FIFTIETH YEAR

LIQUOR VIOLATIONS ENGAGE ATTENTION DISTRICT OFFICERS

April Term of Court Devoid of Sensational Cases In Comparison With Past

Bruce Being Tried

The violation of the liquor laws is the main, engaging officials of the 30th district court here this week with the cases of Hunter Bruce, south county farmer, now being heard.

Bruce, who was arrested last week in four counts of liquor sales and one of possession, was brought to trial Wednesday afternoon on one count and the case handed to the jury late that day, but up to this morning no decision had been reached and the jury was still out.

The accused farmer went to trial again Thursday morning on another indictment.

Sheriff Giles Kemp, chief deputy Sheriff Clifton and Al Cousins, Haskell police chief, arrested Bruce on the liquor sales indictments, and, he officers claim, were given permission by the county farmer to search his place.

Results were nil until Clifton spotted a bush with a cactus growing underneath it. Saying that he had never seen anything like that before, he chief deputy investigated. Kicked the grass and weeds which were grown around the cactus, Clifton saw that a hole had been dug underneath the plant and housed four 1/2-gallon jars of liquor.

Sheriff Kemp found a 12-gallon barrel, with about three gallons of whiskey in it, ingeniously hidden beneath a thick layer of brush.

The case of John (Cotton) Zahn, farmer, was delayed through the illness of the defendant.

George Proctor, former manager of the Black & White beer garden at Stamford, will probably go to jail here next week on the two remaining liquor counts against him, court officials say.

Proctor, who was arrested last February, has been in jail here since. He plead guilty to a liquor charge recently and was given one year.

Jefferson Powell, negro, charged with rape of a negro woman, is asked for trial this week.

The case of W. R. Mitchell, accused of assault to murder, has been continued until the next term of court.

Site of Drunken Prisoner Causes Officers Death

Rites for Joe V. Graham, Fort Worth radio patrolman, and brother Matt N. Graham, Haskell county superintendent of schools, were held Saturday in the Tarrant county jail. Death of the policeman was caused by blood poisoning, which was contracted when a drunken prisoner bit the officers right middle finger.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church. Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Graham, Eastland; two brothers, Matt N. Graham, this city, and W. H. Graham, Grand Prairie; four sisters, Mrs. Raymond G. Garner, Ark.; Mrs. B. W. Tris, Stamford; Mrs. Cecil Smith, Tarrant, Texas; and Mrs. Mack Matt Eastland. Mr. Graham was a cousin of Mrs. Dave Persons Haskell.

It seemed a trivial thing at the time—the bite of a drunken prisoner—according to an account of the incident in the Fort Worth Press. Small thing to produce death, officers said. But physicians are known for days that the officer was fighting a battle without a chance to win, and the stricken man's courage was praised.

It happened on March 27—Joe Graham's day off, so the Fort Worth story related. He was returning to his home from town when the car struck him. The officer started the reeling driver. The 30-year-old man grabbed Mr. Graham's hand.

Mr. Graham, who had suffered a sudden injury in the crash, waited days to return to work. He was as usual on the 3-to-11 p. m. shift, on March 31, April 1 and 2. In his hand began swelling and remained at home.

On April 11, he was hurried to hospital for amputation of the injured finger. He seemed for a while to be well on the way to recovery.

Then suddenly his fever shot up. His hand puffed. The feared infection of the blood had set in. Physicians announced that his condition was critical. They had a many succumb to the malady. From a recovery.

Three days ago physicians ordered Graham placed under an oxygen tent. It was merely to conserve his vitality, to make breathing easier. The gesture gave no hope. He was delicious at times. Other-

BREEZY WIND FROM NORTH BRINGS RAIN TO PARCHED FIELDS

Ground in Haskell County Is Soaked by Almost Three Inch Rain Wednesday

Heaviest In Years

Small creeks and tanks in Haskell county were bank full Wednesday following a rainfall totaling almost three inches. The several hour downpour was the heaviest here in years, according to observers.

Crop prospects for Haskell county have become the best in years, with grain yields practically assured. However, grain crops in the northern and eastern sections of the county are in much better condition, farmers say, on account of previous rains which the other sections failed to receive.

About 50 per cent of the cotton acreage in the county has been planted.

Late gardens received much needed moisture.

Press reports state that an abundant rainfall fell throughout West Texas.

OLD TAX-EXEMPTION CERTIFICATES VOID

Producers Holding Certificates Should Return Them To Office in Haskell

Producers holding 1934 surplus Tax-Exemption Certificates, which were not pooled, may turn them in at the County Agent's office, to be re-issued for 1935-36, I. L. Sturdivant, special cotton agent, said Wednesday. It is very necessary that these Certificates be re-issued for this year, because the winners will not authorize the old 1934 Certificates in exchange for new tags.

There has been no official date set to bring them to the County Agent's office, Sturdivant also said but urges that you get them in by the 28th of May, as the closing date may come before they are all in, therefore the old Certificates will not be authorized.

It is also urged by the local agent that each producer bring his Certificates in person as he will have to receipt for them.

Drastic Change Is Made In Interscholastic Regulations

AUSTIN, Texas.—A significant change has been made in the rules of the Interscholastic League, following the recommendation of the State meeting of delegates. The State executive committee has adopted the 18-year old age-rule to become effective September 1, 1936, in all contests, athletic, literary, artistic and commercial. This rule will render obsolete several rules which have cluttered up the rule-book for several years, it was pointed out by Roy Bedichek, chief of the Bureau of Public School Interests at the University of Texas.

"It will do more than any other half dozen rules to guarantee to bona fide high school students the privilege of engaging in the League's program of educational competitions," Mr. Bedichek said. "It definitely places the Texas organization far in the lead of other organizations of similar kind in other states. With the exception of New York, where a 19-year old rule is in effect, all other states permit participation until 20 or 21, irrespective of the fact that the average age of graduation is around 17 years."

On recommendation of the recent State meeting of delegates, the executive committee directed the appointment of a committee to work out a statewide conference of student self-government organizations under the sponsorship of the League, a proposal which has been under consideration for several years. Another action of the State meeting, recommending an addition of one individual to girls' tennis doubles teams and one alternate to girls' singles entries, was adopted. The recommendation made by the State meeting of delegates to include junior tennis in county meets, was adopted by the executive committee, effective for the 1935-36 school year. Junior declaimers were advanced to regional competition by action of the State committee, also made effective for the next school year.

Methodist Missionary Society

On Monday May 13th the Woman's Missionary Society met with Mrs. Ethel Irby as director, and enjoyed a splendid program.

The call to worship was made by the reading in concert of an appropriate poem. As a prelude to the program, Mrs. O. E. Patterson rendered a divinely inspirational organ concert using a group of old Methodist Missionary Hymns.

As the opening song all joined in singing, "Come, O Thou Victorious King" from the old Methodist Hymnal. This was sung to common meter. Mrs. Sowell offered a prayer. As the Scripture reading the director used Genesis 12th chapter and first four verses and a portion of the 11th chapter of Hebrews. The director gave an interesting introduction to the program, the theme of which was "Treking On Toward the Far West." Mrs. E. Martin told of the life and work of William Taylor, whose first Missionary Work was among the seekers for gold in the great California gold rush of 1849. He was sent later to the foreign field.

Mrs. Wilson told of the trials experienced by Jason Lee, who by being sent in the year 1833, as a Missionary to the Indians in the Oregon country, came to be known as the "Father of Methodism in the Northwest." Mrs. Breedlove gave a graphic account of the lives and work of Learner Steteler and wife, who were also pioneer Missionaries to the newly settled Territory of Oregon, which at that time was composed of what is now the states of Washington, Idaho and Oregon. Mrs. Irby read the poem entitled "A Highway Shall Be There." Mrs. H. M. Smith gave the prayer of dismissal, which was concluded by the reciting in unison of the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. C. L. Lewis will be director for the program on next Monday. This program promises to be very interesting.

Hutto H. D. Club News

"I sprayed my garden plants with a solution of Black Leaf 40 and got rid of the insects that were killing it," said Mrs. D. K. Lynch, at the meeting of the Hutto Home Demonstration Club, at the home of Mrs. Ida Dozier Friday May 10th, when the question arose, "What can I do for insects that are killing my garden?"

Mrs. Lynch further said that it was safe to use the solution, that there wasn't any danger of getting poisoned, as the solution all washes off as you wash the vegetables, and said "I have used it in previous years and always find it successful in fighting garden insects."

Mrs. Lucy Day gave a reading on organization.

Miss Peggy Taylor, the Home Demonstration Agent, gave a demonstration on filing recipes, and the correct way of setting table and of serving. She said that we need not file many recipes, but should file those that are tested. She exhibited a filing cabinet, but said that we might use a tin cigar box and corresponding cards, or cards cut from filing cabinet, enameled the box to harmonize with the kitchen color scheme.

"Correct table service should be an everyday practice," she said, "with a well balanced meal of a few dishes, and not several dishes of one kind of food to serve the whims of each member of the family." Let them know that you are the cook and all food is good to eat, and they should eat what is before them.

Parts have been assigned and practice will begin Monday night for the play, "Clubbing a Husband." Two new members were added, Mrs. Mike Howell and Mrs. C. B. Casey.

The club adjourned to meet with Miss Maude Newberry Friday May 24th.

Refreshments of chicken sandwiches, salad, grape punch and cake was served the following members: Mesdames Ennis Carter, Ida Dozier, Mike Howell, D. B. Cummings, R. M. Savage, C. A. Savage, J. W. Herndon, J. T. Casey, Tommie Casey, Lester Teague, Lucy Day & S. Dozier, B. H. Oliver, C. B. Casey, G. F. Williams, Ross Oliver, and Miss Maude Newberry and the agent, Miss Peggy Taylor and two visitors, Misses Lucille Casey and Vera Mae Herndon.

This map does not pretend to locate the SOURCES of farm products, except in a general way.

"I foresee the time when industry shall no longer denude the forests which require generations to mature, nor use up the mines which were ages in making but shall draw its raw material largely from the annual produce of the fields... I am convinced that we shall be able to get out of yearly crops most of the basic materials which we now get from forest and mine."

Henry Ford

THE map above tells only part of the story—the little-known story of the inter-relation of the Ford V-8 car and the farm.

The figures in the map are based on what will be used this year if the Ford Motor Company reaches its intended production of 1,000,000 cars and trucks.

WOOL goes into upholstery, floor coverings, lubricants and anti-rust preparations.

LEATHER goes into upholstery—and in addition, glues are made from cow hide, and from cow's milk... Other parts of cattle, through other processes, yield stearic acid, greases, glycerine (for shock absorbers and body enamel) and soap chips (used in washing machined parts and bodies before painting).

HOGS furnish lard oil, oleic acid and brush bristles.

GOAT'S HAIR (Mohair) goes into upholstery.

BEEWAX goes into electrical imbedding compounds.

COTTON goes into tires, batting, cloth, battery box, timing gears, brake linings and, not least important, into Safety Glass. (Every Ford V-8 car built this year will have Safety Glass in every window, at no extra cost to the car buyer... Cotton, in the form of cellulose acetate, is the central part between the two sheets of glass that make up every finished sheet of Safety Glass.)

CORN yields butyl alcohol (for enamel finishes and other purposes) and starch (for stiffening cotton linings).

LINSEED OIL is the basis for paint—is used in foundry cores—and is one of the ingredients of the beautiful, synthetic baked enamel finish on a Ford V-8.

SUGAR CANE yields molasses for solvents, anti-freeze and shock absorber fluids.

CASTOR OIL goes into lacquers and artificial leather suitable for rumble seats, where real leather would be damaged by exposure to the weather.

TUNG OIL is part of the top material used in Ford cars and is also used in brake linings.

TURPENTINE is used in paints, adhesives and solvents.

SOY BEANS are used in making cores for metal castings in our foundry and are also an important part of the baked enamel finish of a Ford V-8 and of the plastic knobs and buttons in the car's interior.

LUMBER is used for packing purposes. It is not used for any structural part of the Ford car, which has a welded, all-steel body, reinforced with steel, for maximum safety.

A BACKWARD GLANCE

"Haskell High School is one of the best high schools of its size that I have ever visited," stated Dean Boswell of McMurray at a faculty dinner given recently by the Board of Trustees. We know this statement is true and every citizen of Haskell is proud of the fact. Let us recount some of our outstanding accomplishments of this year.

We have a well lighted football field, the only one between Wichita Falls and Abilene.

Our football team made a creditable record, being defeated only once and tied only once.

During Christmas holidays our Senior Class sponsored an ex-senior homecoming which was enjoyed by a large number of ex-graduates.

Our girls' basket ball team won second place in an invitation tournament and brought home a trophy.

Our school was host to about fifteen schools in an Invitation Track Meet, and was able to win all the trophies given by the Lions' Club on this occasion.

Our debate teams, volleyball and track teams, and a number of individual contestants went to the district meet at Breckenridge; and following this, one track man, John Kimbrough, went to the Regional Meet at Abilene.

The Gypsy Rambler Club has provided the girls with a much-needed coat room, and is having a trophy case built that will display our trophies very nicely.

When the Parent-Teacher Association met in District Conference in our city, a number of high school students had an active part in it.

Four students from the Home Economics Department attended the State Home-making Rally and Frankie Dorris Bledsoe brought home a prize-winning ribbon.

Anna Belle Stanton won second place in a music meet at Abilene Christian College.

Ava Grindstaff represents us in the "My Home Town Contest" at Plainview.

Various students have contributed numbers to the programs of the Magazine Club, the Lions Club, and to programs of special occasions—as well as taking part on our regular assembly programs.

And last but not least is the "Warwhoop"—just this-year-old. Everyone has enjoyed the Warwhoop and looked forward to reading it each week. The success of this school column is due to the just pride that we all feel for our school and what it means to us—and it reflects our desire to make it even better.

Ially want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Wimbish for letting us have such a nice picnic which we enjoyed more than we can ever express.

CLASSROOM CLASSICS FROM KAIGLER'S STUDIO

Pupils from the Speech Arts Department of the Haskell High School under the direction of Mrs. C. M. Kaigler have been kept busy during the school term, putting on chapel programs. These included comedy, drama, dialect and musical readings, and full evening plays. The class is organized into a Dramatic Club and has responded to invitations to appear in programs in practically every church in the city. Also it has appeared at all woman's clubs and organizations as well as both men's clubs. On last Sunday evening all of the class members, except those who read somewhere in the morning, were in a Mother's Day program at the Methodist Church. They were assisted in this program by Mrs. O. E. Patterson, accompanist; Mrs. Koonce, solo; Mrs. C. D. Kay of Rochester, solo; Little Miss Gene Lewis, of the junior class, a reading "A Tribute To My Modern Mother"; Mrs. Kaigler gave a reading. They were: Helen Ballard, Ruth Josselet, Ruth Welsh, Crockett English and Fred T. Sanders, Jr. Others in the class are: Mary Lena

SENIORS REVIEW

"Climb tho' the rocks be rugged," our Senior Class motto, which has been held up during the whole year and we are still climbing. We want to be one of the best Senior classes that has ever been in Haskell High School. The school year is nearly finished but the Seniors are just starting. We have had some grand times together with Miss Vick, our sponsor. For instance, at our "Senior Flight" the prettiest girls and the most handsome boys added to their senior dignity by washing the dishes. The "Senior Home Coming" sponsored by our class during the Christmas holidays, was one affair we'll always remember. We know now from the outcome of the "Overall and Apron Party" that the seniors haven't been seniors all their lives, but "once upon a time long ago they were little boys and girls." On "Senior Day" we felt especially distinguished from the lower classes because we wore our colors of pink and silver. That was the day we presented the one and only, unforgettable, unbelievable, "Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works" in assembly. By presenting the school with picnic equipment we feel that we will long be remembered (at least until the equipment is lost). There is a climax in the life of every senior and we feel that the Junior and Senior Banquet was the climax this year. Then there was the Banquet given by the ladies of the Baptist church. All the Seniors (and especially the boys who had vacant chairs but full plates on each side of them) were indeed grateful for this evening of entertainment. Friday, when our Senior picnic is due, will be the day of all days for the seniors. That's the time when we get our red Irish complexion and those lovely little brown spots called freckles.

Don't get the impression that because we have played part of the time that we haven't worked the rest of the time. You know, it takes quite a bit of hard studying to reach the senior class, and after one reaches it the work has just started, because it takes more work to get "out" than it does to get "in". We are proud of our whole senior class because we have a group of excellent boys and girls (only four students have dropped out of school during the entire year.) We are especially proud of those students who found it well worth their while to make the honor roll (an average of 90 per cent or above.) Those students number ten out of fifty-eight.

FRESHMEN HAVE ANNUAL PICNIC

Did you students wonder why there weren't very many at school Friday? Well, just in case any of you did, I'll tell you: The freshmen went on their annual picnic.

We all met at the high school and went to Leuders. All the girls, except one or two, were dressed in slacks or some kind of trousers and of course the boys were appropriately attired. We left about 8:30, taking about eleven mothers and nine others, including Mr. and Mrs. Wimbish. There were about seventy or eighty freshmen who went.

Of course since it was rather warm and there was plenty of water everyone wanted to go in swimming. We took R. C. Henshaw and Earnest McMillin as life-savers just in case someone might nearly drown.

Around twelve o'clock everyone acted as if something was wrong with him. Mrs. Wimbish and the mothers decided that we must be hungry. A large picnic lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, deviled eggs, cakes, candy, fruit, and punch, was spread. After everyone had eaten to their hearts content, a number of games were played.

About 2:45 P. M. we went in swimming again. Marvina took the cramps in two of her toes and had to get out of the water but she was soon feeling all right again and was as lively as ever.

Around 5:45 we ate supper. About 6:30 we started home and all agreed to call it a full day.

We want to thank all the mothers that went with us, for going and helping look after us and we espec-

Miss Davis always seemed to have an interesting way of teaching us not to say "ain't" and such; and when it came to studying how to organize a group into a club, again she applied an interesting test—letting us organize our own club. One of our many high school geniuses, Mr. English, was chosen as temporary chairman.

Crockett suited Miss Davis' chair very nicely or else the class thought he made a pretty background for the roses on the left hand corner of the desk, because he was unanimously chosen as permanent chairman, and he made a good one.

All the class took active part and we had an interesting discussion and now have an excellent club.

Other officers elected were: Vice Chairman—Ava Grindstaff. Secretary—Alberta Orr. Treasurer—Lewis Hamilton. Reporter—Maydell Barnett.

Though we haven't adopted a motto as yet, a good suggestion is "Never say ain't—say Aunt."

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Hallitt, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies. . . . Thousands of women testify that Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician."

Save Two From Burning

PANAMA, Canal Zone.—Two Indian sisters, 18 and 13 years of age, were saved from being sacrificed by San Blas Indians on the allegation that they were possessed of evil spirits. A police detachment was dispatched to the island—Iguana, 70 miles off the coast, where the girls were to be burned alive and after hours of argument, persuaded the Indians to surrender the girls, who are to become wards of the Panama Government.

Kills Parents

AUSTIN, Tex.—Luring his father and mother into a quiet country road on the pretext of showing them a scenic view, Howard Pearson, 20, confessed that he shot and killed them and then wounded himself with the same gun in order to make his hold-up story sound realistic. The only reason he could give for the shooting was "revenge."

Baby Lost In Woods

MAUSTON, Wis.—Apparently none the worse for having spent two nights in a thicket of scrub oaks three miles from her home, little Thelma Ann Wilke, 21 months old, was found by a neighbor who was one of a party of men and boys who had been searching for her. She was playing unconcernedly when discovered.

RECIPES AND MENUS

By Department of Home Economics, Texas State College for Women, CSEA

DENTON, Texas.—Hot, sultry spring days—lazy days in which meals and the preparation of them are likely to be uninteresting—are the bane of almost every housewife. On such days menus require more consideration than is usually necessary at other times. Meal preparation is most satisfactorily accomplished in doing the greater part of the work in the cooler hours of the day, in the elimination of the use of the oven in the afternoons and in the choice of appetizing light foods which help to keep up the interest of the family. The picnic supper offers excellent opportunities in affording an attractive, palatable, easily prepared meal, and it is an enjoyable change for the summer evenings. All that is needed is a sandwich, a salad, and something good to drink, and the deed is done. The following menus were planned with these ideas in mind. The most difficult dishes can be prepared in the morning, leaving only the simple, easy things to be prepared before the noon and evening meals.

Breakfast: Shredded Wheat with Bananas and Cream, Puffy Omelet, Toast, Milk, Coffee.

Lunch: Pressed Chicken, Raw Spinach Salad, Butter Corn, Date Nut Bars, Iced Tea.

Dinner: Veal a la Shopleigh, Potatoes with Parsley, Creamed Carrots, Bread, Tomato and Avocado Salad, French Dressing, Apricot Whip.

Breakfast: Strawberries, Cream, Whole Wheat Muffins, Apple, Butter, Milk, Coffee.

Lunch: Hawaiian cheese salad, Potato Croquettes, Pickled Beets, Potato Tapioca, Tea, Pineapple.

Picnic Supper: (Box Lunch) Cream Salad in Tomatoes, Cups, Crackers, Potato Chips, Iced Orange Juice and Gingerale, Iced Box Cookies.

Recipes

Frozen Hawaiian Cheese Salad: Cream 1/2 cup cottage cheese, 1/4 cup Philadelphia cream cheese, add 1/4 cup salad dressing, 1/2 pound marshmallows, 1/2 small can crushed pineapple, 1/2 pint cream beaten stiff. Chill three hours. Serve with or without dressing.

Date Nut Bars: Beat two whole eggs until light. Add one cup powdered sugar and beat well. Add one cup of chopped pecans, one cup of dates, cut small, one-fourth spoonful of salt, three-fourths cup of bread flour, one tablespoonful of vanilla extract. Bake in a square pan (about 14 inch thick) which has been buttered, and line with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven (325 F.) about 20 or 30 minutes. While hot cut in strips and roll in powdered sugar. This makes 24 bars (1 inch by 2 inches).

Veal a la Shopleigh: Slice veal. Garnish the platter with sliced olives, pickle relish, shredded lettuce, and French dressing.

WILL A MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANT PAY?

THE HON. H. D. HOCKERSMITH, MAYOR OF VERNON, SAYS YES!

In the year 1922, Vernon had a population of probably six thousand people. Among other utilities we had a municipally owned water system, and an electric light plant owned by a foreign corporation. We were paying 15 cents per kilowatt-hour for lighting, and 90 cents per hundred for ice, the ice factory being owned by the same people who owned the light plant.

These prices were considered exorbitant and strenuous efforts were made to get them reduced ten cents for current, and to a reasonable price for ice. In this we failed signally and the suggestion was made that we build a plant of our own. The idea seemed to meet with almost universal favor, and resulted in an order for an election to be held to vote bonds in the amount of $100,000. The result of the vote was favorable by almost three to one.

Hardly had the result been announced however, until injunction proceedings were filed which resulted in a temporary injunction being granted. Our people were discouraged and disgusted with the result of the injunction proceedings and matters remained in this condition until the latter part of the year.

During this period the city officials had investigated the matter and decided to build a plant without a bond issue. Accordingly, short term warrants in the sum of $45,000 were issued and arrangements made for the purchase of the necessary machinery, to be paid for out of the earnings of the plant.

We began in a very modest way. We had one 100 H. P. engine and one of 200 H. P. The demand for service increased so rapidly that in a very short time the capacity was more than trebled. This growth has continued even up to the present time until now we have a total capacity of 2150 H. P. At this date we are installing a 625 H. P. engine for which we will pay $35,000 cash, which will increase our capacity to 2,775 H. P.

We have never felt that the plant was built to make money, but that the rate should be made as low as possible, consistent with safe operation. We began with a top price, ten cents per k. w., and since that time we have made several reductions, until now we have the lowest light rate of any city in Texas. For the first 30 K. W. H. we charge eight cents per K. W. H.—All over 30 K. W. costs three cents per K. W. H.

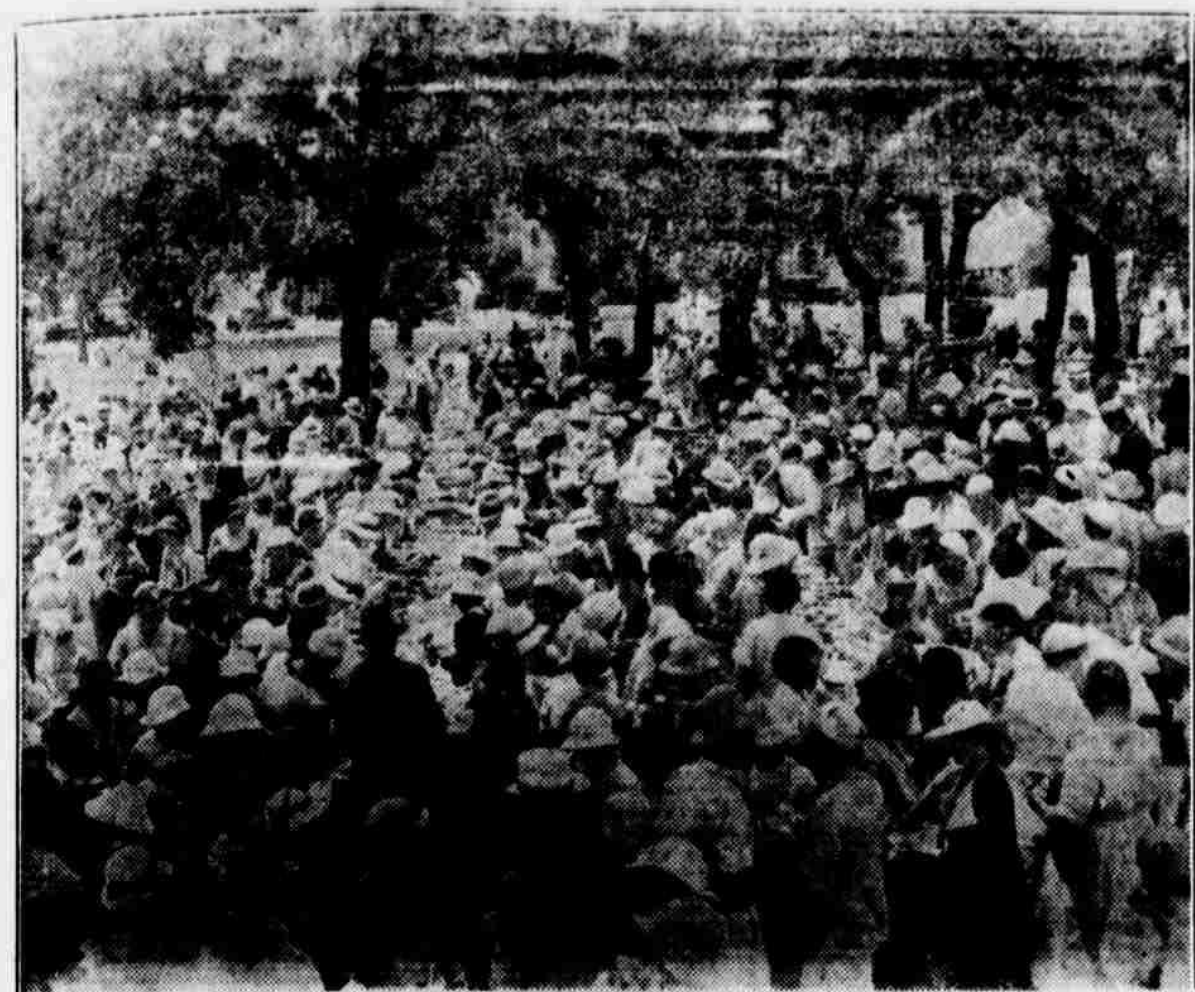

About five years ago we found that the city had grown up around the plant, making the location unsuitable, and so we decided to move. Accordingly, we went out near the Frisco Railroad and bought ten acres of ground, on which we have built a modern plant at an expense of about $40,000. We have a traveling crane, a first class lathe and all the tools necessary to make minor repairs on our machinery. We even went so far as to build our own spot track, at an expense of more than $1,000.

The plant represents an actual investment of more than $400,000, paid for out of its own earnings. It is entirely out of debt—does not owe one dime. We make the claim, and have the evidence to prove it, that it saves the people of Vernon more than $100,000 every year.

Haskell is not as large as Vernon, but facts and figures regarding prosperous light and power municipal plants in towns the size, and smaller, than Haskell will be furnished by the members of the Haskell City Council upon request.

Any bonds issued for a Municipal Plant would be paid for SOLELY from the REVENUE of said Plant, but a Survey of the City MUST be made before a P.W.A. Grant can be secured.

Warwhoop—

the romances of the dignified seniors. First we shall begin with our class president (Mr. Carl C. Maples, Jr., to you) who loves Monday any day of the week or weekend. The object of his affection, "orta" (likes Haskell, too, so all's well in Carl's onion patch. Remember children, Carl makes the fourth Senior Class president to go with out-of-town girls. Next comes the other two "gentlemen" of Haskell, John E. and Howard, who divide their time between Stamford and Lorene (better watch out, boys; Weldon might not like that.) Virginia Williams has gone Abilene on us but if you could see "that car" you would too. Alberta "kinda" likes Rochester and sailor in San Diego but Woodie R. comes along sometimes, too. The only romance that has lasted through the fussing and razzing of the rest of the seniors is that of Hugh and Louise McNulty (we admit they have had their share of the razzing).

Pete Hamilton likes to go with tall girls like Maxine Quattlebaum. The "one and only" of Odell's has never been discovered so she says. It has been whispered about that Ed has a girl on the Plains but we aren't so sure that it isn't Christine. Now Lee and Lyndell refuse to discuss their senior romances so we guess some heartless little girl broke their young hearts. "The Twins" and Lois Davis just blush and say they haven't had time for romancing. Electra, Texas, has a strong fascination for Fred. (P. S. Her name is Elizabeth.) Maydell has romanced around with our football captain and others which she discusses only privately. Covell and Crockett seemed to have strayed, for awhile, toward Rule—but the last reports are that they are headed for Haskell. We don't know what to tell you about Woodrow Wiseman and Helen so we'll let you ask the questions. Woodrow D. has the prettiest girl in Waco, so he says. Vida Lee, Loree and Dorothy Sego still like Rochester. Clovis refuses to talk and so does Louise Roberds and Billy W. We are still trying to find out the hidden loves of Gordon and Carrie Belle. Now all of you know Gerry's "one and only." We overheard someone say that Winston still wanders down the Ghelson way (How about that, Elsie.) Mary Ben finds a new love every week so we won't publish last week's news. Ava and Dorothy just won't talk so that's that. Abilene is attractive to Beatrice, too, especially McMurry. Now, my children, we have done the best we can but if we have overlooked anyone, they were hiding.

WHEOPS

After a terrific struggle George Stoneman finished his examination paper and then at the end, wrote: "Dear Mr. Richey: If you sell any of my answers to the funny papers I expect you to split fifty-fifty with me."

"Yes," Nelson brays about his car. "Shell's do eighty-five any day." Does he mean per hour, per gallon, or perhaps?

Wonder how Elsie feels now—since Winston seems to have changed his mind about—Well, you understand.

George W. seemed to be enjoying life Sunday afternoon with those two young ladies.

We wonder if we could make or persuade Odell to give us the low-down on Mary Ben. What that good-looking (?) boy told them Sunday night.

Ava Grindstaff wears a diamond pin in her hair which was bought in Paris.

Fred Sanders struck the goldfish bowl with his head, which fortunately was empty.

LOST: A fountain pen by Carrie B. Brooks half full of purple ink.

DEATH'S CAPTAIN

Tuberculosis, once described as "captain of the men of death," has been reduced to the rank of sergeant and heart disease is now the captain, claiming more than twice as many lives as any other disease. Tuberculosis has sunk to sixth place among the "killers."

Statistics for 1933, the last available, show that for every 100,000 persons in the United States 202 died of organic heart disease. Next came the cancer, 99; then Bright's disease, 87; pneumonia, 81; appoplexy, etc., 79, and tuberculosis, 61.

The alarming death rate from heart disease and other maladies resulting from degeneration of the blood vessels is attributed by many physicians to the stress and worry of our complex modern life. Excessive mental or physical work with insufficient sleep and recreation, the drive of ambition for success, the intemperate use of stimulants and other modes of "burning the candle at both ends" tend to throw a too heavy burden upon the heart, and if long continued may end in collapse.

Medical science at present offers little in the way of curative agencies for the condition which these bad habits bring about, and the only means of relief seems to be in abandonment of the practices which cause the trouble. Countless lives are shortened because people will not take sufficient rest to enable their bodies to recuperate after strenuous mental or physical activities.

RECOVERY BY SELFISHNESS

If everyone connected with the cycle of repairing and modernizing American homes could be smitten by an attack of intelligent selfishness, our swing back toward prosperity would get an enormous impetus. This is the statement of Louis J. Alber, chief of the speakers' division of the Federal Housing Administration. He points out that if repairs were made upon all American homes which need them, it would keep 6,000,000 workers busy for a solid year—which, at a low estimate, would inject at least $6,000,000,000 into the channels of trade. "But it is only intelligent selfishness that will put the program across," he warns. "The home owner must be selfish enough to want betterment of his home, the banker to make interest on his loan, the builder his profit, and the worker his wage." It is to be hoped that Mr. Alber can sell his idea. Putting 6,000,000 men to work in the building trades would deal the depression a body blow.

SANE COLLEGE GRADUATES

The college graduate of tradition is supposed to be a know-it-all young man who leaves the campus for the outside world full of confidence that people are just going to fall all over themselves to give him jobs and get the benefit of his wisdom and energy. The college graduate of real life in the year 1935 is not a bit like that. So, at least, says Vera Christie, manager of the Bureau of Occupations at the University of California, which is about to turn 3000 young graduates out into the cold world. The old-time cockiness, she says, has vanished. The collegians have been doing some thinking, in these trying years, and they know what they're up against. Having a greater awareness of reality, they have also more determination; they have ceased to look for soft snaps and are looking for a chance to be of service, instead. The change is about as wholesome a thing for the country as a whole as could be imagined.

LET'S TEST OURSELVES

An intelligence test to determine the fitness of state and national legislators is proposed in the current issue of The Zion Herald, Methodist weekly. It's a sound idea, as far as it goes; but why not go further and have a similar test for us voters as well? For when it is all said and done, these legislators—and some of them are pretty sad-looking specimens—were elected by us. We looked them over, listened to what they had to say, and gave them their jobs. Strange, when you stop to think about it: we are almost unanimous in berating stupidity and the chicanery of Congress and Legislature—but we never stop to think that congressmen and legislators are direct reflections of ourselves. We put them where they are; if we're so smart, why don't we put better men in their places?

NOT QUITE SO BLOODTHIRSTY

Despite all the jingling of sabers in Europe these days, it is evident that national leaders, when pushed right to the brink of actual hostilities, do not want to fight. Italy and Abyssinia began drifting toward war several weeks ago. Troops were mobilized, frontier garrisons were strengthened, war talk filled the papers. It looked for a time as if a fight could not be prevented. Now, however, it is announced that the council of the League of Nations has persuaded the two governments to settle their dispute over frontier territory in Africa by arbitration. Mussolini himself, supposed to be as fierce a man-eater as any dictator alive, seems to have concluded that arbitration is cheaper than fighting. It is an encouraging development. It indicates that the league can still be of service to the cause of world peace, and it shows that Europe's statesmen are not quite as ready to go to war as recent news dispatches had led us to suppose.

Bar Jap Light Bulbs

LOS ANGELES.—Under a decision rendered in Federal Court in favor of the General Electric Company against a group of Japanese distributors, electric light bulbs from Japan will not be allowed to enter the United States, thus shutting off the sale of about 100,000,000 bulbs per year from this source. The company charged that such imports violated their patent rights, that patent rights, that the Japanese bulbs were sold at reduced prices, were of short life, used more current than those of the American electric lamp industry.

SCRAMBLING TWO PROBLEMS

(Nation's Business)

Much of the confusion and doubt concerning recovery and security measures is due to the failure to discriminate between "the unemployable" and "the unemployed." In every country, in every period, there is a group of hopelessly moronic and genuinely dependent men and women. They constitute a social problem. In times of business depression there are those able and willing to work whose services society cannot use. They constitute an economic problem.

By lumping the two classes in one category comes most of our disordered thinking and planning. The earnest welfare worker paints for us a man with ability, capacity, and will to work. The public responds. It fails to see that there is included the man who would not or could not work in those years when "Help Wanted" signs were everywhere in evidence.

One result of this mistake is the unconvincing totals of "the unemployed," another is the resentment the observer feels towards a system which treats a congenial bum with all the consideration of a worthy workman whose misfortunes is that he can find no work.

If the overhauling of society meant only humane care for society's unfits and misfits, America could—and would—do the job at one stride. Many faults have been ascribed to us by foreign and friendly critics, but the lack of humane objectives has never been one of them. The translation of that ideal today is hopelessly complicated by combining two separate problems, one economic, the other social. Any standard adopted for the chronic loafer is too low for the honest worker and a standard adopted for the honest worker is too high for the chronic loafer.

"No, ma'am, I lost it."

When he returned to Boston he was asked if he had good luck by throwing the penny out of the window.

The Scotchman answered: "I had good luck the first three times but the fourth time I had bad luck."

"How did you have bad luck the fourth time?" he was asked.

"The string broke and I lost the penny," he replied.

"What caused the explosion at your house?"

"Powder on my coat sleeve."

Neighbor: "I hear your boy, Josh, is a genius and that he's interested in perpetual motion."

Farmer Hawback: "No, sir, you're wrong. All he's interested in is perpetual rest."

Little Known Facts About Banks

If Banks Were Operated for Profit Only

Nowhere in the world do the banks put service to the community ahead of profits as in the United States.

The truth of this is shown in a recent survey, which revealed that "in the average bank 50% of the depositors carry but 3% of the total deposits" . . . In other words, American banks sacrifice profits by providing better banking facilities to more people than is considered necessary by banks in other countries. But that is the "American spirit" of American banking.

Need we add that service to the community comes first at this bank? Here the small depositor receives the same service as the larger depositor, and his account is just as welcome.

HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

BAPTISM

International Sunday School Lesson for May 19, 1935.

Golden Text: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit."—Matthews 28:10.

Lesson Text: Matthews 28:19, 20: Acts 8:26-39.

Other scriptural references: Acts 8:38, 41; Romans 6:1-4. The word "baptism" used to describe the ceremony of John the Baptist referred to a religious observance rather than the ceremonial formality as it had been hitherto with the Jews. The novelty of John's procedure caused the words "The Baptist" to be added to his title. His baptism was "of repentance, the remission of sins," an outward sign of an inward spiritual condition. The Jews had probably already begun the practice of baptizing proselytes but the significance was of ceremonial cleansing rather than moral purification. Jesus submitted himself to the baptism of John, although from his very nature he was free from sin. The exact location of this baptism is not known. "The supreme element in the baptism of Jesus was the identification of the sinless one with the sinner. He who had no sin in repent of, took his place among those who had sin to repent of. He was simply held down into the baptism that was the portion of the sinner. Thus, in baptism, as in incarnation and birth, finally, and the consummation in the martyr of his passion, we see the king identifying himself with the people for whom he is to reign, in the act of their deepest need and direct lure. By his baptism he committed himself to men and to the purposes of God; consented, at the beginning of his public ministry, to the method for the saving of men."—C. Campbell Morgan. In his next to last appearance to his disciples Jesus delivered from a mountain in Galilee what has been characterized as "The Great Commission." This is contained in verses 19 and 20 of the twenty-ninth chapter of Matthew. He commanded his followers to make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the trinity and teaching them to observe all his commandments. He closed with a promise of his personal appearance to the end of the world. While Jesus never baptized anyone during his life, as far as we know, he prescribed the ceremony and option by his followers. It was the public acknowledgment of those who accepted him, although the religious groups do not practice baptism. The Quakers, under the leadership of George Fox, dismised with it but proclaimed their fidelity to Jesus by their peculiar attire.

Likewise, William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, avoided making a choice between the various forms of baptism, but met the spirit by putting his soldiers in a distinctive uniform, marking them as followers of Christ. "Baptism was the practice of the primitive Church from the outset," says Stanley Brown-Sherman, "and was carried out with a consistency which indicates that Jesus' authority must have been behind it. The disciples evidently did not consider their duty done when they had reached the religion of Jesus. They were as unlike as possible the purveyors of philosophies or religions who left individuals to digest and apply their teaching as best they might. They were concerned to build up a body of disciples of Jesus. With them, baptism, in addition to all it implied of God's forgiveness and his gifts of grace, was a solemn separation of men and women from the world, and their incorporation into the family of Christ."

One of our selections tells the story of the conversion of the treasurer of Candace, Queen of the Ethiopians. This prominent leader had been to Jerusalem to worship and was returning in his chariot, while on his journey he read the prophet Isaiah. "Was it the snuff's serious instincts, I wonder, that led him to the fifty-third of Isaiah?" asks Alexander Whyte. "Or had he heard that profound and perplexing matter disputed over by Stephen and Saul in one of the synagogues of Jerusalem? I cannot tell. Only, it strikes me, and it struck Philip, a remarkable fact that out of the whole Old Testament this utterance rang to the Old Testament was vndering over its most central matter, and its most profound prophecy, as he rode home in his chariot."

By divine direction Philip happened to be near the treasurer and inquired if he understood what he read. The Ethiopian indicated that he needed someone to interpret the scriptures for him which Philip gladly did and as a result the treasurer himself suggested that he be baptized when he came to water. Thus, this prominent foreigner was converted and became a Christian about six years after the Pentecostal descent of the Holy Spirit. We have no record of the subsequent life of this officer but there is no way of knowing the good which he may have accomplished in his own land upon his return. The baptism of the Ethiopian seems to have been by immersion but whether all baptisms of the New Testament were in this same manner has been a question which has divided the church for years. By the beginning of the second century the baptizing of a convert by pouring water upon his head was widespread. As the ceremony is only effective because of the sincerity and faith of the recipient in the manner in which it is performed becomes secondary. "That thought of the washing away of all evil and the presenting to God of a cleansed and purified life," says Lynn H. Hough, "which is so quickly and easily suggested by the rite of baptism, needs to be kept before our minds and upon our consciences and in our hearts. What a flag is to a country, that is baptism in respect of the central ethical struggle and victory of human life. What a wedding ring is to a marriage, that baptism is in respect of that union of the life with Christ wherein the healing surgery of the Savior's presence destroys the evil and enthrones the good."

"The first act by which one makes it clear to the world that he is indeed a follower of Jesus is called 'confession,'" says C. E. Jefferson. "The act by which Jesus wishes his disciples to confess that they are his, is baptism, and that is the reason why one who makes up his mind to follow Jesus is sooner or later baptized. When men in Jerusalem one day asked Peter what he wanted them to do, his reply was, 'Repent ye and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ.' "In saying this he was saying, 'Turn to Jesus and confess him.'"

Seymour Downed In Game Sunday

If Lefty Stallings, Seymour's ace wrong-arm hurler, had pitched a white better here Sunday afternoon, and his teammates had not made five errors, he might have won himself a baseball game, but regrets are futile and the Haskell Braves swung their war hammers to win by a score of 8 to 4 behind the nice pitching of Tanny Jones and Gaut (Lefty) Hambright.

Haskell players started the game with the thought that Stallings was SOME pitcher—and he is.

Stallings didn't have the stuff he exhibited against the Braves when the local aggregation played recently in Seymour, but a little more of heads-up baseball on the part of the other Seymour Panthers would have kept the score closer—much closer.

As usual, the Braves hit when hits meant runs Sunday and took advantage of several breaks to cop the encounter, which assured Haskell a place in the sun of the Wichita Valley league standing. Haskell, Stamford and Munday are tied for first place.

Cassell parked the ball for a home run in the fifth inning with a mate on base.

Cecil Bradley was credited with only one hit at bat out of five saunters to the plate. However, he got on base everytime. He was passed twice, hit twice and reached the initial sack on his last try when Carter threw slightly wild to first.

Haskell's big scoring spree came in the fifth and seventh innings.

Only one hit was made in the fifth frame by the Braves to secure three runs. Bradley, first up, was hit. Norman advanced the runner with a double to rightfield, but Bradley was forced at third by Patterson, Heath to Forester. Chapman whiffed. Cox drove the ball to short which Carter threw wild to first-baseman Smith, and Norman scored, while Patterson and Cox advanced. Edwards smacked a drive to Carter on second, and the baseman promptly made his second error by fumbling the ball and letting it career into rightfield, which let Patterson and Coxey cross the plate.

No fluke runs were made by the Braves in the seventh when three tallies were again chalked up. Mr. Stallings just couldn't hold them. Patterson opened with a high fly to secondbase. Chapman walked. Cox followed with a burning smash through the middle of the diamond to center. Edwards watched the third strike go over the plate for out number two. Adkins got his first bungle of the day by hitting cleanly to right-center field, scoring Chapman, with Cox going to third. Adkins then swiped second. Sam Johnson pushed the runners over with a hit to right, his second of the day.

Jones pitched nice ball up to the fourth inning, but three clean drives, for one run, followed by a home run in the fifth caused his retirement. Jones struck out seven batters. Hambright relieved and allowed one hit in four innings.

Daring Thief Swipes Automobile, Only Wants Plates, Returns Car

John Willoughby, local district court reporter, is minus one set of new auto license plates, which some thief appropriated, but happy that his car, which had been driven, was returned unharmed.

Willoughby parked his car about three doors south of Reid's Drug Store Friday afternoon, he says, and for the first time, left the keys in the switch.

During the afternoon he had no occasion to use the car until about five o'clock, when he and Foster Davis, local attorney, decided to drive. Willoughby looked for his car, but even the tracks had disappeared.

Slightly worried, even though he thought a practical joker might be having a brainstorm and having what most motorists would call "fun", Willoughby decided to notify officers about his "loss." After inquiring of Wylie Reid, drug store proprietor, Willoughby saw a car, with license plates missing, which looked similar to his own, parked directly in front of the drug store.

Examining the interior, the district court reporter soon found that he was examining his own automobile, which was unharmed. Plenty of gasoline was still in the tank.

Willoughby knows that his car had been driven, but can't figure out whether an automobile thief, who desperately needed new plates, or some person in need of a trip, but without funds to purchase new tags before leaving, made the appropriation.

M. B. Watson, Haskell's assessor-collector, quickly offered to sell Willoughby a new set of 1935 plates at regular rates.

Suicide Rate In Texas Decreasing

AUSTIN, Texas.—A report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, says, "Contrary to public opinion, the number of suicides in Texas has decreased during the last few years. There was an increase from 616 suicides in 1930 to 772 in 1931 and a further increase to 828 in 1932, which was the greatest number of suicides that occurred in Texas during the past five years. Following 1932, suicides have decreased from 828 that year to 722 in 1933, with a further decrease to 703 in 1934.

"While suicides have decreased, there has been a gradual increase in fatal accidents, which totaled 3,112 in 1930 as compared with 4,013 fatal accidents in 1934.

"The increase in accidental deaths has been closely associated with the use of motor-driven vehicles. In 1931, there were 23 deaths due to collisions between automobiles and railroads, as compared with 69 similar deaths in 1934. Fatal accidents in air transportation increased from 27 in 1932 to 46 in 1934.

"The greatest increase, however, was found in automobile accidents involving no other vehicles. The records of 1934 show an increase of approximately 70 per cent over 1932, there being 907 deaths due to automobile accidents in 1930 compared with 1,533 in 1934.

"With the decrease in suicides and the increase in accidents, there has been a more appalling increase in homicides. The Texas mortality records show 576 murders in 1930 and 1,016 in 1934, an increase of 140 or 76 per cent during that five-year period."

More Veterans to Be Enrolled In The C. C. Corps

War veterans will be interested in the following notice received this week by Larry Smith Haskell Legion post commander, from the regional offices of the Civilian Conservation Corps:

"The veterans contingent of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be increased to 55,000 between June 15 and August 31, 1935. This will more than double the number allotted to the San Antonio and Dallas offices of the Veterans Administration.

"In order that we may be able to fill our quota when the time arrives, it will be necessary that we receive many more applications than we have in the past.

"Necessary application blanks will be sent to all those interested, with full instructions as to the completion and submission thereof, by the Regional Office having jurisdiction over the territory in which they live. Any honorably discharged veteran of the World War or previous wars who is physically able to do a reasonable amount of work is eligible for enrollment. Preference will be given in enrollment to those men having dependent who agree to make allotment of three-fourths of their pay to such dependents; also preference is given to those men who have been unemployed for long periods of time."

L. P. Chapman is manager of the San Antonio Regional Office, and Reed Johnson manager of the Dallas Regional Office.

"Softies", Cries College Prof Of Modern Students

FORT WORTH, Texas. — "The greatest difference between the students of today and those of two decades ago is that the students then could walk," says Prof. Will M. Winton, head of the geology department of Texas Christian University here.

"I used to take my students on field trips to points five to eight miles away from Fort Worth walking both ways. Now it exhausts them to ride there and back!

"There were no automobiles or radios on the campus in 1913, when I came to T. C. U., and the movies were just beginning to be popular. Many of the students had made the longest trip of their lives when they came to Fort Worth to go to school, and a number had never seen a street-car.

"The students of today are generally more sophisticated. The freshmen of two decades ago could be herded into almost anything. The sophomores sold their shower-bath tickets, catalogs and, upon occasion, even induced them to pay for chapel seats!"

"I wouldn't take anything for my new clothes closet, which was built without being out one cent for material," states Mrs. S. S. Dorier, co-operator in the Hutto Home Demonstration Club.

The frame of the closet was built from scrap lumber around the large, gated boxes from the grocery store, which was left from the basement. Shelves were added for flat wear, and an iron rod for hanging wearing apparel on.
