All Around
The Town

BY MARY ANN SARCHET

With the rains that have been falling on Silverton daily, a tremendous mosquito problem has erupted.

The City has begun spraying for mosquitoes twice daily, but local residents are being asked to help by spraying their own yards with malathion or whatever they customarily use to fight insect pests. If you have standing water that you can't dump, you might want to consider using a larvacide.

June 20 will be a big day in Silverton!

L. O. A. Junior Study Club is planning an addition to the county's year-long centennial celebration, and this is to be held on the lawn of the courthouse.

There will be a branding party, and residents are asked to bring their family's branding irons to take part in this event. A permanent wall bearing the brands is to be displayed during the centennial celebration.

There will be a chili cook-off, a pie baking contest and dancing under the stars.

Don't miss it!

John Francis is trying to get a handle on how many entries there will be in the Briscoe County Centennial Parade on August 15 in Silverton.

If your group or family is planning to have a float, let him know. And if your family is one of the pioneer ones, and you haven't planned a float, please begin to do this now.

August really isn't far away, and it will be here sooner than we think.

We commend the efforts of the citizens who have been working so hard to clean up the area at Seventh and Main Street in Silverton. This has been a good centennial project, one that couldn't have been accomplished without a lot of hard work!

Looking good, guys!

Jerry Patton (right) is one of those taking orders for smoked briskets to be sold by the Silverton Centennial Homecoming Association. The briskets will be cooked under the direction of Calvin Shelton (left) on Saturday, June 20. This is being done to make some money for this year's homecoming, so the committee can make it an extra special event of the centennial. The briskets need to be ordered now, so the proper number can be purchased.

This award is something new that has been added to the musical, and the winner is chosen by those who attend the Jamboree. Voting is done by putting the door prize ticket stubs in one of the six cans with the bands' names on them as they leave.

As usual the local residents and businesses donated delicious and lovely door prizes that ranged from cakes, and handmade crafts to gift certificates. Appreciation has been expressed to everyone who donated these items.

Chili Cookoff is Centennial Event

There will be a chili cookoff, sponsored by L. O. A. Junior Study Club, on the lawn of the Briscoe County Courthouse beginning at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, June 20.

Residents are asked to make a pot of chili and bring it to the courthouse for judging and for everyone to taste.

It is hoped that this will be a fun-filled night everyone will enjoy.

In conjunction with the chili cookoff, there will be a branding party and a pie baking contest. Be sure to mark your calendar so that you will be sure to be there at 7:00 p.m.

Families Needed to Enter Floats in the Centennial Parade

John Francis is seeking descendants of pioneer families who will enter floats in the centennial parade in August. He would like to know now if you will do this.

"Are outsiders going to put on our 100-year parade for us?" Francis asked early this week. "We need to know soon the intentions of families, civic clubs and organizations in regard to taking part in the parade. As of now, there are more out-of-county people who have notified me of their intentions than county people. Let's don't rely on someone else to do our thing!"

If your family has been here 100 years, you are urged to prepare a float for the parade. Even if your family hasn't been here 100 years, you are encouraged to consider making an entry.

Francis added, "Briscoe County ought to be swelling with pride and ready to go to celebrate this 100th birthday. Please let me know your intentions now."

Commodities to be Given Away June 18

Funeral services for Mamie Holt, 85, were conducted at 2:00 p.m. Sunday at the Garland Street Church of Christ in Plainview. Burial was in the Silvertown Cemetery by Freeman Funeral Home of Hale Center.

Mrs. Holt died Thursday, June 4.

Born in Ellis County, she moved to Silvertown in 1914. She married Edgar Holt in 1925 at Plainview. He died in 1987. She was a member of Garland Street Church of Christ. She had worked for Talon Zippers in Dallas 10 years. She moved to Plainview in 1985 from Graham.

Survivors include a son, Neil Holt of Lewisburg, Tennessee; three daughters, Louise McDaniel of Hale Center, Jan Young of Midlothian and Pat Watson of Grand Prairie; a brother, Joe Mercer of Silvertown; three sisters, Mary Dee Minyard of Silvertown, Faye McCartie of Graham and Ruth Smith of Pineville, Missouri; nine grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

ALTHEA LOUISE HUTCHISON

Funeral services for Althea Louise Hutchison, 77, were conducted at 10:00 a.m. Tuesday at Brooks Funeral Directors' Chapel with the Rev. Richard Bales, pastor of First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in Dreamland Cemetery at Canyon.

Mrs. Hutchison died Sunday in Amarillo.

A retired school teacher who taught in Silvertown, Hereford and Dimmitt, she married John Mackoy Hutchison in 1940 in Canyon. He died in 1988. She was a member of First United Methodist Church. She had made her home in Canyon since the death of her husband.

Survivors include three nieces, Jo Ann Bryant of Las Vegas, Nevada, Corliss Smith and Betty Brown, both of Bakersfield, California; and three nephews, Don Brown of Silvertown, Carrol Brown of Lorena and Roy Thomas of Bakersfield.

The family requested memorials be to the First United Methodist Church.

Turnout Good For Last Blood Drive

Thirty Silvertown-area residents turned out to support the latest blood drive conducted here. Lou Younger, chairman of the blood drives, has asked that her appreciation be expressed to the City Hall employees and others who assisted with the drive.

Bobby Thomas, donor resources manager for Coffee Memorial Blood Center, said, "Please accept our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation for your continued commitment to this much-needed 'campaign for life' — we always enjoy coming to Silvertown and are grateful for the kindness and courtesy extended to each member of our staff.

"'Good things come to them that love the Lord,'" he quoted. "That's a saying my mom has had all her life. Good things also come to nice people, like yourselves, who unselfishly give a special part of yourselves so others in need may have one more chance at tomorrow—a chance that may not have been possible without one of the 30 donations received during your most recent blood drive," Thomas concluded.

Briscoe County: Picture of Perfection

The sky is alight and glowing behind the exotic scenery of the caprock canyons. Colors of navy, purple, rose and gold take us back to the same beautiful sunset that warmed the hearts of the Indians, who once roamed Briscoe County.

Briscoe County creates a picture of both the present and past to all generations who knew and loved it, and it remains that same picture to those who know and love it now. It is a picture etched in gold, and framed, with love.

It's a picture of labor, where people work hard and take care of the ones they love. A picture of green trees, tractors, and freshly tilled soil, and one of remarkable strength, with hidden pain written in lines of worry. It's a place where cattle roam freely, with the extent of barbed wire and electric fences. It shows the dedication and triumph, along with the signs of our ancestors carved in the heart of it.

The canyons represent both the old and new. It started out with the Indians riding across the canyons in search of buffalo for food. Today our own people ride across it on the exact same trails, enjoying its beauty and simplicity.

Briscoe County is not part of a major city, its small towns joined together to create a community enjoyed by all, a place of serenity where nature has its place, and it's usually right along beside us, helping us, teaching us, and becoming a part of us. With its grazing cattle and its flourishing fields, it is known by those who live here as the "Heart of Texas" and "Home Sweet Home."

Ancestors were buried here. They hunted buffalo out on the range, and hid out in the canyons, where their spirits still linger today.

A Voice From the Country

Earl Cantwell
Gems & Allegorys

It looks as if Mr. Barnum was right. This world has an endless supply of people who think they can get something for nothing. A TV reporter shoved a microphone into the face of a L.A. looter lugging a television set out of a ravaged store. He asked the thief, "Why are you doing this?" Rallying all 38 of his I. Q. points, the thief panned a silly grin at the camera and made Bubba look bright by blustering, "Man, it's free." . . . Something for nothing. Lots of us feel the lure. And not just in L. A. . . .

Here in Texas we're just embarking on a love affair with the lottery. Those of us that feed and house lots of poor people are getting ready to feed and house a lot more. In New Jersey in 1991, over a third of the families with less than ten thousand dollars a year income spent a fifth of their money on lottery tickets . . . Last year in Maryland people who earned ten thousand dollars a year bought more lottery tickets than any other group.

Lots of poor folks plan (hope) to become rich by getting something for nothing.

In this election year, politicians shamelessly appeal to the ignorant, carnal greed in us with their bald-faced Robin Hood schemes. "Elect me," the demagogues promise, "and we'll take dollars from the rich and give them to the poor."

Since Jesus was right when He said, "The poor you have with you always," and since poor people always seem to outnumber rich ones, this political lie is a statistical winner . . . What the politicians are promising is nothing more than a violation of half the ten commandments while we are casting a single vote.

"Six days shall you labor," the stone tables require. "Ye shall not steal." "Ye shall not covet your neighbor's house or his ox or his donkey or anything that belongs to your neighbor." But the politicians woo the non-workers in the land. "Vote for me and I'll give you your neighbor's wealth."

The same offer which attracts hordes of L. A. looters will likely draw many of us to the ballot box. As Ed McMahon knows, it's hard for us to resist something for nothing. (Gene Shelburne)

Hymn of marriage . . . Is there anything more beautiful in life than a boy and girl clasping clean hands with pure hearts in the path of marriage? The answer has been given. Yes . . . there is a more beautiful thing. It is the spectacle of an old man and an old woman finishing that journey together on that path. Their hands are gnarled, but still clasped. Their faces are seamed and wrinkled, but still radiant. Their hearts are tired and bowed down, but still strong and filled with love. They have proved the happiness of marriage and have vindicated it from the jeers of cynics.

Our voluntary thoughts not only reveal what we are; they predict what we will become . . . The smallest deed is better than the grandest intention.

Attend Beefmaster Forage Field Day

O. C. and Faye Rampley attended the sixth annual "Beef on Forage" bull test sponsored by Central Texas Beefmaster Breeders on Friday and Saturday, June 5-6, at the Clifton Marek Ranch near Lexington, Texas.

On display for inspection were 130 forage tested bulls, tested under the guidelines of the Texas Forage and Grassland Council Bull Development Program. Complete performance evaluation, including adjusted 205 day w.w., 140 day forage test gain, yearling weights, weight per day of age and ratios, was provided.

Featured speakers were Dr. Neal Pratt, Texas A&M University Extension Forage Specialist, and Lawrence Lasater, founder of I. S. A. Cattle Company, Inc. and New Beef, Inc., San Angelo. Lasater is the son of Tom Lasater of Matheson, developer of the Beefmaster breed of cattle. Foundation Beefmaster Association President Bev Sparrowk and Executive Secretary Mary Wilkinson also addressed the group.

The public was invited and a free barbecue lunch was served to all in attendance. Several door prizes, including two $500 gift certificates, were awarded.

The Rampleys traveled on to College Station to spend Saturday night with Oualline Williams, and attended Sunday morning worship services at A&M Church of Christ before returning home.

4-H Has Something For Everyone!

4-H is not just cooking, sewing and showing. It is anything that you want it to be. These projects mentioned are some of our traditional projects, however, we have many others.

The mission of 4-H is to offer participants the opportunity to acquire knowledge, develop life skills and form attitudes which will enable them to become self-directing, productive and contributing members of society. If we could instill the importance of these ideas into all of our youth, the problems today's youth are now facing would be greatly reduced.

Participation in 4-H projects allows youth to acquire knowledge about the specific project they are participating in. Through their participation they develop a positive self-concept, learn to respect and to get along with others, develop leadership skills and learn about practicing good citizenship.

Leadership and citizenship are two of the most important parts of the 4-H projects. Leadership skills are developed during projects while the 4-

H'er assists and teaches others. It takes time to develop leadership skills. Without leadership, we have no where to go and no one to follow. Everyone has the ability to be a leader; the trait just needs to be further developed in some of us. Through citizenship and community service activities, 4-H'ers learn about giving and doing for others who are less fortunate. They also learn the importance of contributing to society and how beneficial and necessary it is for all of us.

There are only two things you need to start a 4-H project. They are an idea for the project and a youth who is interested in learning. If you are interested in joining 4-H or in becoming a leader, come by the Extension Office or call us at 823-2131. 4-H is open to any youth age nine or in the third grade, through age nineteen. Educational programs sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Recycling Strategies

Although we still burn our garbage in Silverton and out in the country, we still contribute to landfills because all things do not burn. Developing some recycling strategies for aluminum and glass products would keep those trash barrels from filling up so quickly, put some money in your pocket, and save energy.

If you would like to start your own recycling campaign, consider these techniques:

★ Identify Recycling Centers in your area. Check in the classified directory under recycling, aluminum, resource recovery or scrap metals. Determine rates, hours and procedures for cashing in cans and glass at each center you contact.

★ Ask the recycling center whether they offer any assistance to groups recycling as a fund-raising project. Aluminum companies and beverage distributors may be willing to help. Useful resources such as posters, bumper stickers, flyers and films can be yours for the asking.

★ Recruit Businesses and individuals to provide space for drop-off containers.

★ Have special days during each month for your group to pick up materials curbside.

★ Use the newspaper and letters to promote your program. Where permitted display posters.

★ Wait until you have a large quantity of aluminum or glass to return so you don't waste time and gas.

Recycling will not necessarily make an individual or group rich; yet it is a community service that pays in more ways than one. So consider recycling.

If you have questions about waste management, call the Briscoe County Extension office at 823-2131.

In Memory of Grandad

A Tribute to Richard M. Williams

As a child, you were my hero.

You were the circus, the rodeo, and the tour guide into a world of adventure.

You were the comedian and the master magician, mysteriously producing a dollar bill for each of us at the end of every visit under the strict instructions to "buy something special."

You were shiny cowboy boots, sweet cologne, ice cream and bear hugs.

You were Saturday morning chocolate doughnuts (cereal wasn't good enough for your grandchildren), good stories, gentle hands and steadfast security.

You were larger than life to the small girl who watched you in awe from the church pew as you spoke simply, but elegantly, and quoted memorized scripture.

I was jealous when the other little girls at church called you "Grandad", and I was proud that you belonged to me. You were my hero, and I wanted to be just like you.

As I grew older, your hero status grew in proportion. Nannie told me that after you were converted at a gospel meeting, you decided to leave a financially rewarding career in the gravel business in order to return to school and become a full-time gospel preacher.

The rest of your life would be spent in planting churches and reaping souls through pulpit ministry, Bible studies and gospel meetings held in homes and buildings from Texas to Idaho, from Nebraska to Kansas; if I didn't understand the full extent of your mission then, I did know your purpose in this life was in preparation for another life.

And I admired you for your integrity, for your compassion, for your dedication, and for your enthusiasm. When I spoke to my graduating class, I borrowed words from a set of your old sermon notes. It was YOU who urged my classmates to dedicate themselves to loving others and serving them.

You knew the results of that lifestyle because those things had been the focus of your own life.

I considered the sacrifices that would be required to live like that; I considered the cost of being just like you.

These last few years were not easy for you. Failing eyesight and deteriorating health led to retirement and isolation. You weren't able to travel as much or communicate as well. Your disease kept you away from people, which was especially difficult for a man who LOVED PEOPLE, loved teaching them, loved bringing to them a message of hope and salvation.

But although you were outwardly deteriorating, your inward spirit was never altered. And although there were many difficult days, I never heard you complain or express self-pity. You faced the uncertain road ahead of you with the courage of a giant and the faith of a child. You re-affirmed my belief in the power of prayer. And you still displayed a beautiful smile and continued to be an encouragement and an inspiration to your family.

The wealth of cards and phone calls and visits from people whose lives you touched testified to the quality and the significance of your life, testified to the extent that you were loved.

You are still my hero, Grandad; not for the childhood fun and adventure you provided, but because there are very few people you will meet in life in whose face you will glimpse the face of Jesus, in whose actions His love will be reflected.

You were one of those people; and I thank you for not only being a "Grand"-dad but for sharing with all of us the greatest heritage of all: the heritage of love. We will remember that your last words to us were "I love you." And after all your travels on this earth, you have finally traveled home, where God has been awaiting your arrival with open arms.

Thank you for being a hero, an example, a man of God.

You will be missed: but we will see you again someday. Until then, I will keep trying to be just like you.

With love,
Jana Wall, a granddaughter

FAVORITE SCRIPTURE

One of R. M. Williams' favorite scriptures was Mark 16:15, "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature."

To honor his work in fulfilling this commandment, the family is establishing the Richard Williams Scholarship. Memorials may be sent to the A&M Church of Christ, 1001 F. M. 2818 East, College Station, TX 77840. A scholarship will be awarded annually to someone preparing to preach the gospel. Be sure to designate "Richard Williams Memorial Fund" and an appropriate card will be mailed to Oualline and family to acknowledge your gift.

Pest Control Expert Says Tiny Fleas Can Be Major Problem

Fleas can be a major threat this time of year, according to Lee Van Sant, manager of the Amarillo Service Center of Terminix International.

"For the past week or so, our office has been flooded with telephone calls from homeowners concerned about flea infestation," says Van Sant.

It is not a concern Van Sant takes lightly. She says, "Fleas can infest any home. They can bite a child, live on a pet, make you sick and transmit tapeworm to your dog. Many people are allergic to flea bites, and almost everyone experiences severe itching and painful irritation when bitten."

According to Van Sant, adult fleas feed on blood. They usually attack your cat or dog, but they also will bite any member of your family. They are one of the hardest pests to control.

"Fleas are survivors. They can survive months without food, and they can remain frozen for a year and then revive to jump on a dog or a child," says Van Sant. "Fleas have been around for millions of years, and they breed at an astonishing rate. They can jump 150 times their own length, which is equivalent to a human jumping nearly 1,000 feet."

Van Sant says adult fleas can live in your home, on your pet, and outside in your yard or kennel. Flea larvae can live in your pet's bed, in carpets and rugs, or in cracks in the floor. Once you get fleas, they are extremely hard to get rid of. Fleas keep coming back. They hatch from eggs already laid and they are brought back into the house on pets.

Van Sant says there are several things homeowners can do to help control fleas.

1. Follow your veterinarian's advice about bathing your pet with "flea" soap.
2. Wash all pet bedding in hot soapy water on a regular basis.
3. Thoroughly vacuum your home to remove flea eggs, larvae, and potential food sources.
4. Pay particular attention to cracks and crevices, under furniture, and underneath sofa cushions, especially in areas frequented by the pet.
5. Discard vacuum cleaner bag or sweepings in an outside container immediately.

Controlling fleas is a tough job that may require the services of a professional pest control company, and sometimes even they may have difficulty getting rid of all the fleas with one treatment.

If you do seek professional help, Van Sant recommends that you follow these simple guidelines when choosing a pest control company.

1. Be sure the company you contact is reputable and reliable. (If you have doubts, call the Better Business Bureau.)
2. Many firms offer free inspections.

Jerry Miller and Steve Miller are pictured with the 1 1/4-ton 4-wheel drive pickup given to the Silverton Volunteer Fire Department recently. The fire department put the lights and tank with pump on it, preparing the unit to be used for fighting grass fires. The Miller brothers painted the rig and added the finishing touches.

Ask about this service when you call.

3. Get more than one estimate and compare services.
4. Make sure the pest control company you choose guarantees their work.

Basketball Camps Set At Wayland University

Wayland's Pioneer All-Star Summer Boys Basketball Camp dates will include (first session) July 12-17, followed by a second week July 19-24. Boys between the ages of eight and 18 are eligible to participate.

Personal attention and instruction and the opportunity to learn from several of the area's top coaches and members of the Pioneer basketball team make the Wayland camp a popular summer attraction. Coach Rick Cooper, completing his fifth year as head coach of the Wayland men, has taken the Pioneers to three NAIA National Tournament appearances during that time.

Purpose of the camp is to emphasize the game of basketball and to challenge each boy regardless of present ability. Stress will be placed on improving each individual's fundamentals—shooting, dribbling, passing, rebounding, footwork and defense.

Campers will participate in league play culminating with championship games. Daily medal awards are presented to winners of special drills and competition, with special awards presented at the close of each camp.

A special feature of the All-Star Summer Boys Basketball Camp is the Friday morning clinic session. All parents, coaches, and friends of camp enrollees are invited to see the drills and activities demonstrated and explained by the camp staff. The camp ends at 1:00 p.m. each Friday after the awards luncheon.

Each camper will be housed in a modern, air-conditioned residence hall, with meals provided in the McClung University Center Dining Hall. Campers also receive a personalized T-shirt, a Pioneer basketball, and a group and individual photograph in an attractive matte.

Reservations will be accepted as they are received. Registration will be held in McClung University Center from 3:00 until 5:00 p.m. on the opening Sunday of each session.

Cost of the camp is $215 per session, and an $85 deposit must accompany the application. The balance is due at Registration. No refunds will be granted after June 1.

For a camp brochure or additional information, call the Wayland Athletic Office at 806-296-4739, or write Wayland All-Star Summer Boys Basketball Camp, 1900 W. 7th Street, WBU Box 261, Plainview, Texas 79072.

Social Security in Briscoe County

by Mary Jane Shanes

Many immigrants living and working in the United States know little about Social Security. They may wonder if the taxes they are paying will provide anything for them and their families.

According to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers optimistic prospects for the 1992 crop have simply been washed away. A series of weather systems have dropped from as little as four inches of rain on some northern counties to as much as fourteen inches in some southern areas.

The rains also brought unseasonably cool temperatures. Nighttime lows in some northern areas dropped to 38 degrees.

PCG officials say there is no way to predict accurately how much cotton has been lost in the past three weeks. Preliminary estimates put losses across the High Plains in the neighborhood of one million acres. Some of the heaviest losses are being reported in the highest producing counties in the area.

Estimates of how much cotton was affected by the recent weather indicate that approximately 2.1 million acres was in the ground. As much as half or more of those acres eventually may be lost.

Estimates are changing daily as producers get back in the fields to assess the damage. PCG officials note that by the middle of next week area producers will have decided whether or not it is feasible to replant the lost cotton or if they will plant an alternative crop.

"Northern portions of the High Plains will see a significant reduction in their cotton acreage," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "Southern areas likely will replant most of the cotton lost to the excessive rains and cool temperatures that settled in the area since they have an extra five to ten days to get the crop through to harvest."

Johnson adds that some producers simply won't take a chance on June cotton having enough time to mature. He says many will not be able to get back in the field before the end of this week.

Final production numbers for the 1991 crop show that the 25-county area produced 2,327,700 bales with an average yield of 382 pounds per acre. The production numbers were compiled by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service. TASS figures also show that the area harvested 2,922,900 of 3,481,900 planted acres. Average production dropped from 1990's 510.4 pounds per acre to a mere 382 pounds. The High Plains production drop reflects a combination of late planting, heavy insect pressure, a mid-season cold spell that temporarily slowed plant growth, and a hard freeze that stopped the crop in its tracks on October 30.

Abandonment figures indicate that 17 percent of the area's planted acres were lost prior to harvest or were not harvested.

In Briscoe County, 37,400 acres were harvested of the 42,100 acres that were planted in cotton. The average yield per harvested acre amounted to 323 pounds, and the number of 480# net weight bales was 25,200.

The answer is yes!

Social Security eligibility rules are the same for citizens and non-citizens. In addition to earning credits toward retirement benefits, immigrants who work in jobs where they pay Social Security taxes are eligible for disability benefits, and their families may be entitled to survivor benefits when they die.

Some immigrants may plan to return to their homeland one day. Those who become U. S. citizens may have their Social Security benefits sent to most foreign countries.

Those who are not U. S. citizens can receive benefits outside the United States, but only in certain circumstances.

The Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program is another federal program managed by the Social Security Administration. SSI pays monthly cash benefits to people age 65 or older and to people with disabilities. To qualify for SSI, a person must have limited income and resources. Immigrants may be eligible for SSI if they have been lawfully admitted for permanent residence, or if the Immigration and Naturalization Service is permitting them to remain in the United States indefinitely. Special provisions apply for sponsored aliens and for immigrants who are granted asylum or who are refugees.

Anyone working in the U. S. needs to have a Social Security number. When an immigrant applies for a number, he or she needs to show a birth certificate or passport and Immigration and Naturalization Service documents, such as a "green card." The Internal Revenue Service requires that tax returns include a Social Security number for all dependents age one or older.

Anyone who wants more information about the Social Security programs, who thinks he or she may be eligible for SSI, or who needs a Social Security number, should call or visit the local Social Security office. Or call Social Security's national toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213.

FREEDOM WILL PREVAIL AS LONG AS OUR FLAG CAN FLY

When looking upward to the sky
We still can see our banner fly,
And fill us all with confidence,
Because of what it represents:
The freedom which we have enjoyed,
That no aggressor has destroyed.
It signifies our sacrifice
And willingness to pay the price,
That all throughout our history
Combined to keep our nation free.
Since laws of God have set the tone
Of those adapted for our own,
Through faith our flag has come to be
The symbol of our liberty;
So let's resolve to take a stand,
And keep it waving in our land.
- Gloria Nowak

The things that the flag stands for were created by the experiences of a great people.
- Woodrow Wilson

"Thou hast given a banner...that it may be displayed because of the truth."
