Former local publisher joins Hall of Fame

A Donley County pioneer was honored by the Panhandle Press Association during its 106th annual convention at the Bairfield Activity Center last Friday, April 15.

Edward E. Carhart was inducted into the PPA Hall of Fame for his contributions to the development of the newspaper industry in the Panhandle during his time as publisher of The Clarendon News, which is today's Enterprise.

Carhart was born December 15, 1863, in Watertown, New York, and his family moved to Oshkosh, Wisconsin, in 1874 where, at an early age, he and his sister began publishing a religious newspaper, The Early Dawn.

In June 1878, that Wisconsin office began printing the Texas Panhandle's first newspaper once a month for Carhart's cousin, Rev. Lewis H. Carhart, who had founded the Clarendon colony in Texas earlier that year.

Two years later, Rev. Carhart enticed his young cousin to move to Texas to take over the paper. At age 16, with financial backing from his father, Ed Carhart left Wisconsin for Texas, stopping in Chicago to purchase a printing press for the colony. He shipped it to Gainesville and there loaded it into a wagon for a three-week journey to Clarendon.

Carhart

The young man installed the Panhandle's first printing press in the Clarendon News office, which was a picket house chinked with mud and with a dirt floor. The young Carhart turned the News into a weekly publication and printed his first edition in July of 1880, a feat which impressed the colonists and "swelled the hat band" of the young man. He increased the annual subscription rate from 50-cents to $2 per year.

The next year he married Mary See 'Hall of Fame' on page 10.

Ice age

Small hail formed "hail glaciers" following storms that blew through Donley County on Saturday evening, April 16, like these seen near Farm Road 1755. Rain accumulations totaled about 1.5 inches in some areas, and some of the "glaciers" were about two feet.

Thornberry recognized for strong support of military

WASHINGTON - The Military Officers Association of America (MOAA) presented US Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) with its highest annual award April 12 during a ceremony on Capitol Hill.

The Col. Arthur T. Marix Congressional Leadership Award was given to Thornberry, who serves as the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, for his strong leadership and support of the uniformed services community.

"I am very grateful for this award, but the real credit belongs to the men and women who serve or have served and their families," Thornberry said. "Our job is to support them, and I appreciate MOAA's role in advocating for our people and our national security."

MOAA is the nation's largest and most influential association of active duty, National Guard, Reserve, retired and former military officers and their families and survivors. The association annually recognizes individuals or organizations that support service members and their families.

"As chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Thornberry has shown consistent, strong leadership in supporting personnel, compensation and healthcare programs for the military community," said retired Air Force General Tony Robertson, MOAA chairman of the board. "He is a true champion for those that wear and have worn the uniform, and their families."

Enterprise wins tops honors at PPA convention

The Clarendon Enterprise was recognized with the General Excellence Award and the Community Service Award at the 106th annual Panhandle Press Association Convention held here last week.

Winners of the PPA's Better Newspaper Contest were announced Saturday at the Bairfield Activity Center, and the Enterprise received four first place plaques in the categories of Sports Photography, Editorial Writing, Feature Writing, and Advertising Initiative.

The paper got second place honors for Best Society & Lifestyles featuring Bob Watson, Peggy Cockerham, Kathy Spier, and Ben Estlack; Special Sections; Humorous Columns by Roger Estlack; and News Photos by Roger and Ella Estlack. The Enterprise received second place for Best Website, News Writing, and Front Page Layout.

Clarendon was third in Human Interest Photos and Serious Columns by Roger Estlack, and the "Cub Reporter," Ben Estlack earned Honorable Mentions for columns in the Serious and Humorous categories.

Clarendon also took home the Community Service Award for its coverage of the water recreation project, and the Cub Reporter was specifically mentioned by judges for his columns on the subject.

Last week's convention began Thursday, April 14, with a welcome dinner held at the Saints' Roost Museum and catered by the Honey-Do Spoiler Chuckwagon team from Pampa. Rev. Black Flowers of Clarendon performed live music, and Jo Shaller, also of Clarendon, recited cowboy poetry. The Museum, which is the permanent home of the PPA Hall of Fame, was open for tours for members of the press.

Featured speakers at the convention on Friday were Kevin Slimp and J. Pat Hickman. Group classes were conducted all day Friday by Slimp, a respected industry trainer and speaker, who held sessions on Customer Service, Page & Ad Design, and Photoshop tips.

Hickman keynoted Friday night's banquet, catered by the Bar H Dude Ranch. He is the president of Happy State Bank, one of the fastest growing banks in America and a longtime PPA Sponsor. He talked about the bank's mission statement and the keys to success.

Dr. Randy Reddick of the Texas Tech College of Media & Communication and Ashlyn Tubbs, former Clarendon Enterprise reporter and current reporter for KCBT-TV in Lubbock, facilitated a discussion Saturday on ways to use social media to connect with readers.

Saturday's awards luncheon was catered by Great Western Dining, and the Best Western Red River Inn was the convention's host hotel. PPA members throughout the convention were extremely complimentary of Clarendon and especially of the amenities at Clarendon College and the Saints' Roost Museum.

The PPA was led this year by Clarendon's Ashlee Estlack. She will continue on the board as Immediate Past President with the following officers for 2016-2017: Larry Thornton of Muleshoe, President; Joni Yara of Booker, Vice President; and Roger Estlack of Clarendon, Secretary/Treasurer, along with directors Tara Huff of Fritch, Robin Brooks of Dumas, Ginger Wilson of Childress, Robert Arrowsmith of Hereford, and Rob Langrell of Clovis.

County seeks to save water

Conserving water on was among the topics discussed at last Monday's meeting of the Donley County Commissioners' Court.

County Judge John Howard said commissioners are interested in saving money on watering, and the county is studying the water it puts on the lawn around the courthouse.

The watering schedule has been cut back to two days per week, and county officials are making sure that the sprinkler system is set to run in the most efficient way possible.

A substantial water leak was discovered recently in the water system where a line had been broken. Howard hopes fixing that and making other changes to the sprinkler system will help the county reduce its usage substantially.

If water usage cannot be curtailed sufficiently, the county will consider installing a well for landscape purposes, Howard said.

In other county business, officials set aside the idea moving the flagpole currently located near the Courthouse Annex and opted instead to trim the Liberty Tree to keep the branches out of the flags.

Commissioners also discussed apparent vandalism going on in restrooms of either the Annex or the Courthouse where someone has been flushing paper towels down the toilet.

The court also considered adjusting the operating hours of the county trash transfer station to allow employee Mark Shearer more time for courthouse maintenance, and discussed the need to replace the mower at the trash station.

Howard also said commissioners are considering the possibility of having to reallocate some funds later in the fiscal year. Unbudgeted juvenile expenses could reach $50,000 this year, the judge said.

Candidates have to get real about Our Debt

By Michael D. Tanner

You might not know it from listening to the presidential candidates – either Democratic or Republican – but our national debt has not gone away. They have promised all sorts of tax cuts and spending increases, but the words “deficit” or “debt” hardly ever cross their lips.

True, a combination of increased revenue and spending restraint reduced last year’s budget deficit to just $439 billion. That may still sound like a lot of money – it is – but, when you consider that the deficit was more than $1.4 trillion just seven years ago, it does represent real progress.

Big government has become unaffordable. It’s long past time that the candidates faced up to that.

But this year the deficit will top $534 billion, an increase of almost $100 billion. And from here the tide of red ink keeps rising. Within just six years, by 2022, we could be back to trillion-dollar annual deficits as far as the eye can see.

The deficit is the measure of just one year’s profligacy – add all those deficits together and you get the national debt, which currently tops $19.2 trillion. That’s more than 102% of our gross domestic product. That’s right: We owe more than the value of all the goods and services produced in this country each year. Within a decade, the Congressional Budget Office warns that the gross federal debt will top $29.1 trillion.

And that’s the good news.

If you include the unfunded liabilities of Social Security and Medicare, the total debt could run to $88 trillion or more.

And what do the presidential candidates offer? Goodies for everyone and nary a tough choice in sight.

Donald Trump has said tackling the national debt will be easy. Yet he has put any reforms to entitlement programs like Social Security and Medicare off the table, despite the fact that those two programs account for almost two-fifths of federal spending. Instead he offers vague nostrums about reducing “waste, fraud, and abuse,” a promise made by every presidential candidate since Jimmy Carter. And, while Trump would do little or nothing to cut spending, he offered the biggest tax cut in U.S. history. The Tax Foundation, which takes a favorable view of the economic growth spurred by lower taxes, estimates that Trump’s plan would add more than $10 trillion to the debt over the next decade, before accounting for additional interest costs.

In contrast, Ted Cruz, does acknowledge the need for entitlement reform and has called for a number of cuts in domestic spending. But he would offset those reductions with increases in defense spending and tax cuts. Using the same methodology, the Tax Foundation estimates that Cruz’s tax plan would reduce federal revenue by $768 billion over 10 years.

While the Republicans want to keep spending while cutting taxes, the Democrats want to raise taxes while spending even more.

Bernie Sanders has called for as much as $18 trillion in new spending. Depending on the costs of his health plan, even with trillions in new taxes his plans would add between $2 trillion and $15 trillion to the debt.

All of this makes Hillary Clinton look positively abstemious. She has proposed some $1.1 trillion in new spending (including targeted tax credits) over 10 years, but would pay for most of it with new taxes. Yet, while Clinton wouldn’t necessarily make the debt worse, she wouldn’t reduce it either.

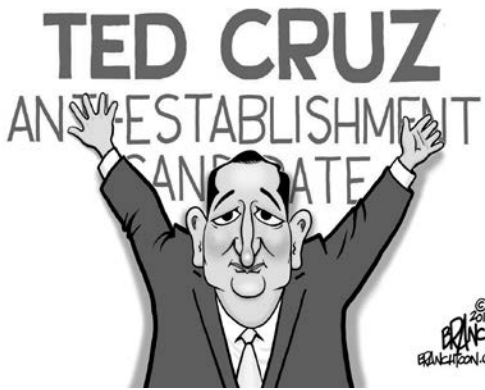

Both Sanders and Clinton rule out any serious effort to reform entitlements. They are both open to increasing Social Security benefits, which would all but guarantee an explosion of new debt down the road.

While some might say that paying for spending is better than running more debt, both debt and taxes extract resources from the private sector and turn them over to the government. As Milton Friedman pointed out, the true cost of government is spending, regardless of how that spending is paid for. Who pays the bill might vary, but the burden is the same.

The CBO projects that federal spending could consume 34% of GDP by mid-century in its alternative scenario. Add in state and local spending, and government will consume roughly half of everything that we produce. That’s an unsustainable burden no matter whether it’s “paid for” or not.

It’s time for the candidates to stop playing Santa Claus. A massive tax cut unaccompanied by spending restraint and entitlement reform is irresponsible. So, too, are promises to spend more, even if accompanied by tax hikes. Big government has become unaffordable. It’s long past time that the candidates faced up to that.

Assaulted by avalanche of words

A different kind of avalanche sure to qualify as “breaking news” may soon come crashing down. And lesser ones will follow.

Crumbling fast are some universal, rock-solid beliefs the masses have believed to be unchanging truths. To illustrate, I cite findings I didn’t even know I was looking for during a recent visit to Globe Life Park, where the Texas Rangers play baseball.

At the outset, I point to an adage dating back to 1862: “Sticks and stones may break my bones, but words will never hurt me.” Columnist Robyn Short thinks whoever originated this statement was “on the receiving end of a very kind-speaking stick thrower.” She – along with millions of us in lines snaking around the world – believes words do hurt. And they crash into our senses increasingly from all directions....

Many times they hurt. They also may offend, confuse, overwhelm, distract, alarm and threaten. With their excessive range, they also can both minimize and maximize. What else can so effectively bludgeon us into submission on one hand, or bore us to sleep on the other?

If words were hail, many of us would be declared total losses.

Yep, broken bones can be fixed. Psyches? Not so fast. How much more, pray tell, can we mortals process, depending presently on mere eyes and ears?....

Much competes for our attention. We’ve grown accustomed to ever more sophisticated traditional media. Add heaping helpings from social media devices, and our receptors grow numb.

At Globe Life Park, three new

“pitches” were noted. (Reference is to advertising “pitches” – not the ones thrown from the mound.) Most notable is the new left field message board. With this additional square footage, much more “information” now is available, perhaps soon including players’ DNA and blood types....

the idle american
by don newbury

The new foul poles, with three huge words painted vertically, urge us to “Eat More Fowl.” I like Chick-fil-A sandwiches, and freely admit that most of its ads are clever.

The ones on foul poles are not. (It is a “lousy chicken joke.”) Fans are eager to know if balls smacked out of the ballpark are fair or foul. And what about the folks in the outfield seats, having to look around the “Eat More Fowl” message from the back side? Indeed, the misplaced message could lead to our eating less fowl.

I had foolishly assumed some parts of the ballpark would be spared secondary assignment as cogs in the giant advertising machine. The decision to run ads on the foul poles is as ill-advised – falling into the same tacky category as ads swinging from cross bars on goal posts, pop-ups from backboards when baskets are made, or psychedelic colors flashing from nets upon scored hockey goals....

Finally, how about ads worded to make provisions for expansion? Here again, Globe Life Park is cited.

Portals push Dr Pepper, “AN official soft drink of the Texas Rangers.” (Bold face is mine.) Does this mean there will be more soft drinks – like players – to be named later?

My guess is Dr Pepper got more “bang” from the opening pitch “thrown” recently by a 105-year-old woman. She credited “drinking three Dr Peppers a day” for her longevity. She said doctors had advised her against it, adding, “They died first, so I guess they made a mistake.”...

Maybe there’s no end to this vexing assault on our senses by words. A haunting thought mentioned years ago by somebody famous sums it up: “We can see around the world in seconds, hear around the world in seconds and be around the world in hours. But we have to use the same nervous system Moses had when he led the children of Israel from the land of bondage.”

Man’s inhumanity to man seems to be on a downhill slope, gaining speed.

It doesn’t appear the masses will rise up, even if the next thing we know, Chick-fil-A – or another well-known corporate giant – may claim sponsorship of the National Anthem when we’re taken out to the old ballgame. ‘Course, this whole piece is from a guy who, at age 14, painted an outdoor sign reading: “Handguns and Snow Cones.” In our small shop, another guy sold the guns; I was the concessionaire....

DECISION 2016

Lots and lots of little plastic bricks

It’s like visiting a Lego art museum with a little bit of Disneyland and Six Flags mixed in. Recently we took a trip to LEGOLAND, an amusement park at Carlsbad, California that is celebrating its tenth anniversary this year. Everything revolves around the little interlocking plastic bricks. The park has full-size cars made completely of Legos. It has statues of people, movie characters, giant dragons and dinosaurs sculpted by the talented hands of Lego artists and designers. The crowning achievement and the park’s main attraction is Miniland: scale models of Las Vegas, San Francisco, New Orleans and New York made from (guess what) Legos.

LEGOLAND has exciting rides, too, everything from roller coasters to miniature Lego cars that kids six years old can drive. You can find plenty of good things to eat and observe. Kids waiting to go on a ride can play with Legos. One of the venues lets kids make their own Lego cars and race them down a ramp. You can watch 4-D movies with special glasses and effects that make you feel what it’s like to zoom down a roller coaster.

My son BZ has been a Lego enthusiast since boyhood. Now his son Max is a huge Lego fan who subscribes to the Lego magazine. He constantly looks at it. Each issue is practically in shreds before the next one comes. “I have a lot of Lego stuff,” says Max. “I’m a pretty good builder.” His daddy helps him a lot.

We took 6-year-old Max, his 3-year-old little brother Aiden and our six-year-old grandson Caleb to LEGOLAND. Making cars and racing them gave the six year olds the most enjoyment. They both say, “I won most of the races.” Aiden liked Miniland.

The park in Carlsbad is one of only four LEGOLAND amusement parks in the world. Others are in England, Denmark and Germany. Another is under construction in Malaysia. The little plastic bricks have created an empire that started in the workshop of a carpenter in Billund, Denmark named Ole Kirk Christiansen. He began making wooden toys in 1932 and in 1934 started a manufacturing group. He named it LEGO, developed from the Danish phrase leg godt, which means “play well.” The company started making plastic toys in 1940.

Plants in Denmark and the Czech Republic produce 600 bricks a second or 20 billion per year. Play sets for different age groups feature pirates, Vikings, castles, Star Wars figures and vehicles, Indiana Jones, SpongeBob Square Pants and Bob the Builder. Characters from Toy Story have just been added.

Lego bricks were based largely on England’s Kiddicraft Self-Locking Bricks, released in 1947. These were originally made of wood, later changed to plastic. Lego later acquired the rights to Kiddicraft. Lego’s modern brick design was developed in 1958 and bricks from that year are compatible with current bricks. Since its beginning, Lego has produced 400 billion bricks.

This paper’s first duty is to print all the news that is fit to print, honestly and fairly to all, unbiased by any consideration even its own editorial opinion.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing, or reputation of any person, firm, or corporation which may occur in the columns of The Clarendon Enterprise will be gladly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the management.

Open House at the Church of Jesus of Latter-day Saints

The public is invited to a tour of the newly renovated meetinghouse for the church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints located at 1304 7th St NW in Childress.

The branch president of the congregation, Christopher Tipa, has announced an open house on Saturday, April 23, from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

A congregation that began in the 1970s with less than 10 members meeting in the Odd Fellows Lodge has now grown to over 200 members from several different towns. This meetinghouse serves as home to members from Childress, Quanah, Memphis, Wellington, Paducah, Clarendon, and Matador.

Many members sacrifice time and money to make the lengthy drive to Childress to be united in spirit and purpose as they worship at the closest meetinghouse.

It has been a wonderful blessing to many of the original pioneers who were instrumental in establishing the church in this area to be privileged to see the fruits of their labors.

People of all ages, faiths and background are welcome to attend.

Indoor tanning and super (un)natural product claims

Hi, gang! Between printer problems, understanding manuals, and getting a mower ready to mow my lawn, I have had a very bad week. Just getting down and back up while trying to change a mower blade is very hard. Especially when I have to call Audie to come by brake the bolt loose. All we "older" folk know what I am talking about. Even easy shop projects take longer.

Sorry, I just had to gripe a little. This week we have a very interesting article on Skin Cancer, and Super (UN)natural product claims.

"Indoor Tanning" by the Federal Trade Commission.

Ads for tanning salons, sun lamps, and tanning beds promise a bronzed body year-round, but experts agree that ultraviolet (UV) radiation from these devices damages the skin and poses serious health risks. Sunburns and tans are signs of skin damage. Deliberate tanning, either indoors or out, increases your risk of melanoma and non-melanoma skin cancer. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC), the nation's consumer protection agency, and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), enforce laws dealing with tanning devices. The FTC investigates false, misleading, and deceptive advertising claims about the devices; the FDA enforces regulations that deal with the labels on the devices.

Myths and Reality: Here are some claims commonly made about indoor tanning – and the facts. "Get a beautiful tan indoors without increasing your risk of skin cancer." The lamps used in tanning booths and beds emit two forms of ultraviolet (UV) radiation UVA and UVB. UVB rays penetrate the top layers of your skin and are most responsible for burns. UVA rays penetrate to the deeper layers of skin and often are associated with allergic reactions, like a rash. Both UVA and UVB rays damage the skin and can lead to skin cancer. What's more, scientists say, tanning can cause premature aging, immune suppression, and serious eye damage.

"Indoor tanning is safer than the sun because the environment is controlled." Sun lamps may be more dangerous than the sun because they can be used at the same high intensity every day of the year. Radiation from the sun varies in intensity with the time of day, the season, and cloud cover. Studies show that many people who tan indoors get burns. "Indoor tanning is approved by the government." No U.S. government agency recommends the use of indoor tanning equipment. And the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC), part of the World Health Organization, also has concluded that tanning devices that emit UV radiation are more dangerous than previously thought. IARC moved these devices into the highest cancer risk category.

"Indoor tanning is a safe way to increase vitamin D levels."

Vitamin D has many roles in human health. For example, it is essential for promoting good bone health. While UVB radiation helps your body produce vitamin D, you don't need a tan to get that benefit. In fact, 10 to 15 minutes of unprotected natural sun exposure on your face and hands 2 to 3 times a week during the summer gives you a healthy dose of vitamin D. You also can get vitamin D from food: good sources include low-fat milk, salmon, tuna, and fortified orange juice.

Super (Un)natural Product

bob's whittlin' by bob watson

Claims by Seena Gressin Attorney, Division of Consumer & Business Education, FTC. For lovers of word-association games: what words leap to mind when you think of "all natural" ingredients? Did you pick "Dimethicone," "Phenoxyethanol," or "Polyethylene"? Perhaps "Butyloctyl alicylate," "Polyquaternium-37," or "Neopentyl Glycol Diethylhexanoate"? No? Well, not to worry you haven't lost the game. But five companies that tagged products that contained one or more of these ingredients as "all natural" or "100 percent natural" are now rethinking their strategy.

The FTC alleged the companies misrepresented their personal care products including sunscreens, moisturizers, shampoos, conditioners, and shower gels, by describing them as "all natural" or "100 percent natural" when they contained one or more synthetic ingredients.

According to the FTC, the claims showed up in product names, such as "All Natural Hand and Body Lotion," sold under the trade name ShiKai by Trans-India Products, Inc., of Santa Rosa, Calif., and "Coconut Shea All Natural Styling Elixir," sold under the trade name EDEN Body-Works by ABS Consumer Products, LLC, of Memphis, Tenn.

The FTC said the claims also showed up in product ads. For example, The Erickson Marketing Group Inc., of Arvada, Colo., which uses the trade name Rocky Mountain Sunscreen, and California Naturel, Inc., of Sausalito, Calif., both advertised their sunscreens as "all natural," while Beyond Coastal, of Salt Lake City, touted its sunscreen as "100 percent natural." Four of the companies have agreed to proposed orders that would prohibit them from claiming that any product is 100 percent natural unless they have reliable evidence to back up the claim. The orders also would require them to have proof for any claims they make about the products' environmental or health benefits. The Commission issued a complaint against the fifth company, California Naturel, seeking the same relief. How can you avoid being burned by misleading "all natural" claims for sunscreen and other products? Take the claims with a non-synthetic grain of salt, check out the ingredients list on the package, and please visit our website for information about shopping for products that claim to have health or beauty benefits.

Be safe out there.

Enterprise team wins awards at PPA convention

This week is my cousin Daniel's birthday. I want to wish him a very happy birthday. I really hope he likes the motorcycle that I got him. The motorcycle has two wheels in the front and two wheels in the back. When it moves the lights change colors really fast. It can also drive really fast. The reason why I got him this is because Nathan and I already have one, and I thought it would be fair if he got one too.

Last weekend was the Press Convention and this year we had it in Clarendon. I got two honorable mentions and I got one plaque for Community Service. My sister got 2nd place in News Photos. This is my first plaque I have ever gotten. And I am really excited about getting it and I am trying to find a spot to put it.

CCISD honors March leaders

Clarendon CISD has released the names of its student Servant Leaders for March.

These students were chosen by their teachers for displaying the characteristics of servant leaders. Clarendon is blessed with great kids, and those that have been chosen for recognition are but a small sample of the leaders at CCISD.

The following students were selected because they are respectful, kind, hardworking, perseverant, have a willingness to do what is right even when no one is watching, are leaders in the classrooms and hallways, and assist their classmates by tutoring before and after school.

Additionally, they have overcome unanticipated absences to not only stay caught up with their work but also have shown growth, honored their classmates, volunteered whenever help was needed, and helped their teachers carry items.

Elementary leaders are Kindergarten, Makynna Williams; 1st, Mimrosz Hall; 2nd, Kami Fierro; 3rd, Rosa Olivias; 4th, Jaxan McAnear; and 5th, Addison Willoughby.

Junior High leaders are 6th, Kami Duncan; 7th, Jordan Johnson; and 8th, Regan Allen.

High School leaders are 9th, Marquis McGuire; 10th, Josh Cobb; 11th, MaRae Hall; and 12th, Ana Araujo

Servant leaders make unselfish choices that are in the interest of others, and they do so without prompting. The school joins with these students' families in saying congratulations, we are very proud of you and the actions that define you. Continue to live out the belief that true leaders are servants of others.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting April 19, 2016, with Boss Lion Jacob Fangman in command.

We had 13 members present this week as we enjoyed the rain.

Lion Ashlee Estlack reported on the college and said graduation is coming up in three weeks.

Lion John Howard reported on the county and also followed up on his program last week regarding the economic status of Donley County. Grants available for the county are based on economic status of residents and that is based on Census data.

Lion Rick Sheppard reported that Donley County ranks 53rd in Health Outcomes among Texas' 254 counties, according to a recent study. That puts us ahead of several counties, including Potter, Harris, and Dallas counties.

Election of officers for 2016-2017 will be held next week.

There being no further business, we were adjourned to spread good cheer throughout our fair county.

Elementary Servant Leaders this month are Addison Willoughby, 5th; Jaxan McAnear, 4th; Mimrosz Hall, 1st; MaKynna Williams, Kindergarten; Kami Fierro, 2nd; and Rosa Olivias, 3rd.

Junior High Servant Leaders this month are Kami Duncan, Regan Allen, and Jordan Johnson.

High School Servant Leaders this month are Marquis McGuire, Ana Araujo, MaRae Hall, and Josh Cobb.

The Hedley FFA judging teams competed at District last week. The Dairy team placed 2nd and the Horse team also placed 2nd.

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST

Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO or Company) publishes this notice that on March 16, 2016, it filed its Statement of Intent and Application for Authority to Amend Transmission Cost Recovery Factor (TCRF) with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT or Commission) in Docket No. 45691. The filing was made in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA) § 36.209 and the Tex. Admin. Code (TAC) § 25.239. The TCRF will recover SWEPCO's reasonable and necessary costs for transmission infrastructure improvements as well as changes in wholesale transmission charges under a tariff approved by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to the extent that the costs or charges have not otherwise been recovered. In this application, SWEPCO seeks to recover its transmission capital investments through December 31, 2015. SWEPCO also seeks to recover through the TCRF approved transmission charges that are not otherwise being recovered through current rates.

This notice is being published in accordance with PURA § 36.103 and 16 TAC § 22.51(a)(1).

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

SWEPCO requests that the Commission approve a TCRF that would result in an increase in SWEPCO's Texas retail revenue requirement of $4,922,815 per annum above the amount approved in SWEPCO's previous TCRF case (PUCT Docket No. 44496). This amounts to a 1.55 percent increase in SWEPCO's overall annualized current Texas retail revenue requirement. SWEPCO proposes that its requested rate change become effective 35 days after the filing of the Statement of Intent and Application. The proposed effective date is subject to suspension and extension by actions that may be taken by the Commission.

All customers in SWEPCO's Texas retail rate classes will be affected by this change. The impact of the rate change on various customer classes will vary from the overall impact described in this notice.

REQUEST FOR TEMPORARY RATES

SWEPCO requests that the Commission or assigned administrative law judge issue an order establishing SWEPCO's existing TCRF as a temporary rate effective 120 days after the filing of the Statement of Intent and Application subject to refund or surcharge to the extent the TCRF established pursuant to the Statement of Intent and Application differs from the existing TCRF.

CONTACT INFORMATION

Persons with questions or who want more information on SWEPCO's Statement of Intent and Application may contact SWEPCO at 428 Travis Street, Shreveport, Louisiana 71101, or call toll-free at (888) 216-3523 during normal business hours. A complete copy of the Statement of Intent and Application and related filings is available for inspection at the address listed in the previous sentence.

The Commission has assigned Docket No. 45691 to this proceeding. Persons who wish to intervene or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission at (512) 936-7120 or (888) 782-8477. Hearing- and speech-impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the Commission at (512) 936-7136. A request for intervention or for further information should refer to Docket No. 45691. Unless otherwise ordered by the presiding officer, motions to intervene will be due 45 days from the date SWEPCO filed its Statement of Intent and Application with the Commission.

Broncos battle Valley and Memphis

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos' strategy last week seemed to be to put the game away early as they pounced on both Valley and Memphis from the beginning and gained two big District wins. They started with Valley at home defeating them 12-2 and then traveled to Memphis and earned a huge 18-2 win.

Senior Caleb Cobb was on the mound against Valley and only allowed one earned run while throwing seven strikeouts and walking two. Valley did muster four hits off of Cobb, but could never turn them into runs.

The Broncos' third inning was big as they scored six runs to get them going. Cobb hit a sacrifice fly, Kade Hunsaker slammed an RBI double and Nick Shadle had a walk. Later in the sixth, Shadle mustered a double to keep the inning alive. Chance Lockhart was golden at the plate going 2-2 with a double and single.

On Friday, the Broncos blasted the Cyclones to get their other District win for the week. They scored thirteen runs in the opening inning to set the tempo of the game and send Memphis a message of their dominance. Lockhart threw the win and racked up 10 strikeouts while allowing only one earned run on two hits and one walk over the five innings.

Senior catcher Bryce Hatley and Kade Hunsaker each slammed a two-run home run in the first inning to add to Clarendon's points on the board and Shadle added an RBI. Hunsaker had five RBIs in the game on four hits.

The Broncos kept things going with a single by C. Cobb and a double by Hunsaker. Ray Jaramillo and Payton Hicks added to the scoreboard as well and Josh Cobb slammed a double.

"I thought Chance pitched a great game," coach Brad Elam said. "He had a perfect game going into the fifth inning. He was dominating."

The Broncos will finish regular season play when they take on Wellington at home on Friday, April 22, at 4:00 p.m. and travel to Nazareth on Tuesday, April 26, to play at 4:30 p.m.

Lady Broncos tied for Second in District

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Bronco softball team added to their winning record last week with two huge wins over Booker and Gruver. As of now, the Lady Broncos are tied for second place and are 14-6 overall and 7-3 in district play. On Tuesday, the ladies easily handled Booker 18-2. According to head coach Gary Jack, the ladies played well especially in the first inning where they scored 11 runs to take a big lead.

"Everybody seemed to hit the ball very well," Jack said. "And Shelby (Baxter) hit a deep one against the wind."

Briley Chadwick was on the mound early in the game and Briana

Butler came in to finish.

"Our defense played good with Jensen Hatley making a very nice play behind first base," Jack said. "Bri and Ally (Hogan) had triples and Shelby, Hannah (Hommel), and Karlee (Adams) all had doubles in this game."

On their home field Friday, the Lady Broncos came from behind to oust the Gruver Lady Greyhounds 9-5. Hogan was on the mound and Butler was behind the plate.

The Lady Broncos trailed 1-4 until the fourth inning when they were able to put four runs on the board to take a one-point lead.

"That all came with a couple hits by Emily (Johnson), Briana, and Karlee to load the bases," Jack said. "Then Ally hit a double scoring all three. We went ahead 5-4 and held them with three great defensive catches by Zaryia Smith and one by Hannah Hommel."

At Baxter's next at bat, she slammed one to the fence for a double and scored later on a ground ball. Then hits by Baxter, Hommel, and Chadwick put three more runs on the board.

"It was a big District win for us," Jack said.

The Lady Broncos will play Follett at home on Friday, April 22, at 4:00 p.m. to end regular season play. Then they will begin to prepare for post-season play.

Cheering For The Owls

Cheering for the Owls during the 2016-2017 school year will be Alissa Upton, Kasie Hinton, Jayden Lambert, Madison Shelp, Kenlee Lambert, and Jasmine Lockeby.

Hall of Fame:

Estella Brewer. They were the first young couple married in Donley County, and they eventually made their home in Panhandle where they had four children. Carhart sold the Clarendon newspaper in 1884 later and his family became early pioneers in Carson County.

During his lifetime, Ed was engaged in the drug store business, banking, an auto dealership, and a grain elevator. He served for a time as postmaster of Panhandle and as treasurer of Carson County. Ed Carhart died on February 4, 1946, and is buried in Panhandle.

Carhart's great-grandson, Pat Carhart of Rio Rancho, New Mexico, accepted the award for the family.

Also on Friday night, longtime Groom News publisher Phil Miller was inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Members of the PPA Hall of Fame are listed on a plaque that is permanently housed at the Saints' Roost Museum in its newspaper exhibit. Ed Carhart is the fifth Clarendon journalist to join the Hall of Fame.
