CHURCHILL PLEDGES BRITISH AID IN FINISH FIGHT AGAINST JAPS

Utter Destruction Of Nips Promised

WASHINGTON (AP)—Setting his jaw firmly, Prime Minister Churchill pledged Wednesday British participation in an eventual finish fight until Japan's war industries and cities are laid in ashes.

The British, Churchill said, will be in there fighting "side by side with you while there is breath in our bodies and blood flows in our veins."

When that finish fight will come he did not specify, but his ringing prophecy of utter destruction of the enemy in the Pacific, sounded to a joint session of Congress, went out over the air waves to the world abroad—enemy and Allied countries alike.

There was thunderous applause from members of Congress and high officials of this and the British government as the black-suited feet apart, stuck his hands in his pockets in a characteristic gesture and made his declaration.

Then, he disclosed a moment later, he and President Roosevelt hope for a meeting soon with Premier Stalin of Russia and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China.

Churchill declared also that Britain's air offensive is forcing Germany to withdraw "more and more" planes from the fighting fronts to "purely defensive" operations at the expense in loss of aggression and initiative.

This, he said, will prove a "major factor in bringing victory."

As for Japan's cities and war industries, Churchill flatly declared: "In ashes they must surely die before peace comes to the world."

China Aid Urgent

"I regard the bringing of immediate and effective aid to China," Churchill said, "as one of the most urgent of our common tasks."

He turned to a discussion of the war in the Pacific soon after beginning his extemporaneous remarks, as if taking note of recent speeches in the Senate urging that the war against Japan be given precedence over the destruction of Hitler and Mussolini in Europe.

Recounting the loss of the Dutch East Indies and of the Malayan Peninsula and the great British base at Singapore, Churchill said that "All this has to be retrieved and much else has to be repaid."

"Let no one suggest," the Prime Minister said, "that Britain has not raised its hand to the Pacific war as fully as it can."

To Thrash Out Points

"With America's high officialdom and dignitaries of her Allies sitting in with the House and Senate in joint session, Churchill was making his first public appearance since his arrival more than a week ago for war talks with President Roosevelt.

He brought with him Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell and other military leaders from the India theater, but he told his audience, he did not bring them here "merely to improve the health and happiness of the Mikado's Japan."

They were brought here, he added, to thrash out "all the points raised in the Pacific war and there are many."

Movements Restricted

If all that is necessary to turn the forces of the British in the east upon Japan is an order, he said, "then that order would be given this afternoon."

But he added that such movements are governed by what American military leaders "call the (Continued on Page 2)

Axis Losses In North Africa Total More Than 324,000

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Total German and Italian losses in the Tunisian campaign from the smashing of the Marech Line to the overcoming of the last Axis resistance in North Africa were 324,000 men, including an estimated 30,000 killed, 27,000 seriously wounded and 267,000 captured, it was announced officially Wednesday.

Simultaneously with the disclosure that nearly a third of a million enemy troops were put out of action in the final stages of the African campaign came the announcement of the heaviest raid yet on the Italian island of Pantelleria, only 45 miles from Cap Bon in Tunisia, carried out by U. S. air forces.

Trapani Is Blasted

Flying Fortresses smashed at the same time at the important Sicilian base of Trapani, blowing up a ship in the harbor and covering docks and the railway yard with bomb bursts.

Photographs taken immediately after the assault by the large force of Warhawks, Lightnings, Mitchells and Marauders, which dropped 100 tons of bombs on Pantelleria, showed hits on six merchant vessels in the harbor, numerous fires from hits on the airframe, five planes smashed on the field, and many small boats bashed in.

The warehouse area was particularly hard hit, with the principal building and three smaller structures destroyed.

Bomb-carrying P-40 Warhawks led the attack, making the 45-mile sea hop to blast the airframe, scoring direct hits on the barracks, blowing up a large transport plane and then leaving the administration building aflame from a strafing attack.

Small Craft Hit

The B-25 Mitchells hit the docks and jetties as well as 12 to 15 small craft in the harbor and a number of gun positions.

The Lightnings then joined the sweep of destruction, hitting a sea-going barge and three gunposts on the coast.

A second formation of Mitchells and B-25 Marauders completed the attack by bombing the town and harbor while the target area was being swept by flames.

"The Fortresses encountered bad weather over Sicily, but their crews found a hole in the clouds over Trapani and were able to drop bombs in the middle of a concentration of six ships, one of which exploded, and on the railroad yards where fire fires burst out. Numerous explosions also were seen in the town."

Twenty-five Messerschmitts and Focke-Wulfs attacked the Fortresses as they were leaving, and in a running fight over the Sicilian Straits escorting Lightnings shot (Continued on Page 2)

Highway 158 Formally Open After Garden City Ceremony

GARDEN CITY—The ends of a ribbon cut by Miss Carolyn Cox of Garden City fell to the pavement on Highway 158 Wednesday morning to officially open the new road following a ceremony held at the Glascock County courthouse.

Fred E. Knetsch, State Highway Commissioner, dedicated the highway to the service of West Texas and said that it was one of the best possible roads ever built for the money spent. He praised the cooperation of West Texas citizens in working toward completion of the highway, and said it was this fine spirit which was responsible for its construction.

Knetsch told a large crowd of persons assembled for the program that West Texas will receive its just share in a gigantic post-war highway construction program planned by the State Highway Department.

Citizens of Midland, Glascock and Sterling counties joined forces Wednesday at Garden City for the formal opening of the new pavement on State Highway No. 158, providing a hard-surfaced road between Sterling and Glascock counties to Midland.

State Highway Commissioners Fred Knetsch and Reuben Williams and State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer of Austin addressed the crowd at the Glascock County courthouse. Highway Department district engineers, county judges and commissioners and officials of the Texas Good Roads Association also were on the program.

Midland's high school band and sheriff's posse aided in staging the big celebration. Fred Wemple of Midland, president of the Texas Good Roads Association, was master of ceremonies, and Charles E. Simmons, editor of the Texas Parade, was among the delegation from Austin.

M. C. Ulmer of Midland, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, also made a snort talk.

Shorter Paved Route

Delegations from Big Spring and San Angelo also were scheduled to attend. Completion of the new pavement provided a shorter paved (Continued on Page 2)

Blue Opens Third Ellenburger Pool In Winkler; Sinclair Announces Test

By Frank Gardner, Oil Editor

Opening of a third new Ordovician pool in Eastern Winkler County and striking of a wildcat Ordovician test in Central Winkler gave rise to hopes Wednesday that West Texas is in for a deep development campaign surpassing that of KMA in the North Texas region.

Stanford Oil & Gas Company and Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 W. D. Blue estate, SE NW section 15, block 46, township 1 south, T&P survey, assured the county its third Ellenburger pool in less than two months when it cleaned itself while pulling drillpipe after a 40-minute drillstem test from 10,434 to 10,539 feet. The well had topped the Ellenburger lower Ordovician at 10,493 feet, datum of minus 7,395.

Test was run with a 4,000-foot water blanket in drillpipe. The well started unloading when 5,152 feet of drillpipe had been drawn, flowing water for five minutes, gas for three minutes, oil for seven minutes, gas for two minutes, mud for two minutes and oil for three minutes, cleaning itself. The flow, due to release of pressure, shot oil 70 feet into the derrick. Operators now are running hole to bottom and plan to core ahead.

Sinclair Prairie Deep Test

Sinclair Prairie Oil Company has authorized location for an 11,000-foot Ordovician test at its No. 1 Seth Campbell, C SW section 11, block B-5, psi. The location is in the central part of Winkler, near the southwest part of an 8 2/3-section block held by the company. No. 1 Campbell is eight and one-half miles south by southeast of Amon G. Carter No. C-2 Pure-Walton, opener of the first Ellenburger pool in Winkler, and 13 1/2 miles west by southwest of the Stanolind and Shell No. 1 Blue.

It is reported Carter will deepen from 9,670 feet in No. C-2 Pure-Walton for additional Ellenburger pay before completing.

Work Started At United Nations' Food Conference

HOT SPRINGS, VA. (AP)—The United Nations food conference, called to explore pathways to a world free from want, settled down to its task Wednesday in an atmosphere of mingled far-reaching hope and cautious realism.

The keynote of faith in ultimate achievement of world freedom from want was sounded in a message from President Roosevelt read to the conference's formal opening session Tuesday night vigorously affirming that the world owes every man his daily bread.

"Society must meet in full," the President said, "its obligation to make available to all its members at least the minimum adequate nutrition."

Kuo Is Cautious

This confident note was echoed in the opening address of Judge Marvin Jones, head of the United States delegation who was elected permanent chairman by the 45 assembled delegations. Jones appealed for global economic and political collaboration to make the next 100 years "the people's century."

The note of cautious realism was sounded in the address of Chairman P. W. Kuo of the Chinese delegation, speaking for the foreign delegates.

Montgomery Wishes Troops Good Hunting

LONDON (AP)—For the hardy troops of his viceroy the Eighth Army, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery still wishes "good hunting in the battles yet to come"—the phrase with which he sparked the epochal African rout of the Axis.

In a message to his forces May 14 on completion of the Tunisia campaign, the general implied that the famous Eighth would not rest on its laurels. The message was released here Wednesday.

Japs Fall In Trap

WASHINGTON (AP)—American pincers have closed their trap around Japanese positions on Attu Island, the Navy reported Wednesday, and at least a part of the enemy troops are in retreat toward a last ditch stand.

A Navy communique related that on May 18th, during the morning, United States forces working inland from Holtz Bay on Attu Island were in possession of the high ridge southeast of Holtz Bay, and United States troops from the Massacre Bay area were advancing northward.

"During the day," the communique continued, "the Massacre Bay force advanced up a pass toward the Holtz Bay force, and advance patrols from the two forces joined. Pass Is Cleared."

"During the afternoon, the Pass was cleared of enemy troops which withdrew toward Chichagof Harbor, leaving only snipers behind.

"Several 3-inch anti-aircraft guns have been captured from the enemy and are being used by our troops."

The announcement added that on May 17th, United States dive bombers attacked the Japanese seaplane base at Rokata Bay on Santa Isabel Island, but results were not observed.

The main enemy position on Attu Island, Secretary Knox reported to a press conference Tuesday, is at the southern end of Holtz Bay. A subordinate position is held by the Japanese at Chichagof Harbor which lies to the northeast of the Holtz Bay position and between five and ten miles away.

The junction of American forces in the heights southeast of Holtz Bay places the Japanese in a position where they are fighting with their backs to sea and have no choice except to make a stand either at Holtz Bay or Chichagof Harbor.

The fact that American troops now hold these heights suggests, although battle reports so far do not indicate it, that the Japanese are in an untenable position there and may be compelled to withdraw.

The only place to which they could then fall back, so far as is known here, would be Chichagof Harbor. To prevent their becoming too strongly entrenched there it seemed likely that at least a part of the Massacre Bay force would strike out in that direction in pursuit of the fleeing troops from the pass.

Wau Heavily Pounded

Japan's losing battle on Attu Island was reported nearing a climax Wednesday, with U. S. troops tightening a trap on the main Japanese forces at Holtz Bay, and American fighting men throughout the Pacific kept vigil there in a possible "face-saving" thrust by the enemy elsewhere.

Washington quarters declared that the enemy might still attempt to get reinforcement into Kiska, 196 miles east of Attu, even at the risk of precipitating a naval battle with American warships in the nearby waters.

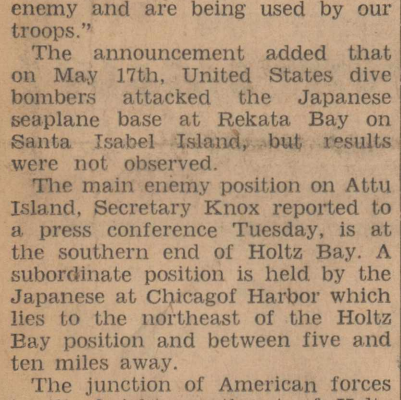

Japanese alarm over the Allied threat to the big enemy base at Salamaua, New Guinea, was reflected by the heavy aerial assault poured on the little mountain town of Wau, 35 miles below Salamaua, the Allied forward base.

Seven Jap Bases Hit

In the last four days, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced, the Japanese have sent 102 planes to attack Wau, including 25 bomb-carrying Zeros Tuesday. In addition, 64 Japanese planes have been sent against the most advanced Allied position at Bobdubi, only five miles from Salamaua.

Gen. MacArthur's bombers raked seven Japanese bases in widespread sweeps Tuesday, attacking Rabaul, Gasmata, Arawa and Cape Gloucester, in New Britain; Lae and Finschhafen, in New Guinea; and Lorengau in the Admiralty Islands.

Production Raise Asked

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas oil purchasers Wednesday offered the Railroad Commission petroleum nominations representing demand for an increase of 66,964 barrels per day in June production.

An increase of 40,000 barrels daily in Texas production was suggested in the federal certification of demand presented at the statewide oil prorating hearing by Railroad Commission Chairman Beauford Jester.

June nominations by purchasers totaled 1,737,106 barrels as compared with May's 1,670,142.

The June federal certification by Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator for war, was for 1,602,000 barrels daily compared with the May certification of 1,562,000.

The commission took under advisement testimony by H. P. Nichols of Tyler that heavy withdrawals from the Hawkins area were "seriously injuring" the field. Nichols was representing Roy Laird of Kilgore and Walter Bayard of Tyler.

In behalf of the East Texas Oil and Gas Association, Nichols also told the commissioners that East Texas operators would prefer to have only 20 days of production monthly, that 21 days would be acceptable, but that any more than that would be injurious.

"What if the federal government asks us for 22 days of production in East Texas to fill the Big Inch line?" he was asked by Commissioner Olin Culberson.

"Let the West Texas people fill it," Nichols responded.

Never Mind The Law

Organized food merchants in New York have challenged Mayor La Guardia's attempt to enforce a desirable law by undesirable and perhaps illegal methods. The courts have been asked to decide whether the executive can extend a law to cover fields to which it was not intended to apply—fields in which legislators deliberately refrained from giving the mayor authority.

La Guardia's purpose is laudable. He seeks to prevent stores from overcharging for eggs, that is, from violating the OPA price ceilings. Having no authority to enforce the OPA order directly, he has tried to slip in a back door, ordering his markets commissioner to prosecute ceiling violators under the short weights and measures law.

Unfortunately for both mayor and public, eggs are sold by the dozen. Twelve make a dozen, regardless of size or weight. The stores give 12 to a dozen. They overcharge, in some instances, but they do not give under-measure or under-weight, because there is no standard of measure or of weight.

We have no sympathy with price chiselers. They ought to be stopped, and punished. Since the OPA can not possibly police every retail store, it is desirable that state and local enforcement agencies should co-operate.

But such enforcement should be by legal methods. The state legislators and city councils can authorize police, market inspectors and other local agencies to help protect the public. Until and unless they do, it is not for mayors, sworn to uphold the constitutions and laws, to usurp legislative functions by roundabout stratagems.

This is not an academic dissent. There is a very dangerous tendency in Washington, in New York, and elsewhere, for strong, aggressive executives to ignore the laws and do what seems best to them, trusting that their purpose can be accomplished before the courts get around to act.

It is one thing for an administrator, in emergency, to cut red tape. It is another for that same administrator, or his boss the President or the governor or the mayor, deliberately to do what the legislature has specifically denied him power to do.

If ours is to be a government of laws, made by the people acting through their chosen representatives, then the time has come to call a halt to government by directives, which is the authoritarian and not the democratic way.

Jitterbugging In Brazil

Vice President Wallace is a very attractive gentleman, who knows how to butter up those with whom we wish to be friends, including the people of Latin America. His long visit to our South American neighbors undoubtedly strengthened the bonds of hemispheric solidarity and removed many misunderstandings.

For our part, however, we'll take Yank soldiers as good will ambassadors. After a girl has taught a soldier how to samba, and has learned from him how to jitterbug and eat hamburgers, and her parents have learned to enjoy full-sized cups of coffee with cream and sugar, there isn't much room left for suspicion and jealousy.

When war finally is outlawed it will not be by treaties and covenants made by statesmen, but by friendship and understanding that will grow out of the personal contacts of ordinary men and women.

Take Eden's Word

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, has spiked the guns of professional anglophobes who have pretended to fear that when Germany is beaten Great Britain will pull out of the war and leave us to fight Japan alone.

"We, no less than you and our partners China, have a score to settle with the Japanese," he told the Maryland legislature recently; "nor shall we cease fighting until that evil growth in the Pacific has been cut back. We shall be with you in this to the end."

Of course, it was obvious. But if a few timid men wanted to be reassured, there it is from an Englishman who has the confidence and esteem of all Americans.

New Law Required

Presumably the Axis will call soon for amendment to the laws of war so as to ban further exploits like that of American Lieut. Frank L. Dunn of San Antonio, Texas.

Lieutenant Dunn was looking for aerial pictures when a flight of Axis planes came in to land at a field near Cagliari, Sardinia. The sly cuss circled with the enemy, flew low enough to get his shot of an Italian cruiser in the harbor, and was off before anti-aircraft gunners or Axis flyers noticed the interloper in their midst.

Beta Sigma Phi Entertains With Lovely Buffet Supper Tuesday

Members of Beta Sigma Phi society met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. G. B. Holman for a picnic supper. It had been planned to have the picnic at Cloverdale Park, but the rain Tuesday prevented the outdoor event.

The supper was served buffet style in the dining room of the home. The table was attractive with red roses and delphinium. After supper the guests played bridge, and at the close of the evening members drew "secret pal" ballots. The "secret pal" ballot has been inaugurated in the club, because the club meets only once a month throughout the summer. The person whose name is drawn in the balloting will receive a gift from the one who has drawn it. This method keeps the club members interested throughout the summer months.

Log Cabin Bars

Iced log cabin bars make a delightful treat for informal parties during the warm summer months. They may be served with iced tea or iced coffee, or if you prefer, iced lemonade or that old summer favorite—lime freeze. Keep them on hand, by making up a large quantity and placing in the refrigerator, then when your guests come, place a cookie tin full in a hot oven, and presto!—lovely cookies, serve either iced or plain, with a delicious and refreshing drink.

Society Digs In On Home Fronts For Victory Gardens Full Of Vitamins And Calories

Midland society has been digging in all through the spring, and will continue through the summer. Whole families are marching with hoes, spades and forks to their back yards and to adjoining vacant lots to fight the food problem on the home front.

Visions of fresh flavor-filled, home-grown vegetables from Victory Gardens, brimming over with calories and vitamins, spur them on. Some of the more fortunate city folk own land on the outskirts of town and they the planning full scale vegetable gardens that will have practically everything in the vegetable kingdom growing in them. But even they are supplementing the farm products from the outskirts with city gardens.

The C. G. Coopers at 506 Storey have already enjoyed radishes and onions from their Victory Garden. The vegetables are thriving and they expect later to have English Peas string beans, tomatoes, okra, beets, spinach and cucumbers.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ulmer of 111 North C, have a large plot in which they will have a wonderful Victory Garden. Already they have growing radishes, onions, lettuce, tomatoes, beans, and peas and they expect to have tomatoes and cucumbers before many moons.

The Frank Moores have enjoyed string beans, radishes and turnips from their garden at the rear of the home, and they expect tomatoes and black-eyed peas a little later.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Larsh of 1107 West Texas have a large and beautiful garden. They have had turnip greens and have chard, Kentucky Wonder beans, and two other varieties of beans coming on. Because they are said to have so much vitamin value, Mr. and Mrs. Larsh have planted soy beans, which are nicely. The garden at the rear of their home is approximately 50 by 60 feet and everything they have planted gives promise of the best results.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Abell of 1505 W. Illinois have a fine garden which is thriving, and it has all the desired vegetables for the table. The B. C. Girdley's of 1900 West Missouri, and their son and daughter-in-law, the Fred Girdley's, have a joint garden which includes a whole pair of lots on Indiana, a block from the Girdley home. They have sweet peppers, squash, beans, onions, radishes and lettuce, and they expect to plant cantaloupes and watermelons. The garden is more than 50 by 100 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Vance, 302 South I, have a wonderful garden. The plot is 50x50 and they have growing beans, radishes, lettuce, mustard, beets, tomatoes, and okra. It is one of the outstanding gardens of the vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Knickerbocker 405 North D, have a fine garden 240 feet square at the rear of their home. Already they have had spinach from their garden and other vegetables which are doing nicely are black-eyed peas, hot peppers, sweet corn, tomatoes, squash, cucumbers, string beans, okra, radishes, onions, and lettuce.

Mrs. Brooks Pemberton is raising an interesting garden north of the Country Club. She expects to have almost everything that is expected to grow in a Victory Garden. Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Penn, 809 West Storey, have a splendid garden in which a variety of vegetables are coming fine. They expect to produce all vegetables for their table within a very short time.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Carter are raising their Victory Garden on an acre and a half of ground in Hood County. Mrs. Carter said she expects to can six hundred quarts of vegetables and fruit this summer. This canning should be the finest ever, because prior to her marriage Mrs. Carter served as home demonstration agent.

One of the smaller gardens is the one at the S. P. Hazlip home at 1107 West Tennessee, in which Hazlip takes great pride. It is producing lima beans, spinach, pole beans, tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce, onions and radishes. Hazlip has done all the work in this Victory Garden and Mrs. Hazlip gives him full credit. Outstanding among Victory Gardens in Midland is that of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, 1004 West Kansas. It is producing carrots, onions, radishes, lettuce, string beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, and peppers. Also included is a strawberry patch and the strawberries have shown remarkable growth.

Midland, in general, has responded well to the call from Uncle Sam for Victory Gardens. Nearly every home of any size boasts of a garden, either large or small. Although it requires much work in keeping them watered, free of weeds, and safe from birds and rabbits, these gardens will provide plenty of vitamins and calories throughout the summer months, and vegetables for canning and use throughout the winter.

Personals

Miss Dorothy Newberry, who has been employed in Midland, has been transferred to Washington, D. C. and plans to leave within another week.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A church cross near the coast can endanger lives if it is lit at night, municipal court has decreed in convicting Elmer W. Lochner, lay pastor, of violating dim-out regulations. The court said Lochner said he forgot; the court said sentence would be suspended.

Betsy Beckham Bundy's Advice To The Lovelorn

Q. I am invited to go with my fiance and his mother to a nearby town to spend three days. We will drive and I do not wish to accept their invitation.

Somehow I do not like to be with my fiance's mother, although she is a very nice woman. If I could go with my mother and the young man of my choice, I should like it so much better. If I refuse my sweetheart will not understand and I cannot explain, and they seem to be looking forward to the trip as if it were something grand. I really wish to reject the invitation.

Embarrassed. A. If you do not wish to go and rather dread the occasion, just decline. If the boy cares for you, he will continue to care and this declining of the invitation will have no effect whatsoever upon him.

Q. I am married to a young man who has been rejected from the Army on account of lung trouble. He grieves a great deal over the fact that he was rejected. It makes our home a sad place, and I do not know just what to do about it.

Grieved. A. You should try to do everything possible for your husband if he has lung trouble. A high altitude and plenty of rest and sleep should be provided for him. Get yourself the help you can give to him. If you can afford to go to some high altitude and remain there for a long while, it is possible that your husband can be cured.

Q. I am in a dilemma. I have been going with a young man for a year, and he thinks the world of me. Now I have met another man who is a soldier at a nearby camp, and for the life of me I am unable to forget him. I think of him constantly, and even when I am out with my old sweetheart, I cannot forget the new man. This soldier has asked for a date with me, and I have gone to the theater with him, and he did not tell my old sweetheart. He wants another date and I want to know if I should date him.

Surprised. A. Certainly, date the soldier if you wish to do so. If you are so strongly attracted to him that you cannot forget him, you had better date him whenever you can. It seems that the old romance has taken wings. Go on with the new acquaintance, and if he proves up to your standard, and you find that you like him better than you do the other one, keep on going with him. Do not be discourteous to the old sweetheart however. It could be that this new attraction will wane after a few weeks. Final is nice to both and date both. A finale will eventually come to one of them.

Q. Please let me know about this. I am 14 years old, and I like to go to parties and date the girls, but my mother will not let me have the car, and does not think that I should date. All the other girls date, and some of them get their cars. I cannot make enough money to buy a car now, while I am in school. I can make some money and I think I should be allowed to go places in first class style.

A. Surely you should go in first class style, but boys and girls of your age, and when it is too far, just take some of the money you earn and have a taxi call for you and your date at her home. You can phone for a taxi when it is time to come home.

Your parents mean all right toward you, and no boy of 14 should have a car. Neither should he be allowed to drive a car since it is against the Texas law.

However, if you wish to date as the other boys of your age do, save your money, keep up a nice appearance, dress, and when you wish to date a girl for a party or dance, take a taxi. That is the solution to your quandary, and they will help you to be liked and to grow in popularity. In this day, a youngster cannot stay out of the social groups and then barge into them when he is 18 or 19. It is not done that way.

Q. I am to be in a June wedding, and I will be the only attendant to the bride. The wedding will be a quiet one, and the bride will wear a handsome dressmaker suit of rose beige with dainty accessories. I cannot afford to go to great expense, but wish to appear well dressed and in becoming costume.

Can you suggest what I should wear? A. Being the only attendant to a bride is a lovely courtesy extended to you. Since the bride will wear the smart dressmaker type suit or ensemble, why not wear the same kind of costume.

If gray is becoming to you, you

A more practical suit would be a navy dressmaker, with which you may still wear the dusty pink accessories, for nothing is prettier or smarter than navy and dusty pink.

TO REMOVE GREASE STAINS
To remove grease stains from a garment, lay the stained part, face down, on a soft cloth, then rub gently with cleaning fluid (carbon tetrachloride, benzene or gasoline) applied on a soft cloth or piece of cotton. Work quickly and sponge from the outside of the spot to the center. Use the stain remover sparingly. It is better to make several applications than to soak the stain. Rub gently until the stain disappears.

SERIAL STORY

Beth Carter, WAAC

BY LORETTE COOPER

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Beth Carter, WAAC, is Major Brit Jackson's "one-man" staff on the tiny encephaloid island in the Pacific where his unit of the Coast Artillery Barrage Balloon Battalion is based. Information leaks are suspected. After Beth overhears the mysterious Lita Danton persuade Brit to give free passage to the plane that brought her and her companion, Rick Moth, into a forced landing on the island an important paper is discovered missing. Beth decides to do some sleuthing on her own. She strolls out to look over Lita's plane. Suddenly footprints approach.

paralyze her soul—"Lita, it's Brit." "Just a minute, Brit," Lita called back.

IN less than a minute a small boat was launched. In it were a man and a woman, the man plucking the oars expertly. "What do you want?" Lita Danton asked.

"I want to talk with you . . . alone," Brit Jackson said. She entered the boat and the three returned to the seaplane. For an instant a light went on, and then it was blacked out by the drawing of a blind.

"I'm spying on my commanding officer," she told herself. "I have no right to do that."

She watched the seaplane with fixed gaze as it rocked gently on the tide. She wondered what was being said behind that drawn curtain. She found herself wondering what the interior of the seaplane was like. Then her mind reverted to the lost directive. Had Brit known where it was all along? Did it ever even exist? Was Beth being framed? No, no, no, her heart shouted at her reason. Everything would be all right! She must have faith. Then she was calm again.

Was Brit laying a trap? Of course his purpose was honest. But whom did he suspect? Suppose that the directive really was lost during the daytime. Did Brit still believe she was at fault?

She remembered how he had made such a point of changing the safe combination, yet letting her know the new one. Did he suspect her, and was he laying a trap for her?

After all, she reflected, he knew nothing about her before they had met in General Tallico's headquarters. She was just another WAAC to him, and he admittedly knew nothing of WAACs at all. A young woman playing at being a soldier, Brit had said.

BETH looked back down the beach. There was nothing of human shape or form to be seen, nor was there any human edifice. The camouflage was more complete by night than by day. No light showed, no sound was audible—though this last was because of the distance, and not because of any prohibition against making ordinary sounds.

The white top of the surf, the clean sand, the curve of the beach—these were part of this Shangri-La! It was more beautiful than she had dreamed.

Beth's position was cramped, so she shifted slightly. She heard some native noise—she guessed it was a nightbird's call—back in the island's jungle, which began just behind her and increased in thickness the farther it receded from the beach.

A half hour elapsed. The light appeared again for a second on the seaplane—a door was opened briefly, then closed. Three persons entered the boat and it moved slowly toward the beach.

When it reached the beach, Beth saw that the trio was the same that had gone out—Lita, Rick, and Brit. The two men were almost the same height, but Rick was easily distinguishable because he was wearing whites.

Brit got out first. "Thanks for the taxi," he said. Then he walked up the beach a few yards, looked around, and turned back.

"Come on. Everything's clear." Lita stepped from the boat, and then Rick. Rick dropped a weight which was attached by a rope to the bow of the boat.

"I think your plan is an excellent one," Lita said, her voice full of confidence. "I'm eager to help execute it."

"I've met a lot of beautiful girls since I've been a sailor—I sure hope they keep in touch with me when the war's over and I go back to plumbing!"

Bombardiers Must Know Blinker Code

Did you ever wink at a pretty girl?

Sure you have—and more than likely you intended that wink for a silent message. Perhaps it was to say "hello" or in a flirtatious mood, a "sure would like to meet you" message.

Well, even though the winking of an eyelash is one of the oldest methods of conveying a message, the Army Aid Forces of today has the blinker system of transmitting messages. It is nothing more than an adaptation of the "wink" system of old.

The blinker system is used to transmit messages when all other means fail or when radio silence is necessary because of the nearness of the enemy. For that reason, every cadet and officer at the Midland Bombarrier College must undergo a course of instruction in the blinker system of code transmission.

It has already proven its worth too. What has been called one of the most daring rescues of World War II was accomplished through the use of the blinker system. It was the daring rescue by an Australian Air Force Catalina flying boat crew of an American Martin Marauder crew lost in the New Britain jungles for ten months. It was effected through flashlights dropped by parachute and specific instructions to use the Morse code and the blinker system of communication.

There have also been numerous instances in World War II when fighter and bomber squadrons leaders conveyed messages to the other members of their flight when other means were impossible. Each plane in the Army Air Force is equipped with a blinker gun, an instrument for flashing that type of message.

Each man taking the blinker code course must be able to send eight words a minute. The course lasts from two to three weeks, at the end of which the student is given a 40-word check test.

Slip-Up Embarrasses Brooks Field Workers

BROOKS FIELD—(AP)—Men in Brooks Field's propeller maintenance department have abruptly ceased carrying scraps of rag paste in the hip pockets of their overalls. The scraps have become progressively more intriguing since women entered the war effort. Now the men never know what they'll pull out of the rag barrel. Currently they're using ladies' gowns and slips in polishing and cleaning the propellers.

Hahn was backfield coach when Wade was a guard on the Brown eleven.

"The wounded don't die" was the theme of an exhaustive OWI report on the treatment of United States Army and Navy casualties. Its findings were summed up in these words:

"Never before in the history of the world has the fighting man had available the medical care and equipment the United States now furnishes its defenders."

Of all the Naval and Marine personnel listed as wounded at Pearl Harbor only 2.6 died subsequently, OWI said; 53 per cent had returned to duty by March 31, 1943, while 43.5 per cent were still under treatment and 9.10 of 1 per cent were invalided from service.

Medical System Excellent Figures for Army wounded were not available, but OWI said obtainable data showed that recoveries are comparable to Naval and Marine percentages.

"In the North African campaign, ships carrying medical material were torpedoed. Yet our medical care system was established right from the beaches of the Mediterranean, and the hundreds of recoveries from wounds testify to its effectiveness."

The Army's hospital system, unified from the battalion aid station right behind the line to the great hospitals in this country was described as "our hospital chain which extends half-way around the world." Often, said OWI, men picked up on the field of battle have been flown to this country by ambulance plane and have telephoned their families before the report of their wounding has reached this country.

10,000 Persons Flee From Homes In Indiana Area

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)— Rising waters from three main rivers and hundreds of tributaries flooded a wide section of Indiana in the worst flood in 30 years, leaving some 10,000 persons homeless in 20 counties Wednesday and causing unestimated damage to crops and property. At least four persons drowned.

Leaves of quivering earth which had restrained the swollen rivers under reinforcement of sandbags burst in four places Tuesday night. At a breach near Terre Haute civilians recruited to lay sandbags left automobiles stranded before the sudden deluge of the Wabash River water and fled on foot.

About 6,000 persons were evacuated from West Terre Haute Tuesday night when the levee collapsed. Three thousand persons sought higher ground in two widely separated Marion County (Indianapolis) sections when 500 feet of retaining wall along the White River belched open behind the force of the surging waters.

Logansport reported all five of its war plants watered out and 1,800 persons evacuated from their homes. Civilian defense workers imposed an informal martial law under which the downtown area was darkened and no one was permitted in the flooded business district unless on official business.

The main highways of flood were the Wabash, White and Missisquoi rivers, although hundreds of tributaries, barely visible 11 months of the year, were plaguing rural residents.

Wolff Is Always At Flores' Door

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—Wherever little Jesse Flores goes these days the big bad Wolff (with two F's) is sure to follow.

The diminutive Mexican rook pitcher for the Athletics, who has gained the headline with five consecutive triumphs, and Roger Wolff are rapidly becoming a Damon-Pythias combination in major league baseball.

Flores, who twirled for Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League a year ago, has started five games and in four of them Wolff, a husky six-foot-two knuckleball master, has rushed to his rescue.

Flores Gets Credit
For instance: "Flores wins fifth straight," a headline read after the A's split with Cleveland Sunday, but the box score disclosed that Flores pitched only six innings, leaving the last three to Wolff.

Jesse went 15 2/3 innings against Washington but it was Wolff who stopped a Senator rally, Flores getting credit nevertheless for a 2 to 1 16-inning triumph. The lad who almost became a bull-fighter stopped the Yankees, 4 to 3, May 9, but Wolff came to his rescue like a volunteer firefighter in the ninth.

President Is Expected To Appoint Board To Study Sports Situation

NEW YORK—(P)—Indications are that a three-man commission to study the wartime sports situation and make recommendations to President Roosevelt will be appointed soon by the Chief Executive, probably even before the week is out.

President Roosevelt told reporters at his press conference at Washington Tuesday that he was considering such a committee, following receipt of many letters in which some writers urged that sports be dropped for the duration as a conservation measure and others urged they be continued as morale-building factors.

The President added that he did not know at the time of conference whom he would appoint. From officials of such spectators sports as racing, professional baseball and football and college football, who are hopeful of having a representative on the committee, it was learned that the trio might be selected this week.

The committee would study the various sports issues but would have power only to make recommendations to President Roosevelt.

Cards Retaliate For Loss To Bums With 7-1 Victory

By Judson Bailey
Associated Press Sports Writer
A thundershower of the National League goings-on can be given in one paragraph—the leaders are the Brooklyn Dodgers, the best team probably is the St. Louis Cardinals, the most surprising is the Boston Braves and the most publicized the Philadelphia Phillies.

If anybody wants to extend this survey to a caloyer of the entire field, we might add that the Cincinnati Reds are a first division team still having growing pains, Pittsburgh is running true to form, the New York Giants are groggy and the Chicago Cubs are the biggest disappointment.

Cards Whip Dodgers
The Cardinals came surging back at Brooklyn Tuesday to retaliate for the 1-0 loss of their series opener by overpowering the Dodgers 7-1.

The Redbirds raised three Brooklyn pitchers for 11 hits, half a dozen being divided equally between Walker Cooper and Stan Musial, while two southpaws, Ernie White and Harry Brecheen, smothered the Dodgers on three hits.

Although the Cardinals won impressively at Brooklyn, they were unable to regain second place in the standings because the bumptious Braves battered the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0.

Phils Beat Cubs
The Phillies ponced on the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in a night game viewed by 20,820 fans (biggest nocturnal turnout of the season) for their third straight success and eighth in 12 games.

The victory raised the Phillies into a tie with Cincinnati for fourth place and also sent the Cubs staggering to their seventh straight loss. The Reds nipped the New York Giants again 3-1 in 10 innings with a pair of errors by Manager Mel Ott and Dick Bartell of the Giants contributing to Cincinnati's two deciding runs in the overtime frame.

For the second successive day all American League clubs were kept idle by weather conditions.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK—(P)—Last year a number of people (including this columnist) came up with the suggestion that major league baseball clubs should confine their activities to week-ends during 1943 and give their athletes a chance to work at something more useful from Monday to Friday. . . . Naturally, that implied scrapping the two big leagues in favor of groupings that would eliminate east-west travel, and baseball men refused even to think of it. . . . Such a move, they claimed, would be a fate worse than death. . . . Just for curiosity, we've been checking up on attendance figures to see if it has been worth while to continue on the old plan.

Even Stephen
Looking at the standings, as of Tuesday, we can't see where an east-west division would have done any harm from a competitive standpoint. . . . The American League had two eastern and two western clubs in the first division and the National League was the same except for ties, so their strength appears about evenly divided. . . .

Fanciful Figures
As nearly as we can figure it out it takes about three and a half week-day crowds to make one Sunday turnout this season. . . . The American League played 53 week-day bills up through Monday before 241,378 customers for an average of 4,544 and 16 Sunday affairs (mostly doubleheaders) drew 241,616 for an average of 15,101. . . . The National League's 56 week-day shows drew 284,396, averaging 5,078 and 16 Sundays drew 299,640, averaging 18,728.

Child Labor Law Supervisor Will Be In City Soon

Because of an increase in the number of inquiries concerning child labor laws, County Attorney Joe H. Mims Wednesday called attention to provisions of the laws as set out by the Texas constitution. Many business firms have been employing or seek to employ children in various capacities and inquiries to county officials have been increasing as the school vacations near, he said.

J. C. Skipper, child labor supervisor for this district, will be in Midland soon to work out problems with business firms and questions may be taken to him, Mims said. The supervisor plans to visit various establishments and help them with their problems, and will not be here in an attempt to catch violators.

Must Be Over 12
Persons or firms seeking to employ a child over 12 years of age and under 15 must make application to the county judge for a permit before the child is hired. Persons of this age may be employed only if the employment is necessary to relieve needy circumstances, and if the work is such that their physical conditions will not be impaired. If the permit is issued, the employer must post it in a conspicuous place. No permits may be issued for a period exceeding 12 months.

No provisions are made for working children of this age between June 1 and September 1, except that they may not be permitted to work in any place where dangerous machinery is operated or where explosives are used, or in other places restricted by sections of previous acts. Persons under 17 may not be employed in places where explosives are used. No person under 17 may be employed or sent to any disorderly or unlawful place. This provision applies especially to children employed as messengers.

Hours Are Limited
Persons under 15 may not be worked more than eight hours daily or 48 hours weekly, and may not work between the hours of 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. Exceptions are persons employed as nurses, maids, yard-servants, or others for private homes and families, or in agricultural work. The child labor law provides that working children under seventeen must have completed the fifth grade in public school, or its equivalent, and that they must not be employed at any place where explosives are used or where the moral and physical conditions of the children are liable to injury. The earnings of children under 15 must be necessary for the support of an invalid parent, widowed mother or mother in needy circumstances or of younger children. A certificate from a doctor showing that the child is physically able to perform the work must be presented to the county judge with the application. Bill Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Ferguson of 1301 West Illinois, left Tuesday for Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, where he is stationed.
