the class's outstanding second lieutenant. Capt. David R. Rue was presented the leadership award.

In addition to the class's awards, four instructor pilots and two crew chiefs were presented awards from the class.

The T-37 and T-38 academic instructor pilot awards went to Captains Tefnow and Edward J. Wheaton.

The T-37 and T-38 flightline instructor pilot awards went to 1st Lts. David M. Irvin and Bradley E. Buck.

SSgt. Jerome J. Williams was selected as the outstanding T-37 crew chief by the class.

Sgt. Mark T. Simmons was selected as the outstanding T-38 crew chief by the class.

Returning instructor pilots for the class are 2nd Lts. Michael Robert Ardrey, Clayton G. Lagrone, Scott O. Pinkham, Paul R. Silvestri and Clifton J. Wade.

Other graduates of the class are: 2nd Lts. Laurie Campbell, Kenneth S. Kotansky, Ronald G. Machoian, Brison Bennett Phillips, Kenneth K. Regan, Scott D. Seavers, Timothy L. Stevens and Bruce E. Weaver.

Commander's Perspective

By Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr.
Wing Commander
64th Flying Training Wing

During our nation's first Memorial Day observance May 30, 1868, Gen. James Garfield, later to become our 20th president, said, "...For love of country they accepted death, and thus resolved all doubts and made immortal their patriotism and virtue."

We cannot adequately express our debt to those guardians of peace who have died for the preservation of America's freedom. Memorial Day 1989, however, is our opportunity to pay tribute to those who have made the supreme sacrifice in all wars throughout American history.

Although Memorial Day acknowledges heroic sacrifice, it also establishes a rededication to our national goal of maintaining a free society. This is especially significant in view of the continuing challenge facing the free world today. In order to strengthen our determination in defeating aggression or subversion wherever it may occur, we must find renewed inspiration in the patriotic examples of those whom we are honoring.

The roll of our honored dead totals more than one million. They represent those who have fallen since the American Revolutionary War. They represent people from every walk of life. They represent America.

The best way of honoring our war dead is by exemplifying their commitment to the future. Their efforts have demonstrated that a strong military enhances a free society's progress and security. Freedom, however, cannot be guaranteed without cost and commitment. We must continue to realize that our democracy is only as strong as we are; that democracy will serve us just so long as we serve it.

With words that go back to the beginning of our military tradition, George Washington stated, "The best way to prevent war is to be ready to fight one." Personal sacrifices have been made and will continue to be made so long as we vigilantly cherish that which is more important than life itself—freedom.

Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr.

Leaders pay tribute

By George Bush
President

On Memorial Day, the citizens of the United States pause to reflect upon the courage and selflessness of the men and women who have given their lives in defense of our nation. These heroes paid the ultimate price to ensure that their fellow Americans could continue to live in "freedom's holy light." We owe them our eternal gratitude.

As we honor those Americans who have made the supreme sacrifice in service to our country, we also salute you, the current members of our armed forces. By protecting our nation's hard-won liberty, you help to ensure that the sacrifices of those who have gone before us were not made in vain. Your sense of purpose, professionalism, personal courage and loyalty are an inspiration to us all.

As commander in chief, I proudly salute the past and present members of our armed forces who have so faithfully defended freedom — the only sure foundation for peace — around the world. Thank you, God bless you, and God bless America.

By Richard B. Cheney
Secretary of Defense

On Memorial Day 1989, we again decorate the graves of Americans who died to defend and preserve the precious heritage of freedom bequeathed to us by our forefathers. Memorial Day began as an occasion for placing flowers on the graves of those who gave their lives in the Civil War. It has since become a time to remember the contributions of all Americans who have died for their country in conflicts from the time of the Revolutionary War to the present.

As America pays tribute to its defenders of the past, we also salute you, the vigilant men and women of today's Armed Forces who safeguard our freedom of the present and the future. Military service — your honored profession — is public service in the highest sense.

Today we honor the memory of those who have gone before us with the promise that America will always remember the dedicated sacrifices of her sons and daughters and their contribution to our security and the continued freedom we enjoy. Our ultimate hope is for an enduring peace that will make the freedoms protected by that sacrifice secure for all time.

By Gen. Larry Welch
Air Force Chief of Staff

Throughout our history, the rights and freedoms that form the foundation of this great nation have been secured by military men and women who have served and fought around the world and all too often gave up their lives for their country.

On this Memorial Day, let us pay homage to these patriots — all heroes in their own right. Their selfless acts of courage and conviction have ensured the preservation of America's democratic principles and the peace and freedom we enjoy today.

By Maj. Gen. Robert S. Delligatti
Vice commander, Air Training Command

On Memorial Day, Americans everywhere will take time out to pay respect to members of the Armed Forces who gave their lives to preserve our freedom. The sound of Taps will echo throughout the land and the U.S. flag will fly at countless grave sites and monuments across the country. Many will participate in special observances, such as parades and wreath laying ceremonies, to honor our nation's war dead.

During this year's observance, I urge all members of Air Training Command to reflect on the patriots of our nation's past and the legacy they left behind. Since the American Revolution, more than one million men and women have made the ultimate sacrifice to protect our country's ideals. Thanks to their bravery and devotion, our nation is strong and free.

I also ask that you reaffirm your commitment as a member of the Armed Forces and renew your determination to preserve those principles for which they fought. Remember, we have the same duty as the patriots before us — to protect our heritage of freedom.

Holiday offers chance to reflect

By Philip R. Smith Jr.

A druggist in Waterloo, N.Y., is credited with proposing the first American Memorial Day. He suggested in 1865 that the dead of the Civil War should be remembered by decorating their graves with flowers. Union Gen. John B. Murray approved the idea and, together with other veterans and citizens of Waterloo chose May 5, 1866 as a memorial day.

On that day, the flags of the village were flown at half-staff. Black draperies of mourning were mingled with evergreen boughs and a parade of veterans, civic and fraternal groups marched to the village cemeteries where services were held.

A national memorial day did not get sufficient backing until 1868 when Gen. John A. Logan, head of the Grand Army of the Republic, a Union veterans' organization, sent an order to posts of the Grand Army establishing May 30 as Memorial Day. That date was roughly the anniversary of the surrender of the last Confederate Army. Since the months of April and May 1865 marked the coming of peace — a time of national rebirth — it was considered a time to commemorate the men who had died to save the union.

A town south of the Mason-Dixon Line challenged Waterloo for the distinction of origination of the first Memorial Day. On April 25, 1866, a former chaplain in the Confederate army, accompanied by a group of women, went to the local cemetery just outside Columbus, Miss., for the purpose of decorating the graves of both Confederate and Union soldiers.

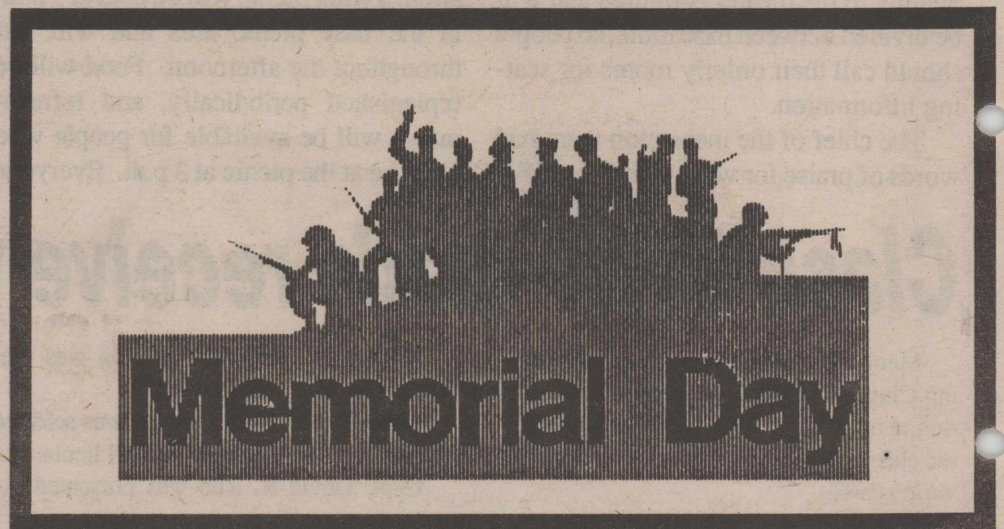

The idea of a memorial day is not new. It can be traced back thousands of years to the ancient Greeks who lauded the dead who had given their lives in defense of their country.

More than a hundred years ago, President Abraham Lincoln paid this nation's most perfect tribute to America's war dead when he said at Gettysburg, "...in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or to detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here."

Such is the significance of our nation's Memorial Day, observed yearly by public law on the last Monday of May.

School bus speeding

I am concerned with the school buses that pick up children from base housing in the mornings. I live on Arnold Street and for the past three mornings I have noticed that the school buses have been well over the speed limit of 15 miles per hour. Is there some way that we can control this for the safety of the children?

The security police contacted Randy Putman, general manager for the Duram

Transportation Company, on May 18, and informed him of the complaint received of buses speeding in the housing area. Putman expressed his concern and stated that he would have a meeting with those drivers who pick up in Reese Village. Putman stated that his company's policy is that any driver receiving a speeding ticket is terminated from employment. The security police, however, will be monitoring the housing area during the hours of bus pick-up and delivery.

Last minute preparation

I'm having a problem around the base with getting customer service. Different offices around the base either aren't open or don't want to answer customer service questions.

I'm sorry for the inconvenience. I know that some agencies that have been extremely busy may have had to curtail some of their customer service temporarily. These curtailments are not a result of lack of planning, but instead overload. In addition to the normal services to which we have been accustomed, most units on base are having to take time to prepare and show their programs to inspectors and even employ large numbers of their personnel to remote locations. We are trying to minimize the inconvenience. I appreciate your patience during these busy times.

Un-patriotic postman

Our postman continues to complain about American flags being flown from the front porches in base housing. He has stated that if the flag becomes a problem to him, he's not going to deliver our mail. The way I understand it, that's against the law if he were to do that. I was wondering if there's some way we can resolve this at base level. Being a military member on a military installation, I feel proud flying my flag and being an American.

I appreciate your dual concerns for timely mail delivery and being able to fly our American flag. The problem appears to be that when the wind is blowing, flags that are mounted on the porch posts tend to blow across the mailman's path. We have done everything we could think of to minimize the problem, to include having a boy scout move all the mounts for his Eagle Scout project. However, as you are well aware, the West Texas winds can overcome the best of us.

We have talked with the postmaster at the Sunset Station, and he plans to come out and observe the situation.

Planning for your financial future

By Capt. Russell A. Roberts
Accounting & Finance Officer

Does $1 million sound like a lot of money? Well, that's what you're likely to earn before you reach retirement age.

It is a lot of money and it will present some problems for you because at least 75 percent of your income will be committed to regular, fixed living expenses.

No more than 25 percent will be left over after you pay for rent, mortgage, utilities, groceries, telephone, insurance, taxes, clothing and other essentials.

This leaves little room for luxury or unexpected expenses such as entertainment, travel, gifts, appliances, a new car, medical emergencies and other instances where money is needed immediately. To handle these expenses on less than 25 percent of your income is going to take some good money management.

Good money management means keeping financial records, planning ahead, shopping carefully, borrowing wisely and using common sense.

By looking ahead you can prepare for unexpected expenses and not get caught short. For example, if family birthdays or special holidays are right around the corner, try to estimate what those gifts are going to cost and how much you can afford to spend.

If you have a magazine subscription payment due next month, mark it on your calendar as a special reminder.

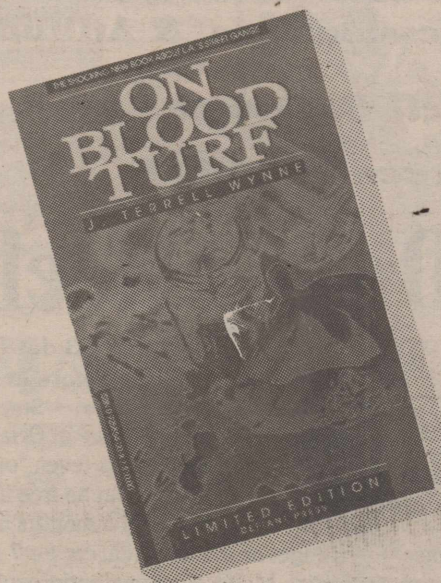

Keeping a financial calendar can really pay off when you get to the point where you have to handle phone bills, rent, car payments, insurance premiums and many other fixed expenses falling at a certain time each month or year.

The Personal Financial Management Program can help by providing free financial advice. For details, call 3432.

STURON command changes hands

The largest squadron on base will get a new commander Tuesday when Lt. Col. John R. DiPiero takes over the 64th Student Squadron from Lt. Col. Bill Ford.

Colonel Ford, an 18-year service veteran, is going to Randolph AFB, Texas, where he will be working programs for Headquarters Air Training Command. He's been the 64th STURON commander since 1987, and during that period, the squadron has undergone several changes.

Under the colonel's leadership, squadron administration was consolidated; student management was reorganized so that the student and academic branches were integrated; and the squadron facility was renovated.

Looking back on the 64th STURON's accomplishments, Colonel Ford said, "I believe everyone in the squadron has worked hard for what we have. I hope they continue along the lines we've started on in accomplishing the wing mission — training the best pilots in the world."

Colonel DiPiero comes to Reese from the Pentagon, where he was the executive officer to the deputy director for operations and training. He spent more than three years in Washington before being selected for this assignment, which will be his first command.

Colonel DiPiero said he was pleased with this assignment, and that the chance to command isn't the only reason. "Reese has a history of sound performance, and besides that, it's a neat base," he said. He added that he liked the Texas area, having been stationed here twice before.

As for his new squadron, the colonel doesn't have any immediate changes in mind. "I want to get comfortable with the squadron and the mission first off," he said.

Lt. Col. John R. DiPiero (left) works on a mock instrument panel as Capt. Dan Holt, chief of the 54th Flying Training Squadron Pilot Qualification Branch, looks on. Colonel DiPiero is undergoing refresher training before assuming command of the 64th Student Squadron. (U.S. Air Force photo by Sgt. Mike Breslin)

"Since the squadron will have just finished an inspection, I'll have a 'report card' to work with. I don't want to start changing things right off—I want to find a direction to go in first."

Bond drive on tap

The 1989 Savings Bond Drive kicks off Thursday, and according to 1st Lt. Ron Carrell, project officer, there are many good reasons to buy bonds.

"First off, they're simple to buy because they can be purchased through the payroll savings plan," said Lieutenant Carrell. "They also provide a very competitive rate of interest—in fact, the rate was 7.81 percent as of May 1.

"Furthermore, bonds are not subject to state or local taxes, and they're a good way to invest in your country," the lieutenant added.

Every unit on base has a keyworker assigned for the drive. Keyworkers will have information and forms for people who want to buy bonds. Some of the larger units may have more than one keyworker.

While keyworkers will be going to the different work sections to contact people, anyone who would like to sign up right away can contact their unit representative directly. The drive will run through the end of June. To find out who your unit keyworker is, call your unit orderly room or Lieutenant Carrell at 3218.

Housing wait may lengthen

Some Reese people waiting for housing in Reese Village may have their wait extended because of a homeowner assistance program at five other bases.

According to Mitzi Hallgarth, Reese housing manager, Homeowners Assistance Program relief has been extended to certain people reassigned from Chanute AFB, Ill.; Pease AFB, N.H.; and George, Mather and Norton AFB's, Calif. The relief is available to those homeowners with assignment orders after Dec. 28, 1988.

"The possible impact on people at Reese," explained Hallgarth, "is that homeowners from these bases now have priority on the housing lists. That priority will place them immediately below the 'freeze' zone (top 10 percent of each list)."

Hallgarth said that, as of Tuesday, no priority personnel from the affected bases have applied

"I don't really foresee an immediate problem as a result of this program," she said, "but, we already have an unusually long family housing waiting list."

Factors which may be contributing to the slow movement of the housing list are the scheduled renovation of 188 housing units and the maintenance conversion program.

The Reese Village renovation, which may take up to 20 units out of service at one time, is expected to begin this fall. The scheduled conversion to civil service or contract aircraft maintenance here is expected to keep maintainers in housing units until early next year.

People with questions on these or other family or other family housing programs should contact the Housing Office staff (Bldg. 600) at 3912 or 3601.

Rice confirmed as 18th AF secretary

By TSgt. Mark Walsh
Air Force News Service

Accentuating people and molding the Air Force into a more effective military institution are two priorities Dr. Donald B. Rice sees as secretary of the Air Force.

"I want the Air Force to be known as the best at fighting, managing and serving," Dr. Rice told the Senate Armed Services Committee at his confirmation hearing.

"Our overall goal will be to leave the Air Force a better institution than we find it — more closely coupled to national security strategies...and more responsive to the needs of the people."

Dr. Rice became the 18th Air Force secretary May 22. A formal swearing-in ceremony will be held Tuesday. The Senate's May 18 confirmation came less than three weeks after President Bush announced his intention to nominate Dr. Rice to head the service.

Since 1972, Dr. Rice has served as president and chief executive officer of the Rand Corporation, the California-based firm that researches and analyzes problems of national security and domestic affairs. Coming into the Air Force, Dr. Rice is among the growing number of government leaders who believe that attention to the "needs of our people must be paramount."

"Recruitment and retention of quality people will remain a top priority," Dr. Rice said at the hearing.

"The incentive and compensation programs within the military must keep pace with outside opportunities if we hope to continue attracting these fine people."

Dr. Rice said that while the Air Force is in good health, improvements certainly can be made, especially in the area of procurement.

Among his plans here are to make a careful examination of the planning and budgeting process, and to be on the lookout for opportunities to streamline acquisition policies.

"The United States cannot afford to buy less defense capability than it needs; neither should it pay more than necessary for that level of capability it chooses to buy," he said.

He also asked Congress to support stability in defense funding, not ups and downs, adding that this may be more complex for the lawmakers, since many of the difficult decisions rest on their shoulders.

Last of U.S. forces deployed to Panama

Americans assigned to Panama began being airlifted back to the United States as the last of the U.S. forces were deployed there May 17, a Pentagon spokesperson said.

A military contract flight, part of operation Blade Jewel, left Howard AFB for Charleston, S.C., May 16 with 276 people aboard, Army Maj. Kathy Wood said. Of the passengers, 71 were Air Force members, three Department of Defense civilian employees and the rest family members.

Other family members were being returned on a space-available basis aboard military airlift command aircraft.

Prior to the departure of the May 16 flight, Gen. Fred F. Woerner Jr., commander of the southern command, boarded the aircraft and personally went to each of the passengers, shook hands and thanked them for their service in Panama.

Major Wood said the general will likely visit other flights before their departures and extend the same courtesy to others leaving the country.

A second flight from Howard landed at Charleston May 17 carrying 117 passengers, 67 of them family members.

Blade Jewel is the presidential directed operation where the U.S.

military relocates all DoD military and civilian employees and their families who are command sponsored to either on-post quarters or continental U.S. locations.

The action is being taken because of concern over recent harassment of Americans in Panama and the violent aftermath of the Panamanian presidential elections.

Whenever possible, sponsors' tours will be curtailed to allow them to return to the U.S. with their families.

However, most sponsors of families that return home early will remain there until replacements transfer into Panama.

President Bush ordered the deployment of a military force of nearly 2,000 to Panama to ensure the continued operation of the canal and to protect Americans and resources, as a result of the heightened political tension there.

As of May 17, Major Wood said, the additional Americans deployed totaled 1,882.

MAC officials said May 13 that they had completed the airlift of American troops to the country in what was known as operation Nimrod Dancer.

MAC aircrews completed the deployment in less than three days, flying almost 50 missions with C-141 and C-5 transports, a command news release said.

They flew 1,416 soldiers and marines into the country as well as almost 1,600 tons of equipment.

Units that participated in the missions included the 60th Military Airlift Wing, Travis AFB, Calif.;

63rd MAW, Norton AFB, Calif.; 438th MAW, McGuire AFB, N.J.; 436th MAW, Dover AFB, Del.; 62nd MAW, McChord AFB, Wash.; 439th MAW, Westover AFB, Mass.; and the 437th MAW, Charleston AFB.

The last deployment force arrived by contract flight in Panama May 17, Major Wood said.

Three-day deployment shows base readiness

One-hundred fifty Reese members deployed last weekend to an area by the base firing range to simulate a combat environment.

Of the 150, 100 were members of civil engineering's base engineer emergency force or "Prime BEEF", 39 security police, nine firmen and two chaplains.

Upon arrival, Prime BEEF erected tents, set up a control center and an entry control point. The security police then set up defensive posts and secured the area.

The chaplains set up

Sunday services, counseling services and provided spiritual guidance and support.

Services personnel came out to the camp to serve breakfast Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Deployed forces mobilized Saturday and left for the other side of the base noon Saturday, and returned noon Tuesday.

In addition to completing several projects, several exercises were run, most involving chemical warfare ensembles, even during the hot weather during that period.

SrA. Terry carpenter checks the ropes on one of the tents during the deployment.

Vietnam-era GI Bill

Active duty and veterans who are eligible for benefits under Chapter 34 (Vietnam-era GI Bill) may attain conversion rights for benefits under the Chapter 30 (Montgomery GI Bill). Vietnam-era eligibles are basically entitled to educational assistance for a period of one and one-half months for each month of service on active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, up to 45 months. Chapter 34 and benefits accumulated with it expire Dec. 31. Conversion eligibles may transfer any remaining Vietnam-era GI Bill benefits, up to 36 months, to the new GI Bill. Converted benefits under the new program will be slightly greater than under the Vietnam-era program. For more information, contact the education center, 3469, Bldg. 920, Room 139.

Turkey franks

Based upon a U.S. Department of Agriculture class I recall, the following recall has been directed:

- Product: turkey franks, available in one-pound and 10-pound packages, manufactured by Plantation Foods, Inc., Waco, Texas. Brand names include Plantation, Nifda, Code or Nugget Turkey Franks.
- Code date: sell by June 9 (or any earlier dates).
- Reason for recall: causes Listeria Monocytogenes.
- There are no known contracts for this product; however, the product may have been purchased by local contracts.

If you have purchased this product, return to supplier for proper credit. Products with a sell-by date after June 9 have not been affected.

Retreat

There will not be a retreat ceremony for the month of May.

Army ROTC

An Army ROTC representative will be available at the education center June 12, 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. to provide detailed information on commissioning opportunities with Army ROTC at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, N.M. This is an opportunity to receive information on the Army ROTC two-year commissioning program, two- and three-year on-campus scholarships, monthly stipends available and the simultaneous membership program with the National Guard or Army Reserves. For more information call 3469 or 3634.

Roundup deadlines

The deadlines for submitting items to the public affairs office for publication in the Roundup are as follows:

CGOC seeks members

First Lt. Joan Kinsey (left) and 2nd Lt. Kate Russel pick up trash as part of a recent project undertaken by the Reese Company Grade Officers Council. The CGOC adopted a two-mile strip of War Highway under a program sponsored by the Texas Highway Department. The council, which aims to promote the social and professional development of company grade officers, is looking for new members. To find out what the CGOC has to offer, call Lieutenant Russel at 3619. (U.S. Air Force photo by 1st Lt. Sean Hasset)

vidual-need basis.

Articles and free advertisements are not guaranteed to be run in the issue they are requested for. If your unit has a regulation requiring articles to be run in the paper at certain times, public affairs needs a copy of that regulation. For more information call 3843, 3236, or 3410.

Calendar of events

The weekly Calendar of Events is prepared by the Public Affairs Division for publication each Wednesday. The calendar is designed to give the Wing Commander, subordinate commanders and key staff personnel a look 30 days in advance at significant events affecting Reese personnel. The information is compiled from events placed on the Wing Commander's personal calendar and input from OPRs for wing events. OPRs should contact the Public Affairs Division at 3169 by 10 a.m. Friday to place events on the following Wednesday's calendar.

Reese heating specialist takes top place in talent contest

By Sgt. Mike Breslin
Staff Writer, Roundup

As a heating system specialist with the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, SSgt. Wes Amos knows a good bit about heat. However, the "heat" he supplied at the Lubbock "Spring Fusion" Talent Show May 12 was different from the variety he works with on base.

Sergeant Amos's performance was "hot" enough to capture first place in the vocal category as well as overall best performer in the show. The latter award had a $300 prize attached to it, courtesy of the local organization that sponsored the competition.

Under the show's format, the 15 acts that competed were judged on the basis of a single appearance on stage. Sergeant Amos chose "Two Occasions" by the Deel for his performance.

The Lubbock talent show isn't the first time the sergeant's singing ability has earned him praise. He won a base talent show while stationed at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

He was also a member of the band that was named best vocal group in the 1988 Reese Talent Contest.

The Ohio native has been singing in competitions since 1984. When he was asked how he got interested in music, he said with a laugh, "I started out singing in the shower."

Sergeant Amos admitted he favors certain types of music. "I sing a lot of R&B (rhythm and blues), and I also write gospel songs," he said. "I also write poetry."

The sergeant, an eight-year service veteran, said he's looking to form a band, and his song writing has a lot to do with that. "I don't write music, but I write lyrics. If I have a band, I can tell them what kind of accompaniment I want."

His success in the Lubbock talent show may not be the last time the sergeant gets a chance to show off his talent off base. He's already been approached about cutting a record sometime in the future.

When he's not working at his job or on a potential career as a singer, Sergeant Amos enjoys basketball and billiards.

He also volunteers his time as a tax advisor for his unit.

POWs remember Corregidor ordeal

By Janie C. Blaney

They were running low on food and water. The bombing and shelling had been steady for the past five months. They were all bone tired. And then it got worse.

Forty-seven years ago this month, the Japanese began 72 hours of continuous shelling on the Philippine island of Corregidor, a thunderous onslaught that signaled the beginning of the Japanese ground assault and the ultimate surrender of the "Rock."

"By midnight (of the third day of shelling) you could hear a pin drop. We knew they were coming and everyone hit their foxholes."

That's how three of the 11,000 who were on Corregidor recalled the final hours before the Japanese added the "Gibraltar of the East" to their infamous victory at Bataan.

The men, Gene Wooten, Fernando Serna and Ben Waldren, were attached to the regular Army 60th Coast Artillery Anti-aircraft and Machine Gun Battery during the bloody battle for control of the Philippines.

The night remains vivid in their minds. "To get to us, they had to get through a ring of Marines, so they went around the island and came up behind us. We held them off as long as we could, but finally, we had only enough ammo to hold off one more onslaught when the white flag was raised and we surrendered. We had no idea what was going to happen to us," the men echoed.

"The Japanese, once they took over, herded us all into a group and divided us up into 50 - 100 men squads and marched us to the vehicle parking area. All 11,000 men were crammed into a space the size of two square city blocks for 21 days. They didn't give us any food or water. All we had was what we had brought with us in our packs."

"I was put on a burial detail for a while," said Serna. "Men were dying like flies. They died faster than we could dig the graves."

It was when the prisoners were loaded onto cattle boats to be taken to Bilibid prison on the mainland that the men became separated. Waldren was placed on a train with 99 other men in a railroad car. "We were packed in there so tight we couldn't move," he said. "We didn't know some of them had died until we were getting out of the cars and they fell and didn't get up again. At least 20 - 25 died out of every car full," he recalled.

In July of 1944, Ben Waldren was shipped to Japan with a group of men. When the 62-day journey ended at the docks of Fanatsu, Japan, Waldren weighed 110 pounds.

"Gene and I were in the same boat," said Serna. "We were taken to Manchuria and separated there. When we arrived on Nov. 11, winter had already come to Manchuria. It was still hot in the Philippines and all I had was a pair of blue denim shorts and a T-shirt. Between November and July, more than 390 men died.

"The ground was frozen solid, so we couldn't bury them," said Serna. "We just stacked them up like cordwood in a warehouse until the ground thawed enough to bury them."

Serna was transferred to Kamioka, Japan, where he worked in a tool factory until his release. "As a matter of fact," he chuckled, "if I worked for-Mitsubishi right now, I could probably claim seniority."

"What kept us going," said Waldren, "was our COs kept telling us to hold on. There was a rumor that a convoy was coming to get us out. There were always rumors of some kind. Once, there was even a rumor that Henry Ford was going to give each of us a new automobile when we got home."

Then, in August of 1945 they told us the war was over, but we didn't walk out of the prison gates until September. I remember the date. It was Sept. 20, 1945. We (the prisoners) woke up to complete silence. The entire prison camp was empty except for the prisoners. There wasn't a Japanese in sight. The gates were open and rifles and ammunition were lying on the ground. The firing pins were gone though, so we didn't have anything to defend ourselves with. We armed ourselves with pick and ax handles and walked into town, and helped ourselves to any food we could find," remembered Waldren.

Lines of bitterness and pain etched the face of Wooten as he recalled this emaciated 89-pound skeleton he was when he returned to America. "It seems all we did in those early days was eat. Day and night, the kitchens were kept open for the returning prisoners."

"When I got back," said Waldren, "I went from 110 to 185 pounds in 30 days. I ate everything in sight."

The three men returned to a whole new world. "It was like being Rip Van Winkle and waking up after 20 years. Everything was changed. The uniforms didn't even resemble what we had worn. The new carbines weighed half of what ours had and Roosevelt was dead. I couldn't believe it. They had started flying B-29s by then. I had never seen a jet. It was like a completely different war.

"But," said Waldren, "one of the biggest changes were women in uniform. I sat next to a WAC on the flight home. She was the first Caucasian woman I had seen in nearly five years and I was so scared I didn't say one word to her the entire flight," he laughed.

A Trammel Crow Company

Warning issued for certain car seats

Evenflo Juvenile Furniture Company is notifying all customers who purchased their Evenflo or Dyn-o-mite infant car seats, manufactured prior to February 1989, of a possible safety problem. This problem only exists when the car seat is in its lowest recline position using only the automobile's lap seat belt.

The only unit involved in the alert sold through the Army/Air Force Exchange Service is the Dyn-o-mite infant car seat model 443.

Instructions concerning the safe use of the Dyn-o-mite infant car seat applies to models 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446 and 448 with tubular steel frames, manufactured from 1985 to Jan. 31, should not be used in the fourth, most reclined position when using only the automobile's lap seat belt. The Evenflo infant car seat models 456 and 458, with a molded pedestal base, should not be used in position two, its most reclined position, using only the automobile's lap seat belt. Units produced after April 10 contain this revision to the instruction sheet.

The date of manufacture for all model numbers can be found stamped on a label on either side or back of the unit. Although there have been no reports of injury as a result of using the most reclined positions, it has been found, in some cases, that the seat back can exceed the 70 degree maximum angle allowed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

An automobile's lap seat belt is sufficient for the other positions of these models. All of the above models can be used in the most reclined position if your automobile also has a shoulder seat belt and the shoulder belt is threaded through the built-in plastic clip on the back side of the infant car seat.

A warning label is available for you to attach to your car seat concerning this change in instructions with respect to the use of the most reclined position. If you would like a warning label or more information, call Evenflo Juvenile Furniture Company, 1-800-233-5921.

Reese students excel on TEAMS exams

Reese elementary announces schedule

Third graders at Reese Elementary School as well as third graders throughout the state of Texas were administered the state-mandated Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills tests in February. The tests included mathematics, reading and writing.

The results of the tests given to Reese third graders showed that all of them mastered the mathematics section; 99 percent of the students mastered the reading section; and 97 percent of the students mastered the writing section.

During the 1986-87 school year, Reese Elementary was commended by the Texas Education Agency for exceptional gains on the TEAMS tests over the previous two school years.

Also, during the 1987-88 school year, the school was recognized by TEA for exceptional achievement when 90 percent or more of the students mastered all sections of the tests.

Last year, Reese Elementary was recognized as one of the top 300 schools statewide (out of approximately 6,000 schools) based on the TEAMS tests.

Now that the students have given their academic all, it is time to start looking forward to summer vacation. The following are the end-of-year activities and the beginning dates for the 1989-90 school year:

□ The last day of school for the 1988-89 school year will be June 2.

□ There will be NO SCHOOL on Monday due to the Memorial Day holiday.

□ School will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and June 2.

□ The first day of classes for the 1989-90 school year for the Friendship Independent School District will be Aug. 28.

□ The annual awards assemblies will be held on Thursday in the Activity Room. The awards for honor roll, attendance, and achievement will be handed out at the following times: Kindergarten and First Grades — 8:45 a.m.; Second and Third Grades — 9:30; and Fourth Grade — 10:15.

Conservation requires diligence

By Bill Orr
Wing Energy Manager

Has anyone in your workplace ever conducted an after-hours energy check? The purpose of such a check is to discover energy-wasters that might not be detected during the workday.

When conducting an after-hours walk-through:

Notice the lighting. How many lights are left on? Are they necessary for security or custodial reasons, or can they be reduced or eliminated?

Listen for unusual noises. Do you hear hums, hisses, drips, clanks, and other like noises? Is the humming coming from a piece of equipment left running? Could the hiss signal an air leak? Can drips be traced to leaks in faucets, pipes or equipment? Is the clanking coming from pipes or machinery that may need maintenance?

Check the thermostats. Are they set for nonworking hours? If they are on timers, have the timers been seasonally adjusted? Are the timers working?

Check doors and windows. Are unused rooms closed off and thermostats set at appropriate temperatures? Are open windows causing the heating/cooling system to operate unnecessarily?

Make notes about your energy-check findings and see that your building custodian gets a copy. Then follow up and make sure the problem areas are corrected.

Veterans problems studied

The Veterans Administration has completed a landmark study on the readjustment problems of Vietnam veterans.

Mandated by Congress in 1983 and initiated in 1984, the study is the first of its kind to examine the post-war adjustment problems among Vietnam Era veterans of all branches of the military - male and female - nationwide.

The study's principal findings disclose that:

- 15.2 percent of male Vietnam theater veterans (an estimated 479,000 of some 3.1 million) currently have post-traumatic stress disorder; 84.8 percent do not.

- 8.5 percent of female Vietnam theater veterans (610 out of an estimated 7,000) currently have PTSD.

- 27.9 percent of Hispanic male Vietnam theater veterans (an estimated 47,000 out of 168,000) currently have PTSD.

- 13.7 percent of males in the white/other racial subgroup of Vietnam theater veterans (an estimated 359,000 of some 2.6 million) currently have PTSD.

- 20.6 percent of black male Vietnam theater veterans (an estimated 72,000 out of 352,000) currently have PTSD.

- Almost half of Vietnam theater veterans have had at least one psychiatric disorder at some point in their lives, alcohol abuse or dependence accounting for the greatest proportion.

- Vietnam theater veterans exposed to high levels of war stress had higher rates than other Vietnam veterans for divorce and problems in parenting their children, as well as a higher incidence of PTSD and other psychological disorders.

- One in 10 veterans with PTSD has been homeless or vagrant; they also are five times more likely to be unemployed.

Currently, the VA operates a network of 194 Vietnam veteran outreach centers, which provide counseling to veterans and their families on a variety of readjustment problems.

For more information locally, contact the Lubbock Veterans Center, 743-7551.

Pool open

Both pools on base will open Saturday. Reese Beach, located behind the Enlisted Open Mess, will be open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. The pool will be open to all ranks Monday through Thursday.

The officers pool, Sea Breeze, will be open 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Pool fees are daily — $1.50; individual season pass — $20 (officers) and $10 (enlisted); family season pass — $30 (officers) and $25 (enlisted).

Rates are also available for pool parties; however, some restrictions apply. Passes can be purchased at the fitness center today, and at the pools after today.

Sports meetings

There will be an intramural golf meeting at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Library conference room.

Also, a coaches meeting for the summer basketball league is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday in the library conference room.

Little league action

The only little league game scheduled on base this week is the match-up between the Blue Angels and the Rangers. The T-ball contest is set for 6 p.m. today on the youth center little league field.

The following are the results from this past week's games:

T-ball, May 16 — Rangers 14, Jets 11

Pee Wee, Monday — A's 11, Bluejays 10

Major, May 16 — Giants 13, Pirates 7

Major, May 19 — Pirates 22, Mets 2

Major, Tuesday — Dodgers 20, Yankees 5.

Lady Rattlers

The Reese Lady Rattlers women's softball team picked up two victories last week to push their downtown league record to 6-0.

In a make-up game May 17, the Rattlers steamrolled the L.R.A. Rads, 19-1. The following evening, the ladies faced one of their tougher challenges of the regular season against the Amisted Angels. It took two home runs from Wendy Willard and an inside-the-park homer from Toni Williams to pull out a 6-4 victory.

The Rattlers were scheduled to take on St. Mary's Saints Thursday evening; at press time, scores were unavailable. The team's next contest is set for 8:30 p.m. Thursday at Buerl Huffman Field One.

Bowling tournament

Anyone interested in competing in the 1989 Showboat Summer Military Classic August 7-10 in Las Vegas should call Jake Trevino, Reese Fitness Center director, at 3207.

Tennis classes

The fitness center is offering tennis classes every Saturday. Adult classes are 9-11 a.m., and youth classes are 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

It costs $25 for one eight-hour session. By the hour, the cost is $3.50 per hour for group instruction, $20 per hour for private instruction.

For more information, call the center at 3783.

Cycling competition

Cyclists interested in competing in the 1989 Conseil International Du Sport Militaire Sept. 18-26 should call Jake Trevino, Reese Fitness Center director, at 3207.

Reese gets fit during fun run

Reese runners show their enthusiasm May 19 at the start of the fourth annual Air Force fun run. Fifty people took part in the five-kilometer run. David Rodriguez was the first person across the line with a 19:55 finish time, while Sue Houle was the first woman to finish. Her time was 20:50 (U.S. Air Force photo by Sgt. Mike Breslin)
