The Berean Class, "The Class of Southern Hospitality."

Did you ever think about how little the word "wish" will do for you? Did you ever notice that if you want anything done it will never be done by merely "wishing" for it. You may say that a "wish" is a "desire" and a "desire" is an ambition and an ambitious person is to be commended. I can agree with you on the latter part of that statement but it is not easy to see how you climbed the scale? You must accompany those wishes, desires or ambitions with a sincere effort. "I wish such and such were so." Some one near him said: "Why don't you make it a good wish while you are wishing?" Indicative of the fact that after all mere "wishing" is a splendid form of procrastination.

If you want to build a Sunday School Class "wishing" will certainly be of no avail. There must be that constant outpour of effort on your part. You can never let down for one moment. We don't do that by any means, do we? But then, we are speaking here of the ideal. And would it not be ideal if every member of every class would put out his best efforts all the time? There is plenty for every body to do. You need not be afraid of running out of something to do, for such will not be the case.

The Berean class was a bit low in its attendance Sunday, having only 26 present. Those who were not present missed a beautiful study of "Christ in the Shadow of the Cross." We want every Berean in his place next Sunday. The subject will be "Calvary" taken from Matthew 27:33-50.

At the weekly business meeting last Monday night it was decided that the Bereans would go on a picnic next Monday night. It is to be a "stag" party, and we are expecting to have a big time. You Bereans had better be in class next Sunday morning at 9:45 and hear the details and get in on the "ground-floor." The Social Chairman will let us in on all his secrets in the class and he told me that that is the only place he will talk about it. It was also decided that we were to put on a membership drive. This will also be explained Sunday morning. If you want in on the "ground-floor" of this big drive you had better be in your place, for we are going to make this class in-crease. "The Class of Southern Hospitality."

Haskell Baptists

Are These Scriptures Contradictory?

Acts 10:47 reads, "Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?"

Acts 22:16 reads, "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord."

Both of these scriptures are found in the book of Acts. They both record events that took place after the crucifixion. The first one was spoken in connection with the salvation of Cornelius and the other in connection with the salvation of Paul. Cornelius was saved eight years after the crucifixion and Paul was saved two years after the crucifixion.

Peter wanted to baptize Cornelius, because he gave every evidence of being full of the Holy Spirit. God had sent His Holy Spirit into his heart and he was so filled with joy that he could not control himself. He began to shout and praise God. Surely his sins must have been forgiven. Could this man have been so filled with the Spirit and so happy and still be a child of the devil? The time of this man's salvation is so plain that a way-faring man, though a fool, need not err therein. Peter preached the same plan of salvation to Cornelius that had been preached down through the ages. Read Acts 10:43.

Did Ananias mean to teach Paul a different plan of salvation? When he commanded Paul to be baptized that his sins be washed away, did he mean that baptism would literally or symbolically wash them away? Take for an illustration the other church ordinance, the Lord's supper. Referring to the bread, Christ said, "Take, eat; this is my body." As we eat the bread are we literally or symbolically eating the broken body of Christ? All will answer, "The bread eaten in the Lord's supper only represents the body of Christ." You have answered correctly. We should also answer the other question correctly and say, "Baptism, the other church ordinance, only represents the washing away of our sins that have already been inwardly cleansed by the blood of Christ." How beautiful this agrees with I Peter 3:21, where we are told that baptism saves in a figure or symbolically. How beautifully this agrees with the conversion of Cornelius and all the other New Testament conversions. How beautiful this agrees with Paul's own conversion as we find it in Acts 9:17, 18. He received physical light, was filled with the Holy Spirit and was baptized. Just as the inward dwelling of the Holy Spirit was experienced by Cornelius before baptism, Paul also had the same experience.

As They Go to the Post in the Race for Governor

The following review of the gubernatorial candidates in the Democratic Primary appeared in the Wichita Times last Thursday, which we believe will be of interest to our readers. Listing them in alphabetical order the Times had the following to say.

Davidson, Lynch, of Houston. Lumberman and banker. Former lieutenant governor. Ran for governor in 1924, finished a good third in first primary. Ran again in 1926, a poor third. One of the soundest thinkers on state problems, but rather inept as a politician. Is handicapped in this race by the fact that he has run unsuccessfully twice before, but has a large personal following. Would have stood a much better chance if Sterling had not announced.

Ferguson, Mrs. Miriam. Wife of former Governor James E. Ferguson, not running only because he cannot. Was elected governor in 1924 after her husband's skillful campaigning put her in second place in the July primary, with Felix Robertson of Dallas, supposed Ku Klux candidate, as her opponent. Defeated George C. Butte, Republican nominee, in November election, many Democrats bolting the ticket to support Butte. Administration as governor featured by unpleasantness in highway commission, by wholesale issuance of pardons and by the fact that her husband seemed to be governor de facto. Is not in any sense a politician herself and is not beloved by the women most prominent in Texas politics. Voters will not consider her record apart from the spectacular one of her husband. Mrs. Ferguson ran for re-election in 1926 and was defeated by Dan Moody. Her husband has a considerable following, and a rather loyal one, comprising certain groups of foreign birth or sympathies, and the irreconcilables among the anti-prohibitionists; his ability as a campaigner for her is not to be underestimated.

Love, Thomas B., of Dallas. Lawyer, insurance man and farmer. Served three terms as member of house at Austin, being speaker in the 1906 session. Served as state banking commissioner and as an assistant secretary of the U. S. treasury. Delegate to Democratic national convention in 1912. National committeeman for two terms. Chief of McAdoo forces in Texas in 1920 and 1924. Among leaders of Democratic bolt in Texas in 1924, when Mrs. Ferguson was Democratic nominee; also a leader in the bolt of 1928. Ran for lieutenant governor in 1928, but withdrew from second primary after lower courts held him ineligible. Expects in this race to get much of the support of the Hooverites, or bolters, but is actively disliked by many of them and regarded unfavorably by others. Takes himself very seriously. In running principally on the "anti-Tammany" issue which he invented.

Loven, Paul, of New Braunfels. Farmer and business man and an avowed anti-prohibitionist. Says he is "German by inheritance, Irish by instinct, and Jewish by business integrity." Incidentally, he lived in Wichita Falls at one time. If Tom's name is Love, Paul's is Loven. Despite the similarity in their names there is probably little other resemblance in these two candidates. (Paul Loven lived in Haskell several years ago and is a graduate of the Haskell High School.)

Mayfield, Earl B., of Austin. Lawyer, though not in active practice for many years. Twice elected to state senate, twice elected railroad commissioner. Elected U. S. senator in 1922 being matched with J. E. Ferguson in the run-off. Election attributed largely to Ku Klux Klan support. Nomination resulted in first considerable bolt in Texas Democracy since 1894, many Democrats voting for George E. B. Peddy of Houston. Mayfield's campaign methods investigated by U. S. senate committee, which declared charges baseless. Defeated for re-election in 1928 by Tom Connally, after leading field in first primary. One of the most adroit campaigners Texas has ever known, and a factor to be reckoned with in any contest he enters. Has platform that adopts the supposedly popular side of all public questions; has also an effective organization.

Miller, Barry, of Dallas. Lawyer. Now serving his third term as lieutenant governor. Long prominent in Democratic affairs in Texas, being a protegee of the late Charles A. Culberson, U. S. senator. Will receive a share of the support of those who endeavored to send a Smith delegation from Texas to the national convention in 1928, but not as large a share as he would if James Young were not in the race. A man of engaging personality, with many warm personal friends throughout Texas, and a very able campaigner.

Moody, C. C., of Fort Worth. Laundry wagon driver, who seems to think there is occasion to do something to redeem the Moody name. He should provide the comedy relief in the campaign.

Parrish, Pink L., of Lubbock.

Lawyer. Now member of state senate. Is said by friends to resemble former Governor James S. Hogg, and there is undoubtedly some physical resemblance. His candidacy would cut sharply into the chances of Clint Small to carry West Texas.

Putnam, Frank, of Houston. Newspaper man. The first avowed anti-prohibitionist to announce. Too good a newspaper man not to realize that those who make run paragon in their voting know that J. E. Ferguson can look after their interests well enough.

Senter, E. G., of Dallas. Lawyer and editor, principally the latter. Former state senator. A born scrapper. A leader in 1907, in the legislative attack on U. S. Senator J. W. Bailey. Protagonist of the effort to make judicial procedure less technical and more efficient. A man of much ability, but considered by many as too radical and too temperamental. Very outspoken in his speech and writings. His candidacy adds color and interest to the contest, probably without having much effect on the result.

Small, Clint C., of Wellington. Lawyer. Has held various local offices. Now state senator. Senatorial service featured by his bills to protect West Texas landowners in their titles. Is the only candidate whose candidacy has something of the sectional aspect, and will receive earnest support of West Texas in general and Panhandle-Plains in particular unless voters there become convinced he cannot win. A comparative newcomer in state politics; an able campaigner and a convincing speaker, who seems less afraid than most candidates to speak his mind.

Sterling, Ross, of Houston. Newspaper publisher and banker, former oil operator. Now chairman of state highway commission, to which he was appointed by Governor Moody. Was chairman of navigation district board at Houston for many years and had conspicuous part in developments that made Houston a real port. A somewhat higher type of man, everything considered, than is usually seen in Texas gubernatorial contests. Is handicapped by his support of state highway bond issue and by the belief that his corporate connections would make him friendly to big oil corporations and power interests. May be expected to receive a large part of the "business" vote. Is untried as a campaigner.

Walker, Dr. J. H., of Grapevine. Physician. Has a unique platform, the details of which we don't recall. A good citizen who is exercising his constitutional right to run for office, and who can't be expected to get much out of it except the exercise.

Young, James, of Kaufman. Lawyer. Former congressman, who retired voluntarily. A comparative stranger in present day state politics. Is supposed to have been drafted for the race by some East Texans. Has one of the most statesmanlike platforms of any of the candidates, but has been experiencing difficulty in getting the voters interested in it and in himself. Has the support of a number of Democratic leaders who tried to send a Smith delegation from Texas in 1928, but must divide that support with Barry Miller. Will get the votes of many Texans who look upon him as being "different" from the general run of candidates.

Such is the lineup. The voter who looks for statesmanship will find very little of it. The voter who looks for ability, for sound views on state questions, will find something of these elements. The voter who looks for demagogism, politronery or insincerity, will probably be able to discover them without great difficulty. There is a chance for Texas to get, out of that array, a governor of average or above average ability. That chance is about equal to the chance of getting someone altogether unworthy.

When A CLEANSING MEDICINE Is Needed

"I HAVE taken Black-Draught all my life, whenever in need of a medicine for constipation," says Mrs. G. C. Burns, of Texas. "My mother and father used it in their homes for years, and I was raised to think of it as the best thing if I had a headache or was constipated." "At one time I had indigestion real bad. I ate all out of sorts; my sleep was shallow, and I had gas pains. After a course of Black-Draught, I got my appetite back, and I have given Black-Draught to my children, whenever they needed a medicine of the kind." Insist on Thacker's

For Flag Day

On June 14, 1777, the continental congress of the revolutionary colonies adopted the plan for the present American flag. It is a date that should always be remembered as one of the landmarks of our history.

Up to date, the colonies had been isolated communities, fighting a desultory war with Great Britain, and so long as they fought that way, they were doomed to failure. Nations need a unified spirit in order to hold their own in the field of international conflict. They must be animated by a common purpose, and sink their differences to attain certain ends necessary to the success of all.

So we have our beautiful stars and stripes, the emblem of the very best for which our land stands. We have become so familiar with that particular arrangement of color and design, that it does not perhaps thrill us as it should. But if we were separated from this land of freedom, we could not keep back the tears if we saw those significant colors.

Were we thousands of miles away, we would begin to realize all that that flag means. In far lands where oppression and tyranny still prevail, we would long for the land over which our glorious flag floats as a country where people are free to think their own thoughts, to express their own convictions, to work out their own destiny.

Were we exiled to some land of poverty and degradation, the sight of the starry flag would bring its message of hope. It would tell us of a land where every boy and girl has his opportunity, where the schoolhouse doors are open to all, where all who show industry and energy are bound to obtain some decent reward. That old flag stands for a wonderful development of human society, and we must always cherish it with our best affection here in Texas.

1,000 Miles An Hour

Certain aviation engineers predict that airplanes will eventually attain a speed of 1,000 miles an hour; also that non-stop flights around the world will be made.

As the apparent movement of the sun, due to the earth's rotation, is less than 1,000 miles an hour in latitudes north and south of the equator, such a speed would present some interesting collateral experiences.

For example, traveling west, one might encircle the globe in daylight, as the plane would keep pace with the sun. Traveling east, the plane would meet the sun twice, so that it would apparently experience two days in 24 hours.

Strangest of all, if the plane were flying somewhat faster than the apparent movement of the sun, it might start out shortly after sunset and fly west to overtake the sun, which would appear to rise in the west. Continuing its flight, it would finally leave the sun so far behind, that it would appear to set in the east.

A watch carried under either of these conditions might tell how long the plane had been in the air, but would be of little use in determining the time of day at any given point during the flight.

Home Town Thoughts

If you want home support for your plans and ambitions, it is a mighty good idea to create some home business friends by spending your money at home.

The towns and cities that have shown marked growth in population, did not obtain that advance by luck and chance. Some force of energy and enthusiasm was behind them pushing them along.

While many non-advertising merchants will soon complain of dull summer business, many advertised stores will have to hustle so fast to attend to trade that they can hardly provide vacations for their workers.

A Community Mystery

It is a kind of mystery, in many cities and towns, how some people can stand it to maintain their property in unattractive condition, when all around them are good looking homes and business places. One would think that people would be ashamed of having their property constitute such a drag on a neighborhood.

A poorly maintained home, shabby and disorderly, will do as much harm on a street as to have one of the houses catch fire. The modern fire departments usually get fires out before they do much harm, but the demoralizing effect of a shabby home drives people to locate elsewhere. What many of our communities need, is some system for waking up the people who maintain property poorly, and convincing them that they are injuring their neighbors and themselves as well.

Complaining of Competitors

It is customary for many business people to complain of the competition of modern trade. It would be better sense to study this competition and imitate it, instead of complaining about it.

Usually when some business concern gets trade away from its neighbors, and other localities, it has done it by advertising its merchandise better. Instead of complaining because some concern hurts your trade, why not imitate the methods by which that concern got your trade? Try a little advertising, and build up your own trade instead of worrying about what some competitor gets.

Most towns complain because the census shows them to have fewer inhabitants than they claim. An interesting exception however, is Fairbury, Ill., which wants its figures of 2,532 cut down. The reason is that towns under 2,500 population in Illinois are exempt from certain road taxes.

On Personal Side

Those people who consider themselves saints on earth are going to be mighty lonesome in heaven, we'd guess.

"Oh, dear," said the little red hen as the automobile approached, "now I've got to cross the road again."

They say that when an automobile backfires in Chicago, passers-by instinctively throw up their hands.

The Massachusetts man who plans to go over Niagara Falls on a mattress probably anticipates striking bed rock.

New York publishers have cut book prices in half, but whether they'll keep them there—that's another story.

A Pomeroy, Ohio Farmer keeps his chickens in a bearse. Probably to remind the hens that they had better lay or they'll be laid away.

John D. Rockefeller was made a Boy Scout the other day, and since he was initiated during the $150,000 fund drive, he'll be expected to act like a good scout.

A scientist says that he foresees the time when we'll obtain our food from the atmosphere. We're pretty close to that now with Angel cake and frosting.

It may not be long now until the honor graduate is working for his old schoolmate who dropped out after finishing common school.

Nobody has ever discovered a man who would acknowledge to having proposed to more than one woman, and yet always every woman will admit that she's had at least a dozen proposals. Look's like somebody's fibbing.

We Americans are supposed to live by the constitution, and the Canadians are living off it.

A city fire marshal declares that the flapper who cooks her own meals in a kitchenette is a menace. As long as she's the only one that eats her cooking we can't see that anyone is menaced but herself.

Maybe the reason some can't cook like their mothers is because they don't have their bridge parties to help them.

Haskell Bottling Works An Asset To Our Town

Serving Haskell as well as a number of other towns and communities in this section, the Haskell Bottling Works, bottlers of "Big Chief" and "Dr. Pepper," is one of the fastest growing business institutions of Haskell.

This modern bottling plant is owned by Bailey Taylor and George "Chick" Henshaw, both young men who have grown up in Haskell. Since taking over the plant early last year, they have added considerable new equipment of the latest and most modern type and have one of the best equipped bottling plants in this section. Holding the exclusive franchise for the bottling of the popular Dr. Pepper for several counties in this section, together with their exclusive "Big Chief" beverages, the local plant is kept busy supplying their customers throughout this section. They operate two trucks over the territory, and state that a growing demand for their products is being noted wherever they are sold.

Only the very purest and best ingredients are used in the manufacture of their bottled products, and the extreme care which is exercised at all times assures purity and uniformity of flavor which is lacking in many bottled drinks on the market, states Mr. Taylor, who has charge of this phase of the business and who is assisted by competent and experienced men.

Since identifying themselves with Haskell business interests, both Mr. Taylor and Mr. Henshaw have been loyal supporters of every movement for the betterment of our town and in every sense of the word are "Helping to Build Haskell."

ORGATONE HAS PUT ME IN THE FRONT RANKS ONCE MORE

Had Suffered Nearly All His Life Without Relief But Master Medicine Restored Him.

"When I tell you that Orgatone has relieved me, of years and years of suffering, you can readily understand why I am so strong for this new medicine." was the remarkable statement made by A. F. Elliott of 417 Wichita Street, Wichita Falls, Texas, while in Allison's Drug Store recently. "I had a number of troubles," he continued, "and it's the first time in several years I have been rid of them. Before I began taking Orgatone, I had gas forming on my stomach, and I would bloat up until I was miserable for hours afterwards after eating. Several years ago my liver began to enlarge and my doctors couldn't do anything for me. I took every kind of medicine I heard of but nothing ever did me any real good. I was very badly constipated and was nervous and restless and wasn't able to get any rest at night. "Some of my friends told me to take Orgatone and I had been keeping up with the papers and so I purchased a bottle. I want to say right here and now that Orgatone has proven several times its worth to me. I eat anything I want now, food does not sour on my stomach, my kidneys and liver seem to be functioning properly and in fact I just feel fine all around. Orgatone has done a lot for me and I am glad to say what I can for it, in order that other people may profit by my experience. I shall continue taking it as long as it helps me." Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Haskell at the Oates Drug Store.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shutter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

Table with Ford prices: Standard Coupe, Sport Coupe, De Luxe Coupe, Tudor Sedan, Thunderbolt, Touring Sedan, De Luxe Sedan, Town Sedan, Cabriolet, Roadster, Flamingo, Pick-up Closed Cab, Model A Coupe, Model A Truck, Model AA Truck, Model AA Panel Delivery.

Now is a good time to fix up your home

The same home as shown above after modernizing

- Everyone likes a good-looking home. Making homes modern is often very simple and inexpensive. A little change made here and there frequently is the only difference between an old house and an up-to-date home. A coat of paint—repairs to the roof—a new concrete driveway—wall board in the attic to provide a play room for the children—a vermin-proof and watertight basement—a new sun parlor or sleeping porch—a concrete sidewalk—just two or three small improvements like these often are all that are needed to make a home up-to-date. Now is a good time to make one or more of these improvements. Many excellent "before and after" photographs of remodeled houses are shown in the booklet "Remodeling with Stucco." THIS SEASON

It has become known as a Tornado period. At this season of the year the Twister's Terrifying Threat often becomes a reality laying waste thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of property and snuffing out many lives. Tornadoes are beyond the control of man, and the only defense is insurance to pay for the damage they cause. Almost every day the newspapers carry big headlines with reference to the latest disaster. No locality is exempt—you may be next. Anywhere in this country—windstorms can and do destroy millions of dollars worth of property. Each year adds to the list of places which "could never have a destructive wind storm"—and did. Windstorm insurance rates are so low that it is not worth the risk to be without it. Let us tell you how little it costs to protect yourself from loss through damage done by wind to your home, business property or car. Wind damage is a fire hazard. Why not insure against it?

Do Your Children Borrow Books From the Public Library?

The child who frequents the public library becomes familiar with the best books instead of wasting time on desultory reading that leads nowhere. If at first, his personal choices are seemingly of little value, he may develop them by wise suggestions from the librarian or from contact with other children who suggest to him books they have tried. He cannot go far astray since lists are carefully chosen; he may read books too young for him, but here he will probably mature as he gains ease in reading.

Last week the Public Library loaned 266 books, with 21 new borrowers. We feel that interest in the library is growing each week and we are very grateful for the following books donated during the past week.

Mrs. H. M. Smith—Mavericks, Mavis Branch—Young Engineers In Nevada.

Mrs. Henry Dobbins—The Long Lanes Turning, The Ranchman, When Love Commands, Fulfilling Her Destiny, French Stories, Bellum Helveticum.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

June 8th was a good day with the people of First Christian Church. More people were in Bible School than any Sunday since the first of the year. The largest crowd at the morning worship service for some time. The sermon by G. Robert Forester, the minister, on the subject, "The Birthday of the Church" was well received, and then followed the Lord's Supper, the memory of which will dwell long in the hearts of those present. It was inspiring to know that they were a part of about six million souls around the world who met at the Lord's Table that day.

After Pentecost what? They continued steadfastly. May those who have not been in the habit of meeting with their brethren each Lord's Day, have some of the spirit of the early Christians, and continue steadfastly in the days to come.

Owen-Maples

On last Sunday Morning, June 8, Miss Madalyn Maples was married to Fred Owen of Wichita Falls in Walters Oklahoma in a quiet but impressive wedding. There were no attendants.

Miss Maples, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Maples was reared in Haskell and received her education in the Haskell High School, and she was one of the most charming and popular of the co-eds.

Mr. Owen has long resided in Wichita Falls and is well known in business circles being connected with Nathan-Lynch as an interior decorator.

Mr. and Mrs. Owens will reside in Wichita Falls at 1648 Collins Avenue.

Mrs. Owen Fouts, Mrs. Carl Maples, Miss Florene Maples and Mr. Bobo, all of Haskell, attended the wedding.

Reynolds-Bryant

The wedding of Miss Brucille Bryant to Virgil Reynolds, which was solemnized at high noon on February 23, 1930, in the Presbyterian Church of Durant, Oklahoma with Doctor Schoals officiating, unites two of the oldest and most prominent families of Haskell.

The marriage took place while the young couple was attending school and they elected not to announce their wedding until the finish of the school term.

Mrs. Reynolds who is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Bruce W. Bryant has been attending the College of Industrial Arts in Denton for the past four years and received her degree from there this spring. She was one of the most popular girls in the school, receiving many high honors and filling not a few responsible offices; and is no doubt one of Haskell's most brilliant and charming young ladies.

Mr. Reynolds, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Reynolds has been for the past two years a student in Baylor University at Waco, and he has an extraordinary record as a student and as an athlete there. His popularity in Haskell was shown by his many friends and his honors received while attending high school here.

LAUNDERING vs WASHING Did you ever stop to think that we have been in the Laundry business here for fourteen years; that we pay Insurance, School, City and County Tax here, and that our PAY ROLL is spent in your own town; that we work from eighteen to twenty-five people in the plant; that we own homes here and help to pave the streets and county roads and that we always help to get anything that is good for town by donating to different causes and working their interests also. We employ experienced help and most of our employees are people who need the work. Our plant is a credit to any town three times the size of Haskell and is as well equipped as you will find in any town this side of Fort Worth and a good way to the other side of Haskell. You Will Always Look Dressed Up If You Send Your Clothes To The Laundry. We give the best Laundry Service in this part of the country—Family Finish, Flat Work, Baby Service, Wet Wash, Quilts, Blankets, Carpets, Etc. We use only pure soft water, even softer than tap water, and your clothes are given 9 to 13 different changes of water each time and we do not use the same water over again as you will get from the average wash woman, just pure, clean, filtered water changed each time. You can well afford to set your washing machine aside and send your clothes to the Laundry at prices for which we do wet washes, for when you have a washing machine you only have a wet wash, and does not iron your clothes. There is a difference in Washed and Laundered clothes. If you have been having your clothes washed where they use about three changes of water on them, and maybe the same water was used on someone else's clothes—TRY THE LAUNDRY WAY OF WASHING. We invite the public to visit and inspect our plant at any time. Haskell Laundry Co. J. L. Tubbs, Mgr. Telephone 144
