Knox City's Hometown Variety store will be closing soon. The store's owners have indicated the merchandise will be sold off and the store closed in about 30 days.

Hometown Variety closing its doors

TOMMY WELLS The Knox County News

The sluggish economy, and the appeal of shopping out of town, will soon take its toll on another Knox County business.

The owners of the Hometown Variety store in Knox City announced on Monday that they would be closing the downtown business in the coming weeks due to poor sales.

"We all regret having to close it, but we just didn't have enough foot traffic.We just didn't get enough community support to choice," said Hawkins. keep it going," said Marla Hawkins, one of nine local investors who formed a partnership in 2011 to create the store.

The Knox City Economic Development Board was notified of the store's pending closure on Monday. The KCEDB, which owns the building, has said it will try and find another entity to go into building.

"We hate that we are going to have this beautiful building in downtown that is going to be emoty, but we just didn't have a

The Hometown Variety store initially opened in June 2011 when the group of local investors pooled their resources to create the store, which was needed after Duckwall's decided to close. Duckwall's operated in the building from 1998 to 2011.

Hawkins said the store was created with the idea that it would pay its own bills, and not so much as generate a profit. Unfortunately for Knox City, that never happened.

"In December, we had a great month but that was the only time it did," she said.

The downtown renovations didn't help, either, investors said. For aproximately four months, state workers had much of Central Ave. blocked for repaving and sidewalk replacement projects, making it hard for would-be customers to get into the business.

The store never recovered.

According to Hawkins, the merchandise in the store will be sold off over the next few weeks before the store closes.

Wichita Brazos Museum to hold ceremony

The Wichita Brazos Museum at Benjamin is inviting everyone to a special afternoon at the Museum on Sunday, Oct. 14 at 2 p.m.

The three-part program will begin with the dedication of the giant arrow located on the south side of the museum grounds. To be awarded the giant, colorful arrow, the museum had to provide proof of the presence of Indians in the county.

Among these proofs is a stor from Salt Pork to Sirloin, the History of Baylor County (Page 42, and column 1). It was in the Baylor County Banner in 1936, when it was taken from an Aug. 10, 1883, Seymour Weekly Crescent.

In 1855 (154 years ago), 300 Comanche, some Indians from a reservation near the present site of Graham, and Capt. Sul Ross and a company of men under him were camped near Seymour Creek in Baylor County. A Comanche chief, Pa-hah-yau-ca, attempted to kill Capt. Ross. During the incident, the chief's horse was shot down, and a reservation Indian killed the chief. The reservation Indians, and presumably Capt. Ross and his men, were soon engaged in a running battle that began at about the present site of Seymour and lasted for miles, reaching to the Narrows in Knox County.

The dedication on Oct. 14 will include a special guest, a descendant of famed Indian Quanah Parker. Doug and Frances Parker, of Munday, will tell about the Parker connection and research.

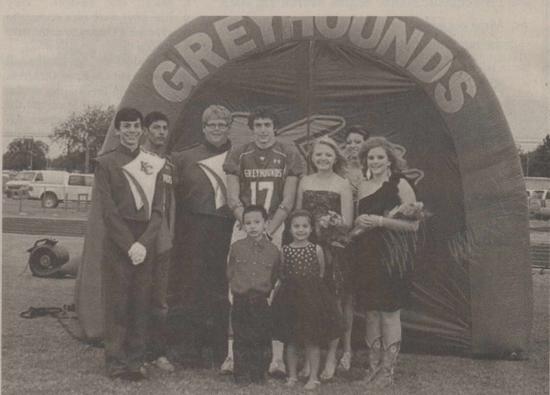

Following the dedication, Ervy McGreger, a former Knox County resident, now of Crowell, will speak to visitors about his collection of Indian artifacts. He will also exhibit artifacts he has collected in Knox County and nearby areas.

If there is time following his presentation, McGreger has indicated he will answer questions from people attending the dedication cer-

The Knox County News

Law enforcement in the City of Knox City got a new face last week when city officials hired a veteran peace officer to fill its vacant police chief duties.

The Knox City City Council approved the hiring of former Wheeler County deputy Caleb Hodges as the city's new chief of police. His first day on the job

"We're excited about having him," said KC City Administrator Chad Roberts. "We think he will do a great job here."

The son of newly-elected Throckmorton County Sheriff Ricky Hodges, Caleb is a six-year veteran of the law enforcement profession. Prior to taking the position with Knox with Gladene Green

We have had a little taste of winter during the last three or four days. On Saturday, with the wind blowing, the temperature seemed much lower than the forty-plus degrees showing on the thermometer. But today (Monday) I think it may start to warm up for a few days. The cotton farmers will be glad, as they still need some warm days before the harvest gets in full

My sincere sympathy to the family of Wilma Hogan of Munday. Wilma passed away Thursday after a courageous battle with cancer. Her funeral was Saturday in Munday. Wilma was such a nice person and well liked by everyone. She will be missed by so many.

HERE 'N THERE

Lorene Powers spent last week in Midland. She went out there, not only to visit her children, but to keep her regular dental appointment. However, she had to cancel it as she had a heart problem and had to come back to Abilene to see her cardiologist. From the tests he did, he didn't find any new problem, but she will have more extensive tests done later this week. I ask your prayers for Lorene during this time for her. She's always going strong, so when she slows down, we know she feels pretty bad. Hopefully, it won't be long before she's back to herself.

Kelly Moorhouse Livingston of Seymour underwent a liver transplant early last week in Dallas. According to her Uncle Tom, she's doing well and was to be put in a room yesterday (Sunday). Kelly is the daughter of John and Carolyn, and her husband is Reno. We also ask your prayers for her and her family.

Hazel Stockton was in Abilene

the Wound Clinic. Her leg is finally about well, and needless to say, she's glad. It's been about a three-month "ordeal" trying to get Sara Clower, student at HSU was home for the weekend to visit her Mom, Debbie, and other relatives and friends.

Mary Young and Imagean Young visited with Butch and Letha Young in Saginaw during the weekend and attended the wedding of Cody Graves and Linda Urizar in Bedford Saturday afternoon. Cody is the grandson of Butch and Letha. This was also a chance for a "mini" family get together for several of the Young Kenneth Tipton of Foustburg visited Bud Conner Friday night. He had been to Guthrie to the 6666 Horse Sale. Kenneth is the son of Sammy and Clara Tipton-Sammy is a former Benjamin resident of several years ago.

Brandon and Jessica Hutchinson of Abilene visited her Dad, Mike, (and Debi) Moorhouse during the weekend.

I talked to Susan White Friday. She's working in the office at Penman's in Knox City and says she really likes it.

Mike Young's family honored him Tuesday night with a dinner in the home of his Mom, Imagean. Fish and all the trimmings and cake was the menu. Present were Mike, Imagean, DeAnn Lamb, and Anthony and Jessica Lamb of Seymour. Just a few days before, DeAnn had a birthday and a few of us enjoyed a salad luncheon in her home. Attending were DeAnn, Imagean Young, Jane Gideon, Lorene Powers, and Gladene Green.

I talked to Jimmie Klutts Saturday, and she said James is not Wednesday to see the doctor at doing too well. He has lots of back problems that keep him pretty well "housed" in. Doctors are not sure just what to do for his pain because he has problems with pain medication.

Valerie Mendoza and Cory Thomas and baby girl, Tayah, of Abilene were weekend guests of her Mom, Lana Hale, and other relatives and friends.

Former resident, Heath Welch, now of Knox City, was a nominee for Football Hero Friday night, representing the Greyhounds. Though he wasn't elected, the fact that he was in the running speaks well for his popularity and ability. He is the son of Mitzi and Shane Welch. Also, Chasity Tolson was a nominee for Football Sweetheart. Chasity's Dad is Chad Tolson, who escorted her Friday night, (along with her Mom, Sylvia Garcia). Again, although she wasn't chosen, the nomination was an honor. It's good to have kids with Benjamin "ties" do well.

I saw Edith Broach Friday. She's had cataract surgery on one eye and will have the other one done in a week or so. She is the mother of Janet Reed, and a big supporter of her grandkids, Caleb, Jalyn, and Maddie Barrientez, and all their activities. Edith lives in

I understand new residents are moving into the Collins Moorhouse home on Hwy 6. Their name is King, and they have some children in school, and that's all I know. It will be good to have them in our community.

And one final remark-Is everyone as stunned, frustrated, aggravated, and sad as I am about the Rangers? I could not believe after the season they have had, that they are now OUT! Oh well, we'll see what 2013 brings, and I still like 'em-win or lose.

State revises way of purging rolls

AUSTIN — The State of Texas last week agreed to drop its recently adopted practice of using "weak matches" of Social Security Administration data in purging names from voter rolls as required by a 2011 state law.

What precipitated th ment was a lawsuit filed Sept. 20 in a Travis County district court by Austin attorneys Buck Wood and David Richards on behalf of four plaintiffs who were among some 70,000 Texans who were mailed a letter from the state's chief elections officer, Secretary of State Hope Andrade, instructing recipients to fill out a form and send it to their local voter registrar within 30 days — or be presumed dead — and consequently stricken from the list of registered voters. Pursuant to the agreement, Andrade stopped using weak matches, or part of a name and part of a social security number, to identify deceased or possibly deceased

Names on voter rolls that have been "strong matched" through Social Security Administration death index data will get a letter and have 30 days to respond.

Meanwhile, Oct. 9 was the last day to register to vote. Looking forward, on Monday, Oct. 22, early voting begins.

And, on the subject of voting, Texans last week saw the campaign season move to the front burner with the first of three scheduled debates between incumbent President Barack Obama and Republican challenger Mitt Romney taking place on Oct. 3 and the first of two debates between U.S. Senate nominees, Democrat Paul Sadler and Republican Ted Cruz on Oct. 2.

School fund finishes strong

Gov. Rick Perry, Lt. Gov. Da-Texas Education Agency on Oct. 2 announced "an outstanding return on the investments" of the Permanent School Fund for fiscal year 2011-2012, closing with a value of $25.5 billion and a return of 9.44 percent on its investments.

School offers $10,000 degree

Gov. Rick Perry on Oct. 2 praised Angelo State University's new $10,000 degree program and called on more Texas universities to follow suit, the governor's office announced Oct. 2 in San Angelo.

Joined by Texas Tech University System Chancellor Kent Hance, Angelo State University President Joseph C. Rallo and state Rep. Drew Darby, R-San Angelo, the governor applauded Angelo State "for joining the growing list of universities that are thinking hard about how to educate more Texans at a reasonable cost."

Under the program, Perry said, any qualifying student could enter Angelo State as a freshman and in four years leave with a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies for less than $10,000 in tuition and fees, starting in the fall of 2013.

Enforcement numbers come in

Data released by the College BoTexas Department of Public Safety on Oct. 2 reported troopers made 1,859 arrests of motorists for driving while intoxicated during an Aug. 19 to Sept. 5 enforcement period that included the Labor Day holiday.

Increased patrols in high-risk locations also netted an estimated 25,000 speeding citations, more than 3,800 seat belt and child safety seat citations, 1,190 fugitive arrests and 877 felony arrests, the DPS reported.

Dewhurst names panel chairs

Lt. Gov. David Dewhurst on Oct. 4 announced the appointment of Senate committee chairs for the 2013 legislative session. The appointees are:

Kel Seliger, R-Amarillo, Higher Education; Robert Nichols, R-Jacksonville, Transportation; Tommy Williams, R-The Woodlands, Finance; Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, Government Organization; Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, Open Government; Craig Estes, R-Wichita Falls, Agriculture, Rural Affairs and Homeland Security; Dan Patrick, R-Houston, Education; and Juan "Chuy" Hinojosa, D-McAllen, Intergovernmental Relations.

Obituaries

Wilma Ruth Measles Hogan

Wilma Ruth Measles Hogan, 72, passed away on Oct. 3, 2012 in the Knox County hospital.

Wilma was born on Oct. 23, 1939 in Olton, Texas. She was the youngest of five children born to J.G. and Mary Measles.

She married Bud Hogan on March 17, 1962. Wilma had great administrative and people skills and during her life she worked at various businesses including the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, Plainview ISD, and a law firm to name a few.

In 1986, Wilma and Bud moved to Munday where

Wilma opened a barber shop and became active in the local chamber of commerce and involved with her community and church. Wilma was a lifelong volunteer whose passions were channeled into work with the Relay for Life, the Republican party, the Emmaus community, Munday's Vacation Bible School and her home church, Believer's Chapel.

Wilma is survived by her husband of 50 years, Bud Hogan, her two daughters, Lana Jordan and Jana Nelson, her sister, Mary Lu Grant, her brother, Bob Measles, 10 grandchildren, three great grandchildren and numerous beloved nieces, nephews and cousins.

Visitation was held on Friday, Oct. 5, 2012, from 5-7 p.m. at McCauley-Smith Funeral Home in Munday. Funeral services were held on Saturday, Oct. 6, 2012 at 11 a.m. at the First Baptist Church in Munday. Burial followed in the Johnson Memorial Cemetery under the direction of Mc-Cauley-Smith Funeral Home in Munday.

Donations can be given in Wilma's name to Samaritan's Purse or Believer's Chapel

God's Promise

How to know God loves you

"And you have forgotten that word of encouragement that addresses you as sons: "My son, do not make light of the Lord's discipline, and do not lose heart when He rebukes you, 6 because the Lord disciplines those He loves, and He punishes everyone He accepts as a son." 7 Endure hardship as discipline; God is treating you as sons. For what son is not disciplined by his father? 8 If you are not disciplined (and everyone undergoes discipline), then you are illegitimate children and not true sons"

As a teenager, I worked for my dad in the summer at the auto parts store he managed. Over the two summers I worked for him, I saw what a good leader in business looked like. I learned a lot from watching him; however, there was one thing I observed that I thought was strange at the time. Over time I have come to realize it was very

I saw my dad strongly correct and discipline a couple of employees for incorrect behavior, attitude or salesmanship. Working in the secular world for many years, I unfortunately came to realize that this is needed at times. It wasn't the correction that took me back, but what I saw my dad do within minutes after each incident. He was laughing and working side by side with those he corrected. As a teenager I thought that was just plan weird?

What I came to realize over time is that my dad wanted these men to succeed and if they continued on the wrong path they were taking, it would cost the company, that person would be fired, or demoted at best, and would reflect poor leadership on his part. Ultimately my dad cared about his employees and wanted the best for them, as he did for our family.

This is very much the way our Heavenly Father treats us also. His greatest desire for our success is in accomplishing His will, success in our personal achievements and that we live a good example to those who are watching. If you are a true Believer...others are watching your every move to catch you in a fault or to catch the good life you are living!

Have you been strongly disciplined by God? If you have been rebuked you are in good company. Even better is if you received it and still honored God like David did by the Prophet Nathan over his adultery and murder (2 Samuel 12); Naaman (2 Kings 5:1-15) was gently rebuked by his servant; Jesus rebuking Peter for standing in the way of God's plan (Mark

If we do not respond properly we can be like Baalam (Numbers 22). He was rebuked by a donkey who saved his life; Religious leaders numerous times by Jesus who missed Heaven because of it! It's very sad to think that these men who were supposed to represent God to the people, Jesus called children of the devil (John 8:44)!

I know what it feels like to be rebuked...I do not like it, but after I have accepted it I realized that God loved me enough to try to make me a success in spite of my failures. Case in point, while working in the beef industry we were teasing a guy who had tried all kinds of crazy things to find the truth. This guy who stood 6'4" got in my face and said to me, "I'm trying hard to get right with God and you are not helping!" I was ashamed and felt the sting of the Father's rebuke through Bryn. We came to be very close brothers in the faith and encouraged each other in our walks with God!

A rebuke is hard to accept, but when it comes by God's hand through a person or even a child, through circumstances or maybe an old donkey talking to us... accept it because His correction could be the difference between our success or failure! Remember, God rebukes/disciplines us because He loves us and is helping us to achieve victory in life!

Laughing is good for your brain health

You've probably heard the old saying that you should laugh more because laughter is the best medicine. Laughing is a good remedy for many things in life-we all need humor and levity to combat daily stresses. Laughing is not only a great release; it is available to everyone, anywhere, anytime.

If you've wondered if laughter is good for your health, you're not alone. Can laughter really have hidden benefits other than simply being an automatic emotional response to seeing or hearing something funny?

University of Maryland Medical Center (UMMC) researchers say ves. They studied people who laugh every day, several times a day to see if there was a connection between laugher and health benefits.

What they found was that on a biological level laughing introduces additional oxygen into the body. Lymph fluids are circulated and increased levels of oxygen boost immune system function. Laughing, in a sense, 'pumps' oxygen through vital organs and tissues, which need the oxygen to repair damage, fight infection and keep you feeling healthy.

People who laugh on a consistent basis tend to have lower blood pressure than those who laugh occasionally.

Humor and laughter may also have powerful effects on memory, brain health and aging. If the mental effects of laughter are as positive as the physical, then it is time to learn a few new jokes, gather some friends and start improving your brain health the easy way. Make them laugh. Polish those punch lines and improve your brain health.

Use these tips to add more laughter

Find humor in everyday things.

Be a child again—find amusement in the most ordinary things.

 Increase your exposure to comedy such as funny books, movies, and live

· Make sure you have funny friends.

· Take time each day to laugh.

 If you hear a joke that makes you laugh, remember it, chances are it will make someone else laugh too!

Our son could start with more than us at one time, She-Who-Must-Not-Be-Made-Mad was actually young, which means that many moons ago we were once a young couple.

Of course, being a young couple we didn't have much of anything. Actually, everything we owned really belonged to our parents who "gave" it to us so we wouldn't think about moving back in with them.

It's a story as old as time itself. Boy meets girl. Girl tells boy she is rich. Boy marries girl. Girl has kids and no money.

Having the "no money" part was (still is) a bummer, you know. You have to make choices that aren't always fun.

We we first got hitched we were so financially challenged we couldn't pay attention. You heard of "champagne taste with a beer budget?" We couldn't even afford beer.

We had one bed for all six of us, and the only alarm we had was my parents beating on the door every

I remember once when we were poor (I simply refuse to believe that

This may shock some of you, but we are now) we only had $1.34 cents to our day with more several days to go before payday. What to do? What

Being the manly man that I am, I wasn't to "big" to admit I needed help and call my family. In fact, if I hadn't developed an intense illness that robbed me of my voice, I would have called. As it was, SWMNBMM was forced into emergency action to call our banker (my younger brother) to wire us some money - which he always did.

Even though Bodeen always sent us money, this particular day was pretty tough. We had six mouths that wanted to chew on vittles, and four of those were under the age of six. It is amazing how calm the kids were facing this dilemma, and how spastic SWMNBMM was.

I am happy to say we survived, though. I took out $1.34 and walked to the store and bought a couple packages of Ramen noodle. While I was out, I stopped by the convenience store and "borrowed" a handful of sugar and salt packets and then headed over to the office where I worked, where I found returned home and presented them to SWMNBMM.

To my surprise, she turned that meager stuff into a real meal. She crumbled the Ramen noodles into a pot (remind me to tell you later that I hate Ramen noodles), mixed in the contents from the salt packets and stirred. Then, to my surprise, she opened the just plain lies.)

refrigerator door and pulled out half a stick of butter and chunked it in. Then she took the lemon juice, mixed it with water and sugar and made lemonade.

The lemonade was good.

Any way, I tell you this story because my youngest son, Bobby, and his girlfriend may have an easier time, if at some point down the road they decide to get hitched.

Not only did Bobby learn how to make Ramen noodle/butter soup, he already knows how to call dad for

Not only that, they has an alarm clock that can wake the dead.

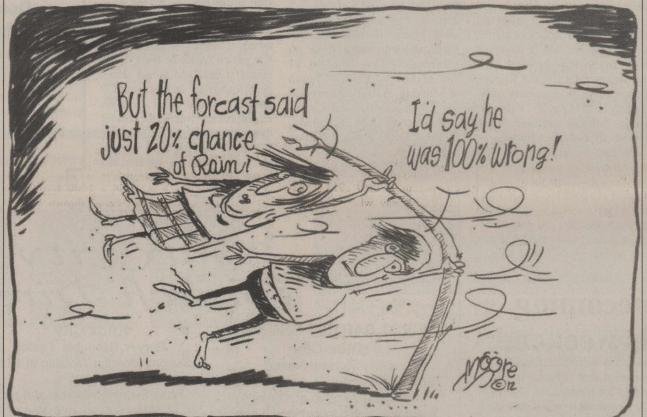

We found this out the hard way last week when Willis (I promised I would say her name is Chelsea in the story), fell asleep in the floor. All of a sudden, she posterior end erupted loud enough to wake herself up.

And us, too!

I promise that will wake you up ... poor or not!

earning from the land of 'fruit and nuts'

Gas prices hit $6 a gallon in San Diego on Columbus Day. That is almost hard to swallow and the problem is regulation. My biggest fear is that we will not learn from the granola crunchers out west and get sucked in by some liberals in Austin

The taxes on a gallon of unleaded gas is 66 cents per gallon in California compared to just 38 cents in Texas. The average SUV or truck (this is Texas, you know) has a 25-gallon tank, so we pay $8 per fill-up just to Uncle Sam.

Don't blame the oil companies ... they make less per fill-up than our government. Exxon makes a whopping 8 cents per gallon profit on a gallon of gas, or $2 profit when we fill up. Yet the government always demonizes the oil companies.

I don't get why anyone would complain about making 66 cents profit for every gallon of gas sold in California when the people that produce, distribute and sell the product - and have all the risks - make 8

The biggest problem we face with gasoline is refining it. We do not have a oil shortage, we have a shortage of places to make the product. The nut huggers out west have made the regulations so strict they have closed down some refineries in California, and have had some pipelines broke, sabotaged. It has hit the working people's wallets. That is the reason the huge jump in gas prices, imagine if the EPA (Obama's gestapo) decided to shut down 10 percent of the refineries nationwide? Seriously, would you be surprised? I wouldn't.

The biggest issue is getting new refineries built. In the last 30 years, we have seen gasoline consumption in the US go up 50 percent. Yet, we have not built one new refinery. What we have done is close them down. In

Just Jeff

By Jeff Stanfield

1945, we had 345 refineries. Today, we have around 150.

Wonder why the price is going

Hey don't blame it on the oil companies, dirty air and all that other hogwash they feed us. The emissions from today's refineries are less toxic Hey, I want clean air but we live in West Texas so we get dust with ours. I say build a refinery out here. Hell, we produce the oil so let's make the gas here. I drive by a refinery in Three Rivers, Texas, at least once a year and everyone seems to be healthy (matter of fact, most of the people I noticed are built like me - healthy). It refines 100,000 barrels of crude a day and employees 300 people.

That folks would be a common sense approach to fixing the gas prices, letting people have great jobs, and allow them to get out of the cities to raise their kids.

Maybe our government needs to stop trying to regulate so much and just enjoy spending the profits of taxing us to death.

'Hounds reach .500 with win over Cowboys

The Knox County News

Krys Campos and the Knox City High School Greyhounds picked the perfect time to find their offense.

The Greyhounds rolled up 327 total yards and six touchdowns and rolled to a 38-31 victory over the Woodson Cowboys on homecoming night at Greyhound Sta-

With the win, Knox City notched its second straight win and rolled into the start of district play with a plenty of momentum. Overall, Knox City improved to 3-3 for the season.

The loss dropped Woodson to 4-2 for the year.

The Greyhounds drew first blood in the contest late in the first quarter. After forcing Woodson to turn over the ball on downs on their first series, Knox City went to work, reeling off three first downs before Tylynne Eaton capped the effort by hauling in a 14-yard strike from Campos with 3:17 left in the opening frame.

Campos turned in his best performance of the season since

The Munday and Rule volun- fire departments selected to share munities have a fire death rate twice the national average, according to the U.S. Fire Administration and National Fire Protection Association. Firefighters in these communities are also often less likely to have the necessary firefighting equipment and training. To help combat these challenges, the Monsanto Fund is investing in rural fire departments and helping to keep farming communities safer through America's Farmers Grow Com-

> As a result of the worst drought in 50 years, more than 700 of the 1,271 Grow Communities counties have been declared natural disaster areas by the USDA. Winning farmers from these counties will have the opportunity to direct an additional $2,500 donation to a second nonprofit of their choosing to assist with community needs that have surfaced due to the drought.
