50th anniversary activities highlight today's ceremony

Reese's 50th anniversary will be celebrated during a ceremony at 10:45 a.m. Monday in front of Bldg. 800.

"This marks an important milestone in Reese's legacy of producing the world's best pilots," Col. Bill Henny, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, said.

On hand for the celebration will be the Honorable Phil Gramm, U.S. senator; Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy, Air Training Command commander; the Honorable B.C. "Peck" McMinn, Lubbock mayor; Roy Holmes, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce president; and David Seim, chairman of the chamber's armed services committee.

"We are happy to have Senator Gramm and General Ashy on hand for this historic occasion, as well as everyone else who will be in attendance", Colonel Henny added.

The activities for the celebration include Colonel Henny presenting to the citizens of Lubbock the flag flown over the base June 13, marking the 50th anniversary of the base site selection.

All the men and women of Reese are encouraged to attend.

Reese first opened up as Lubbock Army Air Corps Advanced Flying School June 26, 1941.

The field began operating in late 1941, and the training of aviation cadets began Feb. 25, 1942. Subsequently, the base became known as Lubbock Army Air School on Feb. 6, 1942, and later Lubbock Army Air Field on April 26, 1943. The base then became the Lubbock Army Air Base Jan. 13, 1948.

The base was renamed Reese AFB in memory of Lt. Augustus Reese Jr., a native of nearby Shallowater, during a ceremony in November 1949. Lieutenant Reese was killed in action during World War II while flying a combat mission in a P-38 against an enemy railroad supply train on May 14, 1943.

91-11 to pin on wings today

Members of Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 91-12 will receive their wings today during graduation ceremonies in the Simler Theater.

The ceremony is scheduled for 10 a.m. Related events in the Officer's Open Mess include a graduation buffet from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; a parents' social at 6:15 p.m.; and a dinner-dance at 7 p.m.

The guest speaker for the graduation will be retired Brig. Gen. Charles Duke Jr., a former astronaut.

During graduation, several awards will be presented to students and permanent-party members. Student awards include the commander's trophy (top overall graduate), "top stick" (best in flying training), academics, distinguished graduates, leadership and outstanding second lieutenant.

Other awards will be presented to the outstanding academic and flightline instructor pilots, maintenance members and mission maker.

From my perspective

by Col. Bill Henny
64th FTW commander

Many of you have heard the expression "Freedom isn't free." The truth in this was graphically demonstrated during the Persian Gulf Conflict as allied forces rose to turn back Iraq's aggression and restore the Kuwaiti nation to freedom.

No doubt many Kuwaitis felt as our forefathers did July 4, 1776, when the 13 colonies declared themselves to be an independent nation. Through the centuries, our Armed Forces have ensured that the freedom gained that day has remained constant.

This Thursday marks the 215th anniversary of that historic event. As we celebrate our independence, let's keep in mind those before us who have served to preserve our freedom — particularly those who have made the ultimate sacrifice in defending the ideals behind the founding of our great nation.

Big day Monday

What a great month! The open house was a complete success — the "thank you" letters from our South Plains neighbors started arriving two days after the open house, and they're still pouring in. Everyone deserves a hand for the important part they played in putting our best foot forward.

Monday will be another big day, as we mark Reese's 50th anniversary during a 10:45 a.m. ceremony in front of wing headquarters. Dignitaries from throughout Texas will be on hand, including Sen. Phil Gramm and Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy, ATC commander.

I encourage everyone to come out and help commemorate a milestone in Reese's legacy of "training tomorrow's best today."

Meeting the challenge

As all of you know, it's our training mission that makes us such an important part of the Air Force. Our mission is a challenging one, but I know all of you are up to that challenge. From the aviators to the mission makers, I have no doubt that each of you will continue to put forth the hard work and enthusiasm you always have.

Hard work shouldn't affect this summer's "fun meter," however. You deserve the opportunity for good times with family and friends.

As we move through the summer, let's keep up the enthusiastic spirit that makes the 64th a pacesetter in Air Training Command!

Safety is paramount

Of course, while you perform your duties as "hard chargers," let's never forget the importance of safety. You are our most valuable resource. The mission doesn't get done without each of you, and I don't want to see any of you hurt, especially in a mishap that could have been avoided — and most are avoidable!

Staying alert, attentive and aware undermine accidents. Let's do all we can to take care of ourselves and each other while enjoying this time of year with family and friends.

Valued member departs Reese

Col. Ray Bean and family departed for Maxwell AFB, Ala. on Tuesday, where he'll become a faculty member of the Air War College. Ray, Mindy and Peyton will be missed — they've made many valuable contributions to the wing during their year here. Under Ray's leadership, the Support Group was responsible for numerous quality-of-life initiatives and improvements.

On behalf of all the men and women of Reese — thank you and Godspeed.

Greetings to newcomers

Greetings are in order for Lt. Col. Michael Campano and his new bride, Donna, the new commander of Detachment 2, 3307th Test and Evaluation Squadron. Colonel Campano comes to Reese from Hahn AB, Germany.

Welcome also to Maj. Ed Bloom, the wing's new staff judge advocate. He, his wife Sharon and their two children also just finished a tour at Hahn AB, Germany.

Leaders send holiday messages

by President George Bush
Commander in Chief

As we celebrate the 215th anniversary of our Nation's Independence, we recall the courage and resolve of those patriots who first pledged their lives to its defense — from the statesmen in Philadelphia who boldly declared that "all men are created equal" to the patriots and soldiers who braved the heat of battle from Lexington and Concord to Yorktown.

Each of you serves in the noble tradition that was begun by these heroes. As we recall the resounding victory that you and our coalition partners achieved in the Persian Gulf earlier this year, our hearts are filled with solemn pride and with heartfelt appreciation. Your enthusiasm, your dedication, and your skill are unequalled in the world.

Today, as you stand duty here at home and around the globe, all Americans gratefully acknowledge the sacrifices that you have made and continue to make for the sake of our country. As Commander in Chief, I salute you and wish you and your families a safe and joyous Independence Day.

by Dick Cheney
Secretary of Defense

Two hundred and fifteen years ago, America declared its independence, then had to back up that declaration with courage, strength and sacrifice. Today, you who serve this country in uniform preserve the precious legacy of freedom our forefathers fought to secure.

A few months ago, our resolve as a Nation was tested during Operation Desert Storm. The victory we achieved reflected your readiness, your determination, and your professionalism. The prestige of the American military has never been higher, thanks to the discipline and courage you demonstrated.

As we celebrate the day on which our Nation was born, I want to thank each of you for maintaining and protecting our republic. Your devotion to duty and your commitment to the cause of freedom have set a standard of excellence to which all Americans can aspire. I wish each of you and your families a safe and happy Independence Day.

by Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy
ATC commander

For over 200 years, the United States of America, born in the spirit of "liberty and justice for all," has stood as a beacon of democracy and an inspiration for all nations around the world who cherish freedom.

On July 4th, we will celebrate our independence, and offer our gratitude to those who went before us — for it's their sacrifice that has blessed us with the precious heritage we enjoy today.

This is an exciting and special time in history, as many people around the world who have not been so fortunate are now securing the independence and freedom we have enjoyed for so long. Challenges still remain, however, so on this Independence Day, let us reaffirm our commitment to the legacy our forefathers made a reality — the legacy of liberty.

As we commemorate this great event, many of our fellow airmen, soldiers, and sailors are answering the call to duty even as their fellow citizens enjoy the holiday in traditional fashion. Whether this holiday finds you at home or far away, remember the common heritage we share as Americans, a heritage of which we can all be proud. That is the real cause for celebration.

Deployment

Reese firefighters sent to support American Forces

Members of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron Fire Department deployed Saturday to Saudi Arabia in support of American forces there.

The firefighters' deployment brings the number of wing members currently supporting the Mideast operation to 19.

The Reese firefighters departed out of Lubbock International Airport.

"After receiving word June 12 that members would be deploying, several wing agencies pulled together to speed up the team's deployment preparation," CMSgt. John Mattern, base fire chief, said.

Participating organizations were transportation, accounting and finance, family support, legal office and the 64th Medical Squadron.

The members deployed will be in Saudi Arabia approximately 90 days to relieve a unit that has been there longer, according to TSgt. Glen Young, team chief. "We're leaving without even knowing where we're going or what we will be doing," Sergeant Young added.

Before leaving, team members talked about what is in store.

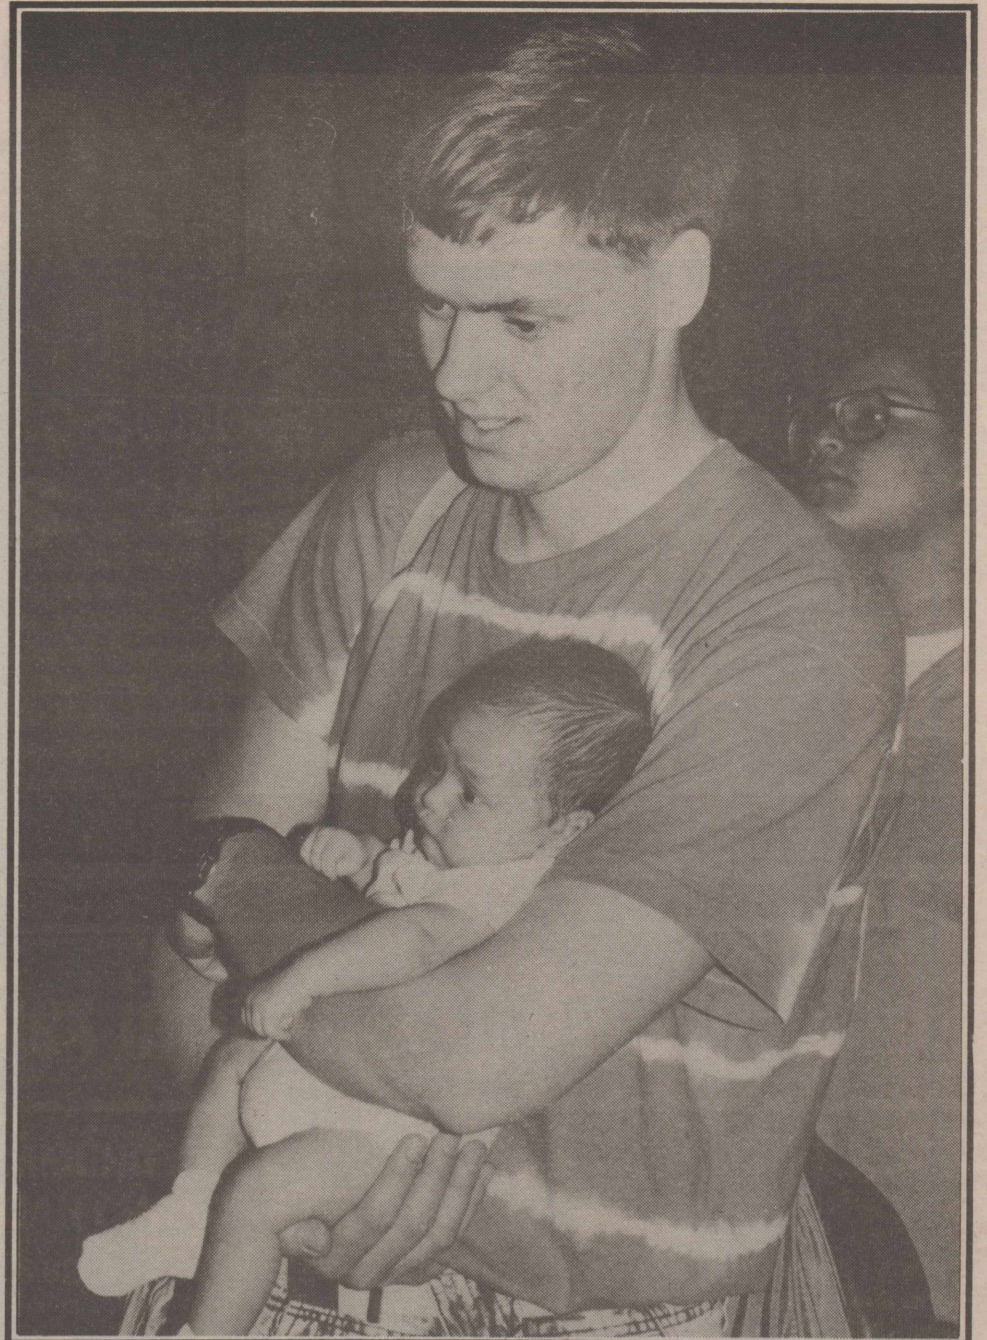

"When I arrived at Reese, it was the farthest I had ever been away from home in Florida," said Amn. Scott Baker. "Now I'm going halfway around the world."

"I think it's sad they're deploying," said Barbara Guzman, wife of A1C Michael Guzman. "Fortunately, it's only for a short period of time."

"I think it's great that I'm deploying, because I'll get hands-on experience," said Amn. Darryl Randall. "The knowledge will be invaluable."

"When I was stationed at Reese, it was the farthest I'd ever been away from home. Now I'm going halfway around the world."

Lubbock slates July 4th activities

(SSgt. Mike Breslin)

A 50-state-flag detail from Reese will march in the parade Thursday morning, kicking off the Fourth on Broadway celebration.

A bang-up Victory Parade honoring members of the U.S. Armed Forces who served during the Persian Gulf war will kick off a day full of activity marking Lubbock's Fourth of July, according to Lubbock officials.

From the time the parade starts at 10 a.m., until near midnight when the last rocket is launched in the fireworks display, Lubbock residents will have marched and cheered and celebrated enough to satisfy every red-blooded, patriotic American for miles around. Officials will be disappointed if this is not the biggest Independence Day celebration ever staged in West Texas.

The parade, led by veterans of Operation Desert Storm, will march from the Memorial Coliseum to Broadway and then head east to the Memorial Civic Center. As the parade clears Broadway, the avenue will be roped off for a huge street fair called "Fourth on Broadway." This ambitious festival will feature 90 covered booths operated by civic groups, non-profit organizations and businesses offering food, games, fun and music for every taste.

There is no admission charge for the parade or Fourth on Broadway, but individual booths will charge for their wares. For the children, there will be booths offering dart throwing, water balloon throwing, a dunking booth and face painting.

More than 60 musical acts will perform on five music stages at 30-minute intervals throughout the day. Gary Schwantz, chairman for the street fair, said, "There will be music starting at 1 p.m. and running through 7 p.m. We'll have Christian and gospel music, country and western, Hispanic, jazz and folk music, and rock-and-roll. We want this to be a celebration of the musical heritage of West Texas."

An all-you-can-eat barbecue will be held on the lawn of the Lubbock County Courthouse starting at 11 a.m. Tickets for the feast, at $7 each, are available at United Super Markets through July 2.

At 11:30, an Early Settlers Reunion will be held in the Koko Palace, 5101 Ave. Q. Tickets for this event, which cost $7.50 each, are available at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, 14th and Ave. K. Col. Bill Henny will be the keynote speaker.

Citibus and local banks will provide free shuttle bus service from parking lots on the Tech campus to the parade, barbecue and Fourth on Broadway. In addition, three trolleys will provide free transportation up and down Broadway during the street fair.

Starting at 7:30 p.m., a joint concert by the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra, the Maines Brothers, and the Joe and Ricky Martinez Band will be staged on 6th Street, in the grassy area north of the civic center adjacent to the Department of Public Safety.

To top off the Independence Day activities, the city is preparing a fireworks extravaganza to begin at 10 p.m. in the same location as the music concert. Spectators may want to bring lawn chairs and blankets.

Reese Federal Credit Union Awards Scholarships

Steve Warring, President, Reese Federal Credit Union and Mr. Hal Corbin, Chairman of the Board, award scholarship recipients Jay Moore and Robert Ertner with $500 each.

Reese Federal Credit Union recently awarded $500 scholarships to two students for their pursuit of higher education.

Jay Moore, son of Major Russ and Mrs. Cheryl Moore, was the winner of the RFCU Academic Scholarship for a graduating high school senior. Mr. Moore participated in the Lubbock Exemplary Academic Program (LEAP) and received the Outstanding Award in the LEAP Honors English III class.

Mr. Moore was captain of the first place team of Lubbock High School to win the first ever National Science Bowl, 1991. Graduating with a grade point average of 4.53, Jay plans to major in aeronautical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Robert Ertner, son of Lawrence and Kristina Ertner, was awarded the RFCU Academic Scholarship for a student currently enrolled in college. Mr. Ertner is pursuing three majors, Physics, Chemistry, and Math, and is involved in undergraduate research in the Physics Department at Texas Tech University.

Mr. Ertner has a grade point average of 3.81 and serves as class representative of the Honors Council and President of the Society of Physics Students at Texas Tech University.

These two fine young men were chosen from a field of outstanding applicants who were evaluated on the basis of awards and honors, recommendation letters, grade point average and service work.

The scholarship winners were chosen by a committee chaired by Mary Ann Edwards, Owner, Word Publications, Mr. Lee Kitchens, Industrial Engineering Professor, Texas Tech University, and Col. Ford Barrett, Commander/Resource Management, Reese AFB.

Much appreciation goes to these distinguished individuals for their work on this committee and best wishes to this year's outstanding scholarship winners.

The array of ribbons on his chest pays witness to his 30-plus years of service, as does the eight stripes on either shoulder.

Leaning back in his chair, CMSgt. Stephen Greenwell recalls a tense moment during his career. Assigned to a mobile radio group in Germany in 1963, he was celebrating his 20th birthday the day John F. Kennedy was killed.

"With all our 'sophisticated' communications equipment, the first word we got was that there was a full-scale attack on the motorcade, Kennedy was shot, (Lyndon) Johnson was shot and there was still shooting (going on).

"We immediately went to full alert, with grenades on all the equipment," added Chief Greenwell. "Back then, everybody got a weapon. So we went out and guarded the antenna field fence for about a half hour until we got word of what actually transpired."

The event was one of many the 64th Mission Support Squadron executive can recall. Two conflicts are among the others.

"Of course, the Vietnam War made a big impact on everybody," the Indiana native said, draping his left arm over the back of his chair. "Now, Desert Storm has brought us back to where we were before Vietnam as far as prestige and public support goes. And it's our job to keep it there."

Recrossing his arms, he talks of the future. The father of two — along with his wife, Mary — and grandfather of three, the chief retired Thursday. Going back home to "go fishin'" is in the immediate future, while a job teaching or counselling could lay ahead. A trainer for much of his career, he said people are what draws him to that field.

"What makes people so interesting is that they're all different," he said. "You have to learn to approach people in different ways. You don't necessarily have to get inside their head, but you have to understand where they're coming from. If you don't, you can't communicate."

Aside from training, the chief has worked in Russian linguistics, personnel and aerospace ground equipment. However, it's his training background that probably best explains his philosophy.

"Those who dare to teach or lead must never cease to learn — if I would want to leave any words with any young person coming in the Air Force or anywhere else, it would be those," he said. "That's because when you stop learning, you stop growing."

Reese captain selected as outstanding grad

Capt. Jeffrey Saling, a graduate of class 91-05, captured the January-March 1991 Orville Wright Award which is presented by the Daedalians Foundation.

The Orville Wright Award is presented each quarter to the most outstanding undergraduate pilot training or Euro-NATO Joint Jet Pilot Training student.

Captain Saling's accomplishments during pilot training included a remarkable 100 percent score on nine out of 11 tests. As a result, he had an academic average of 99.4 percent. He was designated as an academic ace and received the coveted academic training award upon graduation.

He was also voted "top stick" by his flight commander and instructor pilots for his excellent overall performance in T-37's. He also was selected a distinguished graduate and captured the Air Training Command's Trophy as the overall top graduate of UPT 91-05.

Due to his performance in UPT training, he was selected to fly the F-16.

During the T-37 phase, the captain was challenged in-flight with an emergency. Flying by himself at the time, one of his main landing gears would not extend. He followed his checklist and executed a flawless gear-up landing.

Before entering UPT training, he went through Undergraduate Navigator Training and graduated as a distinguished graduate. Captain Saling upgraded to a weapons system operator and simulator instructor in the Tactical Air Command.

As a weapons system operator, the captain organized and participated in various deployments, including NATO exercises.

Comm squadron member wins ATC, Air Force award

A member of the 64th Communication Squadron captured the Air Force's 1990 Communications-Computer Systems Professionalism Award.

Sandra Briseno, funds management clerk, won the Air Training Command award in April.

"I was surprised to find out I had won the award, since all I was doing was my job", Ms. Briseno said. "I never thought I would get it since there were so many people in the running."

The San Angelo, Texas, native began working at the plans and management branch in February 1990 after working for the deputy commander for maintenance for five years. She has been at Reese 10 years.

For her new job, Ms. Briseno had to learn all aspects of complex communications service authorization and telephone company billing codes. Her efforts "paid" off.

"I never thought I would get it since there were so many people in the running."

"She was able to apply her knowledge about the CSA system and immediately deleted more than $10,000 of unnecessary equipment," said Keith Place, plans and programs branch chief. "She corrected several long-term deficiencies in base telephone bills and overcharges applied to the downtown commercial telephone lines. It resulted in savings of over $7,500."

Her efforts were also cited by Air Training Command officials as the best in the command.

"Ms. Briseno's hard work in purchasing the Telephone Switch has resulted in total savings of over $500,000 through reduction in yearly telephone charges," Mr. Place said.

She recently graduated from South Plains College with an associates degree in business administration. Ms. Briseno is an active member of the Meals on Wheels program, comm booster club and a committee member of the Reese Hispanic Heritage Month.

CHAMPUS outpatient deductible increased

The annual Civilian Health And Medical Program of the Uniformed Services deductible for outpatient care increased for many CHAMPUS-eligible families April 1.

The outpatient deductible for each fiscal year increased to $150 for an individual, and a total of $300 for an entire family. The previous amounts were $50 and $100, respectively. The original law that increased the annual deductibles provided that the amount for the family members of active-duty E-4s and below would not increase, but would remain at $50 and $100.

"Recent congressional action directed that the deductible increase be delayed until Oct. 1 for family members of active-duty sponsors who served in the Persian Gulf war," said Carolyn Johnson, Reese health benefits advisor. "Therefore, the lower deductible rates will continue to apply to care received by these beneficiaries through Sept. 30."

If CHAMPUS claims processors should happen to apply the new deductible ($150 & $300) incorrectly to claims for beneficiaries who qualify for a delay in the increase until Oct. 1, a copy of the explanation of benefits should be marked "Desert Storm" and returned with a copy of the sponsor's leave and earnings statement showing "Danger," "Imminent Danger" or "Hostile Fire" pay, or with evidence that the military sponsor is entitled to a combat zone tax exclusion, to the claims processor.

If a copy of the leave and earnings statement is not available, the beneficiary or sponsor should contact the sponsor's military pay office for a copy.

After Sept. 30, only care for families of active-duty members in grades E-4 and below will be exempt from the higher deductible regardless of service in the Persian Gulf.

Here's how the increased deductible will be applied:

Since the federal government's fiscal year begins Oct. 1, all CHAMPUS-eligible persons have had to meet the old deductible amounts ($50 or $100) for outpatient care received between Oct. 1, 1990, and March 31, 1991. Once a patient has met the required deductible, CHAMPUS begins normal cost-sharing of outpatient care for the rest of the fiscal year.

But the deductible increased April 1. So, for any outpatient care received on or after that date, patients will have to pay the additional amount to reach the total of the new deductible ($150 and $300) before CHAMPUS will continue its normal cost-sharing of outpatient care. The amount paid toward the outpatient deductible before April 1 will be counted toward satisfaction of the increased deductible that is now in effect for most service families.

CHAMPUS claims processors will make the adjustment for the new deductible amounts on claims which indicate that the outpatient services were received on or after April 1.

For more information, call Carolyn Johnson, 3581.

Mission maker

This week's mission maker is Capt. Debra Davis, the charge nurse of the 64th Medical Squadron emergency room.

The 35-year-old Sydney, Nova Scotia, Canada native has been in the Air Force seven years. She has served over two years of those at Reese.

"We make sure the best possible care is provided to our wing members of the emergency room and the multi-service unit," said Captain Davis.

As a charge nurse, Captain Davis supervises 14 emergency medical technicians.

She spends her off-duty time with her husband, Capt. Brent Davis, a 52nd Flying Training Squadron instructor pilot.

The captain enjoys the Air Force because of the traveling and the camaraderie between co-workers. "The teamwork between people in the emergency room and the multi-service unit makes all our jobs easier and more enjoyable," she added.

Captain Davis also enjoys working on the computer, swimming and camping.
