Capture Bir Hacheim, British On Defensive

BERLIN (P)—The German high command announced that its land forces Thursday morning stormed and captured Bir Hacheim, southern anchor of the British defense line in Italian Libya.

(This has not been confirmed but military circles in London admitted that the Berlin claim probably was true. They added that the fall of Bir Hacheim would relieve the supply difficulties of the Germans around the British southern flank but that the Bir Hacheim position was not regarded as vital to the British campaign.

(If indeed the little stronghold has been beaten down it was only after at least 13 Axis assaults in a desert battle now 17 days old.)

Defended at first by a Free French force alone against Italian attacks, the little outpost once sent out the taunt: "Send us more Italians."

(In the later stages of the fight, German mechanized forces and artillery were thrown against the stronghold, supported by dive-bombers, and British reinforcements were sent to help out.

(Thursday's British communiqué—an old report from the Germans—said that further Axis attacks on Bir Hacheim were repulsed Wednesday and told of enemy air attacks there "on an increased scale.")

Bombs Deadly, So Keep Off Range, Citizens Warned

The bombs dropped on target ranges surrounding Midland Army Flying School may be traveling as fast as 1200 feet a second.

These bombs weigh 100 pounds each. In each bomb is a powerful charge. Should one of these bombs strike an automobile—or a human being—it is not hard to imagine what would happen.

This information was announced Thursday by Lieut. Col. Richard H. Smith, director of training at the bombardier college, as a "warning to all civilians to stay clear of bombing ranges."

Said Colonel Smith: "A number of persons have been frequenting the bombing ranges in an attempt to collect the parachutes used in dropping night-bombing flares. This practice not only is a violation of the law, for these ranges are government property, but also is exceedingly dangerous."

"Whenever these flares have been dropped, there will be bombing operations. Frequently, the planes will be flying too high to be seen or heard from the ground, and persons on the range areas have no warning of falling bombs."

He emphasized especially that the bombs are dangerous within a wide area around the point of impact, pointing out that the great speed at which a bomb travels, coupled with the explosion of its powder charge, throws deadly fragments of metal in all directions.

All bombing ranges are posted with warning signs, Colonel Smith said. "If necessary, strict measures will be taken to enforce these warnings against trespassing on the danger areas."

There Will Be Plenty Of Ceiling Prices Now

SAN DIEGO (P)—OPA executive John A. Donnelly stepped into a grocery store to make a purchase and noted no ceiling prices posted.

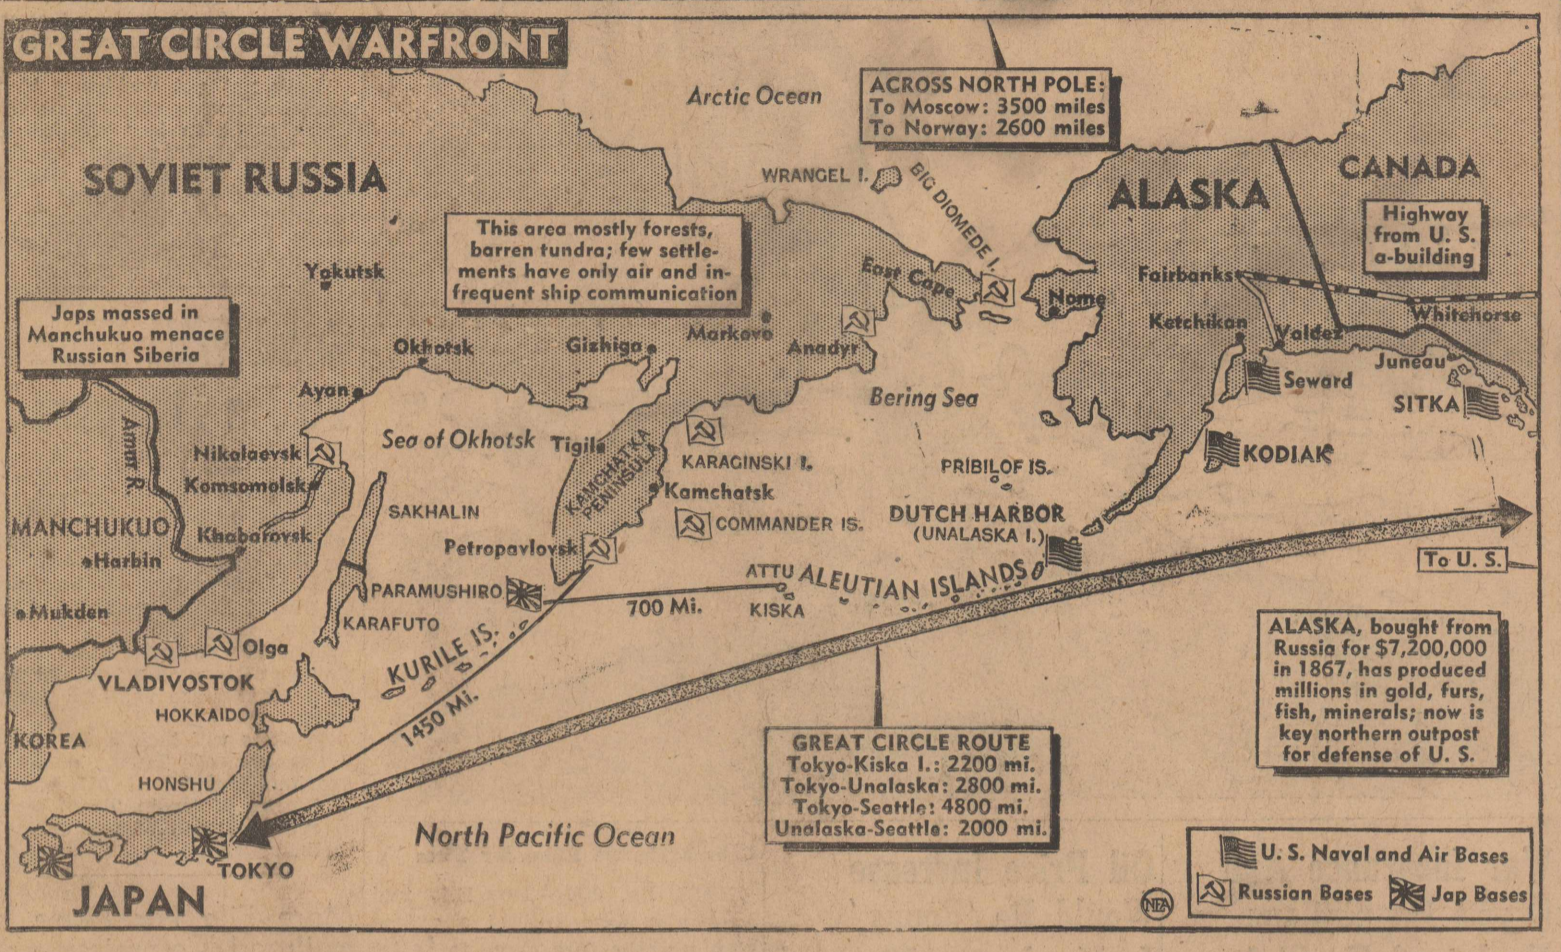

"How come?" he asked the grocer.

"Oh, I don't pay any attention to those darn fool rules that OPA," came the reply.

He does now!

War is rolling along the great circle route, which is actually a straight line over the earth's curved surface, the shortest distance between Japan and the U. S. west coast. Jap attacks on Dutch Harbor—almost midway along the great circle between Seattle and Tokyo—may be the beginning of a series of clashes in the northerly, thinly settled arena mapped above.

Half Of Attacking Jap Ships Sunk, Crippled

Thousands Of Japs Killed, Nimitz Says, Giving Battle Data

PEARL HARBOR (P)—Probably half of a Japanese invasion armada of more than 30 warships were casualties in the running sea battle with victorious American forces off Midway last week, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific Fleet, disclosed.

Final results of the battle, which ended in a rout of the Japanese, still haven't been tallied, but Nimitz said Wednesday thousands of Japanese must have perished—left to drown by their shipmates on the run before the Americans.

The battle ended Saturday when the pursuing Americans lost contact with the enemy in the darkness.

Nimitz listed American losses in the three-day battle as one destroyer, one aircraft carrier damaged, and the loss of an undisclosed number of planes.

Against this, he reported Japanese losses as two and perhaps three aircraft carriers sunk with all of their planes; one destroyer sunk and three battleships and eight to 11 other ships damaged.

Mayor Ulmer Says MAFS Graduates Have Initiative, Enterprise And Ability To Win War And Save Nation

Ready to blast the Axis, another class of bombardiers graduated from the Midland Army Flying School Thursday morning and became officers in the world's finest air force.

Brigadier General I. Davies, commander of the Bombardier College, congratulated the class and welcomed the bombardiers as officers in "the finest air force in the world."

Mayor M. C. Ulmer told the new officers Americans face "a staggering responsibility" to save the nation.

"We are sacrificing to take care of the men who fight our battles and we will flourish more and more," the mayor said in the graduation address. He was introduced by General Davies.

"We have men with the initiative, ability and enterprise to win this war," Mayor Ulmer said. "You have a job to do. You will do it and our eyes will be upon you. You have our good will, our best thoughts and our sincere good wishes. We'll keep the faith with you, God bless you."

Less than a year ago, the War Department announced plans for building the world's largest bombardier college at Midland. The class Thursday was the third to be graduated.

General Davies praised efforts of Mayor Ulmer to make Midland air-minded in developing the large municipal airport which became the home of the Bombardier College and praised the mayor and citizens of Midland for their cooperation in the development of the large bombardier training center here.

"We expect much from you graduates," the mayor said. "You, in turn, have a right to expect much from those who swear allegiance to our great flag. You are called on to defend our ideals. War was not a matter of choice with the United States and never has been. "War came as a result of our idealism—our freedom, our liberty, our faith in God and our faith in fellowman. We believe in justice, freedom and equity. Our spirit is right. "We must conquer the forces of (See ULMER, Page 5)

World's Largest Pipe Line Soon To Serve Texas

WASHINGTON (P)—The War Production Board has approved immediate construction of the world's largest petroleum conduit—a 550-mile, 24-inch pipeline from Longview, Texas, to Salem, Ill., to increase the flow of oil to the East.

The pipeline is to be completed about Dec. 1 and will deliver 350,000 barrels of oil a day to the Salem area for transshipment East by tank cars, barges and Great Lakes tankers.

However, Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the board, said it probably would be used primarily for fuel oil. There was no indication that it would bring any relaxation of Eastern gasoline rationing.

Some officials expressed a hope that the line eventually would be extended from Salem to the New York-Philadelphia refining area. A Texas-New York line was requested by Petroleum Coordinator Ickes last fall, but WPB refused to grant priorities on steel.

The Longview-Salem conduit, the WPB found, could be built of seamless steel tubing without interfering with delivery of steel for weapons or shipbuilding.

It is expected to cost about $40,000,000. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is to negotiate the financing and decide whether the line will be government or privately owned. Eleven major oil companies proposed the pipeline originally and offered to do their own financing.

Construction is to start in about a month.

Good Show, And How! Say Bombardiers Of Battle With Japs

GENERAL EMMONS HEADQUARTERS, Territory of Hawaii (P)—"A better show than the World Series" was the way crew members of one of the Army's big B-17 Bombers described the battle of Midway.

Pilot Captain Charles E. Gregory of Houston nudged his co-pilot and fellow Texan, Lieut. Robert O. Pate of Dallas, the first time they saw anti-aircraft shells coming up at them.

"We felt so good to be in action," the captain recalled, "that we just laughed at those shells."

That's the way the whole crew felt, from Bombardier Lieut. Henry H. Flits of Macon, N. C., who sat in the nose and saw his bombs hit a Japanese aircraft carrier, to tail gunner Corp. Melvin E. Lomax of Wichita, Kansas, who during the fight called to Gregory over the interplane radio, "Hey, Captain, slow down and let that Zero (Japanese fighter plane) catch up with us!"

None of the crew had much time to think of being scared, although navigator Lieut. Yale H. Lewis of St. Louis, Mo., commented, "The first time I saw those Jap bullets flying past, I began thinking awfully hard about my girl and hoping I'd get back to see her some day."

These men all came back without a scratch and with their planes undamaged by Jap bullets or shells.

Britain, Russia Sign 20-Year Pact; Pledge Will Restore Allies

Roosevelt, Eden Announce Visits With Molotov; Second Front Plans Decided On, But No Announcements Are To Be Made

By The Associated Press.

The United States, Great Britain and Russia were officially disclosed Thursday to have reached a "full understanding" on "the urgent task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

A White House announcement, issued simultaneously with a British statement in London, said President Roosevelt and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov had reached agreement regarding the problem of launching a mighty Allied offensive against Germany.

WASHINGTON (P)—President Roosevelt and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, the White House announced Thursday, have reached a "full understanding" in conversations in Washington "with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

The White House, in a formal statement disclosing that Molotov had visited this country, gave no additional details on a second front.

The American President and the Russian Commissar, the White House said, also attained a "unity" of views on two other vital questions pertaining to their war efforts.

"Measures for increasing and speeding up the supplies of planes, tanks and other kinds of war materials" from the United States to Russia, and the "fundamental problems of cooperation of the Soviet Union and the United States in safeguarding peace and security to the freedom-loving peoples after the war."

"Both sides state, with satisfaction," the statement declared, "the unity of their views on all these questions."

Molotov, bespectacled, 52-year-old right-hand man of Premier Joseph Stalin, arrived in Washington on May 29 and left on June 4. He now is safely back home, the White House said.

London Pact Washington Pact

LONDON (P)—Pledging themselves to rebuild Europe on the terms of the Roosevelt-Churchill Atlantic Charter, Britain and Russia have signed a 20-year mutual assistance treaty "against Hitlerite Germany," Foreign Minister Anthony Eden announced Thursday.

The pact was signed on May 26 by Eden and Russia's Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, at the British foreign office after the Russian statesmen had come from Washington.

The United States was kept fully informed of the London negotiations, it was said. Japan is not mentioned in the British-Russian treaty.

The announcement was the first official disclosure that Molotov had been in the United States or London.

Paralleling the London treaty was a series of military discussions in which the "urgent need" of a second European front was agreed upon, it was announced.

Eden said that a "full understanding" had been reached with "regard to the urgent task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942," but whether the actual opening of such a front was definitely decided on was not stated.

The treaty provides "for common action to preserve peace and resist aggression in the post-war period."

It pledges the nations "not to enter into any negotiations" with Hitler's government or any German government that fails to renounce aggression.

Britain and Russia agreed to render one another "all possible economic assistance after the war" and to avoid participating in any alliance directed against the other contracting force.

In the reconstruction of Europe, the two nations agreed to be guided by the principles of "not seeking territorial aggrandizement for themselves" and "not interfering in the internal affairs of other states," Eden said.

The two countries have agreed, Eden said, that they would "work for the organization of security and economic prosperity" in Europe, taking into account the interests of the United Nations.

Britain and Russia are willing "to unite with other like-minded states in adopting proposals for common action to preserve peace and resist aggression," Eden said, "foreseeing a post-war organization similar to the League of Nations."

Louisiana Cancels Tax, Gets Refinery

BATON ROUGE, La. (P)—The House Thursday passed 69 to 17 a bill repealing the present oil refining tax of one cent per barrel contingent upon construction of a 50,000-barrel per day refinery at Lake Charles.

Rep. Gilbert H. Graham of Lake Charles told the House that the Cities Service Oil Company would build a $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 gasoline refinery at Lake Charles if the tax is repealed. Otherwise, Graham said the refinery would be located in Texas where there is a more favorable tax rate.

Church Of Christ Redecorates Building

For the past three weeks workmen have been engaged in redecorating the North Side Church of Christ, located at 500 North A Street.

According to C. C. Morgan, minister of the church, the building has been refurbished inside and out from the roof to foundation at a cost of several hundred dollars. During this time the congregation met in the North Ward school building, but moved back home last Lord's Day and the summer meeting starting Monday night will be conducted in the building.

Senate Approves More Pay For Soldiers

WASHINGTON (P)—The Senate completed Congressional approval Thursday of a military wage adjustment bill fixing a minimum pay scale of $50 a month for the armed forces, effective as of June 1, 1942.

Ending a month of controversy which twice saw the bill sent to conference, the House voted 383 to 0 Wednesday to adhere to its previously expressed determination not to accept the original Senate proposal of $42 a month.

Since the Senate finally instructed its members of a joint conference committee to accept the $50 figure, the formal approval of that body was considered certain.

Peace Objectives

It is a sign of the times, an evidence of our increasing optimism, that almost everybody is talking again about the kind of peace we should make after this war.

Up to the moment President Roosevelt signed the Lend-Lease Act, putting this country into the war in fact though not in name, a majority of Americans were asking bluntly why we should fight—what there was in the conflict for us.

Their questions were sensible, and neither provincial nor selfish. They were not inquiring, most of them, whether we should demand money or territory or special privilege for ourselves. All they wanted to know was what reason we would have—if we financed another World War and sent our best youth to die on foreign battlefields—to suppose that a victory would be any more substantive and secure in the 1940's than was the "peace" of Versailles.

Once the die was cast, for the moment such questions became academic. We were at war, then. Like it or not, it was our task to beat the bejehers out of Hitler and Mussolini and Hirohito, and then make the best terms we could to safeguard our children and our children's children.

We haven't beaten the Axis yet. A cold-blooded balance-sheet reckoning would show us badly in the red. But we have stopped the seemingly invincible Nazi war machine, slowed or stopped the little brown heathen, and arrived at a point where we can see daylight ahead.

Naturally, then, we recall the Atlantic Charter, which is our only real semblance of a specific internal postwar objective, and we begin to ask how the four freedoms actually can be made effective.

What about Germany? Shall we limit criminal blame to Hitler and a few topnotch Nazis, or shall we consider that only a mad dog race would have played the brutal game as Germany has? Shall we seek to eliminate friction by giving her a more generous place in the international sun, or destroy her as a world power and confine her like a maniac?

What about the unstable, uneconomic, bickering little nations carried over from World War I or set up thereafter? Shall we restore them by duress, or force upon them a sensible economic regrouping that will satisfy none of their peoples?

Are we prepared to insist that the occidental nations shall concede the four freedoms to China, which has done a swell job on our behalf? To India, which we want freed just now, when her help would be useful?

These specific questions merely outline and highlight the monstrous problem which everybody, from President Roosevelt down to youngsters in high school, are pondering gravely.

We can't settle them yet. We can't settle them alone. We're just one of the United Nations. But all the forethought we can give will be so much rich grist for the mill, when the time comes.

—Buy War Bonds And Savings Stamps—

Be Reasonable

While we hang back and do nothing without pressure, others of our people carry patriotism to an extreme, and do as much harm as good. We shall have to sacrifice a lot to win this war. Why, then, make ourselves unnecessarily miserable?

For example, we're limited to half a pound of sugar for each person each week. That amount was fixed by experts, who say that half a pound is needed, and no more. The man or woman who uses more is a chiseler. The person who uses less is depriving his body of nourishment it needs particularly when, as now, nervous stress is considerable.

Canada's Choice

Many Canadians are said to be worrying lest the close economic ties welded by the war may lead, eventually, to annexation of the Dominion by the United States.

We believe we speak for the overwhelming majority of Americans in suggesting that if ever Canada is joined to the United States, it will be by free choice of the Dominion's people. On such a basis, probably most United States Americans would welcome Canadian Americans into a homogeneous North American nation. We like them, we admire and respect them. We go no further.

China Needs Help

Maj.-Gen. Chu Shih-Ming, Chinese military attache, does not overstate his country's case when he says, pointing out that Japan is trying for a knockout, that his people "cannot beat back the enemy with mere flesh and blood."

We must never forget that we have two valiant buffer nations to keep intact this year, in order that next year or the one after we may be in position to beat the Axis. One is Russia, slapping Hitler's face while we get ready to kill him off. The other is China, whose glorious battle against odds has contributed to saving of Australia and, we hope, India.

People never forget to pack the things they don't need when going on vacation.

A Chicago doctor says "nobody really is lazy." Maybe he is just too lazy to realize his mistake.

War Insurance And Credit Regulations Explained To Club

New Federal credit regulations and the war damage insurance plan were explained to Midland Rotarians at their meeting Thursday noon in Hotel Scharbauer.

The government's new credit buying regulations were explained by R. A. Weaver, who also recalled the history of credit and the part it has played in the world's progress.

Weaver predicted the new regulations will "help the country and help the people."

"Credit has helped bring a higher type of life," Weaver asserted.

Blanket Rates Set

The new war damage insurance program was outlined by Percy Mims who said the insurance companies will write the policies on blanket rates set by the government. In the plan to keep the cost of this insurance nominal the companies will receive only 3 1/2 per cent of the premiums and the agents 5 per cent. It covers damage inflicted on real or personal property by the enemy, Mims said.

Damage caused by American forces or allies of the United States, not engaged in battle with the enemy, is not covered by the new insurance.

Private Wallace Wimberly, home on furlough from Fort Bliss, described the recent trip of Midland men to the induction center to enter the Armed Forces. He will return to Fort Bliss in a few days. Clint Lackey was program chairman and Tom Sealy, president, presided at the session.

Oil Price Increase Would Be 'Bonus,' Is Henderson View

WASHINGTON (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson has told a Congressional committee of an unwillingness to grant a general price increase of 25 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil.

An informed person said that Henderson stated his job was to keep prices down and that such an increase, as proposed by independent producers in the Midcontinent Field, would amount to $365,000,000 yearly.

"If it is necessary to bring in, by some incentive," Henderson told the committee, "an additional amount of small wells by wildcatting, I certainly think that in this emergency we are warranted in looking for other methods of approach."

House Refuses To Cut WAP Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a four-vote margin the House refused Thursday to cut by half the funds proposed for the WPA for the year beginning July 1.

The action by tellers' vote of 123 to 119 came on a motion by Rep. Taber (R-NY) to cut the WPA's direct allotment from $280,000,000 to $140,000,000. He explained that there was an additional $56,000,000 available in the agency's unexpended funds.

Republicans voted almost solidly for the cut, and were joined by approximately two score democrats. Approximately 15 republicans voted against the reduction.

House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass) took the floor to assert that the WPA "has rendered a great service and there is a need for its continuance."

He said that President Roosevelt had cut the requirements "to the bone."

"Let's not put wishbones in the American people where their backs ought to be," pleaded Rep. Rich (R-Pa.), in urging the slash.

But Rep. Thomas Ford (D-Calif) maintained the cut would work "untold" hardships and said it would constitute a "blot" on the records of Congress.

Know America's Planes

LOCKHEED P-38

The Lockheed P-38, a hard-hitting interceptor-pursuit plane, has already rolled up a stellar performance record on many battle fronts of World War II. Known to the British as the "Lightning," it is a twin-engine, single-seat fighter with tremendous ability to rise off the ground quickly and intercept enemy bombers before they can reach their objective. It is powered with two Allison liquid-cooled engines and features the tricycle landing gear and three-blade propellers. While complete performance data is still restricted, it is known that the P-38 has a speed in excess of 400 miles per hour. The plane has been in mass production since 1941.

Copper For War May Hurt Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Military Affairs subcommittee was told Thursday that War Production Board officials are risking possible power shortages in some areas to meet constantly growing demands for copper for munitions.

J. S. Knowlson, director of WPE's industry operations division, testified that "the growing demand for power on the growing demand for copper have necessitated many compromises."

"In many places," he said, "we are taking chances of power shortages for which our only excuse is that need for shells today justifies the risk of a shutdown tomorrow."

The committee, of which Representative Faddis (D-Pa.) is chairman, is inquiring into whether the rural electrification administration's Ark-La Electric Co-operative, "wasted" hundreds of thousands of pounds of copper in building a transmission line from Oklahoma to Arkansas.

Knowlson said WPE's power division recommended priorities for this line, which will transmit power from Grand River Dam, in Oklahoma, to an aluminum plant at Lake Catherine, Ark.

THERE ARE SMILES, AND THERE ARE VOTES

McPHERSON, Kan. (AP)—Veteran politicians, wise in campaign tricks, smile over an incident that befell John Allison.

Allison, running for a senate office, stopped on the road to help two distressed women change a tire.

"Did you get their votes?" the friend inquired.

Allison snapped his fingers in vexation.

Texas Will Hear Little From Men Seeking Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—There won't be a lot of stump speechmaking in the election year by Texas' 21 United States representatives, all seeking to return for the first roll call of the 78th Congress, next January.

Eight face no opposition. Ten more definitely have opponents. The remaining three—because their congressional districts are comprised of a single county each—won't know until June 13 what kind of opposition they might face.

Whatever House campaigns lack in intensity, however, may be more than offset by the fight of Texas' junior Senator, W. Lee O'Daniel, to come back to Washington for a full six-year senatorial term.

Terms of Senators overlap, so that the veteran Texas legislator, Tom Connally, does not come up this year for reelection.

Senator O'Daniel has returned to Texas to carry on his campaign, with headquarters in Fort Worth. He opens his stump tour in Waco Saturday, along with Hal Collins, candidate for governor.

Representative Ewing Thomson of El Paso, who in several previous races for Congress drew no opposition, said that unless Congress recessed he felt he would "remain here at my post of duty" despite the fact that this year he had a candidate opposing him.

Kilday Still Seeking To Be Only Candidate

DALLAS (AP)—A hearing will be held Friday at 9 a. m. in the Fifth Court of Civil Appeals on legal action seeking to force the State Democratic Executive Committee to certify only the name of James E. Kilday on the ticket in the July 25 primary as a candidate for railroad commissioner for the vacancy left by the resignation of Jerry Sadler.

An application for mandamus was brought against the committee by Cecil Morgan of Fort Worth, Gabe P. Allen of Dallas and other attorneys, filing the suit in behalf of Kilday.

Indian Girl Is Asking Estate Of Tom Burnett

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Whether the late Tom Lester Burnett, wealthy landowner and cattleman, and Jennie Ho-We-Ah, beautiful Comanche girl, lived together 40 years ago as man and wife near Lawton, Okla., is before a district court jury here.

Mrs. Pena McArthur, daughter of the Indian, is contesting Burnett's will and seeking to establish claim to his estate on the grounds that she is Burnett's daughter by his tribal law marriage to Annie Ho-We-Th.

Members of the Comanche tribe testified to that effect Wednesday. Among the witnesses was Rev. White Parker, son of Chief Quannah Parker and grandson of Cynthia Ann Parker, white woman captured by the Indians.

He said that from 1905 for several years it was understood among the Comanches that Tom Burnett and Jennie Ho-We-Ah were man and wife.

Mrs. McArthur's petition values the Burnett estate at $3,000,000. It is established that she is Burnett's child, there will be another trial on her charge that the will is illegal.

SPORTING BLOOD

SERIAL STORY BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEA SERVICE, INC.

HUNTER DENT dazedly counted the sum of money again, and replaced the large denominations in the leather bag. A goldleaf monogram, almost obliterated by use, was of the First National Bank, Middleton. The Ballard Laboratories had their account in this bank. It was possible the money was Mr. Ballard's. Hunter went and looked down at the boy. He was breathing with a gurgling noise and seemed dead drunk.

"You know, mysteries always charm and challenge me," Bella said. "I'll wager you that if I had a clew I could solve this deep dark mystery."

He made a round of the house. Odd about the party's breaking up. Usually these things lasted all night. The house was as deserted as a tomb. He searched for Junior's car, a powerful, costly roadster, but it was not in the garage nor parked under the trees in the drive. "Funny," Hunter commented in his mind. The thought that struck Hunter made his pulse pound. Junior Ballard in all likelihood was so intoxicated that he would remember nothing of his coming to the office of Hunter's carrying him to his bed, perhaps not even how or where he had got the money! "All I would need to do," Hunter thought, "would be to keep the money in the safe. Junior will almost certainly get into trouble over it. Just before he has to go to jail, or the hot seat, I can have my inning with his daddy. Ballard will do anything for the boy. I've got him with his tail in the fence-crack, and all I need to do is let the fence drop smack-dab down on him!" Maybe it was a little shabby. But when you have just yielded up the fruits of some years of your own life because of an underhold, and you manage in turn to grab yourself an underhold even stronger, is that a moment in which to weaken? Hunter stiffened his spine and went in, going to bed so as to catch some more sleep before he rose early in the morning.

"Hello, Red," Hunter said, eyeing her with disapproval. Bella Ballard wore a bright peasant dress, a milkmaid's dress. If she had ever milked a cow he had not seen her. But for her father's registered herd she might have supposed milk grew in bottles and was plucked from trees. Her gay parody on a working-girl's costume some-how outraged the young manager. She was just a little too lovely, her lips were just a bit too kissable. She hadn't any right to be so damned attractive. It would have been different if she still followed him around as she did as a teen-aid. Now she was grown up. She would be married at Christmas to Oliver Tisdale.

TRUE, all this was poor excuse for his contrary venom. "What are you doing here? Clear out," he told her. He supposed this was jealousy. But she got on his nerves. "What's that you've got?" "The morning paper. It comes by the dawn cream truck. Since you seem to be illiterate I'd better read you the news which has crowded the war news off the front page." She shook the paper out.

"That's interesting," Hunter grunted. "Yes, it is. A bank messenger was shot last night and seventeen thousand—" Hunter grabbed the paper, read furiously, hitting the high spots. The slugged bank messenger was near death. Unconscious, and the police had been unable to question him. Identity of assailants unknown. The supposition was that a payroll, or secret movement of money in currency, had cleared through the First National on short notice, but bank authorities had not been contacted at the time of going to press. The job had all the earmarks of an inside stunt.

We, the Women

By Ruth Millett

There's a difference between the woman who wants to do all she can to help win the war and the woman who wants to do war work. The first has thought the problem through and decided where she is most needed at the present time. If she isn't tied to her home she has chosen—keeping her qualifications in mind—some kind of war work and devoted the necessary hours to training for it.

If she has small children, she has left the defense classes to women without children or whose children are older—knowing that her place for the present is at home—even though doing some kind of job labeled "war work" would better satisfy her craving to DO SOMETHING.

If she is a working woman she takes on as much outside work as she can manage without interfering with her efficiency—and no more.

She doesn't ignore the small things she is asked to do in the way of economizing, saving, leaving the car in the garage, etc. And she doesn't make any cracks about her country, not even if she begins the comment with "I guess I really shouldn't say this, but—" That is the woman who wants to do what she can to help win the war.

The woman who wants to do "war work" doesn't bother to figure out how she can be of the greatest help. She is likely to sign up for one defense course after another, while she neglects her family and the neighbors keep her kids out of the street.

SOME WOMEN SEEK PUBLICITY

Or she ignores the requests made of her by the government, but is Johnny-on-the-spot to tackle any kind of job that will get her name in the paper.

Often she is the woman who has always filled her life with an assortment of activities and lately has crowded some new organizations into her schedule simply because they are listed as "war work" and she wants to be in the swim.

Before this war gets any older every woman ought to find out if she is Type 1 or Type 2. For Type 1 is going to help win the war, while Type 2 is just going to run around in circles until it is over.

RETURN FROM VACATION
Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Cummings and son, Van, returned Wednesday from a vacation trip to Oklahoma.

By De Witt MacKenzie

Wide World War Analyst
The Japs, whose reputation for veracity isn't above reproach, claim they have been able to occupy western islands in our Aleutian chain off the Alaskan Peninsula, and they emphasize this as having "pointed a sword at the enemy's throat."

Washington replies through a Navy spokesman: "We have no information about any Japanese on Alaskan soil. Certainly none of our inhabited areas, islands or rocks are troubled with uninvited visitors up to this time."

Well, if the little men of Nippon are lying, who can blame them for trying to save face with their home folks in view of our great victory at Midway? Admiral Nimitz, commander of the U. S. Pacific fleet, discloses that our Midway forces routed an armada of over thirty warships, and that perhaps half the vessels of this great fleet were casualties, with the resulting deaths of thousands of Japanese. That will take some explaining to the people of the Mikado's domains, and the claim of a landing in the Aleutians may make the task easier.

To give the devil his due, we can't rule out the possibility that the Japs may have boarded some tiny, unoccupied rock. Anyway, if none of our "inhabited areas, islands or rocks," have been occupied, any argument about the matter is a tempest in a teapot. There are plenty of uninhabited spots among the volcanic pimples which form the islands in the western Aleutians where a Jap or a monkey could clamber ashore and hang on, though such a precarious perch would be a painful liability.

The Aleutians swing westward from the Alaskan Peninsula in a comet-like curve for a thousand miles towards Russian Kamchatka and Japan. Most of these islands are volcanic and some are active. They have rocky coasts and are very dangerous to approach because the land rises sharply from the sea to steep mountains.

Unalaska, which lies near the tip of the Alaskan Peninsula, is the biggest of the Aleutians and our air-naval base of Dutch Harbor is on an island in Unalaska Bay.

The position of Dutch Harbor becomes more significant when the National Geographical Society points out that "though it does not appear so on the flat map, Dutch Harbor is virtually on the shortest possible route from Seattle to Tokyo. This is true because of the curvature of the earth, which makes the great circle route the shortest distance between two points."

Had the Japanese captured Dutch Harbor they would have created a serious position for us.

However, the best they claim is occupation of something or other in the Western Aleutians. That need not cause undue anxiety, for this part of the island chain is virtually uninhabited, since the volcanic rocks present neither strategic nor economic inducement to man.

Wickard planned to lay before the committee a report that agricultural production prospects have rarely been better at this season of the year. The federal crop reporting board said that if the weather continues favorable, previous records of farm production may be considerably exceeded.

This was in sharp contrast with conditions in German-controlled Europe. Reports received by Wickard through State Department and other channels indicate that continental Europe faces one of its darkest food production seasons in years.

Wickard said the crop report supplied "added evidence that the productive capacity of this country will crush the Axis."

"It is evidence also," he added, "that the farmers of this country are doing everything in their power to help win the war."

Save Enough Metal For Another Big Ship

SOUTH PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—When the big Todd-Bath from Shipbuilding Corp. completes its twentieth 10,000-ton cargo carrier, the yard's keen-eyed scrap salvage crew will have collected and returned to foundries for reprocessing enough steel for one complete hull. The 12th, 13th and 14th ships will be launched this coming week-end. F. Emmett O'Connor, labor foreman and a leader of the reclaiming program estimates that the residue from plate trimmings and other cutting and shaving operations would average about 500 tons to each vessel. Salvage crews scoured the yard

Price Ceilings On Women's Clothing Have Been Revised

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Price ceilings on women's fall and winter coats and dresses have been revised from top to bottom. The order issued last month prohibited any price above the highest prevailing last fall, and provided that the garments must be of "substantially equal workmanship and quality" as those sold last autumn. The revised price formula, in general, bases the selling price on current costs plus the mark-up or

India Creates New War Board To Help Allies

NEW DELHI, India. (AP)—Creation of a War Resources Committee to carry out the major recommendations of United States mission for speeding India's industrial production was announced by the Viceroy's executive council.

It is estimated that one out of every six Australian men of military age now is in uniform.

More than 10,000,000 square yards of runway surface have been paved in new airports for Canada's war-time pilot training schools. Regardless of the season, the ocotillo, a desert plant, puts on a new crop of leaves after every rain. The amended regulation becomes effective June 15 and expires December 1, 1942.

Texas New Goal In USO Funds Campaign

AUSTIN. (AP)—Texans have poured $832,500 into the till of the United Service Organizations. Harry C. Weiss, state USO chairman, reports that three-fourths of the state's quota of $1,110,000 has been collected, with one of the 18 regions over the top. Region 14, headed by J. D. Sandefur, Jr., of Breckenridge, has reported 114 per cent of its quota and is still working, and 68 counties have reached or surpassed their goals, Weiss says.

British Ace Says One Gets Scared, But Goes Right On After Those Nazi Fighters; And He Shoots Down Plenty

Much Decorated 'Paddy' Tells Some Of Lessons An Air Fighter Learns

"Paddy" Finucane, who wrote the article below exclusively for NEA Service and The Reporter-Telegram, is the outstanding ace of the RAF. A hard-fighting Irishman, leading a squadron of rough and tough Australians, he is credited with downing at least 31 German planes.

sometimes you find you can't sleep. So you lie there in bed and you get to thinking what happened, trying hard to remember. It all doesn't come back at once. Only three or four incidents stand out, like illuminated lantern slides in the mind's eye.

THOUGHTS DRIVE HIS SLEEP AWAY

One "slide" may show two ME 109's belting down on your tail from out of the sun and streaking within fling range. In another you see your cannon shells striking the belly of an ME and the aircraft spraying debris. Then suddenly some tiny link is remembered and instantly you are fully awake and the operation pieces itself together. You lie there, sleep driven away, felling that combat, congratulating yourself for one thing, blaming yourself for another. I've never met a more loyal and gamier crowd of chaps than the Australians in my section. They've saved my bacon many a time when I've been attacked from behind, while concentrating on a Messerschmitt in front of me. And on the ground they're the cheeriest fellows I've ever met. I'm sure that Australia must be a grand country if it's anything like its pilots and after the war I'm going to see it. Not flying or farming. But in some job with figures—accountancy or auditing.

Now The Deaf May Hear; Have A New Mechanical Ear

ATLANTA CITY. (AP)—New mechanical ears, the start of a medical art by which doctors can write prescriptions for hearing aids the same as they now prescribe eyeglasses, were shown to the American Medical Association. Six types of these artificial ears were shown, the fruits of discoveries of the past two years, which include vacuum tubes the size of the ends of lead pencils and alloys which pick out sounds a deafened person hears. The basis of the new art is a report by the U. S. Public Health Service showing that the nation's more than 10,000,000 hard-of-hearing persons fall into six broad classes, each of which can be fitted for its special needs. Men, this study shows, mostly hear low tones and are likely to be deaf only to medium high tones. Women mostly are deafened through all ranges of sound. Each class is further divided into three, one needing sounds amplified a million times, the other two much less.

back from these sweeps with my shirt and tunic dripping with sweat. I like to fire at a German from the rear. Close in on him in a fast dive and then give him a squirt in the tank, and if he breaks up I am quite happy. Sometimes though, when an ME files across your path it's hard to resist firing. But it doesn't pay.

I fire at them once in a while but you see only his fly off. You don't see it crash. What you want to do is get on their tail. On sweeps you look for planes in the air and ships below. I saw a ship not so long ago. Fastening onto the target I dived down, letting go with cannon shells when I was just off the stern masts. The ship flew apart. You could hear it on both sides of the channel. It must have been full of ammo.

PLACES HIS ENEMY BY BULLET SMASHES

Another time, a formation of ME's drops out of the clouds. The formation is twisting from 10,000 feet down to the water and back up again. I squirt one German apart but I am near the water. I start to pull up when I see cannon shells splashing in a steady stream, so I figure one of the Jerries is in back of me. It is a very good position to be in, in a fight because you can judge the angle of fire by the splashes, and then you know where your man is. As the angle gets smaller, you can figure he's getting in line with you. Just before that happens you give him a quick turn. If he tries to follow, he goes into the drink, because he won't be able to pull out quickly enough. If he doesn't follow, you whip up behind him and there you are. I got him and went home.

Excitement is intense. You're still on edge, of course. But when a sweep of Messerschmitts dives out of the clouds, there is no time for feelings. The brain is working fast, sizing up this, rejecting that, and when you move in for a squirt at the enemy plane, mental effort and the excitement are intense. I've come

In these fights you often don't know exactly what has happened. At the time each incident is a blurred impression. But later, tea and light breakfast before walking across the field to get orders for the day. Once I get in the Spit, though, everything is fine. Moving out across the channel with the sun getting brighter and everything clean and nice and the formation all in order. I sort of lean back and enjoy it all.

Economy Can Be Keynote For Beauty

By Alicia Hart
NEA Service Staff Writer
Some of the simplest, most war-budget-worthy home beauty treatments are of the greatest value of feminine charm. Keeping hair glossy, skin clear and smooth, and hands nice are things which can be accomplished without spending huge amounts of luxurious preparations. For instance, a piece of pumice stone costs practically nothing, and will last for years—and there's nothing more effective for taking off stains on hands and keeping hands and feet perfectly smooth. Women who are working with their hands and women who are going stockinged will find in pumice a surprisingly able ally to beauty. For bleaching the skin—face, neck, arms, a mixture of half lemon juice and half water is excellent. It can be used full strength on the hands.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By William E. McKenney
 America's Card Authority
 The victory of John N. Benedict and Leo D. Crane of Norwich, N. Y., in the Southern New York open pair championship at Binghamton this year, was one of the most popular in the history of that tournament. Benedict participates in every tournament held in the Central New York Bridge Association district—and his play on today's hand certainly justified the victory.

 The ten of diamonds won the first trick. Then Benedict, sitting North, won a second diamond lead with a ruff. He led the three of clubs, East played the nine and West was in with the jack. West laid down a top diamond and North played the jack of hearts, East discarding a spade.
 A low trump was led to dummy's queen and another diamond led for North to ruff with the king. Benedict led his last trump to dummy's ten and then the ace of trumps was taken. West was in a hopeless jam at this trick, having to hold a top diamond over the jack, a club stopper, and the guarded spade queen. He chose to let go a spade, but then the ace and king dropped his queen, and Benedict's jack gave him the game trick.

Texas Men Tell Of Jap Attack

GENERAL EMMONS HEAD-QUARTERS, Territory of Hawaii (P)—Lieut. Edward A. Steedman, 20, of Sherman, Texas, and his copilot, Second Lieut. D. K. Carpenter, 21, of Monroe, Ore., were members of a bomber formation headed by Captain Cecil Faulkner of Bellevue, Texas, which bombed a Japanese transport and aircraft carrier in the Midway action of June 3 and June 4.
 "We took off without knowing exactly what we were up against although we knew our boys had a flock of Japs spotted," said Steedman. "Our captain just flew along and we came in out of the sun and saw an invasion fleet of 26 vessels. We dropped our load on a transport. Next morning we started out again at daylight and found and hit a carrier. Our bombardier put one right on the bow."
 Three Japanese Zero fighters attacked their plane and one of them was shot down by the tail-gunner. Somebody asked Steedman: "Did you feel good when you saw that Jap go down?"
 "Oh hell, yes," answered Steedman. "It was either he or I."
 Later four Zero fighters got under the bombers tail but it got away without a scratch.
 Said Steedman and Carpenter: "Put three of those 17s together and they'll tackle anything. We would just as soon be in one of them over Tokyo as any place we can think of."

Grand Jury Returns Five Indictments Here
 The Midland County Grand Jury returned five indictments while in session Wednesday. Arrests had not been made in all cases, and names of persons indicted were not released.
 The Grand Jury was dismissed for the remainder of this term of court, and the Jury Commission was working Thursday.

Make Your Coffee Last

Because of shipping difficulties, the War Production Board has restricted deliveries of coffee to seventy-five per cent of the amount shipped last year. Therefore, the American housewife will have to concentrate on eliminating all possible needless waste.

Enrico Penzance, Pan-American coffee expert, gives some important rules that should help her to get the best brew in flavor and quantity for the coffee she is able to buy, and also help the government in its conservation program.

USE AIR-TIGHT COFFEE CONTAINER

Purchase coffee—as other perishable foods—as needed, freshly roasted and freshly ground, if you do not grind it yourself. Choose the right grind for the kind of coffee-maker you use: all-purpose for percolator or boiled; drip grind for vacuum or drip pot.

Keep coffee in an absolutely clean, tightly covered container. Exposure to air causes loss of flavor.

Measure both water and coffee accurately; use freshly drawn cold water brought to a full boil; fresh, actively boiling water releases the best coffee flavor. Make only as much coffee as you wish to serve; if any coffee is left over, use it in making desserts or puddings.

Keep the coffee-pot and all drip bags scrupulously clean. For a half-clean pot ruins that good coffee flavor.

Price Inspectors Are Working Retail Stores

DALLAS. (P)—Region Office of Price Administration sent more than 100 inspectors into Dallas stores Wednesday to survey how the price posting regulations are being complied with and to leave explanatory material on requirements. Surveys Friday in representative cities in six states of the southwest OPA region—Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas will be made.

Quick Meat Dishes Will Help Reduce Hot-Kitchen Duty

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer

Every housewife welcomes quick meat dishes which save her time in the hot summer kitchen. With so many women now busy in war activities, main dishes which can be prepared quickly and inexpensively are especially needed.

Meat Croquettes

Two cups ground cooked or canned meat, 1 cup mashed potatoes or boiled rice, gravy or milk, onion, parsley, salt, and pepper, 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon water, dry sifted bread crumbs.

Mix ground meat with mashed potatoes or rice. Moisten slightly with gravy or milk (or tomato juice, if desired). Season to taste with onion, parsley, salt and pepper. Mold into croquette shapes. Dip croquettes into beaten egg, roll in bread crumbs, and stand long enough to let the coating dry somewhat. Fry in deep fat to a golden brown. Remove and drain on a sheet of unglazed paper.

Southern Hash

Cut cooked left-over meat in small pieces and brown it in fat. Dice raw or cooked potatoes, slice an onion and a green pepper, and brown with the meat. Add gravy or meat broth (or 1 or 2 bouillon cubes dissolved in water). Cook slowly on top of stove, or bake in oven until top is browned.

Panned Cabbage and Corned Beef

Three tablespoons fat, 12 cups shredded cabbage, 2 cups corned beef separated into small pieces, salt, pepper, vinegar.

Heat fat in large pan. All shredded cabbage, cover to keep in steam, and cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring thoroughly. Add corned beef and heat thoroughly. Season to taste with salt, pepper, and vinegar.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, coddled eggs, whole-wheat toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed asparagus on toast, hot enriched biscuits, apple sauce, ginger-snaps, tea, milk.

DINNER: Panned cabbage and corned beef, boiled potatoes, enriched bread, butterscotch pudding, coffee, milk.

Fruits Reign Supreme In Meals For Hot Weather

By Mrs. Alexander George

When they've been treated with a permanent finish organdie, dimity, lawn, muslin, and the sheer cottons so popular for summertime require no starching. Gingham, chambray, percale, broadcloth, and other medium-weight cottons should be lightly starched to make them look brighter and stay fresh longer. Since white starch shows on dark fabrics, tint the starch for naves with bluing, or browns with coffee, for other hues with packaged tints.

Be gentle with glazed chintz. Be sure it is the permanently finished variety before you wash or you'll part with the glaze. Wash it in warm water with mild soap, squeeze the soapuds gently through the fabric; iron on the right side with a medium warm iron.

All cottons except crinkles must be dampened before pressing. If you want a shiny surface on the right side, press with the thread of the goods. This will bring out a glazed taffeta look to gingham, chambray, broadcloth, and other woven cottons of the same type. Pique, dotted Swiss, cotton lace, embroidered cotton, and all surfaced fabrics should be ironed on the wrong side to bring out the design. Fabrics on which you want to retain a dull surface also should be pressed on the wrong side. Crinkled cottons (seersucker, plisse crepe, crinkled muslin and organdie) require very little pressing, if any. The trick is to dry them so they look pressed. Avoid folds by hanging garments on the line from the waistband to allow skirt and blouse to hang in a straight line. Pin a string to each sleeve on either side of the garment to prevent sleeve and shoulder wrinkles. Ironing crinkled cottons while wet, or with a hot iron, takes out the crinkles, so be sure your iron is only moderately hot.

Because of well-padded shoulders and intricacies of tailoring, some of the higher-priced dark cotton suits should be sent to the cleaners rather than having them washed. You can avoid pressings in between cleanings by dampening wrinkled places on a black poplin suit, for instance, and then putting it on a hanger to dry. The trick is to "iron out" the wrinkles by the pressure of the damp cloth.

HE ANGLES FOR BIDS

MANGUM, Okla. (P)—B. H. Squire has a sure-fire recipe for use when his wife goes out of town for a couple of days. First he goes fishing. Then he distributes the fish to friends in the neighborhood. And then he sits back and the dinner invitations come rolling in.

JACK OF THIEVES

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (P)—Fred E. Demarcus had two tires and wheels stolen from his automobile, but he came out ahead in the deal. The tires and wheels were found unharmed in an alley two days later—and Demarcus is now owner of the auto jack with which the thieves raised his car.

Handling Food And Milk Showing Fast Improvement Here

Health and sanitation measures being undertaken in the city are being reflected in better appearance of streets and alleys, and at the same time promoting better health through better sanitation. There have been several complaints, which have been cleared up through starting of corrected ways of handling trash and garbage. Inspections have likewise been made of trailer and tourist courts; schools have been instructed in special cases; and many public, semi-public and private water supplies have been inspected, and corrections made in several instances. Some connections with the public sewer system have been secured, and sanitary toilets have been built in several cases.

In the field of food protection, 209 visits have been made on food establishments, included 4 opened only recently. Dairies, likewise, have been visited, including 8 new ones that had their first inspection, and bringing the total number of visits to dairies to 45. In the field of dairying, 1,062 animals have been tested for Bangs disease and tuberculosis. Suggestions in pasteurizing plants are leading to installations and other improvements.

A dairy rating survey has been completed, showing many improvements of late, and the various plants are rated high in the standard grading methods.

OSWEGO, Kan. (P)—Consider the plight of a citizen who had to report to the sugar board that he had 30 pounds of sugar locked up in his summer cabin high in the Colorado mountains, where he can't reach it until the snow melts some time this summer. The sugar rationing officials declined to give him a book and so he appealed to Washington.

Oil Industry Will Put Emphasis On Salvaging

FORT WORTH. (P)—The oil industry in District 3, comprising Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Mississippi and Alabama, stands ready through its widespread organization to assist the federal government in its drive to collect scrap rubber. Charles F. Roeser, chairman of District 3 under the office of Petroleum Co-ordinator, reports:

Launched Ahead Of Time

CAMDEN, N. J. (P)—The big Cruiser Santa Fe was launched in a "closed ceremony" at the New York Shipbuilding Corp. yards Wednesday—a year and three days after the keel was put down.

SMART FISHING

KANSAS CITY. (P)—Guido Smith counts his day well spent. He went fishing and caught two fish and a tire—the latter in pre-war good shape and the right size for his car.
