

UPT Class 92-02 receives wings, awards

Wings were the order of the day as 24 of the Air Force's newest pilots graduated from UPT Nov. 22 in the Simler Theater.

Class 92-02 was joined by family, friends and colleagues as they joined the ranks of military aviators during the morning ceremony. The event marked the end of the rigorous, year-long training experience.

Several students were cited for their performance during the ceremony and later at the evening dinner-dance. Second Lt. Steven Wright was the top graduate, capturing the ATC Commanders Trophy. He was also cited as "top stick" (best in flying training) and a distinguished graduate.

Capt. Robert Brumley won the academics and leadership awards, while the other distinguished graduate was Capt. Michael Oldenkamp. The citizenship award was captured by 2nd Lt. Leslie Skinner, and 2nd Lt.

Michael Wilkinson earned honors as the outstanding second lieutenant. Other members of the graduating class were: 1st Lt. William Blake, and 2nd Lts. Thomas Atkinson IV, Thomas Beatie, Paul Cobb, Thomas Crimmins, Howard Fell, Quinn Gummel, John K. Z. Hall, Helen Hill, Timothy Lambert, Cheryl Loyer, Terry McClanahan, Steven Rajotte, Clinton Sigg, Brian Smith, David Snyder, Timothy Stevens, Charles Taylor, and Delbert Wilson.

The students weren't the only ones who were recognized, as people who worked with them were also honored. The outstanding academic instructor pilots were Capt. Wardlaw Skinner (T-37) and Capt. John Whitney (T-38), while flightline IPs honors went to Capt. James Grandy (T-37) and 1st Lt. Darryl Markowski (T-38).

Turkey Time

Casey Roach, 4, and Jackie Rodriguez, 4, tested their artistic talents Friday at the Reese Child Development Center. The children were getting into the holiday spirit by drawing and coloring turkeys. Reese people are reminded by wing officials to be alert if traveling over the holiday and upcoming weekend. Those planning on out-of-town trips should ensure that traveling plans leave adequate time for rest stops.

Maintenance QAE best in ATC

The Quality Assurance Evaluation Flight in the 64th Maintenance Support Squadron was named best in ATC for the second year in a row.

Since this award has been in existence just two years, Reese QAEs are the only ones to ever capture this honor. Their squadron commander said the flight's attention to detail and documentation were key elements in the achievement.

"It's obvious when people look at what they (the QAEs) do that they are doing an outstanding job," said Lt. Col. Robert House. "Also, they're all good mechanics themselves, so they have a strong technical background."

There were a total of 18 people who were involved in winning this award, between QAE, Functional Check Flight and one budget person. They are responsible for ensuring that work done by the aircraft maintenance contractor meets contract requirements. Some of their efforts in the past year include:

SORTIE TRACKING

From my perspective

by Col. Bill Henny
64th FTW commander

Amid the feasting and the football, we should all take time this Thanksgiving to follow the example of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock and give thanks for all that we have, as individuals, as families and as a nation.

We have much to be thankful for.

We just completed a major accident-free year and helped the Air Force set an all-time record for safety.

Our wing reorganization program, while experiencing an occasional growing pain, is helping us to improve our efficiency and productivity. We are becoming a prototype wing for the Air Force.

Our "quality of life" programs, such as the renovation of Reese Village, continue to make Reese a better place to work and live.

It is also an opportunity for me to personally thank each of you for all of your hard work and dedication. This wing has seen more than its share of changes over the past few months. Yet, one thing has remained constant — your "can do" attitude.

Wherever possible, I ask you to extend the reach of the Air Force family to include those who may be spending this Thanksgiving away from their own families and loved ones.

My family and I wish you a happy and safe Thanksgiving.

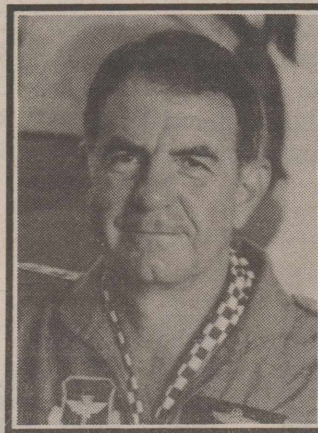

Gen. Ashy sends best wishes

by Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Ashy
Air Training Command commander

Thanksgiving is a time for gathering together with family and friends — and for taking time to reflect on what we have to be thankful for.

History tells us that Thanksgiving has its roots in the Pilgrim's first celebration in 1621, when they joined with the local Indians in giving thanks for a bountiful crop and their survival through a rough, bitter winter. However, over the years our Thanksgiving has evolved into a time to give thanks for the wealth of freedoms we enjoy — freedoms our pilgrim fathers only dreamed of. Freedom to live and work where we want, worship as we choose, and to have a voice in a country that enjoys freedom of speech and press. Thanksgiving is also about taking time to pause and contemplate — and to bring our blessings into perspective.

This year, as our perspective focuses on the many great men and women in uniform who cannot be home for Thanksgiving, I hope you'll take an extra moment to remember that many of our blessings have and will continue to come from those who serve our nation.

Sue joins me in thanking you all for your service to the nation, and we send our best wishes for an enjoyable and safe Thanksgiving holiday.

Don't get 'all choked up'

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of "stay quit" tips for wing members who have chosen to quit smoking. The tips have been provided by the American Cancer Society. Members can also call the Reese Health Promotions Clinic at 3554 or Mental Health Clinic at 3739 for more information or to sign up for smoking cessation classes.)

Thursday, day eight:

It's Thanksgiving, so stretch out your meal; eat slowly and pause between bites. After diner, instead of reaching for a cigarette, treat yourself to a mint or a cup of orange tea with honey. Or have a refreshing after-dinner glass of club soda. For dessert, grab a tangerine or pear. Or introduce everyone around you to your new pleasure — sucking stick cinnamon. Crack nuts for yourself and other guests — this will certainly keep your hands busy.

Friday, day nine:

Try your best to stay away from alcoholic beverages; stick to club soda, nonalcoholic punch or spicy drinks (for example, apple cider with cinnamon or a Bloody Mary without vodka). This will curb the urge to light up while you're drinking, and will keep extra pounds off.

Saturday, day 10:

Holiday shopping can be maddening for smokers and non-smokers. Long lines at cashiers' stations, gift wrapping counters and highway toll booths can test anyone's patience. Just when you're ready to lose control and grab a cigarette, consider alternate strategies: start an upbeat conversation with the person in front of or behind you in line, or bring along a book or catalog to look through. Enjoy that new cassette on your stereo cassette player.

Sunday, day 11:

Arts and crafts: You've always wanted to master the kazoo, right? Many new ex-smokers take up hobbies to keep their minds and hands off cigarettes. For the holidays, you might want to make some gifts yourself; string popcorn, or try new, inventive ways to wrap gifts.

Monday, day 12:

Eat three meals. This maintains constant blood sugar levels, thus preventing urges to smoke. Avoid sugar-laden foods and spicy items that can trigger a desire for cigarettes.

Tuesday, day 13:

Work out; exercise, such as swimming, running and racket sports, helps relieve tension and your urge to smoke. Also, you'll enjoy holiday feasts without having to worry about dieting later.

Wednesday, day 14:

Change your habits connected with smoking. Leave the dinner table soon after eating to avoid the desire to light up. When answering the phone, reach for gum instead of a cigarette.

Thursday, day 15:

Cleanse your body of nicotine. Drink liquids — lots of them. Water (six-eight glasses daily), herbal teas, fruit juices and caffeine free soft drinks all fit the bill. Pass up coffee, caffeinated drinks and alcohol, as they can increase your urge to smoke.

From YOUR perspective

As wing commander, I need to hear things "from YOUR perspective." Your inputs and suggestions can help Reese remain the pacesetter in the command. If you see something good, call me. If you have a problem that you feel needs my attention, call me. First, however, consider using your chain of command.

You may remain anonymous if you wish, but those who leave their name and number can get a direct response to their call. Calls can be made to the Careline 24 hours a day at 3273.

Bad weather

I work in life support. The weather is bad today and we all have had to come to work.

On Oct. 31, the most recent day of inclement weather (snow/ice), the 64th Operation Support Squadron commander did not authorize a day off. All squadron personnel (including life support) were required to report for duty at 9:30 a.m. Although there were no flying operations, life support equipment inspections still had to be accomplished. After inspections were completed, the remainder of the day was used to clean the shops.

Auto hobby shop

I would like the procedures explained for billing at the auto hobby shop. I took my car there to have the transmission looked at and they charged me $13 for an estimate. I thought there was no charge unless they actually did the work.

Customers are usually briefed on our policy of charges for labor to provide an estimate when they authorize the work. The procedures fall into two categories; if we have to expend labor to identify the source of a problem, then the labor charge is $28 per hour (recently raised from $26); if the problem is easily identified without taking anything apart, then there is no charge for the estimate.

As a result of your concern, we will post this policy on the wall with our rate table and include it in the authorization work sheet that customers sign.

We apologize for any misunderstanding and hope this clears up your concern. Thank you for bringing this to our attention.

UPT Graduation

(SSgt. Mike Breslin)

Capt. Robert Brumley, 2nd Lt. Steven Wright and Capt. Michael Oldenkamp were the top graduate for Reese UPT Class 92-02.

Bobby Woods (T-37) and Tony Oliver (T-38) of Lockheed were chosen as the outstanding crew chiefs, and Lloyd Morris was the outstanding maintenance mission maker.

Valerie Shelton of the Reese Officers' Open Mess was chosen as the outstanding mission maker. In addition, the 64th Services Squadron was also cited as a mission maker for the class.

During the graduation, Col. Bill Henny, 64th FTW commander, called the occasion the "day of their lives" for the graduates, noting that it was an emotional event even for those who have attended many such ceremonies. He added his praise for the class, "There's no doubt in anyone's mind that these men and women have earned the right to wear the wings they'll receive today," he said.

Guest speaker for the ceremony was retired Lt. Col. Howard Pierson, a former student and instructor at Reese. A highly decorated flier who served in World War II, Korea and Vietnam, Colonel Pierson spoke of the character that the graduates embodied and how they would need that character as they embarked on their careers as pilots. Drawing on examples of sacrifice by aviators of the past, he charged the new pilots with taking the lead in the nation's defense.

Comparing sports and the military, he told Class 92-02 that they would be "playing with the future of America and the free world" at stake.

Reese captain wins at worldwide show

Classical pianist performs Chopin

Beneath the Air Force uniform, the diverse personal interests of military personnel thrive.

Reese applauds Capt. Rob Huber, Air Force worldwide level talent contestant and winner of the classical piano category finals on Nov. 15 at Tyndall AFB, Fla.

Captain Huber has been playing piano for 14 years. During the contest he performed Chopin's "Military Polonaise." Following the ATC level of competition where he competed as a vocalist, Huber practiced every day for two weeks to prepare for the worldwide level.

Worldwide level competition consisted of 149 contestants from 9 major commands. ATC sponsored 14 participants in 13 categories within the three divisions — vocal, instrumental and performing arts.

"Competing in the contests was a lot of work, but also a lot of fun," said Captain Huber. "I enjoyed meeting people from many career fields."

As repayment for the businesses who sponsored their stay, the contestants also performed at nursing homes and other places in Panama City. Community businesses supplied rental cars, tuxedos, flowers and advertising.

Towanda Harrison, one of three base level judges, said of Huber, "Captain Huber is very talented. I selected him because he puts so much feeling into his music. He feels every note and that's what makes his music stand apart."

"I think MWR programs like this are one of the biggest differences between working for the Air Force and for a corporation," said Huber.

The goal of the Air Force Talent Contest is to provide active duty military personnel with an opportunity to compete under the highest caliber professional conditions for the recognition that comes with being identified as the best talent in the Air Force. The success of the program is determined directly by the quality of participation at the base and command level competitions to ensure the most talented individuals are available for selection for TOPS IN BLUE. Contestants represent the best of their individual commands.

Amn. Gary Kern, base level talent coordinator, stresses that people interested in competing in the talent contest should plan their material well in advance to be best prepared for the September and October time frame.

Reese sets blood drive at community center

by Glenda Ward

Base blood drive coordinator

The holiday period is a traditional time for people to go see relatives and old friends.

Unfortunately, many times traveling to these happy reunions can turn into tragedy and therefore the need for blood products becomes critical.

It could mean a lot to you, a member of your family or a friend if blood supplies are low during the holiday season.

Reese will sponsor a blood drive Dec. 9.

It is very important to the Lubbock community that we have a high turnout of donations during this drive.

Reese supplies 4 percent of the blood collected in the local area, which doesn't sound like much, but with the holidays, this is a critical time of year for high usage of blood.

If you are an eligible donor, please do your part for our community and come to the United Blood Services "Hemobile" which will be parked in the Mathis Community Center parking lot from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and donate.

Those who are considered ineligible donors include all rated and student pilots. Also, any personnel who served during Desert Shield/Desert Storm in the countries of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, Bahrain, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Oman and Yemen since Aug. 1, 1990 have been asked not to donate blood until further notice. Parasite infections have been diagnosed in 22 soldiers who served during the Persian Gulf War, therefore, in order to prevent spread of diseases which could be spread by blood products, these veterans have been asked not to donate.

We realize this can have an impact on our blood supply percentages, which makes it all the more important that other eligible personnel donate in order to prevent blood shortages during this season.

ATC inspection, earning particularly strong praise for the functional check flight as well as their training, safety and administrative programs.

The flight identified a shortfall in structural inspection requirements, which resulted in the discovery and repair of corrosion stress cracks that, undetected, could have resulted in the loss of the aircraft.

An audit by the Air Force Audit Agency showed that every aspect of contractor performance was accurately documented by QAE.

When applying the command model for projecting costs per flying hour, Reese's QAEs were the only ones who were not directed to recompute their figures — they got it right the first time.

Though their mission will stay the same in the future, QAE and the rest of the squadron will soon go through a transition. Originally activated as part of the wing reorganization, the maintenance squadron will deactivate Saturday. They will become a division under the 64th Operations Group, according to Colonel House.

Mission maker

Ever since 2nd Lt. Ian Frederick was a small boy, he has wanted to fly military aircraft. Lieutenant Frederick, a student pilot in class 92-05, is scheduled to pin on his wings Feb. 21 and fulfill his dream of flying an Air Force aircraft.

"I've always wanted to fly military planes," he said. "I had an uncle in the military and I wanted to follow in his footsteps."

Lieutenant Frederick started out his military career by attending Florida Air Academy at Melbourne, Fla. He then moved on to Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, Fla.

The St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands, native has been in the Air Force since April 1990 and stationed at Reese since January.

Lieutenant Frederick commented that undergraduate pilot training is intense and hard work, but the hard work pays off when you are flying a jet and know what you are doing.

The 22-year-old enjoys swimming, listening to music and participating in Lubbock's Big Brother/Big Sister program.

Notes

Uniform allowance upped

Basic and standard clothing replacement allowance rates increased by more than $20 Oct. 1, Air Force officials said.

The new basic rates are $165.60 for men and $190.80 women, a $21.60 increase. New standard rates are $234 for men and $270 for women, a $28.80 increase.

Basic rates represent the first three years of active duty while standard represents active duty after the third year. The clothing allowance is normally paid at the end of the member's anniversary month of active duty. However, after completing the initial 12 months of active duty, one-half the annual rate is paid. The full annual rate will be paid thereafter.

More information is available from local accounting and finance offices.

UFT board set

The next undergraduate flying training selection board will meet March 30 at the Air Force Military Personnel Center.

Participation is voluntary and persons' names will not be shown with any information they provide nor will their names be shown as survey participants. The interview will be about 25 minutes in length and asks about leadership issues.

Telephone interviews will be conducted by the Wirthlin Group whose calling center is in Orem, Utah. Questions regarding this study can be directed to the Air Force Personnel Survey Branch, HQ AFMPC/DPMYOS, Randolph AFB, Texas, 78150-6001, or DSN

No heaters unless authorized

by MSgt. Roy Napper
Assistant chief of fire prevention

The use of any type of portable space heater is prohibited in buildings or areas within buildings where the use of natural gas or steam heat has been deemed adequate by the Base Civil Engineer to maintain proper temperatures and in all areas where combustible materials or flammable liquids or gases may be present as determined by the Base Fire Chief.

Kerosene, propane and other non-electrically fueled portable space heaters may not be used within any facility except for short term emergency heating as approved by the Base Fire Chief.

Small portable electric space heaters may be authorized if safety is maintained and there exists a bona fide need.

A bona fide need exists if:

- The building heating system is incapable of maintaining wing-directed temperatures as determined by the Base Civil Engineer.
- Specific work requires a higher temperature than wing standards allow.

To request authorization for electric units the facility manager must submit a written request (64 CES/CC/23) to the Base Civil Engineer. Include the intended location for use, manufacturer, wattage, heat output, and serial number of each portable heater. The wing energy manager will determine the adequacy of the existing heat plant and electrical system, and take appropriate action and recommend approval or disapproval of the request. The Base Civil Engineer determines final approval or disapproval. Rewiring of facilities to accommodate the use of space heaters is not authorized.

The Base Civil Engineer will approve or disapprove the request after consideration of all pertinent factors. If approved, the wing energy manager will supply the facility manager with a signed and dated tag (DD Form 1574) showing authorization which must be attached to the unit's cord.

This tag will be an inspection item for both Wing Safety and Base Fire Department personnel. All unauthorized units shall be removed. The Fire Prevention office has the necessary letter of inspection and approval for use of an electric heater as well as fire prevention guidelines. For information, contact the fire prevention office at 3686.

Requirements for electric space heaters

To maintain safety, the unit must:

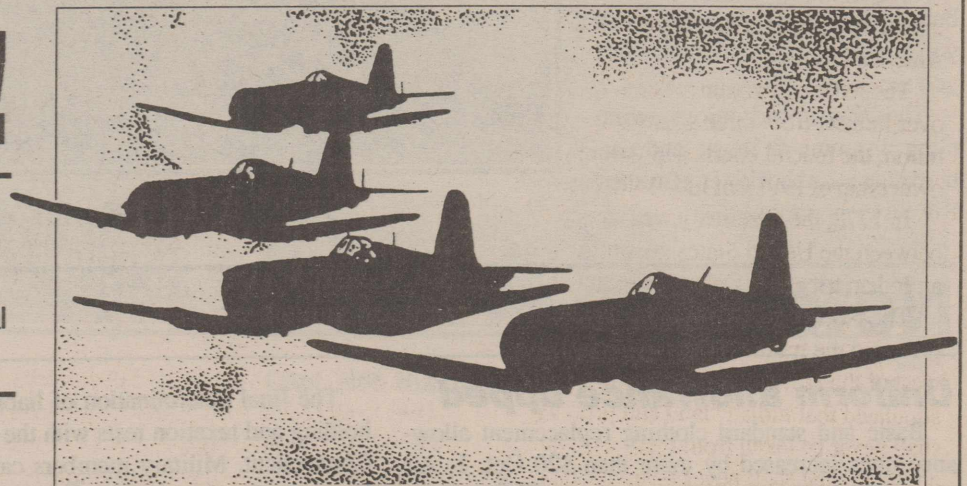

- Have a safety tip-over switch.
- Not to be operated unattended.
- Bear the Underwriters Laboratory (UL) seal of approval.
- Be located with a minimum of 18 inches clearance on all sides and not less than 40 inches above the unit.

November slated as Indian Heritage Month

by 2nd Lt. Deborah Stephen

President George Bush recently declared November as National American Indian Heritage Month in recognition of the diverse cultural contributions which Native American have made to this nation.

American Indians have played a key role in the defense of this country. As early as the 1600's local tribes agreed to provide 30 bowmen for the defense of Jamestown if it was attacked by the Spanish.

When called upon, American Indians have provided a greater proportion of military members than any other racial or ethnic group in the nation. Ever since the American Revolution, Indians have served as scouts and military members in every war in which the U. S. has participated. These contributions should be recognized and honored by every American.

The history of the American Indian and the dealings with the government started out when the Europeans first set foot on this land and is still a concern.

The following is a brief history of the interaction of our government and the American Indians.

The federal government derives its power over Indians from three sources: the Constitution, the federal courts and through ownership of land that Indians occupy.

In 1778, the first treaty was signed between the United States government and an Indian tribe (the Delaware Indians).

The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 provided the framework of settling lands west of the Allegheny Mountains. It stipulated that Indian "land and property shall never be taken from them without their consent...they shall never be invaded or disturbed unless in just and lawful wars" authorized by Congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity shall from time to time be made for preventing wrongs done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them."

Another agreement was the Indian Trade and Nonintercourse Act of 1790 which required that Congress approve land sales and gifts, including treaties, between the states and Indian nations.

In 1834, the Congress gave permanent status to an Indian Affairs Office. This led to the Indian Appropriations Act of 1871 which prohibited the United States government from acknowledging or recognizing any Indian nation or tribe as an independent nation, tribe or power with whom the United States could contract by treaty.

Forty-three years later, the Indian Citizenship Act of 1924 gave blanket citizenship to all Indians born in the territorial limits of the United States.

Following this, the Johnson-O'Malley Act of 1934 made federal funds available to state or federal contracting agencies for the purposes of Indian agricultural assistance, social welfare, medical care and education. When the Indian Reorganization (Wheeler-Howard) Act of 1934 made Indians eligible for positions with the BIA and made federal loans available to Indians and chartered tribal business organizations.

In 1944, the National Congress of American Indians was started, and two years later Congress created the Indian Claims Commission based on the belief that Indian claims had to be settled before tribes could manage their affairs.

Through the years, there was the need for the Indian Relocation Act of 1952 which provided housing, training, and financial assistance to encourage Indians to move into urban areas.

In 1971, under provisions of the Alaska Claims Settlement Act, the federal government transferred 44 million acres and a billion dollars to Alaskan Indians. A corporation was established to administer the land. Two years later, the American Indian Movement (AIM) seized the town of Wounded Knee, South Dakota, to focus national attention on issues of Native American concern.

The Indians Self-Determination and Educational Assistance Act of 1975 required "federal responsibility for and assistance to the education of government establishing a religion.

In 1980, the Passanaquody and Penobscot tribes in Maine agreed to a $81.5 million settlement from the federal government. The same year, the Supreme Court ordered the federal government to pay $122.5 million to eight Sioux tribes for South Carolina land the government illegally seized in 1877.

For more information on Indian history, the Reese library has a display with many books that are available to you and your family. Also, keep an eye out for the special of the month at the dining hall, "THE BUFFALO BURGER".

Christmas spirit seeks helpers

We all want to do our part to ensure that no family be forgotten at Christmas, and as volunteer for one of the many agencies participating in Christmas programs, we can do just that.

Goodfellows, a group of volunteers who pick and distribute toys prior to or on Christmas Day, gave over $65,000 worth of toys to more than 4,500 children throughout the local community last year.

"This is a great opportunity for Reese members to participate in a community effort," said Capt. Mitch Sibley-Jett, chief of personnel programs. "There is no better feeling than putting a smile on a child's face at Christmas."

For information on Goodfellows, call Captain Sibley-Jett, 3744.

United Santas matches community sponsors with those in need in conjunction with other community agencies, such as the Community Action Network at Texas Tech, the Salvation Army, South Plains Food Bank and Toys for Tots, to name a few. Volunteers work with needy families, helping them to apply for United Santas Christmas food and toys for their children.

These organizations are in need of hundreds of volunteer hours to make a difference in other people's lives during this holiday season.

"You may sign up for as little or as much volunteer time as you want, from 30 minutes to several hours," said Helen Thai, volunteer program coordinator, family support center. "Organizations might even consider 'adopting' a day to serve as volunteers."

Some other volunteer organizations looking for members are:

□ United Santas Office Volunteers — assist with answering phones, giving out information and entering application information on computer.

□ Angel Tree — volunteers will work with the Angel Tree location at the South Plains Mall distributing names of families to people agreeing to make Christmas purchases for the families.

□ Toys for Tots — sort and bag toys to be handed out to less-fortunate children.

□ Food and Toy Distribution/United Santas — distribute food boxes and toys to families during the holidays.

For more information, call the family support center, 3305.

Lady Rattlers up record to 11-0

(Amn. José Alejandro)

Second Lt. Dayl Ragon (above) gets off a shot against the Lubbock "Coca Cola" team Nov. 20, as does Capt. Kelly Latimer during the Lady Rattlers crushing win.

by Amn. Jose Alejandro
staff writer

Imagine playing on a basketball team whose tallest person is five foot seven inches.

Imagine playing against a team that has a player that is six foot two inches that can run with the ball, rebound, score points and block shots.

That's how the Lubbock's "Coca Cola" team felt when they went up against the Reese Lady Rattlers in the Lubbock Park and Recreation women's open one league Nov. 20. The Lady Rattlers defeated the Coca Cola team, 61-37 as Reese remained undefeated and improved its downtown league record to 5-0 and its overall record to 11-0. The Lady Rattlers will be in action against Lubbock's "Technical" at 8 p.m. tonight at Atkins Junior High School.

Against military teams, Reese has defeated Altus AFB, Okla., Brooks AFB, Texas, and Kirtland AFB, N. M., twice this year.

Gwen Parker, starting center, is in her second season with the Lady Rattlers scored 16 points, 26 rebounds and blocked seven shots in the win against Coca Cola. Coca Cola's Krista Lent scored 22 points which included two three-pointers.

"It was hard to get in the inside with her (Mrs. Parker) standing there and blocking shots," Ms. Lent said. "Mrs. Parker, A1C Tamika Long and 2nd Lt. Dayl Ragon forced us to shoot from outside the perimeter."

The Coca Cola team jumped out to a 5-0 lead as Ms. Lent scoring the first four points at the start of the first half, but the Lady Rattlers came right back with six unanswered points to take a 6-5 lead with 13:15 left in the half.

Mrs. Lent was on a roll as she hit a three pointer and then got by Mrs. Parker for a layup to take the lead 9-6.

Mrs. Parker settled down and blocked three consecutive shot attempts by the Coca Cola team. Mrs. Parker blocked Ms. Lent for the third time and for her fourth blocked shot of the game.

Airman Long, Lieutenant Ragon and Capt. Kelly Latimer each made shots to give Reese a 27-17 lead at halftime.

"Once we get our defense rolling its hard for anyone to stop us," Sgt. Frank Parker, Lady Rattler's coach, said. "We stress defense because defense can take the team out of play. Everyone played outstanding that night."

The Reese defense was outstanding in the first half as Mrs. Parker had five blocked shots and nine rebounds, and Lieutenant Ragon had three steals.

The Lady Rattlers took control of the game quickly in the second half as Mrs. Parker blocked Ms. Lent for her sixth blocked shot. Captain Latimer scored the first four points of the second half and Airman Long scored the following four points to build a convincing 35-17 lead.

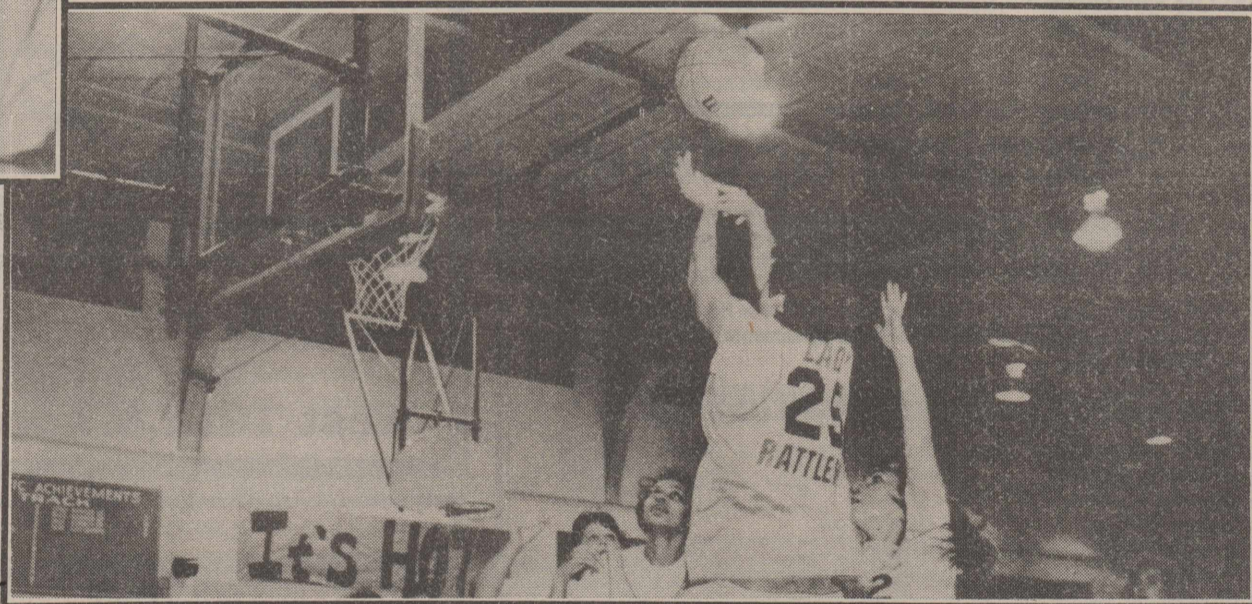

Airman Long came alive midway in the second half as she created two steals, taking one in for two points.

"We decided to try to go to the inside more often, but (Mrs.) Parker was always waiting for someone to try to get by her," Ms. Lent said.

The Lady Rattlers led 56-32 with 6:16 left to play in the game, assuring themselves they would remain undefeated.

Both teams defenses held the other team to five points in the final six minutes of the game as the Lady Rattlers won 61-37.

Leading scorers for the Lady Rattlers were Mrs. Parker and Captain Latimer (16 points each), Airman Long (12 points) and Lieutenant Ragon (11 points).
