FARM PROGRAM IS OUTLINED IN CONGRESS REPORT

"Compulsory Crop Control To Be Employed As Last Resort"

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace sketched Sunday a long-range farm stabilization program in which compulsory crop control—a major issue among farmers and members of Congress—would be employed only as a last resort.

The program was outlined in a report on the agricultural industry laid before President Roosevelt on the eve of a special session of Congress pledged to enact new farm legislation.

Citing an advance in the national farm income to an estimated $9,000,000,000 (billions) this year from $4,328,000,000 (billions) in 1932, the agriculture secretary declared nevertheless that it should be higher and free from disastrous ups and downs.

"The time has arrived," he said "when the farmer can begin to build for the longer future on a program that will keep the agricultural industry on an even keel."

The principal feature of Wallace's program was an ever-normal granary system in which surpluses of good years would be stored for release in years of crop failures.

"Ever-normal granary legislation," he declared, "besides helping to smooth out the swings of agricultural production and prices and to regulate the marketing processes, would tend also to promote a balanced increase of industrial products because it would give manufacturers some assurance of a steady agricultural market."

Provisions of Program

Other provisions of the Wallace program:

1. More flexible adjustment of production year by year, in line with domestic and world market conditions.
2. Continuation of payments for soil conservation.
3. Price-stabilizing commodity loans.
4. Price-adjusting payments, or subsidies, financed by a moderate processing tax, for cotton.
5. Retirement of submarginal land and crop insurance for the wheat areas.
6. Government purchase of surpluses, which would then be distributed to the needy.
7. Marketing programs providing facilities for adjusting the volume of shipments and eliminating low quality products from commercial movement.

"In a permanent agricultural adjustment policy," Wallace said, "restrictive measures may not be necessary except as a corrective measure when supplies become excessively large. Sudden emergencies may require special action."

COMMUNITY FARM MEETINGS AT RULE, HOWARD, WEINERT

1937 Ginnings Far Ahead of 1936 Season

Census report shows that 28,568 bales of cotton were ginned in Haskell County from the 1937 crop prior to November 1 as compared with 14,171 bales for the crop of 1936. However during the past two weeks, ginnings have exceeded all figures of the season, with perfect weather slowed only once by a light rain. Total ginnings for the local seven gins reach almost the ten thousand mark.

The Department of Commerce announces the preliminary report on cotton ginned prior to November 1, by counties.

Motorists Warned To Drive Carefully On Crowded Streets

Motorists are asked to sound auto horn when backing from curb on the main streets. Unusually heavy traffic on Saturday provides a menace and several bent fenders and minor collisions resulted because drivers did not give warning last Saturday, stated Sebo Britton, city marshal.

When making a left hand turn give the hand signal so pedestrians will know which way you are turning.

Drivers exceeding the speed limit on the street next to the North Ward school playground are warned that the limit there is twelve miles per hour and if caught exceeding this will be fined.

The difference between expenditures and receipts is made up by the state aid fund, eight months school guaranteed unaffiliated schools and nine months for affiliated schools. Announcement of the total amount of state salary aid for Haskell County schools will be made when all are checked.

To Discuss Economic Facts Relative To Current Farm Problems

Four general farm meetings relative to some of the farmer's problems and possible answers will be discussed in Haskell county this week. The same problems that Congressmen are facing in framing a farm bill in this present session will be discussed at these meetings with the farmers doing most of the talking. Congressmen and agriculture leaders are urged these group discussions so producers will be more acquainted with the agriculture problem from a National standpoint.

J. W. Young vocational agriculture teacher of Rule will hold the first meeting Tuesday night at Rule. H. T. Sullivan is arranging a meeting in the agriculture building in Weinert Wednesday night and County Agent W. W. Chesser and his assistant W. L. Scott will hold the third meeting in the Howard school building Thursday night.

The Haskell County Agriculture Association will sponsor a county-wide meeting in Haskell November 27. Mr. Chesser and Mr. Scott will attend all the meetings. With the exception of the Haskell meeting all will start at 7:00 p. m.

Examiners Will Give Tests For Drivers License

Examinations for drivers' licenses will be held at the court house by two members of the Department of Public Safety Tuesday and Wednesday, November 16 and 17.

The uniformed officers will conduct tests for drivers applying for their first license. The applicant must furnish his own vehicle or one he proposes to operate after he secures a license. Tests will be given from 3:30 to 5 p. m. and from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. Wednesday.

After oral quizzes are completed each applicant will be required to drive his car or truck over a designated route under the supervision of one of the trained examiners. During the drive the operator must demonstrate the use of his foot and hand brakes, stop for signals and perform other acts necessitated in ordinary traffic situations. Before the actual driving test is made the examiners will quiz the license applicant on safety regulations and signals, highway laws and make tests of their eyesight and hearing.

Not only will driver's license applicants be examined as to the reliability to handle a vehicle with safety, but the vehicle itself will be tested for defects in brakes, horn, lights, rear-view mirror, and windshield wiper. Examiners of the Safety Department estimate that a complete test can be given in 12 minutes.

Truck, bus and other commercial vehicle drivers will be issued licenses divided into three classes, A, B, and C, according to the type of vehicle to be operated. Passenger and school bus drivers are issued a permit bearing a special endorsement of the Department.

CASH VALUE $8,000 TO FARMERS NEAR HASKELL

Sixty Per Cent Are Sold For Thanksgiving Market

Turkey market closed here Saturday night after approximately 60,000 pounds had been bought by local produce buyers since opening last Friday. Final prices for No. 1 dropped one cent the last day, to thirteen cents. Opening market price was fourteen cents and remained at that price during the period until the last day.

That is a cash income of more than $8,000 farmers in Haskell trade area and markets at other nearby points increase this amount several hundred dollars.

It is estimated by produce buyers that almost sixty percent of turkeys were sold on the Thanksgiving market leaving a much smaller number for the Christmas market which will open about December 5.

Dressing plants in Abilene and other places which buy turkeys from the local markets here were packed full before Saturday and could not accept all that could have been bought.

Largest individual checks for turkeys totaled more than $200 to three farmers living near Haskell.

Birds this year are slightly more plentiful and their weight average is heavier, it is reported.

COST WATER PIPE FOR HOSPITAL SITE ESTIMATED $3,600

City Officials Figure Costs To Proposed Location In Meeting

In a called meeting of the City Council Friday afternoon officials estimated that sewer and water connections to the proposed site of the county hospital on the east side of Haskell would cost $3,600.

Officials declared that funds were not available for this amount and if located there the project would necessitate a bond issue covering the necessary cost or some other means of revenue.

Petitions calling for Commissioners' Court to reconsider their proposal to erect the county hospital in the east part of Haskell were circulated following the announcement of the location, it is reported. But no definite action has followed the petitions, either by the Commissioners' Court or other persons.

It is explained that funds from the $60,000 bond issue used in water, sewer and gas connections from the main lines to the building would lower the expenditure for equipment in the hospital.

EMPLOYMENT CENSUS IS STARTED HERE TUESDAY

Postal officials, with the chamber of commerce, city officials, and other civic organizations helping, will start the five-day unemployment census in Haskell County today. Postmaster J. M. Diggs, Mayor F. G. Alexander, Dave Persons, Ralph Duncan, and Chesley Phelps will help in the canvass of every household and person in this registration.

Five days are allotted each person who receives a card to return it. Within that time, he is supposed to fill in the blanks, sign his full name, and drop the card into any letter box, without postage. Saturday, November 20, at midnight is the final hour allowed for mailing cards.

A written message from President Roosevelt regarding the census survey reads as follows:

"TO EVERY WORKER:

"If you are unemployed or partially employed and are able to work, please fill out this report card right away and mail it before midnight, Saturday, November 20, 1937. No postage is needed.

"The Congress directed me to take this census. It is important to the unemployed and to everyone in this land that the census be complete, honest and accurate. If you give me the facts, I shall try to use them for the benefit of all who need and want work and do not now have it."

Most Important

Although it is necessary that all questions be answered, questions one and two are most important and should be considered with the greatest care. Question one asks for a person's full name and address.

Question two is divided into three parts. Part one asks: Totally unemployed and want work? Part two asks: Partly employed and want more work? Part three asks: Working at WPA, NYA, CCC, or other emergency work? Of these three parts, a check mark must be placed opposite only one of them.

Although the post office department and all members of the various committees in Haskell are doing their best to make the census as complete and accurate as possible, these agencies are handicapped without the co-operation of the individuals who should sign the cards. If all cards are filled in as rapidly as they are received and with as much accuracy as is possible and returned promptly, the five days allotted for taking the census will be a complete success here.

SCRUBS MAKE HEROES BUT GET NO GLORY

We Americans have the success bug, and we pour out admiration on the man who can lead the field. This is a pretty good trait, as it creates an atmosphere which produces successful leaders; but we might well spend a little time paying tribute to the great army of second stringers who make the success of the leaders possible.

A pointer comes from—of all places—the football field of Yale University.

When this season ends, some time in November, the inglorious members of Yale's "scrub" team are to be formerly banqueted, and then some of them will be given a big silver football about the size of a pumpkin, to honor him, his teammates, and the whole line of scrubs who have gone unhonored and unsung through many football generations.

The scrub leads a tough life. He has to get out on the field four or five days a week all through the season and takes his bumps while the varsity polishes up its play. He never has the slightest hope of actually playing in a regularly scheduled game. His classmates never honor him with their cheers. He gets all the grief and none of the glory. But because of him the first team is able to win games.

All right that's part of the game and the scrubs love the game or they wouldn't be playing it. But the football field isn't the only place you'll find scrubs. The world is full of them. Most of us are scrubs; part of the great army of second stringers who contribute what we can to victories for which we can never get either fame or fortune.

John Jones may become famous as president of a transcontinental railway. But he himself would be the first to admit that he doesn't run the railroad single-handed. Under him there are innumerable section hands, firemen, train dispatches, master mechanics, shop foremen, and so on. If they didn't do their part, John Jones wouldn't be a famous railroad president. Bill Smith may be a steamship captain, acclaimed for the heroism of his rescues in mid-ocean storms. He didn't make those rescues unaided. He had stout guys down in the engine room with sweat rags around their grimy necks, keeping his ship afloat ahead of Davy Jones in its flight with the storm; skilled seamen in the deck force, ready to take a small boat across tossing waves at their captain's command. Bill Smith gets the glory; the scrubs made it possible.

And so it goes; it is true in every walk of life, from banking to politics, from coal mining to war. A few men have the gifts to be great leaders—the star halfbacks, as you might say, of the game of life. The great majority have to stay on the scrub team. They'll never be either rich or famous, and they know it and don't mind much. They do their jobs and do them well and the gifted ones get the cheers.

But the service the lowly scrubs render is something that should not be overlooked.

A REAL PHILANTHROPIST

It sounds nice to hear a man spoken of as a "great philanthropist." Usually, however, we don't realize the human values back of that word until someone reminds us of them.

Felix Warburg, famous New York banker who died the other day, was such a philanthropist. He gave of his time and money to many causes, but probably his most notable contribution was his service as chairman of the distribution committee through which American aid was extended to thousands upon thousands of Jewish people in eastern Europe in the terrible years just after the war.

That was a truly great work which literally saved many thousands of lives. To have even a small part in it would be cause for just pride; to have directed so much of it is a mark of great distinction. Few Americans have served their fellows as valiantly and effectively as did Mr. Warburg.

MAGIC AT THE EXPO

This country broke out a few years ago with a regular rash of expositions. Most of them were mighty fine—and yet, to an old-time devotee of the expositions of long ago, they seemed just a little flat. Maybe they had a little too much chromium, too many sharp angles, too much modernistic efficiency; whatever it was, they didn't seem to cast the absurd and enchanting spell that old-time expositions used to exert.

But things are looking up. We read that the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco in 1939 is going to have a Court of the Seven Seas—like-wise a Court of the Caliphs (to be bathed in moonlight, with a green fountain) a Court of the Rising Sun, and a Court of Reflections.

We have no faintest idea what these courts will be like. But at least their names are right. They have that old, fantastic, fairyland flavor. If the San Francisco people have caught that flavor throughout, they ought to put on a fine exposition.

ATTENDS OPERATION AT RULE

The so tired I don't know but did we have fun! The one of the expressions Friday morning about of Rule.

Mustangs buses loaded with football players, members, and students school house Thursday at and journeyed to Rule to attend the Armistice celebration. The first thing to happen after we arrived at Rule was the football game between Mattson and Aspermont. Boy was, that a game! It was a fight from the beginning to the end. There was some beautiful plays made by both teams, but the Hornets were just too much for the Mustangs. The score was 12-0 in Aspermont's favor. This was the first game that Mattson has not scored in since they have been playing football, so you know that Aspermont must have an excellent team.

After the game we ate our lunch at various places, and at 12:45 the pep squad met at the school house to take part in the parade. The parade was finally formed, and we were started on our long march. After marching for about one hour, we finally disbanded at the depot. After the parade a number of the students went to the show. Some went to the game between Rule and Munday, and others journeyed to Stamford to see the game between Anson and Stamford.

The buses left Rule for home at six o'clock loaded with a very tired bunch.

MUSTANGS HOLD HORNETS 12-0

The game started between the Mattson Mustangs and Aspermont Hornets with Mattson kicking off.

HASKELL MUNDAY STAMFORD

The Hornet's quarterback took the ball and returned it to their mid-field until they lost the ball on downs.

Mattson took the ball and marched down the field from their 40 to Aspermont's 40 by runs from McGuire and Mayfield and a pass from McGuire to Massey.

Aspermont's ball on their own 40 and they started a run around right end. Their interference was too much for Holcomb and Crum and they made three yards before they were finally downed by Mayfield. Another run around the same end and they made their first touchdown. Attempt for extra point failed.

Thus ended the first quarter. The second quarter started off with the ball on Aspermont 20 yard line. They advanced down the field for about two yards when they were forced to punt on the fourth down. Watson returned the ball twenty yards before being brought down. Both teams were held almost at the line of scrimmage until about three minutes before the second quarter was up then Mattson started down the field when McGuire shot a 30 yard pass to Massey. Then McGuire and Mayfield made about 10 yards apiece on end runs which put Mattson on Aspermont's 10 yard stripe with first down and a goal to go, when the whistle ended the first half.

The second half opened with a bang! Aspermont received the ball and returned it to Mattson's 30, and finally lost the ball on downs. Crum got off a bad punt which left them on Mattson's 20 yard line, from where they went for a second touchdown. Attempt for extra point failed.

The last quarter opened and Mattson had the ball on their own 15 yard stripe. They advanced about 13 yards before they were forced to punt. The rest of the game was played "nip and tuck" with first one team and then the other carrying the ball, and the game ended—Aspermont 12, Mattson 0. The closest Aspermont had held this year.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND EAST SIDE SINGING MEET

Sunday, November 7, the East Side Singing Convention of Haskell County met at Mattson. This was the first public gathering to be held in Mattson's new auditorium, and we must admit that it was a creditable one. It was estimated that the crowd who attended numbered around a thousand.

A bountiful feast was spread at the lunch hour. The good singing continued after the noon recess. Among the outstanding singers were: The Lucky Four Quartet of Weinert, Stamps Quartet from the branch at Lubbock, a quartet from Haskell conducted by Troy Turpin, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boyles, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Ash, Mr. Frank Haley and others.

FRESHMEN HAVE PICNIC

The freshman class went to "Couch's Reservoir" for a picnic last Friday night. You would expect "fish" to swim, but these built a big bonfire and played games. It wasn't hard to see that everyone had a nice time.

"WHO SAID QUIT?"

The Star-Amateur Dramatic Club, Mattson's community dramatic club, is presenting a three-act comedy entitled, "Who Said Quit?" at the auditorium Wednesday, November 17. We have the new stage scenery, lights, and plenty of seats. There will be good music and other numbers between acts. Ushers will have charge of the seating. We have everything planned for your comfort and entertainment, and we hope that we have a large attendance at this, our first school performance. Admission will be same as for our football games—25c for adults, 15c

WAR BUDDIE RECALLS MANY MEMORIES

Mattson is honored with having one of those courageous soldiers who fought in the World War, Mr. Elmer C. Watson is superintendent of this school is a war "buddie". We the students are proud of him and it is with pride that we say, "Our superintendent fought in the World War." There are very few other students who can say that.

Mr. Watson told us some of his experiences during the war in assembly program.

CHAT

Juanita, why were you in Haskell so late Saturday afternoon? It couldn't possibly have been on business!

Gwyn, who was that "good-looking" who invited you to the senior picnic? (Don't look like that Clyde—No one said it was a "fellow.")

We suppose LaVera was playing the part of the "invisible lady", while she was sitting in the show one night! (How about it, "Charlie"?)

Ben seems very excited these days! Was it your first date, Ben?

Henrietta, why did you say you dreamed of ghosts and "scary" things Sunday night?

Did the Knox City band have a good-looking baton twirler? Ask some of the pep squad girls!

A SALUTE TO THE RED, WHITE AND BLUE

Attention! Hats off! The flag is passing by!

What are the thoughts that come to a person's mind when he sees the dear old red, white and blue flag waving on high? So much sentiment and so much appreciation crowds in his mind that he is filled with emotion.

The thirteen red and white stripes remind us of the many hardships and sufferings the thirteen original colonies bore. Why did the English people come to America? Most of the people who came had already lived most of their lives. They came so that we, as their descendants, might have a free country in which to live.

The forty-eight stars brings to our mind the picture of forty-eight united states. "United we stand, divided we fall". This phrase makes one think of Abraham Lincoln, and in turn Lincoln makes one think of the Civil War, but was true during the World War and is true at the present time.

ARMISTICE DAY

Why do we celebrate the eleventh of November? It is a day to pay tribute to the buddies who died with a gun in their hands, to the ones who were blown to bits by deadly bombs, to the very courageous ones who did not come home. We do not only pay tribute to those daring soldiers who have gone on, but to the ones who lived to come back. Those soldiers who lived to come back. Those soldiers who came back with wounds, those who were gassed, or those with part of their body gone. Oh, what an honor to be a soldier! There are still effects that can be seen of the World War and there will be for many years to come.

Armistice Day is a day to be remembered forever in the lives of the soldiers. It meant the end of having to reach for their guns every time they heard a sound; it meant the end of having to lie on the ground every time an enemy plane was heard; and last, but not least, it meant they could go home. It is reasonable to believe that no one could imagine the hardships and strain under which those honored soldiers lived.

Webster says the word, "Armistice" really means a truce. The world does not want merely a truce, it wants peace, real peace.

tion. In the main, however, it should be possible to get balanced output through long-time adjustments based on good land use.

"It follows, that coercive restraint of production should only be a last resort."

Destruction of Income
Defending governmental attempts to help farmers regulate production, Wallace said some people contend farmers should grow more and more regardless of the limitations of consumer buying power, until the last hungry Chinese has been fed and the last naked Hindu clothed.

"But that course," he said, "instead of feeding the hungry Chinese and clothing the naked Hindu, would bring millions of Americans to hunger and nakedness because it would destroy agriculture's income. We saw that demonstrated in 1932, when the agricultural bins were bursting. That was a year of bankrupt farmers and lengthening bread lines."

Wallace's program for corn and wheat would include the granary, acreage adjustment through soil conservation payments, commodity loans, and compulsory marketing quotas in emergencies.

For cotton he said the ever-normal granary was not generally applicable. He suggested instead loans at less than the market value providing the lending agency is prepared to move the commodity into market. He said it would be preferable in some circumstances to do this at a loss rather than to the up supplies and accumulate carrying charges.

Aiding Those on Relief
"It may be necessary," he said, "to minimize the effect of low world prices by the continued use of price-adjusting payments on domestic allotment of cotton."

The farm chief proposed marketing quotas enforceable by penalty taxes for tobacco and rice. In dealing with fruits, vegetables and potatoes his main approach would be through marketing programs that regulate flow of products into market. In periods of excessive supplies he would purchase surplus dairy and poultry products for distribution to those on relief.
