Broncos defeat New Deal, 75-56

By Sandy Antenberg

The 2017 Clarendon Broncos are flying high as they enter into the State Tournament in San Antonio this Friday, March 10.

The Broncos' determination and "never quit" strategy paid off in the Regional tournament, and they are hoping for the same in the state tournament.

Clarendon will take on Thorndale in the first round that will be played Friday, March 10, at 10:00 a.m. in the Alamodome in San Antonio. The Broncos are going in 30-2 and Thorndale is posting a 27-9 season record. The Championship game will be played at 1:30 pm on Saturday, March 11.

This is the Broncos' first return to the state tournament since 2011, and they earned the right to the tournament by owning the court against two very tough teams at the Regional Tournament in Levelland this past weekend.

They defeated second ranked Anthony on Friday in the first round and knocked off New Deal in the Championship game. The Broncos struck early against both teams and commanded the momentum in each game. Earlier in the week, they were able to punch their ticket to the Regional tournament by defeating a good Panhandle team for the third time this season.

On Tuesday, the Broncos got by the Panthers by the score of 51-44. The Broncos jumped on them early and took an 18-5 lead after the first quarter of play. At one point in the second quarter, the Broncos were up 25-5, but a momentum change allowed Panhandle to begin to get back into the game. The Broncos held a 32-20 lead at the break, but the Panthers closed the gap to seven after the third period. The Broncos were determined, however, and held on to get the seven-point win.

The Panther defense was all over Marshall Johnson, but he still managed 12 points from his post position. Colt Wood put in 11 and Chance Lockhart added 10. Bryce Graham picked away at the Wildcats' offense with their stellar defense to shut them down. The Broncos did suffer from too many fouls and too many missed free throws, but they were able to overcome those adversities and get the win.

"We were able to get enough stops to win the game," coach Brandt Lockhart said. "We had two players foul out and the rest of the team stepped up."

After defeating Anthony, the Broncos had the confidence they needed and were determined not to get any offense going. Anthony was able to close the gap somewhat in the second half, but all game long, the Broncos picked away at the Wildcats' offense with their stellar defense to shut them down. The Broncos did suffer from too many fouls and too many missed free throws, but they were able to overcome those adversities and get the win.

Grant pays for new patrol vehicle for sheriff's office

A new patrol vehicle is on the job in Donley County thanks to a grant from the governor's office through the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Deputy Miranda Betts says the new 2017 Chevrolet Tahoe that she has nicknamed Archie is loaded with all the latest equipment and will have no problem catching those who might try to evade a ticket.

"It will definitely run," she says. County Judge John Howard said the Edward Byrne Justice Assistance Grant awarded $99,211 to the county to cover most of the cost of vehicle, all of Betts' salary for fiscal year 2017, and all the costs of supplies, equipment, and fuel for the vehicle.

Howard did most of the paperwork for the grant, but he says it was really a collaborative effort between his office, Sheriff Butch Blackburn, and DPS Sgt. Chris Ward to gather the information for the application.

"The county retired a patrol truck as trade-in for the new vehicle, which the judge says is better suited to the job of the highway safety office."

"This is a high quality patrol vehicle," Howard said. "It is more stable and more capable and fits in better with us complementing DPS efforts on the highway."

The judge said the county will be applying for continuing grant funds for the next four years to help cover a portion of Betts' salary. Those funds, if approved, would decline over time - 80 percent next year, 60, 40, and 20 percent.

The Tahoe will have about a three- to four-year service life with the county before it needs to be traded off while it still retains a good value, Howard and Blackburn both said. At which time the county might be able to apply for another equipment grant to fund its replacement.

Howard said Donley County's grant was ranked first out of seven applications reviewed by the PRPC.

"Given our position, we have to be smart about seeing opportunities like this to save the county money," Howard said. "Someone is going to get this money, so we might as well apply for it." Howard also said that the county is grateful for the job Betts is doing to patrol the highways, and Betts says she is thankful for the new vehicle.

"I would like to thank Butch and Judge Howard for their work on this grant, and for helping me have the best most up to date equipment possible to do the job," Betts said.

CC offers honors program

High school students taking dual credit classes from Clarendon College will have new opportunities for success through a new Honors College program starting this fall. Honors College students would receive priority advising and get specialized transfer advising from both Texas Tech University and West Texas A&M University and have opportunities to attend transfer days at both universities.

"We're very excited about the opportunity to meet with these students and help them be successful," said CC President Robert Riza. "This gives them an opportunity to leave home, adjust to college life, get their core classes completed or finish an associate's degree, and then transfer to a university."

The program, approved by the Board of Regents last month, will waive tuition and fees for college hours equal to the number of dual credit hours completed for CC students from outside of Donley County. Those students would be required to live in student housing on the Clarendon campus and could not combine their waiver with other CC institutional scholarships.

Donley County resident high school students are also eligible for the Honors College without being required to live on campus, but their

Preservation Texas honors Mulkey

Clarendon's Mulkey Theatre project was recognized with a Preservation Texas "Honor Award" during a ceremony and reception at the Grand Lodge of Texas in Waco last Monday, February 27.

Preservation Texas Executive Director Evan Thompson honored the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation's efforts to save the 1946 theatre, which was listed as one of the Most Endangered Places in Texas in 2012.

"The Mulkey Theatre has been restored through the leadership of the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation," Thompson said. "They have shown tremendous vision in their community, and what's more important is that it has become magnet for the community again and the Mulkey is a centerpiece for fun activities in the spring."

Since 2012, the theatre's exterior has been completely rehabilitated, the former Mulkey barber shop is now the city's official visitor center and is the home of the CEDC and Chamber of Commerce office, the lobby and concessions area has been refurbished, and accessible seating and bathroom facilities have been developed. Fundraising for further interior renovations is ongoing.

The Mulkey was one of 19 historic restoration and rehabilitation projects honored last week. The 2017 Honor Awards recognize successful efforts to save irreplaceable and authentic endangered historic places in Texas. "We're proud to recognize projects as diverse as small houses from the mid-1800s in central Texas to a landmark twentieth century architecture on page 3

Fraud, charitable solicitations, and prize scams

Hi, gang! Extra fine reading today. Fraud, charitable solicitations, and prize scams. Read on and be safer.

"The top frauds of 2016" by Monica Vuca, FTC. Three million of you called, wrote, or went online to tell us about fraud or identify them in 2016. Each of those reports is important to us...

2016's big news is that, for the first time, impostor scams passed identity theft for the number of complaints. Data collection was the top complaint for the second year in a row thanks in large part to one contributor of reports that let people forward debt collection messages from their mobile phone.

What else was news in 2016? For military communities, impostor scams are the number one complaint category, followed by identity theft.

Her talk in March, titled "How to Perfect your Book Launch by Starting Early and Finishing Strong" will cover the following topics: How to set a timeline for publication; How to set up Pre-Orders & why they are so beneficial; How to execute a fantastic ARC (Advance Reader's Copy) strategy to increase reviews; Media idea to create a buzz; How to create powerful social media posts for release day; Testimonials to get your readers eager and ready to buy; Checklists and tips to keep you organized; and Resources to help you along the way.

Estlack's cover Bronco games

had a lot of fun getting to cover it. One of the cool things was to get to sit down on the court and walk around while the game was happening. I was taking pictures on Friday and helping Dad livestream the game.

On Saturday, we went back to Levelland because we had won on Friday. That day I got to take pictures and helping update our Facebook with score while my Mom was livestreaming and Dad took pictures. In the end, we won by almost 20 points. We went to one Guy's pizza in Lubbock to celebrate and afterwards we went to the Holy Holy for a fountain Coke and milkshakes. I've never tasted a better Coca-Cola.

This week we will be going to State in basketball in San Antonio at the Alamodome. Good luck, Broncos! I hope you do really good at State!

paying $744 million to scammers with a median payment of $450. More than half of people who reported told us how they were contacted for the scam and 77 percent of those people said it was the telephone. Only 8 percent said email and 3 percent said mail.

While reports of fraud were 42 percent of reports in 2016, identity theft was 13 percent of reports - most of it about employment- or tax-related fraud (34 percent) or credit card fraud (33 percent). And there's lots more information in the Consumer Sentinel Data Book, just released today. Look up your state and see what people are reporting in your communities.

Your reports matter. That is, the FTC brought cases that forced companies like Volkswagen ($10 billion) and Herbalife ($200 million) to refund money to consumers injured by those companies' deceptive practices, and also directly returned over $160 million to people affected by scams.

If you ever spot a scam, please tell the FTC. Here's why: If you think you see a scam, talk with someone. Your story could help someone avoid that scam. Then report it to the Federal Trade Commission at FTC.gov/povictim. Your story could help the FTC stop the scammy.

"FTC to Explore Charitable Solicitations" by Colleen Tressler, FTC.

boob's whittin' by bob austin

Americans are among the most generous people in the world, contributing more than $373 billion to charity in 2015, according to The Giving Institute.

We're all familiar with phone calls, mailers, and TV and radio spots seeking donations, but the times are changing. Evolving marketing practices and new technologies have introduced new ways to solicit contributions and donate. That's just one of the reasons the FTC and the National Association of State Charities Officials (NASCO) are hosting a workshop on March 21, 2017 in Washington, DC. The event, Give & Take: Consumers, Contributions, and Charity, will bring together regulators, researchers, charity watchdogs, donor advocates, and members of the nonprofit sector. Discussions will focus on how people evaluate and respond to various charitable solicitation practices and the role of consumer protection. For more information, please visit the workshop page.

In the meantime, consider these tips when asked to give: Donate to charities you know and trust and that have a proven track record. Be alert for charities that seem to be springing up overnight in connection with current events. Check out the charity with the Better Business Bureau's (BBB) Identity Wise Giving Alliance, Charity Navigator, Charity Watch, or GuideStar. Don't assume that charity messages posted on social media are legitimate. Research the organization yourself. When texting to donate, confirm the number with the source before you donate. The charge will show up on your mobile phone bill, but donations are not immediate. It can take as long as 90 days for the charity to receive the funds. Find out if the charity or fundraiser must be registered in your state by contacting the National Association of State Charity Officials.

"Prize Scams: Don't Pay to Play" by Ari Lazarus, FTC. You get a phone call from an excited caller saying you've won a trip, a car, or a lot of money. Next, they ask you to send money before you get the prize. That is a sure sign of a scam. Recently, we've heard about a spike in prize scam calls.

Although there are some legitimate contests, remember: there are a lot of scams. Here are a few ways to spot a prize scam: Scammers ask you to pay before you can claim your prize.

Scammers send you a check and ask you to send some of the money back. But the check is fake, and you're responsible for repaying the bank. Scammers use the names of well-known companies to lure you. Call from artists often pretend to call from well-known companies to make themselves appear legitimate and gain your trust. If you don't remember entering, you probably didn't. If you think it may be legit, use a search engine to find the company's real phone number. Call to confirm that you entered a contest before responding to any claims that you win. If you're suspicious of a prize offer, report it to us.

Stay safe out there!

WHISTLE STOP LEGENDS. Whistle-Stop owners Jordan & Kimberly salute this week's legend... DUDE CORNELL. C.W. "Dude" Cornell was a man whose name meant service to the people of Donley County for more than 60 years. Cornell graduated from Paducah High School before entering the Navy to serve in Korea. After he returned home, he moved to Clarendon and began a long career in the service station business. He had worked in the business before the war, but it was afterwards that he went in partners with his brother, Bill, and later partnered with Bob Kidd. Over time he would go under different brands... Sincidar, Texaco, and later Shell before becoming independent. He also served as a Donley County Commissioner for 16 years and sold real estate on the side. When he finally hung up the pump handle in 2011, he was the last full service gas station in Clarendon, and he is remembered for helping people for many years. Even after he pumped his last gas, he continued to do the inspections for people until he passed away in 2014. The Whistle-Stop and the community salute the legacy of service of C.W. Cornell to his county, his country and his customers. Thank you, Dude!

tion and fees will not be waived. Instead, local students already enjoy a 12-hour action cap put in place by the Riza administration two years ago, and they can take advantage of local and CC institutional scholarships.

Students in the Honors College will be expected to participate in community service hours, and those who qualify they will be inducted into the Phi Theta Kappa honor society during the fall semester.

To be eligible for the Honors College, students who graduate high school in May or June must have passed at least 24 semester hours of dual credit academic course work at CC and have at least a 2.5 GPA.

Specialized admission is available for those with less than 24 hours. "The reality is these are our students already through dual credit, but the Honors College designation will be a select group that will get priority treatment and opportunities that other students might not have," Dr. Riza said.

The program will be overseen by CC instructor Charla Crump, who sees the Honors College as a special opportunity for students as well as a chance for the community to get more involved with the students. "I'm really excited about the community service opportunities," Crump said. "This will give the students a chance to give back to the community, and people love our college kids. Some kids haven't gotten that, and it looks good on a resume."

Crump also said the residency requirement for students outside of Donley County is a good opportunity for them to experience residence hall life before they go to a large university, and the Honors College will focus on kids completing their core classes so they don't have to take those in a large class setting at the university.

For more information about the Honors College program at Clarendon College, contact Charla Crump at 806-874-3571.

Drugs in the News
New Treatment for Severe Pain
The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently approved a new extended release pain treatment called Vantrela ER (hydrocodone bitartrate). The new product is indicated for individuals with severe pain requiring around-the-clock treatment over a long-term period. Hydrocodone works by blocking pain receptors in the brain, preventing pain signals from being sent throughout the body. A clinical trial involving people with moderate to severe lower back pain found that those receiving the drug experienced significant pain reduction compared with those receiving placebo. Reported side effects of the medication include constipation and nausea.
Pain is the sensation we refer to as "hurt" that leads to significant discomfort or distress. Severe pain can be caused by various factors including injury to the body (i.e. automobile accident or major surgery) or may be due to a chronic health condition such as arthritis or nerve damage.

to lose their momentum in the tournament. They went out and demolished New Deal 75-56.

Offensively, things were rolling the Broncos way as they took an early 25-12 lead after the first eight minutes. In that time period, the three-ball was flowing with six three-pointers made by Smith, Grahn, Wood, and Lockhart. That scoring frenzy left the Lions helpless as they tried to get something going on their offensive end. But once again, the Bronco defense was on fire and New Deal could do little to get the Broncos out of their rhythm.

Clarendon was also able to limit their fouls against the Lions and in turn shot 67 percent from the bonus line. Their scoring stats were impressive as well. Five Broncos finished in double figures. That is just one more example of the dominance the Broncos executed on the court against the Lions. "We shot the ball really well," Lockhart said. "We made 11 three pointers for the game. We did a good job of moving the basketball. I was very proud of the way we played and effort."

Lockhart led the way with 21 and Wood put in 14. Smith added 13, and Grahn and Johnson each had 12. Jacob Jeffers went three for four from the line to add three points and K. Cortez was perfect from the charity stripe at two for two.

The proposed rates and tariffs are expected to increase the Company's annual revenues by approximately $139,995, or 4.63% percent including gas cost or 11.62% percent excluding gas cost. Because the proposed changes in rates will increase the total aggregate revenues of the Company by more than two and one-half percent, the proposed rate increase constitutes a "major change" as Section 104.101 of the Texas Utilities Code defines "major change". The impact of the rate change on individual customers will vary from the overall impact described in this notice based on customer class and location.

In addition to new rates, the Company also seeks a prudence determination regarding capital investment made within the entirety of the incorporated Service Area through December 31, 2015. The Company also requests to add a Cost of Service Adjustment clause to its tariff whereby limited annual adjustments may be made to gas utility charges within the incorporated service area without the need to file a Statement of Intent pursuant to the Texas Utilities Code. The Company also proposes to surcharge tariff to recover the rate of return on the proposed change as authorized by the regulatory authority. The final amount of rate case expense is not known at this time.

A complete copy of the Company's Statement of Intent is available for inspection in its office located at 116 S 6th St., Memphis, TX 79245. Persons with specific questions or desiring additional information about this filing may contact the Company at (806) 259-1444. Additionally, any affected person may file in writing comments to the proceedings as authorized by the regulatory authority having original jurisdiction, your City Council, at any time within 30 days following the date on which the change would or has become effective, or May 3, 2017, whichever date is later.

NG 3517 B2XF

“ This circle of NG 3517 B2XF was planted late on a hard to manage field. Not only did this variety have a great early season vigor, but it's growth habit was very manageable. We've liked NG 3517 B2XF the whole year and with a yield of 1,965 pounds per acre - we will definitely plant more of it in 2017! We also had some irrigated NG 3406 B2XF that made 4.25 bales per acre that we were very pleased with.”

WALKER MCNEAR MUSTARD SEED FARMS

NG 4545 B2XF

“ I planted NG 4545 B2XF on irrigated and dryland. It came up fast and never quit. It outgrew everything else I planted. It had huge bolls on it and is a good picker cotton. It graded really well on my dryland, going into the loan between 56 and 57 cents. I had a 145 acre pivot of NG 4545 B2XF that yielded 1,500 pounds per acre and came in with a loan price of 57.54 cents.”
