HASKELL INDIAN BAND—Members of the 2015 Indian competition Sat., Oct. 24 at 11:45 a.m. at the Chisholm Trail High School Stadium in Fort Worth. The band is under the direction of Mike Aston.

Indian Band receives Div. 1 rating; advances to Area

The Haskell Indian Band has once again turned in an award winning performance in the Regional Marching Contest held October 17, at Memorial Stadium in Wichita Falls.

For the eighth time in as many years, the sixty member Indian band received a division I rating for their efforts. Mike Aston, assisted by Teresa New, has directed the band for the past ten years.

The music selections were a mix of rock, jazz, sacred and Las Vegas show styles. They included "Love Runs Out"; Duke Ellington's "Caravan," which featured the percussion and keyboard sections; "Fairest Lord Jesus," featuring the woodwind section; and "Urban" which is part of the Las Vegas Cirque du Soliel show.

They competed against eight other Class 2A schools, including Olney, Anson, Archer City, Stamford, Munday, Knox City, Throckmorton and Seymour. High school bands according to their classification, advance on alternating years.

This year Class 2A schools receiving a first division rating advance to the Area Marching Contest to be held Saturday, October 24, at Chisholm Trail High School Stadium in Fort Worth. The Indian band will perform at 11:45 a.m.

It takes a lot of hard work on the part of the directors and students to put together a superior performance. They begin practice during the summer and continue with in-school and after school practices. It is very rewarding when all that hard work pays off.

Congratulations to the Haskell Indian Band on a job well done at regional, and best of luck at the next level of competition.

Indians scalp Panthers, 43-14; to host Hamlin Friday

by Michael Lindsey

Haskell recovers from their opening district loss, with a very convincing win over the Panthers from Seymour, 43-14. The Panthers were coming into this game after picking up a victory over Petrolia to open district play. In that victory, Seymour overcame a 20-point deficit, scoring 26 unanswered points leading to the win.

This game looked similar, as Haskell jumped out and scored a quick 14 points, with no response from the Panthers in the first quarter. The Panthers looked as if they may be looking for another comeback victory outscoring the Indians 14 to 3 in the second quarter, but the Indians still held a 3 point lead at the half, 17-14.

The second half would be an explosion on both sides of the ball for the Indians. The offense was clicking and the defense would not only contain Seymour, but also shut them out in the second half. The explosion was led by senior quarterback Dylan Hanson who ran the ball 15 times for 141 yards and three touchdowns, but that's not all as the Indians seemed to open the passing game up a little more as well. Hanson completed 22 passes out of 31 attempts for 220 yards and two touchdowns, while completing passes to seven different receivers, Kadin Seeliger, Kellen Parks, Sam Fouts, Lane Burson, Dalton Meinzer, Alec Roewe and Garret Tatum. Seeliger led the team with six receptions while Fouts and Tatum each were on the receiving end of touchdown passes from Hanson.

The Indians offense put on a show, but the defense just put on a beating, punishing the Panthers offense all night. Sophomore Rocky Haggard would lead the team with five tackles, with a host of juniors punishing the quarterback. Lane Burson, Devon Barrios and Hayden Hudson sacked the Seymour quarterback once each.

As you would expect, both the players and coaches had a little more bounce in their step after this victory. Speaking with Coach Grady

Benton on Saturday he had this to say, "After Electra we recommitted to getting back to doing what we do! I couldn't be prouder of how my group responded. Friday night's game was won through the week with great preparation. We developed trust through work ethic and got rewarded on Friday for our commitment. We are going to enjoy what we've earned and get back on Monday excited about another opportunity to do it all over again."

Now Haskell will focus on defending their home field against the defending district champion Hamlin Pied Pipers. The Tribe will head into this match-up with a district record of 1-1, while Hamlin is 2-0 with victories over Munday and Petrolia to start district play.

Haskell Co. Arrest Report

The following arrests were reported by the Haskell County Sheriff's Office during the week of Oct. 12-18:

Cody Jess Tibbets, theft over $20,000.

Giolberto Davalos, possession of marijuana in a drug free zone third degree felony, Throckmorton charge.

John Edmond Griffin, public intoxication and open container.

 Tony Dale Bradley, aggravated assault with deadly weapon vehicle second degree felony, endangering child times two state jail felony, violation of protection order third degree felony.

Elizabeth Jane Walker, forgery.

Fifty-three calls were made to 911.

INDIAN TOUCHDOWN—Haskell Indian #20 Sam Fouts blocks his defender, opening a hole for quarterback #10 Dylan Hanson to take it in for six. The Indians defeated Seymour, 43-14. The Tribe will host Hamlin Friday, Oct. 23 at 7 p.m. at Indian Field.

Work of vehicle theft ring ended by area law officials

There has been a string of vehicle thefts over the past two months in Haskell County. Sad to say, but even small towns, far removed from the city, are not immune to unlawful acts.

Through the combined efforts of the Haskell County Sheriff's Dept., Haskell Police Dept., Stonewall Sheriff's Dept., Munday Police Dept.

and the Eastland Police Dept., six pickups and one suburban have recently been recovered.

Involved in the recovery of these vehicles were Haskell County Sheriff Winston Stephens, Chief Deputy Kenny Barnett, Deputy Chris Keith, Deputy Harry Steen, Officer Jason Torres, Munday Police Chief Chris Mendoza and Stonewall County Deputy Brian Shields. Sheriff Stephens says that in the investigation and recovery of the vehicles, other property reported stolen in burglaries, has also been reclaimed.

A high speed chase through Haskell, north to Weinert on Hwy. 277, and then west toward Rochester, resulted in the recovery of one of the vehicles and the arrest of a male suspect. He was finally stopped about three miles east of Rochester, by Sheriff Stephens, Police Chief Scott Kennedy and Deputy Keith, but not before he hit one of officer's car and took aim at another.

Arrested and charged for the vehicle thefts are Dennis Stewart, Paden Brown, Charles Smith and Cody Tibbets. The investigation continues and more arrests are expected.

Sheriff Stephens would like to thank the citizens for the tips and information that have helped in the investigation. He reminds citizens that all information received is always kept confidential. He is also grateful to all the law enforcement officers in Haskell County and the surrounding counties for their combined effort.

Chief Deputy Barnett would also like to thank Bobby Jones of Hanson Paint and Body for his willingness to come at any hour to tow these vehicles.

Working together, we can make our community a safer place to live.

BREAST CANCER AWARENESS & EARLY DETECTION

Each October, we see pink ribbons, a multitude of fundraising efforts and unstoppable survivors speak out on Breast Cancer Awareness and the importance of early detection.

Each of us has a family member or friend who has battled this horrible cancer. Thankfully since 1989, the death rate of this disease has been on the decline due in part to early detection.

Research shows that if Breast Cancer is caught in the localized stage, the five year survival rate is 100%. That's great news! However, it means that early detection must be a routine part of each woman's monthly health plan, regardless of age.

As a doctor who specializes in women's health, I can't emphasize enough the importance of creating a plan and sticking to it for each woman. Whether it is self-administered monthly exams, or having the courage to just make an appointment and ask the tough questions, taking the reigns is key.

One of the great things about Haskell Memorial's recent investment in technology and facility updates is our Siemens CT Scan technology. Purchased in 2014, it is among the latest in low dose radiation medical technology and can provide our patients with images that detect cancer and other concerns early.

HANDWASHING: THE MOST IMPORTANT DEFENSE

Keeping hands clean through improved hand hygiene is one of the most important steps we can take to avoid getting sick and spreading germs to others. Many diseases and conditions are spread by not washing hands with soap and clean, running water. If clean, running water is not accessible, as is common in many parts of the world, use soap and available water. If soap and water are unavailable, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol to clean hands.

When should you wash your hands?

- Before, during, and after preparing food
- Before eating food
- Before and after caring for someone who is sick
- Before and after treating a cut or wound
- After using the toilet
- After changing diapers or cleaning up a child who has used the toilet
- After blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing
- After touching an animal or animal waste
- After handling pet food or pet treats
- After touching garbage

What is the right way to wash your hands?

- Wet your hands with clean, running water (warm or cold) and apply soap.
- Rub your hands together to make a lather and scrub them well; be sure to scrub the backs of your hands, between your fingers, and under your nails.
- Continue rubbing your hands for at least 20 seconds. Need a timer? Hum the "Happy Birthday" song from beginning to end twice.
- Rinse your hands well under running water.
- Dry your hands using a clean towel or air dry them.

How do you use hand sanitizers?

- Apply the product to the palm of one hand.
- Rub your hands together.
- Rub the product over all surfaces of your hands and fingers until your hands are dry.
- Hand sanitizers are not as effective when hands are visibly dirty.

DPS increases school bus safety efforts

In conjunction with National School Bus Safety Week (Oct. 19-23), the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) is reminding drivers that it is illegal to pass any school bus that is stopped and operating a visual signal—either flashing red lights or a stop sign. During this time, DPS Highway Patrol troopers will be on the lookout for drivers who disregard the law.

"DPS urges drivers to make the safety of our children a priority whenever they travel near school buses, and DPS will not tolerate those who break the law and put our children at risk," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "Remember, children are particularly vulnerable when entering or exiting a school bus."

During National School Bus Safety Week, troopers in many areas will be riding on or following school buses to catch motorists who disregard the law. Troopers will also be patrolling areas where school buses pick up and drop off students, watching for motorists violating the school bus law. Drivers who violate the law could face fines of as much as $1,250.

In 2014 and year to date in 2015, Texas Highway Patrol troopers have issued 852 tickets for passing a stopped school bus. According to the Texas Education Agency, more than 42,000 school buses transport approximately 1.5 million Texas children every school day.

According to Texas statute, a driver—traveling in either direction—must stop when approaching a school bus that is stopped and operating a visual signal. The driver may not proceed until one of the following occurs: the school bus resumes motion; the operator is signaled by the bus driver to proceed; or the visual signal is no longer activated.

If a road is divided only by a left-turning lane, drivers on both sides of the roadway must stop for school buses with alternating red flashing lights activated. However, if the lanes are separated by an intervening space or physical barrier, only motorists going in the same direction as the bus are required to stop.

Remember: school buses, by law, must stop at all railroad crossings.

Here are several safety measures drivers can take to help keep children safer:

- When driving in school zones, watch out for student pedestrians.
- Slow down and watch for children congregating near bus stops.
- Look for children who might dart into the street without looking for traffic.
- Know and obey the laws concerning traffic and school buses in Texas.

Some foods and supplements can interfere with heart medicines

Be careful about eating grapefruit if you are one of the many Americans taking a statin drug to lower your cholesterol, nutrition experts at UT Southwestern Medical Center warn.

Grapefruit contains chemicals called furanocoumarins that interfere with an enzyme involved in metabolizing many of the statin drugs, including atorvastatin, lovastatin and simvastatin. Regularly eating grapefruit or drinking grapefruit juice could lead to an excessive buildup of the drug, says Lona Sandon, clinical nutritionist at UT Southwestern.

Other foods that can interfere with medications for heart disease or heart disease-risk factors:

- Vitamin K consumption affects warfarin, an anticoagulant that is frequently taken by patients with atrial fibrillation.

Vitamin K is found in dark green vegetables like spinach, kale, broccoli and collard greens. "People taking warfarin can still consume foods containing vitamin K. The key is to be consistent with how much they eat of them day to day," Sandon says. "This allows the doctor to adjust the warfarin dose accordingly."

- Fish oil supplements can enhance the effects of warfarin with a potentially dangerous outcome.
- Individuals who are taking digoxin for heart failure may need to avoid black licorice, which affects potassium levels. Black licorice can also interfere with some blood pressure medicines. However, large amounts of licorice must be eaten before there is an effect.
- Pomegranates can have similar effect on certain statins as grapefruit.

Consumer scams: Know when you're being fooled

Unfortunately, there will always be scam artists out there. These people are looking to make a few bucks, sometimes much more, on trusting and unsuspecting consumers. Scams aren't always easy to spot, even for savvy consumers, so remember to do your due diligence and if something seems too good to be true, it most likely is. Below are common consumer scams to be aware of to help ensure they don't happen to you or someone you love.

Merchandise Fraud
This is often the top consumer complaint, especially with the continuously rising rate of internet shopping. Let's say you've found the perfect product online—one that you've been looking for a while and the price is substantially less than anywhere else for an identical product. While very rarely you may find an amazing deal, what happens more often is the product is nonexistent or misrepresented. If you're ordering from a company or website you've never heard of, start by checking the Better Business Bureau (www.bbb.org). Then search for reviews from people who have purchased the same product from that retailer. Lastly, use a credit card for the purchase if at all possible, particularly when buying online or over the phone. If you're victimized and you've paid with cash or by check, you could be out of luck. If the order doesn't arrive, you can challenge the purchase under federal credit-card rules. Debit-card purchases offer less protection, although some banks provide additional safeguards.

Fake Checks
This common scheme can occur in many forms, be it a fake check for something you've sold or payment for a "work from home" or "make fast cash" opportunity. Bogus checks can be used to pay for something you're selling, especially through local sites such as Craigslist. It could be for a smaller amount if you're selling a piece of furniture or a larger amount if you're selling something like a car. While these checks may look official and certified, there's no guarantee that's the case. It's always best to ask for payment in cash or a wire transfer if it's for a larger amount of money. If you do accept a check, contact the institution whose name appears on it before finalizing the exchange with the buyer. If you deposit a fake check, it will bounce and you'll be on the hook with your bank to settle the fee.

Phishing and Identity Theft
Scammers often use emails, phone calls or other methods of communication to trick people into revealing their passwords, credit card information or Social Security numbers, in addition to other personal information that can be used to steal identities, open credit lines or other damaging activities. Never respond to an email or phone call asking for financial passwords or other personal information, no matter how urgent it seems. Instead, contact your bank or the business that made the request to verify it is legitimate. These institutions will never ask for this type of information via email, no matter how credible it looks. Also, never click on hyperlinks in suspicious email messages and keep your computer's antivirus and anti-phishing software up to date.

Advance-Fee Loans
This is one of those "if it seems too good to be true, it probably is" situations. This involves a company promising to get you a loan or credit card even if you have bad or zero credit. However, after paying the required fee, you either never hear from the company again or you're offered a debit or stored-value card. You will never be asked to pay an advance fee for a loan, even if it's for "insurance," "processing" or "paper work." Fun fact: It's illegal for a company doing business by phone to promise a loan and require a fee before it's delivered. Your credit score is important when it comes to loans and credit cards so if a company says it doesn't matter, that's a red flag.

The Grandparent Scam
The elderly are often targeted by scam artists who view them as easy targets. This scheme works by a scammer, perhaps someone who identifies himself as a grandson or nephew, saying he needs help because of an accident or arrest in a foreign country so money needs to be wired immediately. The bottom line is don't give money to anyone without verifying his or her identity. If you get a call from a friend or relative asking for help, politely hang up and call the person's home or cell phone number to find out if the call truly came from this person and if the emergency is real. If you're unable to reach the person, call another relative or close friend to confirm the story.

Phony Charities
Be it an email or phone call urging you to support a charity that tugs at your heartstrings, never immediately respond to this type of solicitation. Some charities are outright frauds and others do little of what they say they do. Instead, first check with the major charity watchdogs—the American Institute of Philanthropy (www.charitywatch.org), the Better Business Bureau's Wise Giving Alliance (www.give.org) and Charity Navigator (www.charitynavigator.org)—to ensure it is legit. Many con artists use names similar to legitimate charities so ensure the name is exact. Also, organizations like the Red Cross will provide a list of charities that need help during disasters.

Sweepstakes Scams
Everyone wants to win a big prize. However, sweepstakes mailings or prize-related phone calls asking for an advance payment to cover taxes, shipping and handling, or other incidental costs of processing or delivering your fabulous prize are not real. You'll find that nothing is ever mailed to you. Also, by law, buying services or merchandise can't increase your odds of winning a sweepstakes so just say no.

This Week's Devotional Message:

The Bible could be the most valuable book on your shelf

You are a very busy person, both in terms of getting ahead in the world and in doing good works for others; therefore, you have very little time for reading anything other than the newspaper headlines. Nevertheless, occasionally you find yourself with a free evening at home and no program on TV that appeals to you. So with some time to read, perhaps you would enjoy a little history, some biographical sketches, descriptions of natural wonders of the world, tales of people who saw the error of their ways, or just some good how-to lessons in self improvement. You'll find all of these things and a lot more in one book that you should have on hand—the Bible. Take it down from the shelf and read it, a little at a time, whenever you can. The time you spend learning about the Bible could be the most rewarding of your life, because it will help you understand the true meaning of it.

Microchipping can help locate and identify lost animals

Many of us take every precaution we can to protect our pets. With growing technology in the veterinary field, new measures of protection for companion animals are now available to owners at a low cost. Microchipping, one of the newest ways to locate and identify lost animals, is growing in popularity and efficiency.

A microchip is a glass-encased device that bears an identification number unique to every marked animal. Once the microchip is inserted under the animal's skin and registered with the devices company, the microchip can be activated with a scanner at a veterinarian's office or local animal shelter. With no batteries or power source required to activate a microchip, this device will provide a permanent identity for your pet that will last their entire lifetime.

Many owners protect and identify their pet with a personalized collar. While this method can certainly help identify your pet, there are many strong advantages in microchipping your animal. For instance, pet collars may fall or slip off, and personalized tags may become unreadable after several years. Microchips do not face any of these challenges and have no chance of being removed, no matter where Fido wanders off to.

Dr. James Barr, clinical assistant professor at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, explains the biggest advantage microchipping has over other methods of identifying animals: "The biggest advantage is that a microchip can't be lost. It allows access to detailed information about the pet and its owner with a quick phone call to the company." Barr also adds that most microchips can be installed at veterinarian offices and sometimes even spay and neuter clinics. He further explains that the process of installing a microchip is very quick and does not hurt the animal, contrary to what some owners might believe. "A microchip is implanted under the skin between the shoulder blades using a needle and plunger, which is similar to a syringe," he said. "The needle is a rather large needle comparatively to what would be used for a vaccine, but it usually does not require sedation and is only transiently uncomfortable for the animal."

Microchips, which are about the size of a grain of rice, can be installed into dogs, cats, horses, ferrets and most other mammals. If you are considering microchipping your pet, consult your local veterinarian to see which microchipping companies are most commonly used in your area. Some chips are more universally read than others, so it is important to consider which microchips your local veterinarian and animal shelters can read. Finally, do not forget to register your chip to your name and phone number. If you move to another address or change phone numbers, you will be required to update this information with your microchip's company. A microchip will only bring your pet home if your contact information is kept up-to-date.

Although personalized collars have been traditionally used as a method of identification in pets, microchipping is fast becoming the modern solution for lost animals. Even if your pet has been microchipped, providing a collar for your pet is still important. Remember to register your pet's microchip to your name and updated contact information in order for your pet to return safely home if they ever become lost.

Texas REALTORS®

The Hard Way.

Sure, you can stand in the street in the middle of a major intersection every day for a week with an item you want to sell, put a couple of huge signs on it, and hope someone takes you up on the offer. It might just get the job done. Or you might just end up looking foolish.

The Easy Way.

Or, you can place a Classified Ad with us and have people from all over the area clamoring to take your unwanted items off your hands for a handsome profit. Quickly and easily. And for a very small investment. So what are you waiting for? Call or email now!

Early voting continues through Fri., Oct. 30

A special election has been scheduled for Tuesday, November 3.

According to County Clerk Belia Abila, all that will appear on our local ballot are the seven proposed constitutional amendments, which came out of the 84th legislative session.

Early voting ends Friday, October 30 at the Haskell County courthouse. Hours are Monday-Thursday, 8:30 to 5:00, and Friday, 8:30 to 4:30. They are closed for lunch from 12-1 p.m. The last day to apply for a ballot by mail is Friday, October 23.

For an explanation of each of the proposed amendments, as well as how they will appear on the ballot, go online to <http://votetexas.gov/november-3-2015-constitutional>
