Safety main concern as '101 days' begin

by SSgt. Mike Breslin
64th FTW Public Affairs Division

"Just do it."

It's a catchy saying these days, thanks to Bo Jackson. But, while Bo may know a lot about cross-training, there's one area where the saying definitely doesn't belong.

Safety.

Always a hot topic in the Air Force, safety picks up even greater emphasis today as the "101 Critical Days of Summer" kick off. Reese's Mission Enhancement Day is set for May 31, and one of the emphases of the day will be reminding people that summer activities require more than "just doing it."

"Sometimes, people don't stop and think, 'Is what I'm doing safe?' or, 'Do I know how to do this?,'" said Lt. Col. David McIntosh, chief of the wing safety division. "Accidents often occur because people didn't plan ahead."

Although the wing is currently doing well in regard to safety, officials cautioned against complacency.

"Everyone has to stay on their toes, especially at this time of year—the last thing people should do is become lax," said Chuck Gerrior, chief of ground safety. "Supervisors should ensure their people are briefed on the various hazards to look out for. Everyone has an obligation to take these matters seriously."

Although some hazards — like drinking and driving, failure to buckle up, driving while tired and so on — exist year round, the 101 days hold special risks. They stem from the increase in activities like swimming, boating, bicycling and other activities related to water and the outdoors.

A variety of events are planned May 31 to promote safety. They include:

□ Unit safety meetings throughout the base.

□ "Room to Live" traffic safety briefings in the Simler Theater.

□ Briefings for pilots and students from the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations and Readiness and an instructor from the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center.

□ Live fire rescue demonstrations at the firefighter training area.

Unit safety representatives have specifics on the above events, several of which are mandatory. Safety officials said the briefings are entertaining as well as informative.

Safety demonstrations will also be a part of the Desert Storm homecoming celebration that will follow Mission Enhancement Day activities May 31. Demonstrations involving the "jaws of life," the seat belt "convincer" and the fire safety house will begin at 1 p.m.

Also, the Main Exchange will offer discounts May 31 on safety-related items such as flashlights, windshield wipers and more.

"Past years have seen a decline in the number of summer accidents," Lt. Colonel McIntosh said, citing a drop from 270 in 1984 to 40 in 1990. "That's the result of constantly looking people in the eye and emphasizing safety."

"Supervisors and commanders have to keep stressing safety — they can't slack off. It was that sort of constant 'drumbeat' that made seatbelt usage rise in past decades, and it's what must be kept up to change people's safety behaviors."

'Tops in Blue' featured

The Air Force Tops in Blue will be on hand to help honor the wing's Mideast deployees, as a Desert Storm homecoming celebration will be held from 2-7 p.m. May 31 at the picnic grounds.

Tops in Blue, the Air Force's premier performing troop, will kick off its homecoming tour here with a 4 p.m. show. The event will also feature free food and beverages, and it is open to all wing members and their families.

Parking will be prohibited on the street above the picnic grounds; people should park in the exchange or commissary parking lots.

From my perspective

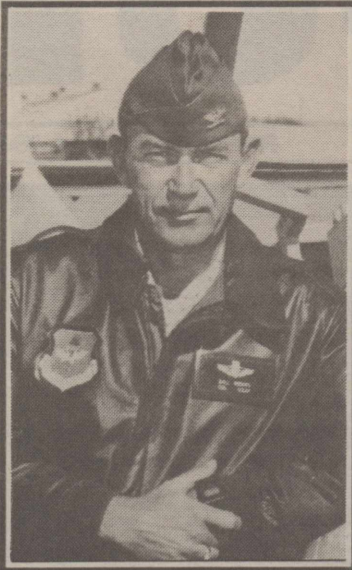

by Col. Bill Henny
64th FTW commander

We all like to receive recognition for what we do, whether it's a medal, plaque, pass or letter of appreciation. Well, the wing got word last week that we're in for $50,000 worth of recognition!

That's right. We received word that Reese won the Air Training Command Energy Management Incentive Award for 1990. This is not the first time we've earned this honor. The award is given to the large and small base that does the best job each year of saving energy and promoting conservation. The money is used for quality-of-life programs on the winning bases.

Everyone in the wing deserves a hand for their part in winning this award. In particular, several people merit special praise — they include Maj. Per Korslund, Capt. Gregory Cummings, 2nd Lt. Paul Hendricks, 2nd Lt. Frank Wilson, TSgt. Norman King, SSgt. Mike Breslin, Cheryl Tyson, Jerry Jones and Charles Cody.

My hat's off to everyone who helped make energy savings pay big dividends — let's keep it up and win again next year!

Memorial Day message

This year's Memorial Day holds a special significance for all of us. The patriotism and pride that exists right now hasn't been seen since the end of World War II.

Our success in the Persian Gulf showed the world both our commitment to freedom and our ability to sustain it through air power. Each of us plays a key role in our military's capacity to perform. It's interesting to note that one of every five Air Force pilots that participated in Operation Desert Storm was trained at Reese.

I hope each of you has an enjoyable weekend, as we reflect upon the contributions our Armed Forces have made to the American way of life.

Welcome to Reese

I'd like to take this opportunity to extend a greeting to Maj. Steven Wire of the 64th Medical Squadron. Major Wire comes to us from Wheeler AFB, Hawaii, and he's our new assistant base dental surgeon. Welcome to the 64th!

Safety concerns exist

Off-duty mishaps and fatalities always increase during the summer months. This is because everyone's exposure and risk is increased. Longer days and warmer weather mean more time for leisure activities, sports, recreation and travel.

The summer also means more opportunity for off-duty projects such as gardening, yard care and home repairs. All of these summer activities are risky — every year the Air Force has people killed or severely injured while they travel, participate in sports and work around the house.

The majority of mishaps could be prevented if every individual would make an item on his/her mental predeparture checklist before embarking on summer fun or work. This is the reason we run the "101 Critical Days" campaign every year — to get people to stop, think and plan for safety.

Air Training Command Commander, Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy, has published a list of his personal keys to operational success developed over a long career. These can be applied to safety in our everyday lives:

□ Balance risk vs. output — know the risks, then ask if the result is worthwhile. For example, is getting to grandmother's house early by driving all night after a full day of work worth dying for?

□ Plan for success by matching your resources to the task — is the chainsaw, speedboat, motorcycle, etc. in good, safe working order? Do you really know anything about operating power equipment? Maybe lessons, supervision or at least a careful reading of the owner's manual and a plan to start slowly would be a good idea.

□ Execute smartly — you know the risks, you have the right equipment and know how to use it, and you have a plan — now go and execute the plan smartly. Pay attention to what you are doing and keep everything under control. If things start to get flaky, stop, review what you are doing and make a new plan or call things off and try again when the conditions are better.

I would like to add an additional key for success and safety — don't be foolish. Adding excessive alcohol consumption to summer work and play increases the inherent risk.

To sum up, safe summer activities call for the same judgment and discipline used in our day-to-day work. Plan ahead for safety over the summer by doing things smartly. We want you to come back alive and well. Have a great weekend!

A SALUTE TO THOSE WHO PAID THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

On Memorial Day, our hearts are filled with solemn pride and heartfelt gratitude as we recall the tremendous sacrifices made in behalf of our country by members of the United States Armed Forces.

Today, we are especially mindful of those service men and women who took part in the recent struggle to liberate Kuwait and to deter ruthless aggression. Whether they offered support from these shores or stood along the sands and off the shores of Saudi Arabia, they have reminded us of the courage, dedication, and skill that American troops have always demonstrated in the defense of freedom.

Memorial Day is a time to pay special tribute to all those who have made the ultimate sacrifice to protect the lives and liberty of others. They have earned our lasting respect and gratitude, and they will always be remembered for their bravery and selflessness. May their families take comfort in the knowledge that these heroic individuals did not die in vain, and may all Americans be inspired by their profound sense of duty, patriotism and honor.

President George Bush

One of the earliest observances of the holiday we celebrate as Memorial Day took place in 1866 in Columbus, Miss. There, a group of women placing flowers on the graves of their Civil War dead noticed the nearby graves of fallen Union soldiers lying bare and forgotten — so they decorated those with flowers as well. Their hope was that folks in the North would do the same for their fallen heroes buried there.

A newspaper correspondent saw their gesture as evidence that the deep wounds of the Civil War could be healed, and he wrote a story that was printed in papers around the country. Public reaction to this and other similar observances was so great that soon thereafter Decoration Day ceremonies were held throughout the nation.

In 1882, Decoration Day was redesignated Memorial Day, saluting not only our Civil War dead, but the fallen warriors of all conflicts.

On this Memorial Day, as we salute the Americans who have died in defense of this great nation, let us pause to truly acknowledge their sacrifice. As we remember those who so unselfishly paid the ultimate price for freedom this May 27, let us also remember the freedoms they fought so gallantly to defend.

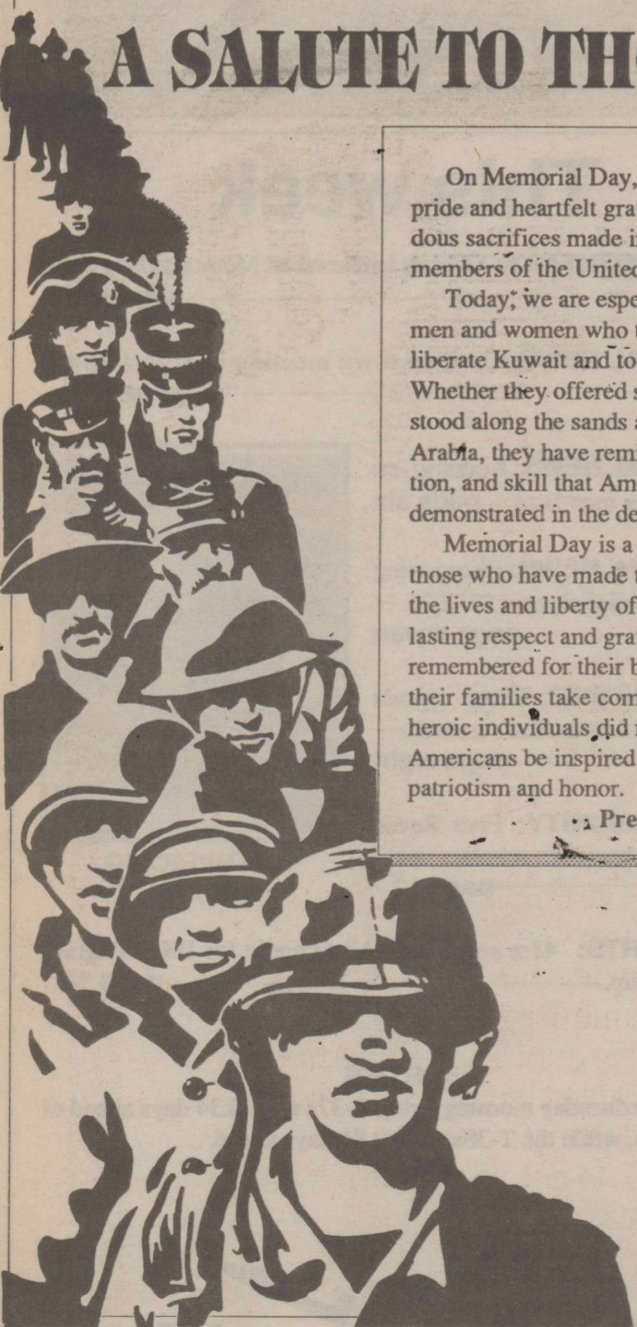

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Ashy
commander, Air Training Command

During the two years I've been your Secretary of Defense, young military men and women have twice fought far from home. Each time, they were victorious, but those victories in Panama and Kuwait were not won cheaply or easily.

As we pause for reflection this Memorial Day, we should all remember that freedom, and the blessings it brings, often exact the ultimate sacrifice. Throughout this nation's history, Americans have been willing to make that sacrifice, and the voices of those who have fallen still echo in our memories today. We are comforted by the spirit of courage and patriotism they left behind.

You, the men and women of today's Armed Forces, exemplify that spirit. And by pledging to keep our nation strong and ready, you can provide no better monument to those who have gone before. I join all Americans in thanking you for your continued service to America and in honoring those who have died in that service.

Civilian Town Meeting addresses concerns

A civilian town meeting was held May 20 at the Simler Theater to discuss several areas that have recently affected — or will soon affect — civilian employees at Reese.

The first subject of discussion concerned the reduction of civilian authorizations within Air Training Command and Reese. "This is a hard time to make changes and protect employees' jobs at Reese," said Hal Corbin, Reese's Civilian Personnel Officer. "The reductions will affect everyone some way or another."

In ATC, 1,382 slots were targeted for reduction on July 1. A total of 50 of these are at Reese. When the reductions were determined, the first 30 were vacant. Of the remaining 20 positions, 18 were occupied by permanent employees.

"After identifying those positions," Mr. Corbin said, "we were tasked to identify an additional 18 positions to be deleted on Oct. 1. Of the 68 total positions to be eliminated, 23 are filled by permanent employees. Through attrition, retirement and internal placement we expect fewer than ten positions will remain occupied by Oct. 1. Since funds are currently available, we will not have to displace anyone before Sept. 30," he added.

Also discussed at the May 20 meeting was the A-76 Cost Studies being conducted at Reese and Goodfellow AFB, Texas. Mrs.

Nancy Gregorio of the Manpower Office stated that "These studies will determine whether support activities can be performed more effectively by civil service or private contract employees." The decision will be finalized in 1994 with a planned effective date of April 1, 1995.

The decision to contract out support jobs in administration, audiovisual, supply, transportation, civil engineering, services, telephone operations and morale, welfare and recreation will be based on fiscal savings to the American taxpayer.

The third major topic at the meeting was the test reorganization of the wing. Col. Bill Henny, commander, 64th Flying Training Wing, briefed the new organization and provided insight as to why we were testing the new structure. During the briefing, Colonel Henny said, "Reese is alive and well. We have several major construction projects to start in the near future and the T-1 program is on schedule." Regarding the reorganization, he said, "There are no favorites, we are protecting no individuals. No one likes to see things get smaller, unless we can do it more efficiently, and I am convinced this test will show we can improve our day-to-day operation." The reorganization test will continue for six months to a year and during that time refinements are expected.

"The reductions will affect everyone in some way or another."

Reese mission maker

This week's mission maker is Amn. Angela Rolley, a 64th Services Squadron member assigned to the Commissary. As a Commissary worker she ensures that all merchandise ordered is received from the vendor.

Airman Rolley entered the Air Force in December 1989 and has been stationed at Reese since June 1990.

In September of 1990, she was deployed to Saudi Arabia in support of Operation Desert Storm. "I learned a lot when I was deployed since we had to set up a base exchange inside a tent," the 21-year-old said.

The Gadsden, Ala. native enjoys playing volleyball, listening to music and meeting new people. "The Air Force is great on meeting new people since there is always someone new arriving on base," she said. "With a variety of cultures from different areas of the United States, there are a lot of interesting people to meet."

Overpricing challenge earns sergeant $392.36

It is the responsibility of every Air Force member and civilian employee to challenge the cost of an item if the price seems to be too high or unreasonable.

TSgt. David Koester, T-1 Test Team, was awarded $392.36 for an overpricing challenge that saved the Air Force $3923.64. Sergeant Koester identified an aircraft part that was costing the Air Force $150.05 when the same item under a different stock number cost $9.92. The identification saved 140.13 on each individual part.

"The Zero Overpricing Program was designed to reduce overpricing of Air Force acquisitions, and to furnish a means for all material users to become involved in promoting a more efficient use of funds," said SSgt. JoAnn Sutton, 64th Logistic Support Squadron Customer Service Unit.

Many items that the Air Force Logistics Command buys appear to be simple, but actually require special manufacturing. Compare a bolt bought at the hardware store with one used in a high-performance aircraft. They look alike, but aircraft bolts contain precious metals and have to be precisely machined to hold up under extreme stress.

"Individuals who use spares can sometimes determine the similarity or interchangeability of different items," she added. The knowledge of technical orders, the use of actual substitute items, or the local manufacturer of items can place the user in an excellent position to identify an overpricing situation.

In the past, AFLC occasionally bought parts with designs more elaborate—and costly—than were actually needed to get the job done. Now, the command buys a cheaper unit, as long as the quality is still high enough for required use.

In fiscal year 1990, there were 183 price challenges submitted to the Air Training Command's ZOP, according to Sergeant Sutton. Of these, 23 were confirmed. Eleven of them were found to be priced incorrectly due to internal errors, while the other twelve were actually overpriced. The identification of these items saved ATC $28,630 and resulted in cash awards of $2,448.

When overpricing is detected and corrected as a result of a ZOP challenge, the monetary award is based on the total savings to the government for one year. When the item won't be procured for at least one year, an award based on intangible savings may be approved.

"The ZOP only works when you, the material user, gets involved," the sergeant said. If you feel the price of an item is too high, or that a less expensive item could do the job just as well, contact the customer service unit at 3279.

(Sgt. Greg Spraggins)

TSgt. David Koester checks a T-38 radar antenna. A part that connects to the antenna was identified by Sergeant Koester with the overpricing challenge.

Reese captain earns award for research

As he fastens the mask and puts it over her face, her eyes slowly start to close. She wonders if everything is going to be all right as she goes into a daze.

He stays with her to ensure everything goes well during the surgery and that she doesn't feel any pain afterward. He performs his job diligently, knowing her safety is in his hands.

His name is Capt. Roy Fukuoka. He is the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital staff anesthetist, and his proficiency at his job has earned him national recognition from the American Association of Nurse Anesthetists.

Captain Fukuoka recently earned recognition for the research he has done in his career field.

The captain earned the 1991 Research in Action National Award for a thesis research paper on correlating the appropriately sized endotracheal tube with the size of a person's little finger.

"In simple terms, when I put children to sleep, I often have a hard time with the endotracheal tube, since the tube tends to be too large," said Captain Fukuoka. "It can hurt the child."

"When we put adults to sleep, the tube we use has a balloon that can inflate to fit the trachea—the pediatric tracheal tube does not have it," the captain added.

The award was presented by the American Association of Nurse Anesthetists.

For capturing this award, Captain Fukuoka has been invited to discuss his research paper at the association's national convention in August. The captain also had a portion of his research work printed in the medical journal Anesthesia/Analgesia.

"Being published in the national magazine was overwhelming since it's read by the top medical people in the country," the captain said.

Captain Fukuoka recently returned to Reese from a deployment in support of Operation Desert Storm. He was commissioned

"I feel the quality of anesthetists and medical personnel here are the best I've ever worked with."

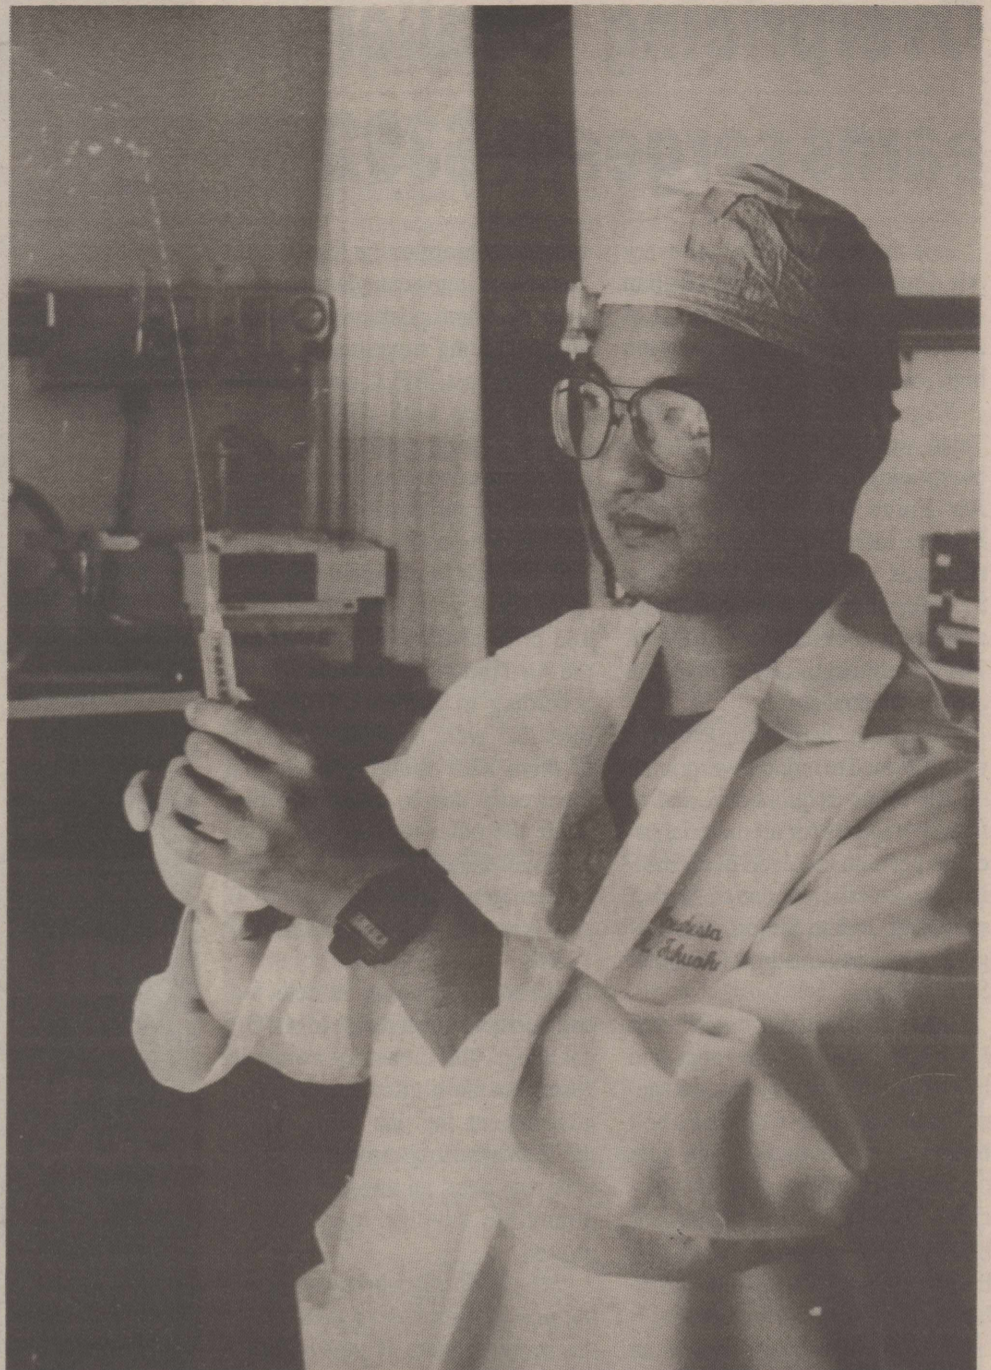

—Capt. Roy Fukuoka
64th Medical Squadron

in December 1984 as a second lieutenant. He has been stationed at Reese since October.

"After working at 14 different hospitals and with many people, I feel the quality of anesthetists and medical personnel here are the best that I've ever worked with," the captain said.

Captain Fukuoka earned his bachelor's degree in Nursing with a 4.0 grade point average from the University of Hawaii. He also received his masters, again with a 4.0 GPA, from Cal State University.

Captain Fukuoka and his wife, Avis, have one daughter, Ashley, 4.

Vacation Bible School set for June 24 - 28

Vacation Bible School is scheduled for June 24 - 28. According to chapel officials, this year's theme is "Share God's Blessings."

The school is designed for children ages three through the sixth grade.

Sessions are from 9 a.m. - noon and from 9 - 10:30 a.m. daily for three year olds.

Students will study the Bible and participate in art activities, music, service projects, recreation and worship. The sessions are centered on five themes: "Blessed to Trust and Believe;" "Blessed to Serve and Show Mercy;" "Blessed to Hope and to Receive God's Blessing;" "Blessed to Give and Bear Witness;" and "Blessed to Forgive and Show Love."

A special feature of the VBS program is the Kaleidoscope, to explore how we have been blessed by God to be a blessing to others.

Chapel officials describe "Share God's Blessings" as an exciting learning opportunity for children. Registration begins June 9. For more information, call 3911.

Chapel offers gospel program

The next SOULful Bible Study is June 6 from 12 - 12:50 p.m. in Room 9 of the base chapel. Bring your own lunch.

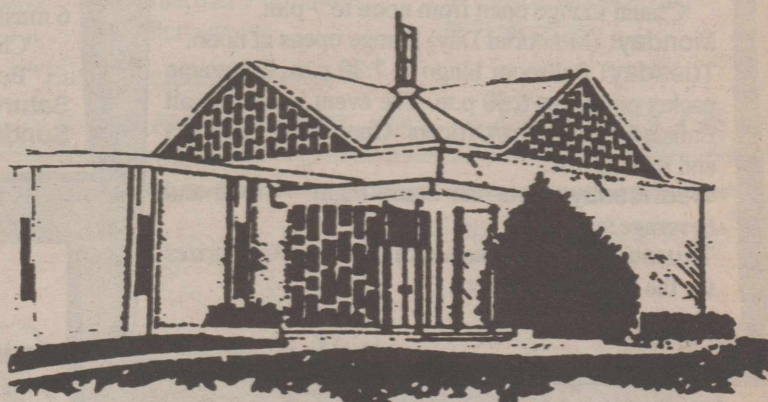

Various relevant topics, themes, issues and scriptural passages are discussed informally and methodically. This is not a preaching service. Chaplain (Capt.) Lemuel Thuston will lead the study using handouts, visual aids, maps and outlines, but group discussion is always anticipated.

Bring your own Bible or use the Bibles in the chapel.

There is no focus on any particular denominational position, but the interpretations of various cultural and religious ideas will be recognized.

The Gospel worship service takes place on the first Sunday of each month, from 3:30 - 4:40 p.m. The next service is scheduled for June 2. The Gospel service typically features a "looser liturgy" and incorporates diverse styles of song, word and sacrament in worship. For more information, contact the chapel at 3237.

Students earn $4,300 in scholarships

Money raised by three organizations will give five wing family members a "leg up" on their college education.

The Reese Enlisted Wives Club donated $3,000 to the students, who were from a wide cross section of the base, according to the club president. They were:

□ Sylvia Valdez, daughter of Emilio and Josephine Valdez of Lockheed, received a $1,250 scholarship. She's a Lubbock High School student.

□ Sandra Huerta, daughter of Adam and Patricia Huerta of Reese Morale, Welfare and Recreation, earned $1,000. She attends Estacado High School.

□ Jennifer Maddox, daughter of Lt. Col. Stephen and Rosellin Maddox, 64th Support Group, was awarded $750 for college. She is a student at Lubbock High School.

The EWC would like to thank everyone who got involved with fundraisers throughout the year that earned the money used for the scholarships.

In addition to the EWC's effort, two other scholarships recently awarded featured:

□ Deidra Armes, daughter of Ron and Carolyn Armes of MWR, received $1,000 courtesy of the local chapter and auxiliary of the Air Force Sergeants Association. Deidra attends Frenship High School.

□ Tammy Byrd, daughter of CMSgt. Larry and Carrie Byrd of 64th Maintenance Squadron/Simulator Flight, received $300 from the Association of Military Comptrollers. She attends Shallowater High School.

"Yellow Ribbon Summer" honors Armed Forces

This summer, the United Services Organization (USO) and Anheuser-Busch are sponsoring "Yellow Ribbon Summer."

This first time event was established to honor members and families of the active-duty armed forces.

The highlight of the program is a scholarship for families of American servicemembers who were killed or missing in action during the Persian Gulf War.

During the event, which lasts from Armed Forces Day, May 18, through Labor Day, Sept. 8, military members will also be given free admission to Anheuser-Busch's family entertainment parks.

The scholarship, called the "August A. Busch Jr. Desert Storm Scholarship Fund," will be offered to all spouses and children of Americans who died or were killed in Operation Desert Shield or Desert Storm.

The scholarship, which has been funded for $1.2 million, is available regardless of financial need or academic achievement and can be used at any accredited college, junior college, or school of vocational training. The fund will be administered by the USO.

All active-duty military, active reservists, and their immediate dependents will be honored during the summer by being offered free admission to any one of seven Anheuser-Busch family entertainment parks.

Parks involved in the program include Busch Gardens, Williamsburg, Va. and Tampa, Fla.; Sea World Parks in San Diego, Calif., Orlando, Fla., and Aurora, Ohio; and Cypress Gardens in Winter Haven, Fla.

Special entertainment and other activities are planned for the parks.

Information on free admission to the parks can be obtained through the Information, Ticket and Tour Office here. For more information, contact Towanda Harrison at 3787, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday - Friday.

Recipients who are eligible and interested in the scholarship may contact USO World Headquarters in Washington, DC, at (202) 783-8121.

41st and 52nd "A" remain in IM championship race

The intramural volleyball playoffs continued this week as several teams battled it out for the right to play in the championships.

The 41st Operational Support Squadron, the National League champion, and the 52nd FTS "A", the American League champion, remained alive in the playoffs. The two teams were scheduled to clash Thursday night.

□ 54th Flying Training Squadron "A" defeated 54th FTS "B," 12-10 and 15-8. In a battle of squadron teams, the "A" team edged the "B" team as time ran out in the first game. In the second game, the "A" team had a much easier time with the "B" team.

□ 41st OSS defeated 33rd FTS, 14-2 and 15-0. The 41st had an easy night as they held the 33rd to two points in the first game and zero points in the second game.

□ 54th FTS "B" defeated 33rd FTS (eliminated), 4-13, 10-8 and 13-5. The 33rd jumped out to a big start, but the 54th "A" team overpowered them in the last two games to take the win and eliminate the 33rd from the playoffs.

□ 41st OSS defeated 54th FTS "A," 15-

10, 13-15 and 12-9. In the second game of the evening, the 41st won the first game with a little trouble from the 54th "A" team. The 54th "A" managed to win game two. The third game went to the 41st as time was called.

□ 54th FTS "A" defeated 64th Medical Squadron "A" (eliminated), 15-8, 11-13 and 15-10. In the third game of the evening, the 54th "A" stayed alive in the playoffs after eliminating the hospital in a close three-game match.

□ 52nd FTS "A" defeated 54th FTS "B" (eliminated), 15-8, 11-13 and 15-10. The 52nd FTS "A" team had little trouble in defeating the 54th in the first game. The second game was very close as the 54th won as time was called. The 52nd "A" managed to rally back and defeat the 54th "A" in the third and final game of the match.

□ 52nd FTS "A" defeated 54th FTS "A" (eliminated), 12-15, 11-9 and 15-13. The 54th "A" got out to a good start by winning the first game. The 52nd "A" came back in the last two games to win the match. The loss eliminated the 54th "A" team from the playoffs.
