Washington.—The sudden action of congress in submitting the prohibition repeal resolution to the states has brought about a reaction right now to justify the assertion that prohibition repeal still has a long way to travel. And it looks like a rocky road to some of the unbiased observers. Whether you are wet or whether you are dry, this prohibition repeal battle has an immensely practical side, and it is that practical side which yet must be met.

Superficially, it looks like repeal has a big edge. Its supporters and the bulk of those who voted for its passage in the house and in the senate believe there are 38 states which, given the opportunity for a statewide expression, will vote to take the experiment out of the Constitution. In other words, they still have the enthusiasm that caused repeal or submission proposals to be put into the party platforms in the midsummer heat at Chicago in 1932. The group that forced the repeal proposal through congress embraced many of the same leaders as were in evidence in the Democratic and Republican party conventions, respectively. Now, however, they have a different question to handle. It is the sober judgment of the populace who are not carried away by the mob psychology of a party convention because they are now talking it over in the quiet of their homes and with their friends.

To get down to cases, the circumstance is simply this: a very great number of people are going to ask themselves if they have not already done so, whether there can be a means worked out to prevent return of the saloon. The most ardent wets disavow any desire to have the debate on the repeal resolution. But it appears to some of the observers here that wishing will not make it so.

To state the thing another way: the repeal resolution could be talked about in an academic way, the need for elimination of the speakeasies, for taking the power of money out of the hands of criminals, for accomplishing more respect for law and order. These needs were duly stressed, and there is no doubt as to the value of the argument. But when the repeal had passed congress and the question had been put up to the states for ratification by conventions, it appears that many persons throughout the country suddenly came to the realization that the states were left with the job of regulating the sale of the liquor.

Congress declined to put any provision in the repeal resolution that prohibited the return of the saloon. It was content to include a provision which brings federal authority into use to keep the wet states from shipping liquor into dry states. But that was as far as it would go. Hence, the problem of regulating the sale is strictly up to the states themselves.

the saloon, to force adoption of state regulations against the public barroom. In others, of course, that condition will not exist and there will be the old-time saloon on every corner of the street intersections. In the third class of states, there is no doubt at all what will happen. Prohibition will continue in them.

I have heard it said here by some of the recognized wets that the women constitute the problem of the anti-prohibition forces who are bent on getting rid of prohibition. It will be interesting to note their behavior in this first test of a national problem adapted locally.

What the strategy of the dries will be is not yet quite clear. The assumption is they are going to concentrate on dry states.

I mean by that the dries are going to pick their spots because they recognize it takes only thirteen states, no more, no less, to block repeal.

If they go to bat in perhaps not more than twenty states that have long prohibition records, or where the dry sentiment long has been prominent, they can give the wets one of the prettiest fights of modern politics. The wets recognize the size of their job. It is agreed by all observers here that the wets are organized now better than they have ever been. They have men and women with brains, and a very great deal of money. That money will be spent for speakers, for literature, for general campaign purposes.

The dries, on the other hand, are not equipped with money to any particular extent. Nor is it believed that they have leadership of the type of the late Wayne B. Wheeler, who by sheer force of his personality and political acumen, drove the Eighteenth amendment through congress fourteen years ago. But while admitting these things, it still is to be remembered the strength of the dries in this battle, like all they have fought, lies in the moral arguments they can advance.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, a personal as well as a political dry, told me he thought the weight of the moral argument would be just as important in this campaign on the liquor issue as it ever has been. He suggested that it might be slow in gaining momentum, but he is convinced it will pick up speed as the campaign proceeds.

Such wet leaders as Bingham of Connecticut, and Tydings of Maryland, however, maintain there has been an awakened public sentiment. Their argument, oft repeated, is that hundreds of thousands of right-thinking people, once prohibitionists, have reasoned the thing through and have reached the conclusion that national prohibition has been a failure. They are willing, therefore, to vote to do away with the policy which they hoped fondly would eliminate the curse of the liquor traffic. They found, so Senator Bingham says, that they were misguided.

Such wet leaders as Bingham of Connecticut, and Tydings of Maryland, however, maintain there has been an awakened public sentiment. So as the state legislatures pass legislation providing for conventions in the several states, the battle is on. It will be on, too, in some of the state legislatures where attempts will be made to defeat even a call for a state convention. If that fight is successful, of course, it is almost as good for the dries as though the state refused to ratify in convention. It takes one potential supporter from the list of forty-eight of which thirty-six must ratify.

Here is the language of the resolution upon which the states will act:

"Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled (two-thirds of each house concurring therein). That the following article is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes when ratified by conventions in three-fourths of the several states:

"Section 1—The Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution is hereby repealed.

"Section 2—The transportation or importation into any state, territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

"Section 3—This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by conventions in the several states, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by the congress."

And for the further purpose of a record, it may be said that the proposal to ratify by conventions in the several states is the first time it has ever happened that congress has specified the use of conventions. The Constitution, of course, permits that method.

It was contemplated by the framers of the resolution in the senate that no side issues should be allowed to muddle up a determination of the question.

If the undercurrent of talk be correct that Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, thought he could cut down

Demand for Inflation Weakens the vast demand for inflation of the currency by staging the series of hearings before his committee on finance, it must be admitted he has made some headway. FARMS

(By W. H. Darrow, Extension Service Editor)

The old notion that alfalfa won't grow in Texas is rapidly giving way to an enthusiasm for this valuable crop. A barrage of demonstrations in 63 counties last year in which 665 men grew alfalfa on 13,192 acres has furnished convincing proof that with proper methods it's a good crop in many parts of the state. The demonstrators made an average of 2.68 tons of hay to the acre, county agents report, and more than half of them got some grazing besides.

At a cost of less than half a cent per bushel, 4312 Texas farmers saved 1,439,983 bushels of stored grain from weevils last year using high-life by methods shown by county agents. The saving was estimated to be $83,071.

A total of 17,512 farmers in 138 Texas counties butchered, cut and cured 53,431 hogs last year the "A and M Way" with the help of farm demonstration agents. It is estimated that at least five times as many farmers used these methods which were shown in hundreds of demonstrations in all parts of the State.

paper bills without any gold backing, but they are not now believed to possess the strength in congress they once had.

Senator Harrison is aiming at gathering in all shades of opinion into one record, a course that may or may not be productive of anything worth while. But it is established that the deeper purpose of the hearings was to keep many of the inflationists quiet.

How much easier it will be then to draft legislation!

President Roosevelt, although settled in the White House, has not had time yet to settle into his job as Chief Executive of the nation. But it cannot be said that he has not already had a taste of the criticism that goes with that high office. I do not know how much of it has reached his desk, but Washington gets reactions from all parts of the country that the "honeymoon" which Mr. Roosevelt said in his campaign that he desired is nearly, if not completely, over.

More than half the 903 dairy demonstration herds in Texas last year were provided rich permanent pastures far grazing at the rate of about 2 1/2 acres per cow. Grazing almost the year 'round can be had in East Texas pastures where improved grasses and clovers are sown. One acre per cow is enough in some of the best pastures.

Mrs. S. Tomlin of Mt. Sylvan Home Demonstration Club in Smith county is doing her part to enable the county home demonstration council to help 85 per cent of the farm families with their food supply. She canned 13 beeves this winter in 11 canning demonstrations for her neighbors.

About 10 years ago a series of kitchen improvement contests for rural housewives was conducted in successive years by home demonstration agents. The improvement is still spreading, for 1521 kitchens were made into modern workshops in 1932 on Texas farms as a result of the earlier demonstrations.

Your Power Supply

As much electricity as you can use—or as little as you may require; at the place where you want it, at the time when you want it—reliable and continuous, always ready, instantly delivered.

These standards of electric service have resulted from years of building.

Large, efficient power plants—and widespread networks of transmission lines to serve groups of towns—have resulted in the ample, inexpensive power supply available everywhere today.

The West Texas Utilities Company, with three major generating stations, nineteen auxiliary plants and over 2,500 miles of transmission lines, is providing this modern power supply to 125 progressive cities and towns in West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity."

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

French-English Rivalry Began With Fur Trade

Early Canadian history was essentially the striving of two rival nations for supremacy in the fur trade. The French entered Canada by the St. Lawrence river and penetrated to the West by way of the Ottawa valley trade route.

The English, on the other hand, came into the North through Hudson strait and Hudson and James bays, at first on individual ventures, but later with national support. They established trading posts on James and Hudson bays under royal charter granted to "The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England trading into Hudson's Bay," more generally known as the Hudson's Bay company.

The boundaries of the country granted in this charter were not very definite, but they overlapped what the French considered their sphere of influence extending north from the valley of the St. Lawrence. In consequence of this clashing of interests, bloodshed usually followed every meeting of the French and English.—Arthur A. Cole in Canadian Geographical Journal.

Wealth Made Available by Ravages of Rivers

Agricultural experts in the United States are worried about the amount of soil that is washed down to the sea by American rivers every year. According to an official estimate, over 500,000,000 tons are lost annually in this way.

But it is only fair to take into account the fact that if rivers denude the land in this way there is a credit side to their activities. By softening and breaking up rocks they have made it easier to work mineral deposits.

Valuable alluvial deposits of gold and platinum, such as are found in some parts of the world, are also due to the action of rivers on the land. They have been set free by the wearing away of the rocks in which they were hidden and carried downstream to places where they can be secured with much less trouble.—London Answers.

Primitive Vessels

Having hewed out the inside of a tree trunk, primitive man produced a dug-out, such as may now be seen at Glastonbury, preserved as a relic of our British ancestors, or in active use today in the Celebes of the East Indies, the Marquesas Islands of the South Pacific, in Manchuria and throughout Africa.

This form of canoe reached its highest expression in the cedar boats of the Red Indians, now practically supplanted by the motor boat as a result of our taste for canned salmon. In fashioning these boats no line was drawn or even scratched; yet the symmetry was practically perfect, and the sides chipped out by flint tomahawks were uniform in thickness.

Sargasso Sea Long Feared

The fear of the Sargasso sea dates back more than 2,000 years. Aristotle wrote about its perils. Before his time Phoenician mariners brought back stories of new fields or sea plants which were a menace to ships. In the fifteenth century a merchant of Cadiz sent a galleon a hundred leagues westward and east winds swept it into this region of woods and calms, from which it was with much difficulty freed.

The Sargasso sea stretches from the east bank of the Gulf stream, off the coast of Florida, to a point half way across to Africa. The parallel 28 degrees north latitude and the parallel 60 degrees west longitude pass through the center of it.

Arsenic Eaters

In the iron mountain regions of the Austrian province of Styria, where arsenic is a by-product of iron and smelting, some peasants eat this virulent poison. It is taken in small doses, which are gradually increased as the system becomes used to it, until it may be taken daily, without visible ill effect, in quantities sufficient to kill an average person. The arsenic is supposed to clear the complexion, increase the appetite, and improve breathing, especially for mountain climbers.—Melville B. Grosvenor, in the National Geographic Magazine.

Swatosh's Storm Theory

All storms are caused by magnetic influences in the upper atmosphere, which revolves around the earth, says Joseph S. Swatosh. "Then there is also the Heavilside layer, which likewise revolves in about three years." He believes holes develop in this layer, due to lack of resistance to the magnetic influences of the upper atmosphere, named by him the "stratosphere," causing wind or rain on the earth. From such a point, storms spread out along storm lines.

Night Lamp Saves Herrings

The aquarium at Amsterdam, Holland, has the reputation of being the only one which has been successful in housing a school of herring. The difficulty of keeping these fish in aquarium quarters, it is said, is that they bump into the rocks at night and kill themselves. Officials at the Amsterdam aquarium have overcome this obstacle by providing the herring with a night lamp.

Thousands of Gallons Food Canned by Inmates of Penitentiary

Gallons of good things to eat. That has come to be the motto of the Texas penitentiary system. With its new "state farm industries," fresh vegetables are raised and canned.

The story is told by the Texas prison board in its annual report to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Former Governor R. S. Sterling, under whose regime many of the innovations were made have saved the state tremendously on its food bill, once remarked that so well fed were the prisoners that some of the former inmates found unemployment conditions so disconcerting that they wanted to "get back in" in order to obtain a good bed in which to sleep and wholesome food to eat.

The report shows that during the past year the canning plant "succeeded in putting up:"
20,501 gallons of tomatoes,
10,702 gallons of tomato pulp,
1,130 gallons of tomato catsup,
23,586 gallons of sweet corn,
65,276 gallons of green beans,
11,000 gallons of okra.

"This season's run has enabled us to not only have an abundant supply of these items for our own population but to sell several carloads of canned foods to the board of control for use of other state institutions," the report said.

In addition to the vegetables, the report revealed that there had been slaughtered 192 head of cattle and 1,324 hogs.

"The cattle were consumed fresh, and the hogs were processed and worked into all the usual packing house products of pork," the report stated. "We submit that there are no better canned vegetables or packing house products sold anywhere than the output of these plants."

In spite of the "good things to eat" the report showed that there was "the smallest increase in new men in several years" and also "there are fewer convicted prisoners in county jails awaiting transfer to the prison than in recent years."

The number of new men received in 1932 was 3,300 compared with 1,130 in 1931.

And it came to pass that a green business man read in black and white that business is in the red. And lo, when he beheld these tidings, he became blue, for he was already yellow.

Two Georgia darkies were discussing the financial conditions of the country. They didn't gree.

"You's all wrong," one vociferated. "Dey ain't no money shotage. Ah asked mah bankuh is he out o' money and he tuk me in de vault and showed me ples an' ples o' money. An' I says could he let me have jes' a little. An' he says sho' he could. Has Ah any collat'ral? An' Ah hasn't. Now dat's what's de matter wid dis country. Dey's plenty o' money but we's jes' runnin' sho't on collat'ral."

SOCIETY

Mrs. C. L. Lewis Opens Home to Missionary Society.

Mesdames Lewis and Hugh Smith were joint hostesses Monday afternoon March 6th to the Methodist Auxiliary in the second Bible study of Amos.

A short business session was held with the president, Mrs. H. Smith, presiding. All officers were present. The year books were given out and the programs seem most interesting.

Mrs. Smith was elected delegate to the Woman's Missionary meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference which meets in Vernon in April. This concluded business. Mrs. Fields, the director of Bible Study, took charge. She gives much thought and preparation to these lessons. We find that conditions today in the United States are somewhat similar to those in Amos' day.

Each chapter of Amos was read and discussed, beginning with the third. Those reading were Mesdames Wallace Cox, Hollis Atkinson, Server Leon, Montgomery, Lewis, Irby and Fields.

Next Monday we begin the study of Hosea in the home of Mrs. Fred Sanders. Meeting dismissed by prayer by Mrs. B. Cox.

We were asked to stay for a social hour. A lovely refreshment plate was passed by the hostesses, assisted in serving by Miss Jeffries, a niece of the house. We enjoyed this gathering and the study of Amos very much. Remember next Monday is to be the study of Hosea.

The Magazine Club.

Mrs. J. U. Fields conducted the second of a series of programs on "Meet the Japanese" by Harry Albert Phelps at the regular meeting of the Magazine Club Feb. 24th.

At roll call each member responded with a Japanese custom. Different phases of the Japanese people and their country were discussed on the following program:

Woman, Her Life and Problems—Mrs. C. V. Payne.

Life, Work and Play—Mrs. John Rike.

Principal Industries—Mrs. Guy Mays.

Mrs. C. L. Lewis acted as hostess to the club.

Miss Lela Brock Honored.

Miss Margaret Brooks had the "What Next?" bridge club Monday night honoring Miss Lela Brock of Munday.

Refreshments of green lemonade, green congealed fruit salad, green and white sandwiches and potato chips were brought in on green plates—observing St. Patrick's day.

The guests, Misses Lela Brock of Munday, honoree, Henrietta Isbell, Bessie Bee Kaigler, Lena Belle Kemp, Janie Lyle Martin, Vivian Bernard, Mrs. Elzie Whitley, and the hostess, wore green dresses. High score was won by Vivian Bernard.

An optimist is the fellow who buys a comb with a bottle of hair restorer.

DeWitt School of Music to Present Pupils.

A public recital by pupils of the DeWitt School of Music will be given at the High School Friday night at 8 o'clock. This program is under the direction of Miss Elsie Moore of Dancing and Expression department with Mildred Simmons as accompanist.

The public is invited to attend.

Senior B. Y. P. U. Party.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist Church held a rather unique party in the basement of the church Thursday night of last week. The unusualness of the party resulted from two facts, namely: first, all the boys dressed as girls and the girls dressed as boys; and second, a "Depression Banquet" was held in which the menu consisted almost altogether of beans. To keep in line with our food we selected as our toastmaster, Mr. "Beans" Bynum. Nineteen were served at the banquet.

Come on, young people, join our union; we are having a wonderful time.

Methodist Young People.

Have you heard about the union meeting we are going to have Friday night at Sagerton? We want about fifteen or twenty young people of Haskell to attend. If you wish to go be at the church at 6:45 Friday evening.

We are going to have a young people's night one night next week and it is to be in the form of a moonlight picnic. Be sure and plan to go, for it will be great fun and an important meeting. Be at Sunday School and League Sunday to get further information.

Pals Class Have Picnic.

The Pals Class of the Methodist Church composed of Business and Professional girls, enjoyed a moonlight picnic last Thursday night.

The class drove out in the country about nine miles near Gilliam School and found a campfire laid and waiting for us, prepared by Lucille Foote. While the coffee was percolating we played games, then spread our lunch. By the light of the campfire we drew names for "Pals." The screech owls broke up the fun and we returned early.

Visitors were: Abbie Bland, Betty Joe Clanton, Mrs. Hugh Gauntt, Mrs. Buck Shelley and Ethel Prier-son.

Members: Veima Hambleton, Grace Cearley, Louise Burns, Thelma Well, Vivian Bernard, Janie Lyle Martin, Lucille Foote, Dessie Kennedy, Ola Bell Kennedy, Mattie Letha Pippen, Mary Alma Sprowls and the teacher, Mrs. T. R. Odell.

Our class is growing and we invite others to join us.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST

It is a great pleasure to be associated with, and minister for the Church of Christ, Haskell. Its faith, love, peace, harmony, humility and readiness to every good work, are some of its most valuable assets.

Though the weather did not favor it, all of the church services of last Sunday were well attended. There were two additions, transfer of membership, at the evening hour.

The Young Peoples Meeting, 6:45 p. m., was one of which none should be ashamed. We are indeed grateful for them and the good being done by and through them.

The Ladies Bible Class which meets each Wednesday, 3 p. m., though young and small, is of encouraging promise. To say that they can be depended upon, without disappointment, is not misleading.

Our Wednesday, 7:30 p. m. Bible Study and prayer meeting hour, with Brother Otta Johnson as our teacher, is growing, growing, GROWING. There were fifty-eight out last Wednesday night. More are expected this coming Wednesday.

Subjects for Sunday:
11 a. m.—A Work Worthy of the Name—Beautiful.
7:30 p. m.—A Real Fighter in Action.

Come. We are always glad to have you. COME.

A. F. Thurman, Minister.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our baby. Especially do we thank you for the beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Drake and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our little baby girl. Such kindness will never be forgotten and may God bless each and every one of our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Blair and Family.

R. H. Maser of Brownwood, a student at Howard Payne College, spent the week end here with his mother and Mamie, Mrs. Cowley and Pete Frierson accompanied him back to Brownwood Monday.

D. L. Cummins Jr. and W. E. Welsh made a business trip to Fort Worth last Saturday, returning the same day. They were accompanied by Mrs. Buck Pumphries of that place.

Miss Lela Brock of Munday spent the latter part of last week with Miss Margaret Brooks, returning to her home Tuesday.

Mrs. J. C. Chrisman left today for Oberlin, La., to join Mr. Chrisman who has been there for the past few months to make their home there. She has been visiting her daughter Mr. and Mrs. Bert Welsh and family since Sunday.

Quite a few people were in Stamford Sunday afternoon for the opening day of the broadcasting station in the First Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. N. I. McCollum and daughter Miss Marguerite were in Wichita Falls Sunday. Mrs. McCollum had been ill for some few days and made the trip to consult an ear specialist. On last report she was doing very well.

Mrs. Mahlon Boggs of Wichita Falls spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. J. B. Nellums.

Immense Fortunes Not Long Kept in Families

The fact is that no one has yet devised a method by which a large fortune can for long be kept together. The Astor fortune is the only large fortune in this country which is at all old and, being in real estate, its value is uncertain.

The big railroad fortunes of the seventies are fading—none of the Vanderbilts or Goulds is today in the front rank of wealth. The steel and oil fortunes which have passed to the second generation are breaking up, while the more recent motor car and utility fortunes have already, while still in the hands of their original owners, been drastically cut.

It is rare for a fortune to last through three generations. Either it is split up by successive inheritances or scaled down through the depreciation in the value of money. The only really old money fortunes in the world are those of the Indian princes, who will have nothing to do with banks or commerce and keep their funds in specie.

Banker fortunes hardly ever last a century. The Rothschild fortune, which is the oldest banking fortune, is no longer of much moment.—Samuel Crother, in Nation's Business.

Disease Diagnosis Made From Figures of Ivory

The ivory figure of a woman, from which Chinese doctors once diagnosed disease, is on display in a collection of ivory Chinese objects in the George T. and Francis Gaylord Smith hall at the Field museum, Chicago.

"Until comparatively recent times physicians attending women of the upper class in China never saw their patients except for a hand extended from behind a concealing curtain for the taking of the pulse," the curator of anthropology explained. "For the rest of their diagnosis the doctors had to depend on a proxy in the form of a small carved figure of a woman upon which the patient indicated the relative location of her complaint."

Included in the exhibit are several pairs of ivory chopsticks. The curator credits the Chinese with being one of the first people to develop good table manners.

The Female of the Species In London they have made experiments with monkeys. They have screened off the male and the female gorilla and have given them tests for intelligence. The female gave no reaction at all, but the male evidenced displeasure.

This demonstrates my well-known contention that the female of the species has no intelligence anyhow. She is solely interested in what she is doing. She doesn't care about other considerations. She is the house-mother, the housekeeper and the dominant factor.

It shows that she has a single-track mind. But it doesn't show whether that single track is right or wrong. I have a sneaking suspicion that it is right. The female doesn't have to bother about details.—Vancouver Province.

New York's Ginkgo Trees

One of the trees that flourishes in New York, despite the smothering soot, is not a native, but an importation from Japan—the ginkgo. An American sea captain is said to have introduced the species to the city about 72 years ago. The specimen in City Hall park was planted there several years ago. It was brought from Stamford, Conn., when it was more than seventy years old. Transplanting a full-grown tree is a costly process, and the city has tried it only in the case of the ginkgo in recent years. The alantus, or Chinese tree of heaven, is another importation that seems to like New York. Within the last few years, however, the alantus trees have developed a disease which threatens their existence.

Man's Deadliest Enemies

The deadliest enemies of mankind, states a report to the medical research council of Great Britain, are not great beasts such as tigers or harmful insects or even the deadly cobras or rattlesnakes, but are the tiny, almost invisible, bacteria belonging to the group called hemolytic streptococci. They dissolve the red corpuscles of the human blood. Different varieties of these germs are responsible for erysipelas, scarlet fever, pneumonia, heart disease, etc., etc.

Avoid Danger of Poison From Canned Foods

"No death has been recorded as a result of eating canned food merely because it stood in the can a few minutes after being opened, but dozens have died because canned food was not heated thoroughly after being removed from the can and before serving."

That is the reason given by Dr. Callie Mae Coors of the agricultural chemistry department, Oklahoma A. & M. College, for advocating that all non-acid canned foods—meats, fruits and vegetables—be heated before serving. These foods are subject to a kind of poisoning called "botulism," the most fatal kind of poisoning in canned foods.

"A good rule," Dr. Coors says, "is to allow the foods to boil at least ten minutes after vigorous boiling has begun all over the kettle. 'Even if you are making string bean salad, boil and cool the beans before preparing; but by all means boil them.'"

Foods having little or no acid content should not be canned by the cold-pack, wash boiler method, Dr. Coors advises. "If we must cold-pack them, use the pressure cooker, and preferably a 10 per cent brine solution to cover the food in the jar."

The essential points to be remembered in insuring safety from botulism poisoning are:

(1) The food so spoiled has no disagreeable odor or taste or bad appearance to cause one to suspect it. (Other types of food spoilage are, of course, usually easily detected.)

in about nine-tenths of the cases. (3) The symptoms of poisoning appear usually in 12 to 24 hours. The death toll is high. (4) Thorough heating for 10 minutes before serving will make any food safe with respect to this kind of poisoning.

A PRECAUTIONARY STEP

The prompt action of the Legislature in passing, and of Governor Abram A. Ferguson in signing the bank bill which permits the banks of the state to limit withdrawals of deposits deserves the highest commendation. It was a wise move, which was proven when President Roosevelt declared a nation-wide holiday for all banks, as a safeguard for both the banks and the depositor.

The action taken, however, was purely precautionary in order to meet any possible contingency that might arise in some sections of the state as well as the nation as a whole. In so far as Haskell county and this immediate section of the country was concerned the holiday was not desired, as the banks are in better shape here than at any time during the past several years, but they were forced to observe the holiday along with the other banks of the nation for the protection of the banking system as a whole.

There is always more or less reluctance to undertake emergency banking legislation because of the possibility that it may be misunderstood or misinterpreted. Bankers and officials of the state agree that the situation in the state as a whole is good, but on account of conditions in some sections of the nation the bank holiday was a wise move and will be the beginning of the end of the depression. In other words we have reached bottom and the turning point for better times has arrived.

OPPOSE TAX-EXEMPT SECURITIES

Tax-exempt securities have long been a welcome refuge for capital seeking to avoid taxation. The amount of such securities, federal, state and local in the hands of investors today is said to total $6 billion dollars, and in view of the difficulty encountered in balancing the budgets it is not surprising that taxing bodies are seeking to devise some means of reaching this vast amount of capital which is now beyond the clutches of the tax collector. Repeated suggestions have been made that the Federal government put an end to any further issues of such securities.

A Constitutional amendment to make all future Federal and state securities subject to taxation, and give Congress control over exemption was recently introduced by Senator Cordell Hull, now Secretary of State, and considered one of the Senates' leading tax experts and economists.

The amendment as proposed, would not apply to income derived from securities expressly authorized as tax-exempt prior to ratification of said proposed amendment. It would also give Congress power to exempt Federal and state issues for not more than five years in time of war.

It is obvious that a halt must be called somewhere to a practice that has gone beyond all reasonable bounds. Yet taxing bodies, eager to levy on the income from such investments, are also loath to curtail a privilege which creates such a favorable market for their securities, and the proposed amendment will likely have a rocky road to travel.

FAMILY LIFE AGAIN

One good result that is likely to follow the depression is the restoration of the family to its former place in the life of the nation.

When times were good and everyone was employed at good wages, there was a tendency, especially on the part of the younger members of the family, to declare their independence of the family. The free advice from dad and mother became irksome and the youngster, economically independent, felt that he was able to take care of himself and make his own decisions.

Everywhere in this country there are coming back to the family hearthstone youthful scions who had the world by the tail a few years ago, and who now recognize that the family is a mighty fine thing for a young fellow to have back of him, particularly when he has no job. The sage advice of dad and mother doesn't look so old fashioned as it did in those roaring days of prosperity.

With the family purse curtailed so that theaters and places of amusement are out of reach, there has been a resumption of the family gatherings around the firesides and a realization that an evening in pleasant converse with the family or in reading a good book is not such a bad way to spend the evening.

The necessity for married sons and daughters, under the stress of loss of jobs and inability to pay rents, to come back to the family homestead has taught them that the family as a bulwark against the slings and arrows of fortune is a thing that cannot be superseded. When the whole world turned a cold shoulder there was a place and a warm welcome beside the family hearth. Dad and mother were not such bad acouts; after all, and their eccentricities could be borne without too great an effort.

The family with its priceless heritage of traditions, of honor, of sacrifice for the good of the whole, its standards of living and conduct, is coming back to its own, and the depression will not have been without its blessings if it accomplishes nothing more.

Haskell County History

As Revealed by the Files of the Free Press 20, 30 and 40 years ago.

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

Dr. J. E. Lindsey is laying the ground works for one of the prettiest homes in Haskell. He has just finished planting his large yard in shade trees and shrubbery and has put out a nice young orchard.

The immigration committee met on Tuesday afternoon and organized by electing Dr. J. E. Lindsey, president, and Judge P. D. Sanders, secretary.

We learned that some of the teachers in the public schools construed the item in regard to some of the boys carrying and drinking whiskey at school into a reflection on themselves. We do not think that a correct reading of the item will bear such an interpretation. At any rate the Free Press did not so intend it, but simply to admonish and warn the boys. We understand that vigorous measures were adopted to prevent a recurrence of the deplorable incident.

Passing the residence of our genial young Tax Assessor H. F. Post one day this week we were pleased to see in his yard his spade and shovel beautifying his home by planting shrubs and flowers.

Hitler is now at bat in Germany, but it remains to be seen whether he makes a hit.

A bishop denies that the present day girls are indiscreet. Not in the presence of the bishop, anyway.

Inventors have found a way to provide for escape from a submarine but they haven't found a safe exit from a subway.

The professor who says all bridge players suffer from an inferiority complex apparently never played with his wife as partner, if he has one.

A life insurance bulletin places the economic value of an 18-year-old boy at $28,654. But it doesn't say there's any market for them at that price.

But the average 18-year-old would think he was on the bargain counter at that figure.

Considering that Congress and 41 Legislatures have been in session for several weeks trying to find means of raising revenue we may be lucky to have anything left.

On Personal Side

The first month of Spring! But that doesn't mean it's Spring yet. It won't be long until income tax is due. Or are you lucky enough to have to pay any? Only a high salaried radio comedian can make an old joke sound new.

Build Up Health and Pains Go Away

WOMEN who suffer from weakness often have many aches and pains which a stronger state of health would prevent. Women in this condition should take Cardui, a purely vegetable tonic that has been in use for over 50 years. Take Cardui to improve the general tone of the system in cases of run-down health and "tired nerves." Women have found, in such cases, that Cardui helps them to overcome pains and make the monthly periods easier. CARDUI is safe and wholesome for women of all ages. Try it!

MUSIC

(By Joe Meacham)

Musicians are oftentimes asked their opinions about the works of great composers and about the music, both classical and popular.

There is one thought which always enters the writer's mind every time that question is presented.

My answers to all such questions is simply this. There is only one music, classical or popular, that is music and it is produced only where the soul of the composer has received that inspiration that comes only with a faith in and love for the true and living God.

Not long before he died, John Phillip Sousa asked a life-long friend who was a composer if he believed in God.

Mr. Sousa was a firm believer and it is natural that he was because only the inspired could have produced the soul stirring music that he did. A great deal of the modernistic music of today is written by men who do not believe in any kind of a God. That is the reason why it can rest and will not last. That only lives in music that comes from the inspired soul.

Composers who think they do it themselves are only toads. They can acquire great technique and learn the machinery of composition and build great musical structures but they cannot produce a living thing in music.

The works of great composers, no matter whether classical or popular is not the work of their own hands but their souls are filled with inspiration through faith and they have listened to a higher power.

Think of Schubert. Was he inspired? Yes, if he had not have been how could he have written several masterpieces one after the other in one day.

Was Beethoven inspired? His compositions numbered to one hundred and thirty-eight, and in each one was a new lesson, new thought and ranged from the simple and oratorio to the sonata and symphony. The same can be said of Strauss, Brahms, Liszt, Wagner and many others.

If you want to start art take away faith. They say that music is a luxury. Well it is to the man without a soul.

Music inspires and revives the soul. Surely it is not a luxury but a necessity. It helps to bring us closer to our maker.

All in the Family

One night a drunken hubby returned home more soused than usual, and fell asleep in the front garden.

His wife determined to cure him of his bad ways, and with the aid of a sheet and an electric torch transformed herself into a very fair imitation of a ghost. Then she went out to the drunkard and shook him.

"Whosh that?" murmured the toper.

"Satan," came the reply in a sepulchral tone.

"Shake hands, old horse, I married your sister."

The fellow who makes the same mistake twice at least lacks originality.

What You Don't Know...

is popularly supposed not to hurt you. But it may cost you money . . . it may cause you inconvenience . . . it may tarnish the shimmering surface of a happy living. In short—when all's said and done—what you don't know will often HURT badly.

When is ignorance bliss? When is wisdom folly? Surely not in this swift-moving commercial world of ours . . . When yesterday might as well be marked "B. C." and tomorrow is pushing impatiently to prove today passe. Now is the time for everyone to be informed . . . to know what is going on—not merely in the political, social and athletic world—but in the business and commercial world as well.

Your newspaper tells you what you ought to know . . . NEWS. Not simply local or world news . . . but shopping and manufacturing NEWS. It tells you—through its advertising—what is the very latest and best. From its pages you learn where to shop and what to look for. Its advertisers are the backbone of national and local business. Their message to you is important knowledge that will save you money . . . make your life easier . . . give additional happiness to you and your family.

It will hurt you NOT to know their message.

Tips on Taxes

AUSTIN—As a tax measure of major interest, the sales tax which was the subject of a great deal of discussion during the early days of the session, has given way to other tax proposals. A suggestion, which at the present time is claiming more attention than any other single tax measure, is one which proposes a radical departure in raising revenue and controlling production of oil.

The proposal embodies a repeal of the gasoline tax and the gross production tax on oil as its major revenue features. By a sharply graduated tax on oil production, beginning in some bills carrying the idea into effect, with one cent per barrel on production from wells with a maximum daily output of five barrels and scaling up to much higher rates as the per well production increases. The top bracket calls for $1 per barrel tax on production of well in excess of 1,000 barrels per day.

The bills on this subject carry into effect suggestions made by Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Railroad Commission, who claims that problems of both oil conservation and taxation would be solved by its adoption. The graduated tax on oil production, would automatically regulate oil production to the market demand, supporters of the bill claim, and at the same time provide an easy and equitable means of obtaining revenue. The bill is facing determined opposition, and the chief argument offered against it is that it will place Texas oil at a disadvantage by imposing a serious price differential. Hearings are being held, and the measure will doubtless undergo considerable modification. Opinion seems to be that while the proposal in its present form has little chance of adoption, there is a strong likelihood that the present State production tax on oil of two per cent of its sale price will be changed to a definite sum per barrel. This would stabilize State income from this source.

The House has passed a bill authorizing the creation of a special division in the Comptroller's department to enforce collection of gasoline taxes, as well as providing more drastic penalties for evasion of these taxes. It is claimed that the State is losing from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 per year in taxes from this source and at the same time subjecting legitimate dealers to unfair competition by gasoline "bootleggers." This is regarded as a highly important tax measure.

The Comptroller at present has a field force of only thirty men. Until recently he had only twenty-five men. The personnel increase was made possible by reducing salaries and thus using the same appropriation to employ a larger number of field men. This force has the duty of enforcing collections of the following taxes: gasoline, gross receipts, inheritance and cigarette. Combined, they brought into the State treasury about forty million dollars last year.

The field men have many other duties, such as auditing records of county tax collectors and generally protecting the State's interests in tax matters. It is obvious that such a small force cannot adequately deal with the thousands of different persons, firms, corporations and county officials, throughout the State. Serious leaks in State revenue are inevitable. Comptroller Sheppard estimates that at least five million dollars is lost annually in evasions of the gasoline tax and cigarette tax, besides considerable losses in inheritance taxes and losses in ad valorem taxes, because of inability of the field men to make regular and thorough audits. With these evasions stopped, Sheppard believes the State would now be on a cash basis, even without any other needed reforms in fiscal affairs.

Senator Moore of Greenville has introduced a bill limiting benefits of the Confederate pensions to those who are in actual need. There is a large deficit in this fund and the total claims are increasing, due to liberalizing provisions of the law. For example, payments increased from $2,917,000 in 1930 to $3,562,000 in 1932.

The House has passed a bill reducing the poll tax to $1. The Senate is yet to act on the measure.

Proposals to reduce the gasoline tax below four cents per gallon were rejected by the House during the past week.

Hubby—You must economize! Think of the future. If I were to die, where would you be?
Wife—I should be here all right. The question is—where would you be?

Beauty Culturists Meet In Dallas

For three days the Southwest was host to beauty culturists from practically every point in the United States. Fashion experts from Chicago, New York, Hollywood and even as far away as London and Paris gathered from a three day session in Dallas to exchange notes on the latest trends in beauty culture. Mrs. Surber of the Bungalow Beauty Shop, who has just returned from the three day convention, states that hair stylists from the metropolitan centers predict that the women of America will go in for a far greater variation in hairdress than ever before. The reason for this is that the milliner has also gone in for a great variation in style. The little pan-cake hats, the pill-boxes, the Turkish fez, the fedora all need individual treatment in the creation of hair styles.

Mrs. Surber states further that according to the leading authorities the Hollywood screen star is the arbiter of fashion both as to dress and hair styles. The screen, according to Mrs. Surber, has done more to make the American style of beauty culture popular throughout the world than any other one thing.

Quoting further, Mrs. Surber stated: "There is no such thing as a definite hair style any longer. Hair is neither long nor short but hair must be arranged to fit the personality of the individual and must conform not only to the style of hat worn but the entire ensemble, must harmonize. For instance, let us take the average pan-cake or pill-box hat—these hats are worn in such a manner that if the hair is not dressed properly there is an entire lack of balance insofar as eye appeal is concerned. The hairdresser therefore must build with puffs, flares and curls a coiffure that complements the beauty of the hat and at the same time maintain the proper balance so that the good points of both the hair and the hat are brought out."

Keeping a diary may be a lot of fun to some people, but personally the entries always sounded a bit silly when we tried it.

Eskimos, it is claimed, are not bothered with tooth decay because of their diet of seal meat and dried fish. Most of us, however, prefer the bad teeth.

Patient—Nurse, who put that statue under the sink?

Nurse—Not so loud. That's the plumber.

SHERIFF'S SALE

THE STATE OF TEXAS, County of Haskell.
Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain Order of Sale issued out of the Honorable District Court of Jones County, Texas, on the 28th day of January, 1933, by Robert Cross, Clerk of said Court directing the sale of certain property therein described for the purpose of paying the sum of Fourteen Hundred, Sixty-Five and 09/100 Dollars, and costs of suit, under a certain judgment rendered by the said District Court of Jones County, Texas, in favor of Miss Sallie Davenport, in that certain cause in said Court, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 5690, and styled Miss Sallie Davenport vs. H. H. Pennington, et al., said Order of Sale having been placed in my hands for service, I, W. T. Sarrels, as Sheriff of Haskell County, Texas, did on the 2nd day of February, 1933, levy upon the certain real estate described in said Order of Sale, the same being situated in Haskell County, Texas, and being described as follows, to-wit:

A tract of 61 acres, a part of Coryell County School League No. 60, Abstract No. 100, described by metes and bounds, as follows:
Beginning at the S. E. Corner of said School League No. 60; thence north 1119 varas to N. E. corner of said tract, a point in the east line of said League No. 60; Thence W. 307 varas to point for the N. W. corner of the 61 acre tract; Thence S. 1119 varas to corner, being a point in the S. B. line of said League No. 60; Thence E. with said S. B. line 307 varas to the place of beginning; being the land conveyed to Mary A. Livengood by deed of partition of the estate of R. L. Livengood, deceased, which deed is recorded in volume 90, page 343 deed records of Haskell county, Texas, and levied upon as the property of H. H. Pennington, and that on the first Tuesday in March, 1933, the same being the 7th day of said month, at the Court House door of Haskell County, in the town of Haskell, Texas, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. by virtue of said levy and said order of sale I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said H. H. Pennington.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Haskell Free Press, a newspaper published in Haskell county, Texas.

Witness my hand this 2nd day of February, 1933.
W. T. Sarrels, Sheriff.
Haskell County, Texas.

A new feeling for men past fifty

If you've let yourself grow systematically old, here is a way to stimulate yourself without the slightest harm, and, in fact, with effects beneficial to the entire body.

This method of stimulating a sluggish system to new life is a doctor's discovery, so no one need hesitate to try it or believe in it. It is a sane, sensible way to keep keenly alive.

The only medicine you take is a most likeable and remarkable syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. The benefits are many, and far-reaching. Its immediate effect on the lower bowel gets rid of lingering poisons better than a powerful laxative. In fact, you need no other laxative if you take an occasional spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

If you regard yourself in fairly good health now, you might still find after a week or two of this gentle stimulation that you were once in a state of half-health before. It will give an amazing difference in the way you feel, especially at an age when you incline toward inactivity. (Daily headaches, falling asleep, and tiring too easily are only the symptoms of a toxic condition.) Women, too, get double benefit from a few weeks' treatment with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
