

Seven wing members earn fifth stripe

Seven members of the 64th Flying Training Wing have been selected for promotion to staff sergeant.

Results were announced Jan. 22. The Reese selectees are:

□ Paul Chaplar, 64th Supply Squadron.

□ Douglas Crider, 64th Civil Engineering Squadron.

□ William Coleman, 64th FTW Hospital.

□ Dennis Kendall, CES.

□ Lori Roach, Hospital

□ Bernadette Turner, SUPS.

□ Craig Verhelst, SUPS.

The seven selectees came from a pool of 169 members eligible for promotion, for a local selection rate of 4.1 percent.

Throughout Air Training Command, 438 of 4,823 eligible members were selected.

The command ended up with a 9.08-percent selection rate.

Across the Air Force, 6,853 members out of 88,297 were chosen.

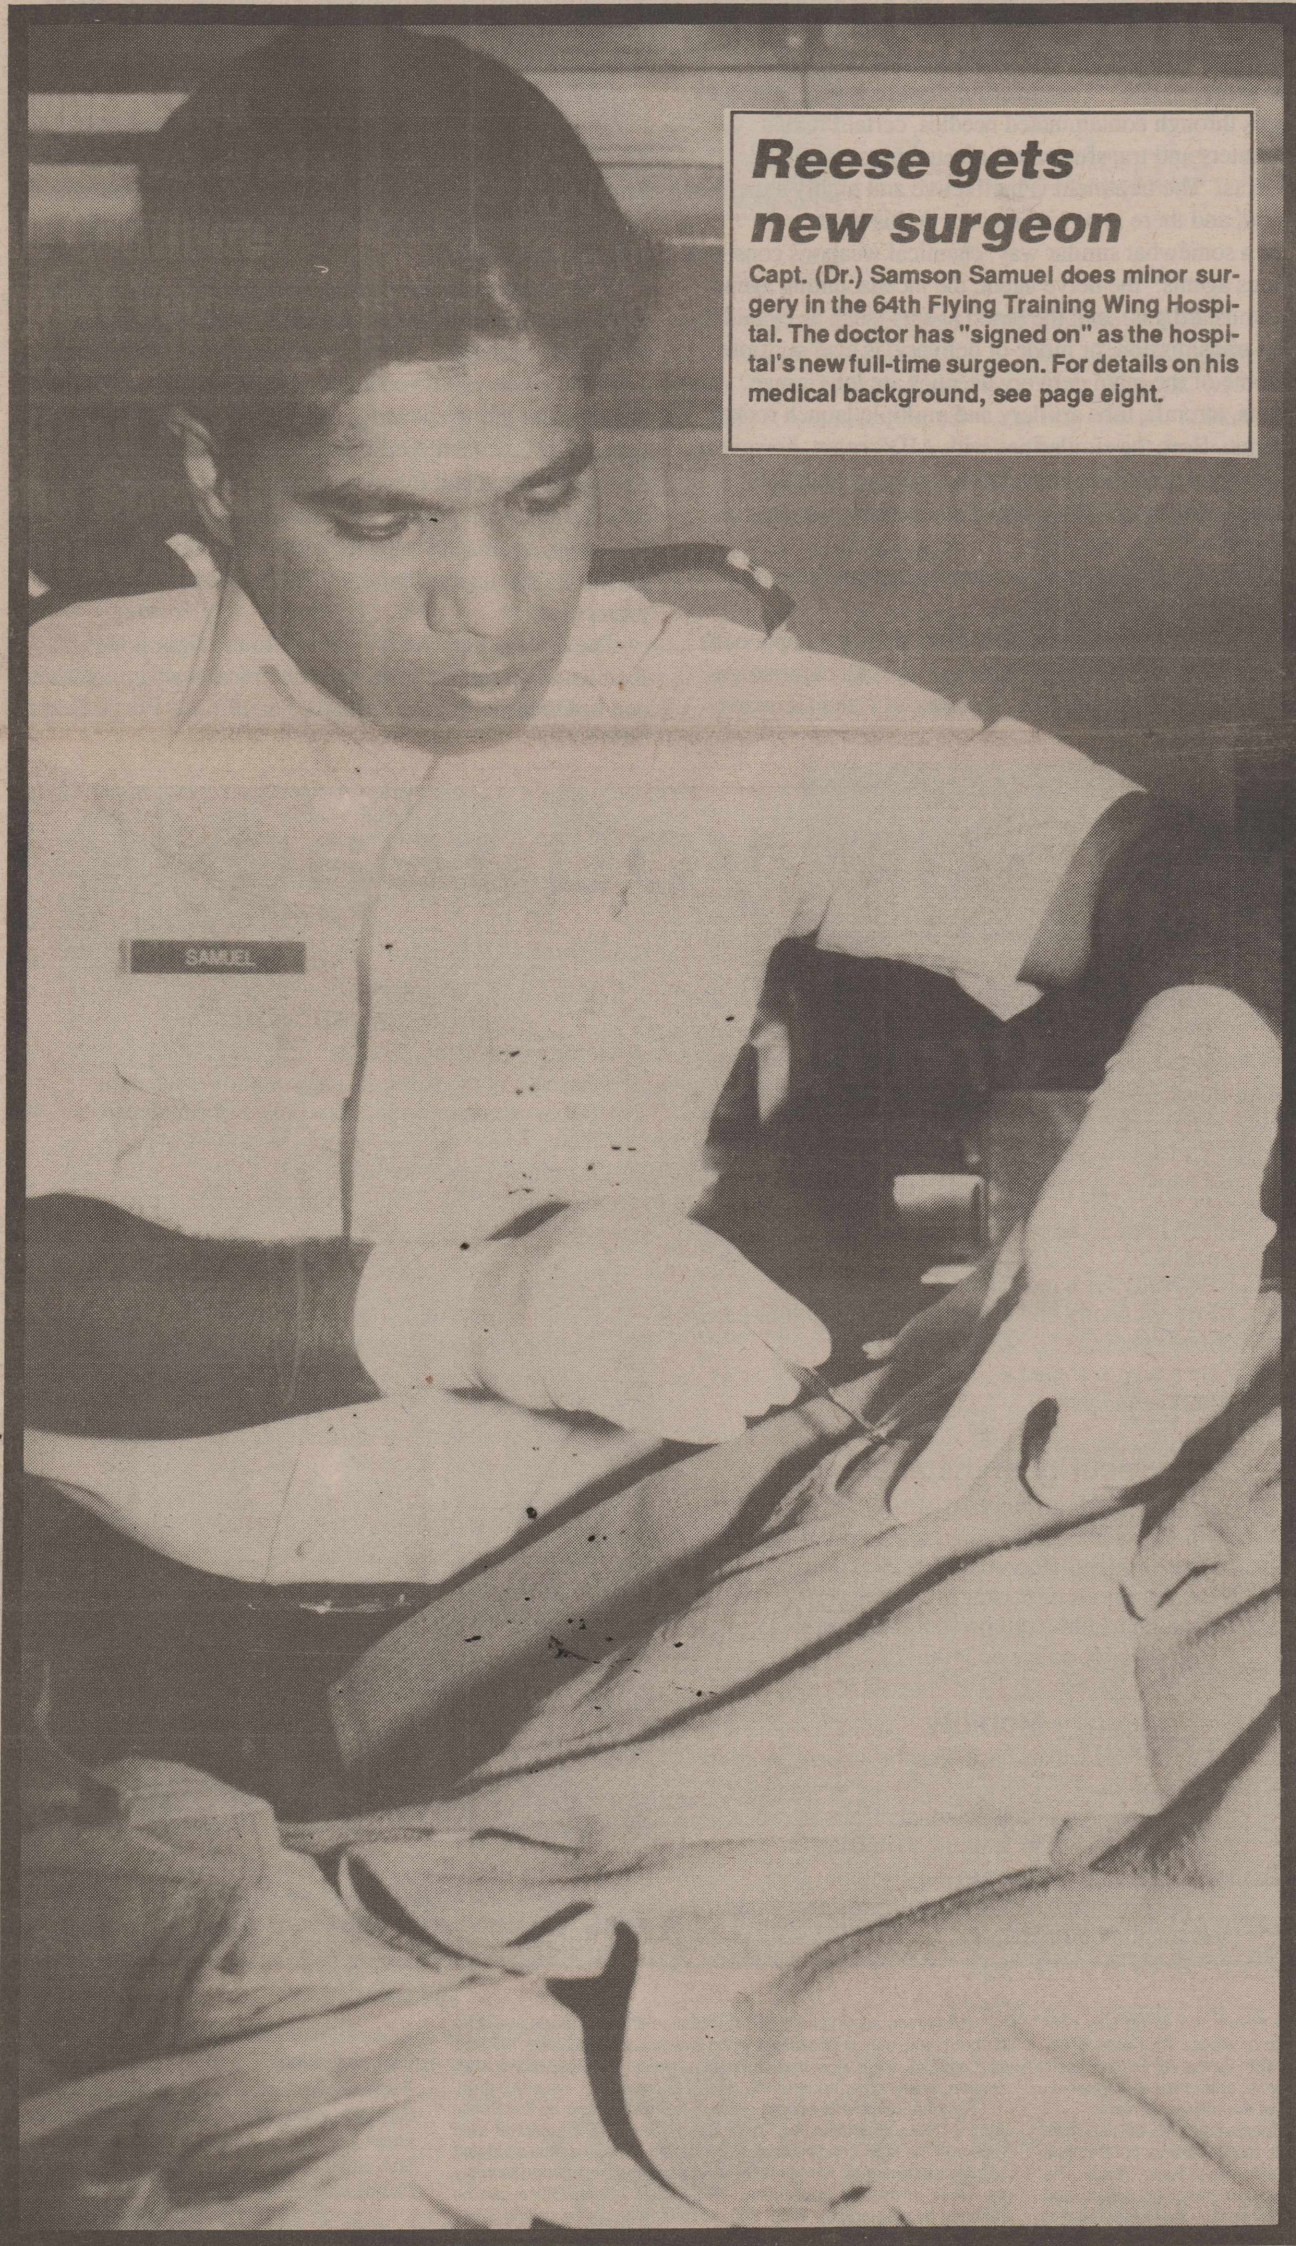

This resulted in a selection rate of 7.76 percent servicewide.

Of note

□ Reese's Boy Scout Troop 548 fell on hard times this past weekend, as an "enjoyable" field trip to the south ended on a sour note when the two vehicles they were using broke down. MSgt. Matt Alvarez, troop scoutmaster, said the result is a debt of several hundred dollars for the troop.

Any individuals or organizations who would like to donate money or who has suggestions for fund-raising projects to help the scouts should call Sergeant Alvarez at 3796 or 885-2426.

□ The Reese Honor Guard will take part in "Liberty Day," an even designed to show local support for Armed Forces members in the Middle East.

The event will be held at 10 a.m. today in Maxey Park, located at 2400 Quaker Ave. Phil Thierry, director of the Reese Family Support Center, said the event is being coordinated by Girl Scout Troop 90 from Christ the King. Part of this show of support will include tying yellow and red, white and blue ribbons around trees in the park.

In addition, Lubbock Mayor B.C. "Peck" McMinn will issue a formal proclamation on the day.

From my perspective

by Capt. Rob Huber
64th FTW Simulator Training Branch chief

Student pilots at Reese will be the first to receive flight simulator training from civilian contract instructors instead of military instructor pilots.

Plans call for Reese to be fully converted to the civilian simulator instruction concept by October. The program will provide Air Training Command with a new way to teach student pilots in the simulator.

Contract instructors will provide the same quality simulator instruction students receive from their military instructors. Nearly all contract instructors are expected to be retired military pilots with IP experience.

Program works well

The program has worked extremely well for other services and commands due to workforce stability, since contract simulator instructors tend to stay in the same place longer than military instructors. The conversion is also a key to the ATC commander's goal to reduce the IP duty day to less than 10 hours.

In addition to performing student simulator instruction duties, contract instructors will perform simulator orientation flights and student practice sorties, if the workload permits.

In order to qualify for contract simulator duty, applicants must be current in military aircraft during the previous four years or the previous six years with 11 years gate time. They must have at least 200 IP hours and 1,000 hours in military jets or turboprops. Graduates of pilot instructor training and those with previous simulator instruction experience will be sought for these positions.

Contractor selected

UNC Support Services of Annapolis, Md., was selected to provide simulator instruction at Reese. UNC is the successor to Burnside-Ott and is building on 25 years of experience.

Their programs have grown to encompass the entire spectrum of aviation services, including: pilot training, organizational, intermediate, and depot level maintenance and repair, logistics support and vendor management. Their Navy programs include T-39 pilot support for Training Wing Six at Pensacola, Fla.

In the first three years of their contract with the Air Force Fighter Lead-In Training program at Holloman AFB, N.M., they conducted more than 21,000 training events for more than 2,500 Tactical Air Command aircrew members.

'Rarin' to go'

Training of the instructor force will be done by the Pilot Qualification Branch in the 41st Flying Training Squadron. Instructors will then be certified for duty by the 64th Flying Training Wing Standardization/Evaluation Division. As the Feb. 1 start date approaches, UNC and Reese members are prepared to continue to train the highest quality pilots for today's Air Force. The commander of the 41st, Lt. Col. John DiPiero, stated that his people are "ready and rarin' to go to ensure this program becomes the benchmark for the rest of the command."

CENTAF surgeon looks at chemical threat facing troops, ways to cope with it

by Col. (Dr.) Leonard Randolph
CENTAF command surgeon

The threat of attack with chemical weapons has so occupied our minds here in the Middle East that it has been my observation that we have become inordinately concerned. Indeed, chemical weapons are inherently dangerous and can be incapacitating or even fatal. But so can a loaded gun.

Why does it appear that we fear chemical attack more than an attack with conventional weapons? I think I may know why, but first let me present you with a contrast that may illustrate my point even before I make it.

Let me talk first about something most of us know a little about...AIDS. This dreadful disease is transmitted by a virus through contaminated needles, certain sexual encounters and transfusion of infected blood or blood products. The treatment is ineffective and highly experimental, and there is no known cure at this time.

In a somewhat similar way, chemical weapons consist of various agents: the nerve agent, the incapacitating agents (like mustard gas), and the blood agents (such as cyanide). Their transmission, or mode of delivery, is also multiple.

Some of the main delivery avenues are long-range rockets, aircraft, tube artillery and multiple launch rocket systems. Here the similarities with AIDS cease, however. You see, treatment for exposure to chemical agents is generally highly effective, and there is a very successful cure rate.

That's right! Exposure to chemical agents is not the beginning of the end.

Chemical weapons were first used against an opponent in 1915 when the Germans filled the air with chlorine gas as they attacked the French. Then in 1917, the Germans again, this time against the British, used a mustard agent. So you see, chemical weapons are not new, and we've learned a great deal since 1915.

Dr. Ronald Gleadle, a British physician, has said "a chemical agent casualty is usually the result of bad training, bad discipline, or bad luck." I fully concur with that.

Disaster preparedness people have prepared the troops to survive a chemical attack. All the training done becomes very important today. If we will simply do what we've learned, we'll be fine. The treatment of nerve agent poisoning is highly effective, particularly if protective measures are used promptly. Mustard casualties are very similar to burn patients, and burn treatment is also highly successful. It is not the end of the world just because chemicals are being used. We can handle it.

Still not convinced? Read further.

The death rate for patients who definitely have AIDS is 100 percent. Now that's the end of someone's world. Since the very beginning of chemical warfare employment in 1915 to the present day, fewer than 5 percent of the casualties have died.

That means that for seventy-five years, 95 percent or more of people exposed to chemical weapons have survived that exposure.

Now, what would you guess is the protective effectiveness of your gas mask and ground crew ensemble? If you guessed 100 percent, you'd be absolutely correct. Wear of a properly fitted and functioning gas mask with good filters and a fresh ground crew ensemble gives full protection against all known chemical agents. Granted, the stuff is a little uncomfortable to wear, but it's extremely protective.

The bottom line is this — if we do the right things, there is no reason for us to have chemical warfare fatalities and little reason to have casualties at all. (Air Force News Service)

IG: Are you ready?

To help everyone know what is expected of them during the coming inspection, the following checklist has been provided by the Base Exercise Evaluation Team. It can help each of us in being aware of our responsibilities and help us to be prepared at all times. Why not post these inspection areas for ready reference?

Attack response

- Don't tip our hand — be COMSEC and OPSEC wise!
- Be ready for a recall.
- Professionally and effectively execute your part of our plans.
- Be ready to shelter.
- Follow guidance.

Security of installation

(unauthorized entry)

- Challenge any suspicious or unfamiliar person.
- Ask for identification and check closely.
- Be suspicious of packages.
- Detain unauthorized personnel if safe to do so.
- Call security police at 3400.

Mobility

- Be ready to depart base on short notice for up to six months.
- Keep your Air Force personal affairs in order.
- Don't wait until processing to update.
- When recalled, report to duty without delay.
- Wear fatigues/battle dress uniforms and bring personal mobility bag(s).

Think COMSEC.

Mission support

- Major accident response:
  - Assist if at the scene — use common sense.
  - Report situation to security police or fire department.
  - If required, clear the area.
  - Do whatever is asked — runner, traffic guard or part of a cordon.

- Robbery:
  - Avoid actions which would endanger life.
  - Activate duress alarm or call SPs at 3400.
  - Get a good description, include direction of travel, and make a note.
  - Preserve evidence at the crime scene.

- Hostage:
  - Report facts to security police.
  - Isolate area if safe to do so.
  - Keep out of area and keep others out.
  - Assist when required.

Keys to success

- Know what to do.
- Play it real — and act immediately.
- Look sharp and be professional.
- A positive attitude wins! Be ready and be proud to show it.

Questions regarding preparation for the inspection should be referred to the BEET at 6313.

Conference period set with IG

A personal conference period with the Air Training Command inspector general has been set for 1:30 p.m. Feb. 5 in Room 130A of the Reese Consolidated Base Personnel Office.

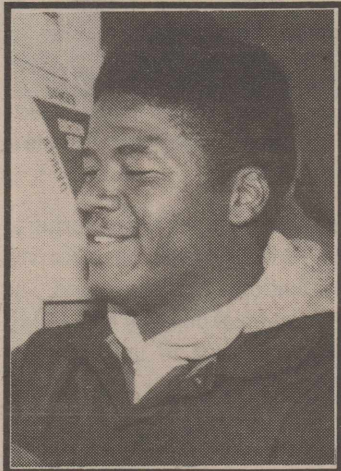

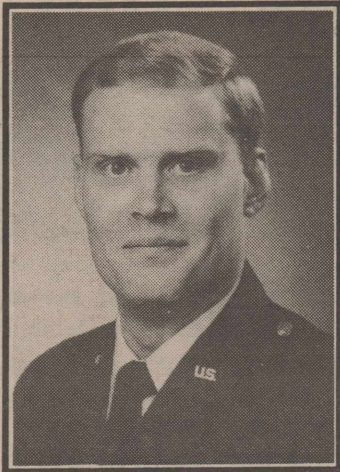

This opportunity is open to all members, military or civilian, active-duty or retired. Special permission or appointments are not necessary. However, individuals should have their complaints/problems written on a piece of paper or on a prepared Air Force Form 1482, "IG Action Request," prior to meeting with the IG representative.

This opportunity is also open to all members to report fraud, waste and/or abuse of government property.

Complaints on subjects listed in Air Force Regulation 123-11, Attachment 1, must be processed under the applicable directive and may not be taken care of through the IG complaint system.

All disclosures during the personal conference will be held in confidence except to the extent necessary for corrective action.

Members unable to attend the period who would like to speak with the representative should call the ATC/IG work center at 3537 to set up an appointment.

IPs, students, others earn UPT accolades

Eight permanent-party wing members received recognition for their work with Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 91-04 during graduation ceremonies Jan. 18 in the Simler Theater.

First Lt. Todd Klevgard (T-37) and Capt. Michael Mason (T-38) were selected as the outstanding academic instructor pilots; while 1st Lt. Charley Richardson (T-37) and 1st Lt. Dennis Wolf (T-38) were selected as the outstanding flightline IPs.

Royce Jimenez (T-37) and Tony Oliver (T-38) of Lockheed were selected as outstanding crew chiefs.

SSgt. Cheryl Gordon, 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital, was selected as the outstanding mission maker.

During the graduation ceremony, seven of the graduates were presented awards for their performance during the year of training.

Second Lt. Chad Crawford won the Commander's Trophy, signifying the class's top graduate. He also was selected as a distinguished graduate, and received the flying training ("top stick") award.

Second Lt. William Blood and 2nd Lt.

Steven Robertson were also selected as distinguished graduates.

The academics award for the class was earned by both Capt. Ricky Carver and 2nd Lt. David Sampson. Captain Carver also captured the leadership award.

Second Lt. James Hudgens was awarded the citizenship award, while 2nd Lt. David Scott was chosen as the class's outstanding second lieutenant.

PME opportunities "not reduced" by review

An Air Force panel's review of the professional military education program for enlisted people has not reduced opportunities for PME, but is keeping it more in line with the reduced force structure, Air Force officials said.

"Opportunities to attend PME aren't reduced, but we have scoped the recommendations to be responsive to the reductions in the enlisted population," said CMSgt. Tom Nurre, chief of Air Force NCO PME.

At the same time, the Air Force will maintain the prerequisites and standards already set for attending and graduating from NCO PME courses.

At the Reese PME Center, eight courses are held each year. They include four NCO Preparatory Courses and four NCO Leadership School classes, through which about 160 people from Reese and the surrounding region attend, according to SMSgt. J.T. Washington, center commandant.

Earlier last year, the Air Force NCO PME Review Panel developed a number of recommendations for changes or updates to existing programs. Eight recommendations were approved by the chief of staff. They were:

- Establish annual selection rates for attendance at NCOLS and NCO Academy as 23 percent and 20 percent of the eligibles, respectively.
- Establish time-in-service caps as part of eligibility criteria for NCOLS and NCOA attendance.

(Sgt. Kimberly Nelson)

One of the Noncommissioned Officer Leadership School classes in the Reese Professional Military Education Center during 1990 stands in formation.

- Require eligible senior airmen to attend the NCO preparatory course prior to overseas permanent-change-of-station travel.
- Discontinue NCOLS and NCOA overseas travel teams.
- Develop new manpower standards for the NCOPLC, NCOLS and NCOA.
- Expand and centralize PME curriculum development responsibility and capability at Air University.
- Standardize teaching practicums for PME faculties worldwide.
- Align NCO PME with the three-tiered enlisted force.

The recommendation for restructuring to a three-tiered PME program has received considerable attention, Chief Nurre said. The existing four-level breakdown in NCO PME might be best condensed in the future by revamping the first three levels into two new courses.

"Starting with the NCO preparatory course, we would like to make it longer and stronger in performance-related skills," the chief said. "The strategy might be to take a week or two of the curriculum from the current leadership school and build them into the present prep course."

The new course would be made available to senior airmen and sergeants and probably will be called leadership school. Remaining NCOLS would be restructured within existing NCO Academy requirements, and be made available for staff sergeants and technical sergeants.

The Senior NCO Academy is already geared for the top-three enlisted grades.

"We want to be very careful that it doesn't appear we're doing away with the prep course," Chief Nurre said. "We feel strongly that NCOPLC is very valuable and should be delivered at the right time. Right now, it's just not long enough."

Four of the recommendations were implemented immediately with specific effective dates by changing AFR 53-39, NCO Professional Military Education. Mandatory NCOPLC attendance and the discontinued PME travel team initiatives are effective now; capped selection rates and time-in-service eligibility requirements are effective starting in fiscal 1992; and the manpower study, centralized curriculum and standardized teaching practicum should be ready by the beginning of fiscal 1992.

The remaining initiative, restructuring NCO PME into a three-tier system, will require a little more time and coordination, Chief Nurre said. He estimates implementation in fiscal 1993. (Air Force News Service)

Desert Storm going well, DOD says

As the number of U.S. and allied air forces missions flown closed in on the 10,000 mark for Operation Desert Storm, 80 percent of the combat missions were successful in delivering their weapons, the Pentagon said Monday.

The allies are averaging about 2,000 flying missions a day since the start of the war Jan. 17, but that figure includes both support and combat missions, U.S. Central Command officials said.

American, British, Italian, Kuwaiti, French and other aircraft allied in Desert Storm continued their sixth day of massive bombings and attacks on Baghdad and other strategic Iraqi targets Tuesday, in the largest show of force since the Vietnam War.

Because of several days of bad weather over enemy territory, however, the military's ability is limited in measuring completely what effect the bombings have had, said Army Lt. Gen. Thomas Kelly, director of operations for the Joint Staff.

"Some weapon systems, as you know, are not as affected by weather as other weapon systems are," General Kelly said Monday at the daily Pentagon press briefing.

"But as I say, and everybody involved in the campaign has said so far, we are satisfied with the progress we're making within the parameters that we have to measure that progress right now."

Defense officials said the 80 percent figure is something pilots can establish with a high degree of certainty.

"The pilot has a fairly good idea of whether, in fact, that specific bomb was delivered on that specific target, or whether he never even pressed the button because as it came into his sights, he wasn't confident about it or something didn't seem right, so he returned with his ordnance," Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said.

"Did he drop it or not? Did it land on the target? That we can tell with a fairly high degree of certainty."

The stream of bomb-laden jets that attacked Iraq began when American and allied aircraft dropped their first bombs on key military targets in and around Baghdad in the early morning hours of Jan. 17.

During the initial hours of the raids, American F-117 stealth fighters and F-111s, using precision, laser-guided weapons, knocked out Iraqi SCUD missile storage sites, air defense facilities and the headquarters for Iraq's air force.

Little Iraqi retaliation and relatively few coalition casualties were noted in the first days of the operation, given the size of the force and frequency of attacks. Currently, there are more than 472,000 American men and women in the Persian Gulf.

Allied airmen have also flown into enemy territory and consciously gone after and disabled their airfields, limiting Iraq's ability to launch aircraft, Secretary Cheney said in a television interview Sunday.

"We'll go back subsequently and try to destroy the aircraft. In other cases, when they've launched aircraft who have gone up against our allied forces, in those engagements, they've always lost."

Overall aircraft operations in Desert Storm continue with relentless bombing of key Iraqi targets by F-15E, F-111, F-117 stealth aircraft and B-52 bombers.

Unopposed, B-52s and other strike planes carpet bombed Iraq's elite Republican Guard, exposed in their fixed positions in the open desert.

Coalition aircraft were protected from Iraqi interceptors by Air Force F-15 Eagles and F-16 Fighting Falcons, and Navy F-14 Tomcats and the Marines FA-18 Hornets.

In an address to the nation hours after Desert Storm commenced, President Bush vowed the Gulf conflict would not be a repetition of the Vietnam War, saying military commanders have been instructed to minimize American casualties and pledging that U.S. forces would not fight "with one hand tied behind their back."

In other Desert Storm news, enlisted people serving in Middle East areas designated as combat zones will not have to pay federal income taxes on military pay while they are assigned to these areas, the White House said Monday.

Commissioned officers in the Gulf region will receive a $500 a month tax exemption from their military pay.

The stoppage of tax withholding is immediate as of Jan. 17, and people will see this change to federal tax withholding in their next pay check, said Navy Cmdr. Patrick Kusiak, chairman of the armed services tax council for the Department of Defense.

The president signed the order designating the Arabian Peninsula, airspace above and adjacent waters as combat zones. Specific areas include the total land area of Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Kuwait, Oman, Bahrain, Qatar, and the United Arab Emirates; the Persian Gulf; the Red Sea; the Gulf of Oman; and the Gulf of Aden.

In addition, all military people will now have up to 180 days after leaving the region to file their 1990 tax return. The extension also applies to spouses of people serving in the Persian Gulf, Commander Kusiak said.

Although civilians serving in the combat zone are not exempt from paying federal taxes by this order, they will also receive the same extension granted to military people — of at least 180 days after they depart the region — to file their 1990 tax returns.

Most states will be following the federal guidelines for tax exemptions and the 180-day extension, Commander Kusiak said. (Air Force News Service)

Notes

Texas skills test planned

The Texas Academic Skills Program pre-test will be offered Tuesday and Wednesday by South Plains College. People who did not complete a college class before Sept. 1, 1989 will have to pass the test before completing nine hours at any school supported by Texas.

For details, call the college at 3048.

OWC plans dinner theater

A dinner theater will be held Feb. 9 in the Reese Officers' Open Mess. Sponsored by the Officers' Wives Club, the evening will begin at 6:30 with a social; dinner will be at 7, and will include chicken breast, rice and broccoli.

The Texas Tech Theater will perform "Laundry and Bourbon." The event costs $10 per person, and is open to all OWC members and their guests. R.S.V.P. by Feb. 4; points of contact are listed in the February issue of the OWC "Breeze."

Vet offers winter care tips

The harsh winter weather that Reese has experienced of late can pose a hazard for pets. Capt. (Dr.) Kimberly Orr, Reese veterinarian, offers the following tips for care:

□ Like humans, pets can suffer frostbite. Dr. Orr reminded pet owners that temperatures of 15-20 degrees can be sent below zero by the wind chill factor.

□ Even pets without adequate outdoor shelter can be affected. Pets can dehydrate if their water is allowed to freeze over.

□ A pet's food intake will increase in winter, as it needs more energy to maintain normal body temperature.

□ If the temperature is below freezing, never leave a pet outdoors without shelter for more than a few minutes.

□ People who "winterize" their cars should clean up any spilled antifreeze — it's toxic to dogs and cats.

Dr. Orr added that any cases of suspected animal neglect should be reported to security police. For more information on pet care, call veterinary services at 3535.

Property shipments slowing

A worldwide slowdown of overseas personal property shipments is being felt, according to the Reese Traffic Management Office, due in part to Operation Desert Storm. Other factors have contributed as well.

TMO officials said they understand the inconvenience and hardship that unexpected delays can cause, and they are working to speed up backlogged shipments. They added that every effort will be made to ensure timely shipment. For details, call 3838/3944.

English classes available

People interested in taking English (as a second language) classes should call Margaret Ramey, Reese Family Support Center, at 6494.

Notary service available

Notary service is available weekdays in several places on base, according to the Reese Legal Office. The places are (extensions are in parenthesis):

□ 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital Patient Affairs Office (3521) from 10-11 a.m. and 2-3 p.m.

□ Reese Comptroller Division (3518) from 8-10 a.m.

□ Reese Housing Management Office (3913) from 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

□ 54th Flying Training Squadron Orderly Room (3544) from 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

□ Legal office (3505) from 10 a.m. to noon and 2-4 p.m.

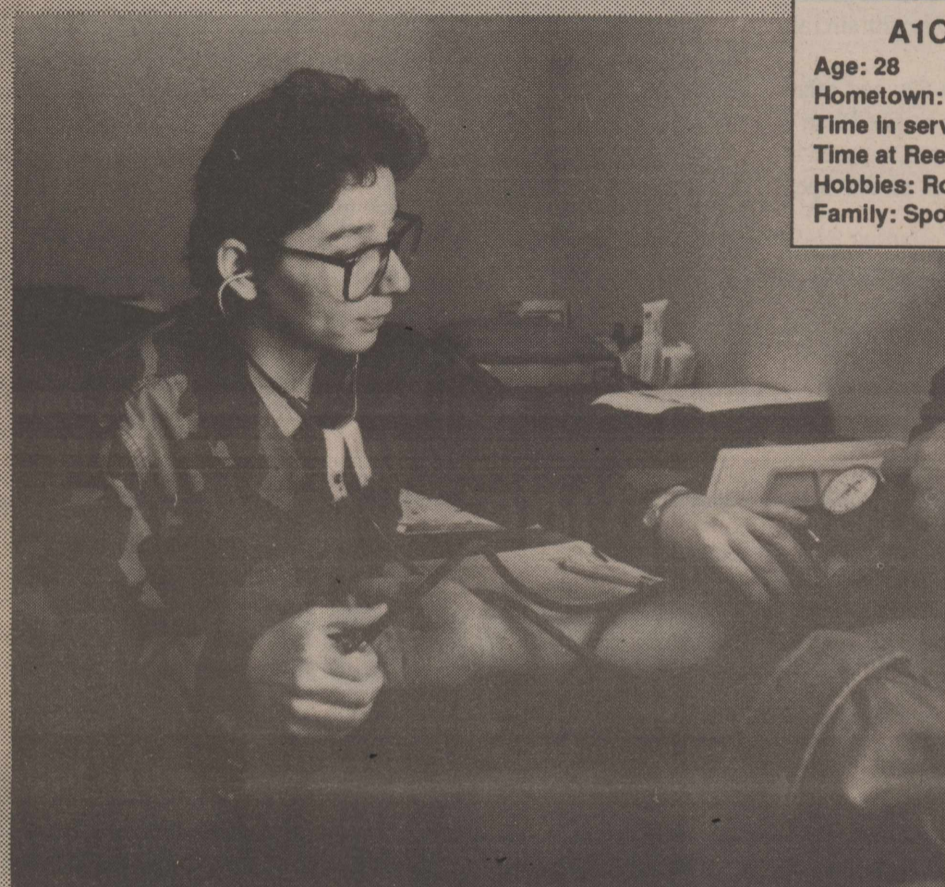

The base bank and credit union also offer this service free to their members.

Chapel plans events

The Reese Chapel has two events planned in coming weeks.

A Bethel Bible study series to familiarize people with the different literary media used by Biblical writers to convey their messages will be held at 7 p.m. Feb. 4. The series will deal with Hebrew and western thinking, biblical messages and their historical context, and interpretation of scripture. Call Chaplain (Capt.) Millard Timmons at 3237.

In addition, a singles ski trip will be held March 21-24 at Snow Mountain Ranch as part of an intercommand singles leadership conference. Participants will have a chance to ski and to see Olympic hopefuls hit the slopes. Retreat sessions will be held mornings and late evenings. For reservations, call Chaplain (Maj.) Aaron Ray at 3237 by Feb. 11.

Uniforms

Air Force Board implements changes to AFR 35-10

Approval to wear the polyester and wool lightweight blue jacket on commercial transportation is just one of the dress and appearance policy changes approved by the Air Force chief of staff at the 88th Air Force Uniform Board.

Results of the board are effective immediately, according to the Reese Personal Affairs Office.

Other recommendations approved by Gen. Merrill McPeak include:

□ Authorize chrome studs and cuff links for men's mess dress uniforms. Air Force Regulation 35-10 will be revised to say chrome-finished or satin-finished badges, cuff links and studs will be worn together as a set. Mixing of chrome and satin finish won't be authorized.

□ Change the parachutist badge designation from a mandatory aerospace badge to an optional badge. The badge can be worn at the member's option and it will provide an alternative to other specialty qualification badges. The current restriction on the number of badges that may be worn at one time remains in effect.

□ Reword AFR 35-10 to authorize commands to determine acceptable off-base wear of flight clothing.

□ Authorize qualifying people with a 275X0 specialty code to temporarily wear the Army pathfinder badge while assigned to Army units.

□ Let women use a patent leather or high-gloss material purse with any authorized footwear, as long as it does not exceed 13 by 9 inches by 4.5 inches deep.

□ Give major command commanders the option to let people wear a black or brown turtleneck T-shirt with utility uniforms.

□ The cotton poplin lightweight blue jacket will be phased out Sept. 30.

□ Only green or brown undershirts are authorized for wear with battle dress uniforms.

□ The women's semi-box service dress coat will be phased out March 31.

□ People may wear a name tag on their ceremonial dress uniform at functions where they need to be identified in their official capacity.

□ Men may wear the blue knit tie.

Several new women's clothing items are scheduled for wear testing, such as two styles of optional tuck-in blouses without pockets (a neck button vs. elastic closure will be included in the test); two styles of skirts that will feature side pockets, front pleats and rear kick pleats; and two styles of maternity jumpers, which will be wear tested at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, so the clothing branch can monitor how suitable the garment is throughout the person's pregnancy. (Air Force News Service)

Tax assistance available on base

People who need assistance in preparing their taxes should contact their unit tax representative. These representatives were briefed by the Internal Revenue Service, which conducted a tax forms preparation course for the representatives Jan. 3-4 on base.

People whose organization does not have an assigned representative can call the Reese Legal Office at 3505 for assistance.

Wing hospital gets full-time surgeon

by Sgt. Kimberly Nelson
assistant editor

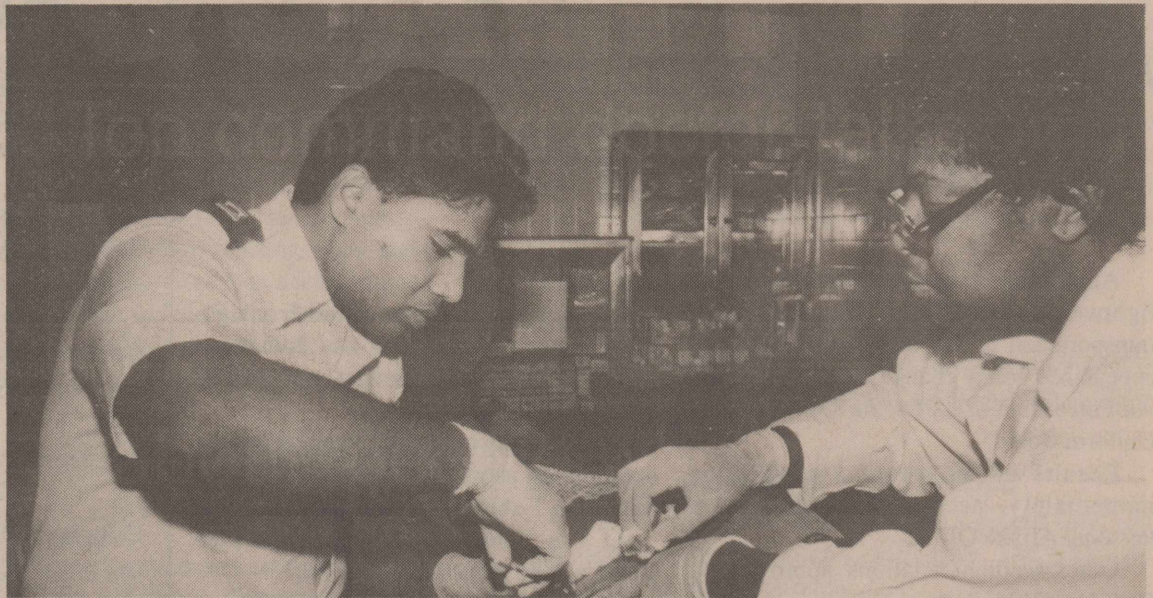

After being without one for over four years, the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital recently acquired a full-time surgeon. Capt. (Dr.) Samson Samuel came from the University of Health Sciences, Chicago Medical School, where he served his residency as the chief resident and clinical instructor in the department of surgery.

Captain Samuel began studying the medical profession in 1970, when he attended the Government Medical College at Karnatak University in Bellary, India, where he was born. After graduation in 1975, he stayed in Bellary and began his internship at the college hospital. In 1976, he began his residency in general surgery at Holdsworth Memorial Hospital in Mysore in southern India. He later worked as a clinical instructor in surgical anatomy at Kasturba Medical College in Mangalore.

He then moved to the United States, where he started a research fellowship in intraoperative ultrasonography at the University of Illinois Medical Center Department of Surgery and at Cook County Hospital in Chicago. He began his internship and residency in general surgery at Mount Sinai Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago.

He also worked at the University of Chicago, the Chicago Veterans Administration Medical Center and the Great Lakes Navy Hospital. He also worked in pediatric surgery at a children's hospital in Toronto.

(Sgt. Greg Spraggins)

Capt. (Dr.) Samson Samuel and Bobbie Powlett perform minor surgery Jan. 14 in the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital.

ENERGY ENERGY ENERGY

Year-round energy savers for the kitchen

- Use cold water, not hot, to operate your food disposal unit.
- Never boil water in an open pan – a closed space uses less energy.
- Match your pan size to the heating element.
- Turn off electric heating elements before food is done, since electric grill will remain hot for awhile.

QUALITY MEDICAL SERVICE

Top command doctor talks about 'people who care'

Air Training Command families receive high-quality health care that often exceeds national standards.

Promoting the motto, "ATC Medics are People Who Care," Maj. Gen. (Dr.) Vernon Chong said the quality of medical care in ATC is confirmed by independent civilian evaluators.

General Chong, the ATC deputy chief of staff for medical services and training and the command surgeon, called ATC medical services a "highly sophisticated medical operation." ATC's 16 treatment facilities include small clinics and the largest hospital in the Air Force. Approximately one-sixth of the Air Force's medical manpower is assigned to ATC.

"On any given day, we see about 10,000 outpatients, fill 21,500 prescriptions, perform 143,000 lab procedures and have 39 percent of the occupied hospital beds in the Air Force," General Chong said.

The scope of ATC's medical care is extensive. The general noted the command provides the gamut of health care, from simple treatments to complex surgical procedures.

Because ATC medical care is so extensive, civilian medical professionals routinely scrutinize the command's level of health care, he added. A panel, called the Civilian External Peer Group, found incidents of substandard care in ATC were the lowest of all Air Force major commands.

During a recent evaluation, the group found obstetrical care among the command's treatment facilities exceeded national standards despite a large number of high-risk pregnancies.

While the quality of health care in the command is among the highest in the Department of Defense, access to certain medical specialties may be limited, the general noted.

"We do not have the number of physicians and support staff we would like at many ATC facilities," General Chong explained. "However, based on the number of people we do have, ATC medics serve our patients very well." The accessibility of medical care in the command is based on the number of specialists available in a particular field.

There are several programs designed to improve accessibility to health care and ease the financial burden for military members and their families using civilian medical facilities.

The internal partnership program provides civilian physicians space in a military medical treatment facility, General Chong said.

The physicians agree to accept a reduced percent of the CHAMPUS reimbursable rate in payment. This program avoids any out-of-pocket expense for military families, he explained. There are 23 physicians who work in the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital under this program.

Military families can also visit a physician's off-base office for medical care through the health care finders program. General Chong said civilian physicians must agree to charge an amount less than the CHAMPUS reimbursable rate.

"We feel we can provide high-quality, responsive health care to our ATC families at a much lower cost to the Air Force and to our people," General Chong said. "ATC hospitals and clinics are yours, and we want you to have the best." (ATC News Service)

Black History Month

Events set at Reese to mark observance

This year's theme for Black History Month in February is "Living the Dream, Let Freedom Reign for Peace and Nonviolence".

All wing members are invited to attend the following events set for the month. All events are sponsored by the Black History Month committee:

☐ Soul food tasting luncheon will be held from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Feb. 1 at Reese Manor. For more information, contact Sgt. Annette Lyons at 3155.

☐ Hot shot and free throw shooting contests are being held from 11 a.m. Feb. 2 at the Reese Physical Fitness Center. Cost is $3 for one event and $5 for both events. First, second, and third place trophies will be awarded in each event. For more information, contact Sgt. Michael Barnett at 3482.

☐ A gospel jubilee is being held at 3 p.m. Feb. 3 at the base chapel. Everyone is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served immediately following the event. For more information, contact Capt. Sandra King at 3179.

☐ A black history month dinner will begin at 7 p.m. Feb. 16 at the Officer Open Mess. Cost is $10.30 per person. Everyone is invited. For more information, contact 1st Lt. Cleve Turk at 3851.

☐ A 5-kilometer fun run will be held at noon Feb. 20 at the fitness center. Cost is $5 per person and T-shirts will be given to participants. For more information, contact Sgt. Michael Barnett at 3482.

☐ A Fashion show will be held at 7 p.m. Feb 23 at the Simler Theater. The theme will be "Attitudes" and will showcase professional models and a special appearance by Miss Lubbock Tamera Petrash. Cost is $5 per person.

If anyone is interested in volunteering, contact either 1st Lt. Jeffrey Crain at 3873 or 1st Lt. Cleve Turk at 3851.

"GOOD FOOD FROM GOOD PEOPLE" IS MORE THAN JUST A SLOGAN

It is a way of life for all the people who work together. Luby's is recognized today as the "best cafeteria anyplace." Our training programs offer career opportunities for people in your community. We provide the highest quality food and service possible, at a reasonable price, in pleasant surroundings. And we do it every day.

IT ALL STARTED IN 1947

A concept of "morning fresh" vegetables, large variety of entrees, crisp salads, "fresh baked" pies, desserts, and breads, all prepared from "scratch," on premise, still remains Luby's foundation for success. This year we will serve more than 60 million meals.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

From suggestions for your meal, to assistance with your tray, and including friendly and attentive dining room service, we take pride in helping make your lunch or dinner a very pleasant experience.

HOW MUCH VARIETY?

It's all yours at Luby's. A typical Luby's lunch or dinner menu includes a choice of 12 to 14 delightful entrees, 12 to 15 fabulous vegetables, over 20 chilled salads, a variety of fresh baked breads, and 22 tempting desserts. Nearly all foods are purchased locally and all are prepared fresh, on-site, every day.

SET UP A BREAKFAST MEETING

Although not a regular feature of Luby's, breakfast can be served. Contact the manager for further details.

IM basketball season rolls on at Reese

As of Wednesday morning, Resource Management increased their lead in the National League after the 41st Flying Training Squadron and 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital lost.

Meanwhile in the American League, the 54th Flying Training Squadron "A" team remained undefeated at 9-0. The 33rd FTS remained alive in the hunt for first with victories that improved their record to 8-3.

League action Tuesday included:

□ 33rd Flying Training Squadron, 55 — 64th Mission Support Squadron, 38. David Rogelstad and James Grandy combined for 31 points as the 33rd got the victory. MSS got a good performance from Tony Friday (10 points).

□ 52nd FTS "A", 69 — Lockheed, 60. William Michell scored 20 points and Mark Slimko scored 19 as the 52nd "A" got a good scare from Lockheed. Lockheed had a great effort put in by James Lee (18 points).

□ 54th FTS "A", 70 — 54th FTS "B," 50. In a battle between squadron teams, "A" proved to "B" team who was the better that evening. "A" player Kirk Willburger scored 26 points. "B" players Richard Denton and James Hudgens combined for 19 points in a great effort.

□ 35th FTS, 45 — 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, 22. The 35th improved its league standing by beating CES. Dave Carter of the 35th team and CES's Christopher Crain each scored 10 points to tie for high-scoring honors.

Resource Managements' Terry Reiley (4) works the boards in an intramural match.
