Jap Ships Blasted In New Raids

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia (AP)—Allied fighter planes continued their devastating attacks on Japanese communication lines in New Guinea Thursday while bombing formations blasted enemy shipping and shore installations in New Britain, Timor and the Solomon Islands, General MacArthur's Headquarters announced Friday.

Huts containing stores and equipment were left in flames, a communique said, by a strong force of Allied fighters which strafed the airfield at Kokoda, advance base for the Japanese column attempting to push across Southeastern New Guinea toward Port Moresby.

Another formation bombed a bridge near Wairopi, over which the Japanese have been attempting to move supplies for their troops across the deep gorge of the Kumasi River.

Fighting between Allied and Japanese patrols was reported, meanwhile, in the vicinity of Forbaiswa, 32 miles from Port Moresby, where the invaders have been stalled for (Continued on page five)

Ask OPA Chief Views On Curbing Inflation Trend

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm bloc defections spurred the Senate leadership Friday to call for help from Price Administrator Leon Henderson in an effort to placate agriculture's demands for higher food prices.

Fighting an uphill battle, administration leaders decided to ask Henderson to outline the actions he would take if Congress should adopt a compromise amendment to the anti-inflation bill.

The amendment would direct President Roosevelt to lift farm price ceilings where they did not reflect increased labor and other costs to producers. It was offered by Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky as a substitute for a proposal by Senators Thomas (D-Okla.) and Hatch (D-N.M.) to move the parity standard upward by making farm labor costs an integral part of its base.

Delmar Yoakum Killed In Plane Crash At Angelo

Flying Cadet Delmar M. Yoakum of Midland was killed late Thursday in a plane crash near Goodfellow Field, San Angelo, where he was a student flyer. His father, James C. Yoakum of Midland was notified by Colonel H. R. Baxter, commander of Goodfellow, of the death of the son.

Cadet Yoakum, 25, entered the service more than 2 years ago, in the infantry, and was a sergeant in the Medical Corps. In January of 1941 he was sent to the camp at Brownwood and was stationed there until May of 1942, when he transferred to the Air Force as a cadet.

He was stationed at San Antonio for sometime in taking the ground courses, and was sent to Chickasha, Oklahoma, for flight training. Three weeks ago he was transferred to Goodfellow Field to complete his work. He was on a routine flight when he crashed late Thursday.

Cadet Yoakum was a graduate of Midland High School, class of 1938, and well known here. Survivors include his father, James C. Yoakum of Midland, his mother, Mrs. Rachael Yoakum of Gainesville, two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Mabry and Mrs. Alvy Wilson, both of Gainesville, and three brothers, Carl G. Yoakum of Dallas, Marvin T. Funeral services will be held from the Ellis Funeral Home in Midland Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

War Demands Keep Texas Oil Humming

AUSTIN (AP)—Compelling war demands for petroleum products will keep the Texas oil industry humming indefinitely "even if we have universal gasoline rationing," asserts Railroad Commissioner Beau Ford Jester.

Declaring "there is no cause for alarm" for the future of the state's oil industry, Jester said Thursday that "the effects of nationwide rationing would be equalized with constantly increasing war demands for oil counterbalancing any decline on consumption by automobile users."

The commissioner predicted that "many of our civilian cars will be kept going with synthetic rubber production, even under universal gasoline rationing" and added that the entire market for ordinary gasolines would not entirely disappear.

Jester proposed that a statewide oil hearing be convened to permit crude purchasers to submit testimony on the question of authorizing production of petroleum by lease allowances rather than on a well basis.

Stating that he had not reached a decision on the proposal, the commissioner asserted that "both sides of the question were not adequately presented at the statewide hearing last week" and he felt the (Continued on Page 5)

Midland School Students Will Search All Sections Of City For Scrap Metal

Two thousand Midland school students will become scrap scavengers Monday afternoon, October 5, to comb the city for every piece of unused metal and rubber for the all-out war drive.

Organization of the major campaign was perfected at a meeting of school teachers Thursday afternoon at the Midland High School. It was called by Superintendent George A. Heath who pointed to the importance of the drive and read a communication from the state superintendent of public instruction calling on all school officials and students to cooperate.

At 1 p. m., October 5, the students will leave their school buildings to collect scrap. Every home will be visited. Every vacant lot will be searched, Heath said. At the conclusion of the drive that afternoon, the students will return to their class rooms and report on their work.

Pester Campaign Art students will draw posters for the campaign and prizes will be awarded. The poster campaign will start immediately and all posters must be ready for judging October 2. English teachers will have all students in their classes write letters to each of their neighbors—each student writing two letters. They will point out the need of the scrap, inform the neighbors that their patriotic duty is to report their scrap and ask them to have it ready for the scrap scavengers. Heath will be colonel in the campaign and Frank Monroe, high school principal, will be lieutenant colonel. Other principals will be majors, and teachers will be captains. Lieutenants, sergeants and corporals will be selected from the students.

One Market For Farmers Is Possible

WASHINGTON (AP)—Use of a giant government purchasing organization to create in effect a single market for farm products was reported Friday to be one possible result if President Roosevelt decides on direct action to stabilize prices and wages.

It probably would be one of the later steps, informed persons said, and would be preceded by more generalized and less drastic moves.

First of all, if the program understood to have been outlined for him were followed, the President would allocate the nation's supplies of whatever commodities were to be (Continued on page five)

LARRY ALLEN WANTS TO INTERVIEW ROMMEL LONDON (AP)—Larry Allen, Associated Press correspondent who fell into enemy hands in the British Commando raid on Tobruk Sept. 13-14, floored his Axis captors by demanding an interview with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, CMB disclosed Friday in a broadcast from Berlin.

Cole and John Ben Shepperd of Gladewater, state Jaycee president, attended the Chicago meeting. Cole said the junior chamber of commerce is an organization of young men who are devoting time and effort for civic betterment.

War-time activities of the junior chamber of commerce also were listed by the speaker.

High School "Victory Corps" Swings Boys And Girls Into War Production Effort

WASHINGTON (AP)—Creation of a war-inspired "High School Victory Corps" open to all of the 5- to 12-year olds in the nation's 28,000 public and private secondary schools, was announced Friday by War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt.

Established to give "every high school student in the United States the opportunity to take a definite place in the national war effort through a voluntary enrollment plan," the corps will be headed by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, aviation leader and flying ace of the first World War.

Nazi Command Notes Hitler Now Prefers A Systematic Offensive

By The Associated Press Bayonet-wielding Russian troops were reported to have swept the Germans from two hills northwest of Stalingrad Friday, cutting a wedge into Hitler's vital left flank, and now the official Berlin radio openly acknowledged: "The fall of the city may be delayed for some time." The broadcast's alibi was that Hitler preferred a gradual, systematic advance to save men. Soviet dispatches estimated German losses in killed, wounded and missing at nearly a division (15,000 troops) a day.

Hitler's field headquarters said Nazi assault troops captured "further fortified points in fierce street fighting" within Stalingrad, and added: "Severe Defensive Fighting"

"Soviet relief attacks against the northern barrier erected by German and Allied troops were repulsed in hard fighting."

This was the third successive day that the German command noted severe defensive fighting against the Russian counter-offensive north of the city.

Coupled with the blow to the Nazi left wing, the Russians declared that German assaults inside the battle-torn Volga metropolis again faltered and broke.

"Northwest of Stalingrad, German attacks were repulsed. Soviet tank crews destroyed two German tanks and wiped out about two enemy companies (approximately 1,000 men)."

Nazi Siege Wavers Civilians of Stalingrad were reported swarming out of their cellars, factory shelters and caves in the Volga cliffs to help turn back the Nazi tide. Thousands had already been withdrawn across the river, when Stalingrad's fall seemed inevitable, but others refused to leave.

As the battle flamed into its second month, amid indications that the German siege armies were beginning to waver, a Russian war correspondent pictured Stalingrad as a scene of chaotic wreckage on trembling earth, lit by explosions and heavy with the odors of cordite and death.

Volga gunboats cruising up and down the river continued to blast the Germans, and in Thursday's operations alone they were credited with a destruction of eight Nazi guns and a large number of troops.

Russian fighter planes, attacking from sand-bagged barricades and fortified houses within the city, were reported to have killed more than 200 Germans and destroyed five tanks, seven anti-tank guns and four mortars in a single phase of the gigantic battle.

In the Central Caucasus, Russian headquarters acknowledged that the Red Armies "withdrew from a populated place" after wiping out a company of German troops and from this it appeared that the Nazis were stepping up the fury of their drive against the Grozny oil fields, some 50 miles away.

Bitter fighting also raged on the Black Sea Coast, southeast of Novorossiisk, where the Russian command said "our troops fought fierce engagements" and "wiped out about two companies of enemy infantry."

Far to the north, Russian troops were reported to have killed 200 Germans and destroyed 26 enemy blockhouses and dugouts in two days of fighting around long-belegged Leningrad.

THE WAR TODAY By DEWITT MACKENZIE (This column, conducted as a daily feature by Dewitt Mackenzie, Wide World War Analyst, is being written in his absence for a few days by Glenn Babb.)

Tokyo and Berlin are making noisy propaganda Friday of the claim that a fraction of the Mikado's navy, size unstated, has managed to get into the Atlantic and that there has been an equally mysterious "German naval operation in the Indian Ocean." The one specific claim is that a Japanese submarine has called at a German naval base "in Europe," according to the Berlin version—and "again set sail for strategic waters."

This much may well be true. It would be no great feat for one of Japan's submarines to start from Singapore, skirt the Cape of Good Hope at a safe distance and turn up somewhere in the South Atlantic, along the West African Coast, or even reach Bordeaux, as the Berlin story hints.

The United Nations, it is apparent, are not the only ones assailed by the meetings and misunderstandings. (Continued on Page 6)

LONDON (AP)—A few German planes dropped bombs along the southwest coast of England Thursday night but the RAF failed to follow up its Wednesday night assault on Flensburg with another raid on Germany.

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts) (AP)—Imperial Headquarters announced Friday that Japanese naval forces now were operating the Atlantic "in close cooperation with the Axis navies."

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian mobs have been machinegunned five times from the air since the independence movement broke into violence last month, General Sir Alan F. Hartley, Deputy British Commander in Chief in India, disclosed Friday.

CHUNGKING (AP)—The United States is sending technical experts to China at the request of the Chungking government to assist in improving agriculture, forestry, communications, mining and hygiene, a foreign office spokesman announced Friday.

LONDON (AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, Friday quoted persons who survived the last heavy RAF attack on Karlsruhe as estimating that 8,000 to 10,000 residents of the city died in that assault.

This cartoon was first published by the Omaha World-Herald, originator of the "Nebraska Scrap Plan." In three weeks the people of Nebraska collected 136,171,012 pounds of scrap metals for war industries. That was 103.4 pounds per capita for every man, woman and child in the state. The Reporter-Telegram believes that the Citizens of Texas are equal to Nebraska's challenge. Let's get out the scrap to bury the Axis!

Our Rent Is Due

Many Americans labor under the delusion that their country owes them a living and the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

An even greater number—intelligent enough to know that the privilege of being an American has been bought for them by the tears and blood of those who went before—nevertheless are complaisant about their good fortune and take the American heritage for granted.

Both of these classes need reminding that the freedoms and privileges they enjoy—freedom of speech and of worship, freedom to work, free education, the highest living standard mankind ever has attained—all of these benefits flow from the composite good will of the people of the United States.

For the inestimable privilege of enjoying those benefits we owe a debt to the United States. That debt may well be called rent.

Unlike many landlords, Uncle Sam demands his rental fee only when he really needs it. This is one of those times. Your rent is due. Are you paying?

Those men who have volunteered, those men who have been drafted, their wives and children and parents are paying their rent.

Those who whine about the hours they have to work, the pay they get, are not paying their rent.

Those who do not buy War Bonds and Stamps up to the limit of their capacities are not paying their rent.

Those who waste precious rubber by unnecessary or careless motoring are not paying their rent.

Those who complain about necessary rationing programs, and decline to help save materials and transportation, are not paying their rent.

Those who will not take the trouble to gather metal scrap from around their homes and turn it in, to save grease for glycerine, are not paying their rent.

Those who believe everything bad about our Allies, and spread alarming and disturbing rumors, are not paying their rent.

Those who argue that we can not win—and those who contend that we can not lose—are not paying their rent.

Freedom and prosperity can not maintain themselves, except as we value them enough to pay the price.

Our rent is due. Let's pay it.

New Departure

A War Labor Board panel has taken a big step, one way or the other, by ordering a closed shop clause incorporated in the contract between a stationery manufacturer and a C. I. O. union.

Persons with average memories can remember when President Roosevelt gave public assurance that the government would not use its powers to force a closed shop clause into a contract. That was last fall, in the "captive mines" case.

Now a WLB panel has taken the logical next step in the consistent course the board has pursued from the beginning. There may be little practical difference between ordering a closed shop and ordering a "maintenance of membership" clause. But even the pretense has been dropped.

—Buy War Bonds, And Savings Stamps—

Correction

Violation of rationing rules and regulations, it develops, is not so serious a matter as eastern motorists had supposed. Apparently somebody in the Office of Price Administration made a mistake.

Gasoline ration books warn their owners that violators are liable to 10 years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine, or both. Actually Uncle Sam can't stick us away for more than a year, in addition to the 10-grand assessment, unless we commit perjury to obtain a ration allowance.

There's a lot of difference between one year and 10. Still, 12 months is a long time in the pen for the privilege of chiseling in wartime. Many cheap skates already have found that the game isn't worth the candle, even at the lower price.

From where I sit

by Joe Marsh

In the square of a little village not far from here I came on the prettiest flower garden you ever saw.

It was a lot of flowers all mixed up—hundreds of different kinds, I guess. So I asked a passerby if he could tell me about it.

"Well," he says, "in this town whenever anybody plants a flower garden and has any seeds left, they scatter them over this plot."

Then he leans over and pulls out a couple of weeds. "We all have to help pull out the weeds too," he tells me. "That way the village has a flower garden to be proud of."

That's about as pretty an illustration of co-operation as I ever come across. But there's plenty of examples of co-operation and civic spirit these days.

We were talking just yesterday about how the brewers and the beer distributors are working together and co-operating with law enforcement authorities.

You see a lot of friendship and fine old customs have grown up around beer. But the weeds—well—they've got to be pulled out, too.

Everybody has to lend a hand. And the brewing industry is just sensible enough to recognize that... But what's more—they're doing something about it.

The brewers don't want their beer sold in the wrong kind of places, and so they've teamed up with the authorities in a self-regulation program to make careless beer retailers "clean up or close up," as they say.

From what I read, the plan is working out mighty successful in a number of states, and is spreading into others.

From where I sit, it looks like a fine idea... a mighty practical example of how honest co-operation works out to the benefit of everyone—the brewers, the beer retailers, and us plain citizens that like our gardens and our pleasures—the weeds kept out.

Scrap Drive Netted High Average Return

CINCINNATI (AP)—Hamilton County (Cincinnati) concedes that Nebraska did a marvelous job in collecting 104 pounds of scrap metal per person in three weeks, but the local folk want you to read this: "Their scrap campaign has yielded 380 pounds per capita! Nichols, chairman of the county's scrap drive committee reported 236,835,341 pounds of scrap iron and metal were turned in. Success of the local campaign was attributed by Nichols to "tremendous publicity" given it by newspapers, in advertising, editorially and in their news columns."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Last year the league introduced the spirit of inter-city partnerships when it inaugurated the New Partnership pairs in the summer session of the national tournament. Mrs. R. B. Fuller, past-president of the women's national committee, presented a trophy for the event, to be played for annually. No two players who have ever competed together in a championship event before, may enter as a pair in this contest. One might expect a lot of argument in a game of this sort.

but actually it is the smoothest game in the tournament. Partnerships do not argue over the bidding or play—they simply say it was a misunderstanding.

The winners this year were Tobias Stone and Phil Kalin of New York. Stone also finished second in the world championship Masters pairs. Here is a nice hand he played.

The opening lead was won in dummy. A spade was led, and when the ten dropped, Stone (South) played the ace. He then led the queen and West made the pardonable error of playing the king. A club lead was ruffed by Stone, who then ruffed a spade in dummy with the king of trumps, took out trumps, and conceded one heart trick at the end.

Here Is Inflation For A Good Cause

NEW YORK (AP)—A stranger wandering about the Washington Market might have thought inflation was here with a crash. Produce dealers were bidding wildly for a crate of carrots—up to a thousand dollars. A carload, worth about $1,550 at the last recorded prices, went for $13,000.

Then the stranger would have learned the reason. All proceeds will be used to get supplies and medical equipment to American soldiers captured at Bataan and Corregidor.

Concealed Bridges Help Reds Escape

NEW YORK (AP)—Russian ingenuity in the use of concealed bridges for retreat and counterattack in the battle of the Don Bend draws plaintive comment from Il Giornale D'Italia of Rome.

"The Soviets," said the newspaper, in a dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio, "built several dozen bridges across that river (the Don) which were, however, completely invisible to Italian ground troops and also to the air force because they were laid about a foot and a half below the water's surface."

Moving up or withdrawing, the Russians waded knee-deep across these bridges by night. The dispatch said the trick was discovered when a Russian soldier pursued by Italian infantrymen escaped by striding across one of the spans.

at 6,475 feet with 350 sacks in its No. 1 Alan Robertson. Present depth of the well is 6,561 feet in Delaware sand which has carried some oil staining.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 W. T. Newman, Western Scurry County, wildcat nine miles north-west of Snyder, has progressed to 5,538 feet in lime and shale. The company plans to take it to 8,000 feet in an attempt to develop Or-dovician production.

Gaines Well To Pump
Southern Gaines County's new Permian pool opener, The Texas Company No. 1 J. Bay Robertson, is awaiting installation of pump. On last swabbing test it recovered 206 1/2 barrels of oil cut 3.3 per cent with water, in 22 hours. Total depth is 5,952, plugged back from 7,686 feet, and production is 3 1/2-inch casing from 5,910-50 feet. Pay zone has been acidized with 10,000 gallons.

Still recovering hard, dense lime cores bleeding oil and carrying a trace of porosity, Shell Oil Company, Inc. No. 1 D. N. Leaverton, Northwestern Gaines deep Permian test, is coring ahead at 5,033 feet. Continental Oil Company No. 1 Dan Auld, Northeastern Terry County deep wildcat test, is drilling below 6,590 feet in lime.

Phillips 12 to Drillstem Test
Phillips No. 12 University-Andrews, three-quarter mile outpost to the Embarrasburg pool of Southwestern Andrews County, is preparing to drillstem test, bottomed at 8,137 feet in dolomite. Last core, from 8,124-37, recovered eight feet, fractured and oil stained in the bottom four feet.

One mile north by northwest of the pool, Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1-W University had not reached the Embarrasburg, lower Ordovician, in drilling to 8,221 feet in lime.

West Texas' deepest active operation, Atlantic Refining Company No. 1-A Texu, 12 miles northwest of the Embarras pool, is drilling at 9,884 feet in lime.

Union Oil Company of California No. 1-C A. Means, Andrews wildcat three miles southeast of Shafter Lake, logged a rainbow showing of oil from 4,349-50 feet and is drilling ahead at 4,377 in lime.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation, Southern University "South", Andrews wildcat two and one-half miles east of the West Andrews pool, is cleaning out after a 410-quant nitro shot from 4,519-94, five feet off bottom.

Legion Asks Congress To Demand War Unity
All Texas Congressmen and Senators have been sent copies of resolutions passed recently by the Woods W. Lynch Post of the American Legion, calling for elimination of any labor racketeering and other war industry abuses through establishment of necessary authority to bring about a full-front war effort.

In a letter accompanying the resolutions, C. V. Lyman, post commander declared that united effort on the part of every citizen was the surest and fastest way to end the war, and asked that all Texas men in the national body aid in securing the necessary support to accomplish the intent of the resolutions.

Commission should "hear both sides before adopting a definite policy." Study Market Situation
The plan to fix allowable on a lease or production unit basis was proposed by Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of the commission to simplify operation and help solve problems of manpower and rising production costs.

Jester declared in an interview that he was studying proposals to alleviate the depressed market situation in West Texas.

Crude prices, the commissioner asserted, "should be substantially increased because exploration for new crude reserves is induced largely by price considerations."

Under the plan, the President would allocate all of the available supplies of the commodity according to needs, first call going to the armed forces, second to the Lend-Lease program, and the last to civilians. Purchases under the allocation would be at not more than fixed prices.

Here Is Why-

and it is thrown back into the furnaces to make more steel.

Every Bit Helps
But now the recovery is much smaller because so much of the production is for war purposes, such as ingots for export to this country's Allies and plates for ships and tanks that may be lost at sea or in desert.

If any householder, reading that the mills this year will need more than 45 million tons of scrap, gets the idea his little 20 or 25 pounds of scrap is a poor contribution, he is wrong.

Steel is made generally from a mixture half scrap, half pig iron. A ton of pig iron itself is made from two tons of iron ore, half a ton of limestone and more than three quarters of a ton of coke all piled into a blast furnace.

Suppose next Sunday night, exactly at midnight, your old lawnmower is part of a load of scrap charged into an open hearth furnace. By noon Monday the furnace has done its work and the steel is poured into molds to solidify into ingots.

The ingot, however, is not yet a steel plate. Steel plates go into tanks, machinery, new war planes, naval and cargo ships. Before the ingot becomes a plate it must be heated white hot, flattened on a rolling mill, inspected, shorn to size, and tested for quality.

From the time the lawnmower enters the furnace until the finished ship plate is placed on a railroad car en route to a ship yard 8 1/2 days elapse.

If an individual balked at the allocation order, the requisition power would be employed through the Commodity Credit Corporation, which could do what it needed and pay "a fair and reasonable price" as provided by law. This price presumably would be that fixed under the allocation program.

CHAPTER XIV

CANDACE hurried down the rubber-tiled hallway to the telephone at the far end. She said, "Oh, Martin," happy at the sound of his voice, "I'm so glad you called."

"You won't be when you hear what I'm calling for," Martin said. "I'm afraid that I can't see you tonight after all."

The faint uneasiness Gates' hints had engendered turned into a sudden fear. She said stiffly, "No?"

"You sound as though you think I'm a polecat, and I feel like one for disappointing you. But I've never having some trouble in neurology and the prof agreed to take me and a few other fellows in the same boat and give us a workout tonight."

She stood there, her elation gone and a sick uneasiness in its place, answering nothing.

"Hello? Hello?" Martin's voice called anxiously. "Listen, Candace, if you want me to I'll cut it."

"Oh, no," she said quickly, "go of course. I want you to study, you know that."

"You're an awfully good kid," he said gratefully.

"Candace," his voice had a muffled sound; she knew that he had put his lips close to the transmitter so as not to be overheard by others there in his house.

"Darling," he repeated, "darling, darling, I wish we were already married. I wish we were married right now—"

Things were suddenly all right again. She clung with her fingers to the shelf under the telephone, steadying herself against the weakness that seemed about to overcome her. Her eyes involuntarily closed. She whispered, "I do, too, Martin, I do, too—"

Martin came back into the room after his phone call wearing an expression of angry gloom.

He jumped when Peter greeted him. Peter said, amused, "I'm just your old roommate, remember?"

Martin grinned sheepishly. "I didn't know you were in."

He went into the bathroom and closed the door. Peter heard the drone of the electric shaver and the splash of the shower.

Peter had seen his father that day; things appeared to be looking up a bit for him and he was eager to tell Candace. When Martin finally emerged and was dressing, Peter inquired, "What about Candace? Is she coming here first, or are you meeting her somewhere?"

his careful choosing of a tie. "She's not coming in tonight. Why?"

"Oh, just some family stuff I wanted to tell her. I thought this was her evening off."

"It is. But I've gotten in bad with Haggood, somehow, and he's stuck me for a session tonight," Martin said shortly.

Haggood was the neurology prof, and tough. No wonder Martin was carrying a chip on his shoulder.

MARTIN had been gone only about five minutes when Mrs. Prosser shouted upstairs that there was a call for him. After she had relayed the message that he was out, she shouted up again. "The lady'll talk to you, then, Mr. Frazier."

Peter ran down, expecting it to be Candace. He called cheerfully into the phone, "Hello?" and a high, young, quite unfamiliar voice at the other end said, "Mr. Frazier? This is Faith Hartshorne."

"Yes?" he said politely, in a tone that invited her to go on.

Faith Hartshorne laughed a little. "We met at the tea, remember? Martin mentions you so often that I feel as though I know you awfully well, but I can't tell you don't even remember what I look like."

Martin mentions you so often, answered, hoping his voice wouldn't sound as stilted, for he felt, "But I do indeed. You're the tall blond girl with blue eyes and a dress to match, tastefully decorated with tea stains."

"That's me. All but the dress; that's been put into my memory museum." Under that brittle tone she sounded absurdly young. "The person who answered just now for an answer, wasn't it?—told me that Martin isn't in. Is he likely to stop by, do you think, before he starts to meet me?"

Peter said dryly, "I'm afraid I don't know that. I don't always know what Corby is up to."

She laughed. "Do you feel that way, too? But that's part of his charm, don't you think, that unaccountableness?" She didn't wait for an answer, for he felt, "If he should come in will you tell him that I've just missed a train and I'll have to wait a half hour for the next one and may be a bit late? I thought I'd catch him in plenty of time."

She resumed her grand lady tone. "I've asked Martin several times to bring you up with him, but he always claims to have forgotten to ask you, or he has some other excuse. You might speak to him about that."

"Do?" I'm not going to do anything. At least for the present. But you are. You're going to tell her everything. What happens after that depends on her."

"Brave talk," Martin said, sneering, "brave talk. I don't suppose I can convince you that it'll be better for Candace, easier for her, if you let me manage things in my way?"

"Feller," Peter said, "I have watched you manage things in your way; and in my opinion, your way stinks."

"I'll speak to him," Peter promised, grimly.

He hung up the receiver slowly. He thought of Candace sitting alone in her room, loving Martin, trusting him, and his face contorted with sympathy. He began to swear softly, savagely.

THE instant Peter saw Martin when he came in he knew that Faith Hartshorne had told him of her call.

He had been waiting up for Martin, getting a grim amusement out of at least this part of the situation. Ward and Davis were both asleep and he had closed the sliding doors between the rooms so that they would not be apt to hear any possible argument—following a pattern, Peter was sure, for all the world like that of a wife grimly suspicious but trying to prevent her children being disturbed.

Peter had tried to cherish a faint hope that perhaps Candace knew about this girl, that she had known about tonight, in spite of Martin's lie to him; that Martin's attitude made short shrift of that.

"I suppose you've been putting two and two together and getting something really big," Martin said. "It don't add up to no tale for tiny tots," Peter said.

Martin shrugged. "I could explain the whole thing easily enough," he said, "if I cared to. I don't. I don't owe an explanation of any conduct of mine to you."

"Not to me, as myself," Peter said, "no. You wouldn't have to anyway, I know without being told what you've been up to. Faith Hartshorne, the daughter of the chairman of the board; that speaks for itself, doesn't it?" His voice was heavy with contempt.

"Who you kick him in the face during your climb up the ladder of success is your own dirty business, not mine—except where Candace is concerned. There it is mine."

"I don't suppose you'll have sense enough to stay out of this," Martin said. "What are you going to do?"

"Do?" I'm not going to do anything. At least for the present. But you are. You're going to tell her everything. What happens after that depends on her."

"Brave talk," Martin said, sneering, "brave talk. I don't suppose I can convince you that it'll be better for Candace, easier for her, if you let me manage things in my way?"

"Feller," Peter said, "I have watched you manage things in your way; and in my opinion, your way stinks."

brought under control, with a request to the primary markets to buy within certain price limits and to sell within a specified markup to the secondary markets. The wholesalers and retailers would be under price regulations already in effect.

Purchases At Fixed Prices
The actual force of this initial order—which might specify areas of distribution for some products so as to equalize purchasing opportunities—might be no more than that of a request, but as a Presidential request in wartime it would carry considerable weight.

Under the plan, the President would allocate all of the available supplies of the commodity according to needs, first call going to the armed forces, second to the Lend-Lease program, and the last to civilians. Purchases under the allocation would be at not more than fixed prices.

If an individual balked at the allocation order, the requisition power would be employed through the Commodity Credit Corporation, which could do what it needed and pay "a fair and reasonable price" as provided by law. This price presumably would be that fixed under the allocation program.

How To Save Tires And Keep Married

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP)—Marriages and automobile tires, opines T. G. Bond, should be managed carefully to make them last.

The 87-year-old storekeeper speaks with authority. His marriage has lasted nearly sixty-eight years and his 1913 T-Model is still serviceable with its 18-year-old tires.

"I've been over some rocky roads, but I never drove over eighteen miles an hour," he said. He had his own method of preserving tires. When he had to buy a retreading he washed the tire inside and out. Then he painted the inside and that of the lining with glue of form a stronger wall of protection for the tube. The car is in his garage now for the duration. No sense in wasting four good tires, he says.

Success of his marriage? That's simple: "Keep out of bad habits and stay home with your wife."

Duchess Flies Home, From Big Spring Field

The flying "Duchess," aviator-spoken pup that was apparently stolen in Midland and transported to Big Spring last Monday evening, added 20 minutes to her already fine record of 30 hours flying time Thursday when she was returned to Midland and to her owners, Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert Strauch, in a plane from Big Spring.

"Duchess" evidently escaped her captors in Big Spring, and made her way to the airport, parked her tired little body by the wheel of a big plane . . . and waited for someone to return her to Midland.

Attendants at the field saw the pup and called Lieutenant Strauch, and he flew over and returned "Duchess" to Midland . . . and a happy Mrs. Strauch.

The first successful flight across the Atlantic was made in 1919 by the U. S. Navy flying boat NC-4.

Louis, Conn Bout Brings On Lots Of Heavy Static

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike Jacobs doesn't know what War Secretary Stimson is investigating about the Joe Louis-Billy Conn bout, but since there's been so much hollering over $94,000 the two boxers owe him, Mike wonders if folks realize that fighters depend on promoters for money to keep going between fights.

Stimson announced his investigation in Washington Thursday, saying he was "shocked" over details of the arrangements for the October 12 fight in Yankee Stadium.

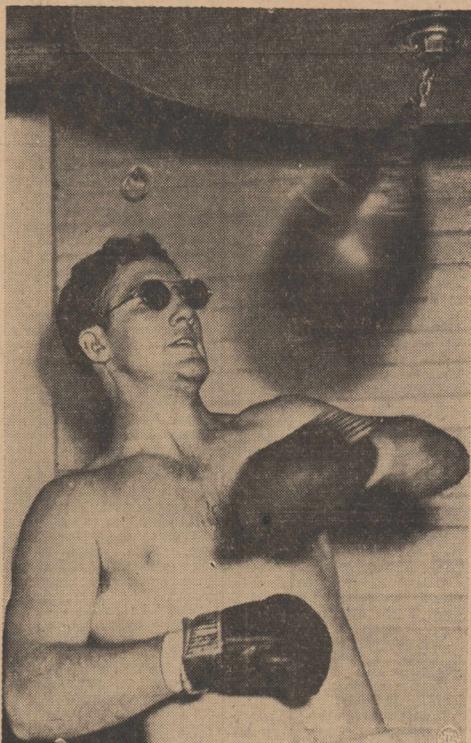

One "detail" of the fight is that the War Department originally announced it as 100 per cent for Army Emergency Relief, although several days earlier a representative of the War Department had seen Louis at Fort Riley, Kas., and discussed with him payment of certain of his debts from the bout.

Another detail is that a total of $135,451.53 is to be taken from the gate to pay debts listed against Louis and Conn. Of this sum, Mike says $94,000.50 is owed him—$9,805.50 by Louis and $84,200 by Billy. The other $41,646.03 is owed by Louis to John Roxborough, one of his co-managers.

While officials handling the bout said Friday they didn't believe the fight would be called off, Jacobs pointed out that there's nothing unusual about fighters owing promoters sizeable chunks, especially when the fighters are the heavy-weight champion and his No. 1 challenger.

"Fighters have to go to someone for money between fights," he explained. So they ask a promoter for an advance on their next fight. Why, right now there's about $150,000 outstanding on my books—all money advanced to various fighters. They'll pay it back as soon as they get a fight."

Southwest Looks Good In Nation As Season Opens

By Harold V. Ratliff
Associated Press Sports Editor
The Southwest Conference football campaign opens on all fronts this week-end with a fine chance of this area's teams jumping smack-dab into the big middle of the national picture from the start.

Four intersectional games, three of them tops on the country's schedule, could push the Southwest to the forefront without further aid. Of course it will take at least three victories to do it.

First of these major battles will be Friday when Texas Christian's title-hungry Horned Frogs battle a fine UCLA outfit at Los Angeles. It's going to be a pass-pitching show and when it comes to throwing the ball around the Frogs can hold their own in anybody's yard.

Saturday afternoon Texas plays Kansas State at Austin in the first game in history between these two teams. Kansas State was impressive with a 41-6 victory last week over Kansas Wesleyan but not impressive enough to make the Wildcats even bets against a versatile Texas eleven that doesn't know its own strength.

Saturday night the Texas Aggies, defending conference champions, will tackle a vengeful Louisiana State Tiger at Baton Rouge. Here again the Southwest is favored to come through but Louisiana folks believe it will be a tight fight—so much that 30,000 will turn out to see the game.

The fourth intersectional game sends Arkansas against Wichita University at Fayetteville and if all those stories of new-found Arkansas power are just 50 per cent right the Porkers should trounce the Shockers with a minimum of trouble.

Here's how other games in which Southwest Conference teams play Saturday look to this corner: Southern Methodist vs. North Texas State at Dallas, 3 p. m.—the Mustangs should prance through the teachers by such a margin scouts won't know just how good SMU really is.

Rice vs. Corpus Christi Naval Air Station at Houston, 1 p. m.—may be not 40-0 like Texas beat the Oilers last week but a safe victory for the Owls.

Baylor vs. Hardin-Simmons at Waco, 8:15 p. m.—No reason to think Baylor won't win over the Cowboys as usual and by several touchdowns at that.

Triple Threat

With wartime manpower shortage hitting many college football squads, triple threats such as Bob Erickson of the University of Washington are particularly handy. Smallest turnout at the Seattle institution in years numbered no more than 39.

Mort Cooper May Be Key To World Series, Blanks Reds In Great Game

By The Associated Press
The St. Louis Cardinals, close to clinching the National League pennant, are likely to be the shortest priced entry in the senior circuit has sent against the New York Yankees in many years simply because of one man—Mort Cooper.

The odds favors are tentatively calling 10 to 7 against the Cardinals in the World Series and this is quite a tribute to the big right-handed pitcher who they figure might handcuff the World Champions.

Cooper has shown he is capable of beating just about any club in baseball any time his teammates get him one run. Thursday he white-washed the Cincinnati Reds 6-0 to assure the Cardinals of at least a tie for the pennant and put them in a position to clinch it Friday or Saturday.

It was Cooper's 22nd victory against seven defeats and for the fourth time this season he allowed only two hits, both singles. He walked no one and the only Red to get past first was Gee Walker, who was allowed to steal second unaided.

It also was Cooper's tenth shut out, not only the best mark of any pitcher in the major leagues this year, but the best of any hurler since Carl Hubbell pitched ten scoreless games for the New York Giants in 1933.

The Dodgers' downed Boston 5-3 Thursday by coming from behind with four runs in the sixth inning after spotting the Braves three runs on four hits and three errors in the third frame. All of Boston's seven hits were made off White Wyatt in six innings before he was relieved by Hug Casey. Wyatt received credit for the triumph, his 19th and the fifth in a row for Brooklyn.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—It was just a year ago today that their beautiful Bums won the National League pennant, so what could be more appropriate than if them Bums no longer beautiful should lose their last chance today. . . They've been going backward this season just about as fast as they moved up last year. . . But this is one time the Dodger fans can holler "Wait until next year" and mean it, even if Drocher leaves along with MacPhail. . . Those middle aged guys with families may be the best ball players left by next Summer. . . Seems that even the Dodger fans are slowing up. The guy who turned in a machine-gun as scrap metal at Ebbets Field didn't do it until Tuesday. He should have thought of it when the Cards were in town.

Bulldogs Meet Austin High In El Paso Friday

Midland High School's Bulldogs, eighteen strong under Coach Gene McCollum, are in El Paso for their Friday night game with Austin High.

It was a determined group of players that left Thursday morning on the high school bus. They knew Austin High has lost two close games on rain-soaked fields and would be out to win, too. But with three weeks of practice, the Bulldogs have been showing a more finished type of play.

McCollum's probable starting lineup will be Charles Kelly and Jimmy Watson, ends; J. T. Robinson and Buddy Davidson, tackles; John Guy McMillen and Red Roy, guards; Jack Taylor, center; Ivan Hall and Billy Joe Stickey, halfbacks; Bill Richards, fullback; and Marshall Whitmire, quarterback.

standings that inevitably plague Allies in a life and death struggle of the kind we are fighting now. Even the Japanese people, fed on a steady mental diet of assurances that they move from victory to victory and that the virtue of the Emperor assures their final triumph, like the further assurance that they are not one people against all the world.

Russia Is Cool
The factors making for division among the United Nations are grave enough. One of keeping them spiritually together in the common purpose of ending the Nazi and Japanese aggressions is one that challenges all the statesmanship at their command. If there were any doubts of this the atmosphere surrounding Wendell Wilkie's visit to Moscow, the formal politeness of his hosts, the constant questions about the second front, the mounting evidence of Russia's disappointment in the aid of her Allies have dispelled them.

Of course, an Axis juncture by way of the Middle East and India would change all that. Such a joining of forces is a peril that can never be absent from our calculations. But the menace just now does not seem immediate. For the present we can afford to let Tokyo and Berlin exult over their naval contacts in the Atlantic.

ity service, land service calling for pre-induction training, air service, sea service and industrial production service, Woods stated.

"A realistic appraisal of our need for trained manpower, both in the Armed Forces and in war production, makes it evident that the high schools can't go on doing business as usual."

Two aims of the Corps were set forth as: "First, immediate accelerated and special training of youth for that war service they will be expected to perform after leaving school; second, active participation of youth while still in school in the community's war effort."

Objectives outlined to be pursued "both inside and outside the classroom" were given as:

"Guidance of youth into critical services and occupations; wartime citizenship training to insure better understanding of the war, its meaning, progress and problems; physical fitness; voluntary military drill for selected boys; competence in science and mathematics; pre-flight training in aeronautics for those preparing for air service; pre-induction training for critical occupations; community service, including training for essential civilian activities."

Those Eligible
Every high school pupil will be eligible to join the "general membership" of the Corps, while those within about two years of completing high school will be eligible for admission to any of these five "special service divisions":

Land service, which calls for pre-induction training for all branches of the Army except the air; air service; sea service, which provides training for all branches of the Navy except the air; product service, preparing for war industries and agriculture; community service, preparing for medical, nursing, teaching and numerous other professions, and for business and civic services.

"Girls will predominate in the production and community service divisions to meet growing demands of war industries, agriculture, nursing, business and teaching," the announcement said.

Corps members will have "service caps" and arm insignia. Details of the program are to be presented in a nationwide broadcast from 7:30 to 8 p. m., Central War Time, Friday night over the Blue Network.
