Poultry Hints
Keep the pullets growing if they are to produce winter eggs. This means keeping the mash hoppers filled.
More profitable summer egg production will be obtained in flocks that are given continual access to grain and mash rations.
If shade is provided for the poultry a mash hopper should be placed within easy reach. The birds will range during the morning and late afternoon.
When new oats and wheat arrive from the threshing machine there is always a temptation to overfeed the birds on the new grains before getting them used to them. This practice often results in heavy losses.
Chickens appreciate good shade and fresh water this time of the year.
Sweet or sour skim milk brings big returns when fed to either young or old poultry.
Feed mash to hens right through the summer. It will increase the egg production and profit.

Just Like An Ostrich
A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is removing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easily, which you can get at Reid's Drug Store or Payne Drug Co.

A Trip To California

By W. M. Fife

Our last week's letter left us in the city of Holbrook, Ariz. This is one of the pioneer towns of this section and was in the days of the earlier settlements a rough town. While J. O. Jackson and the writer were walking over the city early Sunday morning September the 16th our attention was called to an old time Winchester Rifle in a window of a Hardware store and a card beside it stated that "This is the gun with which a former sheriff killed five men in one day." This seemed a kind of a tame affair to the population of the city, but it made us love Texas the more.

This city, Holbrook, is the county seat of Navajo county and it has a population of about 1000. It is the nearest railroad point to a vast territory and the live stock and farm products are very large. The prevailing drought had reached this section and the live stock interest had waned considerably, but the farm products from many rich irrigated valleys were marketed and shipped out from Holbrook. The trade territory of this city reaches out more than 100 miles from the town. The Navajo and Hopi Indian reservations to the north and the Mormon country and the White Mountain Apache country to the south. We came out of Holbrook to the east and passed between the two sections mentioned above. We came out a new highway which the Government had taken over but has not had time to condition known as No. 70 which is just a fair country road compared with the good highways of other sections of the states we traveled through. We made the trip across the country to Socorro New Mexico where we spent Sunday night. We will try and give our readers a glimpse of this section as best we can.

We boarded our bus at 6:30 Mountain time and began our journey toward this beautiful Sabbath morning going east from the city of Holbrook. We had not gone very far until we came across one edge of the Petrified forest. We did not pass through the forest proper but quite a lot of the petrified trees and cuts of the trees were seen on this route. Also we passed near a small painted desert. The hills were of different colors and made a beautiful scene before our eyes, but what we saw along this highway is nothing to compare with what you could see in the heart of the petrified forest or the real painted desert. Many of us regretted that we were not able to visit these wonderful places, but we were all too anxious to get back home for any thing to deter us for any length of time. We would have been compelled to ford the Little Colorado River and we were told that no buses had ever passed through that section and we thought while we had this big bus on solid ground it might be best to keep it there.

We encountered a number of artesian springs and wells and we learn that there is an abundance of shallow water all over this section of Arizona. We passed through the little city of Concho which is a few miles east of Holbrook. This was a city of adobe houses. Lots of tall poplars growing around the artesian springs which were numerous along our route. It is said that these trees were planted by the Mormon settlers of an early day. Our next little town was St. Johns a Mormon City. We arrived there as these people were assembling for Sunday school. This was a well laid out little village with tall poplars growing all over the city which were watered by springs and wells, bursting from the ground. There were small irrigated farms along the road we traveled. Alfalfa seemed to be the principal crop with a little corn and peas growing in some places. There were also a few sheep kept by small ranchers on the hills.

We ate lunch at noon at the little town of Springerville. We divided our party and ate at all the cafes in town in order to get service without delay. This is a peculiar laid out village. It had plenty of fine spring water and the elevation was around 8000 feet. They had frost the night before we reached there and one fellow said they had a light skin of ice. There were a number of peculiar monuments in this city one for the boys who gave their life in the World War. They had four names on this monument. They had another monument to the pioneers and others for different people who had lived in that section. Here we met a bunch of young men most of them brothers who were from Texas. They seemed glad to see a bunch of Texans and were glad to tell us any thing they knew of the country and its conditions. Here we found a monument called "The Madonna Of The Trail." It was about 20 feet high and very beautiful they were just completing it. The scaffolds had not been taken down.

After leaving Springerville we had a stiff climb for a short while and the elevation marked there was 8300 feet and this was claimed to be a continental divide, but we found three places through this section claiming the same thing. So we really do not know which was the true continental divide, but we rather think it is in New Mexico farther east. On this high elevation we saw them harvesting oats, they were as green as could be and the corn had been killed by the freeze Saturday night. They had plenty of ice there they said. This is said to be about the highest elevation we were on during our trip. We could see mountains that were more than 15000 feet high, but the snow had melted off the tops, but in the canyons we were told it was more than 60 feet deep. That is in the canyons of these mountain sides.

We crossed the state line after leaving Springerville Arizona going into New Mexico about 20 miles east of this place and the first town we encountered was Quemado New Mexico. Between these two towns there is a natural dam running over hill and dale, looks more like the breakers on the sea shore and it runs for miles and miles along the highway. High waters had broken the dam in the canyons but on the hill and sides of the hills it is intact. Just what it is no one could tell us. We next came to station in the hills called Pie Town. This is a post office and gas station. This place is in a pine forest and the houses are built with pine logs and are very beautiful.

Here we found Juniper trees growing the first we ever saw. Also the Pinon which bears a nut which has a fine flavor. This Pinon tree looks like a scrub cedar, but it seems to be of the pine specie. Here we noted many fox squirrels in the trees and the chip monks or rock squirrels were seen scampering over the rocks and cliffs. This was a beautiful level stretch of country on this mountain which runs around 8000 feet in elevation. The highest point reached on the entire trip was 8335 ft.

We passed many beautiful auto camps erected from pine logs along this stretch, but there was very few houses in all this country. We only saw a few farmers who were farming on a small scale. Gasoline through this section was around 35 cents per gallon. We remember seeing one sign which read, "The last chance to get any cheap gas, 35c." They had to haul this gas over mountain roads by truck a long distance is what made the price so high.

We passed through a forest reserve before we descended down the mountain to Socorro, New Mexico. And before we started down the mountain which is down a winding canyon night came on and it became very dark and the road was one of the most dangerous we had passed over. This road was very narrow and the curves very short which made the trip one of peril with the large bus in day time and of course it was much more so at night. The boys got this to revolving in their minds and became frightened. When Wallace Johnson the driver brought the bus to a sudden halt, there was a stir and a few hurried words and out through windows, doors and any place which would admit their passage the boys jumped. In a jiffy there were only a few of us inside. J. O. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Moore and another old man or two and the writer. Some of the boys said the reason we didn't jump out, the windows were too small to admit our avardupose. When we all got out and looked the situation over we found that the curve was too short for the bus to make. And Wallace Johnson had stopped the bus to back up and make the drive in safety. And I want to stress the fact that Johnson is the best bus driver we ever saw. We were in no danger with him at the wheel, but when one of the boys broke out of the bus the others were like sheep, they followed in double quick time. Johnson backed up the bus and made the drive in safety, then we all loaded in and descended down to the city of Socorro where we spent the night dreaming of home and loved ones whom we were anxious to see.

Our next week's story will be from Socorro to Roswell and this trip has quite a bit of romance in it. Will Per-

We are glad to note in our mail Tuesday morning a renewal for the Free Press from M. Pierson who recently moved from Haskell to Austin. Mr. Pierson is one of the State Food Inspectors and moved to Austin where he can better serve the duties of his office. He and Mrs. Pierson are well known in Haskell and are numbered among the old timers and their many friends here regretted to see them move to other parts, but hope in the future to have them back with us again. They still own their home and other property here and we feel like the bridges are not burned. The best wishes of many friends follow them.

She (not impressed)—But you are furnishing the gas, Mr. Brown.

WORDS OF COUNSEL

Assistant—I can't understand what made the lady so angry.
Doctor—Never refer to a lady's big toe, son. Always say "the largest of your small toes."

MAKING SURE

"The cook says she is going to leave."
"Nothing will change her mind?"
"Nothing."
"All right. Then I'll go down to the kitchen and discharge her."

HIS POSITION

Mary—He says he has a good position in the tie department of the big store.
May—So he has—he's bundle wrapper, my dear.

NOT PROOF

She—I answered you in the negative, didn't I?
He—But, the negative is not the proof.

A FINE PRICE

Mrs. Jones—Fine feathers don't make fine birds.
Jones—No, but they make a fine bill, when I have to pay for those you have on your hat.

SKINNING THE BOOBS

Lynx—How much did you lose on the Hare-Tortoise race?
Fox—Not a seed, I had inside information that the race was fixed so I kept off it.

HER IDEA OF IT

He—But wife, darling, we must economize.
She—Just what I'm doing. I'm having everything charged.

Strawberry Shortcake

Strawberry shortcake for breakfast, made with or without plain cream, makes a delicious variant of the ordinary diet. With it should be served either a glass of milk or a dish of cottage cheese to make it a more complete meal. This is an ideal breakfast or lunch for children, as well as a very satisfactory change for Sunday night supper.

THEIR BUSINESS

She—Why are show-girls so called?
He—Well—That's their business.

DOESN'T PLAY WITH FIRE

"Dearest, can't you see my heart's on fire?"
"Well, do I look like a fire extinguisher?"

It Costs Money to Run a Bank

We were talking with a banker the other day.

We asked him, in the course of the conversation, what the biggest item of expense is in conducting a bank.

He said, "Giving service."

And then he explained. "You'd be surprised, how many people issue checks the day before pay day, then deposit just enough the next day to meet those checks. All the bank can hope to get out of such a practice is the privilege of being bookkeeper for those customers. And that privilege costs money."

We have an idea that we, as a community, abuse our banking privileges. We don't hear our local banks complaining, but we wonder if it wouldn't be well to consider our individual banking practices. In other words, would we welcome our own accounts if we were the banker?

SOCIETY Club

Magazine Club in Business Session.

The Magazine Club met in the first business session of the year last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Carlton Couch Couch dispensed with all business and turned the meeting over to the director Mrs. Courtney Hunt who conducted a parliamentary drill. In this drill a prize was offered to the one giving the most correct answers in a "true and false test." In this Mrs. C. L. Lewis and Mrs. W. H. Murchison tied for first place and in a draw, the prize was secured by Mrs. Lewis. A high percentage of the club membership was present at Friday's meeting.

Golf Widows Club.

On Tuesday of this week Mrs. John W. Pace was at home to the members and special guests of the Golf Widows Club. Poinsettias, calendulas, and potted geraniums with red candles in brass candelabra made a very pleasing setting in the reception suite where the tables were arranged for forty-two. Special guests who enjoyed this lovely hospitality with the members were:

Madames. Joe A. Jones, Demmit Hughes, D. L. Cummins, R. E. Sherrill, Wiley Reid, H. S. Wilson, J. U. Fields, W. A. Duncan, Elam Parish, and the members were: Madames. Bruce W. Bryant, J. Horace Bass, O. E. Patterson, John A. Couch, R. C. Couch, Courtney Hunt, A. C. Pierson, S. A. Roberts, H. M. Smith and A. H. Wair.

Methodist Missionary Society.

The ladies of the Methodist Women's Missionary Society met in a monthly business meeting last Monday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. M. Gose, the vice president, Mrs. C. L. Lewis presided over the session. The opening song was "Faith of Our Fathers." Scripture reading, responsive, the 308th Psalm. Prayer by Mrs. Ethel Irby. Roll call was answered by the members. Mrs. Bob Harrison who has been the efficient Corresponding Secretary of the society for the past year and who was recently elected to this same office for the ensuing year, felt that she could not serve any longer and resigned. The resignation was accepted and Mrs. H. M. Smith was elected to succeed Mrs. Harrison. The report on expending money to help a needy family in our midst, was made.

Miss Veda Newcomb Dinner Hostess.

Miss Veda Newcomb, assisted by Miss Vada Cole, teachers in the Post school was hostess at a lovely six o'clock dinner in the D. E. department of the school last Monday evening. Venison was the meat course and Miss Newcomb literally furnished the deer meat, as she went on a deer hunt during the Christmas holidays and killed two deer, (all by herself). The girls of the D. E. Department served the dinner. The guests were: County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Minnie Ellis; Principal of the school, Mr. Elmer Watson and wife and members of the school board and their wives, Messers and Madames, J. W. Adeock, Arthur Montgomery, Earls and Mr. John Rike of Haskell. After dinner the party repaired to the teacherage where forty-two was played. A most enjoyable time was had by all present.

First Christian Church Holds Anniversary Service.

The closing of the year, nineteen hundred twenty-eight finished also the fifth anniversary of Rev. G. Robert Forrester as pastor of the First Christian church of Haskell. This event was fittingly celebrated on last Sunday evening, as pre-arranged by members of the congregation. Rev. Forrester has ingratiated himself, not only into the hearts and minds of his own people but those of the entire city. This can be said of the various churches, clubs and organizations and of literally every individual in our midst. Despite the very inclement weather of last Sunday, there were over one hundred and fifty present for the Sabbath school, and the church membership presented Rev. and Mrs. Forrester with a basket of beautiful red carnations. The day's rejoicing really began at the eleven o'clock hour when Rev. J. T. McKissick, the speaker of the evening, preached. At the evening hour a capacity house was the response that Haskell citizens made to the invitation to come and worship and rejoice with them on this joyous occasion.

The Lions Club, one of the largest, and strongest men's clubs in Haskell, sat in a body; also did the Odd Fellow and Rebekah organizations. The pastor of the First Christian Church of Stamford, Rev. Harris, with quite a number of his membership was present. The pastors of the various Haskell churches were special guests and sat on the pulpit platform. The Lions also presented to Rev. and Mrs. Forrester a bouquet of hot house flowers.

Dr. J. T. McKissick, Dean of Randolph College, Cisco, a former teacher of Rev. Forrester and life time friend, delivered a masterful sermon address. No small part of it was reminiscent of the days back in Tennessee when Rev. Forrester as pupil and Dr. McKissick as teacher formed a lasting friendship. Dr. McKissick is one of those rare geniuses who can sway his audience easily from pathos to laughter, depicting both the sublime and the ridiculous, and he quoted excerpts of both poetry and prose from a wide range of standard writers of all times.

Rev. Forrester in his usual gracious way, introduced the visiting pastors and had each of them, Rev. Harris of Stamford First Christian Church; Rev. E. Gaston Foote, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Haskell and Rev. H. R. Whatley, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Haskell, to have a part in scriptural reading on the invitation. The Harmony Club had charge of the music and rendered two choruses besides the opening and closing hymns. Mrs. Wayne Koonce sang, "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions." Besides being a complimentary meeting to Rev. and Mrs. Forrester, this was a very fine fellowship meeting on the part of the brotherhood of the churches. May this splendid co-operation continue throughout the years.

Character Builders S. S. Class Quilt Quits.

The Character Builders Sunday School Class of the Methodist Sunday School is composed of the mothers of the church. The literal character builders of men have begun in a very practical way to build up a fund to add to the sum total that will go into the building of the new Sunday School Annex. Only last Sunday it was definitely decided to build the annex and on Tuesday, this class met in all day meeting at the church and quilted some beautiful quilts that they will sell. Mrs. A. Q. Gentry is the teacher and there are some thirty odd loyal members who have pledged to do their best until the annex is a reality.

Joint Hostesses Give Bridge Breakfast.

A lovely affair of the Xmas holidays was the bridge breakfast given by Mrs. John V. Davis, Misses Maybelle Taylor and Marjorie Whiteaker on Thursday morning, Dec. 27th, at 8:45 o'clock. The home of Mrs. Davis was most inviting in holiday attire, where four tables were placed, each being centered with a cluster of pink rosebuds and baby's breath.

The menu consisted of grapefruit centered with a cherry, hot muffins, bacon with shredded cheese, jelly and coffee. Four games of bridge were played, high score prize, a colonial bridge set, going to Miss Lucy Cummins. Low score prize, "Doyle's Book of Rules," went to Miss Maidee Watson. Other guests present were: Misses Lois Earnest, Leila Welsh, Hattie, Lillian and Jewel Paxton, Maurine Couch, Mary Kimbrough, Madalin Hunt, Lucy Cummins, Hesse Davis, Agnes Cox, Lois Norton; Madames Frank Kimbrough, Plainview; Jordan Ownsby, Dallas; and Elmer McPherson, Vernon.

Midway P. T. A.

The Midway P. T. A. will meet Friday night, January 11th at 7:30 p. m. The pupils will entertain with a short program and Miss Ellis will talk on the proposed Superintendents law. Every body come.

"Floraine Slappy" will personally conduct, "The Bunningham Alabama Midnight Picture Troupe," to Haskell soon. Watch for the date and get ready to laugh. Haskell High School.

Miss Louise Kaigler has returned from Elks City, Okla. where she spent last week end with Miss Grace Spurlock.

Sports Review

The Haskell High Cagers defeated the Sayles team last Saturday evening to the tune of Babe Medley's excellent scoring. The score was Haskell Hi 30 and Sayles 16. This game is just one of the many that our cagers have been winning, and just one of the many we are going to win.

We lost out in football so far as scoring is concerned so let's take up basket ball and give it the same backing we gave football.

Come to see these games. They are as interesting as any other game. We have excellent players, a fine place to play, and now we need an audience.

The cost of admission never exceeds 15c, and when it does there is usually four or five games to be played for the price of one.

Haskell Hi Battles Munday Hi For a 15 to 13 Win

It was a cold journey our cagers took to Munday, but it did not affect the speed and pep they had when they first started. The game was very rough and would resemble an indoor football game, both sides being fouled time after time. The Munday boys surely hated to lose but when our boys start out to win a game they win it.

After winning this game, the boys believe they will go to district.

The High School Orchestra entertained the students Wednesday during the chapel period. Mr. Dodson sponsored the program.

Clara: "Well, she told me anyway, and I told her I couldn't tell you she told me, so don't tell her I told you."

"Ruth refused to marry Freddie, and he has been drinking ever since."
"That's one trouble with Fred. He never knows when to quit celebrating."

Lent Bell: "I hear your father kicked Bill out the other night."

He: "Now, that your boy is going to college, you should buy him an encyclopedia."
Farmer: "Be damned if I do! Let him walk like I did!"

"I am beginning to miss my husband," cried Mrs. Smith, as the rolling pin grazed his head and hit the wall.

POULTRY INTEREST GROWING IN COUNTY

Any business which is worth while and pays a profit to those who engage in it will assert itself and prove its worth. Two of the most paying enterprises in the world which is the poultry and dairy business is undeveloped in Haskell county, but is rapidly coming into notice and is here to stay with a continual advancement.

The writer has just completed a visit to a few of our citizens who are specializing in poultry with gratifying results and below we give a short statement regarding these poultrymen.

We called on G. T. Bridges near Rule who is one of our careful poultrymen. He has 170 hens and pullets in his flock. They are well fed and housed and the place is kept very sanitary and they are given whole meal food in clean feeders.

We visited the poultry plant of W. A. Beard near the river south west of Rule. He moved here a few years ago and bought 220 acres of land along the banks of the Brazos. He is engaged in farming but has one of the best equipped poultry ranches in the county.

We called at the home of T. W. Tanner another White Leghorn breeder who is making a nice profit on his hens through egg production. Mr. Tanner was plowing and we failed to get an actual detailed account of the profits but we were reliably informed by those who know that Mr. Tanner's hens are producing many dozen eggs each day at 45c per dozen.

C. O. Davis who is operating a large hatchery at Rule is building four sections of the California hen house known as the Chas. Week's plan and will have them in operation within a short period of time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stephens and daughter, Miss Helen Barron of Longview spent the holidays with her mother, Mrs. W. F. Draper and other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Clifton had the following out of town guests during the holidays: Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Johnson and children of Santa Fe New Mexico; Mrs. V. H. Clifton of Big Lake Texas; Mrs. Florence Clifton and son M. A. of Abilene, and her brothers Grady French of Ft. Worth and Elbert French of California; and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wimbish.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stephens and daughter, Miss Helen Barron of Longview spent the holidays with her mother, Mrs. W. F. Draper and other relatives and friends.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Price Home for Christmas Dinner
 The children of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Price, who live in the west part of the city, came to see the old folks Christmas and were at the home of their parents for Christmas dinner. All the children but two were present. Mr. and Mrs. Price had hoped that all the children could come, but this could not suit the convenience of all of them. A son of Hill county sent them a fine fat turkey gobbler and he arrived several days before Christmas and was made ready for the feast. Mr. and Mrs. Price are elated over seeing their children again.

A Great Discovery
 When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone, in a size to fit your needs and purse, from Reid's Drug Store or Payne Drug Co.
