A SAD WARNING.

We are in receipt of a communiention from an esteemed brother. giving an account of the sad death of the son of a good man while under the sway of strong drink. The lesson is a sad one, and should startle parents from their sloth, and warn children that they can not attain salvation on the credit of their parents' piety.

To publish the article with the names would open a deep wound in the hearts of living friends. A mother's heart is bleeding. Her sorrow is sacred, and while we would warn others, we should be careful lest we rudely bruise a breaking heart. There are other lives which may be wrecked and other hearts to be broken, and the warning must not be so entirely hushed that other heedless steps will rush on to ruin.

It is an old story, but a sad one. The son of pious parents falls under the influence of wicked companions. His parents' prayers and example are forgotten. His seat in the house of worship is forsaken for the saloon. In a drunken brawl he is shot dead. The comforters stand in silence before the misery of the family, conscious they have no words of consolation to offer these sorely stricken hearts.

He was a good hearted, generous young man when clear of whisky. It was whisky that made him dangerous. This is all they can say to those who are weeping over his bloody grave; but these words do not alter the awful facts. He is dead : killed in a drunken quarrel. We blame the whisky! but what of the man who made it? What of the man who sold it? Did not they know it would fire the blood and fill the brain with frenzy? What of society, which looks on tamely while such terrible tragedies men. are enacted? No household is safe. A drunken son filling a bloody grave may be an event which the future such disaster.

Extract from a letter from Snowdon & Gibbs, Concordia, Kan., July 28th, 1873.—" We a more of your Gargling Oil than of any liminent we keep."

Merchant's Gargling Oil as a Family Liniment.

We are now, and have been for some years, preparing the Oil free from stain, to be used as a common limiment for human flesh, extracting the coloring juggedient which has heretofore rendered it objectionable. This Oil possesses all the medicinal properties of that prepared with the dark tings for horses and cattle, and will be found one of the best remedies for all purposes where a limiment is required that has ever been manufactured.

From J. K. Fisher, Uniontown, Pa., Jan. 31, 1857.—"Your Gargling Oil is doing much better here than formerly, since its virtues have become known; and the bottles put up for family use, without stain, are mucheought for."

By The Gargling Oil called "Family Oil," although prepared intentionally for human flesh, answers as well for beasts; vict versa, the dark Oil answers as well for human flesh, only it will stain and discolor the skin, but not permanently. Yellow wrapper for animal and white for human flesh.

Merchant's Gargling Oil as an Internal Remedy.

Merchant's Gargling Oil is a diffusible stimulant and carminative. It can be taken internally when such a remedy is indicated, and is a good substitute for pain killers, cordisls and nodynes. For Cramps or Spasms of the Stomach, Colic, Asthma, or Internal Pain, the dose lay be from fifteen to twenty drops, on sugar, or mixed with syrup in any convenient form, and the person of three to six hours. Yellow wrapper for snimal and white for uman fiesh.

MERCHANT'S GARGLING OIL is the Standard Liniment of the United States, stablished 1833. Large size, $1; medium, 50c.; small, 25c.; small size for family use, 25c. fanufactured at Lockport, N. Y., by M. G. O. Co., and sold by all druggists.

The Tailor-Bird.

Within in the last few years, the interesting habits of this celebrated bird have been thoroughly investigated and described by Dr. Jerdon and others, but with more especial fullness by Mr. Allan Hume. From their accounts, we gather that the real nest is a deep, soft cup, inclosed in a leaf or leaves, which the bird sews together to form its receptacle. This is at various elevations, often high up in a mango-tree, but as often low down among the leaves of the down among the leaves of the edible egg-plant. (Solanum esculentum). Her life was short, and she was exilest upon to suffer a great deal of sickness, but was resigned to the will of her Lord "who doeth all things well," When the doctor told me to tell her she could not live, she called her little blue eyed, four year old haby to her bed side and told her to say her prayers every night and need the mana in heaven. She said she was not afraid to did, she leaves a husband and child, relatives and friends to mourn her departure. Her warfare now is o'er; she has gained the port of safety; all her sufferings are ended. Oh glorious thought to be at rest; to enjoy the smiles of the Lord—a feast to the soul forever? Coppedes:—Ida Elizabeth, daughter of J. Abner, and Emma E. Coppedes, was born January 2, 1873; dedicated to God by baptism in July, 1878, by the writer, and died August 22, 1878. Little Ida was the first-born, and only child of her now grief-stricken parents, and to them it seemed hard that she should be called away so early. She was a bright, lovely little child, and transplant it in the fair fields of Eden, there to bloom and grow "by the side of the river of life" to await the coming of those she left behind. Loving parents, stay thy tears, cease thy sorrows, she is far happer in the arms of the Savior, who said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," than she could have been had she remained in this world of sin, sorrow and gloom. Your little darling was taken away from the rude scenes and taging storms of earth before she had tasted the bitterness of sin, and without knowing the troubles and afflictions that befall our unfortunate race in this unfriendly world.

IN MEMORIAM.

ALEXANDER.—Ather home, in Chappell Hill, Texas, about six o'clock P. M., Friday, August 3, 1878. Mrs. Eliza Alexander, wife of the Rev. Robt. Alexander. D. D., died very suddenly of heart disease. She was not unprepared. The summons came unexpectedly, but found her ready. She had spent the afternoon in cheerful conversation and in sweet Christian ellowship with visiting friends. But her work was done, and, in a moment, God called her to rest. How nigh earth is to heaven! How quickly mortality is swallowed up of life! How instantly does absence from the booly end in the glorious presence of the Lord! "Wherefore, we labor" to be "accepted of Hilm." On Sunday afternoon the Methodist Sunday-school, of Chappell Hill, held a memorial service in honor of Sister Alexander. After suitable introductory exercises, the subjoined resolutions were read and submitted by the secretary, Robt. B. Johnson. The resolutions elicited appropriate remarks from Capt. B. F. Reaville, Rev. Jno. H. Stone and the superintendent. It was a sad and solemn hour; but there was a precious spiritual influence upon the hearts of the people; and the memory of loys that are past—pleasant and mournful to the soul."

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst Sister Alexander; and
WHEREAS. This Sunday-school desires to leave on record a tribute of respect to her mear ty; therefore.

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Alexander the Sunday-school has lost one of its most faithful and earnest thackers; and, while we deeply mourn our loss, we bow in numble submission to Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we are admonished by this call to renew our diligence in the service of our Divine Master, so that when we are called to cease our labors on earth we may, like our departed sister, be prepared to enter upon our reward in Heaven and receive the welcome plandit; "Well done good and faithful ser-

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband and family, and commend them to Him who has promised never to leave or forsake His servants.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of our departed sister, and a copy be also forwarded to the Texas Christian Advocate for publication.
