A charge of small shot fired from a shot gun struck the negro in the right arm, inflicting a painful wound, but is not thought to be serious. The negro is alleged to have been intoxicated and went to the Hanson home and was warned by Mrs. Hanson not to come to the house. He did not in some way heed the warning and Mrs. Hanson fired the shot which wounded the negro. SUGGESTS CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY FOR HASKELL

(By Alvin Chamberlain.) Some time ago the Chamber of Commerce requested the people to send in what was thought to be the three things most needed to be done by Haskell. To my mind the one thing most needed or that would bring the greatest return to the people, business men as well as farmers, would be the erection of a co-operative creamery. In the first place it is a good business proposition, proven so by communities that have erected them. There is at present quite a lot of cream being shipped from Haskell County to distant markets. A home creamery would bring larger profits, and stimulate growth to the extent that practically all the farmers would be placed on the cash business. In the second place it would bring high grade cows into the country, create an interest in farm life. In the third place, Haskell-made butter and other products on the market would give the county good advertising.

Now as to how to build the creamery it can and should be done just like it was put over by the farmers and business men of Kingsville, Texas, and Lebanon, Tenn.

At Kingsville they organized with about $3,000 capital, erected their plant and started operation. They set aside 10 per cent as a surplus, at Lebanon, Tenn., 5 per cent, and five or ten per cent as running expenses, the remainder goes to the farmers who furnish the cream. The Kingsville plant has only been running a few years and at present it is valued at $30,000. It is strictly a co-operative business. All profits above the specified amounts goes as bonuses to the farmers.

Other places have made a success. Would it not be worth while for Haskell to investigate?

COUNTY SHOULD HAVE HOME DEMONSTRATOR

Miss Helen Hubbard Swift of the Extension Service, of the A. and M. College of Texas is here this week in compliance with the request of ladies over the county to make plans for arrangement for a Home Demonstrator for Haskell county. She offers the proof in facts and figures that the Extension Service has met the actual need and has put money in the pockets of those who earnestly and faithfully carried out instructions on the farm and in the home. She further states that it is not the purpose of the Extension Department to give farmers advice, but to bring them reliable information. She is fully aware that they have been overwhelmed with advice from dozens of quarters for years past, but that is not the work of the extension service. Its mission is to bring helpful and reliable information in the things in which they desire and are anxious to know.

Almost two-thirds of the total cost of the County Agent and Home Demonstrator is paid by the Federal Government, the county pays its part of this money in the form of taxes whether or not County Agents are employed. The small amount extra the county has to pay will not be missed. Neither will such appropriations be the means of raising the tax rate of the county. But it will be the means of increasing profitable production methods, thus increasing the county tax budget instead of diminishing it, as those who are not conversant with the extension work sometimes believe.

DEVELOPMENT NOTES OF WEST TEXAS

AMARILLO—Announcements has been made by the Board of City Development that the Earle Interests here will erect an 8-story hotel and the Panhandle Improvement Co. will also erect an 8-story office building. Plans have been prepared for both structures.

MUNDAY—Mayor Davis has recommended to the City Council that election be called here and bonds voted for street paving. Munday has recently completed water works and a sewerage system. Paving is the next big step in the civic program.

STAMFORD—A. C. Cooper, manager and owner of the Stamford Inn which was recently destroyed by fire, states that he will immediately rebuild at a cost of $100,000 a fire proof construction with every modern convenience and expects to have the same in operation by August.

CANADIAN—The $1,000,000 bridge across the Canadian river near here will soon be completed. This is one of the largest undertakings of West Texas and will be fully appreciated by the traveling public when opened for traffic.

BIG LAKE—Faith in the Reagan County oil field is clearly established by the fact that the Humble Oil Co. has contracted to lay a pipe line of 30,000 barrel daily capacity from here to connect with their line at Pioneer.

MATADOR—A bond election has just been carried here for the erection of a modern school building. This building will have a large auditorium on the ground floor providing protection from fire.

MINERAL WELLS—The Seventh Annual Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held here May 4th-6th and all arrangements have been made for a record-breaking attendance. A full, careful and effective program will be carried out that will make for a greater West Texas in that this organization is planning to reach every nook and corner of its territory with a more constructive service than ever before.

BROWNWOOD—A $750,000 road bond issue will be voted on in Brown County on January 20th, according to Secretary Stuart Williams who is very enthusiastic over the prospect of the issue carrying by a large majority. In November the issue lost by only 100 votes and since then the sentiment has materially changed for good roads.

QUANAH—The building improvement in both the city and county this winter reflects the good small grain and cotton crop that has been harvested thus enabling the farmers to improve their homes.

Visit Weinert Saturday

Saturday morning we made a trip to Weinert, which was our first trip to that progressive city for quite a while. Weinert is moving along nicely—everything was above par in a business way and the merchants were all happy and contented with their patronage. We note a bunch of Haskell fellows in town while up there. Oliver Williams was doing a plumbing job for Cogins Brothers Barber Shop. They are putting in hot water appliances and will make their barber shop up-to-date in every way. We also found our old friend J. M. Diggs, former postmaster of Monday operating a grocery store on main street. He has been in business in Weinert since early in December.

J. O. Merchant was in the city. He says the snow and the warm weather is bringing his wheat out, but he is not counting very strong on a big yield this year. J. V. Lewis, another farmer was in town trading. D. T. Dotson of Haskell was there looking after the collections for the West Texas Utilities Co. Huey Cook of Haskell was holding down the front chair of the Cogins Bros. Barber Shop. Huey says he had rather work than idle around and he was kept very busy while we were there.

M. J. Medley the new Cotton Weigher says that it is some job to look after the cotton yards in Weinert. Some of the gins were running and we saw the drays hauling bales of cotton to the railway station. You know as long as that fleecy staple is coming in and going out prosperity is lurking in every place of business.

The front of the bank was so full of customers that we did not get to talk to the boys inside. But we learned on other occasions that the Weinert bank is doing a fine business and their statement published in the Free Press shows that this bank is well patronized by the large number of worthy customers who appreciate this institution very much.

Baker-Campbell paid their subscription to the Free Press for another year and Mr. Baker says that his trade is very satisfactory. He has a large store building filled with first class merchandise and his back lot covered with new farm machinery. He made a trip to Fort Worth recently.

R. L. Kane was in town from east of town and he heard him tell a friends that he was still pulling bolls. He made 40 bales of cotton last year.

There were many strangers to us in the city, just like it appears on the street of our town. So many people are learning that Haskell county is one of the best farming sections in West Texas and they are coming here from all parts of the globe to help enjoy the prosperity of the best county in Texas. The report shows that Weinert is located in the big middle of one of the best cotton growing sections in the county.

We always like to visit Weinert, and will try to get up there as much as once each week. We have arranged for a good representative for our paper in that city, so watch the paper for his news items which I am sure our readers will appreciate.

The roads were good and our jitney glided along nicely. It is getting used to our ways and is not nearly so contrary as it was when we first put a bridle on the thing and hitched it up. We thank our friends for the many loyal greetings given us and we assure you that we will do our best to give you good representation in your county newspaper.

Took a Friend's Advice

Houston, Texas—"When I was comparatively a young woman I became afflicted with woman's trouble and got so I could hardly walk. I had a delicacy in submitting my case to the doctors. Finally a friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I did so, and before I had taken three bottles I was all right. Later on in life I became afflicted with a kind of poison in my blood; for this I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery', and gradually my blood became pure. I never again had anything like either of these afflictions."—Mrs. D. M. Wilson, 1521 Fulton St. All dealers.

Miss Brown of New York City, and who has recently been abroad to study, lectured here Thursday afternoon to a large and enthusiastic audience. Miss Brown's subject was "Art That Lives," and she gave a very practical and educational talk. She began with the theme telling and showing on the screen the difference between shabby and ugly furniture for the home and beautiful and lasting furniture. Good and bad dishes, silver and pictures. Then architecture and paintings. Miss Brown had copies of famous paintings and buildings from all parts of the world and she had these thrown on the screen. She also had textiles and fancy work and showed the difference between good and ugly fancy work. She had exquisite pieces of hand-made fancy work of all kinds from all over the world. She stressed three main points that should be adhered to in everything: Honesty, Unity and Beauty, or the love of the artist for his work. She was introduced by her old pupil, Miss Ruby Fitzgerald, who studied under her at Canyon some years ago. The following Haskell women presented Miss Brown to their friends, believing that it is of more value to have things that are worth while than just to invite them for an idle afternoon and serve them a cup of tea and a sandwich: Mesdames J. U. Fields, Bruce W. Bryant, Hardy Grissom, S. R. Rike, W. H. Murchison and F. T. Sanders.

The women are indeed grateful to Mr. McNeese for the use of the theatre Thursday evening.

Mrs. Henry Tandy Lectures on Interior Decoration

Mrs. Henry Tandy who taught in the schools here some years ago and met her husband here, lectured to the members of the Magazine Club and their friends on "Interior Decoration" Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Tandy is an example of what a woman can do if she has the will. She was left a widow a number of years ago and taught music but decided that she wanted to study interior decoration and did, and was given a place with one of the best firms in Dallas. She has just returned from a three-months stay abroad where she was sent by her firm for further study.

Mrs. C. L. Lewis was director of the musical program for the afternoon, and the following numbers were given, each one being a masterpiece in execution.

Piano solo, Mrs. John W. Pace.
Piano Duo, Miss Kathryn Rike and Miss Marjorie Rogers.
Piano solo, Mrs. H. D. Neff.

After the music Mrs. Fields introduced Mrs. Tandy, who gave a most instructive and practical talk on her subject.

Last Friday evening at eight o'clock in the auditorium of the Haskell High School, Mrs. C. M. Kaigler presented eighteen of her expression class in recital to a large audience. The numbers were mostly dialect and character sketches which shows up the work of the individual pupils to a greater advantage than pageants and aesthetic dances. This class is doing good work.

A Reader Suggest Name "Oscar Martin" for New Park

Why should the Amusement Park be named Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Lincoln, Sam Houston, Ma Ferguson or Dripping Springs, or a dozen other springs? Rice Springs was a range watering hole before there was a Haskell. God has given us millions of springs and lots of water, but only one Oscar Martin. Why not name it for the one who so unselfishly has done more for Haskell county and for less than any other man who has lived in it. Who was whole souled, big hearted, chivalrous, ever on the alert for Haskell county's good and charitable in the short comings of his fellow man. He was a man who was always true to his friends and his integrity was never questioned. He was a man who had the love of God and humanity, in his heart. He was loved by the people of Haskell county and we believe that if it was left to a vote of the people today the new park would be named in his honor. We believe even today, in the splendor of God's kingdom he still loves Haskell and Haskell county and her people. Let's name the new amusement park "OSCAR MARTIN PARK" Contributed by a Reader

POWER is generated by energy and energy by the will "to do."

Have you ever seen a heavy cart stuck fast in a rut of mud? The jaded horse unable to move it another inch because of drooping spirit and lack of interest.

A dozen onlookers—some merely waiting to see what is going to happen—others giving advice and direction. But none of these will start the cart moving.

Then from the crowd step out three or four "doers." They put their shoulders to the wheel lending both effort and example until others follow them. The thing begins to move, gains momentum as all things do when once out of a rut.

And so, also, is it with civic progress—community movements, local enterprise—when doers "put their shoulders to the wheel."

D. 1925, the same being the 27th day of April A. D. 1925, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 9th day of January A. D. 1925 in a suit, numbered in the docket of said Court No. 3512, where Gabe Garrett, as Plaintiff, and Irene Martin Garrett, is Defendant, and said petition alleges that on or about the middle of November in the year of 1915 plaintiff was duly and legally married to defendant in the County of Rush, in the State of Kansas, and that defendant continued to live with said plaintiff as his wife, until on or about August 1st, 1921. Plaintiff alleges that all times while married to the defendant, plaintiff conducted himself with propriety, and has at all times conducted himself so, treating defendant with kindness and forbearance, and that he was guilty of no act which would bring about the hereinafter described acts of defendant. Plaintiff alleges that on or about the said 1st day of August 1921, said defendant voluntarily left his bed and board, and that she has continued to live separate and apart from said plaintiff, rendering the further living together of said plaintiff and defendant as husband and wife impossible. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited as prescribed by law in such cases to appear and answer this petition, and that on final hearing plaintiff have judgment dissolving the marriage relations between said plaintiff and defendant, and for such other and further relief as the court shall think proper to grant, or as the plaintiff may be entitled to either at law or in equity and for costs of suit.

Several from this community went to Haskell Saturday to witness the ball games, which they reported to be very interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Bland and their daughters, Misses Oris Lee and the writer, attended the funeral services Sunday afternoon at Stamford, of Mrs. Morris, whose home is in Roswell, N. M. She was the daughter of Grandian Lawson of Stamford. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved relatives and friends.

Chris Jones has been sick for several weeks. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

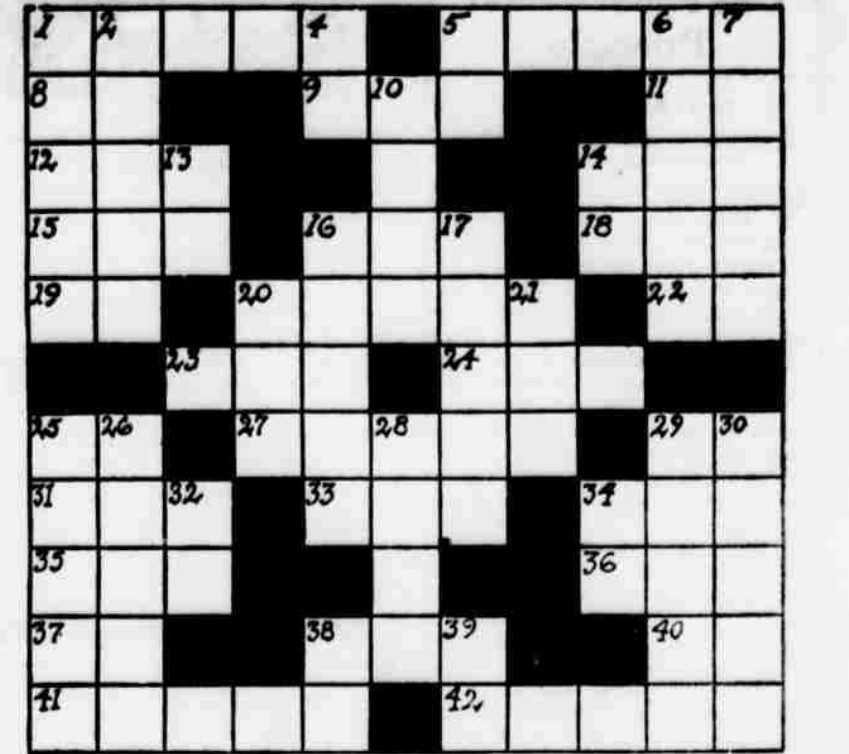

Mrs. Little, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Cauthen, visited the school Friday afternoon. We invite them and other patrons to visit our school more often.

One Fundamental Principle

By J. B. M. CLARK

(C. Doubleday, Page & Co.)

WHEN Kate Ogilvie heard privately that it was the pretty girl in Rev. Mr. Haywood's choir who had thrown over an admirer on the strength of advice from "Molly Molloy" of the "Heartcase" page of the Montreal Weekly Meteor, she experienced a sudden distaste for her job. For she herself was Molly Molloy, and had heretofore given counsel on affairs of the heart with a zest that the subsequent enthusiasm of the recipients invariably whetted, and which was rarely dampened by untoward happenings.

In this particular case, on the allied diffidence and lack of resolution of a needy suitor, she had advised bringing an unsatisfactory "understanding" to an end and the accepting of a wealthy, if elderly, admirer. And the passionate cry of the discarded one: "To hell with Molly Molloy! You might have given me a white man's chance to make good!" borne through strange channels to her ears, made her so sick at heart that she threw up a good position and went to visit an old college chum in Los Angeles. Later, liking the new environment, she sought to re-enter the newspaper world, but finding conditions difficult in the Pacific coast city, went to get into the receiving department of a dry goods store as a bookkeeper. And there, in the course of the following year, she made the acquaintance of Charlotte Bosbyshell and Richard Appleton.

Charlotte Bosbyshell (known as "Bobby") was twenty-one years of age and reasonably attractive, but having no steady beau was obsessed by the bleakness of the outlook. She had been in the receiving department for two years. Appleton, who had drifted down from Seattle or somewhere in the North, was understood to be aiming at the "movies." He was scuder thirty than twenty and was of a studious turn. Bobby decided that he would suit her and she strove to captivate him, even seeking advice from Waddington, the married head of the department.

"Well, I can't help you," said Waddington. "Whom do you want to camp now?"

"Oh, no one special," replied Bobby gratefully. But she showed Appleton photographs of herself in hiking attire and contrived to be near the door when he left at night so that they might go to the car together.

Kate Ogilvie, who was nearer Appleton's own age, discussed economic questions with him, particularly her own, but did not approve of his solution of state endowment of motherhood, fearing that it might lead to a worse serfdom still. They talked over this and kindred topics, and discovered they had much in common. He took her to shows on several occasions. . . . Once they had supper together . . . on one of their outings they met Bobby.

Bobby asked Kate quite frankly at the first opportunity if there was anything serious between her and Mr. Appleton, as she herself was getting very fond of him. Besides, Bobby understood from something Kate had once said, that she was interested in "somebody 'back East.'"—But she really wasn't. "Nothing at all, Bobby," said Kate cheerily. "Go ahead, my dear, I wish you luck."

Although generous, Bobby did not see very deeply into things, and she told Appleton at the first opportunity, he did settle him. He was inclined to disbelieve it, and thought Kate was trying to be funny about his hurt. He got his chance in the "movies" soon after this, and made rapid headway. They heard he was doing well. He found a place for Bobby after a time, great as an extra, and then in a minor part. She had some natural talent and she worked hard. And after a time, things having become so very different, Bobby fell in love with a camera man and married him.

Whether or not Appleton was greatly concerned is difficult to ascertain at this time. He was greatly engrossed in the career that lay ahead of him. A somewhat pliant situation was unexpectedly created by his old love, suddenly left a rich young widow, coming out to look for him and forgiveness. It was not to be had at any price, but inadvertently she gave him full particulars about how she had not put the case quite properly to Molly Molloy—had in fact cherished some hope that what had actually happened might take place, for she had been aware that the elderly suitor was delirious. But Appleton had been so bitter in his anger that she did not like to explain, and so had blamed everything on Molly Molloy.

"The trouble with you, Kate," said Appleton soon after, taking hold of her arm and turning her face to his, "is that with all your knowledge of affairs of the heart, and your supposed deep understanding of their workings, you have missed one very fundamental principle, namely, that a man can very easily be 'wished' off from one woman to another. Why didn't you tell me you were Molly Molloy—especially as you had a clear case?"

"I didn't know how you might take it," she said, her eyes dropping. "The clear case might have been difficult to establish. I didn't want to lose your respect. . . . And so . . ."

"And so you did the foolish thing?" he suggested, kissing her.

"Yes," she replied, with wonderful sweetness for so self-confident and quite a person.
