C. of C. Directors Consider Tentative Plans at Meeting Friday

Plans for a proposed new road to provide a more direct route to the Cobb and Rockdale communities in the southeast part of the county were studied by directors of the Chamber of Commerce in a called meeting Friday morning.

The proposition has been advocated for several years by business men of Haskell and residents of the section to be served by the proposed road, and several surveys of tentative routes have been made. Building of a more direct road would provide rural route mail service to the section from the Haskell postoffice, proponents state, and several landowners have agreed to give necessary right-of-way for the proposed road.

A committee of seven members was named at Friday's meeting to work out further plans for the proposed road, to determine probable cost of right-of-way and bridge structures, etc., and this group will meet with the Commissioners Court at an early date to study feasibility of the proposed road-building. Members of the committee are J. M. Diggs, John A. Couch, Sam A. Roberts, Frank Turner, Sam Cobb, C. C. Middleton and P. G. Kendrick, Commissioner of Precinct 3.

CHEESE PLANT REPORTS GAIN IN CUSTOMERS

Receipts Show Gradual Increase Since Operation Started

Operating schedule of the Brazos Valley Cheese Plant is gradually increasing to capacity volume, according to V. L. Alford, manager.

Despite adverse weather conditions prevailing recently, receipts of milk at the plant reveal a substantial increase since operations were started, and the number of customers is also gaining, the manager said.

"A number of farmers do not realize that the local plant is strictly a cooperative marketing association," Mr. Alford explained. "No company has any interest or control of the plant, which belongs to producers," he continued. "As more farmers and producers realize the benefits to be derived through patronage of the Haskell plant, we find that they become enthusiastic supporters of the venture," he concluded. Mr. Alford estimated that 85 per cent of the plant patrons who stay with the plant for thirty days are satisfied customers, because in that length of time they have opportunity to realize full benefit of the local market.

Ballew School Ends 8-Months Term On Friday

First rural school to complete the 1937-38 term in Haskell county is Ballew, several miles north of Haskell. Eight-month term of the school will end Friday of this week. Mrs. Ralph Duncan is principal of the school, and Mrs. Scott W. Greene, Jr., is assistant teacher. Grades up to the seventh are taught in the Ballew school. Enrollment during the current year was on an average with past years, school officials said.

In connection with the closing week of the term, the annual school play was staged last Friday. As indicated by its title, "Fun on the Podunk Limited", the skit provided considerable amusement to school patrons and others who attended.

Diplomas were presented seventh grade pupils as a part of the closing exercises.

WTCC Sponsor Projects Would Furnish Employment To 104 Laborers

Two road improvement projects in Precincts 2 and 4 of Haskell county are embodied in applications filed for WPA approval in the Fort Worth district office last week.

The two projects call for widening and other general improvements on approximately 60 miles of important lateral roads in each of the two precincts. Surveys of the roads included in the projects recently were made as a basis for estimating cost of the improvements. The applications seek a total allotment of $12,832 in WPA funds for the improvements.

If approved, each of the projects would furnish employment for 52 men for two months, it is estimated.

The precincts in which the projects are contemplated would defray expense of materials used in the improvements, and also furnish road building equipment now owned in the county. Cost to the precincts would be almost negligible in comparison with the improvements possible with WPA defraying labor costs.

Improvement of the roads covered in the applications is badly needed, and particular consideration will be given to lateral roads serving churches and schools in the two precincts.

Applications for the projects were prepared by Commissioners Tom Mapes of Precinct 2 and R. H. (Bill) Rife of Precinct 4.

Two Workmen On Hospital Building Injured Friday

L. B. Dendy and J. T. Adkins, workmen on the county hospital building now under construction, were injured late Friday afternoon when they fell about ten feet from a scaffold on which they were working.

Adkins received several fractured ribs, and was injured in the back. Dendy was hurt in the back and hips.

Both men were given first aid treatment at the office of Dr. T. W. Williams, and later were removed to the Stamford sanitarium in Holden's ambulance.

Neither of the men is believed seriously injured, but will be confined to their beds for some time, it was feared.

HHS Orchestra Rehearsal Will Be Held Tonight

The High School Orchestra will hold a rehearsal in the school auditorium Tuesday night, beginning at 8 o'clock, in preparation for their trip to San Angelo the latter part of this month to compete in a school band contest. The orchestra has a membership of thirty talented students.

The public will be welcome to attend the rehearsal tonight, band leaders stated, and presence of parents and friends will encourage members of the orchestra.

Three Abilene Residents Are Fined Heavily

Two men and a woman, who said they were residents of Abilene, were arrested late Sunday afternoon by Sheriff Giles Kemp and deputy Riley Lewellen near the south county line. Five complaints were filed against the trio, alleging drunkenness, reckless driving, and use of abusive language. Officers said that a bottle of whiskey and two rifles were taken from the car occupied by the party. They explained presence of the guns by telling officers they were hunting coyotes. Two small children, a boy and a girl, were with their parents in the car.

Monday morning the three were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Bruce Cliff, where they entered guilty pleas to the complaints filed against them. Each was fined $1.00 and costs, for a total amount of approximately $80.00.

FLAMES DESTROY SMALL RESIDENCE SATURDAY NIGHT

Fire of undetermined origin, discovered shortly after midnight Saturday, destroyed a four-room frame residence on Ballew street, in the west part of town. Loss on the property, owned by Hollis Atkinson of Stamford, was estimated at $800, partially covered by insurance. The house had been unoccupied for several days.

Fire department members, responding to the alarm, were able to prevent spread of the flames to nearby residences, threatened for a while, but were unable to extinguish the blaze, which had gained headway throughout the structure before an alarm was received.

Complaints were to be filed Monday. City Marshal Britton said, against two motorists who drove across hose lines strung to the fire.

Easter Showers Bring Moisture To Area Sunday

Easter showers late Sunday afternoon brought additional moisture to this section. Total precipitation was registered at .26 of an inch, according to Mrs. Fred Sanders, in charge of the government weather gauge here.

The showers were general over the entire county, and will help to revive growth of vegetation and spring gardens nipped by the recent blizzard.

Big Poultry Income

Nations may rise and fall, but the little hen goes steadily about her job of adding to the wealth of agriculture. The farm value of chickens to America last January 1 is given as $292,650,000 by the department of agriculture, an increase of $17,000,000 over the preceding year.

Scientific feeding has contributed greatly to the success of poultry raising, aided by a rapid swing to soybean oil meal, which is used liberally in mash for growing chicks. Tests by experiment stations show that it provides a highly digestible protein that enhances growth. Maximum egg production is obtained when it is used in mash for laying hens.

Popularity of soybean oil meal in poultry feed follows its increased use with mixed grains as a protein for growing calves and dairy cows. Because it is palatable it helps to keep the intake of feed at a desirable level for growth and maximum milk production.

In hog raising, this protein has proved of immense value, according to agriculture experts. It adds to growth and maintenance of bodily weight, building bone and muscle tissue and balancing the carbohydrates of corn and oats. Warning has been issued, however, against the feeding of whole soybeans, which practice results in a soft pork of poor quality and low market value.

Musical Taste Better

In spite of the preponderance of jazz and other trivial music on the air, Walter Damrosch believes that radio audiences are rapidly forming a taste for symphonic and other high class programs.

He has come to this conclusion from the many thousands of letters he has received from those who have enjoyed his "music appreciation" concerts by a symphony orchestra during the last few years, and the great increase in these expressions of approval which have come to him. He says:

From the first I was confident the radio would bring about a new era in the history of symphonic music in this country, but I had no idea that the results would become apparent so quickly.

An increasing number of America's finest symphony orchestras, grand opera companies and concert bands have been heard on the air, during the last year, all contributing tremendously to the development of a better appreciation of good music on the part of the general public. We should have even more such programs in the future.

Daniel Petroll of Buffalo, who visited his estranged wife once a week and gave her $1 for a kiss, objected when she boosted the price to $5.

Young King Tut

It is more than 15 years since the tomb of the ancient Egyptian king, Tut-an-kh-amen, was discovered near Luxor by a British expedition headed by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter, but the many rich objects found in the tomb continue to excite the wonder and admiration of thousands from all over the world.

Nearly 1,800 different articles from the tomb have been placed in the museum at Cairo, and represent what has been described as the greatest archeological find of the century.

While King Tut's mummy is old, in life the ruler was only a boy, it being estimated that he died at the age of 18, after coming to the throne when he was about 12. He lived about 1400 B. C., or more than 3,300 years ago.

From the magnificence of the young king's burial it is evident that he possessed great wealth, the gold alone used in the principal coffin being worth more than $100,000. There were eight coffins or burial cases, of different materials, one being of stone. Elaborately carved furniture, implements and utensils of various kinds were found in the tomb, all well preserved and forming a most impressive exhibit of the art and handicraft of the 18th dynasty, of which the boy king was the 12th ruler.

Unlike some 300 other royal tombs which have been discovered in the Valley of the Kings, that of King Tut alone appears to be undisturbed throughout the centuries.

TVA Investigation

Directly as a result of the long feud between Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the other two directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David Lilienthal, a Congressional investigation of that government agency will be begun shortly.

The controversy among the TVA directors was brought to a climax when Chairman Morgan in public statements made serious charges against his fellow members of the board a few weeks ago and suggested a Congressional investigation.

When President Roosevelt later called the members of the board before him, Chairman Morgan refused to present evidence in support of his charges, on the ground that the President was not in a position to make a thorough investigation and Morgan again demanded a Congressional committee.

The President then removed Morgan from office, and after several days of wrangling Congress by a joint resolution order the investigation by a joint committee of the Senate and House. The resolution enumerated 20 points to be investigated, but authorized the inclusion of any other matters pertaining to the TVA's administration and policies. All hearings and decisions of the joint committee are to be made public, and the committee is to report its findings not later than January 3, 1939. The committee will include six Democrats and four Republicans, drawn equally from Senate and House.

SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING JOIN TO DEFEAT RURAL LIFE ENEMIES—ROAD MUD AND DUST

Left—Science has proved that mixtures of natural soil materials, held together by moisture, can convert this typical mud "road" into one that is as dustless in August as it is mudless in April.

Right—When it isn't mud, it's choking dust. Another road that will yield quite cheaply to science's formula for making good rural highways.

Once not more than a mud road like the one pictured above it, this Virginia thoroughfare resulted from the proper mixtures of local soil materials and calcium chloride to give a "stabilized" turnpike of the type recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for low-cost, all-season purpose.

Science and engineering effectively have combined forces to fight those twin evils of rural life—road dust and mud. Making use of just such soil materials as may be found in almost any county, plus a moisture attracting chemical, the United States Bureau of Public Roads has developed formulas for building low cost, all-season roads that from now on likely will get a bigger share of federal construction funds if the clamor for better secondary highways is any indication of future trend.

The Bureau has found that tiny drops of moisture form the key for locking soil particles together. In road making, definite proportions of granular materials and very little clay, plus some moisture tend to bring about what is called a "stabilized" condition which results in a road tread that is quite hard and, with proper maintenance, is as dustless in August as it is mudless in April. Traffic of the kind usually found on "farm-to-market" roads actually operates to make a better road instead of working it up. This is because the "stabilized" road materials are compacted even more by the rolling weights above. How to provide and maintain the necessary moisture during dry months was the problem. Then chemistry stepped in with a substance—calcium chloride—that, when spread on the road, absorbs moisture directly from the atmosphere and keeps the road surface damp.

Experimenting independently in an attempt to find a type of road that would cost little, yet provide a good surface for the greatest number of people all year round, the highway departments of several states followed the lead of Michigan and also developed dustless, mudless roads of the stabilized kind. Now thousands of miles of chemically stabilized roads serve rural and resort areas of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. In these areas travel was not enough to justify spending $7,000 to $20,000 a mile for heavy traffic pavements, but quite enough to warrant spending from $650 to $2,500 a mile for full stabilization.

Where funds are extremely limited, spreading calcium chloride to eliminate the dust is the best thing to do. This costs from $150 to $300 a mile. A little more money may make possible a "partial stabilization," accomplished by adding to the road an inch or so of properly proportioned topsoil or pebble-soil, clay and chemical. Sand-clay mixtures and crushed shell also make highly suitable ingredients in this method of road improvement. The "consolidated" surface resulting from this improvement measure not only takes care of the dust nuisance but eliminates spring mud, too. The following year this step can be repeated to give a thicker wearing surface. Highway engineers call this "stages" construction of a stabilized road. It is a pay-as-you-go way of building a fully stabilized road over a period of years, but providing a nuisance-free highway in the meantime. Of course, full stabilization is desirable if funds are at hand.

MUSTANGS RESUME FOOTBALL TRAINING

Last week the Mattson Mustangs donned their football togs and took the old pigskin for a tussle. The ball got the worst end of the deal.

It doesn't seem anytime since those boys were out there on the field preparing for their first football games. Now they know the fundamentals of the game.

This spring those faithful Mustangs have again returned to their old stamping grounds. They have been having some rather stiff work outs. The whole school is looking forward to the games with much enthusiasm.

Mattson is to play a practice game with Weintert as a conclusion to the training.

BACK ALLEYS

There are back alleys in every place on earth. It doesn't matter where one might go there are always back alleys. What are they for? Why is there such a thing as a back alley? The first question would be hard to answer because a back alley is used for many, many different things and purposes. Sometimes it is used for a place to put junk, just a regular old junk yard. Very often it is used for a children's playground, and once in a while it is a clean place used for wholesome purpose.

Back alleys are places that weren't needed when the town was built. They are places just used in which to discard rubbish.

Back alleys are not only found in cities and in towns, but there are back alleys in every human mind. The same questions might be asked in this case as in the above paragraph. A lot of times these places in the mind are used in which to put junk-things that the owner of the mind wishes to forget. He does something he knows is wrong, but makes no move to make amends. Something like this will occur to him. "I'll just forget about that." Well, he does for the present. As time goes on he puts so much junk that in the back alleys of his mind that pretty soon there is no room left. The contents of this place, that makes one think of empty tin cans, bottles and other rubbish, begins to overrun the back alley. Then the person is forced to do something about it, because it wouldn't do for this rubbish to fall out on the main street.

Right then and there is when a cleaning up day comes around. Oh, the old forgotten troubles that are brought forth! How they smell. The rain and snow has caused them to mold and rust. It is so hard to uncover this rubbish and carry it to a certain person so that he may help bury it deep in the ground! But when it is all over, what a contented feeling one possesses. He feels as if a burden had been lifted from his mind. It has the old rubbish is gone! It is no longer there to haunt his memory and weight his shoulders.

It would be grand if we could always use the back alleys of our mind, for a clean, wholesome purpose. But it would take an unusual person to never collect any rubbish in his back alleys. There are so few of us that are unusual. The things for us to do is to see that there is never much junk there and to have a cleaning up day at least once a year. And oh, don't ever, ever let any rubbish mar the main streets of our minds!

EASTER SUNDAY

Sunday April 17th was Easter Sunday. It is a day when every one should be happy. It is as great or greater than any other day that is held in remembrance. People really have a reason to celebrate when they are celebrating Jesus Christ's victory over the grave and death. Easter is a day when everything is coming forth in new glory and hope. Even the plants and trees seem to realize that it is a great day.

Jesus Christ our Lord gave us that new-born freedom, that wonderful secure feeling when he arose from the grave nineteen hundred and thirty-eight years ago. It has been going down through the ages, generation after generation, and will continue to do so until the earth is no more.

A slap on the back while living is worth a bucket of tears after death.

PATRIOTIC PATRONS

Mrs. Wheelley has contributed several books to the library on various subjects. Several other individuals have given a book also. The school certainly does appreciate the interest these people have in the school and wish to thank them for the books. The library is gradually growing larger. The books are little by little increasing in number. The goal, which is to gain many books and good material that will help a student as he absorbs them, is slowly being realized.

JUNIORS CONTACT WITH MANY PLACES

The Junior class has been engaged in a very interesting English project. They have been making a scrap book in which they put pictures and illustrations about the gold rush of 1849.

The members of the class have written to almost every state in the union, in order to secure information and pictures. Most of them have received answers and the information which they wanted.

The scrap books are very interesting and some of them have a varied lot of unusual pictures and comments.

HOME ECONOMIC GIRLS ENJOY HIKE

Both the first and second year home economics girls, with a few invited guests, went on a hike Wednesday afternoon after school. Having donned slacks and suitable attire they made their way to Mattson Park.

Each member contributed something in the way of eats that would look good to anyone with a hungry appetite. Eggs, bacon, and potatoes were taken to be prepared on an open fire.

The girls did just what they wanted to for awhile, then Miss Crume and Miss Perrin hid Easter eggs. The hunt seemed to be "bushels" of fun. Frances Larned won a small basket as a prize for finding the most eggs and for prize went to Leona Boring. Preparing supper was lots of fun, but eating it was a great deal more enjoyable. Iced punch and cookies were served as dessert. When everyone's raving appetite was satisfied and the scraps were back to the school house.

SENIORS TO PRESENT PLAY AT MIDWAY

The Seniors will present their play at Midway Friday night, April 22nd.

Frances, who is it that you are so interested in from Haskell? Better be careful, because, as things look now, we will really have something on you next week. La Vern why should you be so surprised at what you saw Saturday night?

Are the Juniors really interested in their play?

Walking seems to be a favorite sport for two certain girls.

We would like to know if some of those girls weren't just fooling when they said they wanted to go to town Tuesday.

Lou Etta are you sure you went to Abilene only to shop? You can't fool us, you had a deeper interest than that.

Ruth, how does it feel to be stowed up?

Ed, why don't you learn how to drive a car?

"ROUND-UP" STOPPED BY BAD WEATHER

The sudden turn in the weather prohibited the "Round-Up" from being published last week. Friday is the day when the contents of our paper are to be given to Mr. Roberts. On that day it was impossible to get to town, in order to take the "Round-Up."

Returns From Librarian Hettie Williams of the sheriff's department, Friday from Lubbock, was called to the bedside of her niece, Miss Ora Mae Boring, who was gravely ill with pneumonia, but who is now convalescing. 10 Years Ago—April 19, 1928

One of the best known men of the eastern section of the county passed away when James A. Cresser succumbed after a brief illness, Monday April 16 in the Stamford Sanitarium. He had lived in Haskell county for 28 years on what is known as the Rose Ranch of the Reynolds Land and Cattle Company.

Miss Matilda Gunn, county home demonstration agent, and thirteen members of various H. D. clubs of the county spent Wednesday in Wichita Falls, where they took part in an educational tour of Wichita Falls industrial plants.

A new combination ambulance and funeral coach has been received by Jones Cox & Company.

According to W. G. Russell, who has arrived in Haskell and will be manager of the Stamford & Western Gas Company in this city, residents of Haskell may be using natural gas within the next 30 days, if present plans hold good. The farm home of T. S. Branzen three miles east of town was destroyed by fire last Wednesday. Contents of the house were also a total loss.

The Senior class play will be presented Monday evening April 30. Members of the class composing the cast are: John Banks, Roy Sanders, Glenn Marrs, Cecil Bradley, Grady Murchison, Marvin Branch, Lucy Martin, Mary Emma Whiteker, Annie Beth Thomason, Mary Helen Barron, Mary Couch, Marjorie Rogers, Mary Pearsey, Vera Bradley, Roma Lee Cox.

15 Years Ago—April 20, 1923

During the latter part of the ginning season last year the Farmers Gin Company buildings burned, and one of the most modern gin houses in West Texas. The plant will be ready for operation this fall.

The brief presenting Haskell's claim for the Texas Technological College was filed with the Locating Board in Austin this week.

D. Scott, local contractor, has just completed the one-story fire-proof building one block east of the square, which he has leased for a term of years to J. L. Tubbs, manager of the Haskell Laundry Co.

New city water well on which work has been under way for the past 30 days, is expected to be completed soon. The well is located in the north part of the city and is expected to furnish an almost inexhaustible supply of water.

Raul, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Booth English, suffered a broken leg when he jumped from a bluff about ten feet high to the creek bed below. Sunday afternoon while playing with other children south of town.

Contracts are expected to be let this week for two new buildings in Haskell. One will be on the southeast corner of the square, for use as a garage and filling station, while the other structure will adjoin the Haskell National Bank building.

Blight Resistant Milo Distributed To Texas Farmers

Some 20,000 pounds of the new strain of blight resistant milo has been distributed to approximately 600 farmers in 52 counties, where it will be grown for demonstration and further distribution purposes, according to E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

The soil-borne disease, called milo blight, became a commercial threat in 1925. Since that time it has spread over the Red River region, the Edwards Plateau, and much of the High Plains section, and has cut yields in half in about fifty percent of the vast milo growing area, Miller said.

The disease is most virulent in wet, cold seasons. In such cases the plants affected will show a reddish tinge, will practically cease growing, and finally die. In normal seasons the disease attacks the plant more slowly and is not readily apparent except by an examination of the pith near the roots, which will be found to have turned red, and by a greatly reduced yield.

Farmers at first were inclined to blame the lowered milo yields to drought and chinch bug damage, but milo which produced only twenty or thirty bushels an acre was found growing alongside kafir and begari, which are not susceptible to the disease, and which yielded from fifty to sixty bushels an acre.

The problem was attacked by the Agricultural Experiment Station as soon as the disease was reported. From 800 plants growing in diseased soil, R. E. Karper, in charge of sorghums investigations, selected 20 plants which were resistant to the blight. Use of a greenhouse allowed the selection process to be speeded up, and within two years the stations at Chillicothe and Lubbock were planting the new strain for distribution.

A small quantity of the new strain of milo was placed in the hands of certified sorghum seed growers of the state in 1937. The 1938 distribution to farmers was made through county agricultural agents and vocational teachers, Miller said.

The new milo strain is expected to replace Dwarf Yellow Milo No. 670, which was developed by the Experiment Station some twenty years ago, within four or five years.

153 Forgotten Ghosts

Humble sacrifices to a growing civilization are the 153 ghost towns listed by the Texas Almanac. Killed by the failure of an industry or the changing of a train track, these villages started life as optimistically as some of our larger cities today. Their names, Duck Creek, Gertrude, Parson's Seminary (famous for its female school) and others, seem still alive, even though the inhabitants and buildings are gone forever.

Captain D. C. McLeod of Scotland, who visited in New York recently, declared that he came to America because he was sick of Scotch whiskey.

Nine years after their wedding in Russia, Mr. and Mrs. Boris Kreinuck were remarried in London to make sure the union was legal.

"Pictures" Subject of New Cook H. D. Club Meeting

The meaning of pictures, how they should be hung was the discussion of Miss Vaughan Friday when the club met in the home of Mrs. W. E. Penick.

Every picture should have a meaning behind it before anyone hangs them. Pictures should not be hung with cords. They should be hung either with a heavy cord that does not show or copper wire.

All personal pictures should be kept in a bed room. Your home should not be built around the family pictures.

The club adjourned to meet in the home of Mrs. Jess Bell.

Those present were: Mesdames A. C. Pruitt, Price Hines, Bill Penick, H. H. Hines, Misses Ruth Hines, Mildred Vaughan and Christine Penick. Visitors Mesdames W. R. Carothers and Ed Davis.

Latin American Trade Seen As Benefit to South

Increasing interest in the development of Latin American trade by United States manufacturers is seen as an important potential for new industries for the South and Southwest by R. M. Bazzanella, soliciting agent for a leading steamship company according to a report of the All-South Development Council, Dallas.

Bazzanella, returning from a good will tour of the southern countries, reported that "the average Latin-American consumer is rapidly becoming 'American-minded.' More and more American-made products are being used and the consumer is becoming more familiar with the names of their manufacturers. By reason of proximity and favorable operating conditions, factories located in the South and Southwest stand a better chance of getting this business than those in any other section of North America."

A survey by the Council shows that trade with Latin-America has made sensational gains during the last three years in comparison with exports to other markets. During 1936 this gain was 14 per cent over 1935, while the latest available statistics comparing the first 11 months of 1937 with the same period of 1936, shows a gain of 49.3 per cent. No increase at all was recorded in European shipments for 1936 in comparison to the preceding year, while for the first 11 months of 1937 the increase was 27.6 per cent, considerably lower than for Latin-America.

Europe still ranks as America's No. 1 customer in dollar volume of trade, with exports there totalling $1,182,065,000 for the 11 months, but the significant gains in Latin-American trade support Mr. Bazzanella's contention that South and Central America provide the fastest-growing foreign markets for the United States, the Council's report said.

Paul Seeds, director of the Texans, noted band group, as band contest chairman, already had word today that a total of 30 bands will participate in the parade.

Most of the high school bands will participate in the annual band contest, to be held at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The Coleman High School Band, winner of the designation as the 1938 official band of the WTCC, at the Brownwood convention a year ago, will arrive Sunday, and Director J. E. King will have his 84-piece organization here through-out the conclave.

From Abilene will come four bands to support that city's bid for the 1939 convention. Judge J. C. Hunter, Abilene Chamber of Commerce president, will head the 230 student musicians, comprising the McMurry College drum corps, the Abilene Christian College band, the Abilene High School Eagle band, and the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band, and the Cowgirls, co-ed pep organization, with rope twirling talents.

Miss Inez Mayo, of Denton, Miss West Texas for 1938, will have a float of honor in a specially designed ice igloo float. This float will feature a sled used by Admiral Byrd on his Antarctic expedition.

Miss Elizabeth Huff, "Miss Wichita Falls" and official WTCC hostess for the convention, will have a float designed in her honor.

Fifty thousand persons are expected to witness this parade and attend the convention on that day. Wilburn Page, WTCC convention manager, said today.

First Fort Worth will come the Texas Christian University Horned Frog band, Don Gillis, director, leading a Fort Worth convention contingent of more than 100.

New music band entries to swell the total received today by Chairman Seeds were those of the Brown-ridge Backbeats, J. C. Burkett, director, and Vernon, E. M. Shepherd, director. Both are 80-piece organizations.

Ryan and Walters, Okla., band entries give an inter-state air to the pageantry of the parade program.

Other already entered bands are those of Bowie, Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Knox City, Memphis, Quanah, Strawn, Seymour and Eastland, Electra, Henrietta and Weatherford.

The Shamrock Irish Band and the American Legion band from Stamford, both colorful organizations, and three Wichita Falls groups, the Paul Seeds Texans, the high school Coyote Band, and the Zundelwitz Junior High School band complete today's entry list, which is growing daily.

A year ago, sixteen bands, including four Brownwood organizations, participated in the parade there.
