SUDDEN HEART ATTACK TODAY IS FATAL TO J. B. KENDALL, 53

Well-Known Ginner and Farmer Complained of Severe Pains in Chest After Returning Home From Morning Spent Plowing in Nearby Field

Funeral service for John B. Kendall, well known Haskell ginner and farmer, will be held from the Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, with the Rev. Chas. A. Tucker, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Willow Cemetery.

Mr. Kendall, the victim of a sudden heart attack, dropped dead at his home in the northeast part of town today at 11:30 o'clock, a few minutes after he had returned from a nearby field where he had been plowing all morning.

Entering the kitchen where Mrs. Kendall was preparing the noon-day meal, he complained of severe pain in his chest, but attributed them to the strenuous work of the morning. After he had gone to his room, Mrs. Kendall was attracted by the sound of something falling and when she reached the doorway saw her husband lying on the floor. Death was instant, said Dr. T. W. Williams, who was called to the home.

Mr. Kendall, resident of Haskell since 1923 when he moved to Haskell from Byers, Texas, had been employed at the Duncan Gin each fall and winter since that time. He engaged in farming during the summer on his small farm adjoining the gin property.

Born January 27, 1883 in Johnson county, Ark., the son of P. B. and Mollie Kendall. Coming to Texas in his youth, he was married to Miss Cora Parks of Decatur, Texas on November 24, 1911. They later moved to Byers, re-

HOUSTON POLICE ARREST MAN WANTED HERE FOR SWINDLING

Allegedly Gave Worthless Check for $1200 to Close Cattle Deal

Sought by Haskell county officers since February 18th in connection with perpetuating a $1,200 fraud in connection with the purchase of 69 head of cattle from a Haskell county farmer, C. A. Baird, of Dallas was arrested this morning in Houston.

Sheriff Giles Kemp, accompanied by Roy Ratliff, district clerk, left for Houston shortly after noon today to return Baird to Haskell to face complaints charging swindling and forgery. Baird was arrested by Houston police this morning about 9 o'clock, the police chief of that city told Sheriff Kemp in a telephone conversation.

Baird, posing as a cattle-buyer and giving the name of "C. B. Anderson" contracted for the purchase of 69 beef cattle from Tull Newcomb, farmer-stockman, on Sunday February 18th. Giving Newcomb a check for $1,200 as part payment Baird employed a Stamford truck-driver to accompany him to Fort Worth with seventeen head of the animals.

The following day Newcomb, who resides in the extreme southwest part of the county, called an Abilene bank on which the check given him was drawn, and learned that no account was carried by "C. B. Anderson."

Reporting the case the next day to the sheriff's department, an investigation by Sheriff Kemp revealed that Baird or "Anderson" had sold the truckload of cattle in Fort Worth, receiving $455.26 for the lot. The officer also learned that Baird was a resident of Dallas, and an ex-convict, having served a 3-year term in the Texas penitentiary for forgery.

Photographs and description of the alleged forger were sent officers throughout the state, by Haskell county officers.

Three men residing in the northwest part of the county face charges in County Court following their arrest Saturday night in Rule on charges of possession and transporting of intoxicating liquor. City Marshal Jim McCoy of Rule and Deputy Sheriff Ollie Kitley made the arrests.

Attention of the officer was attracted when occupants of the car bestirred themselves in breaking several containers allegedly filled with the contraband, after their car had struck a street curb in Rule. Officers seized two and one-half gallon jars of alleged "corn" whiskey and brought the three occupants to Haskell where they were arraigned before Judge Chas. M. Conner.

Charges Preferred Against Two Men Residing Near Northwest County Line

Deputies from the sheriff's department confiscated the largest quantity of contraband whiskey seized during the past year, Sunday afternoon in a raid upon the farm premises of Gene Scoggins in the northwest part of the county. Twenty-nine and one-half gallons of illicit liquor was taken in charge by the officers, they stated.

Charges of "possession for the purpose of sale" were filed in complaints executed by the officers, returnable in County Court. Two men, Gene Scoggins, 64, and his son, J. B. Scoggins, were taken into custody and named in the complaints. They were brought to Haskell and arraigned before Judge Chas. M. Conner who set bond in each case at $500 which was perfected and the defendants released from custody to appear later for court trials.

Officers taking part in the raid were Deputies Riley Lewellen and Mart Clifton of Haskell, Ollie Kitley of Rule, and City Marshal Jim McCoy of Rule.

The contraband liquor was found in a smokehouse on the Scoggins premises, officers said, located only a short distance inside the line of Haskell county in the northwest corner of the county. A number of persons were congregated there when officers arrived, according to testimony advanced at a preliminary hearing.

The 64-year-old ex-Tennessean, Gene Scoggins, vehemently cleared to officers that he was owner of the whiskey, adding that "it was the best liquor made in (Continued On Page Eight)

Gambling Negroes Wind Up In Jail After Usual Rucus

Three negroes languished in the Haskell county jail this week, faced with ample time for reflection on the merits of "sociable" games of chance, and also nursing knife wounds sustained in the almost inevitable rucus which occurs when one or two dusky sons of Ham start winning the big pots.

The trio, Glen Johnson, R. L. Susion and Robert Grant, were arrested by Deputies Mart Clifton and Riley Lewellen after the officers had been notified of an affray which occurred Sunday afternoon on a farm east of Rochester. Investigating, the officers learned that possibly a half-dozen negroes had gathered for a "sociable game" which ended when four of the number became involved in an argument in which three of the participants received knife wounds.

The lesson for this meeting being, as we learned, the most read Psalm, all joined in reciting the 23rd Psalm. After which all joined in singing "Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Me." The Director at this time gave a most thorough analysis of the Chapter being studied. Her questioning brought out many interesting thoughts and a lively discussion followed. Those who took part in this interesting discussion were Mesdames Graham, W. Cox, Irby, Patterson and Sowell. We learned that the 11th Psalm was the least read, as well as the longest of the Psalms, consisting as it does of 76 verses. With the Director reading every other verse and the group reading others in unison, this Psalm was also read and discussed.

Mrs. B. Cox uttered the prayer of dismissal.

Mrs. Huckabee then invited all to remain for a social hour, at which time delicious refreshments of Frosted Punch, Angel Food Cake and salted pecans, were served. The parsonage rooms were made very attractive by the many bowls and vases of delicate, graceful yellow jasmine. Softly beautiful candlelight, shedding its glow over sparkling glass and gleaming silver, made the handsome lace covered table, over which Mrs. Wallace Cox presided, a thing of beauty. The sweet graciousness of the hostess made this an outstanding meeting and one very much appreciated by the entire Missionary Society.

"Authorship and Dates" will be studied at the next meeting. The Director requested Mrs. Patterson to prepare an article on the Music of the Psalms. Mrs. Wallace Cox will tell of nature as brought out in the Psalms. Mrs. Persons joins the Director in urging a good attendance at the next meeting in the home of Mrs. F. T. Sanders.

The pastor also requests all to be present at the fellow-ship supper on next Wednesday night. Don't forget the covered dish.

News About Haskell County Farmers

full of feed, hogs cows few more days so they can have their ground all broken, and then they are ready for what they call a good planting season.

Stock water is getting scarce in some of the earth tanks, but no one is alarmed because they all have good moisture in the ground for plowing.

F. M. Harrison— We visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Harrison near Gillespie Church whom we have known for the past 20 years. They have lived in this community 35 years and are well known to a large circle of friends. Mr. Harrison owns a good farm and has succeeded all these years in farming. Their children have all married and gone out in the world for themselves and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are living by themselves on the old homestead. Mrs. Harrison takes a lively interest in laying hens and says that she is going to change back to white leghorns, because they suit her best.

N. M. Stewart— Tractor farming has a fascination for N. M. Stewart living near Weintert. He says it is a fast method of farming. He was almost through sowing oats and believes he will have moisture to bring them up. Some of his family were suffering with "Flu". He has farmed in Haskell County for the past 21 years and is no stranger to the people of this section.

Adolph Havran— When we arrived at the home of Adolph Havran, we found glad surprise. In addition to general farming he is a real poultryman and has about 500 thoroughbred white leghorn hens on his poultry yard. He sells most of the production to the hatchery and gets a good price for select eggs. He also sells cream and raises most of his feed. He has good warm houses, plenty of green shade and all his flock is on good production.

He keeps his yards very clean and any one will get an inspiration to visit this farm. He has a nice home and other good improvements and he uses teams and a tractor for his farm work. We have known this boy most of his life.

J. B. Scott— We found J. B. Scott a very busy man. Mrs. Scott has been ill for some time and J. B. was doing the family washing. His son had a tractor humming near by and he was rapidly preparing the ground for planting. Mr. Scott is an experienced farmer and says the farmer is starting the new year with brighter hopes.

W. S. Grimsley— The wheat and barley sown by W. S. Grimsley of near Weintert came through the cold weather and is growing off nicely. Mr. Grimsley uses teams and a tractor and works a large acreage in row crop and grain. He keeps 200 hens which provides a living, and they also sell cream and raise hogs for their meat and lard. He is a prosperous farmer.

J. F. Woolsey— It is always pleasing to see our young boys make a decision early in life and J. F. Woolsey a Haskell county boy has chosen farming for his occupation. He is well equipped for farming. He uses a tractor and was very busy turning the soil. His mother Mrs. T. H. Woolsey of Stamford was visiting him.

and the egg basket always goes to town filled each week. Mr. Lewellen was county commissioner for a number of years and introduced on the Haskell roads to cover each culvert with dirt which is still carried on by other commissioners, making driving a comfort and taking care of the culvert. Mrs. Lewellen gave us a good dinner at noon. Mr. Lewellen has 18 heat of fine shoats which will weigh around 100 pounds each.

W. F. Stoker— I am flat breaking quite a lot of my farm land said W. P. Stoker when we visited this home northeast of town last week. He is cultivating 200 acres of land using a tractor. He feeds his surplus feed to cows and sells cream. He has 70 acres in wheat, 25 acres in volunteer oats and ten acres sown to barley with a bunch of white leghorn hens. Willie is making good with all his farm projects.

J. W. Massie— For many years Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Massie have specialized in good red chickens and they have a fine flock now and are selling eggs to the hatchery at a fancy price. Mr. Massie has 30 acres of wheat looking good, was putting up his land with teams for row crops. Mr. Massie sells butter and other things grown on the farm which almost take care of the expenses of the family.

W. A. Leonard— Our young farmers are taking their places with plenty of energy and we are glad to note that W. A. Leonard is falling in line and making the farm pay. He is using a tractor and feeding the surplus feed to cows and selling cream. He has quite a lot of small grain sown and is getting ready for row crops. Mrs. Leonard has mixed chickens and they are laying lots of eggs.

Floyd McGuire— The farmer that sets his sails to reach the part of good living in most cases makes some money on the side. We note that Floyd McGuire of the Roberts Community is hitting the trail toward success. They have hogs, chickens and cows and they have them arranged so they will make a profit from them. They have an incubator setting on 351 eggs which will hatch in a few days. They expect to set it three times this year. They are planning to increase the layers to 500 hens if they can for next season. They are selling cream and have one cow which has given around 7 gallons of milk per day, plenty of good hogs. Everything looks prosperous for this splendid young farmer. He uses a tractor and has all the ground put up.

Elmer Watson— We made a short stop with Elmer Watson, teacher of Roberts school. He was preparing to plant some potatoes. He says that he has been lucky on potatoes and generally makes a good crop. He is teaching his first year at Roberts. He taught 15 terms of school at Post before coming to Roberts. Many pupils of Mr. Watson have good careers in life. He is one of our best teachers and his record is one of which he should feel elated.

Mrs. T. E. Wright— There is much interest centered in the beautiful farm home of Mrs. T. E. Wright of Ventress. Mrs. Wright has always been a promoter. She has erected more good homes in Haskell than any other individual we can call to mind. She bought the Wright Hotel and the Annex which is now the Norton Hotel and the Kinney Funeral Home. The parsonage of the First Christian Church and the Harcrow home all in Haskell where she now resides. She and her son Byron are living on the farm. The conditions on the farm look prosperous. Nearly 300 acres of grain is growing nicely and most of the ground is ready for row crop planting. There is plenty of wood and water on this farm. We spent Tuesday night in this home and enjoyed it very much.

H. M. Thompson— Every farmer should flat break his ground deeply every two years, says H. M. Thompson, one of Haskell County's leading farmers living on the R. J. Mitchell farm. He uses teams and a tractor. He has some good mules which he prizes very highly. He learned how to farm in the famous Paul's Valley in Oklahoma. Mrs. Thompson started with 9 bantam hens 6 years ago and sets them on large breed eggs and now she has a fine flock of poultry and is getting 5 dozen eggs average each day. Last year Mr. Thompson made 3-4 bale of cotton per acre. He raises hogs for meat and lard and he advocates very forcibly the farmer producing what he needs for his living on the farm.

C. E. Stevens— We are glad to note that C. E. Stevens has moved from Dublin, Texas to the Uncle Ike Anderson farm, east of Weintert where he is engaged to farming. He uses teams and has his ground almost ready to plant the row crops.

H. E. Klose— When our young boys take to farming they are more modern and up-to-date than their ancestors. We note this at the home of H. E. Klose who is doing some real farming on the old Hickman farm which now belong to his father. He bought 800 baby chicks in January and they are almost to the breeder stage now. He had fair

Will Mansker— We visited the farm home of Will Mansker of near Weintert. He uses teams and a tractor. They have a good milch cow and 75 hens and other livestock. He says that he believes the farmer has a good opportunity to come back.

S. C. Caddell— We saw at the farm home of S. C. Caddell six good horses and mules stepping out pulling a large tractor drill putting oats in the ground. Scott says that he likes good teams and he knows how to handle them. He has sown some barley and he likes barley for feed. We saw some good cows and chickens which he says is the best assets on the farm.

L. E. Nelson— We had occasion to visit the farm home of L. E. Nelson on Weintert Route 1. He is tractor farming. He has lived in this section many years and believes in Haskell County as a good farming section. The plan of the Newton's has always been to make the farm furnish the living and they are still practicing what they have planned. They sell Cream and Eggs each week and Mrs. Nelson plans to raise turkeys this year.

L. E. Hunter— Tractor farming appeals to L. E. Hunter of Thorp, but he has a large bunch of Jersey cows to feed his surplus feed grown on the farm to. Luther is a good farmer and he grows lots of feed and raises his cattle. He always has a cow for sale and that brings in some cash all the year around.

W. J. Jenkins— For many years our friends W. J. Jenkins has roamed the prairies unmolested, and he is still able to tell how the cow eat the cabbage, and many other stories true to life. He has finally settled down and erected a new farm home, which he and Mrs. Jenkins enjoy very much. He lived in Weintert several years but he became tired of the noise and came back to the farm to spend his days in happiness. Mrs. Jenkins has her mother now living with her. She is 83 years old and she can read without glasses.

H. W. Hill— Since 1921 H. W. Hill has lived on the same farm in the Myers Community. He used good mules for farming and is a lover of good stock. He still has his race mare, Roxie which is a fast stepper on the track and he has some young animals coming on which will make track records. Mrs. Hill has a fine flock of chickens and some good cows. This family knows how to make the farm pay-off and they are on the job. We spent a night with Mr. and Mrs. Hill and enjoyed it very much.

J. C. Lewellen— For the past 23 years J. C. Lewellen has lived on his farm in the Roberts Community and he is still farming the same fertile soil. He has a large acreage sown to wheat and says it is growing off nicely since the warm weather set in. He says he could not get along without the cow, the sow and the hen. They have always been big factors in his success. He always raises his meat. Wet or dry Mrs. Lewellen has customers she has sold butter for more than 10 years.

She has erected more good homes in Haskell than any other individual we can call to mind. She bought the Wright Hotel and the Annex which is now the Norton Hotel and the Kinney Funeral Home. The parsonage of the First Christian Church and the Harcrow home all in Haskell where she now resides. She and her son Byron are living on the farm. The conditions on the farm look prosperous. Nearly 300 acres of grain is growing nicely and most of the ground is ready for row crop planting. There is plenty of wood and water on this farm. We spent Tuesday night in this home and enjoyed it very much.

H. M. Thompson— Every farmer should flat break his ground deeply every two years, says H. M. Thompson, one of Haskell County's leading farmers living on the R. J. Mitchell farm. He uses teams and a tractor. He has some good mules which he prizes very highly. He learned how to farm in the famous Paul's Valley in Oklahoma. Mrs. Thompson started with 9 bantam hens 6 years ago and sets them on large breed eggs and now she has a fine flock of poultry and is getting 5 dozen eggs average each day. Last year Mr. Thompson made 3-4 bale of cotton per acre. He raises hogs for meat and lard and he advocates very forcibly the farmer producing what he needs for his living on the farm.

C. E. Stevens— We are glad to note that C. E. Stevens has moved from Dublin, Texas to the Uncle Ike Anderson farm, east of Weintert where he is engaged to farming. He uses teams and has his ground almost ready to plant the row crops.

H. E. Klose— When our young boys take to farming they are more modern and up-to-date than their ancestors. We note this at the home of H. E. Klose who is doing some real farming on the old Hickman farm which now belong to his father. He bought 800 baby chicks in January and they are almost to the breeder stage now. He had fair

W. F. Stoker— I am flat breaking quite a lot of my farm land said W. P. Stoker when we visited this home northeast of town last week. He is cultivating 200 acres of land using a tractor. He feeds his surplus feed to cows and sells cream. He has 70 acres in wheat, 25 acres in volunteer oats and ten acres sown to barley with a bunch of white leghorn hens. Willie is making good with all his farm projects.

J. W. Massie— For many years Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Massie have specialized in good red chickens and they have a fine flock now and are selling eggs to the hatchery at a fancy price. Mr. Massie has 30 acres of wheat looking good, was putting up his land with teams for row crops. Mr. Massie sells butter and other things grown on the farm which almost take care of the expenses of the family.

W. A. Leonard— Our young farmers are taking their places with plenty of energy and we are glad to note that W. A. Leonard is falling in line and making the farm pay. He is using a tractor and feeding the surplus feed to cows and selling cream. He has quite a lot of small grain sown and is getting ready for row crops. Mrs. Leonard has mixed chickens and they are laying lots of eggs.

Floyd McGuire— The farmer that sets his sails to reach the part of good living in most cases makes some money on the side. We note that Floyd McGuire of the Roberts Community is hitting the trail toward success. They have hogs, chickens and cows and they have them arranged so they will make a profit from them. They have an incubator setting on 351 eggs which will hatch in a few days. They expect to set it three times this year. They are planning to increase the layers to 500 hens if they can for next season. They are selling cream and have one cow which has given around 7 gallons of milk per day, plenty of good hogs. Everything looks prosperous for this splendid young farmer. He uses a tractor and has all the ground put up.

Elmer Watson— We made a short stop with Elmer Watson, teacher of Roberts school. He was preparing to plant some potatoes. He says that he has been lucky on potatoes and generally makes a good crop. He is teaching his first year at Roberts. He taught 15 terms of school at Post before coming to Roberts. Many pupils of Mr. Watson have good careers in life. He is one of our best teachers and his record is one of which he should feel elated.

Mrs. T. E. Wright— There is much interest centered in the beautiful farm home of Mrs. T. E. Wright of Ventress. Mrs. Wright has always been a promoter. She has erected more good homes in Haskell than any other individual we can call to mind. She bought the Wright Hotel and the Annex which is now the Norton Hotel and the Kinney Funeral Home. Two of Largest Tanks In County On Bridges Farm

Any inconvenience which could possibly be caused by infrequent droughts in West Texas has been practically eliminated at the farm home of Ben T. Bridges, several miles east of Weinert. On the Bridges farm, formerly owned by the late Capt. Woods, will be found two of the largest earthen tanks in the county—if not in all this section. Ample water supply is stored in the reservoirs at the present time to care for all domestic and livestock demands of the farm for several years to come, without a drop of rainfall. Located in a small draw, the "upper" basin is used to impound the water, which is carried through a 6-inch main to the lower tank, which now stands eighteen feet in water. The upper tank also serves as a "settling tank" eliminating any accumulation of debris and trash before the water is drawn into the second reservoir. A windmill is used to pump water for household purposes and to livestock pens and barns. Mr. Bridges plans to extend the water lines to other section of his place at an early date. Occupying one of the most modern farm homes in that section, Mr. and Mrs. Bridges are thoroughly acquainted with the process of profitable farming. A flock of 225 hens, several head of good milk cows, adequate garden space—all make up the scenery on this farm. Using a tractor in his farming operations, Mr. Bridges is also tending his land this year to assure the best possible yield. And as time permits, many improvements are contemplated on the farm. An old landmark—the Cousins homestead—is being razed and material from it will be used in the erection of tenant houses, barns and outbuildings. Although a believer in farming as a means of livelihood, Mr. and Mrs. Bridges are also rooming house, 1 block of square; well patronized. Owner must sell at a sacrifice. See Mrs. W. T. Norton. SAFETY THREE 'E'S'

Adoption of the Milwaukee traffic plan by President Roosevelt's national accident committee for dissemination to the entire country should promote safety in every city. The Milwaukee plan, based on the three "E's"—Engineering, Enforcement, and Education—has reduced that city's automobile death rate in the last year to 11.1 per 100,000 people, while the death rate of the country was 28.5. Milwaukee's plan began with reform in traffic lights, traffic islands, and street layouts. Next, a campaign of public education was begun. And finally, the police did their share, achieving a record of 80 per cent convictions in traffic violation cases. So now the country is turning to Milwaukee for help in its traffic problem. Much will be written about the plan. The public can do no better than read every word, and co-operate.

AFTER DEPENDENCE, WHAT?

One of the tragedies of this particular depression era has been the growing psychology of dependence. Unwittingly, many oldsters have developed this sort of philosophy, which their children and children's children will have to fight down. Casually, we have adopted the outlook: "If everybody else is getting something for nothing, we might as well get into the buggy and ride, too." This has gone so far that the fighting, independent spirit once an American heritage sometimes seems to have been sidetracked altogether. That is bad enough for the adult population. But the precept is even worse. When millions of our people accept this idea of dependence, what have we done to self-reliant character? The answer will come booming back at us soon enough. If there is one thing we ought to encourage today, it is the old-fashioned idea of self-reliance. Many people today have slipped too easily into the rut of dependence upon others.

BUSINESS AND CAMPAIGNS

Not many weeks will elapse before the public will hear that business is talking to the storm cellar because of the political campaign. The yarn is hard to kill. The reports show that in six of the last ten presidential campaign years business recovery was noticeable. In only four was there relatively poor trade and in those "bad years," as the New York Times points out, "the business reaction resulted more often from causes inherent in the business situation itself than from apprehensions roused by the electoral campaign."

WOMEN ALSO FACE LIFE

Out of the struggle for women's equality in the last 50 years has come the conception that women need higher education as much as do men. Contrast that with the old-fashioned belief that a girl had no use for higher learning, since she didn't have to earn a living. But now, points out Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard College, women not only have achieved educational opportunity, but they generally have used it to the everlasting benefit of the American home. Marriage and homemaking have become all the more significant in the light of better education for women, and women in turn have developed interests to raise the standards of living. It is encouraging to note this because it presages a better type of citizenship for tomorrow. There is no reason why education for women should differ from education for men.

MERCHANTS, PEDDLERS, AND LAW

The merchants of Haskell are, we feel sure, alive to the peril that comes into the community through the peddler and agent. That this class of gentry is on the increase can be attested by every housewife, and that they take from thousands of dollars every year is apparent to all merchants and bankers.

What can be done? Well, we offer this suggestion, for mental assimilation. The average peddler comes into a community wrapped in a protective mantle that is known as "interstate commerce." Under decisions of the highest courts he does not have to pay a license. As a matter of fact he cannot be taxed successfully by round-about methods, which have been tried and upset time and again. The local merchants, however, are supposed to have a representative in Congress. They should get behind the congressman and see that some way is provided to permit the fair taxation of these out-of-town peddlers and solicitors.

—AND SUDDEN DEATH

Ninety-nine thousand Americans died in accidents last year—once every six minutes. National Safety Council records have revealed. The only consolation factor in the council's report was its note that there were 3,000 fewer deaths than in 1934. Surely we can ask for no more graphic illustration of our national negligence than these figures.

Drunken driving and careless hunting, to mention only two types of accidents, ought to be severely prosecuted as a means of cutting the tragic toll. This is a public responsibility, and Haskell County people who value their lives will do well to think it over.

CURRENT COMMENT

THE SHELTERBELT PROJECT

(Wichita Daily Times)

The emphatic manner in which the house appropriations committee has moved to cut off funds for the shelterbelt project suggests that there is something more back of the hostility to the undertaking than the belief that it is a waste of money. It is true that the project is an experimental one, and that the experiment may fail, but the objective at which it aims is so conspicuously worthy that it is difficult to understand the committee's attitude. The amount of money involved is slight in comparison with the damage that erosion and dust-storms are doing. The administration is proceeding on the theory that man is not utterly helpless in the face of this damage and that the effort should be made to combat it. A start has been made on the project and it should by all means be carried out. It is to be hoped that the house membership will take a broader view than the committee has taken.

HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

MODERN NEIGHBORS
International Sunday School Lesson for March 8, 1936

Golden Text: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself." Luke 10:27.

(Lesson Text: Luke 10:25-31.)

The tenth chapter of Luke is devoted to three incidents in the life of Jesus.

The first twenty-four verses tell of his selecting seventy and sending them out on a missionary tour ending with an account of their return. Luke is the only writer who records this lesson. It is interesting to note, in connection with the main subject of our lesson, that Jesus sent these workers out in pairs, so that one could help the other.

The last six verses of the chapter tell of the visit of Jesus to the home of Martha and Mary in Bethany, how these two women differed in their ways of honoring and welcoming their visitor. Martha was "anxious" and "troubled" about "many things," whereas Jesus sought to indicate the transient importance of such worries.

In between these two incidents Luke reports an interview between Jesus and a "certain lawyer," or a scribe, one who was supposed to be a particular student and an interpreter of the law of Moses. In the course of this discussion Jesus related the Parable of the Good Samaritan, only recorded in the Gospel of Luke.

The lawyer asked a question of Jesus which should be of interest to almost everyone. Realizing the finiteness and mortality of the individual existence in this human world he wanted to know how eternal life might be gained. In reply Jesus did not enumerate rules of physical health, thus conceding the reality of the physical death, but by his answering the question showed that immortal existence was spiritual and not physical. Jesus countered the question of the scribe by asking him what was contained in the Mosaic law, with which he knew his questioner was familiar.

The scribe set forth the requisites by quoting two parts of Deuteronomy, 6:5 and 10:12. It is interesting to note here that on another occasion, when another scribe asked Jesus what commandment ranked first of all the Great Teacher used practically the same words. See Mark 12:28-34. On that occasion when the scribe agreed with Jesus the latter advised him that he was "not far from the kingdom of God."

When the "certain lawyer" in the parable of the "certain Samaritan"—the adjective good was not applied to the Samaritan by Jesus himself—told Jesus what he understood from the law, as quoted above in our Golden Text, Jesus advised him that he had answered rightly, "This do, and thou shalt live." The lawyer was then in the position of having asked a question the answer of which he should have known and probably did know, therefore, instead of confessing the hypocrisy of his inquiry he attempted to vindicate his inquiry by asking Jesus, "Who is my neighbor?"

The Jews considered themselves the chosen children of God and inasmuch as their law defined a "neighbor" as a fellow-Israelite they did not consider Gentiles included in that term, even less a Samaritan. Samaritans were descendants of the Jews left in their homeland upon the overthrow of the Northern Kingdom, who in the course of generations had freely intermarried with other races. The Samaritans were also unorthodox in their religious views, believing that Gerizim was the proper place to worship Jehovah, illustrated in the question asked of Jesus by the woman at the well (John 4:20). So bitter was the feeling against them that Jews avoided even traveling through their country.

The parable of the Good Samaritan is well enough known that it need not be repeated here. Jesus sought to make his questioning scribe realize that it was not so much who was a neighbor to him as it was whom he was a neighbor to in life. The priest and Levite, highly connected with the religious faith of the day, were unconcerned by contact with human suffering and need. The Samaritan, an object of hatred even to the stricken Jew both from a patriotic and religious viewpoint, was the one who had sympathy for his distressed and "showed mercy on him." The scribe readily recognized that the Samaritan had proven a neighbor to the victim of the robbers and Jesus dismissed him with the admonition "Go, and do thou likewise."

and they have a nice bunch of hens on the yard.

Ben T. Bridges—The poultry business has a fascination for Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Bridges and they are making a success with poultry. They have 225 laying hens and pullets and the production of the flock will average above 65 per cent. They have a number of different breeds which they are testing out. They will not raise any chicks this year as their flocks are young and they will not need them this year. Mr. Bridges has terraced his farm, dug two of the best earth tanks in the county and has enough water stored to run his farm three years without rain. There are many things of interest about this good home and farm, which is very attractive. Ben uses a tractor in farming.

Ben F. Bruton—A good record was made by Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Bruton of east of Weintert last year when they sold around $200.00 worth of turkeys from four hens. This is a wonderful record. They have 400 baby chicks 4 weeks old and they are growing nicely. Ben was arranging to carry forty dozen eggs to a hatchery when we were there. They have a fine flock of red hens and they are on good production. They have some good pigs and good cows. Ben is making a good living with side lines on the farm.

luck in getting them through the cold weather. He has a large flock of Black Minorah hens now on production. He has some good cows and sells some cream. Raises hogs for his meat. He uses tractor and double row farming outfit. He has lots of feed in the barn and stock lot.

C. C. Campbell—The hum of the tractor is heard on the farm operated by C. C. Campbell. He says the tractor is a fast method of farming and you can get the job done in a rush. The family raises chickens and turkeys and they have a number of cows. Mr. Campbell says the farmer should make his living on the farm and he is doing his very best along that line.

Luther Caddell—It will not be but a few more days until Luther Caddell will have all his ground ready to plant to row crops. He was running his tractor with a double row outfit putting up his land. Luther knows how to make his farm make a support for the family.

Floyd Maxwell—The cows help to furnish the living at the home of Floyd Maxwell on the Hughes farm east of Weintert. Also they help to raise some good hogs for meat and lard. He sells cream and has a flock of hens which furnish eggs for the table and market. Floyd uses teams for farming.

Haskell County History

As Revealed by the Files of the Free Press 20, 30 and 40 years ago.

20 YEARS AGO TO-DAY
Goli Dobbis of Bomarton, who had been visiting relatives here, jumped off the northbound passenger train near the water tank, breaking his left leg so badly that it had to be amputated. Dr. Kimbrough, Cummins and Taylor performed the operation, and the man was expected to recover. J. T. Finley has purchased a lot east of the Christian Church and will build on it in the near future where he will make his home. We welcome him to Haskell. Haskell stores were to adopt an "earlier closing hour" setting the time at 6:30 p. m. Dick's Theatre was under the management of Cole Menefee, Dick Nolen and wife moving from Haskell to Wichita Falls.

J. F. Kennedy, who had been a resident of the county for seven years, purchased Marvin's Garage from E. E. Marvin. "Double E" was to remain in the employ of Mr. Kennedy, and retained his agency for the Texas Company. R. W. Herren, Jr., sold a small herd of Hereford yearlings to G. C. Flint of San Angelo for $60 per head. The new bakery installed at the Merchant's Cafe by Mr. Brooks is ready for operation. O. N. Harcrow will be employed as manager of this venture. Lynn Pace says that Fords are sure selling—his only trouble is in getting the cars. He reports that more cars have been sold here than at Anson and Stamford both. The Stamford-Haskell Auto Line was operated daily except Sunday by J. S. Lawrence. Fare was $1.50 each way.

30 YEARS AGO TO-DAY
An advertisement for the store of Hunt & Grissom occupied the entire front page of the Free Press on March 3, 1906. Mr. G. E. Courtney tells us he has employed an expert broom maker and that the results of his efforts to establish a broom factory have been quite satisfactory. He anticipates that considerable broom corn will be planted this spring and it is his intention to locate his factory at some convenient point in town and enlarge its capacity next fall. Col. Morgan Jones, president of the Wichita Valley railway stated that completion of the piers for the bridge over the Brazos would enable building of the bridge earlier than expected. All of the heavy grading between Seymour and Munday had been finished. And that means earlier completion of the road to Haskell. Mr. Steve Neatherly and family moved back to Haskell from Stamford. O. E. Patterson advertised that he had the farm or city property anyone might be looking for. Jas. A. Greer, formerly of the officials showed the following: Ed J. Hammer, district judge; W. W. Beal, district attorney; County P. D. Sanders county judge; J. E. Wilfong county attorney; G. R. Couch county and district clerk; W. B. Anthony, Sheriff and Tax Collector; Jasper Milholland county treasurer; H. S. Post Tax Assessor; H. M. Rike county Surveyor; J. W. Evans was Commissioner Precinct No. 1; B. H. Owsley, No. 2; J. L. Warren, No. 3; J. M. Perry No. 4. Commissioner Evans also was Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1.

Mother of Teacher Dies In Abilene
Debating Team Loses to Wichita Falls Last Friday by Narrow Margin
The people of the Sunset Community are very sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. North who is the mother of one of the high school teachers, Mr. Herschel North. She died in the hospital at Abilene from a relapse of influenza. We regret very much to lose Mr. North from the Sunset faculty, as he has resided since the death of his mother, Mrs. Buel Bowden of Munday, is substituting in his place until another teacher is hired. We were also sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Tom Lemely who has been ill for some time. There has been several cases of flu in the community; some are back in school and we hope the others will soon be well again. The volley-ball girls have begun practicing and we are hoping that they have as strong a team this year as they had last. The boys have also begun working out for track.

The F. F. O. Club was given a leap-year party at the home of Misses Dorothy and Maurine Gammel last Friday night. The girls made the date and went after the boys; since some of the girls didn't drive, they made the date and the boys came after them.

The debating team went to Wichita Falls last Friday and debated. They lost two point and won one, but still we do not feel discouraged since on the main debate had the flu and was not able to go; however, we are proud of our substitute for he is a good one.

News Of Interest In Rose Section
Farmers are real busy these days in the field. We are very sorry to report that Mr. Kim Kingston lost his house and all its contents in the fire last Saturday. 40 YEARS AGO TODAY
Possibility of war with Spain seemed to be uppermost in the minds of everyone on March 7, 1896. Over two columns on the front page of the Free Press were devoted to this subject. There has been a fresh outbreak of the measles in town this week. Capt. B. H. Dodson returned home on Thursday after a business trip to Fort Worth and Dallas. Messrs. The land is owned by Mr. Davis and is about five miles from town, and he will have the discovery looked into thoroughly. C. B. Hester discovered the coal while out hunting the other day and brought back a lump picked up on the surface. Secretary of district and county officials showed the following: Ed J. This Week's Warwhoop "Chief"

Recognition of one of Haskell's most alert and progressive young business men is afforded in our selection of Warwhoop Chief this week—Mr. Clyde Raley, manager of Perry Bros. Store.

Coming to Haskell from Gilmer, Texas, to assume management of the local store shortly after its opening a number of years ago, Mr. Raley has shown through his ready cooperation in all civic movements, the spirit which builds towns into cities—and has given wholeheartedly his support in time and money to the promotion of movements for the betterment of Haskell.

Finding time for this, he has never neglected his business interests, proof of which is shown in the present day popularity of Perry Bros. Store, which is daily crowded with customers. And among the throngs who readily visit this popular store will be found large numbers of students, to whom "Perry's" has become the logical point of supply for all school needs.

In commendation of Mr. Raley's service to our "home town" we are proud to hail him as Warwhoop Chief this week.

Boys Win Decision Over Stamford

The Haskell High School Debate team went to Stamford Wednesday and debated the Stamford team on the question, Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Control the Production of Cotton. The affirmative side was taken by Haskell and the negative by Stamford. The judges rendered the decision in favor of Haskell's team.

The boy's and girl's team also went to Abilene Wednesday night where a debate was held between A. C. C. and the University of Hawaii. The question was, Resolved, That Congress Should Be Allowed to Override the Decision of the Supreme Court by a two-thirds majority vote. A. C. C. took the affirmative side of the question and Hawaii, the negative. The decision was four to one in favor of A. C. C.

Even though this team did not debate the high school question, our debaters gained much from hearing this debate.

High School Girls Play in Tournament

Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock the girl's outside teams of Midway and Rose played basketball on the Midway Court.

The game was started with mixed fears, for each player knew just how they stood and each respected the others ability.

Midway received the ball and made two passes which resulted in the first goal. Rose then made two passes which resulted in a tie.

By the end of the first half the scores were 11 to 6 in Midway's favor.

Both teams came back in the next half intending to win the game. The final score was Midway 24, Rose 14.

The Midway players were Rose Laird, Annie Maye Lees, Norma Laird, Lois Laird, Helen Bland, Phae Riley, and Corene Laird. The last three girls named were members of the Haskell team this year.

The Rose line-up was Florene Nanny, Joy Cobb, Henrietta Mapes, Grace Rose, Ruby Stodghill, Earline Curschill, and Maggie Lee Pland. The last four girls made the Haskell team this year.

The game was carried out with good sportsmanship by each team. At the end, all the girls grinned and asked for another game.

Haskell is proud of her outsiders.

Knox City Orchestra Entertains at Play

It was a great pleasure to have the girl's orchestra of Knox City to entertain us between acts of the Senior play. The orchestra was composed of ten high school girls, under the direction of Mary Leon Hogue. They are commonly known as "Mary and Her Lambs."

Their costumes were black velvet slacks and white satin blouses. The entertainment began with a number from the orchestra. Then eight girls tap danced and sang "Double Trouble," led by Claudia Sue Mosely. Before the second act three girls of the orchestra sang "The Simple Things in Life." This was followed by a tap dance by Yvonne Jamison. Preceding the third act Yvonne Jamison and Letha Fayne White played a number on their accordions followed by an acrobatic dance by Claudia Sue Mosely.

We enjoyed the variety of their entertainment, and we hope they will come again soon.

Gypsy Ramblers Hold Meeting

The Gypsy Ramblers met in a business meeting Wednesday afternoon and several subjects were discussed pertaining to the club's work and play for the near future.

The members voted to sponsor jointly with the high school Parent-Teachers Association the Hardin-Simmons Choral Club in a program some time soon. It was also decided to sell lunches at the invitation track meet which is to be held March thirteenth. Other business matters were discussed and then a hike and picnic for Monday afternoon was planned.

The club has plans for big things this spring, and with the cooperation of every member they can be put over in grand style.

Notes From Mrs. Kaigler's Studio

Most of the students from this department are hard at work on their declamation pieces. They are mostly about Texas. In Mrs. Kaigler's coaching she has emphasized our besting ourselves; telling us every day that if we do our best we have a better chance to beat someone else.

In the Senior Girl's division are: Helen Ballard, who will read "Declaration of Texas Independence" by Pat M. Neff; Ruth Jossalee, "Texas Homestead" by Pat M. Neff; Beverly Gilbert, "Titanic Texas" by Pat M. Neff; and Faye Rely, "War," author unknown.

In the Senior Boys division are: Claude Warren, who will read "Father Remembered," by Livingston Lorned and John Guest, "War," an editorial from Leale's Weekly.

The Junior Boys are: Labry Ballard, "Will Rogers Last Ride," author unknown; Paul Roberts, "Texas, Wonderful Texas," by Julian Hyen; and Joe Maples "Shall We Divide Texas" by Pat M. Neff.

The Junior Girls are: Eva Jo Ratliff, "Legend of Texas" by Henry Van Dyke; Edna Fae Glass, "Noney Women of Texas," author unknown and Madge Leon, "Scum of the Earth," by Robert Scheuffer.

The preliminary elimination for the high school group will be held ten days before the County Meet which is on the 28th day of March. We know that we have a limited time and all are hard at work for this event.

Preparations For Coming Events

Although the hussel and bussel of cramming for six week exams is over, the students are still very busy and many busier than ever. The county meet is only a few weeks off, and as the largest school we should be the best; and to be the best we must work and work hard. The student body has the spirit of winning and are earnestly at work.

Besides the general routine of the day, the study hall is alive with students giving out spelling, memorizing extemporary speeches declaration pieces, or at work in the library hunting material for the debates.

Our debate team has already won honors by winning over Stamford in a debate last Wednesday. We believe that this was due to the interest of Miss Riley and the earnest work of the debaters. The eliminations were held last week and George William Fouts and Tom Clifton will be stiff competition for any debaters in the county, while Margaret Breedlove and Mattie Pistol will represent Haskell High as the girl's team for debate.

The spellers have been working under Miss Davis for five days and have already completed their list. The eliminations were held last week and the two highest grades were made by Ruth Woodson and Addie Lee Hayes.

Mrs. Wimbish is sponsoring extemporary speech and Mrs. Kaigler is preparing the declaimers. The eliminations of either have not been made.

After passing from the literary events we turn to the track teams, tennis and volleyball, which are just as important.

The girls volleyball team only began its work Tuesday but will soon be organized and ready to go. There is a large number coming out and it seems as though the eliminations will be rather hard for their sponsor, Mrs. Wimbish. We only hope that these girls are as successful in volleyball as they were in basketball.

Coach Richey has all sizes of boys coming out for track and under his directions they are rapidly being lined up and in good training. Mr. Wimbish has called an Invitation Track Meet in March and the boys are really working to represent Haskell High.

Our tennis team is well under way as eliminations were held several weeks ago. Martha Head and C. T. Fields will play singles, while Anabel Stanton, Gayle Roberts, R. C. Couch, and Junior Jenkins will play doubles. Under the instructions of Miss Vada Thompson they are receiving very good training.

Behind The Scenes In "Guess Again"

Artie knew exactly how to say "eccentricities," but under the stress of the moment it tied his tongue.

R. C. must have been "living in the part," for he nearly forgot to put on the gray trousers. Did you find out how he got into them in the nick of time?

Of course Anabel wasn't supposed to laugh when she appeared in her bathing suit, but she did.

Now Artie was supposed to laugh and sure enough, he did.

If you were concerned about Ruth's faint, let us assure you she soon came "to." That salt mackerel smelled just like you'd expect.

That's one thing that just can't be done, someone murmured behind the stage, just after Claudia Sue Mosely had done the impossible in the acrobatic dance.

And did you notice how breathing the audience was all during Claudia Sue's performance. They were "seeing things," really.

Mr. Pearsey

F. I. PEARSEY

Mr. Pearsey is a former graduate of Haskell High school and has been closely associated with it ever since, having been employed as a care taker of the school building and school ground for the past 25 years. (Since 1909.) Before obtaining his present position, he worked with several business firms, including dry goods, grocery and drug companies, and also post-office and telephone office work.

He is one of our oldest, biggest and best Indians, being an ever loyal supporter of the school and one who is dependable at all times. He has a "hello" for everybody and is a friend to all. And don't think he doesn't have his share of the fun! If he's needed he can be easily and quickly located because we all know his "whistle". In fact, he's just an "Indian Chief" that we couldn't very well do without.

Members of the cast of "Guess Again," and the director, Miss Vick, wish to thank those who contributed to the success or the attractiveness of the evening's entertainment. Especial appreciation is due the members of the orchestra from Knox City, for their very pleasing entertainment. Thanks are expressed also to Mrs. Conner, who placed on the stage a beautiful vase of flowers; to Mrs. Wimbish, who gave invaluable aid with dress rehearsal, stage arrangement, and character "make-up"; to the people of the Baptist Church, who postponed an important meeting in order not to conflict; and to all those who brought advertising space on the printed program.

Campus Flashlight

Hi-de-Ho, And away we go Round through the town To gather all the low-down.

It seems that Melba C. is giving Pip the once over or visa-versa. So far it is still unknown who is which but this is what it looks like. Melba vs. Thomas Lee, Artie P. vs. Frances F.

Joe Isbell, the little big shot, was with the dearest and bestest girl of his charming girl career—Kinzie T.

It is beginning to seem that you can't tell what is going to happen next. One night its Thomas with Frankie and the next night its Frankie with Joe. Personally, I think it's a big merry-go-round.

If all the people in this world were like Claude W. there would not be any trouble. We'd just go straight through the burning

(We wouldn't even be questioned about what we did when we were babies.)

Bill Reeves is what you could call an old-fashioned lover. He holds what he's got. Jimmy C. is what you could call a modest lover. He holds what he's got and grabs for more.

"Worry, Worry, Worry, why do we have to worry?" is what Gene Rogers said Saturday night when he couldn't find Louise P.

I believe Mont F. has found him a girl friend. He came to school last Monday with his Sunday suit on. (Ain't love the loveliest thing?)

Jack Simmons was a visitor in Stamford Sunday.

Wynona Post is back in school after an absence of two weeks due to an appendicitis operation.

Please see the collector, R. J. Paxton, in the office of F. M. Robertson, over Reynolds & Son's grocery store, and make your remittance to him.

Very earnestly yours,
