Seek Advice On Manpower To Avert Serious Food Shortage

By William F. Arbogast : WASHINGTON (AP). — With one eye on the nation's youth and the other on its bread-basket, the House Agriculture Committee Monday sought the advice of three topranking officials to aid it in formulating legislation recommendations to avert what Chairman Fulmer (D-SC described as "a rapidly approaching food shortage.'

Called as final witnesses in the committee's long study of the food outlook were Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director; Paul C. McNutt, Head of the Manpower Commission, and Donald M. Nelson, War Production Chief.

Hershey was scheduled to take the stand Monday after testifying before a Senate subcommittee studying manpower. McNutt was slated as Tuesday's witness, and Nelson was expected to appear Wednesday.

Cites Labor Supply From Hershey, who last week told the committee 23 per cent of draft registrants up to last June were cent of men in the Army were farmers, Fulmer said his group hoped to get an idea of the future Services and the effect of the rapidly-dwindling farm labor supply.

McNutt, whom Fulmer accused of

Second Front Discord

The misunderstanding between Moscow, on the one hand, and London and Washington on the other, about a second land front in Europe is distressing but not at all

It has seemed inevitable ever since the London and Washington announcement last June that the three United Nations were in agreement as to "the urgent task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

Obviously this was one of those matters on which the public could not be given even the vaguest hint as to details. Speculation, therefore, spread in all directions in the free press of Britain and the United States.

In Russia the press is not free. Speculation there took the direction that the government considered wisest. Judging from reports, the Russians were given assurance that the Anglo-American forces definitely would come to their assistance by attacking Hitler from the rear-that is, from the west.

This situation and its statement involved no criticism of Quite apparently, as we now can see, those speculators were correct and considered the statement as weapon in a war of nerves.

To the extent that the Russians' unfounded hope for a second land front may have contributed to the doggedness with which they have resisted Hitler's hordes this summer, perhaps the statement justified itself.

"Civilian requirements" obviously include everything that is not military or naval. ScrapSlackers Can Lose This It's squarely up to you. The mills need scrap to make the steel to go across the sea as ships, and tanks, and guns. They need it now-and in the months to come. For all new steel must be 50 per cent scrap-and the mills are running out. They haven't enough for even 30 days more production then they'll be shutting down.

Unless you get to work. Unless you go into your basement and your attic and rout out the junk that's there. Talk about it to your friends and neighbors-you men who know what war is like. Tell them . . . "Don't be a scrap slacker. Get your scrap ready for the drive that starts next Monday!" Then get to work and help them do it.

We're out to fill the junk yards-to make every salvage depot a towering tribute to our fighting men. And don't think the job is done when the scrap starts piling up. Because the war must end before the need for scrap is over.

Good examples of the good clothes now being made by American designers—two years out from under influence of Paris-are these simple two-piecers. They are New York creations, handsome enough for a bride, in fact are called bridal suits, and are worn for a great many war weddings. Yet they will go to any informal function with distinction. Autumn sky blue wool is used for the youthful five-button suit pictured at left. Unusual and interesting detail: matching wool fringe edging armholes, revers, jacket closing, and pocket flaps.

medium-blue wool. Flap pockets are bound in brown velvet. The chains are caught into an ornament atop the right pocket, and are hooked under the left pocket.

Woolfe, who won the event also in 1938 ,and we were all glad to see the "Captain' 'repeat this year. He takes his bridge very seriously and will pull off a good psychic bid occasionally.

Here is a hand on which Woolfe got a flock of match points in one of the open games. His club bid was not made solely to stop a club lead, although it had that effect. He wanted to give his partner the cheapest possible opportunity to show any suit of his own, because there might be a slam with North playing the hand instead of South and getting a lead up to the club strength, if any. Of course after North's jump to four spades, Woolfe could not stay out of six, which was cold after any lead but a club.

The origin of the name Uncle Sam is unknown; it was being used about the time of the outbreak of the war of 1812.

Timber Is One Of Nations Resources With No Shortage

By NEA Service
PORTLAND, Ore. — Uncle Sam
has one war-vital natural resource in which there is no bottleneck-timber. And your satisfaction in that fact may be doubled by the fact that Japan is woefully short

For the 10 or 12 years preceding the Japanese attack on China, Japan was the largest importer of timber from the United States taking one-sixth of our total exports. Since 1925, Japan took more than 4,000,000,000 board feet of Douglas fir alone. Now not only she cut off from U.S. and other United Nations sources of supply, but the reckless cutting in Japan during the past few years has resulted in her 1940 domestic production dropping 13 per cent below that

Little Jap Timber How hard-pressed Japan is for timber is indicated by the fact that she has been forced so to deplete her insufficient forests to build up her navy in recent years that in one section, sawlog production was reduced 80 per cent between 1932

Reliable confirmation of this pic-ture comes from a Department of Commerce report on Japanese imports, which states

"Shortage of lumber in Japan is rapidly developing into a serious situation." The same report declares

So much for Japan. America's picture is bright with the fact that our vast commercial forest area— Ground Gainers 461,000,000 acres—is growing nearly three times as much sizable saw
