Determining Your Career Interests

It has been suggested that most people will have at least four or five career changes during their lifetime and some will have many more. Therefore, it is very important for you to analyze your interests before any steps are taken. The first step is to determine what kinds of things you enjoy. This will include your hobbies, interests and club activities. Next, decide what you would like to learn more about and what your special talents are.

The third step is to learn about the requirements and benefits of the career you are interested in. Many jobs require a specific amount of higher education and/or job training. How will you acquire the necessary skills and education required for your specific job interests? Taking the time to learn more about your career interests may save you from many problems on further down the road. Many individuals spend four or more years of their lives and many thousands of dollars in college preparing for a career which they know little or even nothing about. Once they get the "long-desired" job, they learn that it is something they really don't like. If they had taken the time to explore different careers, talked to persons working in different fields and compared their findings to their own interests, they would have realized that certain career choices were not really suited to their interests. Don't let this happen to you! It is never too soon or too late to start learning about careers, exploring your interests and setting goals for yourself.

Employment Opportunities

In this area, employment opportunities are on a limited basis for everyone, but especially for the youth of our communities. Of the jobs available, many require certain skills or just the skill in knowing how to get the job. During the coming year, the Briscoe County Extension Service will be working with the youth in the county to improve their employability skills. There will come a day, in each of their lives, that they will be looking for employment, and they need to be prepared for that day. Those youth who are adequately prepared will have a much better chance of getting that job.

In the coming year, a variety of programs and topics related to employment skills will be conducted in Silvertown and Quitaque. Some of them will be conducted within the local schools, while others will be offered in the evenings and during the summer. Some of the topics to be covered include: Writing a Resume, Interviewing Skills and Developing Good Work Habits.

For more information about the programs to be offered, please call or come by the Briscoe County Extension Office. Educational programs sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

High Plains cotton producers and agribusiness representatives will have the opportunity to participate in another important election during the months of February and March according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG).

PCG announced that the annual series of meetings to elect members to the PCG board of directors would soon be underway and that in 1993 producer directors will be elected in 23 of PCG's 25 counties. The exceptions are Hale and Swisher counties which will elect business directors.

The 50-man PCG board is made up of two elected representatives from each of PCG's 25 counties, one a producer and one representing agribusiness, elected on alternate years for two-year terms.

News releases will be distributed prior to each meeting and complete details will be posted in gin offices throughout the county prior to the meeting. Election meeting information can also be obtained by contacting the PCG office in Lubbock at 806-792-4904.

"Staying active is the key ingredient in making a successful organization," notes Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "One reason PCG is able to represent the High Plains area so successfully is the active participation of its producer members."

All producers and businessmen are invited to attend the meetings. PCG staff members and directors also will be on hand to provide information about the organization's work and answer questions.

Under PCG by-laws only current dues-paying members will be eligible to vote in the elections or be elected a director to the 25-county organization.

Currently five counties have finalized plans for their election meetings. The date and place of each of these meetings is included below:

•Terry County—Thursday, February 4, 7:30 p.m. at the offices of Brownfield Seed & Delinting.

•Borden County—Tuesday, February 9, 9:00 a.m. at the home of Terry Pepper. Location of the meeting is one mile south and one mile east of the Plains Community Center.

•Swisher County—Thursday, February 11, 7:00 p.m. at the Swisher

County Memorial Building.

•Floyd County—Friday, February 12, 7:00 a.m. at Nielson's Restaurant, Floydada.

•Martin County—Wednesday, February 24, 7:30 p.m. at the Stanton Community Center, Stanton.

QUESTIONS TO THE CLEAN TEXAS
2000 HOTLINE: 1-800-64-TEXAS

Q: We just cleaned our garage and found lots of plastic containers. Some are milk jugs and some are things like margarine containers. Most don't have the little recycling symbols on the bottom. If we know what they are, is it okay to recycle them even without the symbols?

A: We hate to discourage any recycling, but the risk of contamination from unknown materials is too great. You should ask your recycling center, but the general rule is that without a recycling number, the item can't be recycled. Much of the plastic recycling process depends on having a pure batch of raw materials. Even a small amount of the wrong plastic can ruin the process. The plastics labeling laws are very strict, thus recyclers can be sure that the marked containers are what they claim to be.

Q: If I take my tires to be recycled, how do I know they're being put to good use? It seems like you're trying to clean up a lot of old tires.

A: You're right. The Texas Water Commission is trying to clean up hundreds of thousands of old tire DUMPS. But we're working just as hard to assure that there is a market for the materials recycled from the tires. We'll mention as many of those products as space allows. By the way, you can help by asking for products made from recycled tires if you're in the market for anything on the list. Some products include: vehicle mud guards, pickup truck bed liners, carpet padding, shock-absorbent floor tiles, patio floor blocks, dock and trailer bumpers, rubber mats for animal stalls, door mats for homes, marine bumpers, soaker hoses, running track surfaces, guard-rail posts, highway lane reflectors, rubberized asphalt for roadways, landscape timbers, farm vehicle tires, roof sealing adhesive paint, tire-derived fuel, drainage bed material for septic systems, crash barriers for highways, playground surfaces, parking lot resurfacing paint, erosion control devices and artificial reefs for oyster production.

Products Liability Reform

This 73rd session of the Texas Legislature is now well underway, and as expected, the budget and school finance are attracting most of the attention. However, there's another topic that will be addressed and probably resolved after more than 20 years of debate.

All 31 senators have signed on as cosponsors to a bill that will bring long-needed reform to the Texas product liability laws. The reform proposals will finally put into law a strong state policy and procedure spelling out the rights of consumers, sellers and manufacturers alike.

The reforms will help consumers by forcing manufacturers, especially foreign firms, to pay close attention to the safety of their products. One of the highlights of the proposal is an "innocent retailer" provision to protect retailers, wholesalers and others who are in the distribution system of a product but who bear no responsibility for the product's design or manufacture.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock says he's pleased with the strength of the bill, and that retailer protections are "an absolute must for independent and small businesses" which have historically been liable for heavy expenses in defending themselves when named even as innocent parties to products lawsuits.

Under the reform proposal, producers of inherently dangerous products such as firearms are not liable when the product performs as it was intended to. Also, well known health hazards like tobacco and alcohol are consumed at the individual's own risk, providing the product's purity is maintained by the producer.

THANK GOD FOR THE MANY GOOD DEEDS OF OUR VOLUNTEERS

With all the evil in this world, there is also a lot of good, and there is no finer example of it than the volunteers. These are the people who may be very busy, but are nonetheless willing to give of their time and talents to some worthy cause they believe in. They may be the Pink Ladies (or whatever they're called) at the hospital, the museum docents, the helpers at the library, the committee members working to save some wildlife species, or those in other areas of endeavor. At your House of Worship, which may also need some volunteer assistance, thank God for those unselfish, dedicated people who ask nothing in return but the success of their efforts. If you are able to, you might consider becoming a volunteer for some cause. There is no better way to feel good about yourself.
