FIFTIETH YEAR

COUNTY HOSPITAL PLANS BEING DRAWN NOW BY ARCHITECT

No Charge for Plans Will be Made Unless Hospital Is Voted for by Citizens

Many Favor Project

The desire for a county hospital, which has been entertained by many citizens for years, may come to a fulfillment in the near future, if the sentiment so far expressed by a number of taxpayers can be taken as a criterion. Tentative plans call for a PWA grant in addition to a local bond issue.

While not willing to make any major move toward the securing of a government grant without the expressed approval of the county citizenship members of the Commissioners Court have laid the groundwork by securing the services of an architect, M. B. Butler, Lubbock, on a contingent basis. No remuneration will be paid unless the PWA grant is secured and the bonds favorably acted upon.

Butler's services were utilized in 1931 when the present court house was remodelled, and the Lubbock architect expressed himself as willing to "take a chance" with all drawings submitted.

No concerted movement either for or against the proposed project has as yet been made in the county, but the commissioners desire an expression of the people, and citizens in various parts of the county are expected to sound the sentiment of taxpayers within the next few days.

Tentative plans as outlined by those interested call for the erection of a $75,000 hospital, forty-five per cent of which sum would be given this county as an outright grant by the U. S. government under the Public Works Administration, and the remainder would have to be paid in bonds voted by the county.

A tax levy of four cents on a 100 valuation would more than take care of the interest and pay off the bonds in the opinion of court officials. At this rate would raise approximately $700. Only about $200 would be needed for interest and payoff of bonds.

The hospital care of indigents, paid for by the county to out-of-county institutions, has averaged around $500 over a four-year period, according to court figures, and taxpayers favorable for the erection of a Haskell county hospital believe that it would be only good "horse sense" to use the money which the county is now paying out to build a hospital here.

The cost for the caring of many cases in this county has been borne by the state and national governments through relief, but no exact figures are available so that the indigent expenditures could be correctly ascertained.

There is no time like the present for Haskell county to secure a hospital. If such an institution is really wanted, according to the taxpayers now favoring the project, owing to the fact, through the outright PWA grant, the government is making it possible for Haskell county to build this fifty-five cents on the dollar that it would take a dollar to build any other time.

Baptist Hold Annual Meeting Near Lueders

Approximately 400 Baptist from all sections of West Texas are in attendance at the 14th annual session of the Lueders Encampment this week. One hundred and thirty-five of the group had enrolled at the close of the opening day—Monday—for the classes, which was not double the number registered for the classes on opening day last year.

Class work was begun Tuesday morning and will continue through Saturday. The evening services will continue through Sunday, the close of the encampment.

Some of the leaders on the program this year are: J. Howard Williams, secretary of the Baptist Mission Board, Rev. H. E. Taylor, of the East Grand Avenue Baptist church, Dallas; G. S. Hopper, secretary of the Sunday School of the general convention; T. Gardner, general convention B. M. secretary and Mrs. Gardner; J. B. Tidwell, head of the Bible department of Baylor University, Ft. Worth; and Mrs. B. A. Compass, Ft. Worth, state secretary of women's work.

Rev. C. A. Powell, Abilene, is president of the Encampment and Rev. J. Henry Littleton, Hamlin, is secretary.

H. H. Welch of Breckenridge was elected president of the Lueders Encampment, the succeeding Rev. C. A. Powell of Abilene, following report of the nominating committee at the close of the Tuesday evening preaching service.

Almeta Josselet Named as Sponsor Cowboy Renuion

Miss Almeta Josselet, 22 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Josselet, who reside on a farm about six miles north of Haskell, has been selected as sponsor from this city by members of the Lions Club to the annual Cowboy Renuion at Stamford on July 2, 3 & 4.

Miss Josselet, who attended the Haskell High School, owns her own pony and is an experienced rider.

BEER ELECTION FOR PRECINCT 4

Voters of Justice Precinct South of Haskell to Again Express Idea on Sale

For the second time since 32 beer was legalized in Justice Precinct No. 4, an effort will be made Saturday at the ballot box to close the beer gardens and place the precinct in the dry column with the balance of Haskell county. The election was called by the Commissioners' Court on a petition presented a few weeks ago with 52 names of qualified voters requesting that an election be ordered.

Sale of 32 beer in the precinct was legalized in an election held in the precinct soon after the state beer law was passed, and the county-wide election failed to legalize the beverage.

Justice Precinct No. 4 extends from about five miles south of Haskell to the Jones county line near Stamford and west to include the Sagerton territory.

BUSINESS HOUSES TO OBSERVE "4TH"

Custom of Many Years Here Will be Invoked by Most Store Proprietors

All business houses in the city will be closed next Thursday July 4th, Independence Day, in order to give the employes an opportunity to celebrate the day in any way they may desire.

There will be no set program of entertainment here, according to present plans, but many Haskell people will attend the celebrations to be staged in neighboring towns. Some will attend the Cowboy Renuion at Stamford, with many trekking to Munday, Graham, and other places. Others no doubt will be attracted to the streams and lakes in this section to spend the day outdoors.

Observance of the holiday has been a custom for years, with all local stores closing without the necessity of a "petition" being circulated. Establishments serving transient trade, including filling stations, drug stores and cafes, will likely remain open several hours during the day, with all other institutions observing the entire day as a holiday.

Mr. Howard is an experienced embalmer and will serve in the local undertaking establishment and the furniture store.

Mr. Howard will take the position formerly managed by W. O. Hoiden, who is now on a temporary leave of absence on account of illness.

TAX PENALTIES TO GO INTO EFFECT ON MONDAY, JULY 1

Diver Dives, Does Diver—Does Dive Again for Glasses!

Posing gracefully upon the springboard, a Haskell man gave one last look at the crowd surrounding the Rule swimming pool Tuesday night. Then down he dived into the sparkling water, with the greatest of ease.

In a moment the head of the Haskell diver appeared above the surface of the water in almost the same place where he had disappeared from the sight of his beholders. Grinning satisfiedly, the Haskell man climbed out of the water to the bank.

"Where are your glasses, Jelly?" inquired a friend.

"I didn't have them on," Mr. Smith replied.

Smith informed that he had made his dive with his eyes fully clothed. Mr. Smith made a hasty search in his locker, and then made another dive into the water—but not in so casual a manner as his first attempt.

And with the "help" of his glasses, he found the missing property on the bed of the swimming pool.

City Light Plant Survey Hearing Is Set for Saturday

A hearing will be held before District Judge W. R. Chapman of the 10th Judicial District in Abilene Saturday morning at 10 o'clock on the temporary restraining order issued last week, prohibiting the City of Haskell from proceeding with the power survey to determine the feasibility of seeking a Federal loan and grant to finance a municipal plant in Haskell.

The citizens of Haskell endorsed such a survey in an election held here on June 10th.

V. W. Meadors is plaintiff in the petition asking for the injunction. He bases his petition upon an allegation that the execution of the proposed survey would be in violation of the budget law, which provides that cities shall prepare annual budgets, hold public hearings upon them and restrict expenditures to budget provisions.

The city will be represented Saturday, at the hearing by French M. Robertson and City Attorney Walter Murchison.

The plaintiff will be represented by Ratliff & Ratliff and Davis & Davis of this city.

No Taxes From Marble Machines In This County

The state will not realize any tax money from marble machines in Haskell county, despite the action of other counties.

Such is the statement of H. F. Grindstaff, district attorney, and B. C. Chapman, county attorney, who intend to see that no marble machines, nor other devices which leap into public favor months ago, operate within the county until "legalized gambling" is permitted within the state.

The officials view the games as bordering more on the "chance" variety than games of skill.

Machines operated with a one cent coin, are exempt as are gas meters, pay telephones, cigaret vending machines, and all machines engaged in vending a public service. However, music vending machines, gum, and candy machines are not exempt.

Big Bend National Park Bill Signed

President Roosevelt signed the bill creating the Big Bend National Park in Southwest Texas, last week according to press dispatches.

The bill would authorize Secretary Ickes to acquire by donation several hundred thousand acres of land in Brewster and Presidio counties on the Rio Grande. Both President Roosevelt and Ickes have expressed hope Mexico would create a similar territory on the south side of the river and an agreement could be evolved to create an international park.

The bill was introduced in the senate by Senators Connally and Sheppard, Democrats, Texas and in the house by Thompson.

No Remission Will be Made After June 30—Penalty of Ten Per Cent Due Interest 6 Per Cent

In order to save tax penalties, all delinquent taxes will have to be paid by June 30, according to Mayor A. P. Thurman.

The deadline for payment of all tax has been set for next Monday, and unless paid by that time, a ten per cent penalty will be assessed, plus six per cent interest and costs.

Last half payments of 1934 taxes became delinquent July 1, and bear a ten per cent penalty and six per cent interest.

A comparison on the savings to be made by taxpayers has been estimated, and show actual savings ranging from 14 per cent to 50 per cent.

Penalty and interest to be added July 1 ranges from 19 per cent for 1933 to 61 per cent for the year of 1926.

No remission will be made after June 30.

TAX EXEMPTION DEADLINE JUNE 29

Producers Urged by Special Agent Sturdivant to Sign Applications Now

Saturday June 29 has been set as the closing date for producers to sign applications for their 1935 Tax-Exemption Certificates to be used this year.

No applications will be taken after this date, therefore it is very important that producers come to the office on the third floor of the courthouse and sign with the county committee, according to L. L. Sturdivant, assistant cotton agent.

Producers operating farms on the third and fourth basis may sign the applications, however it is not necessary that the landlord sign as his name will be printed on the application. The landlord may sign with his tenant however if he desires.

Any producer having a cropper working with him must show his name and the number of acres he works in order that such producer may receive his certificates. It is not necessary that a cropper sign the application.

Sturdivant urges all producers to sign by Saturday in order that applications may be submitted to the State Board and received before ginning season. A delay of four or five producers may delay Certificates six weeks or longer, and full cooperation will be appreciated by the county committee in signing these applications.

"Kidnaped" Boy Asleep
BALTIMORE—After a frenzied five hour search for seven year old Sheffield Phillips in which teachers, police, firemen and others joined the boy was found, sound asleep, at the home of a neighbor.

Mrs. Jim Williams underwent a major operation at the Stamford Sanitarium Monday of this week. She is reported to be resting well.

Newspaper "Ads" Called "Backbone"

NEW YORK. — Frank W. Spaeth, manager of the sales promotion division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, announced today in the association's annual analysis of publicity expenses that in 1934 department stores throughout the country spent two-thirds of their advertising appropriation in newspapers.

"As every retailer knows," Spaeth said, "newspapers remain the backbone plus of the retail publicity appropriation."

The report gave the following distribution of the 1934 retail publicity dollar: newspaper lineage, 66 cents; production, 4 cents; miscellaneous media, 5 cents; radio, 2 cents; direct mail, 2 cents; payroll, 8 cents; total display, 10 cents; all other, 3 cents.

BORGER RESIDENT KILLED BY TRAIN

Bob Harrelson, Riding W.V. Freight Train, Meets Death Three Miles of Weinert

Bob Harrelson, 30, of Borger, Texas, met death Saturday morning about 11 o'clock beneath the wheels of a Wichita Valley freight train which he had been riding. The left arm and left leg were severed from the victim's body.

The body was discovered soon after the accident by B. F. Todd, railroad patrolman, who notified T. D. McKinney, Weinert station agent. The accident happened three miles north of Weinert. Officers here were informed, in turn, of the tragedy by McKinney.

The remains were brought here in a Kinney ambulance, and held until Sunday, when relatives of Harrelson arrived from Borger to take possession. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Harrelson, reside in Borger.

Officers were informed that Harrelson was seen riding between two box cars, and it is believed by those officials investigating the accident that Harrelson lost his footing through a sudden jerk of the train.

Harrelson, according to his parents, was on his way home from Fenley, Tenn. He had worked for an ice company in Borger for the past nine years.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Borger.

Examination of Relief Rolls Set for Next Saturday

Completion date for the re-examination of the relief rolls of Haskell county has been set for Saturday, June 29, according to T. L. Donohoo, county administrator. Ten days extra time has been allowed in order that nearly 200 cases, failing to make new applications, will have a last opportunity to enroll. Any persons already enrolled who do not make application before the end of this week will forfeit their right to any aid through this organization and will find it rather difficult to prove their eligibility after that date.

The county's case load has been reduced from 682 to a little more than 400. This cut is due not only to the re-establishment of eligibility through intake but to the opening of public and private industry within the last thirty days.

The process of re-examination of the case load was begun May 24 by the Welfare Department of the Relief Board and it is assumed that those workers who have been able to take care of their families over a period of five weeks will, in all probability, be able to take care of them throughout the harvest season.

The establishment of a local branch of the National Re-employment Service has been an aid in placing men on the farms and on the highway jobs open. Requests for labor are handled daily and farmers are urged to call on this department for aid in securing hands.

Highway 16 Will Get Attention of The Highway Board

Announcement has been made from Austin that an order has been passed by the Texas Highway Department calling for the hardsurfacing of Highway 16 from Benjamin to the Haskell county line.

Judge E. L. Covey in company with Wm. Griffith, county commissioner, Ancil Waldrip and John Coates of Knox City, were in Austin last week in the interest of the project and the announcement was made following their conference with members of the board. — Munday Times.

PWA GRANT FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDING IN CITY CONTEMPLATED

It Resembled A Cotton Boll, But Reporter Doubtful

There's "cotton" in Haskell county that has a distinct relationship to a persimmon. At least, a Free Press reporter has so discovered—with the help of G. F. Mullino, former commissioner, and "grower" of the said staple.

"You're just the man I'm looking for," Mullino informed the reporter. "Look at this. Have you seen any cotton bolls that large anywhere in the county?" he asked.

Glancing at the green object, which did look like a small cotton boll, tipped at the point and showing squares, the reporter pondered the matter, with Mullino looking on, a quizzical look on his face.

"Looks like a persimmon to me," interjected a bystander.

"Oh, pshaw! I wanted to get my name in the paper as an early cotton grower," Mullino complained.

The reporter, who didn't know that it was a persimmon, but had eaten lots of small cotton bolls when he was young, had to grin—and now hopes that the former commissioner sees that his name did get in the paper.

BRAVES CAPTURE FIRST-HALF TITLE

Win Over Stamford Sunday Gives Haskell Cleareut First Place Honor

Playing consistent baseball throughout the season, despite a club batting average of around .240, the Haskell Braves "cinched" the first-half of the Wichita Valley League title here Sunday afternoon when the Stamford club was beaten by a score of 7 to 4.

An important factor which contributed to the winning of the title by the local team was the excellent pitching furnished by Gaut (Lefty) Hambright and Tanny Jones, a hard-working righthander. The left-hander won five games, while losing two, and the orthodox flinger won three and lost none.

Haskell was automatically handed the game last Sunday when the Stamford management pitched Lefty Stallings, who had been declared ineligible to play until next Sunday owing to the fact that he had not been released from the Seymour team, with whom he started the season. Munday was in a position to tie Haskell, providing the local team lost to Stamford and Munday captured the game from Seymour. Munday defeated Seymour.

The second half of the season will start next Sunday with Haskell opening at Seymour, Hamlin at Munday and Gore at Stamford.

The winner of the second half will play Haskell a three-game series for the season title.

Burglary of Local Express Company Nets Thief $1,400

Theft of travelers' checks valued at $1,100 and money orders worth approximately $300 from the local office of the Railways Express company Monday afternoon was reported to officers by C. L. Lewis, agent, who missed the securities when he was closing the office for the night.

The theft occurred while Lewis was at home for his evening meal, entrance being gained through the rear door of the office. Lewis furnished officers with a description of a stranger who loitered in the office shortly before the agent closed for the supper hour.

The securities were taken from the office safe after the combination was worked successfully.

Haskell Visited By 3.08 Inches of Rain Sunday

Slightly over 3.08 inches of rain fell here Sunday afternoon and night, according to Fred Sanders, Jr., government observer.

The downpour, most of which fell in the night, fell fast and did considerable damage to the oat crop. Wheat was not damaged to any great extent by the rain, but weeds have handicapped many growers in their attempt to harvest.

J. W. Roberts of Byers visited a few days this week with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. Roberts and family.

Present School Structures in Haskell Are Overcrowded And Changes Necessary

Plans Being Drawn

Realizing that something should be done to relieve the overcrowded condition of the Haskell school buildings, school board members of the Haskell Independent District have engaged an Abilene architect to draw plans for a new structure and efforts will be made to secure a PWA grant.

In line with other projects of this nature, the government will furnish forty-five per cent of the total cost free to Haskell citizens, and the remainder would be furnished through a bond issue.

The exact cost of another building of the type members think is needed here, cannot be estimated at present, but as soon as the architect, David S. Castle, draws the plans, he will then be in a position to tell the Board how much money will be needed.

Tentative proposals furnished the Board call for the erection of a new four room building, all on the ground floor, with extension to the rear which would be used for an auditorium and gymnasium, or the old North Ward building would be razed and most of the material from the wrecked building would be used in the construction of a 12-room structure.

The old North Ward building was erected in about 1900.

Both the present Ward building and the high school building are badly overcrowded. Some of the grammar classes were housed in the high school building during the past term.

A new building here, according to one school authority, would allow more rural children to attend school in Haskell. The present facilities are inadequate to take care of the rural pupils who wish to come here.

Aid For State Schools Set High

The state board of education Monday set a per capita apportionment of $17.50, the statutory maximum, of state school aid for approximately 1,600,000 scholastics during 1935-36.

Augmented by income from special levies, the school fund overcame the usual four to eight months deficit, the board said, predicting a cash balance of $2,500,000 on Aug. 31, the fiscal year end.

Only once before, in 1929, was the apportionment $17.50. It was $16.50 for the current school year, and $16 for the year prior. Except for the statutory limit, the board said the apportionment could have been $19 or $20.

Prospects that the apportionment would not consume all of available school funds heightened likelihood of a reduction of the present 35 cents per $100 valuation ad valorem levy for school support. It was estimated a rate of 32 cents could be set by the automatic tax board in July would yield a balance in 1936-37.

It was calculated the $17.50 apportionment would grant $28,000,000 state funds to schools. In addition, the state provided $5,000,000 for rural aid and school benefit equalization, the largest in its history.

School officials who conferred with the board urged an early determination of the apportionment so those planning to use relief labor for improving plants could release local funds.

Haskell county schools will receive $4,953 more during the coming school year than last year from the state owing to the action of the Texas Board of Education Monday in setting next year's apportionment at $17.50, the statutory maximum.

The increase amounts to one dollar per scholastic. The county's scholastic population was recorded this spring as 4,953, a decrease of about 100 under last year.

Former Citizen of Haskell Dies

J. O. Cowart, 64, formerly a citizen of Haskell, died at his home in Wichita Falls last Friday and funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist church, with the Masonic Lodge conducting a ceremony at the graveside.

Coming to Haskell in 1920, Mr. Cowart purchased the old Commercial Hotel east of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and conducted the place as a hotel until it burned in 1922. After the fire he moved with his family to Wichita Falls. He was a practicing attorney and was active as a lawyer in Wichita Falls until his death. He recently was connected with the Tax Collector's office in Wichita county.

Methodist Missionary Society

A most enjoyable time was that spent on last Monday afternoon, when, in response to a much appreciated invitation, the Missionary Society met and was delightfully entertained in the hospitable home of Mrs. J. S. Rike. Mrs. C. L. Lewis was director for the afternoon. As the opening song all joined in singing "Near the Cross." Mrs. F. T. Sanders offered a prayer. Mrs. Ada Rike gave a most inspiring devotional, the theme of which was "Trees." At the conclusion of this interesting talk, Guido's beautiful classic "Joys of Spring" was played on the victrola. The lesson being a continuation of the Study of Japan, Mrs. Fields told most interestingly and capably of the three "inherited religions" of that country. Mrs. Wilson next told of "Christ and the Social Change." The song "Amazing Grace," being a favorite of the hostess, was next sung. The lesson being concluded, the president, Mrs. Patterson, requested Mrs. Persons to read a letter which had been received from Mrs. Nat Rollins. At this time the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Montgomery, also Mesdames Shriver and Ella Cloudis, passed a delicious refreshment plate of sandwiches, iced tea, cake and olives to twenty members and guests. Mrs. Patterson in a few well chosen words voiced the appreciation of the Society, for this delightful occasion. The hostess responded most graciously, by inviting us to meet with her again. We were happy to have with us, as visitors Mesdames Hellums of Haskell and Gilbert of Hamlin. Mrs. Hellums is a new resident of our town and we are glad to welcome her. Mrs. Gilbert and daughter are visitors in the home of Mrs. Ada Rike. Miss Gilbert and Miss Katherine Rike were room-mates at S. M. U. Dallas. We would not think this report complete without another mention of our hostess, "Mammy" Rike, as she is affectionately known over most of West Texas, has reached the advanced age of 83 years, but her interest in the affairs of the day is still keen. She has resided in Haskell for almost half a century and has been a member of the M. E. Church for 65 years. All honor to our pioneer mothers, who side by side with their menfolk, carved from a wilderness, this great Western Empire. We meet on next Monday at 4 P. M. at the church. Mrs. E. Martin will direct the last lesson on Japan. This will also be the last business meeting until September. The president urges all to be present.

DENTON, Texas.—Children's parties are far more pleasing to them if the children are given the responsibility in planning and executing the plans. The art of being a charming hostess, or guest, is not a gift or something easily attained—practice and correct examples are necessary. Parties are enjoyed by all children and furnish a practical field for practical lessons.

Party refreshments may in fact be good as well as good for you, since some of the most appetizing of foods are also among the most healthful. Ingredients should always be of the best quality and adequate time and care should be given to preparation.

Simple refreshments are especially to be considered for the small child's party since digestive systems are easily upset at this age. Even the teen aged person will find these simpler refreshments delicious and satisfying.

All small children enjoy tea parties. The mid-afternoon lunch may appear in this form and serve both purposes. Gelatin, plain or with fruit and a cookie may be molded into many attractive forms that will be appealing to both younger and older children. A fruit sherbet or fresh fruit dessert is also healthful and well-liked.

4E Club Encampment

Three clubs from Haskell county attended the encampment at Munday, Texas, Tuesday June 18, with their county demonstration agent, Miss Peggy Taylor. The clubs were Rose, Howard and Weinert.

There were 79 club girls representing the clubs of Haskell, Knox and Baylor counties and their sponsors. Games were played during the morning for a while, then we had a dress contest. The girls who entered the contest modeled their dresses and the judges decided on the three best dresses and prizes were given. At the noon hour a bountiful lunch was enjoyed by all. In the afternoon each club was represented with a stunt. The Rose club girls from Haskell county won first place in the stunts and a prize was given to each member. After the stunts a Knox county girl gave a demonstration on various ways of preparing tomatoes.

One of the Haskell county girls, Bonnie Dell Hisey from the Howard club won a trip to A. & M. Short Course on her bedroom. A report was given by each president of the clubs on the things they had done in the entire year.

A "Treasure Hunt" caused much excitement among the girls. It contained a sack of candy.

The Knox county girls and the Haskell county girls played a game of baseball, and after the game ice cream cones were given to all members by the demonstration agents.

After all the games everyone reported a nice time and we adjourned and went home. The members from Haskell county were: Billie Jack Speers, Letha Mae and Mamie Tidwell, Grace, Lorena and Opal Rose, Ruby, Florine and Earline Stodghill, Capitola and Frances Larned and the sponsor, Mrs. Jack Speers of Rose.

Edna and Mary Tidwell, Bonnie Dell and Ruby Hisey, Mozelle Cox, Joyce Nanny, Christine Wells and the sponsor, Oleta Wells from Howard.

If 'Black Widow' Bites You--Start Looking for Doctor

If, perchance, a black widow spider sticks its hollow claw into your flesh and discharges venom, don't stop to look for the much-publicized hour-glass marking on the creature, call a doctor. There may be a little pain at first, but there's trouble ahead. Your concern will not be a dread of death but a hope for unconsciousness, for the pain is the most excruciating known to medical science.

The description of a black widow spider is quite large with a beetle back and a red hourglass marking on its underbody is correct as far as it goes. However, this does not describe in the least the young spiders, which are just as venomous as the adults and are small, light colored and usually striped. The full-grown male spider has a body about the size of a red ant, with disproportionately long legs and stings like the rest of the family. Some comfort is given victims by the fact that the female makes a meal of the male after mating.

They are outdoor dwellers, and are found most commonly in rarely cleaned sheds, barns and outhouses, and under piles of tin cans and other refuse. Their webs are of very fine silk, small, irregular, spattered with loose ends and form no sort of geometrical design.

The bite is really a sting and the poison is injected through a hollow claw. The sting is not painful at the time and in many cases is overlooked. They normally bite once and run, though they are capable of striking any number of times.

The wound itself shows no discoloration or swelling, and is very hard to locate if the patient is in a semiconscious condition when treatment is started, for the venom is observed through the lymphatics (channels that absorb tissue fluid) unless the claw penetrates a small blood vessel.

Each black widow lays three eggs, and each egg produces 500 young.

spiders. The eggs are larger than the spider, and not properly eggs but collections of eggs which the creature surrounds by a parchment-like covering.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, July 3, with plans for the encampment to be held at Haskell on July 18 and 19 to be discussed.

The visitors were: Mrs. J. P. Duncan, Miss Virginia Hutchens, and some of our club girls, Misses Madeline, Lorene, and Ruth Jones, Madeline White and Frances Hutchens. Members present were Mrs. A. A. Gault, Mrs. E. A. Hutchens, Mrs. G. O. Ballard, Mrs. C. W. White, Mrs. S. W. Hutchens, Mrs. W. R. Bean, Mrs. M. L. Mayo, Mrs. F. M. Hutchens and Miss Peggy Taylor.

It was previously supposed that this movement occurred around one hundred sixty million years ago.

Texas Paid Taxes Amounting Over $278,934,741

The Texas Tax Journal says:

The Texas Tax Journal has frequently published tax facts that staggered most people. The appalling facts in this article will likely cause taxpayers to wonder what became of the money, as many of the treasuries into which the money was deposited and out of which it was paid on the deficit.

The amount collected by counties, cities, schools and other taxing districts had to be estimated as 56 counties had not reported at the time this article was prepared, but the estimate is very nearly correct. It was based on the previous report.

Here is the full story of our last year's tax bill:

Federal income tax only, $13,752,737.17.

Federal processing tax, $10,080,935.36.

All other federal taxes $36,835,016.10.

Total amount of Federal taxes, all told, collected in Texas for the year ending June 30, 1934, amounted to $60,668,688.63.

Taxes collected for the year ending August 31, 1934:

Ad Valorem tax, $22,187,027.13.

Inheritance tax, $390,640.73.

Poll tax, $1,614,870.46.

Undistributed receipts from collectors, $598,249.13.

Gross receipts taxes, $8,843,706.35.

Insurance companies' occupation tax, $1,959,172.50.

Occupation tax, miscellaneous, $59,721.65.

Cigarette stamp tax, $4,007,845.82.

Fur tax, $15,309.65.

Fish and oyster tax, $7,762.82.

Gasoline tax (net), $30,656,059.73.

Fire Insurance Commission maintenance tax, $139,409.67.

Workmen's Compensation Insurance Co-Maintenance tax, $45,913.66.

Casualty and auto-fire maintenance tax, $7,577.15.

Beer stamp tax, $1,073,420.81.

Licenses (including automobile), $4,879,494.96.

Total taxes and licenses, $78,946,938.48.

Fees and permits, $2,157,145.38.

Land sales, rentals and royalties, $154,035.04.

Sales of commodities and properties, $22,391.67.

Court costs, fines and suit settlements, $198,122.25.

Interest and penalties, $4,139,946.20.

Miscellaneous revenues, $989,467.20.

County, Federal, and other aid, $21,388,065.35.

Total receipts, $112,966,041.75.

The amount of taxes collected by counties, less the amount remitted to the State, and the amount collected by cities and towns and schools and other taxing districts, amounted to $105,207,041.

Total Federal, State, counties, cities and town, school and other districts amounted to $278,934,741.58.

The census of 1930 shows there are 2,685,681 persons between the ages of 21 and 75 years of age in Texas, and we estimate these constitute approximately 95 per cent of the taxpayers. Estimating 20 per cent of these people are delinquent would leave about 2,148,546 people who paid taxes that amounted to an average for each person of more than $120. Remember, the amount shown is the actual amount of money paid in one year.

20 Years Ago Today

The following young people had parts on the Junior B. Y. P. U. program last Sunday afternoon with Ted Alexander as leader: Vivian Smith, Mary Long, Elsie Killingsworth, Mae Simmons, Louise Brooks, Temple Fry, Clyde Couch, Edward Ford, Davie Maude Cummins, Leatrice Scott, Ruth Pierson, Suddie Crow and LaVerne Whitmore.

City Marshall Alex Edwards is receiving hearty support from Haskell citizens in cleaning the city of weeds.

F. T. Sanders is building a new gin and it is nearing completion. It is located on the lot just north of the ice plant.

The Haskell Bottling Works has opened and is now running full time. Mr. S. A. Huskey is the manager.

30 Years Ago Today

Last Saturday Judge H. G. McConnell, H. R. Jones, G. W. Williams, C. D. Long and their families loaded up supplies and camp equipment for a week's stay and left for the Clear Fork where it is presumed they have been feasting on fish.

Mr. Frank Cox of Dallas arrived here the first of the week to spend the summer months for his health. The breath of the fresh West Texas ozone will help him he thinks.

Mr. T. L. Montgomery, father of our townsman and banker R. C. Montgomery, left Tuesday for Chicago where he will spend the summer on the lake shore.

40 Years Ago Today

We stated last week that we would be able to tell the folks whether we would have a valuable coal mine in Haskell county or not but we can't fulfill that promise. When the shaft reached about 24 feet a vein of water was struck and work suspended for the present. Work was resumed however later and maybe next week we can say coal or no coal.

The Haskell National Bank moved into the First National building Tuesday where its business will be conducted in the future.

Little Miss Mamie Draper gave a birthday party to a bevy of her friends on Wednesday evening.

Deputy Sheriff McCauley of Stonewall was in Haskell on business this week.

Stonewall County Agent Awarded $1,000 Fellowship

COLLEGE STATION—James W. Potts, Stonewall county agricultural agent and former 4-H club boy, has been awarded a $1000 fellowship for nine months' study in the U. S. Department of Agriculture offered by the Payne Fund of New York City, according to O. B. Martin, Extension director.

Potts was raised on a farm in Lubbock county and was graduated from Lubbock High School in 1929. In 1933 he received a B. S. degree from Texas Technological College, majoring in agronomy.

Potts started 4-H club work in 1921 with a pig that won third place at the county fair. With premium money won on a registered gilt in 1922 he bought a Jersey calf and started a dairy herd which practically paid his way through college. He also carried demonstrations in pure line grain sorghum seed production, beef cattle and cotton. Total profits for one three-year period were $2,489.55 or an average of $829.85 per year.

The Battle of San Jacinto Not Decisive

AUSTIN, Texas.—It must not be supposed that the battle of San Jacinto, decisive though it was in determining the independence of the Republic of Texas, ended war between the Mexicans and Texans. Indeed, skirmishes occurred periodically for a number of years between the two forces of the two former combatants. Attacks from Mexican armies were constantly a threat. The situation as it existed after the war is graphically described by John Salmon Ford, journalist-soldier-historian in his Memoirs, which have never been published, is in the family archives collection of the University of Texas library. Ford possessed a flair for delineating personalities and for depicting actual events which renders his memoirs much more interesting, both from the point of view and the casual reader and from that of the student of social movements, than the usual catalogue of events.

A goodly number of Mexicans remained in the town and country of Nacogdoches, after the battle of San Jacinto," Ford wrote. "It would be difficult to assume that these people always received fair and honorable treatment at the hands of Texans, without an infraction of truth. On the other hand it would be hard to prove these citizens of Mexican origin demeaned themselves shamelessly.

"In process of time a pronunciation was published. The leader in this movement was Vicente Cordova—a man of some means, and considerable influence among his countrymen.

"The news spread fast. In a few days companies were marching from many counties of eastern Texas. It was the custom in those days for men, able to do military duty, to outfit themselves with arms, ammunition, and provision. It was usual to meet at the county-seat, and organize. Elections were primitive affairs. For instance when two candidates were in the field for captain, they were placed some distance apart. At the word 'March' the friends of the respective candidates fall into line by the side of his favorite. A count was made, and the result declared. The captain of the San Augustine company was H. W. Augustine.

"The different commands were concentrated between Nacogdoches and the Angelina river. We remained in camp about two days. More good feeling and hilarity never prevailed among the citizen-soldiers of any country. Everything was given and taken in good humor. The 'grenades' suffered as usual. A sentinel one night mistook the noise made by a rat, in packing sticks to complete a nest, for the furtive tramp of a savage; and fired. The line of battle was speedily formed—an investigation set on foot, and a truth ascertained. Every once in a while some one would bawl out—'Who shot the rat?' A multitude of voices would respond—'Purse.' He grew tired of the fun, and swore a goodly lot of extra oaths, but the cry ceased not.

"Capt. Augustine's company was ordered to make a reconnaissance between the Angelina and the Neches rivers. The duty was performed without any incident occurring of moment. A night alarm caused the command to be placed in line. Lieut. N. K. K. was in charge of the guard. He sported a brigadier general's uniform. He reported—'Something approached a sentinel—he hailed—receiving no answer—he fired. He is sure it is not a woman.' The latter assertion set every one to laughing; and thus the affair ended.

"It should have been stated previously that Gen. Thomas J. Rusk commanded the whole force. Some field officers were on duty by virtue of their commissions in the militia. Our Major was Dr. Alexander G. Hale.

"The line of march was up river to form a junction with the main body. We halted at Lucy's ranch, if memory serves; a large farm on the road from Nacogdoches to Washington on the Brazos. The house was on an elevated spot—overlooking a considerable extent of territory. It was on or near the town of Alto, as the writer has been informed. We remained here about two days. In the evening of the second day news was received that a body of four hundred Mexicans and Indians were not far off. That night we moved back on the Nacogdoches road, and encamped in a mot of timber, surrounded by prairie on every side. The position was good for defense, but lacked water. Regularity, order, and silence was observed as we marched along by fours. Not many hours before, the road was not sufficiently large to prevent men from falling out of a column of twos. All was quiet during the night.

"The next morning we resumed our march by twos. Very soon a large body of men was seen coming across the prairie in our direction. They were supposed to be enemies. The order was given 'Front Into Line.' We moved in a gallop. An elderly gentleman, Mr. Shofner, seemed to feel the necessity of going into battle with a full stomach. He detached a piece of dried beef from the cantil of his saddle and made a vigorous effort to fill his mouth. The ground was 'siding,' his horse began stumbling, was able to recover, and fell a long distance—leaving the rider on the ground behind him. The prostrate man made a desperate effort to finish his meal. It did not take long to learn the force in sight was Gen. Rusk's main command.

"That day or the next the trail of the enemy was followed. The command passed by the house of Bowles, the celebrated Cherokee chief. He was standing at a short distance from his house, a comfortable appearing log cabin, conversing with some of our officers, perhaps Gen. Rusk. An interpreter was present. His face had somewhat the contour of a Caucasian. The nose was rather on the aquiline order. He impressed one with the idea that he possessed force of character, and great firmness. He denied all connection with the movement set on foot by Cordova and his Indians. As far as his people were concerned, we were induced to form a different opinion very soon thereafter.

"The enemy moved up country, not far from the valley of the Neches. In time they divided. The Mexicans headed more to the westward. The army followed the trail trending to the right. It grew smaller as we advanced. Men reported Indians traveling on foot to their homes. On reaching the Neches Saline there was scarcely anything visible to follow. The general impression was that the Cherokees, at least, had abandoned the cause of the pronunciado, yet the evidences of their hostility were undoubted by us. This caused many a prudent man to consider the danger of having a people, about half civilized, possessing property, arms, and munitions of war; and harboring a hereditary enmity to us; living in our near neighbors, really in our midst. It seemed to many very like a situation destined to culminate in bloodshed and disaster, when a fair opportunity presented to inflict them upon us. What was most dreaded was the terrible fate in store for the families exposed to the operation of savage men who would make slaves of their sons and mistresses of their daughters.

"The army disbanded at the Neches Saline. The men turned their faces homeward, with strong sentiments that, the enterprise they had undertaken was not abandoned, but suspended, and would be completed ere long, as an act of necessity, of self protection, directed by imminent, impending dangers."

Conflict May Bring Major Cotton Areas Under Japs Control

An important cotton-growing area is found in the region of China now disturbed by Sino-Japanese negotiations and conflict, the New York Cotton Exchange Service points out. Far Eastern developments also are of interest to the cotton trade because of the present and potential market for cotton goods in this territory.

Three of the North China Provinces over which Japan is reported to be extending its influence—Shantung, Hopei and Shansi—are cotton-growing areas, with an estimated production of 1,272,000 bales in 1934. Japan, now the largest buyer of American cotton, is reported to be fostering cotton production in North China as well as in Manchukuo, where acreage was increased 40 per cent last season.

Haskell County Club Members at Munday Meet

Three clubs from Haskell county attended the encampment at Munday, Texas, Tuesday June 18, with their county demonstration agent, Miss Peggy Taylor. The clubs were Rose, Howard and Weinert.

There were 79 club girls representing the clubs of Haskell, Knox and Baylor counties and their sponsors. Games were played during the morning for a while, then we had a dress contest. The girls who entered the contest modeled their dresses and the judges decided on the three best dresses and prizes were given. At the noon hour a bountiful lunch was enjoyed by all. In the afternoon each club was represented with a stunt. The Rose club girls from Haskell county won first place in the stunts and a prize was given to each member. After the stunts a Knox county girl gave a demonstration on various ways of preparing tomatoes.

One of the Haskell county girls, Bonnie Dell Hisey from the Howard club won a trip to A. & M. Short Course on her bedroom. A report was given by each president of the clubs on the things they had done in the entire year.

A "Treasure Hunt" caused much excitement among the girls. It contained a sack of candy.

The Knox county girls and the Haskell county girls played a game of baseball, and after the game ice cream cones were given to all members by the demonstration agents.

After all the games everyone reported a nice time and we adjourned and went home. The members from Haskell county were: Billie Jack Speers, Letha Mae and Mamie Tidwell, Grace, Lorena and Opal Rose, Ruby, Florine and Earline Stodghill, Capitola and Frances Larned and the sponsor, Mrs. Jack Speers of Rose.

Eloise and Margaret Toilver from Weinert.

Finds Keeping A Record Makes For Economy

"I have kept a record of the clothing expenditures and planned for the entire family this year. I have a more harmonious and economical wardrobe than ever before, the total amount spent was $43.96 for my entire family of four," writes Mrs. H. H. Hines, second year wardrobe demonstrator for the New Cook Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Hines has made pajamas from bran sacks, which were quite serviceable and attractive, the total cost being five cents for a spool of thread. Other similar saving are: crocheting gloves, tams, and purses.

WAKING PEOPLE UP

Isn't Always So Easy

A lot of alarm clocks could testify to that. There's one 'alarm clock' in the business field that can't be beat for rousing laggard sales from their slumbers—and that's a judicious use of newspaper advertising. The idea that you have "nothing to advertise this week" implies that you have nothing to offer to the public. Tell them your story each week—they'll listen. People actually read ads, you know—after all you, read this one, didn't you?

OTHER SERVICES RENDERED BY HASKELL MERCHANTS

Local business men tell us that many people in buying, consider only one factor in trading—the price. Losing sight entirely of the importance of quality and without appreciating the services rendered by the merchants in Haskell some people glance through a catalog and snap at "bargains." After paying parcel post, insurance and waiting days for the merchandise they do not come out as well as they imagined.

The Free Press has never appealed to its readers to trade at home merely for "patriotic" reasons. It has never blamed any person for buying what is needed as cheaply as possible, although it has attempted to demonstrate that local merchants deserve as much consideration as a stray catalog. To stay in business Haskell merchants must meet outside competition but it is obviously unreasonable to expect them to do more than this.

Local merchants guarantee their wares giving you many money-back guarantees, but we know of very few satisfactory price adjustments effected through the mails. Local merchants give an adequate follow-up service on their sales but, as far as we know, no mail order house has ever sent a man to Haskell to see why its product is not doing all that they said it would.

There is much more to a trade than the price. Quality, accommodation, service and personal consideration come with goods bought from Haskell merchants. There is no price for these in a catalog because a mail-order house cannot deliver them with the goods—it takes a Haskell store to do so.

BAD HOUSING IN HASKELL COUNTY

It would probably surprise many residents of Haskell county to be told that one-third of the population of the United States is living in dwellings and neighborhoods of a character to injure the health, endanger the safety and morals, and interfere with the normal life of their inhabitants.

This is the verdict of the housing division of the PWA which has issued a report, with supporting details, that six million non-farm, and five million farm homes are definitely sub-standard, and that housing conditions are so bad over so great an area that they constitute a national emergency.

The report points out that while the situation exists in the slum areas of great cities it also exists in farm districts as well. Moreover, the conclusion is "inescapable" according to Dr. Edith Wood, that the evil is impossible of correction by private enterprise. The Government hopes to embark on a campaign of actual construction, according to Horatio B. Hackett, PWA Director of Housing, not with the idea of supplying the entire need of the country, but rather with the hope to scatter outstanding examples of proper housing projects among the states and thus encourage progress along this important line.

While readers of the Free Press, as stated at the beginning of this article, may not realize the actual condition that exist in Haskell county, we feel sure that a little reflection on their part will convince them that much is needed along housing construction here before our people as a whole will be adequately and properly housed.

EXAMPLE FOR BUSINESS

Probably there are few Americans who will deny that we need a system of old age pensions. There probably will be equal agreement that such a system must be operated by the federal government. Nevertheless, it is well to remember that there are some far-sighted corporations which have been quietly conducting pension plans of their own on a truly remarkable scale. For instance; it was announced the other day that the Pennsylvania railroad system is now paying out no less than $600,000 a month in pensions. It established its pension system in 1900. Today it has 11,000 pensioners on its rolls. The security that such a plan gives to a large body of workers is something beyond price. If more corporations did the same thing, the demand for a government pension system would not be nearly so pressing today.

LIKE FIRST PIONEERS

Now it is reported that a certain amount of discontent has replaced the fine enthusiasm which at first pervaded the ranks of those 1935 pioneers who are engaged in settling the Matanuska valley in Alaska. The colonists, it is said, find that there aren't enough tents, that the weather is pretty rainy, that some of the farm sites are pretty swampy, and that it is hard to get the trucks to move up household goods. All this, probably, is chiefly the natural reaction from the initial enthusiasm. Any job like this one is bound to have its dark moments. The original pitch of joyful expectancy could not possibly be maintained. The present mood of depression no more indicates that the venture is a flop than the first hoop-la spirit proved that it was a gorgeous success.

TALKING NATIONAL POLITICS

Wheeling (W. Va.) Register

The Republicans from ten states in the farm belt recently held a meeting in Springfield, Illinois. They called it their "grass roots" convention.

The first business before the convention was to list their grievances against the present administration. A large number of words were wasted on this, inasmuch as they could have covered the whole subject by a brief resolution that: Those in convention assembled hereby declare everything the present administration has done, tried to do, or thought of doing to be one hundred per cent wrong.

The next action taken by the convention is perhaps worth further consideration. They decided that it would be unwise to form a new conservative party; and that the proper procedure is for the G. O. P. to list itself as the Conservative Party and to invite the conservative members of the Democratic Party to come over and join the conservative G. O. P. in the 1936 campaign. That may be logical procedure—subject of course to the proviso that some people did not relish the 1929 financial crash nor the depression which followed that crash and were not enthusiastic about the activities of Mr. Hoover which led up to that crash. That is something else, however.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

Daniel L. Marsh, president Boston University: "Sometimes sixty-meaning people talk about making war humane. It cannot be done."

Norman Angell, Nobel peace prize winner: "Defense of the individual, whether a person or a state, must be the affair of the community."

Cordell Hull, Secretary of State: "There are some ominous tendencies present in the world, which, if persisted in, cannot fail to bring disaster."

Roger W. Babson, statistician: "Our dollar now is only worth sixty cents abroad. It is only a question of time when it will be worth sixty cents, or much less, in the United States."

Kay Francis, actress: "I want money for the security it will bring, the enjoyment it will give me later."

Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture: "The conflict between the habits and the facts has been wrenching for the American people."

Joseph Sweetman Ames, retiring President, Johns Hopkins University: "Back of all this talk of Americanism lies the worship of the demagogue of that lower world orthodoxy, and back of orthodoxy lurks the so-called vested interests."

Wm. E. Borah, U. S. Senator from Idaho: "The people of the United States will not consent to half a dozen men controlling eighty or ninety per cent of the subsidiaries in the United States."

Henry Ford, auto magnate: "If the government would quit meddling with us, there wouldn't be any unemployment."

Walter Lippman, newspaper commentator: "The Roosevelt reform measures are all the continuation of a movement in American politics which goes back at least fifty years."

Eduard Benes, Czechoslovak foreign minister: "It is my idea that the League of Nations is one of the greatest forces in maintaining equilibrium in Europe."

"Dogie" Pain In Neck to Cowboys

FORT WORTH.—Neither the origin of the term "dogie" nor the mental social position of the dogie on a ranch, say Texas cowboys, justifies the place to which the scrawny, motherless calf has been exalted.

There is nothing romantic about the miserable little creature, whose chance of living is very small, cowboys say, and which are thorns in the life of every cowboy, despite the lofty plane to which the dogie has been elevated in the recent popularization of old cowboy songs and "Tin Pan Alley" imitations of them.

It would have been a wonderful thing if the song writers, radio crooners and paragraphers who have succeeded in bringing about all the furore over the word "dogie" had taken the time to get the opinion of a few old cowmen in Texas.

writes John M. Hendrix of Sweetwater, Texas, secretary of the Sweetwater board of development. Sweetwater is in the heart of the Texas cattle country.

"They are really worthless little critters, and cause no end of trouble," Hendrix said.

"The old cowboy may tell you that you can carry all the motherless calves on the ranch miles and miles in front of your saddle to get them to headquarters, and try to raise them on the bottle, but that they will 'dogie' on you in spite of the devil, and you had just as well knock them in the head where you find them."

What is meant by the use of "dogie" as a verb is explained in the traditional origin of the word.

Old cowmen of Clay and Montague counties, back in the '80's, explain the traditional origin of the word this way:

A kind hearted old ranch lady instructed her cowboys to bring in all the motherless calves so she might attempt to raise them by gen-

Old Blue Laws Being Repealed

HARTFORD, Conn.—One by one, during the 300 years that Connecticut has outgrown its original settlement founded by a small band of pioneers from the Massachusetts Bay Colony, the "Blue Laws" which ruled with an iron hand have been erased from the statute books.

The tercentenary celebration of the state sent many poring over pages of history. They found in early days that the death penalty could be inflicted for:

Stealing an ear of corn from a neighbor's garden.
Blaspheming God.
A youth of 16 years or more to strike or curse his parents.
To be a stubborn or rebellious son.

Return to the colony after being banished as a Quaker, or a Roman Catholic priest.

And, it also was found, that they were called "Blue Laws," because they were first written upon blue paper.

The Sabbath was strictly observed. One was not permitted to saunter about in his garden, kiss his wife, or a mother kiss her child; all household duties were abandoned, except eating, and all food had to be cooked at least the day before. The Sabbath began at sundown Saturday night.

The General Court dealt severely with scandal-mongers. Early offenses were punishable by fines. Repeaters went to the stocks and chronic offenders faced a magistrate's court after a public whipping and the death penalty.

Before the laws were reduced to writing, the town crier announced them in a public place at regular intervals.

In case it was found a law had not been made for some specific offense, the violator was judged under this concluding clause in the fundamental law of the colony:

"For want of law in any particular case he shall be judged by the word of God."

There is no record of such judgments. When some people are extremely courteous, it is a sign they have jabbed you in the back.

For a More Abundant Life

"WE HAVE IT" . . . for homes, for farms, for towns and cities, for industries.

ELECTRIC POWER!

West Texas is abundantly supplied with power resources. The West Texas Utilities Company's 2,600 miles of transmission lines are linked with modern, strategically located generating stations, bringing power to you wherever it is needed.

"Let's Have Cheap Power!" We Have That, Too.

Power is a commodity which grows cheaper the more it is used. The power from this company's lines, available every hour in the day or night for a variety of uses, can be purchased cheaper than it can be manufactured by the individual city, or the individual industry, farm or homes.

"Let's Have Abundant Power, for a More Abundant Life." We Have That in West Texas, Too.

You may recall, many years ago, when some neighbor was able to boast of his electric lights through cords hanging from the ceiling. Light was expensive then, only the well-to-do could buy this service. Today, everybody uses electric service, for the electric dollar buys now an abundant amount, about three times as much electric service as it did before the World War. Electric service is delivered to you now so cheap that its daily cost can be counted in pennies.

The area served by the West Texas Utilities Company has ample power facilities to meet the demands of this growing and progressive "Land of Opportunity," West Texas.

HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

CHRISTIAN LIBERTY

International Sunday School Lesson for June 30, 1935.

Golden Text: "It is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." Rom. 14:21.

(Lesson Text: Romans 14:13-21; 1 Cor. 8:9-13.)

Members of the early Christian church were drawn from two classes. Many of them were Jews, who thru their lives had been accustomed to obey the ceremonial law of Judaism. Other Christians were Gentiles, having no such previous religious ritual, and therefore not subject in any way to the rules of conduct for the Jews.

In Rome the question as to the observance of the old customs of the Jews caused discussion in the Christian church. Many of the Jewish converts considered that they should still adhere to the manner of life practiced by their fathers. Other Christians considered that they had been entirely freed from the legalistic code of the Jews and that this no longer should be allowed to regulate their ordinary affairs of life. In his epistle to the Romans Paul took up in the first eleven chapters great doctrinal subjects, but beginning with the twelfth chapter he sought to give them a practical application in the everyday life of those to whom he wrote. Paul presented to those who felt that they had been completely emancipated the desirability, perhaps, of still following some of the laws if by so doing the strength of others in the new faith could be strengthened. "Nothing is unclean of itself," said Paul, "save that to him that accounted anything to be unclean, to him it is unclean." The individual conscience should be the guide of conduct for each person, although it should be borne in mind that while it is always wrong to violate one's conscience it may not always be right just to follow where conscience does not disturb.

In an effort to keep down criticism among members who differed in opinion as to conduct, Paul sought to discourage human beings acting as judges for their fellow men. "What a remarkable contrast there is between the true Christian's use of the power of judgment and that of the worldly-wise!" says G. Campbell Morgan. "These pass judgment upon others from the standpoint of personal preferences and convictions. The true Christian passes judgment upon his own conduct, from the standpoint of the well-being of his brethren. The one is self-centered, dogmatic, ignorant, and often unjust. The other is love-centered, self-denying, intelligent, and always merciful."

"Nothing grows upon me so much with the lengthening of life as the sum of the difficulties, or rather the impossibilities, with which we are beset whenever we are tempted to take to ourselves the functions of the Eternal Judge," says Gladstone, "except in reference to ourselves, where judgment is committed to us. The shades of the rainbow are not so nice, and the sands of the seashore are not such a multitude, as are the subtle, shifting, blinding forms of thought and of circumstances of us and of our acts. But there is One that seeth plainly and judgeth righteously."

The Kingdom of God, Paul pointed out, "is not eating and drinking but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." While many things may be permissible and safe to many people, there would remain some who were not so strong but that following these practices might result in harm. Therefore, "it is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." In effect, Paul realized that many harmless practices could be followed by good Christians without their being hurt, while these same activities overindulged in by the weak would do the latter terrible damage, therefore, he recommended that the strong abstain in order not to encourage the weak into a practice which might be harmful.

"Amid the difficulties, perhaps the impossibility, of advancing any strict and literal solution which shall be applicable to all cases, there is one thing unquestionable—and that is the concern which all ought to feel for the moral safety of others beside themselves," says Thomas Chalmers. "Grant of the strong Christian that he may pass unscathed through the festive parties of the ungodly, and perhaps even leave the savor of what is good in the midst of them; or grant that without injury to his own spirit, he may lend his occasional presence to certain haunts of public or fashionable entertainment—it must not be forgotten that many are the weak Christians, who, if led to the premature imitation of his example, would inevitably perish among the surrounding contaminations of an atmosphere which they could not breathe in and yet live."

In the Corinthian church the situation was somewhat different than at Rome. Here the difference between members of the church arose as to the right of a Christian to eat of food which had been offered to idols. In that country it was customary for a host to serve to his guests parts of an animal which had been sacrificed, and to some Christians the eating of this flesh seemed to participate in the worship of the pagan deity to whom the sacrifice had been made. While Paul did not think that the meat offered to idols was different from any other meat, still, in sympathy for the weaker member of his church, he was willing to sacrifice his own liberty to eat such meat in order not to harm the welfare of his brother who would be misled by such eating. "I may feel at perfect liberty to drink wine," says Marcus Dods. "Had I only myself to consider, and knowing that my temptation does not lie that way, I might use wine regularly or as often as I felt disposed to enjoy a needed stimulant. I may feel quite convinced in my own mind that morally I am not one whit the worse for doing so. But I cannot determine whether I am to indulge myself or not without considering the effect my conduct will have on others. There may be among my friends some who know that their temptation does lie that way, and whose conscience bids them altogether refrain. If by my example such persons are encouraged to silence the voice of their own conscience, then I incur the incalculable guilt of helping to destroy a brother for whom Christ died."

When the prohibition amendment was repealed, President Roosevelt appealed to the nation for cooperation in the administration of the new system and to avoid excessive drinking. Among other things he said: "I ask especially that no state shall by law or otherwise authorize the return of the saloon either in its old form or in some modern guise. The policy of government will be to see to it that the social and political evils that have existed in the pre-prohibition era shall not be revived nor permitted again to exist. We must remove forever from our midst the menace of the bootlegger and such others as would profit at the expense of good government, law and order. I trust in the good sense of the American people that they will not bring upon themselves the curse of excessive use of intoxicating liquors, to the detriment of health, morals and social integrity. The objective we seek through a national policy is the education of every citizen towards a greater temperance throughout the nation."

Prophecy of Floods Ending 1934 Drouth Is Amply Fulfilled

Amateur weather prophets who predicted that Texas' record drouth of 1934 would be followed by flooding rains can find justification for their faith in the soaking rains that have fallen in many parts of the State this Spring.

Weather bureau experts say that drouth years are not necessarily followed by excessive rains the next season. They can point to 1909 and 1910 in Texas, for example, when State rainfall averaged 7.32 inches below normal in 1909, 9.31 inches below in 1910, 1.64 below in 1911 and 4.65 inches below in 1912. When this long dry spell was broken in 1913 the moisture averaged only 5.28 inches above normal for that year.

A severe drouth that was broken by excessive rains, however, was that of 1916-18. In 1916 Texas stations averaged 6.18 inches below normal, in 1917 the average was 14.56 below and in 1918 1.87 inches below. The following year, 1919, however, the average rainfall in Texas was 14.56 inches above normal, or nearly 50 per cent more than the State average, which is 30.77 inches.

Last year's drouth, even though the worst in many years for a large part of the State, did not show a marked deficiency for the State as a whole, because some coastal sections had excessive rains. The State average in 1934 was 26.78 inches, 3.99 inches below normal.

Year's Supply Since May

Rains since May 1 in Texas have been exceedingly heavy and furnish material for those who argue that heavy rains follow a drouth. Uvalde, in South Texas, is a striking example of this. Total rainfall last year was only 16.79 inches, compared with the normal annual of 25.31 inches. But since May 1 Uvalde has received 20 inches, nearly 4 inches more than the entire 1934 rainfall and almost a normal year's supply.

Lamesa, in Dawson county of West Texas, was another drouth area last year, receiving only 8.91 inches compared with the normal of 17.85 inches for a year. From May 1 to June 12 this year, however, rains have totaled 12.31 inches, nearly 4 inches more than in twelve months last season.

Many Points Flooded

Childress, with 12.68 inches since May 1 against 16.78 during the entire year of 1934; Plainview with 9.40 inches since May 1 against 13.75 during 1934; San Antonio, with 21.01 inches, against 27.65 the 1934 total and 27.18 the normal, and Fort Stockton with nearly 3 inches since May 1 compared with less than 7 inches during all of 1934 also are examples of either a "famine or flood."

El Paso is one of the few Texas points remaining dry. Total rainfall during 1934 was but 27.3 compared with 91.6 the normal since May 1 less than one-fourth of an inch has been received.

Dallas has received heavy precipitation during the last month, but considerably less than in 1934 when the total of 23.15 inches was 13 inches below normal. Rains here since the beginning of May have amounted to about 8.25 inches.

Braves Scalp Stamford 7 to 4

First-half winners. Snatching the offerings of a certain Mr. "Lefty" Stallings at will, the Haskell Braves turned in a 7 to 4 victory here Sunday afternoon against the Stamford club, and captured the first-half pennant of the Wichita Valley League.

The first side of the hunting was automatically won, however, when the Stamford management sent Stallings into the box against the rest of the team. The left-handed heavy-hitter played with the Seymour Stars in the early part of the campaign and had not been released by the management of the Baylor college team, was declared ineligible last week by President Eugene Tamm and the game between Stamford and Munday on June 16 forfeited to the latter club.

To show that they could beat Stamford regardless of who pitched, the Braves went to work with a will at the beginning of the game. The hitters "hit" and the fielders played cleanup ball, even though the ground was in a muddy condition from a pre-game shower.

Gaut (Lefty) Hambright, local wronghander, kept the hits of the Stamford players scattered and pitched excellent ball with the exception of the seventh inning when the visitors almost batted around, and took temporary possession of the ball game. After that flurry, however, Hambright settled down and only allowed one more hit—a triple in the ninth by Bartlett.

Bartlett was a thorn in the side of Hambright most of the afternoon, and was the only Stamford player to successfully solve the delivery of the Haskell lefthander, by cracking out a double besides his three-ply bingle.

The fielding of J. T. (Jav) Adkins, infielder's target on firstbase, was a feature of the game. Sixteen men were put out at the initial sack by Adkins, and five of those batsmen died when the Haskell firstbaseman went far afield and pulled down both fair and foul flies. Adkins triple in the eighth frame, with Norman perched on base, made Mr. Stallings realize more than anything else that "things" were not going good—from a Stallings viewpoint.

Howard Johnson, older brother of shortstop Sam Johnson, went to bat for the first time as a Brave in the seventh inning in the place of Edwards, a lefthanded hitter. All that Johnson did was to get the range on the first two balls pitched and then lean against the ball for a hard smash to deep center, sending Patterson across the plate with the tying run. Johnson later went to field, where he has never played, and made a putout on his only chance.

Burford Cox hit for a 1000 Sunday, charged with only one official time at bat. On his first trip up he sacrificed, singled to right on his next try, and stroled to first twice.

Dozen Signs of Improvement Recorded In Most Optimistic Survey of Business In Years

WASHINGTON—Impressive business gains were reported last week by the federal reserve board and the department of commerce.

A dozen signs of better business were listed by the reserve board in one of its most optimistic business surveys in years. The department of commerce noted that "retail sales generally have shown consistent gains during the past week."

The national income, the reserve board reported, is the highest in four years; industrial profits are the highest in five years and the general level of industrial output in the first four months of this year was 7 per cent above a year ago.

"Notwithstanding adverse weather conditions," the department of commerce said, "retail sales generally have shown consistent gains during the past week. But few cities indicated a downward trend and these were in most cases caused by labor disturbances."

"No trade developments of importance resulted from the NRA situation," the commerce department said. "In a number of cities including Memphis, New Orleans, Jacksonville, and Colorado Springs breakdowns from the NRA code schedules were said to be gaining ground."

Gains in residential building and a 3 per cent rise in department store sales were reported by the federal reserve board. Bank deposits increased by more than a billion dollars since the first of the year. During the first four months of 1935, new security offerings exceeded one billion dollars, reaching the highest level in four years.

The reserve board attributed expanding national income to increased industrial activity and to success in governmental efforts to raise farm prices.

"Dogie" Pain In Neck to Cowboys

FORT WORTH—Neither the origin of the term "dogie" nor the mental social position of the dogie on a ranch, say Texas cowboys, justifies the place to which the scrawny, motherless calf has been exalted.

There is nothing romantic about the miserable little creature, whose chance of living is very small, cowboys say, and which are thorns in the life of every cowboy, despite the lofty plane to which the dogie has been elevated in the recent popularization of old cowboy songs and "Tin Pan Alley" imitations of them.

"It would have been a wonderful thing if the song writers, radio crooners and paraphraser who have succeeded in bringing about all the furor over the word 'dogie' had taken the time to get the opinion of a few old cowmen in Texas," writes John M. Hendrix of Sweetwater, Texas, secretary of the Sweetwater board of development. Sweetwater is in the heart of the Texas cattle country.

"They are really worthless little writers, and cause no end of trouble," Hendrix said.

"The old cowman may tell you that you can carry all the motherless calves on the ranch miles and miles in front of your saddle to get them to headquarters, and try to raise them on the bottle, but that they will 'dogie' on you in spite of the devil, and you had just as well knock them in the head where you find them."

American authoress—1832-1888. Was a writer of "sweet" stories which many hard-shelled moderns scorn, but human nature changes little and, down deep, we all want to see the better things of life—and believe in the goodness of others.

Changes may take place in clothing styles, mode of transportation and ways of writing fiction, but insurance policies (those that actually protect) "bring home the bacon" any time. And we sell GOOD policies.

Fossils Under Sea Show Land's Age
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Dredging two thousand feet below the Atlantic, about one hundred and twenty miles east of Nantucket Isle, a Harvard University expedition brought up fossil-bearing rock from cliffs of the continental shelf for the first time. The fossils upset previous theories and indicated that the last major crustal movement of the Atlantic Coast occurred about thirty million years ago. It was previously supposed that this movement occurred at and one hundred sixty million years ago.
