TO MOTHER

Sometimes in the quiet evening hour,
When lights are dim and low:
I hold communion with one I loved
In the dear old long ago.
Again I'm humming the songs she sung,
As she cuddled me to her breast:
Again I murmur the prayer she said,
As she tucked me away to rest.
Then memory brings back her loving words,
Her teachings from day to day:
Yes, and tears that welled from her kindly eyes,
When I strayed from the narrow way.
Then I think of myself as I ought to be,
Of just what I might have done,
Having soul of her soul and heart of her heart,
What a goal I might have won.
Though I've long since grown to man's estate,
And my hair is tinged with grey:
At heart I'm the boy that I used to be,
And at night when alone I pray:
I am asking the Lord now to help me so,
That at last when my race is run:
My friends may stand at my bier and say—
"He in truth was his Mother's Son."
—W. S. Genaro.

Student Writes From Delaware

On April 9, 1937 the Junior class received a letter from a high school in Harbeson, Delaware. The letter was written by a Junior girl, Florence Virden, asking for some information concerning our high school and city. She wrote the letter because her school wished to learn about other schools and how they were organized.

Frances Reese answered the letter telling her how our school is organized, the number of students enrolled, and most of the important things about our city, the park, the city itself, and the surrounding country.

Last Friday Frances received an answer from Florence. She wrote a long interesting letter containing the following information concerning her home and her school.

The name of the school is Lewis High School. It is located at the edge of the town of Lewes, which has the population of about 2,000 and the town is situated on the Delaware Bay. There are many historic things found there. A Dutch building, celebrating the landing of the Dutch in 1633, is the most important thing.

The grades of the school are arranged from the first to the twelfth. There is an enrollment of about 600 pupils, the ninth grade carrying the name of Freshmen, tenth Sophomores, eleventh Juniors and twelfth Seniors. They had a press club and a school paper known as "The Beaconite" but rearrangements were made this year and it was not continued. The boys and girls are divided equally and separate in home rooms, quite different from our Haskell High.

They have a band of about sixty boys and girls, also an orchestra and a jazz band. These are very popular and the orchestra has played over the radio in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Frances was very glad to receive all of this information and she hopes to continue the correspondence with her out-of-state friend, Florence Virden.

Class Picnics Begin

Class picnics will begin this week, and students are looking forward to what is usually considered the one "big event" of the year. Under classmen receive a half-holiday each, and the seniors have a full day. Probably the half-holidays will be taken this week and next, with the senior's holiday coming nearer the end of the term. Freshmen and sophomores will probably be busy for the next few days negotiating for the family care and talking mother into the notion of going. Class sponsors and as many as three mothers at ways accompany each class on a school picnic.

Class Programs Are Different

Many people think that only regular lessons should be conducted in everyday class periods and often times this is the case. However, there are many ways in which class periods may be varied. They may be different and restful to the students and yet be in keeping with the class subject in many respects.

Recently the third year English classes used their class periods for singing. Some may think this to be a way to fool away forty-five minutes but it is not. In literature we have studied the types of literature the people of different periods had to read. Several of these periods show that the old ballads were the types of literature in their periods.

Many of the ballads of those days are still sung today. Therefore, since we have studied them, we thought it would be appropriate to sing some of them. Some of those we sang were, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Sweet and Low," "Stars of a Summer Night," "Annie Laurie," and "Auld Lang Syne."

The students enjoyed this kind of class period more than a regular everyday one because it was restful. It was also interesting because some of our oldest and best known poets, such as Longfellow, Robert Burns, Tennyson, and others, wrote some of these ballads.

This week the third-year English classes are having panel discussions on vocations in which they are interested. Those interested in the same vocation are divided into groups so that they might get more material together which might be of interest to the whole class. Each student will secure his material from some individual, from college or university catalogues, or from any other source through which it might be available.

Junior-Senior Coronation Banquet Is Big Success

The Junior-Senior banquet has come and gone, but the memories still remain. Everyone has agreed that this year's banquet was the nicest one that a junior class has ever given.

The coronation theme was carried out in the program and decorations. At each place was a small white crown as a favor and on every person's head was placed a gilded crown. The programs were also decorated with crowns sketched in gold. Table decorations carried out the Senior class colors, pink and blue. A may pole with blue and pink streamers going to each place was on each table, and on the top of each maypole was a garland of pink carnations, Senior class flower at the windows pink and blue crepe paper was hung and the pillars, fans, etc., in the room were wrapped with crepe paper in the same colors. Balloons of all colors floated at the ceiling and against the walls, adding more fun to the entertainment.

The menu consisted of a fruit juice cocktail, fried chicken, cream gravy, green beans, potato salad, congealed salad, rolls, ice tea, pink and white brick ice cream and cake.

Toastmaster for the evening was Rev. David Stitt, who added much to the success of the program. Most of the program was given by a group of students from Hardin-Simmons University. This group gave a musical program made up of vocal and whistling solos, and numbers on the piano, accordion, and xylophone. Other parts on the program were the greeting by Junior president, Bob McAnulty, and response by James Roy Akins, Senior class president; Senior class prophecy by Geraldine Conner and class will by Mary Eleanor Diggs.

When the program was finished everyone went to the auditorium of the Methodist Church where a coronation service was held. During which James Roy Akins and Helen Mabel Baldwin were crowned king and queen of the Senior class. Bob McAnulty placed the royal crowns on their heads. The royal attendants were Marion Josselot, Labry Ballard, Frances Fouts, John Guest, Naomi Barnett, Joe Isbell, Ruby Sue Persons, Robert Thompson, Edgie Meadows, Marvina Post, Anita Jo Simmons, and Lynn Pace. The royal crown bearers were Jane Richey and Jason Smith Jr. After the king and queen had been crowned the attendants gave their oath of fealty to the royal pair.

Freshmen Display Great Many Skills

A number of Freshmen who didn't have part in the play, "The King's English," did a lot to help. The crowns were made by Wanda Dulaney and Margaret McClintock. The spears, carved from wood and tipped with steel, were made by Doyle Martin and Buster Gholson. A very elaborate garland of roses and pinks was made by Doris Parks and Flossie Hester to adorn the tropical heroine. Frances Carruth made the sandwiches and they were seemingly enjoyed. The beads and jewelry were supplied by various other students, the nose rings being Fred Barnett's idea. The "two bags of pearls" were supplied by Emma Pearl Graham who made the bags and "collected" the pearls.

The freshmen, it seems, have many talents, the strangest being that of forming a living curtain. The forming of this curtain, however, was as much a surprise to them as it was to everyone else. The curtain was formed by a number of students who were called on to stand on the front edge of the stage in front of the scene until the stage was set (or until the king fell asleep). Then they returned to their places and became the left wing of the audience.

Important Questions Are Discussed At Homemakers Rally

At a teachers meeting which Mrs. Meyer attended while in Fort Worth, several important matters were discussed. Suggestions were made to have District meetings before the State Meet and thus eliminate so much competition at the State Meet. Also judging teams for the state were highly recommended, that is, sending judging teams to the state such as the F. F. A. Clubs do.

The business meeting all of the chapters was held Saturday morning at Paschal High School. Haskell is in Class A for the first time in our history, yet our club was not eligible for school awards because only two years of Home Economics are taught here. Waco seems to have the strongest bid on the next State Meet and it is likely to be held there.

Staff Sponsors Clean-Up Campaign

Beginning this week and continuing through these last four weeks of school a sort of clean up campaign is being staged and sponsored by the Warwhoop staff in order for us to leave the churches and their furniture just as we found them. Many of the chairs in the class rooms and practically every seat in the auditorium bear some pencil marks and ink spots. These we should remove—and these we can remove with very little time and effort involved if everyone will cooperate and do his part. We feel that the church people have been very nice to us and we think that in turn we can be nice by cleaning the furniture up a bit. So let's all try to think to erase the marks and shine the seats up a little and do our best to leave the churches neat and clean.

Contestant State Honor

April 29 will go down in the history of the Haskell High School as one of its most important days. It was on this day that the state honor award in all subjects was given to one of our representatives. Eula Mae Watson was the one to whom the honor was bestowed. Her entry was in the subject of Home Economics.

Freshmen Present A One-Act Play

With Orion McLain playing the leading part, members of the first year English classes presented a one-act play, "The King's English," in assembly last week. This play was first read in the classes and then rehearsed for production by a cast chosen from the three sections. It proved a very interesting play, featuring Orion as a refined Irishman, king of one side of a cannibal island, and his young daughter, Loola, played by Geraldine Atkins. The part of a cannibal king was played by Carl Lane, and Curtis Jordan was the savage royal attendant. Character parts, a group of shipwrecked tourists who were considered in turn as a prospective husband for Loola, were played by Vernay Moody, T. R. Odell Jr., Paul Kuenstler, Vernon Cook, Don Chitwood, R. J. Johnston, and Eulis Hays.

Name Favorite Musical Selections

New popular songs ranked a high first among the sixty students who were questioned. "What is your favorite melody, or tune?" This favorite might come from any type of music—classical, sacred, popular, jazz, or what have you, and might be instrumental or vocal. The students responded sincerely, as it was a matter of interest to all, now that National Music Week is here.

SLENDERIZING "CHIFFON-SHEER" VOILE—PHOTOGRAPHIC AND FLOCK DOT PATTERNS

was held Thursday morning. The North Texas State Teachers College band was present and played for our entertainment. Miss Lela Tomlinson, a director of homemaking in Louisiana, was guest speaker for this occasion. Shortage of time necessitated waiting until Saturday morning for the business meeting.

Saturday morning, a style show for all contestants was held and also the formerly postponed business meeting. It was at this meeting that winners of the awards were named. Eva Jo Ratliff was given very favorable mention by the judges. Through a misinterpretation however, she was not eligible for the tailored dress award.

All those who made the trip, felt it was well worth their time, and enjoyed it very much.

Senior Snapshots

Entering school here ten years ago (in the second grade) was a timid little girl who is now one of the most outstanding students of the senior class. When someone mentions high grades outstanding character and a sweet disposition you know they are speaking of Ruth Woodson. She has served as vice president and secretary of our class. During her high school days she has been a member of the Home Economics and Gypsy Rambler Club. She will ever be remembered as one of the most remarkable students.

Known far and wide for his wit J. J. Williamson is one of the few students whose grades average ninety percent. He is always cheerful and ready to do his part to promote his class and school. He is always studious and especially does he like history and economics. The members of the senior class find that he is dependable and therefore when they have some task to be performed they call on J. J.

So here's to a "real sport" and a splendid student. May success be yours.

Former Student Gains High Position

An article in last week's paper was of special interest to the Boy Scouts of Haskell and to High School students. Jeff McDonald, a freshman in the year 1929-30, has won a position in the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America. We are very glad that a former student has won such a position and are glad to learn of his advancement because we wish to cheer on to higher places those who have won.

Regular Staff Is Back On The Job

Four weeks of special class editions gave the Warhoop staff a breathing spell, and a much appreciated vacation. (It's just like writing several English themes every Monday, dear schoolmates). Really we thought the special editions were excellent, and would hate to be the ones to say whose edition was the best. They were all good and we thank you all.

Summers, Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. S. E. Rice were joint hostesses for an informal tea given in the honor of the latter's daughter, Mrs. G. W. Post of Madison, Wisconsin. The club rooms were very attractive with baskets and vases of flowers and roses. Miss Edwina Gilbert of Hamlin played selections on the piano during the afternoon. Mrs. Pray Martin and Mrs. Mimsan gave an interesting discussion on the season. We decided that each member would bring material to Mrs. J. E. Laughlin's Thursday afternoon to piece quilts for the orphan home. Those present were Mrs. C. A. Lambert, J. L. Laughlin, W. P. Caudle, Mimsan, John C. Gray, Pray Martin, A. M. Gray, Cecil Schroeder, Franz Basson.

Reporter's Council in Meeting. Do not overlook your advertisements. Do not write reports in the first person. Do not write a report at the order that you would minutes of a meeting. These were some of the "don'ts" Mrs. E. P. Bernard, chairman of the Reporter's Association gave the Reporter's a lecture at a meeting Saturday May 1, in Haskell. Some of the "do's" were: Have pencil and note book ready. Listen for important facts, then state the facts in order of their importance. Some games and contests were directed by the recreational leader, Mrs. Jesse Jossel. Miss Ellen Richards of O'Brien and Mrs. Sallie Patterson of Center Four, winning highest score. Mrs. Bernard asked the reporters to write an impromptu report of the meeting. These were read and the weak points pointed out. Eight clubs were represented. They were Blue Bonnet, Center Four, Mattson, Jossel, New Cook, Midway, New Mid and O'Brien. Reporter: Viola Humphreys Circle. The Viola Humphreys Circle met Monday afternoon May 3 in the home of Mrs. Charles Quasteburg with seven ladies present. THE BEST GIFT
Myrtle Nicholson Whiteker

When Adam was placed in the garden, God looked adown the years, And knew that all the sons of man, Would need someone to dry their tears.

Someone to cheer and comfort, Along life's rugged way, To aid in every struggle, And drive earth's care away. So in His understanding love, For this, His earthly brother, He gave His best gift to the world— A woman — and a mother.

Many Helpful Hints Given At Cooking School

Bring your notebooks and pencils!

It's the only way of preserving and benefiting from the many recipes and suggestions which will be given by Miss Jessie Hogue in the free Kitchen Chautauqua at the North Ward auditorium this week.

Women attending the school will of course, keep much that they hear in their memories. At the same time, when they desire a recipe for a particularly favored dish told about in the cooking school, the little notebook will yield a great deal of satisfaction for housewives.

The lecturer is a clear, distinct speaker, and every woman will be able to hear her sufficiently to take down every recipe which she will give.

And Miss Hogue is especially anxious that women of her daily schools become acquainted with her personally after the lectures are over; asking her questions, and telling their personal household and cooking problems. She believes that she is capable of offering some practical bit of advice to wives and mothers on many of their individual worries.

All sessions of the Kitchen Chautauqua will be free. No admission will be charged as the cooking school is a compliment to the housewives of this city and vicinity by this newspaper.

Mrs. Arthur J. Roberts of Stamford spent Saturday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reid in the Foster community.

Mrs. C. T. Aaron has returned from Enid, Okla., where she visited in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer V. Reid. Mr. and Mrs.

THE UNIVERSE TO CONQUER

Alexander, the Great, in years that are gone, yearned for new worlds to conquer and there are individuals today who are worried at the great progress of human beings, fearing lest there be nothing left for the future to reveal.

The universe, however, invites the attention of man. Its stupendous size dwarfs the present mentality of men. Astronomers dwell on distances so vast that a row of ciphers mean nothing, as for example when they tell you that the universe has a positive radius of curvature of only 500,000,000 light years. To clarify this in your thinking remember that a light year is the distance light will travel in a year and light moves 186,000 miles a second.

If you have grasped the truth about the positive radius, let us add another bit from the knowledge of the astronomer, who says that the distance to the outermost nebulae of the universe is about three sextillion miles, or a three, followed by twenty-one ciphers.

By the time our readers get these small items in mind we will come back to the subject, especially if the astronomers are able in the meanwhile, to agree on just exactly what the size of the universe is. Some of them expect this to be revealed by the 200-inch telescope now building to carry on the research which now depends upon the 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson, Calif.

EVERY DAY SHOULD BE MOTHER'S DAY

Sunday is Mother's Day and if the past is any guide to the future the occasion will be marked by a great deal of useless gush. It seems to be a habit of ours to work ourselves up to a perfect fever of sentimentality about something one day in the year and then ignore it for the other 364 days. Not that the sentiment isn't very pleasant and touching. There is something heart-warming about the custom of setting apart one day to let Mother know that she is loved and appreciated. The flowers, the little gifts and other attentions that are showered upon her on Mother's Day come from the heart and it's good for us to give them. But why, oh, why, must we try to pack it all into one day? Why can't we carry over a little of this sentiment for use the rest of the year?

In the first place, Mother isn't just the gray-haired old lady of the Mother's Day pictures. She's a lot of people, some of them old and some of them young, some of them rich and some of them poor. She's a girl at the spindle in the textile mill and the woman back of the department store counter, the dining room waitress and the telephone girl, the farmer's wife and the woman on relief. Being all these people, and more besides, she has a few common wants that are in evidence every day of the year. She wants a decent measure of economic security and a chance to look forward to an old age without undue fear. She wants things for her children—a comfortable home, good schooling, a chance to grow through a happy childhood to useful manhood and womanhood. She wants a world that will stay put without dissolving, every so often, into the chaos of war or economic breakdown. Are we doing a tenth part of what we could do, day in and day out, to provide those things for her?

We find hundreds of millions for our army and cut down on the school and playground budget. We let children waste and die from disease that our science could prevent, and we do next to nothing to abolish war from the world. And—if you don't mind hard-boiled language—every time we do these things, or consent to the doing of them through our laziness or stupidity, we kick mother right in the teeth. Mother's Day is a fine institution, but we could approach it with a clearer conscience if we did just a little more for Mother on the other 364 days of the year.

SHADOWING OFFICIALS

A detective, testifying before Senate committee, tells how he was ordered to "shadow" Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, when the latter was in Cleveland in 1935, seeking conciliation in the Chevrolet plant strike.

The operative said he engaged a room next to that occupied by McGrady in the hotel and attempted to listen in on his conversations but that the wall was too thick and all that he heard was a humming sound when there was talking going on.

There will be folks who find it hard to believe that such work is being undertaken. There is no use to blame the detective or the agency he serves. Somebody pays the money for such enterprise, and, one would presume, occasionally gets their money's worth.

AUSTRALIA'S BIG RESERVOIR

The word comes from Australia that, after seventeen years of work, the Hume reservoir has been opened, at a cost of nearly $30,000,000.

It is expected, together with other works, comprising many dams and locks, to insure the productivity of hundreds of thousands of acres, in which drought has killed millions of sheep, to assure good crops of fruit and feed and to make possible electricity for power.

When completed the project will have cost around $75,000,000. We don't know what constitutional problems the Australians had to surpass before going ahead with their development plans but what they have done is indication of what the world is going to do everywhere in the near future.

A RECORD, WE SUPPOSE

Some kind of a record, we suppose, was established the other day by a worker on a bridge in Ohio. The man was struck on the head by a 12 foot two by four that had fallen 90 feet from the top of the structure.

After casual treatment at a hospital the worker went back to his job.

The incident illustrates again that truth is stranger than fiction. No novelist could successfully get by with a story like this. The newspapers, however, are full of such tales and even a staunch believer in newspapers sometimes wonders whether imagination is not responsible for the recorded miracles.

Haskell County ..... History

As Revealed by the Files of the Free Press 20, 30 and 40 years ago.

Thirty Years Ago—1907

G. E. Lankford, the Wichita Valley agent, has returned from a visit to relatives in the Territory, and is at his post again.

The Haskell Public School closed Wednesday night after an eight months session. The graduating class was composed of Misses Emma Nicholson and Mildred Brooks, the smallest number that has graduated in years. Their diplomas were presented by Mr. W. H. Marchison in an impressive and appropriate address.

At the municipal election on Tuesday April 30, the vote was lighter than it was expected it would be, a number declining to vote because they opposed incorporation. A. J. Smith was elected mayor, Warren Fitzgerald, city marshal, and the following aldermen: A. C. Foster, R. C. Montgomery, T. E. Ballard and H. S. Willon.

The newly planted trees in the courtyard are leafing out and it appears that most, if not all, of them will grow.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Foster and children will leave Wednesday for Galveston to meet Mrs. Una Foster, who is on her way home from New York. It is their intention to spend several weeks in the Island City.

The new fence is being put up around the courthouse yard. It appears that it will be very substantial and of neat design. The entire fence, including the posts, is of iron. The posts are being set in concrete in sections of six-inch tiling which is set twenty-four inches in the ground. The fence rails are two inch iron pipe which pass through holes in the posts.

Mr. Charles Persons of this place and Miss Mary Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Williams of Haskell, were married in Fort Worth on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. J. S. Boone has had his house moved preparatory to the erection of a more pretentious residence on the same site, in the northeast part of town.

Forty Years Ago—1867

Mr. R. B. Fields is making extensive improvements on the Middleton place, which he owns and to which he will move as soon as the improvements are completed.

A cup of coffee can be the companion of solitude or the cheering cup at any gathering. No meal is complete — no party at its best — without coffee. And no coffee should be acceptable but the best.

The right coffee for every occasion, as the lecturer at the School of Cookery being conducted by this paper will tell you, is ADMIRATION. Oven-fresh, fragrant and delicious, Admiration is the finest coffee you can buy, regardless of price.

The use of Admiration as a beverage will, of course, be discussed at the School of Cookery, and directions given for making the perfect cup of coffee. In addition, the lecturer will show how to use Admiration in other ways, in the preparation of desserts and other drinks.

Give Admiration a trial, and its taste in the cup will tell the whole story... you'll know then, for yourself, just why Admiration has become the largest-selling coffee in Texas!

NYA Meets Today's Problems of Youth In Modern Manner

J. C. Kellam, acting director of the National Youth Administration of Texas, told the Texas Conference of Social Welfare at Abilene April 22 that the NYA is the American approach to the problems of growing youth.

After describing methods used in some European countries, he pointed out that the NYA is the outgrowth of a "middle way" philosophy, one which rejects the ideas that the state should do nothing and that the state should do everything, and holds that the state has an obligation to guarantee a certain basic security and to maintain equal opportunities for its citizens.

"By giving young people an equal opportunity to show their ability in education and vocational fields, plenty of room is given them for individual growth and improvement," Mr. Kellam asserted. "Qualities like self-reliance and initiative are not destroyed by an abundance of opportunities but rather by a lack of them. Nor are young people pampered by a system of social security which insures them against starvation. On the whole, they do not wish merely to exist. They are ambitious and eager and energetic, with their hearts set on a definite goal."

Mr. Kellam told how the NYA was established and how its program has been carried forward. He read President Roosevelt's executive order creating the Administration, and emphasized the President's declaration that the NYA should "serve the most pressing and immediate needs of that portion of unemployed youth most seriously affected at the present time."

"You will note," Mr. Kellam pointed out, "that the program was not conceived as the final solution of the problems of youth. It was felt that it could perform a useful service in relieving the most acute need of certain groups of young people."

Mr. Kellam reported that in Texas over 12,000 youths are now participating in the NYA school Aid Program, and that over 7,000 college students are participating in the NYA College Program. These students are employed part time at their own schools, this employment and the wages earned making it possible for the students to continue in school properly, he said.

An out of school group of 8,000 Texas youths between 18 and 25 years of age are employed part-time on work projects, Mr. Kellam said. These youths are given opportunity to acquire certain skills as well as to serve the communities in which they live.

The NYA has encouraged the establishment of job training, counseling and placement service; working in cooperation with the National Reemployment Service, and has encouraged the development and extension of constructive leisure time activities, Mr. Kellam reported.

"What is the value of the contribution we have made toward solving the youth problem?" Mr.

Kellam inquired as he concluded. "We have received hundreds of letters from school and college students who have told us that our program has meant the difference to them between preparing themselves for a worthwhile position in life and vainly seeking employment."

"We have seen young men and young women accept work on our projects and later accept private employment with a new faith in life. We know we have not solved the problems of youth. We do feel, however, that perhaps we have helped point the way toward a solution of these problems."

Retired Farm Lands Included In Reforestation Program

Fifty five thousand acres of barren and idle lands in eight Southeastern States recently have been put to work in growing trees under the federal reforestation program. This volume of acreage in tree planting in an area that once was known as the land of cotton indicates that this region is fast becoming a lively tree growing center. With an increasing demand for forest products the yield from the trees grown on these fifty five thousand and acres of land in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, and Texas, represents a potential source of wealth when turned into lumber, pulpwood, or naval stores. In addition to whatever ultimate revenue this crop of trees may produce, they also have a further definite value in protecting soil and watersheds.

The planting of this acreage required approximately fifty-seven million seedlings and about three months of work on the part of CCC enrollees working under the supervision of the U. S. Forest Service. The figures represent only the plantings on national forest lands in the Southern Region of the U. S. Forest Service during the planting season which extended from December 1936 to March 1937.

Barren cut over and abandoned farm lands acquired by the Government for national forest use constitute the chief basis of operations under this reforestation program, according to Regional Forester Joseph C. Kircher, of the U. S. Forest Service, Atlanta, Georgia. After the acquisition of the lands, the first concern of the Forest Service was to restore their productivity and to get trees growing again as quickly as possible on the barren areas. The Forest Service hopes to continue its reforestation program until all national forest lands which are now devoid of desirable tree growth are stocked with trees which will protect the lands from erosion, protect watersheds, produce timber and other forest products.

Mr. Kircher stated that Louisiana received the greatest benefit from the plantings just completed. A total of 22,200 acres of denuded lands in that State required the planting of about twenty-four million seedlings. Mississippi's acreage was 18,000 which called for the planting of about twenty-one million seedlings, and some twelve thousand acres in Texas required over ten million seedlings for planting. More than 800 acres each were planted in North Carolina and Alabama. Approximately 600 acres were planted in Arkansas, South Carolina and Oklahoma had comparatively small plantings, and a limited planting for watershed protection was done on national forest lands in Georgia.

All of the tree planting work was carried on with CCC enrollees who had been trained by Forest Service officers. In the great national program to put idle lands and idle hands to work, it is estimated that since the organization of the corps, the CCC has planted in excess of a billion trees. These boys in the Southern Region earned their title of "tree troopers" during the work of the past winter. Armed with planting bars and enthusiasm, they worked through the cold, rain and mud of December, January and February without complaint. They took the sunshine, or digging the trucks out of mud as part of the day's work, and with the precision of trained soldiers carried through a job that topped the previous all time high mark for planting in the Region. Their total score of fifty seven million trees, spaced for highway planting, would make a row of trees reaching two and a half times around the world.

The majority of the trees planted were longleaf, shortleaf and slash pine grown at three federal nurseries, The Stuart Nursery in Louisiana, the A He Nursery in Mississippi and the Ozark Nursery in Arkansas. Tree nursery production is being geared to meet the demand of the reforestation program. The Stuart Nursery alone produced twenty-nine million seedlings in 1936. The first crop of seedlings from the Ashe Nursery was shipped this season. This new nursery has an annual capacity of twenty-five million seedlings. The sowing at these three nurseries this spring called for 18 tons or 32,000 pounds of seed for an estimated total of fifty-six million seedlings.

TRAIL OF GROCERY—

(Continued From Page One) food properties, sanitation, spread of disease, the efficacy of cleanliness, mass production and distribution which were coincident, the grocery trade has been completely overhauled in our day and age.

Introduction of highly organized methods and application of specialized knowledge have made the grocery trade more of an art or profession. It stands today marked by the perfection of modern standards of civilization. Although it has developed into a complexity that is somewhat baffling, the fundamentals are as simple and as clear-cut as they were in the days that preceded our recorded history.

Exposing Fallacies About Milk

By JAMES A. TOBEY, Dr. P.H., Author of "Milk—The Indispensable Food"

THOSE rare individuals who can not, or think they can not, digest milk may be surprised to learn that actually milk is one of the most easily and completely digested of all foods. No normal person should ever have any trouble with it.

This fact has been confirmed by a recent investigation of the foods that disagreed with 1,000 healthy persons. Milk was readily digested by all but 1.7 per cent of 600 young college women, and by all but 3.6 per cent of 400 older men and women, equally divided as to sex, and ranging in age from 30 to 65 years.

The ease of digestion of any food depends upon a number of factors, including the composition of the food, the way it is cooked, the influence of other foods in the diet, and, most important of all, the physical and mental condition of the consumer. A person who is overtired, mentally upset, or suffering from an organic ailment will usually have difficulty with his digestion, although he may take bland foods with less trouble.

Milk is a bland food. It is 98 per cent digestible by the average person, being exceeded in ease of digestion and completeness of absorption by very few other foods. Buttermilk is even more readily digested than whole milk, ranking at the head of practically all foods in this respect. Pasteurized milk is slightly more digestible than raw milk.

The composition of milk favors its digestion by the average person, since it is a well-balanced blend of fat, protein, carbohydrate, minerals and water, plentifully supplied with the vitamins that promote growth and good health.

The vitamins are so small that they present no digestive problems, but in spite of their smallness they are of tremendous significance to our health and physical welfare.

The digestibility of milk is improved somewhat when it is part of a mixed diet. Thus, crackers or bread and milk are both more readily digested when eaten together and the same may be said of various other foods.

There is no incompatibility between milk and any other food. Milk may be eaten with fruits, fish, and all other dietary articles. The idea that milk and acid fruits, or milk and fish do not go together is a fallacy that has no scientific basis.

Pure milk offers so many nutritional virtues and is such an indispensable food for young and old alike that it should always form a conspicuous part of every well-balanced and adequate daily diet. The average person will find that it is as digestible as it is palatable.
