Earl Cantwell
Gems & Allegorys

An amazing amount of our thinking is done backwards—We first decide what we want to believe, then find good reasons for believing it . . . Just show yourself more human than critical and your pleasure in life will increase . . . No amount of riches can atone for poverty of character . . . People with principle draw considerable interest . . . As we get close to God, there are times of trials and testings. We can tell if we are clay or gold by how we respond. If we are clay, we become hard; if we are gold we melt and flow with God's purpose . . . God's word, being the unerring road map to human behavior, should be read at the beginning of each day's journey for maximum guidance and strength.

The trouble with a marriage often starts when a man spends too much time earning his salt and forgets his sugar . . . Abraham Lincoln once said, "No man is poor who has a godly mother" . . . No gift you give to your mother can compare to the gift your mother gave to you . . . As you walk on the sands of time, take care what your footprints reveal, so that the imprint that you leave may be that of a soul instead of a heel . . . The road to construction is always under construction . . . If you want to be heard—whisper . . . "I must do something" will solve more problems than to say "something must be done" . . .

The English poet made a visit to the Alps, so awesome in its beauty. He entered a tourist office where there was a register for visitors to sign their names and their impressions of the Alps. Shelly wrote his name and next to his name he wrote "atheist". Another visitor who followed Shelly read his remark. He wrote, "If one remains an atheist after seeing the beauty of the Alps, then he must be a fool, if not a fool, then a liar if he says that God does not exist."

The human face is by far the world's most important scenery. In beauty it matches the flowers; in loveliness it surpasses the landscape; in novelty it outstrips the mountains; and in radiance it is richer than the sunshine. Above all it is a window of the soul.

Stoltz-Gill Vows Exchanged In Formal Service in Lubbock

Miss Melissa Lynn Stoltz of Lubbock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Stoltz of Kingwood, and Eber Allen Gill of Lubbock were united in marriage on Saturday, November 30, 1991, at four o'clock in the afternoon in a formal double-ring ceremony at the First Christian Church in Lubbock.

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. John Gill of Silverton.

Dr. Michael Passmore, senior minister of the First Christian Church in Lubbock, performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a cream satin gown with a sweeping five-foot train. The bodice was overlaid with Victorian lace. Puffed sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The full skirt was edged with Victorian lace and in the back the lace formed a triangle ending just below a satin bow. Her fingertip-length veil of bridal illusion was edged with matching Victorian lace. She carried eight long-stemmed wine-colored roses tied with navy-blue ribbons.

Miss Jennifer Stoltz of Lubbock served her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaid was Miss Christine Stoltz, sister of the bride, from Kingwood.

Both attendants were attired in identical tea-length navy-blue crepe-backed satin gowns, styled with princess-seamed bodice and sweetheart necklines ending in full skirts. They carried three long-stemmed wine-colored roses tied with navy ribbons and cream Victorian lace.

Cris Gill of Fort Worth served as best man. Groomsman was Brett Gill of Silverton. Both are brothers of the groom.

Flower girl was Miss Corye Gill of Silverton, niece of the groom. Landon Gill of Fort Worth served as ringbearer for his uncle.

Guests were seated by James Shelby of Lubbock and Kelly Green of Muleshoe.

Organist, Dr. Jim Watt of Lubbock, played traditional wedding selections on the new Casaevant Pipe Organ.

A reception was held in Kuykendall Hall of the church following the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with white lace, and was centered with a wine rose and evergreen arrangement. The three-tiered wedding cake had an heirloom ceramic bride and groom on top. Punch was served from a silver bowl and coffee was poured from a silver coffee service.

Cristine Zittel, friend of the bride, presided at the refreshment table.

The couple will be at home in Lubbock following a brief wedding trip.

The bride was graduated from Kingwood High School and is a senior at Texas Tech University.

The groom was graduated from Silverton High School and Texas Tech University. He is employed by the Lubbock State School Community Services Division.

The Lady Pats went on to lead 6-0 at the end of the first period, and extended their lead to 15-2 by halftime. At the end of three periods, the Valley lead was 19-6, and the Lady Patriots went on to win the 26-13 decision.

Jeremiah Brooks led the offense with 12 points. Also scoring were Zeb Holt, six; Brandon Sarchet, five; Cy Comer and Zach Baldwin, four points each, and Arnold Garza, two points. Patrick O'Neal also saw action in the game.

Bivins says TEA Will Help School Districts

State Senator Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) says the reorganization of the Texas Education Agency will pass more control from the state bureaucracy to local school districts.

As a member of the Senate Interim Education Committee, Bivins is reviewing plans by the state Education Board to reorganize the TEA. He and other committee members recently discussed the plans with state Education Commissioner Lionel (Skip) Meno.

"Under the reorganization, local school districts will be responsible for achieving state education goals," Bivins said. "Local districts will have the freedom to choose which method of instruction they want to use to achieve those goals."

"Meno and I agree that TEA should move away from over-regulation that stifles creativity. Teachers should teach and not have to be pencil pushers for the Texas Education Agency," the senator said.

Bivins said he plans to monitor the actions of TEA to insure the agency's reorganization, indeed, transfers more control to local school districts.

Additionally, the reorganization will create 60 new positions in regional education service centers around the state.

"The role of these new employees will be to help local school districts with problems they're having with TEA in Austin. TEA will have a specific instruction to reply to districts within a few days of a request," Bivins said.

Even with the new positions, the number of employees at TEA will shrink from 1,260 to 1,179, he said.

THE TELCOT ADVANTAGE To Cotton Marketing in 1991-92

Recently, the Adjusted World Price (AWP) for cotton fell below the base loan rate, throwing a new twist in cotton marketing. As provided in the 1990 Farm Bill, this development gives cotton growers two options in marketing their loan-eligible bales.

These are:

1. Placing the cotton into the government loan and marketing the equities. Cotton can be redeemed at the lower AWP, and all storage charges are waived.

OR

2. Electing to forego the loan in exchange for a Producer Option Payment (POP), which is the difference between the base loan and the AWP.

TELCOT is the BEST WAY for growers to market their cotton this season, offering these advantages:

• SECURITY

Growers who sell equities on TELCOT know that they will not be responsible to CCC for storage and forfeiture charges if the cotton eventually forfeits to CCC.

• SPEED AND CONVENIENCE

When growers forego the loan, TELCOT can apply for the POP on their behalf such that when they sell their cotton on TELCOT they receive their lint proceeds "PLUS" the POP, normally within 24 hours.

• ACCESS

TELCOT gives growers access to more than 50 cotton buyers every day.

Rank Cogdell

Brad Ziegler

Two Chosen to Serve On SWCD Governing Board

In a recent election in the Caprock Soil and Water Conservation District, Brad Ziegler was elected to the board of directors to represent Zone 3. Rank Cogdell also was appointed to the board of directors to fulfill the unexpired term of Jarus Flowers. Cogdell will represent Zone 1 of the county.

Both Ziegler and Cogdell are Briscoe County residents and are engaged in farming and ranching in the county.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

In Texas there are 211 soil and water conservation districts. Each is a legal subdivision of state government organized by local agricultural landowners with the assistance of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board. Unlike most other legal subdivisions of state government, SWCDs do not have the powers of taxation or eminent domain. All conservation programs managed by the districts are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator or other potential users of the SWCD's programs.

Programs and services of the Caprock SWCD are offered on a nondiscriminatory basis without regard for race, color, national origin, age, sex, religion, marital status or handicap.

A WEEKLY SUMMARY OF COTTON MARKETING NEWS

For The Week Ending November 28

Shock waves reverberated through the U.S. cotton trade following a surprise move by the secretary of agriculture on November 21 to use his discretionary authority to further lower the adjusted world price (AWP) to 44.07 cents per pound. The move was a clear signal that U.S. cotton prices had become uncompetitive and that the U.S. share of world markets was in jeopardy.

Following two days of convulsions, the market settled into a nervous tone, especially the futures market. Nerves were on edge as many traders wondered if the secretary would exercise his authority again and further lower the AWP for the week ending December 5. The implications also could be felt on the spot market where any change in the producer option payment (POP) would have a major impact on cotton producers' income. The POP is calculated by subtracting the AWP from the bae loan rate and is paid to growers who forego the loan and sell their cotton.

Delayed by the Thanksgiving holiday, USDA announced the new AWP on Friday morning, November 29. Left unchanged at 44.07 cents per pound for the week ending December 5, it was almost as much of a surprise as the previous week's. In addition, the POP remains unchanged at 670 points.

The latest export figures demonstrate a declining share of world markets for U.S. cotton growers. USDA released the report for the week ended November 21 a day early due to last week's holiday. It showed a net increase of 57,900 running bales. The previous week's report contained a net increase of 70,400 running bales. The downward spiral of U.S. cotton exports is a direct result of lower prices from competing countries and buyers who are waiting on the sidelines to see how far prices will slip. Recent reports indicate that many foreign mills are covered through March, 1992.

Despite the market's nervousness, West Texas/Oklahoma cotton producers continued to aggressively market their crops this past week. Although stocks available for marketing remained somewhat limited by the delayed harvest, 17,584 bales traded on the TELCOT system during the holiday-shortened week. That compares to 18,176 bales sold during the five previous trading days. The highest single-day trading occurred on November 27 when 8,827 bales were sold.

Demand for lower qualities continues to be quite strong as reflected by average prices received on TELCOT which dropped slightly from the previous week. In the four days of trading just prior to this report, the average daily prices received on the electronic marketing system ranged from a low of 48.45 cents per pound on November 26 to a high of 50.72 on November 22. Average gross premiums over the loan ranged from 1030 points to 1133. Clearly, West Texas/Oklahoma cotton prices remain high relative to other areas of the Cotton Belt.

Several consecutive days of open weather recently has allowed West Texas/Oklahoma growers to make significant progress with harvest operations resulting in heavy movement of cotton to area warehouses and samples to USDA's classing offices. Much of this cotton soon will enter the marketing channels, and trading on TELCOT is likely to show significant increase throughout the rest of the season barring sustained inclement weather.

Much of the demand for this area's cotton currently comes from domestic mills, one of the brightest spots in the world textile situation. U.S. mills currently are projected to consume 9.9 million bales of cotton during the 1991-92 marketing season, a 400,000-bale increase from the previous year. It marks the third consecutive year of strong domestic demand.

The U.S. cotton harvest reached 75 percent complete as of November 24, according to USDA, up four percentage points from a week earlier. The Texas harvest reached 51 percent, compared to 46 percent on November 17. In Oklahoma, harvest remained at a virtual standstill during the week, USDA said. Harvest there stood at 33 percent on November 24.

Letter to the Editor

November 23, 1991

Dear Editor,

Last Friday's Six Man State playoff football game at Payne Field between the Silvertown Owls and the Valley Patriots was a personal joy to watch and broadcast.

For 18 years I have had the privilege to describe on radio some great high school regular-season and state-playoff games all across West Texas, and the Silvertown-Valley will rank among some of the most memorable ones. Being a proud alumni of Silvertown High School, the outcome of the contest was somewhat disappointing, but the way it was played was very gratifying.

The two coaches, Clyde Parham of Silvertown and Cliff Gilmore of Valley, both are to be commended for the way they prepared their teams for the renewal of an old Briscoe County rivalry. I felt both teams played as hard as possible and by the rules. It was in my opinion a good clean game.

One of the most memorable aspects of the game was the way the fans supported their teams, especially Silvertown since the Owls came out on the short end of the score. The 1991 Owls, which achieved the best record in the school's football history and a state ranking highly deserved, were too good a team to be left on the field by itself after suffering such a disappointing loss. The citizens of Silvertown really showed what sportsmanship is all about, and how they appreciated all the accomplishments of the 10 previous victories.

And last, but not least, was that Silvertown and Valley players were still shaking each other's hands and congratulating one another approximately 10-to-15 minutes after the conclusion of this hard-fought game. I know there was a lot of excitement and pre-game hype leading up to Friday night, and the way it all ended maybe the Silvertown-Valley football game will become an annual rivalry brought back.

Thank you, players and fans; the Silvertown-Valley football game was played like it was supposed to be—hard, clean and with pride. Good luck, Valley, as you represent Briscoe County in the State Playoffs—you earned it!!!

Sincerely,
Nick Long

Social Security in Briscoe County

by Mary Jane Shanes

Applying For SSI

Although more than four million people receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments each month, others who could be eligible have not yet applied. For some, the reason for not applying is a fear of the application process. If this sounds like your reasoning or that of someone you know, perhaps an explanation of what SSI is and how you apply for it would be helpful.

SSI is a federal program administered by the Social Security Administration. It pays monthly checks to people with limited income and resources who are 65 or over, or who are blind, or who have a disability. And being eligible for SSI means more than just receiving monthly checks. People who get SSI usually are eligible for Medicaid, which can help pay health care expenses. They also may be eligible for food stamps and other social services offered in their state.

It's easy to apply for SSI. Just visit your local Social Security office. Or call us at 1-800-772-1213 for an appointment with a Social Security representative who will help you sign up.

You can speed up the application process if you have certain information with you when you apply for yourself or someone else. But even if you don't have all the necessary information, apply anyway. The people in the Social Security office can help get whatever is needed.

This information includes:

- Your Social Security card or record of your Social Security number;
- Your birth certificate or other proof of your age;
- Information about where you live, such as your mortgage or your lease and landlord's name;
- Information about your income and resources, such as payroll slips, bank books, and insurance policies;
- Medical records if you're applying because of disability or blindness.

• Proof of citizenship or alien status.

Remember if you think you're eligible for SSI, you should apply right away. This is because payments can only be made as of the date you apply or the date you're eligible if that is later.

More information about SSI applications can be obtained at any Social Security office or by calling 1-800-772-1213.

The Social Security Administration (SSA) will seek more detailed information about children who apply for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability benefits under a revised standard for determining childhood disability. Information about the child's daily activities will be collected to help SSA determine if a child is disabled under a new regulation that became effective in February.

The new regulation changes the criteria SSA uses to determine whether a child is disabled for SSI purposes. Under the new procedures, SSA will evaluate the extent to which a child's disability keeps him or her from doing things children of the same age can do. Under previous rules, only children who met specific medical criteria were found eligible for SSI purposes. It is expected that the new rules will result in SSI eligibility for thousands of children whose claims may have been denied for medical reasons under the old rules.

Physicians and other individuals familiar with the child's capabilities will be asked to provide information about the child's ability to perform age-appropriate activities such as caring for him or her self, functioning in a school setting, and handling peer relations. This information will supplement the medical information SSA already requests from treating physicians.

Schools will be asked to provide information about academic performance, psychological evaluations, attendance, behavior, and speech and language therapy. The child's teacher or counselor also may be asked to provide information about ways in which the child's disability limits his or her ability to function in an age-appropriate fashion.

The information provided is extremely important. In most cases, SSA's physicians and psychologists do not have the opportunity to see or examine the child. Therefore, the information must be detailed enough to allow them to evaluate the severity of the condition and the child's ability to function.

More detailed information also will be requested about children whose claims for SSI disability benefits are being re-evaluated as a result of the court order under the Supreme Court decision in Sullivan vs. Zebley.

In mid-July, SSA sent notices to about half a million children who can request re-evaluation of their claims under the Sullivan vs. Zebley court order. Those requests, along with new applications received, will result in a dramatic increase in the number and extent of children's school records SSA will be seeking in addition to current medical evidence.

The Agency will work with national educational organizations to assure that they are aware of the change and that SSA will be asking for their cooperation in providing prompt, complete reports. All information provided by external sources is confidential under the provisions of the Federal Privacy Act.

The SSI program makes monthly cash payments to disabled children from families with limited income and resources. Children who receive SSI also are usually eligible for medical assistance and various other social services.

IT'S TIME TO ADOPT THE TRUE SPIRIT OF THE HOLIDAYS

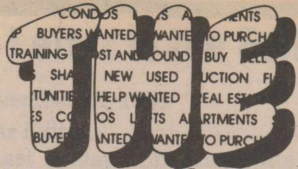

Holiday time is again upon us, as the culmination of a year that was marred by war and in many cases, financial hardship caused by the recession. Nonetheless, regardless of our situation or our faith, it's time to put those distressing things behind us and renew the true spirit of the season: getting in touch with friends and loved ones, mending quarrels, and being kinder and more patient even with strangers. Whether you decorate your home with Christmas lights or Chanukah candles, it will seem a lot brighter if you are at peace with the world and with yourself. As busy as you are at this time, take the time to attend your House of Worship for a refresher course in the true meaning of the holiday spirit. It's love and tolerance, for now and all the other times of the year.

Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy.
 — Ralph Waldo Emerson

CARDS OF THANKS

We greatly appreciate Bessie Garrison's time and effort in preparing the wonderful German chocolate cake for our raffle last Friday night. We thank you for your generosity and your willingness to assist the pep squad on such short notice. The winner of the cake was very pleased.
SHS Pep Squad

We would like to express our thanks and sincere appreciation to the Booster Club for paying the paint bill for the '91-'92 season. These paints are used for every sign made for our football boys and basketball players to boost their spirit. With your backing and support for our club, we were able to clear another bill that was made to support our teams. We do thank you for this financial support.
SHS Cheerleaders and
SHS Pep Squad

We also wish to express our thanks to all the adults who help support the team before and during the games. Our community is so willing to comply to each request we make for our team and this is very commendable. The mothers who make signs and streamers, the hysterical comedians in our pep rally skits, Dana Martin for the wonderful music, the cooks in and around the concession stand and everyone else who contributed made this year's football season one we will long remember.
SHS Cheerleaders and
SHS Pep Squad

Thank you for the prayers, the calls, the cards, the food and visits and concern while I was in the hospital and since I've been at home.
Ruby Kitchens

Thanks to Mrs. Parker and the first grade students for the Thanksgiving pictures they colored for our store windows.
The employees of Allsup's

We would like to thank and extend our appreciation to everyone for the prayers, flowers, cards and your visits in the loss of my mother, Lura McKay.
May God bless each of you.
Grover and Syble Thomas

Thank you for your kindness expressed through the gifts we received during the loss of our son and brother.
We appreciate everything that has been done for us.
Emma Jean Ivory and family

During the recent surgical ordeal at Methodist Hospital, we, James and Geneva Griffin, received many visits, phone calls and get-well cards, all of which lifted our spirits by letting us know we were being thought of, prayed for, and loved by so many in this community. Our heartfelt thanks goes out from our home to all of you.
James and Geneva Griffin
