

Friona Chieftain Band seniors presented director Chris Rackley (center) with a cooler and "Dr. Peppers for life" at the band concert last Tuesday evening.

Friona will receive $62,715.57 tax allocation payment for May 2023

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar announced that he will send cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose districts $1.2 billion in local sales tax allocations for the month of May. The total amount is a 4.3 percent increase over the total allocations sent out in May 2022.

Cities will receive $786.1 million, transit systems will get $256.0 million, counties will get $76.1 million, and special purpose districts will receive $114.7 million. These allocations are based on sales made in March by businesses that report tax monthly and sales made in January, February and March by quarterly filers.

The City of Friona will receive $62,715.57 in sales tax allocation for the month of May. This payment is a 25.65 percent decrease from the $84,362.16 received in April of 2022. For year-to-date 2023, Friona has received $280,371.14 which is a 19.27 percent decrease from the YTD amount of $347,324.95 received in 2022. The Friona Economic Development Corporation (FEDC) will receive $15,678.89 of the allocation for its operating budget.

Friona FFA members attended the Littlefield District FFA Banquet last week. The chapter received several banners from the LDE and CDE season. Dieter Ally finished his term as District Vice President and Aubrey Schueler was selected as the 2023-2024 Littlefield District Sentinel. Emma Schueler will move on to the area level in a scholarship interview. The FFA Chapter Banquet is next Tuesday and photos from that event will be featured in the June 2nd edition of the Friona Star.

Mayor's Minutes

By Greg Lewellen

This week is National Police Week, part of a proclamation in 1962 by President John F. Kennedy to honor those officers that paid the ultimate sacrifice and designating May 15th as Peace Officers Memorial Day. I would like to take the opportunity to highlight and honor our local police officers for their tireless efforts to maintain safety and order in our community. On the point of Peace Officers Memorial Day, I would ask the community to remember the sacrifice of Officer Jose Arturo Herrera, who was killed in the line of duty on April 14, 2003, twenty years ago this past month. Officer Herrera was killed when his patrol car was intentionally rammed by a vehicle being chased by other officers. His sacrifice for the safety of his community will be continually remembered through the memorial that stands outside the Friona Police Department. Our current police department is headed by Chief Isidro Jimenez, and includes Lieutenant Andrew Aguirre, Jesus San Miguel, Pedro Sanchez, and Bobby Martinez. Bobby also serves as a sheriff's deputy for Parmer County and works part time helping our two full time officers, Isidro and Andrew. Desiree Rangel is our Dispatch Supervisor that supervises a staff of four dispatchers. Chief Jimenez and all the staff work tirelessly to keep our community safe, please take a moment to thank them if you get an opportunity.

Throughout the next few months, as we begin work on our city's budget for the year that will begin in October, I will share details regarding the budget and highlight each department's contribution to the city. This month, because of the week in which this article is published, I will start with the police department. The City's total adopted budget for the current fiscal year that ends September 30th is $5,032,626. The police department's budget for this year is $780,190, representing 15% of the total budget. Personnel expenses for the police department are currently budgeted at $647,742, or 83% of their department's total budget. It is the focus of the council continually to recruit and retain officers, as is often difficult in rural areas.

In other City news, Judge Deborah Campbell will be retiring on June 2nd, and a reception for her retirement is planned at the court complex. I encourage you to go by that Friday and thank Deborah for her many years of service to the city. The City Council is currently going through the recruitment process to replace Judge Campbell and anticipates appointing a new judge by the end of this month. Unlike most city positions, the Municipal Court Judge position is a direct report position to the council, as is the City Manager.

The annual Kid's Fish event sponsored by the FEDC and the City will be this Sunday, May 21st, beginning at noon. Even if you are not a fisherman, it's a good opportunity to go to Reeve's Lake and have a picnic. Former Mayor Ricky White has been diligently working to keep the lake in fine form since his retirement.

National Strawberry Month

May is also National Strawberry Month, so it won't be long until we can find fresh berries in the grocery store at a more reasonable price. It can be a challenge to find a savory recipe with strawberries, but here is a unique salad that I think sounds delicious.

Strawberry Salad
By Trisha Yearwood
www.foodnetwork.com

Ingredients

- Salad:
1 package ramen noodles, crushed, flavor packet discarded
1/4 cup sliced almonds
1/4 cup sunflower seeds
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted
1 head romaine lettuce, washed and dried
One 5-ounce bag baby spinach
1 pint strawberries, hulled and thinly sliced
1 cup grated Parmesan

- Dressing:
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup red wine vinegar
3/4 cup vegetable oil
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoons salt
2 cloves garlic, minced

Directions

For the salad: Preheat the oven to 400oF. In a small bowl, mix the ramen noodles, almonds, sunflower seeds, and melted butter. Transfer to a baking sheet, and toast in the oven, stirring occasionally, until browned, about 10 minutes. Remove from the oven and set aside to cool. Tear the lettuce and combine with the spinach, strawberries, and cheese in a large salad bowl.
For the dressing: Dissolve the sugar in the vinegar. Combine the oil, paprika, salt and garlic and then add to the sugar-vinegar mixture. Mix well and store in the refrigerator until ready to serve.
Just before serving, sprinkle the crunchy topping over the salad green and toss the salad with enough dressing to coat the greens.

When dogsitting gets ruff

With summer approaching, my calendar's color codes reflect where I will be dogsitting and housesitting. All the families who call on my caretaking services have dogs (each family has more than one, in fact). The pets and I are on a first-name basis.
This summer I may have to take two of the dogs on a walk through the pearly gates. End-of-pet-life discussions have been conducted, and I made each family sign "Do Not Resuscitate" documents. At their request, the deceased canine will be wrapped in a towel (preferably the kind used in the garage) and placed in the deep freeze. This way the beloved family pet is preserved until the family returns and carries out their planned burial or cremation.

Being sensitive to the fact that the surviving pets may grieve the loss of their sibling, I will be available for grief sessions: extra belly rubs, brushing, extra dog treats, singing Bingo Was His Name-O but substituting Sadie or Lucie or Rosie or Bruno.

I certainly hope none of these scenarios plays out. The companionship of dogs is invaluable anytime but especially when housesitting. They make me feel loved, feel safer, and feel needed. We really do talk, and they really do listen. Maggie barks when the doorbell rings on tv, Flynn sleeps on my lap during naptime in the recliner, and Sadie and I both love snack time after those naps. Rosie and Bruno, the German Shepherds, keep me active with games of fetch. I retrieve pretty well, even with two bad knees.

Years ago, my constant pet companions of eleven years were euthanized just weeks apart. It is no laughing matter, so please do not assume the satirical nature of this column is heartless. My cousins, my niece and her family, my daughter and her family, and my sister and brother-in-law are entrusting me with some special family members. But I am thankful they have relieved me of liability if and when "the time comes" while they are away.
Here's to the pets who belong to the ones I love. May they live at least until the end of July.

Friona first graders visited the ag department during one of the freshmen ag classes. They learned about the shop, flower arrangements, the greenhouse, and even went home with custom-made CNC signs with their names on them!

Gas Prices Rise Slightly

By GasBuddy

Average gasoline prices in Texas have rose 4.7 cents last week, averaging $3.06 per gallon, according to GasBuddy's survey of 13,114 stations in Texas. Prices in Texas are 28.9 cents per gallon lower than a month ago and stand $1.06 per gallon lower than a year ago. According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Texas was priced at $2.69 while the most expensive was $4.17 per gallon.
The national average price of gasoline has risen 0.4 cents in the last week, averaging $3.51 per gallon. The national average is down 14.9 cents per gallon from a month ago and stands 95.6 cents per gallon lower than a year ago. The national average price of diesel has fallen 4.0 cents in the last week and stands at $3.97 per gallon.
"With oil prices bouncing back over $70 per barrel after reaching as low as $66 in early May, we've seen gasoline prices move higher in some states, while others have continued to decline. The national average has seen little change as a result, but overall, gasoline prices continue to see significant relief from year ago levels," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy.
De Haan concluded, "We're likely to soon see gasoline prices slip to their largest year on year deficit since Covid hit, when prices fell over $1 per gallon from 2019. So the relief at the pump as been significant and even though the gas price decline hit pause last week it's looking more likely that, barring a major hurricane or series of refinery outages, the national average may not end up hitting the $4 per gallon mark. That is something that will make most motorists very happy."
GasBuddy data is compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

A New Direction

By Brett Hoyle, Pastor, First Baptist Church

In the 1970s the US Government began launching satellites into space to help them track enemy threats as well and pinpoint the locations of objects such as submarines. The end result of this project that placed satellites into space for more than a decade, was a global positioning system. The private, military side of the system is still restricted, but the public side has redefined how parents keep up with their kids, how you drive, measure exercise goals and much more. GPS as we know it is an essential component to many things we do to help us know where we are and where we need to be going.

In a similar way, God also has a positioning system that tells you His direction and will. Near the end of the four decades of God's judgment on the rebellious generation of Israelites, God positioned them to enter the promised land, but it was different than the first time the nation approached the land. Deuteronomy 2:1 says "Then we turned and journeyed into the wilderness in the direction of the Red Sea, as the Lord told me. And for many days we traveled around Mount Seir." The direction God told them to go initially went in the opposite direction of the promised land, before they circled back up to the north, but they listened and obeyed and ended up right where God wanted them. When they quit moaning and groaning about the challenges or how things didn't make sense to them and focused on God's word and His will, they were ready to be led right where God wanted them.

In a similar way, God's positioning system is still in full operation, as His truth is laid out in His Word, and as His Holy Spirit helps us apply, obey and be led in accordance with His will. When you focus on what He says and obey in childlike faith, you put yourself right where God wants you according to God's Positioning System.

Panhandle Parables

West Side of the Dryline

By Jeff Procter, Minister, 6th Street Church of Christ

Growing up in Friona in our agricultural setting we are intimately tied to weather. Every spring we watch the dryline bounce back and forth across the Panhandle. We know all too well that east of the dryline the chance of moisture is greatly increased and west of the dryline the reality of wind is multiplied by a thousand, or so it may feel. Much of the time the dryline sets up over us giving us the smell of rain, but the weather builds here and rains east of here. Then there are those rare occasions that the dryline heads west of us and we do benefit from the east side of the dryline, and so life goes for us on the western side of the Panhandle. We are stronger due to the wind and thankful when moisture does come our way.

Life has a way of mimicking weather sometimes, anyway. Life has moments of promise, the clouds build, the smell of rain is in the air only to be dashed by some unforeseen event, or circumstance. The trials of life blow in relentlessly taking their toll, but also building our resolve. Faith is the lens through which we must look at things. James would tell us to "2 Consider it pure joy, my brothers and sisters, whenever you face trials of many kinds, 3 because you know that the testing of your faith produces perseverance. 4 Let perseverance finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything." NASV Life here can be tough, rain can be scarce, but faith produces perseverance and perseverance can make us mature and complete.

So, in the end we lean into the wind, give thanks when the rains come and stay the course and trust the God who gives us everything we need to get home. Life can be full of joy even on the west side of the dryline.

Words to Live By

By Teena Hughs

For the last two weeks, we have been reading Psalms in our chronological order study of the Bible. I admit that sometimes I don't get much from reading one psalm after another. But, I also have to admit I have gotten more, and been touched more, from the readings this time.

This morning, I was reading Psalm 101, and I thought this Psalm of David was a good checklist for how we are living our lives. One of the things that spoke to me is, are we doing these things in our homes?

It is pretty easy to think of home as our safe place where we can say and do anything we please, simply because no one will hear or see us. And, since home is our safe place, no one but our spouse, and maybe our kids, will know how we really feel about someone or something. I have to wonder how some of the things I said or did in the presence of my kids affected them in a negative way; how it may have contributed to their behavior or thoughts of some people.

We are wrong to think that we can get away with doing and saying things in our "safe place," because God knows; the only One who really matters, knows; and, that is why the way we behave in the privacy of our homes matters.

If how we behave matters to God, it should matter to us. So, please read the words of Psalm 101, and see how you are doing. What areas do you (and I) need to change? How can I lead a life pleasing to God and myself? Am I willing to make changes to honor God and myself?

Psalm 101: "I will sing of your love and justice.

I will praise you, LORD, with songs. I will be careful to live a blameless life--when will you come to my aid? I will lead a life of integrity in my own home. I will refuse to look at anything vile and vulgar. I hate all crooked dealings; I will have nothing to do with them. I will reject perverse ideas and stay away from every evil, I will not tolerate people who slander their neighbors, I will not endure conceit and pride. I will keep a protective eye on the godly, so they may dwell with me in safety. Only those who are above reproach will be allowed to serve me. I will not allow deceivers to serve me, and liars will not be allowed to enter my presence. My daily task will be to ferret out criminals and free the city of the LORD from their grip."

Take care and have a great week!!!

Day at the Museum

Friona third graders visited the Parmer County Historical Museum last week. Sharon White provided a tour of the facility for the approximately ninety visitors. The group photo provided by Marie Samarron was taken by the huge arrow which represents our area as part of the Quanah Parker Trail.

Quanah Parker was a war leader of the Kwahadi ("Antelope") band of the Comanche Nation. He was the son of Kwahadi Comanche chief Peta Nocona and Cynthia Ann Parker, an Anglo-American who had been abducted as a nine-year-old child and assimilated into the Nokoni tribe.

Quanah Parker emerged as a dominant figure in the Red River War, clashing repeatedly with Colonel Ranald S. Mackenzie. With European-Americans hunting American bison, the Comanches' primary food source, into near extinction, Quanah Parker eventually surrendered and peaceably led the Kwahadi to the reservation at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Fort Hood renamed after Korean, Vietnam war hero

It's official. Fort Hood, named for a high-ranking Confederate officer in the Civil War, has been renamed Fort Cavazos, in honor of native Texan Richard E. Cavazos, the country's first Hispanic four-star general.

Fort Cavazos is the Army's largest armored, active-duty military installation, according to a report in the Austin American-Statesman. It is one of nine that are being renamed around the country, based on recommendations from a naming committee commissioned by Congress to remove the names, symbols and displays that honor the Confederacy.

Cavazos was widely decorated for his service during the Korean and Vietnam wars, receiving two Distinguished Service Cross medals during his military career. He died in 2017 at 88.

State rep expelled from Texas House

The Texas House voted 147-0 to expel state Rep. Bryan Slaton after an investigating committee determined he engaged in inappropriate behavior with a 19-year-old legislative aide. Slaton, R-Royce City, was found to have had sexual intercourse with the aide, who works in his office, and to have supplied alcohol to an underage person on at least three occasions, the Statesman reported.

Slaton resigned the day before the vote to expel him but would have remained an officeholder and been paid until a successor was elected through a special election.

"Expulsion of a member of this body is rare," House Speaker Dade Phelan said. "Mr. Slaton's predatory behavior merits such a consequence. I am proud of my colleagues for holding each of us accountable."

Slaton is the first House member to be expelled since 1927, according to the Statesman.

Eight more counties added to disaster declaration

The Federal Emergency Management Agency has added eight more Texas counties to a disaster declaration after an early February ice storm caused considerable damage across wide swaths of the state, Gov. Greg Abbott announced last week.

"This update will help support ongoing recovery efforts in Texas communities impacted by Winter Storm Mara in February," Abbott said.

The eight added to the 13 already approved by FEMA are Falls, Hopkins, Red River, Anderson, Gillespie, Kerr, Kimble and Limestone counties. The counties are now eligible for federal funding for debris removal and repairs to infrastructure.

House considers modified version of Senate voucher bill

An 80-page version of the Senate's school voucher proposal is now before the House education committee, the Texas Tribune reported. This version would cut the number of students eligible for the program, modify the state's standardized testing program, and eliminate the Senate bill's restriction on teaching about gender and sexual orientation.

A move to get the bill quickly out of committee failed after state Rep. Ernest Bailes, R-Shepherd, questioned why the committee wanted to move forward without holding a public hearing.

"You're trying to bring an 80-page substitution to this body and force a vote without thoughtful deliberation," Bailes said. House committees have until May 20 to vote on Senate bills to advance them to the full floor.

The Senate version of the bill would give parents who opt out of the public school system up to $8,000 in taxpayer money to pay for a child's private schooling and related educational expenses, such as textbooks or tutoring.
