American Labor Party

Amateur politicians and the public are following Trust-Buster Dewey's New York state fight against Democratic Candidate Bennett, who has served as attorney general under Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Lehman since

The Dewey-Bennett contest attracts national attention for three reasons. One, of course, is the young ex-prosecutor's "color." Another is his presidential ambition, and the potential effect of the gubernatorial election upon his 1944 availability for the G.O.P. nomination. The third is the fact that the President tried to keep Bennett from getting the nomination.

But professional politicians find in the New York race an angle by far more intriguing than these. Their prime interest is in the fortunes of the candidate who cannot win, the American Labor party's nominee for governor, a Democratic attorney of Greek extraction, Dean Alfange.

Although the American Labor party was formed in 1936 and has had candidates in every election since, this is the first opportunity for politicians to discover whether the unions can deliver the vote.

Hitherto, except for an occasional assembly district, the ALP has clung to the coattails of a major party—usually, but not exclusively, the Democratic—and has elected its Up On Alien Travel own members to office only when they also had the support of a major party.

All this is of import because the American Labor party a laboratory experiment. The plan was to determine mits for this area. whether union labor was capable of functioning politically in its own right. If the ALP succeeded in New York, then it was to be made a national party.

In all this time the ALP never before has tried its wings

The entire question whether union labor can and should have its own national political party, run its own candidates and function similarly to the British Labor party may hinge upon how many votes the inconspicuous Dean Alfange gets in New York in November.

If he cuts as poor a figure as many expert observers anticipate, then organized labor is expected to continue politically as a pressure group, endeavoring to exercise the balance of power by which it can force the major parties to heed its demands to some extent.

CHICAGO. (AP) - The passing prowess of Columbia's Paul Governali has swept him into first place among the nation's leading ground gainers with the football season little more than two weeks

First figures from the American Football Statistical Bureau, which shifted its offices from Seattle to Chicago, showed Thursday that in two games the Columbia senior had accounted for a total of 454 yards from both rushing and passing.

Since the Statistical Bureau ranks passers on total number of completions, his passing efforts landed him second in this department behind Ray Evans of Kansas who in three games has completed 31 of 66 at-

The No. 1 ball carrier is Don Griffin, Illinois junior, who has sped 324 yards over a two game stretch.

This total also landed him ninth among the total offense leaders. The No. 2 ball carrier was Jack Field of Texas with 290 yards in sion in record time under the eyes of Coaches Gene McCollum and G. Rush and appeared ready for Friday night's encounter with the Mustangs at Sweetwater.

Ample Dish Of Football Handed To Bulldog Team The Bulldogs hustled through

Injuries have hit Midland a hard blow this week with Marshall Whitmire, first string quarterback going to the hospital Wednesday for med-ical treatment. Billy Joe Stickney, another backfield man, is out with a turned ankle and John Guy Mc-Millian will not see action in the line this week so that a lip cut

Coach McCollum dished up a liberal assortment of football for his charges Wednesday. It included rerunning of plays adapted to the Sweetwater defense and considerable drill on passing and punting. Earlier in the week, the Bulldogs got an ample dose of tackling and downfield blocking to sharpen that Sweetwater Rates High Sweetwater is being rated right up with Odessa, Abilene and San Angelo to fight it out for the District 3-AA title. However, the Bulldogs will definitely be in the game even though a bit lame. One coach in District 3-AA has even given the Bulldogs an outside chance of toppling Sweetwater this week.

Meantime in Sweetwater this week, the Mustangs welcomed the return of Ed Mays, a plunging back who started the season averaging about 15 yards every time he hus-tled the ball. Mays will be supported in the Mustang backfield Buddy Hedrick, quarterback, who has developed into a first rate field general and is also gaining for him self quite a reputation as a ball car-trump by South, illustrates a part children. Always it was the same old of the TAPEL formula for squeezes, in which P stands for "projection." The formula says that the declarer must be able to project or develop the cards to a point where a squeeze is theoretically possible, before it can actually occur if the cards are South can count only 11 top tricks. The only conceivable chance for a twelfth lies in a squeeze. But a defender cannot be squeezed so long as his hand contains any cards other than his stoppers against the declarer's threat cards. If the to tricks here are cashed at once, squeeze would be very unlikely. It is necessary first to reduce the count to the point where declarer can win all but one in top cards, then squeeze against that one loser.

The only feasible way to reduce the count, without losing any threat cards, is to win the first club with the ace, then lead a spade and duck. Suppose that a club is returned. The king wins and the diamonds are cashed. Dummy discards one heart and one spade. By this times it becomes clear that West is short in spades, and long in clubs and hearts. The squeeze will have to be made against West and the spade suit is out of the picture. On the sixth diamond dummy therefore lets go the ten of spades, blanking the ace. Then a heart to the king puts dummy in to cash the spade ace on which South lets go the club.

If West saves his master club, heart return to the ace drops the last cards of the suit and the ten-spot is good.

Cripple Creek Razes Burro Fence For Scrap

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (A) Cripple Creek is contributing its tout iron fences, built to keep the miners' burros from mountain garden patches, to the war effort. In Cripple Creek's early gold rush, miners brought burros with them to pack in supplies. The burros roamed the hills, slept in streets, were fed from back doors—and multiplied. When the burros were most numerous any yard without o good, stout fence around it, preferably of iron, was their grazing ground, especially if it contained a good lawn or garden.

Meets Lost Brother During Rainstorm

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (A)—During a rainstorm, one of the children at an elderly woman was standing on the porch.

Maples' married daughter opened the door and invited the woman-Mrs Rose Cotter, seeking shelter from the rain-into the home. After a bit the elder Maples appeared from an adjoining room and

"Why, Rose, you haven't changed And so Mrs. Cotter met her bro-ther after 58 years—even though during that time they lived only a few miles away. Maples had left home when a boy and had not re-

Mail Early to Give Boys Overseas a Merry Christmas

SEND: Candy, cigarets, cigars, tobacco, soaps, toilet articles, fountain pens, stationery, Bibles, books of short stories, other un-breakable gifts in small packages.

Uncle Sam wants you to get the Christmas spirit early if you're playing Santa to any of the boys overseas. If you're planning a package for any of the U.S. armed forces in Alaska, Australia, Egypt, Iceland, England, Ireland, the West Indies, or elsewhere abroad, the postoffice department asks that you mail parcels and cards between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1, the earlier the better; that parcels be not over six pounds and not larger than a shoe box; that they be plainly addressed and labeled "Christmas mail."
