Trade With Russia

The Moscow agreements, the Connally Resolution and Premier Stalin's speech on the October Revolution anniversary have all served to diminish the fear of "what Russia is going to do" that has perturbed a good many Americans. And a further cause to breathe easy is found in a speech made on the occasion of the anniversary by Ernest C. Ropes, Russian specialist in the Department of Commerce.

Ropes made a plausible and encouraging prediction of increased trade between the United States and the Soviet Union after hostilities cease—or perhaps even before. The prospects of such a trade augur good relations. For it should be borne in mind that, while Russia's military successes will command respect and deference at the peace table, Russia will also need help in the early days of peace, and will doubtless try to avoid any differences serious enough to imperil that help.

Much of Russia's best land, much of her industry and many of her important cities have been devastated. Property in uncounted millions of dollars has been destroyed. Much must be replaced as quickly as possible before normal and orderly life can resume.

Ropes mentions such items as machine tools, equipment for oil wells and refineries, electrical installations, and manufacturing plants of all kinds. He also puts forth the possibility that Russia might modify a long-standing policy and begin importing consumers, as well as producers', goods—such things as American automobiles, refrigerators and vacuum cleaners.

Russia will naturally trade with other countries, too, and that trade will be welcomed and cultivated. But it is a known fact that the United States stands in highest favor with the Soviets among the nations that have helped them toward industrial modernization. Russian industry is modeled on American lines. American engineers, chemists and other experts have made friends with the Russians and have won their respect.

All this is important in a nation where the government runs business as well as foreign affairs. It tends to clear the atmosphere of fear of the "Red menace."

Desert-Trained Troops

The importance of careful battle planning and the need for highly specialized training, equipping and supply given American troops before they are sent into specific theaters of operation is emphasized by information just made available on the experiences of the U. S. Seventh division in its assault and capture of Attu island, westernmost of the Aleutians. It was a desert-trained division sent to the Arctic for its baptism of fire. The original plan called for the taking of Attu in some 36 hours. Actually, it took 21 days, from May 11 to June 1.

The assault force went ashore with light packs, and only one change of socks. There had been some question about whether the men should be heavily outfitted, but they were finally sent in light. Shoes were the usual field issue, without hobs, instead of a heavier arctic boot. Bedding rolls were not considered necessary. Everything was planned on the basis of quick campaign, but it didn't work out that way.

Aside from the fanatical defense put up by the Japs, the weather was worse than had been expected. The intensity of the cold and the damp was such that it penetrated everything. The smooth-soled shoes slipped on the rocks, causing falls. Some units, which became temporarily isolated on mountain tops, suffered heavily. Efforts were made to drop them extra clothes, particularly extra socks, from planes. Some of the men said they didn't even get a chance to change socks during the entire campaign. They all fought and lived on emergency rations alone.

Perhaps the heaviest single cause of no-battle casualties came from the immersion cases—men who got their feet wet and in the intense cold, suffered from frostbite and in extreme cases, freezing.

The division got its final combat training at the Desert Training Center in California and Arizona. The wisdom of sending a desert-trained division into the Aleutians may be open to question, but War Department staff officers are inclined to minimize this, saying that just because a division is battle-trained by maneuvers in the desert doesn't mean that it has to go into desert or jungle warfare.

Four Good Ideas

One Congressman who has put into practice his theories on the necessity of unshackling production is Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who as chairman of a subcommittee on industrial reorganization, makes the following proposals:

- (1) A thorough study of incentive taxation and the enactment of necessary legislation to stimulate investment of private funds in productive enterprises.
 - (2) Enactment of reform legislation to permit appeal from the arbitrary orders and decisions of bureaucratic agencies.
 - (3) Enactment of a federal charter law to define the powers and responsibilities of corporations to enable big and little business to "bring to market the goods and services which must be produced if the national debt is ever to be paid."
 - (4) Creation of machinery to permit industry to appeal from the decisions of WPB, and other war agencies regarding the allocations of materials, priorities, etc.
- The senator points out expanding production is the key to prosperity after the war and it will have to be protected from domination by either government or private monopolies if the democratic system of free enterprise is to survive.

Enemy Has --

the newest turn in the campaign was the cutting of the railroad and highway running west from Gomel, southern anchor of the German's White Russian line, to Kalinkovichi. The strong German garrison which has been holding out in Gomel was thus virtually isolated and that White Russian city east of the Dnieper River appeared on the verge of falling to the victorious Russians.

Snapping of the Gomel-Kalinkovichi communications lines was accomplished by Red Army forces which broke through the enemy lines south of Rechitsa and pushed southwest of that city.

Other Red Army units operating 65 miles to the southwest captured the towns of Kaganovichi and Bazar, respectively 40 and 30 miles northeast of the rail center of Korosten.

Reds Move Cautiously
This force apparently was aiming to by-pass Korosten to the north and slash across the Leningrad-Odessa railway, which already has been severed at Zhitomir, to effect a junction with Soviet forces deployed below Rechitsa. Korosten itself appeared doomed, front dispatches indicated.

The Germans have thrown strong tank and infantry forces into their counter-attacks southeast of Zhitomir and west of Fastov, on the left flank of the Kiev bulge. Front-line dispatches, however, reported that all these thrusts had been repulsed.

Nevertheless, the Red Army was not underestimating the enemy's strength in this sector, and was moving cautiously.

(The Berlin radio has reported a force of nearly 500,000 Russians advancing near Krivoi Rog, far to the southeast in the Dnieper Bend, in an effort to break through to the Black Sea and trap German forces in that area. The Nazi high command Monday said German counter-thrusts had stemmed the Russians. Moscow remained silent for the second day on developments in this sector.)

Elimination Of Feed Shortages Pledged By OPA

AUSTIN—(AP)—Enforcement officials of the Office of Price Administration have assured state officials they will exert every effort toward the elimination of feed shortages in Texas.

The assurance was given at a conference Monday night between three enforcement officers, Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith and Houghton Brownlee of Austin, chairman of a state senate committee which recently investigated the feed situation.

The OPA officers were Lester Boone, J. K. Smith and W. P. Dobbins.

Boone, said Smith, declared the officers were instructed by Washington to consult with the state officials.

He quoted Boone as adding: "We want to do all in our power to eliminate the black market in feeds. Of course we have nothing to do with policy making. That is done in Washington."

"That is very well and we appreciate it," said Smith. "But the elimination of a lot of absurd and unworkable rules and regulations would do more to improve the situation than anything else. In other words some of your very rules and regulations have created the black markets."

Many Midland Citizens Are Anxious To See Plan To Combat Juvenile Delinquency Put In Operation Here

Commenting on the Lufkin plan of a corrective program of amusement for teen-age and under youngsters, Midland authorities find themselves in agreement that the program is vitally needed here. The Lufkin plan, solved by the youngsters themselves, is simple and easily followed. Confronted with a wave of juvenile delinquency in the busy lumber and newsprint capital, the Rev. Morris Elliott, rector of the Episcopal Church there, put the problem pointedly to the youngsters.

"There's nothing the matter with us," one boy countered. "We're just trying to amuse ourselves until we get old enough to get a job."

That was the rector's cue. Enlisting the support of the ministerial alliance, they conferred with the townspeople and worked out a plan. This was submitted to a representative group of youngsters, and immediately won their active support. They think the club, which is now, even though adults started the ball rolling.

A picked group of adults combed the business section, raised $2,000 within a few hours, which took care of all expenses and left a balance of $1,000. The club was opened by converting the downtown restaurant which rents for $75.00 a month. A cold drink concession is operated on a percentage basis and the club gets part of the take from the juke box.

Chief Cites Need
"Midland needs such a plan and needs it badly," Police Chief Jack Ellington said Monday, on learning of the Lufkin plan. "Child welfare groups all over the state are fighting child employment as well they should. This leaves the kids out and they feel left out. Then rebellion sets in. After that delinquency is the only result you'll get."

Ellington said there is not so much trouble now that schools have started and there's a little something more for the children to do. But evenings and Saturdays are left over, and it's important that the children's time is utilized properly.

Mrs. E. A. Culbertson of the County Child Welfare Unit is also in favor of the program but is more dubious than others about its working here. "We've tried and tried to get such a program started here," Mrs. Culbertson said, "but we couldn't get enough people interested."

Mrs. Culbertson thinks if the Lufkin plan was launched here it might work out, although she admitted the great need for it and said that she would "certainly be highly in favor of it."

Hope For Action
Mrs. R. R. Porterfield, president of the Midland County Mother's Health Center, favors the program most highly. "If there is anything I could ever do to help toward it, I'd certainly be glad to do it," Mrs. Porterfield said.

Mrs. Selman Lones, president of the High School P.T.A., is another Midland resident who wants to see the program get started here. "I think it's grand," Mrs. Lones said. "I wish we could all get behind it and help these children over a rough time."

Mrs. Lones believes a downtown club room sponsored by the P.T.A. units of the city is the answer to Midland's question of solving child delinquency problems. "There would not be any need of hiring a supervisor when mothers of the school children themselves could do the job. Spend that money for the club room," she said.

The people queried on the question of launching such a program are all hoping it will not result in "just a lot of talk" as has been the custom in the past.

Johnson-Davis Vows Read Here Sunday Morning

In a single ring ceremony at the Presbyterian manse Sunday at 9 p. m., Miss Gladys E. Davis became the bride of William R. Johnson. The Rev. Hubert Hopper read the vows.

Miss Davis, daughter of Mrs. Julia Davis of Lincoln, Nebraska, attended the University of Nebraska and for the past year has been associated with the Farm Security Administration there as home supervisor.

Johnson, also a former resident of Lincoln, attended the University of Nebraska where he was affiliated with the Sigma Gamma Epsilon fraternity. He is a geologist for the Sun Oil Company of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. Marion Funk attended the couple.

Ballet Is In The Money Now

Good Cash Crop Of Past Season Indicates Ballet Is Growing In Public Affections

By JOHN SELBY
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK—(AP)—There never was anything like the Ballet Theater's just ended season at the Metropolitan, says Sol Hurok happily. He said the same thing last season when his favorite enterprise took a 25 per cent. loss on its trail to the Pacific. It was true, both times.

The Ballet Theater left behind a pretty little average of $5,718 a performance, or a grand total of $183,000 for the 32 shows the company gave in the recent four-tiered house at Thirty-ninth and Broadway.

It means, thinks Hurok, that ballet is still growing in the affections of the public. The word used to be "affectation," in the days when the audience was made up of curious women who wore sunshades as gilded egg-beaters in their hair, and men whose shoes and hair were both patent leather.

Longer Tours
And the ever-lengthening tour means that ballet is no longer a big city affair. Ballet business is now in a room 25 per cent. this year, the difficulty being to find time to play the dates.

The company does not look forward to the tour—excepting the applause. There are 115 people all told, but the nice old days of special trains and such are gone. The girls and the boys leave Worcester for Boston, and they take their chances like everybody else.

They get to Boston and find they have approximately half as many hotel rooms available as they used to have. It's not two to a room, but very often four. A big double room will accommodate a couple of cots, and each occupant gets a quarter of a night's privacy, if lucky.

Spring Return
So with baggage. If a trunk is taken, two or three use it. A lot of knock-em-dead street costumes have been left in storage for the trip, which won't be over until next April. Before it is finished, 65 cities from coast to coast will have been visited, some of them one-night stands and some longer.

But in order to return in April to the Metropolitan for the spring season, no stop can be longer than 10 days. The company will be in Chicago for that term, and in Los Angeles, Washington, for example, rates only two days.

Two performances in one day, an all night sit-up, and two performances the next day take the starch out of the dancers. They are, of necessity, about as tough as Notre Dame footballers, albeit somewhat different temperamentally.

Deer Skins Needed For Military Mittens

Although the War Production Board has relaxed its restrictions on deer hides taken after September 20, 1943, deer skins still are needed for manufacture of military mittens, Robert C. Stryker, WPB district manager, said Saturday.

Under an amendment to the WPB order controlling deer hides, successful hunters during the new deer season may have their deer skins processed for their own use or for a gift. Skins taken prior to September 20, 1943, however, still may be processed only for the armed services.

Under the relaxation, where a hunter kills a deer after September 20, he may have the head mounted with a short neck as a trophy, and still make the usable part of the hide available to the military forces, Stryker said.

Hide owners wishing to give the skins to the military forces were asked to send them to their taxidermist or tanner, who will route them into proper processing channels.

HELPFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS

WAR demand for rubber and copper means your electric cords must last for a long time. So give them proper care. Don't play "tug of war" like the young lady above. Take a firm grasp on the plug itself and pull it out quickly.

If you need to BUILD UP RED BLOOD!

Here's One of the Best and Quickest Home Ways!

You girls who suffer from simple anemia or who lose so much during monthly periods that you feel tired, weak, "dragged out"—due to low blood-iron—start today—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS (with added iron).

Pinkham's Tablets is one of the greatest blood-iron tonics you can buy to help build up red blood to give more strength and energy and to promote a more robust bloodstream in such cases.

Taken as directed—Pinkham's Tablets is one of the best ways to get precious iron into the blood. Just try them for at least 30 days—then see if you, too, don't remarkably benefit. Follow label directions. Well worth trying!

When you're finished with appliances with detachable cords—irons, toasters, etc.—pull out wall plug first, then appliance plug.

Coil cord loosely over hooks of vacuum cleaner. Be sure cord is free of knots or kinks. Avoid bends; they break insulation.

Don't run cords under rugs where they'll be walked on. Keep cords away from radiators and steam pipes. Don't wrap them around hot appliances.

Take care of little troubles before they become big. Repair frayed cords with friction tape. Bend prongs of loose-fitting plugs to make them fit securely.

How to conserve eyesight and light!

Eyesight and light are both vital to the war effort. Use them wisely by following these suggestions.

1. Clean lamp bulbs and bowls regularly with a damp cloth. Dry thoroughly before using.
2. Use shades with white linings that reflect light, not absorb it.
3. Keep all lights properly shaded to avoid harmful glare.
4. Arrange furniture so one lamp serves two or more people if necessary.
5. Always turn off lights in unoccupied rooms.

Don't waste Electricity just because it isn't rationed—use what you need, but need what you use.

Western Auto Store Urges Citizens To Do Their Yule Shopping Now While Stocks Are Complete

With Christmas only slightly more than a month off, wise people of the Midland territory will start their Christmas shopping early to avoid disappointment and trouble in finding gifts.

Despite wartime shortages and rationing, the Western Auto Associate Store, 120 West Wall Street, has been able to maintain large stocks of merchandise and now boasts one of the best selections of Christmas gifts in this area. The store has been able to maintain a good stock because of its unlimited buying connections, and it urges citizens to call now and make their selections for Christmas.

Practical and useful items are featured in array in this interesting store. There are household gifts, automotive supplies, and numerous other hard-to-get items which will be welcomed. Particular attention has been given to toys and games for the children and although these items are becoming increasingly hard to obtain since production is limited, the Western Auto Associate Store boasts a good supply. It has a good stock of dolls, tricycles and other items which will gladden children's hearts at Christmastide. Sports equipment is to be found in quantity here.

The store urges citizens of this area to shop now for Christmas—while stocks are complete and a good choice of items is available.

Precision firing by Allied anti-aircraft units has been responsible for a substantial portion of enemy air losses in the present war.

Night Depository Is Feature First National Service

Twenty-four hour service is a boast of the First National Bank of Midland, whose deposits now total more than $8,200,000.

It maintains a night depository in which customers may make deposits at any hour. For a nominal charge, depositors may make arrangements to use this service. They are supplied a special deposit sack with a lock. The deposits are placed in the sack, locked, and then placed in the night depository. Insurance is provided by the bank.

The next day, depositors call at the bank, the sack is opened and the deposit recorded.

Why Take Chances?

It is unnecessary for any citizen of Midland to take chances with his money, simply because banks are closed. The service was installed by the bank for the convenience and protection of customers.

Business men should not take the risk of losing their day's receipts by robbery when this depository service is available. A visit to the First National Bank will provide complete information on the plan.

The bank also maintains a small depository in the lobby of the First National Building for the convenience of depositors at hours when the building is open.

Police Chief Jack Ellington recommends the use of night depositories by businessmen of Midland to prevent crime.

Roberson Urges Drivers To Have Cars Sinclairized

These cold days should sound a warning to motorists.

It is time to "Sinclairize For Winter" at the Joe Roberson Service Station, 320 West Wall Street and prepare their cars to withstand the usual wear and tear occasioned by cold-weather driving.

Because cars must be made to last longer and need less repair and fewer parts, it is now doubly important to keep them in tip-top running shape. Sinclair motor oil will help prevent excessive engine wear and give them added protection during cold weather operation.

The Joe Roberson Service Station specializes in washing and greasing—another important thing for wise motorists to remember, since the appearance and smoothness of operation of the car also must be protected.

Courteous Service

The station is an official tire inspection center, and offers a complete tire maintenance service. The station also aids motorists who want to stretch the mileage allowed them under gasoline rationing. It provides Sinclair Ethyl and H-C gasolines which give that added zest to the car to make it go farther on less fuel.

Roberson urges motorists to get the Sinclair habit and to visit his station for automotive service—whether it be to obtain oil and gas or washing and greasing service or to have their tires properly inflated. Courteous, friendly service is given promptly to all.

Great Battle In Dnieper Bend Is Reaching Crisis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
The retreating Nazis in the Kiev-Zhitomir sector of the eastern front have only 165 miles farther to fall back before they will again be where they began their ill-fated attack against the Soviet Union on June 21, 1941.

At the rate the ravaging Nazis have been traveling recently—about fifteen miles a day—they theoretically could shoot a column through the old demarcation line through Poland in about eleven days. Actually, of course, that's not the way such an immense battle works. The Muscovites are developing their other offensives both north and south of the Kiev sector for the double purpose of pocketing and annihilating Germans and of bringing their long front back into alignment.

Nazis Still Attacking
It is important to note that the Germans still are counterattacking heavily in the Dnieper bend trap in an attempt to keep the Reds from closing this trap on the large number of Nazi troops still in that area. Such counterattacks also are calculated to slow down the Russian drive in the Kiev sector by threatening the Red flank. The ability of the Hitlerites to stage such counter-thrusts should dispel any notion that they are a crushed and routed army.

However, this intense battle, which extends for some 800 miles north and south as the crow flies—much farther if you measure all the serpentine windings—undoubtedly has reached a crisis. The offensives which now are being pushed in the sectors of Krivoy Rog, Kiev, Korosten, Gomel and Nevel, bid fair to produce some great and bloody changes in the war future.

The way things look, the Red armies are set for another winter of fierce attack. Once the ground is frozen—and it already is hard along much of the long front—they will be able to keep going until the spring thaws set in. That fact holds sorry prospects for the Nazis.

Airman In Italy Was Sure About Expected Arrival

SOMEWHERE IN ITALY—(AP)—Little personal items from the front, the near front, the camps and air bases in this theater.

Tech. Sgt. Henry C. Henson of Meadow, Texas, whose wife lives in Kansas City, Mo., has received a clipping of The Kansas City Star with the picture of his wife and a new baby daughter he's never seen. He's showing to everyone who files in the Army transport plane on which he's crew chief. And Second Lt. Victor A. Anderson, Ogden, Utah, the plane's pilot, tells how Henson had an argument with his wife over whether the baby would be a girl or a boy. He held out for a girl, and to clinch his point named her Helen Andrea and painted the name on the plane's left motor four months before Helen Andrea was born. Mrs. Henson bowed to the inevitable and accepted the name. Expert Camouflage

The name on the plane's nose, by the way, is Daisy Deane for Mrs. Anderson, who now lives in Dunn, N. C.

Lt. Col. Yancey S. Tarrant, Greenwood, Texas, commanding officer of an A-36 outfit, has a new respect for enemy camouflage. He and a squadron of his invaders went out on a request mission to bomb enemy armorers' units the other morning, but found no sign of them at the designated spot. Disgustedly, they finally followed through anyway, dive-bombed the specific point and flew back swearing at such inefficiency and waste of good bombs.

The official report credited them with destroying 18 enemy tanks.

PITY THE PLIGHT OF THE PUZZLED PENNY PICKERS

See that shiny penny on the sidewalk by the man's shoe? So did a lot of other people and plenty of them tried to pick it up—but got fooled. It wasn't just laying there, it was imbedded in the cement at State and Madison streets, the spot Chicagoans call "the world's busiest corner." Large and small, young and old, they all stooped to cop the copper—including the penny-pickin' mamma at right—but all were short changed.

DeMarigny's Plan To Remarry Wife Suddenly Halted

NASSAU, BAHAMAS — (AP)—New uncertainties piled up for dapper Alfred De Marigny Tuesday as a surprise cancellation of his planned re-marriage to his pretty wife Nancy was added to an official invitation to leave the island.

The Rev. Fr. Bonaventure, who was to have performed the ceremony, was left waiting at the altar when the bride and groom failed to appear.

De Marigny, acquitted last week after he was charged with the killing of Sir Harry Oakes, his wealthy father-in-law, announced Monday morning he and his red-haired wife would be re-married at 2 p. m. He explained that their marriage in New York in 1942 was a civil ceremony.

Father Bonaventure waited at the church for little over an hour after the appointed time. Then he talked to De Marigny on the telephone and he was surprised.

"There will be no wedding today. He said he is ill."

Wife Is Surprised
Friends of De Marigny's wife, however, indicated she was taken by surprise by the marriage plans.

She wanted more time to think over the idea. She is a protestant and he is Catholic.

The scheduled ceremony was explained by Father Bonaventure, vicar apostolic of the church, as a "validation of marriage." He added that the twice-divorced De Marigny did not marry his first and second wives in a church either.

There was no announcement by De Marigny on further plans for the ceremony or what he planned to do about the "invitation" by the governor-in-council to leave the crown colony.

Scientists Develop Waterless Glasses

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)—Frankford Arsenal ordnance department experts have developed a method of preventing binoculars from fogging.

At times binoculars become useless because moisture from the air condenses inside. It is a frequent risk in conditions of high humidity in the tropics.

The solution is a chemical sponge, a small plug of substance which absorbs moisture. Certain chemicals, like silica gel, are able to absorb large amounts of water. A plug made of one of these materials, the ordnance department reports, is enough to protect a pair of binoculars for several years.

Plugs have been designed so that they can be replaced in the field without disassembling the binoculars.

Only 11 to 21 per cent of a white potato is starch.

Better watch those ration stamps this month, advises Mrs. Dorothy Prather of Cleveland, who is thinking about all those point-taking canned vegetables, cranberries and pumpkin for that big Thanksgiving dinner.

Americans Giggle Way Out Of Tough Wartime Predicaments

Americans have not lost their balancing sense of humor as long as they can laugh at themselves in personal predicaments brought about by "tight" situations in essentials of everyday living.

Here's a roundup of items dealing with predicaments occasioned by shortages of manpower, food, transportation, and other living necessities and services, as reported by the Office of War Information:

In Seattle, Wash., a hotel management informs guests that they must make their own beds. A sign explains: Maid's Year Out.

In San Francisco, the deck steward of a South Pacific transport reported on the fate of the ship's mascot, a pig. "Everytime we hit port," he said, "so many people seemed to look at her as red ration points on the hoof that we finally gave up and turned her over to the butcher."

Feminine Scarcerow
In Glen Ellyn, Ill., the manpower situation was given ingenious solution. An enterprising Victory Gardner set up two scarceroes attired in print dresses.

Still on the wacky side but more serious, a citizen in Tulsa, Okla., explained that he had piled ties across a railroad track because two overcrowded trains had already passed him up, and he was desperate to catch a train.

In Burbank, Calif., arrival of 500 new alarm clocks caused a public celebration with emergency police called out to keep order.

Globe, Ariz., voted to awaken copper mine workers by sounding the fire whistle at 6 a. m. Only one protest was made—by the fire chief who claimed it would disturb his firm men, sleeping after swing-shift hours.

In Charlotte, N. C., a hotel got a key mailed back from North Africa. A former soldier-guest explained he was conscience-stricken on learning of room shortages in the Southern city.

All In The Wash
In Camden, N. J., 3,600 citizens were asked to visit a laundry that had gone into receivership, identify their wash, and take it home. Some 3,000 bundles were dry, but 600 were still wet, and the laundry warned they might mildew.

The village of Harris, in Sullivan County, Missouri, is going to get along with part-time Sunday telephone service after all. Citizens protested loudly when the exchange owner decided to let the operator off Sundays from 9 to 12. "Okay," said the operator, "I get my Sundays off or I quit." She got her Sundays off.

In Athens, Tenn., two days after an over-age applicant managed to get himself elected to the police force he received his first call. It was to arrest a horse that had gobbled up Victory Gardens.

In Hollywood, because of the meat shortage, producers of Westerns have decided to omit all shots of stampeding cattle. In Maryland, the Baltimore County superintendent of schools went personally ringing doorbells in search of teachers, so that the county's school bells would be sure to ring on time this fall. In Florida, a woman accused of

Hull To Address Solons Thursday

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Secretary Cordell Hull broke precedent by traveling 26,000 miles for the Moscow conference and he'll break it again Thursday with a two-mile trip from the State Department to Capitol Hill.

Hull will be the first cabinet member ever to speak before a joint session of Congress, which wants to hear a first-hand account of the historic Moscow pact.

Judging from the secretary's remarks to a news conference Monday, his first since he returned from the Anglo-American-Russian talks, he will emphasize to House and Senate these points:

1—A call for a unified American policy of interest in foreign affairs, backed by all political parties.

2—A proposed Allied commission to maintain order in liberated nations until these countries can hold plebiscites to choose their rulers.

Hull bore down on these points Monday. He said all nations would be allowed to choose their own governments at free elections, including the Baltic and Balkan States.

Lebanon Dispute Still Continues To Draw Appeals

LONDON — (AP)—The French-installed Lebanese government asked courtkeepers to reopen their shops Tuesday, the Beirut radio said, as Gen. Georges Catroux, emissary of the French Committee of National Liberation, sought to settle the dispute over the little republic's sovereignty.

The broadcast said the appeal was made to merchants to resume business "in order to restore normal conditions with the least possible delay."

From other countries in the near east, meanwhile, appeals on behalf of Lebanon continued. A Baghdad dispatch said that Wendell L. Willkie's support for Lebanon, "in the interests of democracy, the Allies and the aims of the United Nations," had been asked in a cable sent by the president of the Iraq senate.

The French on the other hand claimed Lebanon's and Syrian support. Radio France in Algiers said that "a big delegation of Lebanese and Syrians of all political and religious groups" expressed to the Scene Stealer

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. — (AP)—When a bus appeared in one scene of a motion picture shown at a theater here, Mary Ann Barnes of Delafield, Wis., suddenly leaped to her feet and shouted: "Oh, I left my baby on the bus." Many persons in the audience voiced their sympathy as the girl rushed out of the theater screaming.

A MacMurray College junior, Miss Barnes later received membership in the Players Guild, a dramatic society. Part of her initiation required her to demonstrate an ability to produce a scene in public.

The Doctor's Daughters

By FAITH BALDWIN

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson becomes Doctor Hall's assistant, he joins the Hall household. Nancy Hall, spoiled and bored, is flattered by his attentions but cannot forget Drew Warner. Mrs. Hall would like Nancy to encourage wealthy Frank Edgar. Edgar, however, seems more interested in the other daughter, Emily, a visiting nurse intent on her job. Mrs. Hall sees Nancy and Jim go alone to his apartment over the garage.

ORDERS

CHAPTER XIV

HER voice was cool, controlled. Emily said, with an effort: "I know. He expects a call, she went over to meet him some coffee."

"I'm not going to be stuffy about it," said Millicent, "it doesn't make sense in this day and age. But I am very displeased with Nancy." She sighed. "I don't know what she's up to—a boy like that—mind you, I like Jim. He's charming, he's attractive, your father thinks the world of him even in this short time. But," and she set her full pink lips firmly, "I am not going to have Nancy encouraging him. It isn't fair to him if she doesn't mean it and if I thought she meant it—I don't know what I'd do!"

"Why?" asked Emily after a pause. She turned her face a little away so that it was in shadow. "If it were you I wouldn't mind as much," said her mother, "you— I suppose you're cut out for that sort of life, you're like your father. But Nancy and I are alike. She would be miserable, married to a small town doctor, leading the sort of futile, boring life I've always led."

"You were in love with father," Emily reminded her, shortly. "You're like him when you speak like that. I am," said Millicent.

"You read it!" asked Emily, aghast.

"Why not, she's my daughter," said Millicent. "I pieced it together. It was hysterical. . . . Thank God, she didn't send it. The man," she added, "wasn't at all suitable; Martha made that clear. He's been married before, he has very little money and less reputation. . . . You can imagine how grateful I felt when I realized that Frank was becoming interested in her. The letter said," she went on, "that if he would write her, Nancy would manage to go to New York and meet him. Now perhaps you understand why I've been nearly crazy with worry. I haven't spoken to her, I know better than that. I can't tell your father. But I am telling you, Emily, because I want you to know how unhappy she's been—must have been to consider anything as insane—and how much I've counted on someone like Frank making her forget this Drew Warner."

"She's never spoken of him to me since she came home," said Emily, "or in any of her letters."

"She wouldn't," said Millicent. "I judged that, from what she wrote him . . . or meant to write him."

Emily said, "Perhaps she re-wrote it."

"I watched," said her mother calmly, "I don't think she did. Besides, he isn't in New York now. I saw a clipping on Nancy's desk, Martha must have sent it. He's off on some woman's estate."

The door closed behind her. At least, thought Emily, I've my orders. I know where I stand.

She felt the tears sting in her throat again. She thought, I must try to sleep. But she could not until she heard the office telephone ringing, in its impatient way, blurred by distance. It had been turned off in her father's bedroom but it would be ringing wildly and unceasingly in the garage apartment until answered.

It stopped ringing. A moment later she heard Nancy's step on the gravel and the back door closed. She heard the car start out of the garage, turn and drive off down the street.

Three Women Now State Forest Service Lookouts

COLLEGE STATION—(AP)—Feminine eyes now keep watch over Texas forests.

Three women, possibly the first forest patrolwomen in the south, have been added to the staff of the Texas Forest Service, and from tower positions at dizzy heights report and chart timber fires.

Mrs. N. D. Bartlett is stationed at the Kountze, Hardin County, lookout tower, five miles southwest of Kountze. In her 100-foot high glassed-in tower, Mrs. Bartlett spots and accurately locates fires by the "cross shot" method, then notifies patrolmen and fire fighters.

Mrs. Bartlett also maintains her part of the 3,800 miles of telephone lines, the "ears" of the Texas Forest Service. Her husband is a corporal in New Guinea.

State Forest No. 1, near Kirbyville, Newton County, is the station of Mrs. J. W. Huffman. She serves when her husband, the regular patrolman, is away at a fire or busy on other duties.

The third member of the trio is Mrs. C. H. Dickens at Hyatt, Tyler County. Her tower is in the south Henry Kirby Forest, 15 miles south of Woodville.

WPB Construction Order Is Rewritten

The War Production Board's order restricting construction, one of the most widely effective regulations of the war agency, has been completely rewritten. Robert C. Stryker of El Paso, WPB district manager, announced.

In addition to several changes made in the order, WPB No. L-41, Stryker said, almost entirely new language is used to make the restrictions more easily understandable to the public. The major changes include:

The limit on total farm construction, including residential, without specific authorization, is placed at $1,000. Previously, farm residences were not considered a part of the farm limit, and the $200 limit applied to all residence construction including farm residences.

A limit of $200 is placed on any type of construction for which a higher specific limit is not authorized by the order. This over-all limit formerly was $1,000.

In calculating costs to determine if a job is within specified L-41 limits, the cost of used materials or the value of labor furnished free need no longer be included.

Cost limits now refer to the calendar year, instead of to any consecutive 12-month period.

Drilling of water wells has been added to the list of types of construction which may be begun without WPB permission.

Crude Oil Production Climbs During Week

TULSA—(AP)—United States crude oil production increased 70,285 barrels daily to a total of 4,449,410 barrels daily in the week ended Nov. 13, The Oil and Gas Journal said Tuesday.

Kansas production was up 46,350 barrels daily to 288,900; California, 8,450 to 786,750; Illinois 13,675 to 228,350; the Rocky Mountain area, 1,200 to 127,425; and Michigan, 8,750 to 30,600.

Oklahoma output declined 2,700 barrels daily to 327,700; Louisiana, 250 to 350,750; Texas, 150 to 1,923,800; and Eastern fields, 6,050 to 70,900. East Texas production was unchanged at 376,400 barrels a day.

Same Team But Greatly Improved One Faces Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes Friday Afternoon

Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes will be seeking their first conference win and their second football victory of the season when they line up against the Midland Bulldogs here Friday at 2:30 p. m. The Dawson County boys have suffered six losses while netting only one win thus far this season, but they haven't given up yet.

By all possible means of figuring, the Bulldogs are due to come out on top in the tilt with the District 2-AA cellar club, but neither the Midland nor the Lamesa squad feel that way about it. The Lamesa boys have been battered around in every game except their first with Taboka, but they have always come back for more and have played plenty of good ball. They're determined to cop another victory this season and this is their next to the last chance.

Tornadoes Outscored
The Tornadoes have been out-

scored 273 points to 77 in their seven games this season, and have been on the short end of several heavy scores. Despite that fact, the Bulldogs have been working extra hard to prepare for the tilt, because anything can and sometimes does happen in football.

There was plenty of pep in the practice session Monday afternoon and the Bulldogs were in top shape except for a couple of injuries. They've had two weeks of nothing but practice sessions and for the past week they have been battling a formidable B squad which has been working from the box formation used by the Lamesa boys and which has been showing plenty of Lamesa's favorite plays at them—some with pretty fair success. If by some stroke of misfortune the Tornadoes should run short of men, the Midland B team could supply replacements who know the plays and who have proven they can work from them.

But, because they have had a two week breather period since their 26-20 victory over Abilene and because Coach Gene McCollum and Jack Atkins have had ample opportunity to scout the Tornadoes, the Bulldogs are ready and anxious to go. Guard Red Roy and End Jimmy Watson have been having a field day smearing the plays set up by the B team and seem anxious to see if the same will hold true against the real Tornado offense. Black Jack Taylor and Bill Richards, backing the Bulldogs' defense line, have had ample opportunity to get acquainted somewhat with the Tornadoes' tricky ball handling and have been crashing through to set the pseudo "Lamesa team" back for losses in practice sessions.

Edwards Gets Rough
With John Spurge still taking it easy most of the time on the sidelines because of a knee injury, Ralph Vertrees has been looking good in practice at that tackle job, and Charles Frank has been doing some nice work at the other side. Copper Daugherty has been getting a lot of practice out on the right wing of the Midland line where the Tornadoes are wont to shove with bootleg plays.

Jim Edwards, the Bulldogs' 15-year-old "baby" player who has been consistently good all season apparently has decided he likes to play rough and has been knocking chunks out of the line on both defensive and offensive plays these past weeks. Fans will do well to watch the line Friday if the Bulldogs continue to show the fight—"a spirit they have been displaying."

But the biggest improvement in the Bulldog lineup has come in the backfield, which has been doing all right all along. Ivan Hall and Joe Stickey are bound to give the fans a real show of skill Friday, since both have improved in skill considerably. Hall has been stepping high and running fast the past week and doing it with emphasis enough to outsmart his teammates to know what plays he is running and where he is going. Big Joe Stickey has been showing no mercy to the unmetled B squad line on his punches through the middle and has developed a beautiful ramrod stiff-arm for his end sweeps and broken field running.

Richards Is Raring
Hubert Drake, the "workhorse" of the Bulldog backfield quartet, has improved considerably on his blocking and has been throwing them accurately and hard in addition to getting in some good punches with the ball under his arm.

Bill Richards, who is due to set the district on fire next season, already has started a little flame with his passing and his field generalship, but the fans haven't seen anything yet. He has been whipping the ball to his receivers all season with deadly accuracy and with a completion record of better than 50 per cent. Lots of fans have been a little disappointed because he hasn't been calling running plays for himself but occasionally, without giving away any secrets, those fans should be invited to watch Richards Friday.

Team Greatly Improved
M. C. Hale, who started out like a house on fire the first of the season, but who simmered down after being injured during his bang-up playing at San Angelo, is ready again and he acts as though he wants to make up for the time he has missed by playing it all at once in the next two games on the Bulldog schedule. L. C. Neatherlin, speedy little back who has been bothered with injured shoulders all season, also is ready and more than likely will see a little more action Friday.

All in all, it will be the same old team but a greatly improved one which takes the field Friday against the Tornadoes.

Montgomery-Beau Jack Fight Slated Friday

Four Prospective Teams For Cotton Bowl Game Listed

DALLAS—(AP)—Duke, North Carolina, Georgia Tech and Randolph Field were mentioned Monday as foremost among teams being eyed for the Cotton Bowl game here Jan. 1.

While declining to make any definite commitment because the final decision will have to be in accord with wishes of the host team—either Texas or Texas A. & M.—Dan D. Rogers, chairman of the board of directors of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, admitted those four were top bracketed.

Also mentioned was Oklahoma, now leading the Big Six conference race, but selection of the Sooners would undoubtedly depend upon A. & M. winning the Southwestern Conference championship in its Thanksgiving Day game with Texas. In that event, A. & M. would automatically be invited as host team. Texas already has defeated Oklahoma this season.

The Denver Junior Chamber of Commerce has made overtures in behalf of undefeated Colorado College and Rogers said he had received letters from supporters of Arkansas A. & M. and Southwestern Louisiana Institute, both also undefeated.

However, these three teams are composed largely of naval and Marine trainees affected by the Navy's 48-hour leave limitation, and it also is known that Texas and A. & M. are not as anxious to play any of these teams as much as they are some of the others under consideration.

Four Prospective Teams For Cotton Bowl Game Listed

DALLAS—(AP)—Duke, North Carolina, Georgia Tech and Randolph Field were mentioned Monday as foremost among teams being eyed for the Cotton Bowl game here Jan. 1.

While declining to make any definite commitment because the final decision will have to be in accord with wishes of the host team—either Texas or Texas A. & M.—Dan D. Rogers, chairman of the board of directors of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, admitted those four were top bracketed.

Also mentioned was Oklahoma, now leading the Big Six conference race, but selection of the Sooners would undoubtedly depend upon A. & M. winning the Southwestern Conference championship in its Thanksgiving Day game with Texas. In that event, A. & M. would automatically be invited as host team. Texas already has defeated Oklahoma this season.

The Denver Junior Chamber of Commerce has made overtures in behalf of undefeated Colorado College and Rogers said he had received letters from supporters of Arkansas A. & M. and Southwestern Louisiana Institute, both also undefeated.

However, these three teams are composed largely of naval and Marine trainees affected by the Navy's 48-hour leave limitation, and it also is known that Texas and A. & M. are not as anxious to play any of these teams as much as they are some of the others under consideration.

Texas Christian Squad Bolstered By V-12 Trainees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There was cause for rejoicing in the Southwest Conference football camps Tuesday, especially in the hallways of Texas Christian and Southern Methodist universities.

The Christians, who play Rice at Fort Worth Saturday with the loser taking over a share of the cellar position, were strengthened Monday by the addition of a dozen new players, ten of them Naval V-5 trainees.

Southern Methodist, preparing for Saturday's non-conference joust in Dallas with Texas Tech, was bolstered by the return of four to eight backs from the injured list. Frogs Get Reserve Power

Meanwhile, Texas University, Texas A. and M. and Arkansas University, all of whom are idle this week, settled down to work toward tough Thanksgiving Day engagements. However, the additions did give the Frogs some badly-needed reserve power.

At Houston, the Rice Owls expected to be in top condition for their meeting with TCU, having come through last week's game with Texas A. and M. without serious injury.

Andrews In Spotlight
Wayne (Red) Shaw, Dave Redman, C. D. Allen and Olin Gibbons were the backs rejoicing the Southern Methodist squad. This quartet, each a starter at some time during the season, should provide additional scoring punch for the Pony attack.

Coach Homer Norton told his youthful Texas Aggies that "Texas is the toughest team on our schedule" as the cadets forsook their regular Monday workout for a lengthy blackboard session. All members of the squad were in good condition after last week's triumph over Rice.

Billy Andrews, diminutive water-boy who droppicked two extra points for the Texas Longhorns against TCU, remained the chief topic of interest in the Loughnorn camp as Coach Dana Bible's boys went through a tough workout.

Boy Receives $1,000 Reward From Woman

NEW YORK—(AP)—Bobby Ownbey's modest bank account, built up on his $5-a-week errand boy salary, received a $1,000 boost Tuesday.

The 11-year-old boy found a pouch containing three diamond rings, a diamond studded pin and a diamond necklace, outside a bank several days ago.

He gave the gems, valued at $115,000, to his father who located the owner, Mrs. Pauline Weiss, an elderly woman in her 70's. Bobby handed over the pouch to Mrs. Weiss who, in turn, presented the youth with nine crisp $100 bills and two equally as crisp $50 bills.

King Farouk Injured

CAIRO—(AP)—King Farouk I of Egypt was injured slightly Monday as his automobile and a truck collided on a road bordering the Suez Canal. Doctors at the hospital to which he was taken said he could be moved Tuesday to the royal palace.

House Subsidy Foes Threaten OPA Fund Slash

WASHINGTON—(AP)—House subsidy foes Tuesday threatened to attack the very existence of OPA unless President Roosevelt drops his demands for authority to pay out government funds in order to hold down retail food prices.

Chairman Steagall (D-Ala.) of the House banking committee disclosed the strategy. Whether it will be employed depends on events.

The House may take up on Thursday a bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation, including an amendment banning all consumer subsidy payments after this calendar year. Criticism Continues

Roosevelt vetoed such a bill before. Steagall said that if the President takes the same attitude again, his committee will attach the prohibition to legislation extending the life of the Office of Price Administration beyond June 30, 1944, end of the fiscal year.

"You know they want that continued," said Steagall, referring to OPA.

The swell of criticism against subsidies continued in the Senate where the agriculture committee, avowedly against them, called in more than 200 witnesses, including state agriculture department heads, and food producers' spokesmen for their views.

Mountain Among Fabled Mighty Mites Of Masonic Home Definitely Is Growing Up

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—The mountain among those fabled Mighty Mites of Masonic Home is "growing up."

DeWitt Coulter, who as an athlete at the Fort Worth school was all-state tackle and national champion shot putter, has gained more than 20 pounds since entry into the armed forces.

The 19-year-old Coulter at the latest tabulation made the scales cry under an impact of 230 pounds, and is in "better shape" than five months ago when he reported as a mere "babe" of 206.

Coulter is happily situated in the service but all the while he's dreaming of the day when once more he dons the molokins.

Irish-Iowa Flier Game Rated Top Battle Of Week

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Saturday's football game between Notre Dame and Iowa Pre-Flight involves this country's two top teams, say 90 sports writers in this week's Associated Press poll to determine the ranking team.

The Irish, unanimous choice in last week's voting, gained 67 first place and three second place ballots in the present tabulation but easily held the top spot while the Seahawks climbed from fifth to second on the strength of their 39 to 13 victory over the Camp Grant soldiers.

Texas Moves Up
Last Saturday's results, which brought out a full crop of wartime oddities, also gave the erstwhile select ten a thorough shakeup.

Idle Purdue dropped to third from second in making way for the Seahawks. Michigan retained fourth while Navy, despite its 61 to 0 massacre of Columbia, slid from third to fifth.

Army and Duke, sixth and seventh a week ago, exchanged berths and Northwestern, eighth in the previous compilation and a 25 to 6 victim of Notre Dame last Saturday, hung on to ninth.

March Field and Texas moved into the select groups, replacing

Sports Roundup

By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.

NEW YORK—(AP)—After the Bears' Luckman had pitched five touchdown passes against the Giants Sunday, he was sent to the bench. . . . Up in the press box, our colleague Sid Feder turned to the Bears' spotter-coach, Luke Johnson, and asked: "Why not send Feder back in? He only needs one to tie the record." . . . Only one is that all? said Johnson, picking up the phone to relay the information to the bench. . . . Two minutes later Luckman flipped the record-equalling pass. . . . Then, with three minutes to go, Johnson turned to Feder and remarked: "Here it comes: Right down in this corner to pool for the record." . . . It did.

Wrecked By Records
There was some consolation for the fans in that shacking they got from the Bears and Luckman. At Monday's eat and alibi gathering, Steve Owen came up with this gem: "After all, we've accomplished something. He helped Don Hutson establish a record; we helped Sid Luckman establish a record; the only thing left is to help Sammy Baugh beat both their records. If we can do that, I'll think we've had a helluva season."

Blocked Kick
A reader of "Yank," the Army weekly, recently sent in a complaint because of an article about Whirlaway. It went something like this: "Does Yank's sports editor always have to write about northern horses and sports? We also have good sports down South, too, so won't you give us some news from there?" We have a fellow Poller who writes for the Charlotte News. He'd give you the low-down on the South. . . . The fellow Poller now is Sgt. Dan Poller, sports editor of Yank and author of the story about the northern horse, Whirlaway.

Southern California and Penn. The fliers are ranked eighth with the Longhorns tenth.

One of the three first place votes which did not go to Notre Dame was assigned Duke University. The remaining two went to Colorado College, reportedly interested in a Cotton Bowl bid.
