Base marks 50th anniversary

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy, ATC commander, were on hand as Reese celebrated its 50th anniversary Monday.

Dignitaries from throughout the area braved Monday morning's light showers to take part, as did members of the wing community. Also in attendance were the Honorable B.C. "Peck" McMinn, Lubbock mayor; the Honorable Don McBeath, Lubbock County judge; Roy Holmes, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce president; and David Seim, chairman of the chamber's armed services committee.

Also on hand was Katherine Shepherd, sister of Lt. Augustus

Reese Jr., the Shallowater native for whom the base is named.

The ceremony was marked by several highlights. In addition to the remarks by Senator Gramm and General Ashy; Mayor McMinn, Judge McBeath and Mr. Seim all presented proclamations to Col. Bill Henny, 64th Flying Training Wing commander. The mayor proclaimed Monday to be "Reese AFB Day."

As part of the ceremony, Main Boulevard was renamed Reese Boulevard, marking the first step in having the streets on the base proper reflect the proud heritage of the past 50 years.

Following the mayor's remarks, Colonel Henny presented Mayor

McMinn with the base flag that flew here June 13, the date the base site selection was made in 1941. Mayor McMinn accepted on behalf of Lubbock citizens. The colonel also presented Senator Gramm with a plaque that reads "Pride in the past, faith in the future."

Later, wing members presented a rendition of "God Bless America." This was followed by a fly-by of T-38s and T-37s.

"The weather could have been a bit better, but it was still a great ceremony," Colonel Henny said. "It's always a pleasure to have such strong supporters of Reese on base, especially when we're celebrating a milestone like this."

Seventeen earn fifth stripe

Seventeen members of the 64th Flying Training Wing have been selected for promotion to technical sergeant. Results were announced Tuesday.

The Reese selectees are:

Richard Hamilton, Christopher Murphy, Michael Robinson, Moses Sutton, Judith Welch and Randal Naylor, 64th Logistics Support Squadron.

Juanita Williams, 64th Medical Squadron.

Rogelio Vargas, 54th Flying

Training Squadron.

Scott DeHerrera, 64th Support Group.

William Smith Jr. and David Seigman, 64th Mission Support Squadron.

Dale Kelly, Communications Squadron.

William Swinonos, Security Police Squadron.

Stephen Foster, 64th Operations Support Squadron.

Gerald Baxley and Edward Sanchez, 64th Civil Engineering Squadron.

Larry Bryant, 64th Maintenance Squadron.

The 17 selectees came from a pool of 140 eligible for promotion at Reese, for a selection rate of 12.14 percent.

Throughout Air Training Command, 1,020 of 6,317 eligible members were selected for a 16.15 percent rate.

Across the Air Force, 11,057 of 77,147 were chosen. This resulted in a selection rate of 14.33 percent servicewide.

From my perspective

by Charles Gerrior
Reese ground safety manager

Summertime is fun time. A time to enjoy the outdoors, participating in sporting and recreation activities.

A great number of Reese military and civilian members will also be using their summer to travel on vacations, visiting new places, families and friends.

Normally everything turns out the way we plan and we return to our homes after a ball game or a long trip safe and sound.

Some wing members may not be that lucky. We will probably have some accidents this summer.

Most summer accidents can be avoided if the people involved take that extra few minutes to look around for the danger signs.

The majority of accidents occur due to fatigue, overextension of physical limits, poor physical conditioning for the activity involved, driving too far or fast in a limited amount of time, and over-consumption of alcohol.

A single one of these factors usually does not cause an accident.

Normally when the accident is investigated, a combination of several factors turns out to be the cause. Usually a simple decision, precaution or change of plans would have been enough to "break the chain" of events that led to tragedy.

This summer, take the time to plan for safe sports, recreational activities and vacation trips. The extra time taken before you start out may make the difference.

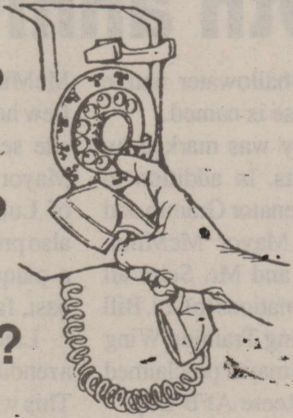

The bottom line--summer safety is up to you.

Call the Careline at 3273

As wing commander, I need to hear things "from YOUR perspective." Your inputs and suggestions can help Reese remain the pacesetter in the command. If you see something good, call me. If you have a problem that you feel needs my attention, call me. First, however, consider using your chain of command.

You may remain anonymous if you wish, but those who leave their name and number can get a direct response to their call.

Fire and children: a fatal attraction

by MSgt. Roy Napper
Reese Fire Department

As a controlled item, heat is one of the greatest of all tools. But let the heat become the master and tragedy often results.

Over 12,000 lives are claimed by fire each year in the United States.

In addition, fire maims and injures more than 300,000 persons each year. All too often the tragedy and scars remain with them the rest of their lives.

About 560,000 fires are reported each year. From 1981 - 1986, the U.S. Fire Administration reported that between 25 and 40 percent of all fires were set by children. In some areas of the country, this figure is as high as 70 percent.

Most experts say that the best way to understand a child's firesetting is by looking at the context and motivation for the behavior. There are basically four types of firesetting, and for each type, a different strategy is used to attempt to stop or reverse the behavior.

Curiosity is the first type. It usually occurs with boys 3 - 7 years old. The curious child may set a fire in a closet, under a bed or outside. Because the child does not understand the consequences of his or her action, the fire can cause major damage.

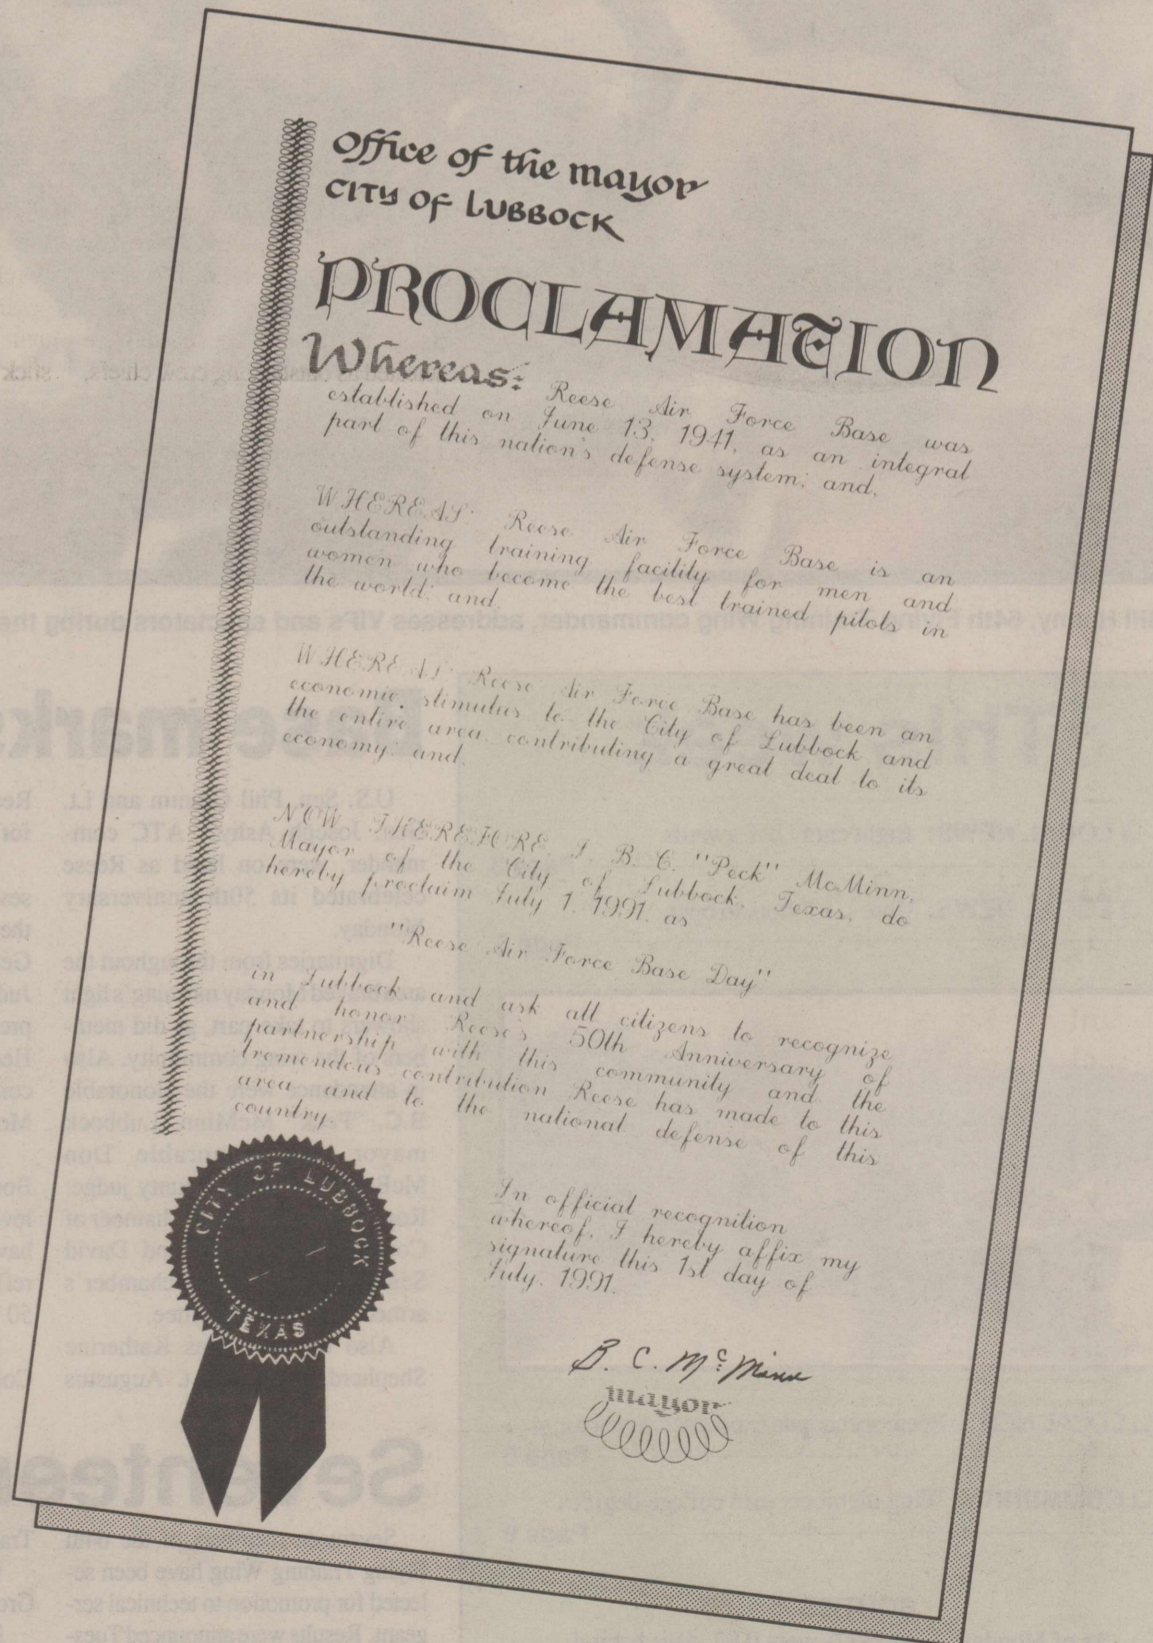

The best treatment is through positive fire safety education.

Crisis is the second type. It usually occurs with boys 5 - 10 years old. A child could be using fire as a "cry for help" to show his or her inability to cope with a sudden change of lifestyle or a traumatic incident. The child will usually set fire to someone's clothing or other possessions. Treatment is usually counseling and education.

The third type is delinquency, and usually occurs with boys and girls 10-14. Fires are set in dumpsters or in dry grass with the intention to vandalize. The fires are usually set to impress peers or out of boredom or defiance. Treatment could be restitution for damages and, again, positive education.

The fourth type is problem children. Usually 7- to 12-year-old boys with a history of school and social problems are the arsonists. Fires are usually set in or around the home. Often, there is no clear cut motivation for the firesetting. The best treatment is positive counseling and education.

The Reese Fire Department has a supply of free burn prevention literature and pamphlets available. Also, upon request, a specialized orientation is available using Sparky the friendly fireman, Matches the clown, Freddie the robot, and a host of firefighters. For more information, call the fire prevention office at 3686/6339.

Common sense, self-control focus of safety

Summer can be a deadly time of year. Since 1989, eight members of Air Training Command have died between Memorial Day and Labor Day. Fortunately, none of these were at Reese.

Common sense and self control could make this summer fatality free also. Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy, ATC commander, is urging commanders and supervisors to warn their people of dangerous summertime activities that might end in disaster.

"We must make every attempt to inform them of the risks they face and the precautions necessary to prevent regrettable, preventable mishaps," General Ashy said.

"Discipline and common sense are key to success in preventing senseless loss of life and personal injury. If our supervisors understand that leadership is a 24-hour-a-day proposition, we'll be accident free."

During the months of summer, death or injury is statistically much more likely to happen after a person leaves their duty section.

Since fiscal 1985, only four ATC members have died in ground accidents while at work, but 85 have lost their lives in off-duty accidents.

That loss of life directly impacts ATC's ability to carry out its mission. "Every member of this command is individually important to our continued mission accomplishment," General Ashy explained. "Their safety, both on and off duty, must be our primary concern."

"One of the things I've learned over the years is that the buddy system really can help. When we observe someone not using the best of judgment, we should help out — right then."

Frequently, off-duty accidents happen when people are doing something they've looked forward to all winter, explained Col. Clyde E. Ziegenhorn Jr., the director of safety in Hq. ATC's inspector general office.

"People overextend themselves. They try to do things they haven't done in a year," Colonel Ziegenhorn said. "If they'd approach off-duty activities like they do their on-duty activities, the number of mishaps would drop."

"Most mishaps are preventable," he added. "Sometimes prevention may be as simple as individual awareness."

General Ashy added that safety programs built to fit the needs of ATC's people on and off the job have the potential to save lives during the summer of '91.

The command's director of safety agreed. A package developed by ATC's safety directorate outlines summer safety topics and ideas for commanders and supervisors.

"We're encouraging ATC's safety offices to augment this package with topics relative to their base's needs," Colonel Ziegenhorn said.

Beginning in May, the supervisor's safety and zero-injury goal package has selected a monthly on-the-job and off-the-job theme. The on-the-job theme for July, for example, is noise control. July's off-the-job theme is recreation safety.

In addition to the package's monthly theme, each calendar week carries a safety message on topics that include exercising, travel safety, work-related hand injuries and child safety seats.

Officials from the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center at Norton AFB, Calif., reminded Air Force members that safety programs succeed when commanders and supervisors are actively involved at all levels.

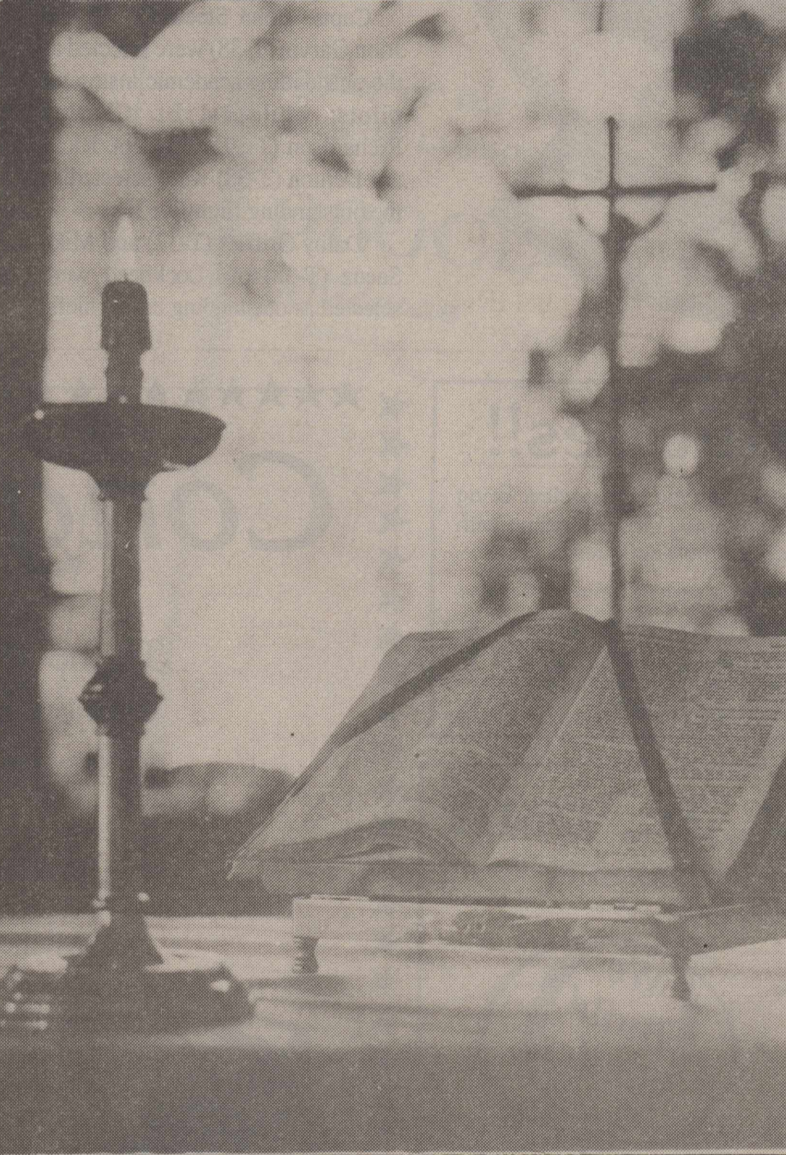

Colonel Ziegenhorn added that, with supervisor involvement, summer need not be filled with risk.

"The summer of 1991 can be a great time if safety is consciously used," he explained. "We can make this summer enjoyable and accident-free." (ATC News Service)

Mission maker

This week's mission maker is A1C Ellen Carter, 64th Services Squadron Morale Welfare and Recreation Flight. As a fitness specialist she ensures people at the fitness center are using the equipment without hurting themselves. She also helps people understand equipment and makes sure that it is taken care of.

"We make sure people take care of the equipment at the gym because if they break it, others will suffer," Airman Carter said.

The Pennsylvania native entered the Air Force in December 1989 and has been stationed at Reese since May 1990.

The airman likes the Air Force because of the traveling and the quality of people she works with on base. "I enjoy working with the people at the gym, since you never know what to expect," the 19-year-old added. "I think it's a benefit working there because I like variety and my job is never routine."

The airman enjoys exercising, jogging and weightlifting.

More UPT slots to open

ROTC commissionees and cadets recently reclassified from undergraduate pilot training slots to non-flying specialties will get a second chance at UPT, Air Force officials said.

Budget restrictions, downsizing of the military and a 25-percent reduction in aircraft caused a corresponding reduction in the training pipeline, they said. This necessitated a lower UPT production rate, leading the Air Force to reclassify many fiscal 1990, 1991 and 1992 ROTC UPT candidates waiting to start pilot training.

The Air Force will now give these reclassified officers and ca-detts a chance to enter UPT between fiscal 1991 and 1996, provided they remain physically and professionally qualified.

Air Force Military Personnel Center and Air Force ROTC officials will notify all affected officers and cadets of the policy change. They will have the opportunity to come on active duty in a variety of non-rated positions. Then, based on a schedule managed by AFMPC, they'll enter UPT if they still meet the physical requirements and have their commander's endorsement.

Those who have already separated or are in the process of separating or transferring to the Air Force

Reserve or Air National Guard will be given the chance to come on active duty and wait for a UPT slot, officials said.

The AFMPC schedule will be driven in part by the need to enter those officers into UPT by age 27.5. Consequently, some will enter training in fiscal 1991-1993, officials said. The majority, however, will start UPT between fiscal 1994 and 1996.

About one year prior to scheduled UPT entry, these officers will get a letter requesting a current flight physical and their commander's endorsement for entry into pilot training. (Air Force News Service)

"We treat residents right!"

Boy Scout Troop 548, chartered to Reese, recently returned from summer camp at Camp Post in Post, Texas.

During the six nights and seven days of the camp, the boys learned gun safety, boating/canoeing safety, first aid, wilderness survival, swimming, hiking, nature, environmental science, water conservation and more.

"I learned things and did things I didn't think I would be able to do," said Steve Crabtree, who couldn't swim before attending the camp.

Other scouts that took part in the summer camp were: Duane Cobb, Roger McDermitt, Cody Robbins, Charlie Coward, Nick Cobb and J.D. Gutierrez. The adults that took part in the camp were: MSgt. Matt Alvarez and Sgts. Mike Sisteck and Marek Czajkowski.

Of the seven scouts, four boys earned a total of nine merit badges and the other three boys advanced in rank during the camp.

At the final campfire, Cody Robbins was awarded the porpoise award for his outstanding contributions to safety as the waterfront.

Also at the campfire, two of the boys and one adult were "tapped-out" for the Order of the Arrow. The boys, Duane Cobb and Cody

Robbins, were elected from within the troop to be part of this honor group of campers. The adult, Sergeant Alvarez, was elected for his outstanding contributions to scouting.

"Scouting at Reese has a very bright future," said Sergeant Alvarez, Troop 548 scoutmaster. "The experience and knowledge the boys gain during these activities will carry on for the rest of their lives."

According to Sergeant Alvarez, several activities are scheduled for the scouts through the upcoming year, such as skiing, and repelling. They will also host a merit badge fair at Reese this fall. In addition to these activities, the scouts have planned several community service projects to help the surrounding area.

Next year, the boys will camp at Palo Duro State Park, Carlsbad Caverns, Philmont Scout Ranch and Camp Alexander in Colorado.

For more information, call Sergeant Alvarez at 885-2426 or 885-3796.

Boys 11-18 are eligible for the scouts.

Cop to retire after 22 years

A member of the 64th Security Police Squadron was scheduled to retire Wednesday after 22 years of active-duty service.

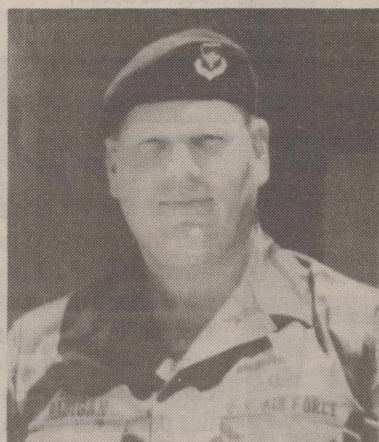

SMSgt. Thomas Madigan remembers the days when he started his career in the Air Force. "My first duty station was Truax, in Madison, Wisconsin, and it wasn't that bad," Sergeant Madigan said.

"When I was an airman, if a supervisor told you to do something you would do it without any question," he said. "Nowadays, airmen are more outspoken and don't hesitate to correct NCO's if a job can be done easier."

During his career, Sergeant Madigan was stationed in the Philippines three times and England once.

"Being stationed in the Philippines as a security policeman was hard," the sergeant said. "But it was great getting to know the area after serving three times there."

"The Air Force has come a long SMSgt. Thomas Madigan way since I was an airman," according to the sergeant. "It will continue to get better as its structure gets smaller."

Sergeant Madigan graduated from Wayland Baptist University and holds a bachelor of science degree.

He and his wife, Nita, have one daughter, AnnaLisa. The couple will make Lubbock their permanent home.
