Support Group changes commanders

2nd Lt. Chris Breighner
Deputy chief, public affairs

Milestones on the road to the goal of executing the best closure seen to date continue, as the 64th Support Group changed commanders here Thursday.

At the 10 a.m. Reese Club ceremony, Lt. Col. Mike Jones assumed command of the group from Col. Ed De Iulio.

Col. Kodak Horton, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, was the presiding officer.

"Col. De Iulio excelled here after taking over in a very difficult situation in July 1995," said Horton. He praised De Iulio for the excellence of the 64th Support Group squadrons during his tenure.

"Thanks for making a difference!" he stated as he handed De Iulio a commander's coin in appreciation for his work.

Jones, former 64th SPTG deputy commander, leads the group through its inactivation, scheduled for June 30. Jones retires July 1.

pitcher who's about to retire to throw a few more hard pitches...I will throw them," said Jones. "The next few weeks will be fast and furious, but now, thanks to everyone for coming and to those who set up this ceremony. Let's listen to the Air Force song, shake a few hands, eat some cake and get back to work."

Jones enlisted in the Air Force in 1972 and was selected to enter the security police career field. Jones went through Officer Training School in 1978 and was assigned to K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich. (now closed). Other security police assignments took him to Hawaii, Korea, Washington and, prior to Reese, Randolph AFB, Texas, where he was on the Air Education and Training Command headquarters inspector general team and was the 12th Security Police Squadron commander.

Jones and his wife, Carolyn, have two children, Rebecca Lyn Parker and Michael Joseph, and two grandchildren, Jessica and David.

De Iulio leaves Reese for his next assignment as air base wing commander, Edwards AFB, Calif.

Prior to his assignment at Reese, De Iulio was deputy commander, 12th Operations Group, Randolph AFB, Texas. He is a master navigator with over 2,700 flying hours, flying the B-52G, FB-111A, NKC-135 and T-43 aircraft.

De Iulio and his wife, Rebecca, have three children, Edward, Barry and Lisa.

Chapel staff gives thanks for support

The chaplains of Reese Air Force Base thank the entire Reese community for the tremendous support given at all of the many chapel-sponsored programs over the years but especially the last few months.

A natural decline in the base Protestant worship attendance has led to the termination of the 11:15 a.m. Protestant worship service effective last Sunday. The Saturday evening 5 p.m. Catholic Mass continues through May 31. The 9:45 a.m. Catholic Mass continues through June 22.

We do not wish to remove the opportunity of worship from members of the Reese community, we only recognize that as a worship community diminishes in attendance, the quality of worship and fellowship is diminished. We want the remaining members at Reese to have optimum opportunity to experience quality worship in a quality worship environment. The surrounding communities are extremely well populated with large, well established worship congregations.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Steve Hess, 64th Flying Training Wing installation chaplain, prepares a sermon for the last Protestant service held Sunday at the base chapel. Hess said that the last Saturday 5 p.m. Catholic mass will be held May 31 and the last Sunday morning mass will be held June 22. Even though chapel services are terminating, the chapel staff is still available for spiritual counseling and guidance until September 30, as well as direction for other religious services in the Lubbock area.

30.

Until their respective departures, these chaplains are available for counseling and special ministry requests.

The base chapel will be closed after July 1.

From July 1 through September

30, Chaplain Diab will be conducting base visitation ministry and weekend worship services in various parishes throughout the Lubbock Catholic Diocese.

For information regarding worship in the local community, please call the base chapel at 885-3237.

Severe weather: know the warning sounds

Over the past few weeks, people in the Lubbock area have witnessed several severe thunderstorms. These dangerous weather systems brought high winds, large-sized hail and some tornadoes that created damage to homes and vehicles.

If a tornado threatens Reese Air Force Base, the Reese Command Post will sound a steady tone over the base emergency warning system.

The steady tone will continue until the tornado has passed through the base or no longer threatens the area. When this signal sounds, EVERY PERSON must seek shelter immediately. Personnel should not attempt to leave a building during the emergency.

Every facility on base has a designated tornado area located in a well-protected section of the building.

Knowing the location of the designated shelter is critical to survival.

In base housing, every family member needs to be trained on where to seek shelter inside the house.

Direct any questions regarding tornado or severe thunderstorm safety to disaster preparedness at 6696.

Medical care provisions set after July 1

Col. Monica Figun
64th Medical Group
commander

On July 1, access to medical and dental care will change for active duty members. Carefully review the following paragraphs to ensure understanding of the new health care delivery system.

□ Non-emergency Care: Unless it is an emergency (expected loss of life, eyesight, or acute pain), active duty members must contact the aid station technicians for all health care matters.

The aid station will be located in Bldg. 1145, Room 108; call during duty hours at extension 3545. (Bldg. 1145 is one of the bachelor officers quarters located adjacent to the existing medical facility. It is located at the intersection of K and 13th Streets west of the hospital. Room 108 is on the east side of the building.)

If acute/urgent care is required after duty hours, call the medical technician via pager at 885-3018, ext. 496. They will immediately return calls and direct all care.

□ Emergency Care: If emergency care is required, call 9-1-1 or proceed directly to University Medical Center. However, if one's condition renders one unable to choose University Medical Center, any emergency room will be acceptable. Upon arrival at the emergency room, it is important to identify oneself as an active duty member and contact a Reese medical technician as soon as possible.

□ Transportation: Ambulance service will be available for emergencies through the 64th Medical Group and Lubbock EMS. For non-emergency care, the prospective patient may call the base taxi (3123) for transportation to downtown medical facilities if private transportation is not available. Transportation will be available Monday through Friday from 5:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. At other times arrangements will need to be made with the aid station.

□ Pharmacy: Any of the pharmacies downtown can be used for prescription drugs, however one may be required to pay up front and be reimbursed at a later date.

For convenience, two civilian pharmacies, Eckerd Drugs at 34th and Slide, and Lubbock Diagnostic Clinic Pharmacy located at 3506 21st Street, will bill the 64th MDG directly; all that is necessary is to present the patient's active duty ID card.

Eckerd Drugs is a 24-hour pharmacy. They can be reached at 797-8840. The entrance to the pharmacy is located on the north side of 34th Street.

Lubbock Diagnostic Clinic Pharmacy is only open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Coming from Reese Air Force Base, it is suggested to take 19th Street to Indiana, then turn right on Indiana to 21st Street. The entrance to the pharmacy is located adjacent to the parking lot on the east side of Methodist Hospital. The pharmacist says that going through the entrance in the parking lot will place you in the pharmacy. They can be reached at 788-8080.

Jodi Taylor, supervisor for the TriCare Service Center at the 64th Medical Group, right, signs up Marlene Hewes for the new Primary Care Manager program, supporting the closure of the hospital July 1. The PCM will allow Hewes to go off base to a civilian physician for medical care after July 1.

Also effective July 1, dependents will not be seen on base. They must seek medical care via an off base physician. If enrolled in TriCare Prime, and their Primary Care Manager (PCM) is an on-base physician, dependents must come to the clinic by June 15 to select an off base PCM.

The 88-member staff at the 64th Medical Group is committed to providing access to quality health care.

If you have any questions or concerns, please call me at 3542 or 1st Lt. Bin Chao, TriCare director for Reese, at 6487.

Reese holds base-wide garage sale

Reese Air Force Base holds its second base-wide garage sale Saturday.

It is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the youth center parking lot.

Grand Forks airmen show service before self

GRAND FORKS AIR FORCE BASE, N.D. (AFNS) — Members of the 319th Air Refueling Wing showed their “One Team - One Fight” spirit once again, going above and beyond to help friends and neighbors whose homes and lives were severely impacted by the flood.

This impact was felt worldwide, particularly by those 319th ARW members currently deployed to Prince Sultan Air Base, Saudi Arabia.

Those deployed included members of the 905th and 906th Air Refueling Squadrons, 319th Aircraft Generation Squadron, 319th Maintenance Squadron, 319th Supply Squadron, 319th and 321st Security Police Squadrons and the 448th Missile Squadron.

With minimal facilities and tenuous communications capabilities, getting information to those affected by the flood was difficult.

The base immediately stepped up to the challenge when it became evident that deployed members whose homes had sustained severe damage and whose families had evacuated needed to return to Grand Forks.

Wing members not displaced by the flood volunteered to deploy on short

AAFES has all new pricing programs

Programs aimed at attracting young buyers

Staff Sgt. Rick Carter
Public affairs

This month, AAFES launches a major pricing strategy impacting the quality of life of Department of Defense service members and their families, returning millions of dollars in savings directly to them.

Recent surveys have indicated AAFES patrons believe prices are still not low enough and, while career military and retirees remain loyal, younger military shoppers are going where the bargains are. AAFES realizes it must lower prices to earn the patronage of the younger military members.

Last year, AAFES posted the highest per-capita dividend in recent history through effective cost-cutting measures, improved sales and unexpected revenue from the mandated assumption of commissary tobacco sales.

Now, with full support of its board of directors, AAFES will return part of its earnings directly to its customers by SUBSTANTIALLY lowering prices with two new programs - "OneHOTprice" and an expanded "Extra Value" program.

These programs offer savings to all customers with special emphasis on young families and junior enlisted personnel.

OneHOTprice offers most high-demand merchandise at a 40-60 percent savings with a minimum of 25 percent off regular sales prices. The Extra Value program offers merchandise at newer, significantly lower everyday prices.

"Reese patrons can expect to reap the benefits of these programs as prices flow through the system in spite of scheduled main store closure May 30," says Reese exchange manager Cathy Ely. "We will not be posting advertising packages in these final days, but new prices will be reflected in current merchandise."

64th SPS holds Police Week activities

The 64th Security Police Squadron plans several events and displays at the Base Exchange pavilion Saturday from 12 to 3 p.m. for Police Week.

Activities include child fingerprinting, security police vehicle displays and free Drug Abuse Resistance Education and crime prevention handouts.

K-9 dog demonstrations will be performed at 12, 1 and 2 p.m.

The 64th SPS also encourages anyone interested in learning about law enforcement duties to stop by Bldg. 500 anytime Saturday to sign up for a ride-along with a base law enforcement patrol.

Call Master Sgt. James Franks, 6196, for more information.

Base exchange sends reminder

The last business day for the Reese Main Exchange is May 30.

The Theater closes June 29.

The Service Station remains open until July 31.

The Shoppette remains open until Aug. 29.

For more information, call Cathy Ely, Reese Main Exchange store manager at 885-4581.

Recall notice on child's toy

"Solid wood hand-painted old time learning car...28 blocks - one side displays letter, other side displays picture with name."

The wooden toy car is painted red, yellow, green and blue. The car also comes with a 12-inch white pull cord. The glue holding the toy together deteriorates causing the hub caps, headlights and blocks to separate.

Young children could choke on or inhale the small pieces.

Parents are advised they should take the recalled toys away from children immediately and return them to the store where they were purchased.

ROCC seminar scheduled

The Reese Options Career Center offers a networking seminar June 4 from 12 to 1 p.m. Members are allowed to bring a lunch to the seminar. The seminar will be in the family support flight classroom, Bldg. 310. To sign up or for more information, call Kay Dyer at 3305.

Family support offers free tickets

The family support flight is offering FREE tickets to Country Fest '97 at the Texas Motor Speedway near Fort Worth, Texas. There is a $5 parking fee for the event. Call the family support flight, 3305, for information.

SBA women's seminar at Tech

Texas Tech University, College of Business Administration, Small Business Development Center and Caprock Business Finance Corp. is sponsoring the SBA Women's Loan Prequalification Program Seminar. The seminar is scheduled for Wednesday, 5:30-7 p.m., at the Small Business Development Center, 2579 S. Loop 289, Suite 210, Lubbock.

Kitchen fires started by inattentiveness

Pay attention to what is near the stove or oven

Michael Guzman
64th Civil Engineer Squadron
fire department

In just one minute, your kitchen could be involved in a fire.

How? In just one minute, the time it takes you to talk on the phone, answer the door or check the laundry, a fire can develop on the stove.

Why? Because, for just one minute, you left the stove unattended.

The kitchen contains just the right ingredients for a devastating fire to start. Thousands of fires are caused by unattended cooking and result in destruction and injury daily. Many, if not all of these fires could have been prevented if you had just stayed for one minute more.

The Reese Air Force Base fire department wants to help you reduce your risk of having a kitchen fire by offering some fire safety information.

Most cooking fires involve the ignition of grease. Whether it is cooking oils, lard, or melted fats from meat, grease is a combustible liquid which ignites easily and burns rapidly.

If grease should ignite in a pan on your stove, smother the fire by sliding the lid or a larger pan over the fire and turn off the burner. If a fire starts inside the oven, turn off the heat and leave the door closed to smother the flames.

Michael Guzman, fire safety inspector, left, shows Linda Jackson, 64th Civil Engineer Squadron, the proper techniques of extinguishing a grease fire on the stove in her home. Unattended stoves are the cause of many fires, especially when grease, lard or fat are being used for cooking.

Other methods include using baking soda (not baking powder or flour) or a portable fire extinguisher to put out the flames. If the fire appears to be too large to slide a lid on, or for the safe use of an extinguisher, leave the house immediately and call the fire department at 9-1-1.

With a grease fire, it is just as important to know how NOT to fight a fire as it is to extinguish one.

Unfortunately, the typical reaction to a grease fire is for the individual to carry the pan outside or to pour water on it. Both of these actions are wrong! Moving a burning pan spreads the fire and can cause serious burns.

NEVER use water or flour to extinguish a grease fire. Water only intensifies the fire and can cause the grease to splatter. Flour can result in an explosion. Deal with the fire where it starts, on the stove. Keep a lid, baking soda or an approved fire extinguisher close at hand.

Some cooking fires are the result of leaving combustible materials, like paper, towels, dishcloths and paper bags near the stove, oven or other hot cooking appliances. Fires also occur because of a grease buildup in stoves, ovens, broilers, exhaust fans or vents. To avoid these types of fires keep these areas clean and clear of grease or other combustible materials.

Avoid reaching over the stove or oven for anything. Store frequently needed items in other locations around the kitchen. Don't store cookies or candies near the stove; it only tempts young children to climb on the stove to retrieve them.

Keep all small children out of the kitchen area, especially while cooking is in progress. Keep pot handles turned inward, out of the reach of children, and where you can't bump them accidentally.

Keep appliance cords up on the counter out of children's reach. Check frequently for frayed or broken spots on the cords. Replace those damaged cords or appliances immediately.

The best way to prevent cooking fires is to NEVER leave the cooking area unattended.

Remember, grease can ignite quickly. A watched pot may not boil...but it is less likely to catch on fire.

Fitness center holds Sports Day May 30

May is National Fitness Month for the Department of Defense. Keeping in line with that theme, the Reese Air Force Base fitness center is holding a Sports Day May 30.

Events scheduled include a bench press challenge, 5-K family walk/run, 3-on-3 basketball, racquetball, bowling, golf and volleyball. There will be a special parent vs. child/first sergeant vs. commander obstacle course.

Winners in each of the events will receive awards at a 4 p.m. ceremony held at the youth center.

The fitness center requests signups by May 28 to ensure good clean fun and competition in each of the categories. The schedule of events, their locations, points of contact and telephone numbers are listed in the boxed-in area below.

For the month of May, participation in aerobic exercise could win you an opportunity to win a Stairmaster home exerciser or a weekend getaway. Contact the fitness center at 6021 to register or for information about Sports Day.
