Last week I wrote about a story I had read concerning a scheme to implant a computer chip into the human brain. Ironically, that same week, I heard a psychologist (of the professional variety; not an unpaid layman like myself), state that, "The human brain is the most complicated thing in the entire universe."

I thought that was quite the statement, and yet I could find no flaw with it. Perhaps this brain is inadequate to give proper scrutiny to such a thing; I know this brain is incapable of envisioning or comprehending the universe. However, I think there is a strong probability that the shrink's statement was spot-on.

What evidence is there to prove otherwise? Not that the absence of other evidence is proof in and of itself – the lack of evidence in a court of law does not necessarily mean that the party is innocent (there is a good reason why courtroom verdict jargon is "not guilty" and not simply "innocent").

The psychologist's claim that the human brain is atop the universal pecking order sort of rules out the possibility of a more prescient creature – the archetypical extra-terrestrial, which is always more intelligent than the "trembling weaklings, [who] cower in fear" whose planet they have come to invade.

I have long been tired of alien sci-fi stories for this exact reason. Why are the aliens always presented as superior beings? Someone once told me that if alien beings from another galaxy or solar system were to arrive on Earth, they would by default be superior to humans, by virtue of their successfully traveling through the intergalactical (here one might say "quantum") void to reach our planet. I can assent to the general concept, or at least I have no satisfactory retort, but just as there is more to a human than his ability to think, to work, to fight, to build, etc., there is more to life than interplanetary travel.

In any case, and returning to the original theme, consider the ramifications if the psychologist's claim is even remotely accurate: the natural computer inside your head is more astounding an organ than the greatest creation conceived and realized as its result. This seems to follow logically enough: Can a computer be greater than the computer which created it? Can the building be greater than the mind which envisioned it? Can the creature be greater than the Creator who made it? Seems like I have heard that last one somewhere.

And the marvel is not only that in each of us there exists the crown jewel (why else is it located at the top of the body [or at the front for those animals who are not bipeds]) more sophisticated than anything else in the universe, but that 'supermachine' is also in each of the people whom we see and share life with – from our spouses, families, friends, and those we love most, to the vagrants and the vagabonds and those whose behavior causes us at times to wonder if they lack this super-powerful organ. That reality itself is enough reason to respect, even revere each other a bit more, and like all true beauty, as well as the appropriate use of the contemplative organ, such a respect or reverence for the marvel of the other naturally points to, and yields, reverence and marvel for the supreme Other, more prescient than the furthest limits of the human brain, and thus, the universe.

You do not have the right to change our country's history or heritage. This country was founded on the belief in one true God. And yet, you are given the freedom to believe in any religion, any faith, or no faith at all; with no fear of persecution. The phrase IN GOD WE TRUST is part of our heritage and history, sorry if you are uncomfortable with it.

OLD TIMES NOT FORGOTTEN

By Roland Miles

Temporary Cure for Back Pain

It was quite by accident that I discovered a cure for back pain. Unfortunately, the pain came back after about a half hour. Adrenaline is a really good pain blocker, but it doesn't last very long. I wouldn't recommend the way it happened to me, because it would be too hard to duplicate. I'll go ahead and tell the story, just in case you'd like to give it a try.

About thirty years ago, I strained my back moving some pipe and was off work for nearly a month. When your back is out of kilter, you can't hardly blink your eyes without it hurting. After about two weeks, I was beginning to improve a little bit, but waking was still painful. If you've ever had a strained back, you sure know what I mean. Since I was "improving", Shirley decided we needed to go to the mall in Amarillo, where we lived at that time. Even when I'm feeling good, I'd just about as soon get a tooth pulled as go to the mall! Anyway, she insisted that I'd feel differently once we got there, so I agreed to go. She parked the car in the parking lot at the east end of the mall. Before we got half way to the west end, my back was killing me. As she lead me along by my hand, it occurred to me that it probably looked like she was taking her pet chimp for a walk! Every once in a while, I'd stop at one of those benches along the way, sit down and complain. (I got the feeling that she thought I was sot of a wimp.) We waled to the far west end of that mall: must have been half a mile! By then, I was really hurting, so she told me to wait at the north door, then she'd walk back, get the car and pick me up. That sounded good to me. After she picked me up, I thought we were going straight home, but no such luck! She told me we needed to stop by Sears for a minute, but I could get out at the north door and wait for her while she parked the car. By that time, I was pretty irritated, so I got out, grabbed the top of the door and was going to give it a good slam, just to make sure she knew I wasn't pleased! About half-way through the swing, I felt something grab my fingers. She'd pushed the automatic button that moved the window up... and I couldn't get loose! It was too late to stop the door, so it slammed my fingers! That wasn't the worst part of it though. She was looking straight ahead to find a parking place and started driving away, with me running along beside the car, fingers still trapped in the window. I thought she never would see me, or hear me hollerin'. Hopefully, she wouldn't drive faster than I would be able to run! After about twenty yards, she finally saw me, stopped the car and rolled the window down, so I could retrieve my hand. I asked her, "Why'd you roll the window up so quick?" Her reply was, "Why'd you have your fingers in the window?" After she parked the car, we went into Sears... yes, we did! As luck would have it, my old buddy Ronnie was in there with his wife, looking at washing machines. He could tell when we walked in that we weren't too happy with each other, so he just had to ask me why. When I told him what happened, he almost got down on the floor laughing. He always did have a warped sense of humor!

THE MUSTANG MINUTE

Our Wheeler basketball teams traveled to Stinnett to take on the West Texas Comanches last Tuesday. The JV girls started the night off with a loss of 28-37. The Lady Stangs only scored 1 point to WT's 15 in the second quarter and never could quite recover from that. Larah Collins finished the night with 11 points and Kenslee Marshall had 8 points.

The Varsity Lady Stangs started out strong with a commanding lead at half time of 23-14 but the Lady Comanches came out on fire scoring 25 points to Wheeler's 8 points in the 3rd quarter which ultimately lead them to a victory. The Lady Stangs were defeated 47-49. Top scorers for the Lady Stangs were Emily Beard with 11 points, Emely Garcia with 9 points and Leslie Mendoza with 8 points.

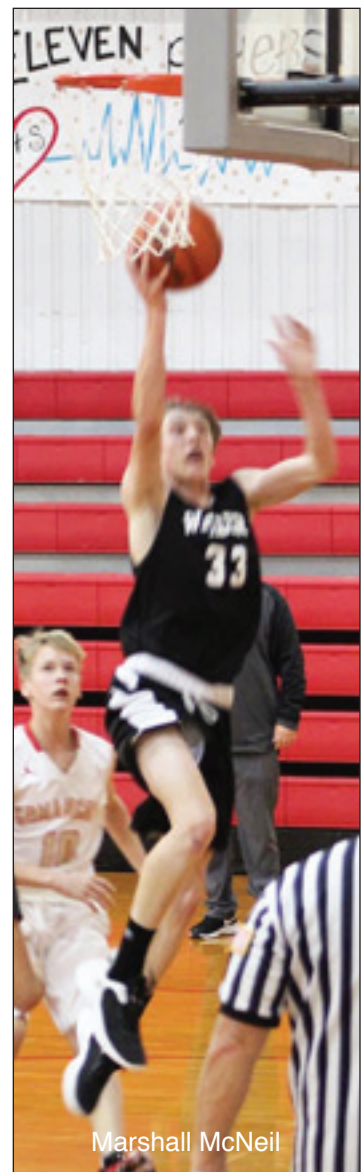

The JV Mustangs were defeated 39-50 with Arron Atherton scoring 10 points and Abraham Sigala with 10 points. Varsity Mustangs came home with a win of 49-40 with Levi Ashurst scoring 19, and Julius Atherton and Wes Shaw both scoring 7 points.

On Friday our Mustang boys hosted Vega with both teams coming up short in the end. Varsity lost 37-56 with Levi Ashurst scoring 22, Barrett Meadows with 5, and Creed Newkirk scoring 4.

The Junior Varsity lost 23-32 with Ruvinsky Garza scoring 9 and Marshall McNeil scoring 6.

STORM REPORT

As Reported by . . .
Stormie Meriwether,
U.C.O. Freshman

Dearest Friends, Meriwether Family Christmas at Gina's was great. I had a fun time with my cousins. It was Gracie's First Christmas and she is a little doll! Hunter didn't get to stay for the party, because his family was having his Mother's birthday party the same day. Happy Birthday, Alyssa!

NYC continued! Day three in NYC began with a taxi ride to Lower Manhattan. My mom does not like to be late, so we arrived almost an hour early to catch the first ferry to Staten Island. It was a cold, beautiful morning. It was interesting to watch the joggers and dog walkers as the city came to life. Our ferry was Miss Ellis Island. It was the first ferry to rescue survivors on 9/11. That day over 500,000 people left the area by ferry and went to New Jersey.

The Statue of Liberty is very impressive up close. It has an interesting history. Our guide told us many stories. She actually talked so much we didn't have time to go to the Ellis Island Museum.

We rode the ferry back to Manhattan and caught a Taxi to The Empire State Building. Standing outside, we could not see the top of the building. We rode a very fast elevator to the outdoor observa-

Woke up Tuesday morning to a powdering of dry snow and 24°.

Even though the temperatures for the past few days had not been that cold, the wind certainly makes it uncomfortable.

Compliments to Marshall Auto, their Christmas decorations are certainly pretty. After they were put up the first time, a shower wet the tape and with the help of the wind, most of them fell.

Hope everyone is ready for Christmas, because there is tion deck. That was beautiful! I thought about all the movies made there from Godzilla to Sleepless in Seattle. On the 102nd floor, New York looked like a picture below. It was quiet and romantic. Hunter and I stood above the silent-busy city and watched the sunset. I love NY! That's it!

I appreciate the cooperation received in getting the "Christmas Greeting" issue together.

And, thank you to Tori Coulter, Misty Copeland and Bridget Weatherly for the pictures.

And a "Big Thank You" to H&H Tire and Bob's Bail Bonds for sponsoring the pictures.

A "Tip of the Hat" to Manuel Carrillo, those Woodshop students did a fine job on their projects.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

NOW THAT I'M OLDER, HERE'S WHAT I'VE DISCOVERED:

The world only beats a path to your door when you're in the bathroom.

If God wanted me to touch my toes, He'd have put them on my knees.

When I'm finally holding all the right cards, everyone wants to play chess.

It is not hard to meet expenses. They're everywhere.

The only difference between a run and a grave is the depth.

These days, I spend a lot of time thinking about the hereafter.

I go somewhere to get something and then wonder what I'm there after.

Funny, I don't remember being absent-minded.

It's a lot better to be seen than viewed.
