Non-jury trials, hearings, pre-trial matters on docket of 50th Judicial District Court

Numerous non-jury trials, hearings and pre-trial matters were heard during the past two weeks on the criminal docket of the four-county 50th Judicial District Court, according to District Attorney Bill Neal.

A Knox County jury had been called for Tuesday, November 28, but various defendants who had demanded jury trials changed their minds and agreed to waive a jury trial and present their cases to the court.

On Tuesday, visiting Judge Leslie Thomas of Crowell heard the State present its case against Brenda Correll, 52, of Knox City who had been indicted for Theft by a Public Servant of over $20,000.00 but less than $100,000.00.

Correll who had been a clerk for Knox City in charge of collecting utility bills for the city had been accused of diverting the city's funds to her own use.

District Attorney Bill Neal presented an audit of the city's utility accounts over the period of the time during which Correll was responsible for collecting and depositing these accounts. Correll took the stand and admitted stealing utility funds from the city, but said she thought the total theft was about $23,000.00, and plead guilty to the charge.

Judge Thomas accepted her guilty pleas and ordered a presentence report prepared. He stated that after he received the report he would set the date for a sentencing hearing.

Correll was represented by Andrew Ottaway of Haskell.

On Wednesday, District Judge David Hajek heard three companion cases against Michael ("Big Mike") Venard Toney, 33, of Dallas; Frank Masias, Jr., 33, of Austin; and David Castillo, 44, of Austin, all indicted for Conspiring to Deliver over Four Grams but 200 Grams of Cocaine and Engraving in Organized Criminal Activity over an eight-month period of time in 1999.

Toney entered a plea of guilty to the charge and received a 10-year probated sentence, plus a $1,000.00 fine. He was represented by Kris Fouts of Haskell.

Both Frank Masias Jr. and David Castillo entered pleas of "not guilty" but agreed to waive a jury trial and be tried before District Judge David Hajek.

District Attorney Neal called various witnesses and introduced documents, including long distance phone records, motel records and Western Union wire transfer records tending to show that Frank Masias Jr. and David Castillo, both of Austin, had, over the eight-month time frame, supplied cocaine to Munday residents Alfred Masias Jr., Dennis Masias and Mary Alice Masias for resale in the Knox area.

The investigation had been conducted by a joint effort between the North Texas Drug Task Force, Munday City Police Chief Kenny Barnett and the 50th Judicial District Attorney's Office, and had resulted in several undercover "buy" of cocaine from the conspirators.

After the case was presented and argued, District Judge David Hajek, found the defendants "guilty" and ordered a presentence report be prepared prior to sentencing. A sentencing hearing is anticipated in January 2001. Frank Masias was represented by Shane Deel of Abilene and David Castillo was represented by Neil Kucera of Austin.

Meanwhile, on the following Wednesday in the Knox County District Court, other members of the "cocaine conspiracy" appeared before District Judge Hajek and entered guilty pleas for their part in the drug dealings pursuant to plea bargain agreements with the State, represented by District Attorney Neal.

Both Dennis Masias, 39, of Munday, represented by Kyle Allen of Childress and Mary Alice Masias, 36, of Munday, represented by Paul Scott of Vernon, each received 109-year penitentiary sentences.

Cindy Masias, 26, of Munday, and Christy Masias Gallegos, 23, of Munday represented by Andrew Ottaway of Haskell entered "guilty" pleas to their part in the cocaine delivery conspiracy, a pursuant to a plea bargain agreement with the State, received five-year probated sentences.

Cindy Masias' punishment was "deferred adjudication" probation while Christy Masias Gallegos' punishment was by way of regular probation.

Alfred Masias Jr. (Junior), 25, of Munday has indicated he intends to enter a "guilty" plea to his part in the cocaine conspiracy at the next non-jury date in Knox County in exchange for a 15-year penitentiary sentence, according to District Attorney Bill Neal.

Alfred Masias Jr. is represented by Wichita Falls attorney Michael Valverde.

O'Brien happenings

By Audie Johnston
O'Brien Correspondent

"I was in a department-store dressing room when I overheard a woman in the next booth make disparaging remarks about the clothes she was trying on. Finally, an attendant knocked on her door and asked if there was a specific color or style she could get for her.

"I need a dress for my class reunion," the woman answered. "I don't care what color or style, as long as it makes me look twenty pounds lighter and ten years younger." From another dressing room, I heard a woman call out, "Make that two."

Here and There - Eddie and Claudia Bryant spent the weekend in Lubbock visiting with their son Jon and wife.

Spending several days with Evelyn Underwood last week were her children Carol and Bob Lanham of Amarillo. While here Evelyn fell and received lots of different bruises but no broken bones. She needs our prayers. She is to go to a doctor today for tests so she can get home health care.

LeNear Philips of Wichita Falls spent the weekend with her mom, Vivian Hendrix; and attended church services with her Sunday and enjoyed a good Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner.

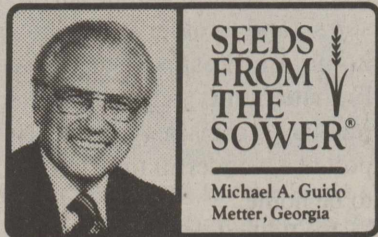

Spending the weekend with Clara Hanson was her niece Beverly of San Angelo. They enjoyed a good visit and they visited several different attractions.

Dan and Marilyn Talbot left Sunday for a trip to Corsicana to visit with some relatives and friends. They will enjoy an early Christmas with these friends and relatives.

Our Christmas and Thanksgiving dinner was a big success Sunday. Close to a hundred enjoyed a good meal of just name it and we had it. There were lots of meals carried to homes of those who weren't able to attend. Those who prepared the meals are all good cooks. Next Sunday night we're to have a good program for Christmas by our younger girls and boys with Donnie Roberts leading the group. I'm sure we will all enjoy seeing and hearing these youngsters. Everyone is invited.

Joe Banner was in Big Spring last week to get stitches out after his hand surgery. The surgery was a good success.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
Michael A. Guido
Metter, Georgia

A farmer complained, "The hardest thing about milking a cow is that she never stays milked."

That's true of many things in life. No matter how much you do, there's always more to do. No matter how many people you help, there are always more to help.

The Bible says, "Let us never tire of doing good, for if we do not slacken our efforts we shall in due time reap our harvest."

You'll reap a golden harvest if you put the Savior above self, morality above money, character above comfort, effort above ease, and goodness above glory.

Our Lord did. He went about doing good. Many just go about. What do you do?
