

Distance Learning Center to offer first academic class in November

By Amanda Gutierrez-Baez
Texan Staffer

By November, college officials say, WTC will offer its first academic class received from an outside campus—marking the first use of WTC's new distance learning facilities located in the Workforce Education Building.

The first class will come from Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls, and similar programs are expected to be offered in the future by Abilene Christian University—which has expressed interest in offering classes for education majors—and also Angelo State University.

Initially, Midwestern was to send three to five classes this fall as part of its Bachelor of Applied Arts and Sciences degree.

Due to construction delays in the Workforce Education Building, however, only one class will be sent this term due to the late startup.

As of Friday, Midwestern had not announced what class would be offered but local officials expected to be notified soon.

Wiring and setup for the classroom was finished last week. Jim Palmer, dean of instruction, said "Once we're connected we'll be off and running."

Midwestern's BAAS degree is designed to offer students with either vocational-technical training or qualified work experience the opportunity to obtain a baccalaureate degree without losing all credits already earned.

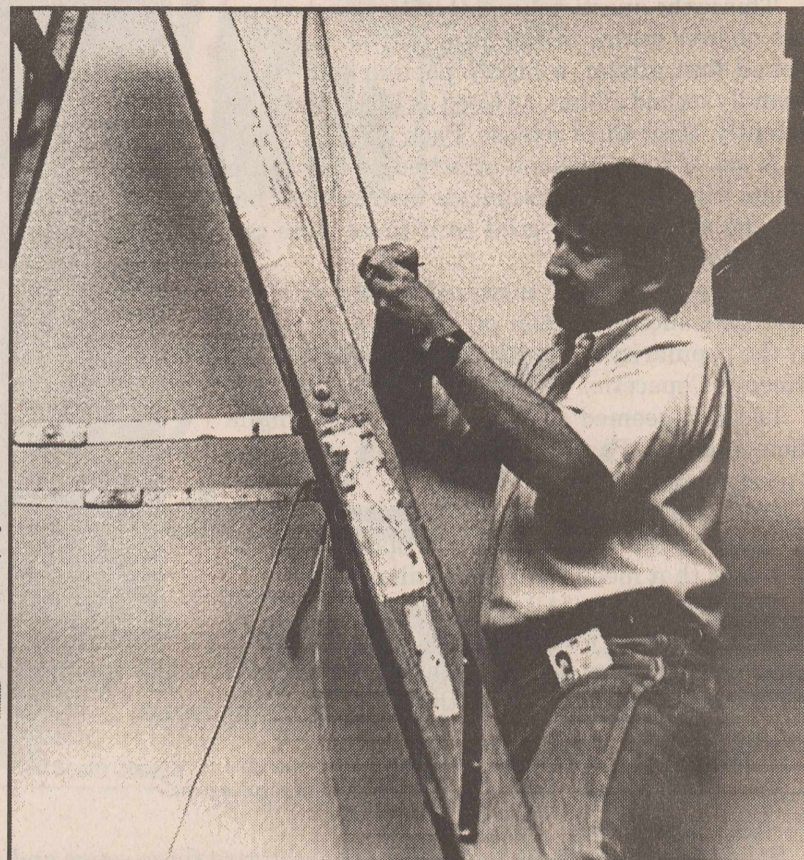

To earn a BAAS, students may take approximately 84 hours from WTC and 36 from Midwestern.

Normally, the maximum of number of transfer hours to a university is 66. No formal degree is required when applying for the BAAS degree program through Midwestern.

Enrolling students must have a minimum of 24 hours of credit in vocational-technical education. These credits can be earned from junior or community colleges, universities, technical schools or work experience.

For more information on Midwestern, catalogs, and applications for admission, interested students should check with the WTC Counseling Center.

Power outage leaves campus in the dark

By Reece McCain
Texan Staffer

In a meeting of minds represented by workers from WTC maintenance, TU Electric, Midwest Electric, and a local electric contracting firm, the puzzle as to why four WTC buildings were without power for three days was solved here Sept. 16.

It turned out to be an underground hunt for an electrical short.

Sunday, Sept. 13, around 8:15 p.m., an electrical arc caused a brief flash fire in an auxiliary breaker box, destroying it and damaging a second.

The pair were part of a system of four auxiliary breaker boxes serving one main box attached to one of four electrical transformers serving the WTC campus.

Power was lost to four buildings, the Scurry County Museum, the Administration Building, the Learning Resource Center, and the Fine Arts Building. Also affected was outdoor lighting in the south parking lot and the central courtyard.

The affected transformer is located underground due west of the Fine Arts building beneath a large metal grate.

The breaker box had apparently become loose with time causing the electrical "arc" and flash fire.

With power lost to the Administration Building, the main frame computer was also down. This affected the entire campus telephone system which is served by this computer.

As a result, no telephone calls could come in to, or out of the central campus phone system. Pay telephones on campus, which run off of a separate system, continued to work, and some students used their individual cellular telephones to contact worried parents.

Repairs on Monday, Sept. 14, centered around replacing the breaker box destroyed by the fire and repairing the second damaged box, replacing burned insulation and wiring.

Upon completion of the repair, however, workers metering the system found an indication of an electrical short somewhere still within the system.

At this point, there was concern that the transformer itself would have to be replaced. Because of its large size, this would have involved bringing a large crane to both remove the old equipment and install the new.

This would have most likely taken at least a week, according to Albert Conde, director of maintenance.

To study the problem, representatives were called in from the two area utility companies, TU Electric and Midwest Electric, as well as the local firm Southern Electric.

By Wednesday, Sept. 16, these wiring experts were gathered on campus to determine why the electrical short was still being metered.

According to Conde, the group had all but given up Wednesday afternoon—in fact were walking back to their vehicles—when it occurred to them that the short might be linked to a ground wire they could not see.

They returned to the transformer site, began another search, and found the ground wire located at the far back of the

Fall enrollment should equal boost in state funds in 1999

By John Gutierrez
Texan Staffer

State funding for Western Texas College should see an increase next year thanks to enrollment numbers this fall.

Enrollment for fall 1998—the second highest recorded of the 1990s—saw WTC's student numbers increase for full-time students, on-campus enrollment and, in the largest category jump, the college's concurrent enrollment agreements with the local and area high schools.

For college funding, however, the most important figure is contact hours and WTC's 1998 fall count will be the highest of the 1990s.

Funding from the state is based on contact hours and is monitored every other year. This fall is a funding year and WTC's total is 252,144 contact hours—an 8 percent increase over the previous funding year in 1996.

An increase was noted also in the total number of semester hours students have enrolled for. This fall's count is 11,014, a 6 percent increase over last year.

While contact hours were up, however, the student count dipped slightly—1.7 percent—when compared to last fall's total of 1,207 which still stands as the best numbers counted for this decade. This year's total reached 1,186.

While full-time, on-campus and concurrent numbers rose, the single major decline was a 16 percent drop noted with enrollment for prison classes taught by the college.

This decline was primarily offset by a 45 percent increase in concurrent enrollment numbers.

Under these programs, high school students earn both credit toward graduation and college hours simultaneously with courses either taught on their individual campuses or at WTC.

Regarding full-time versus part-time students, this year's count rose by 7.8 percent compared to last fall. Exact numbers are 510 compared to 473.

On-campus numbers stayed nearly the same with slightly less than a 1 percent increase, totaling 727 this year compared to the previous 723. The on-campus numbers include more than 60 Snyder High School students enrolled in concurrent classes.

College Day is Thursday

By Melinda Hernandez
Texan Staffer

Western Texas College will host the annual College Day Thursday for area high schools and WTC students planning to transfer.

Representatives from 32 colleges and universities, branches of the armed forces, a technical school and a public entity will be answering questions.

Traditionally, the program takes place in the WTC gymnasium, but due to the renovation of the gym it will be held in three different sites on campus.

Registration will be in the Scurry County Museum at 9:30 a.m.

Students can then meet with representatives in the Baptist Student Center and Christian Student Center until 11:30 a.m.

Officials from 10 high schools have indicated they will attend. In addition to Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira, these include Blackwell, Colorado City, Post, Robert Lee, Roby, Rotan and Westbrook.

Four year universities to attend include Abilene Christian, Angelo State, East Texas Bap-

Two full-time recruiters are hired this semester

By Amy Lester
Texan Staffer

Effective this fall, WTC returns to two full-time recruiters on staff.

Debbie Duddleston is the on-campus recruiter, and Carmen Zarate will fill the "traveling recruiter" position.

Zarate is a recent graduate of WTC, earning her degree last spring, and her employment is part of a new plan implemented by Dean of Students George Cormack.

He said he plans to replace the "traveling recruiter" annually or every two years with a recent WTC graduate.

In this way, he said, the new staff member—employed for a 10-month contract—will "believe in the college" and will be "around the age of (students) looking at WTC."

In addition to visiting with high schools in the region, Zarate will attend various "college days."

She expects to visit approximately 100 schools in a matter of weeks.

The second recruiter, Debbie Duddleston, is in charge of on-campus events such as the College Day slated Thursday.

She is a 12-month employee. Her duties include planning the WTC booth at the local fair as well as the Lubbock County Fair.

She is in charge of all on-campus tours and sending material to students wanting more information about the institution.

Along with these jobs, she also

Local H - Pack up the Cats
Can the sound of a guitar, a bass guitar, and drums be produced by just two people without overdubbing?

This is the question Local H initially asked and the answer comes in the form of a hardly mentioned first album, a highly popular and radio-friendly second album, As Good as Dead, and most recently, their third release, Pack up the Cats.

A set of bass pickups attached to the guitar create the effect of two separate instruments, but are the songs still as good as if there were two separate instruments?

This question was answered loudly with the skyrocket success of their previous album, fueled by the popularity of the song "Bound for the Floor (Keep It Copacetic)."

Local H seemed to have a winning formula then, and with Pack up the Cats, they expand on a good thing and make it better.

Of course, the absence of a third member limits diversity in the songwriting and playability, but who says that means you can't still rock?

The first single, "All the Kids Are Right," is already on the airwaves at radio stations around the U.S., and it has just the right amount of rock appeal and catchiness to help this new album out in sales.

This unique setup of instruments produces some truly original sounds, as is the case with "Deepcut," the heavier tracks.

Solid beats and catchy guitar licks characterize these songs and should please any rock fan. Pack up the Cats also offers diversity from this style with the Pearl Jam-like "Fine and Good," "Stoney," which are the more mellow cuts.

Local H 2-man band said pleasing; while Zombie disappoints

The overall sound on Pack up the Cats has a lot of the garage band influence, yet is more diverse, and of course the sound is original and very creative.

If you're looking for something new and out of the ordinary, I'd strongly suggest you check out Local H.

Rob Zombie - Hellbilly Deluxe

How much money does Rob Zombie need, and how much time does he have on his hands?

It seems every time I turn around, the White Zombie frontman/founder has some side project going, or a track for a soundtrack release, or recently taking part in the directorial process for the third installment of The Crow movie.

Whatever the case, he apparently found time to squeeze in a solo project, titled Hellbilly Deluxe.

The music on this album is the same basic principle behind White Zombie, just more industrial.

Think of it as White Zombie with a stronger influence by Nine Inch Nails.

Hellbilly Deluxe is chock full of samples of various noises, strange effects, extremely heavy synthetic beats, and equally heavy guitar parts.

Overall, the album is mediocre.

Many of the songs in the latter part of the album lack any real direction or any original lyrics.

Mr. Zombie seems to be running out of material, and out of paychecks.

As expected with any Rob-related material, there is fabulous artwork inside, and song titles that take their cues from 1930's horror movies, as well as sound clips from many of those movies in the songs. (Rob Zombie is a huge black and white horror movie buff.)

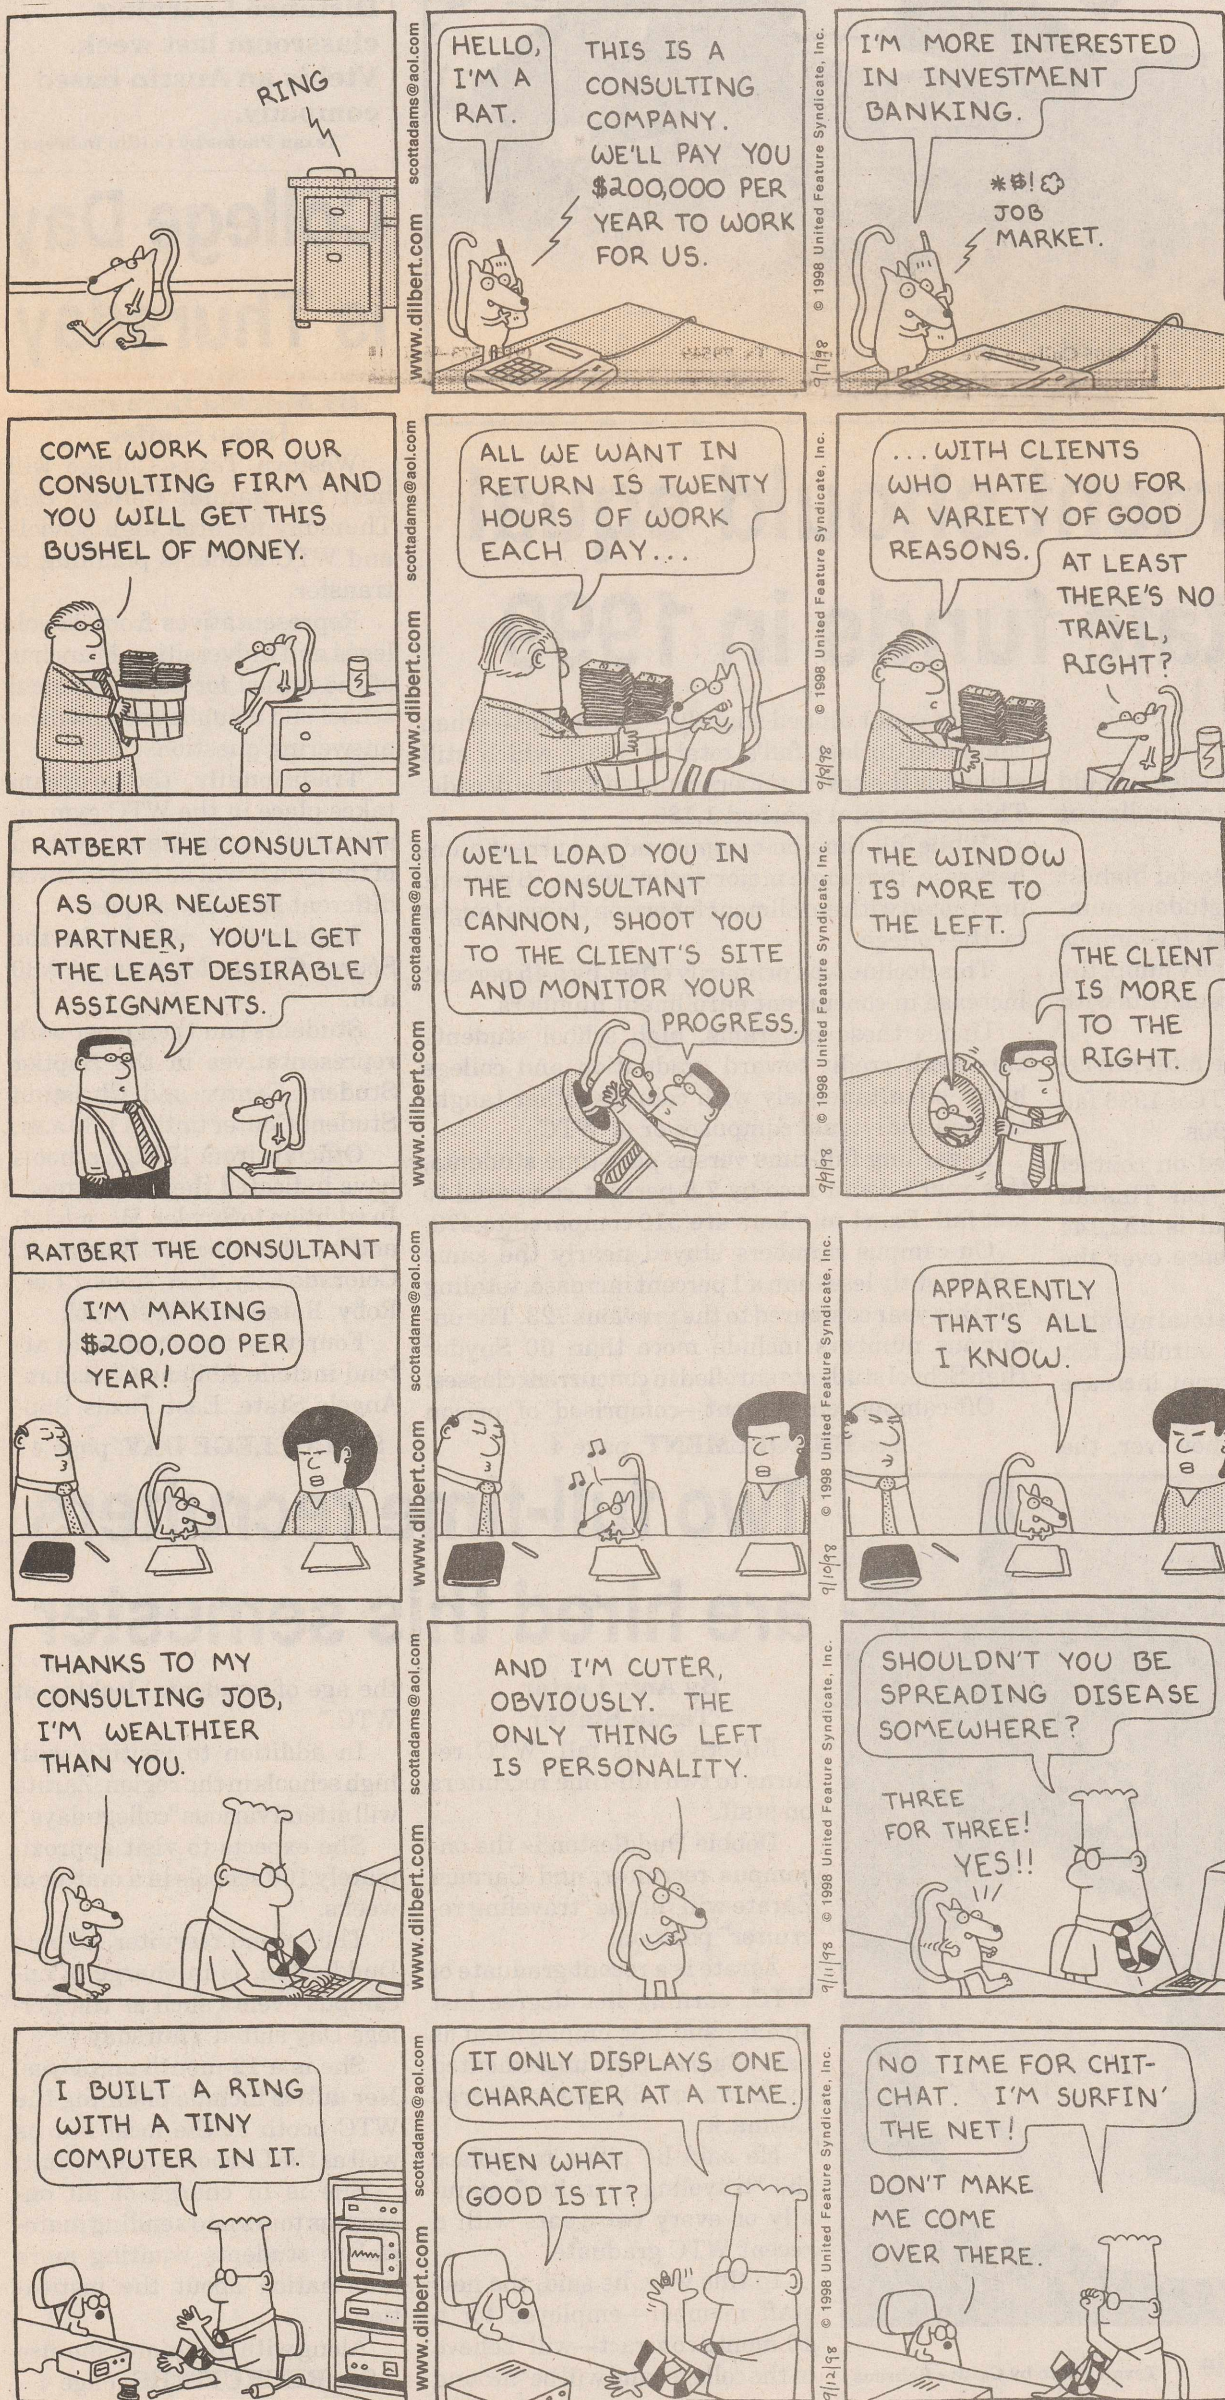

This album is not without its bright spots, like "Dragula," (the first single) "Superbeast," and "Living Dead Girl," but for the most part, the songs are trite and predictable.

Basically, this album might tide White Zombie fans over until a new album, but we're getting pretty anxious.

Rob, I'm glad you're still doing your thing, but we want our White Zombie back.

(RATINGS: The movies listed below are rated according to the following key: 4 stars — excellent; 3 stars — good; 2 stars — fair; 1 star — poor.)

ROUNDERS. This film is a study in risk management and growing up, using the world of professional poker playing as its laboratory. Matt Damon ("Good Will Hunting") marks himself as a versatile acting talent playing a very good poker player trying to use his skill to put himself through law school. His dream is to raise a big enough stake in local games to allow him to try to make a really big score in Las Vegas. Helping and harming Damon's character are two very different players, one a conservative "grinder" (John Turturro), who always has some extra cash to lend; the other a more dangerous sort, a self-destructive character nicknamed Worm (Edward Norton). I'm not sure "Rounders" is anything more than a couple of very good character studies, but that's no small achievement. R. 3 stars.

RUSH HOUR. Two elements distinguish this enjoyable Jackie Chan action picture from his previous ones. It has some truly funny writing, and he has an engaging partner (Chris Tucker from TV's "Def Comedy Jam" and the movie "Friday").

Chan still does his own acrobatic stunts chasing bad guys, and Tucker brings an average man's frustration to the party. The predictable soul brother-Asian brother riffs are kept to a minimum. PG-13. 3 stars.

WHY DO FOOLS FALL IN LOVE? A mostly entertaining musical biopic for the most elemental of reasons: I liked the songs. I liked the "doo-wop" sound of Frankie Lyman and the Teen Agers back in the '50s, and I find them irresistible today. When Frankie (Larenz Tate) literally bounds on stage to kick off a rendition of something as plain vanilla as "Goody, Goody" and you find your feet moving, that's a tribute to a special musical talent who made up for my not being particularly involved with the fates of his three wives: a singer (Halle Berry), a petty thief (Vivica A. Fox) and a school-teacher (Lela Rochon). R. 2-1/2 stars.

WRONGFULLY ACCUSED. Enduring this film suggests that old jokes just don't have it anymore. The verbal gags and spoofs of the "Naked Gun" series, which also starred Leslie Nielsen and also included the writing of Pat Proft, who makes his directing debut with "Wrongfully Accused," seem tepid today. I wasn't at all involved with this parody of "The Fugitive." "Wrongfully Accused" is more of a silly imitation than a true parody. The closest it comes is to have its Tommy Lee Jones detective character (Richard Crenna) mimic the absurdly detailed requests for data he made of his troops. At best, that's a smile. PG-13. 1-1/2 stars.

YOUR FRIENDS & NEIGHBORS. The second coruscating drama by director Neil LaBute that exposes the secret hostility that exists between men and women who one would assume wouldn't hold such feelings. But unlike LaBute's brilliant, shocking first film, "In the Company of Men," this one doesn't tell one narrative story; rather, it's a collection of scenes in which everyday events are excuses to express anger with an almost sexual passion. At the end, one can only be depressed by LaBute's world view. R. 2-1/2 stars.

instruction and concurrent enrollment at area high schools—overall had a decrease of 5.4 percent, 485 last year compared to 459 this year.

Prison instruction accounted for 334 students in all compared to 399 last fall.

Off-campus concurrent enrollment this year comes from 10 area high schools—three of these new for 1998.

These schools are Rotan, Hamlin, Anson, Stamford, Crosbyton, Winters, and Ballinger. The three new schools are Post, Hawley and Patton Springs.

These schools brought WTC 125 students, an increase from 1997's 86 enrollments.

By gender, the number of full-time students at the college remains almost equal this fall—261 men and 249 women.

When part-time students are included, the balance shifts to 733 men compared to 502 women—a change primarily caused by the number of male prisoners enrolled for part-time instruction.

Texan staff profiled for fall 1998

As the fall semester begins, the staff for The Western Texan has five returning sophomores and 10 entering freshman.

The newspaper is distributed six times each semester—every other Monday during the term.

The first issue was Sept. 14 and, after today, subsequent issues are slated Oct. 12, Oct. 20, Oct. 27, Oct. 24, Oct. 31, Nov. 7 and Nov. 23.

The newspapers are distributed free of charge at the following areas: dormitory, Student Center, LRC, Fine Arts Building, and Buildings 7A, 7B, 2A, 2B, and 2C.

Returning sophomore writers include John Baez, a graduate of Snyder High School. He is the son of Blas and Lydia Baez, John is a returning third year Texan staffer.

Also returning is his wife, Amanda Gutierrez-Baez, a graduate of Snyder High School. She is the daughter of Juan and Armandina Gutierrez. Amanda is a returning sophomore. Last year, she won a 2nd place award from the Texas Intercollegiate Press for her entries in TIPA's Photo Page contest.

Caitlin Behrens, a native of Melbourne, Australia, is a second year returning staffer for the Texan. Caitlin will be taking photos for the newspaper.

Melissa Garvin, daughter of Glendal and Donna Garvin of Snyder, is a sophomore at WTC. She is a graduate of Snyder High School. Currently at WTC, she is a member of Phi Theta Kappa. She has published several poems and a short story in the 1998 Aquifer.

Amy Lester graduated from high school in May of 1997 from McCamey. She is the daughter of Bill and Bobbie Lester. Amy is a sophomore this year at WTC, majoring in English. She was a member of the Student Senate and will be on the WTC cheerleading squad during the fall. She had her poetry published in the campus magazine "Aquifer" last year.

Among the freshmen, Ben Brown is a graduate of Snyder High School and the son of Donny and Judy Brown. For the Texan, Brown will be handling layout of page 2 which consists of movie and music reviews.

Elizabeth Covey is a freshman at WTC. She is the daughter of Chris and Colleen Covey of Snyder. She graduated in May from Waller High School.

John Gutierrez Jr. is the son of Juan and Armandina Gutierrez. He graduated from Snyder High School. While at-here by incumbent State Rep. David Counts (D-Knox City) and his Republican opponent Scott McLaughlin of Big Spring.

Counts will be here Wednesday, Oct. 15, and McLaughlin is due to visit the campus Oct. 22.

Also invited are U. S. Rep. Charles Stenholm (D-Stamford) and his opponent Rudy Izzard, a Republican candidate from Abilene.

Neither candidate had responded as of Friday, Price said.

Political candidates slate campus visit

Invitations to speak on campus have been sent by WTC government instructor Jack Price to candidates running for both state and national offices.

For the second week in October, appearances are scheduled

3rd place finishes by rodeo

The first rodeo of the fall term was at Eastern New Mexico University Sept. 19 and both the WTC Men's and Women's teams finished in 3rd place.

Individually, WTC's bull rider Casey Baize of Wall won 1st place for both the long-go and the short-go with scores of 79 and 73 respectively.

In bareback riding, WTC's Wes Stevenson of Kaufman split for 1st and 2nd with a Vernon Regional JC competitor with an average of 144.

In the short-go, Stevenson was 2nd with a score of 72, the same point total he received for the long-go.

For both Men and Women, the winning team was West Texas A&M. Tarleton finished 2nd for the Men and Odessa College for the Women.

In other individual events, WTC contestants earning points were:

Barrel racing: WTC's Terra Bynum of Snyder won 2nd in the average with times of 18.20 and 18.07 seconds.

Bareback riding: WTC's Kyle Bowers of Brooks, Alberta, Canada split for 3rd and 4th in the average with a 143 total.

Calf roping: WTC's Dee Bland of Hawley was 3rd in the average with two times of 11.1 and 13.1 seconds; and Ryon Swink of Crosbyton was 4th with a 27 average, times of 12.7 and 14.3 seconds.

Team roping: WTC's Matt Gully of Novice, teamed with a Tarleton competitor, split for 3rd and 4th in the average with a combined time of 14.6 seconds. The team placed 2nd in the short-go with a 6.8.

Break-away roping: WTC's Sequin Downey of Amarillo placed 4th in the average with times of 4.1 seconds in the long-go and 9 seconds in the short-go.

Golf team finishes 3rd, 7th Paris, Tx.-Ruidoso tourneys

By John Baez
Texan Staffer

For the first two golf tournaments of fall, the Western Texas team has returned to campus with a 3rd and 7th place finish.

The team competed at the Rocky Thompson Invitational in Paris, Tx. and the High Country Shootout in Ruidoso, N.M.

The team first defended its championship from last year at the Paris, Tx. event and shot totals of 292-294 for 586, placing 3rd in the tourney.

The best team score was carded by Martin Gustafson of Sweden with two rounds of 70 and 73 for a total of 143.

Other individual scores were Robert Wilhite of Odessa, 75-71 (146); Jason McGrath of Ontario, Canada 71-78 (149); James Higdon of San Angelo Lakeview 81-75 (156); and Chad Saunry of Missouri City 81-78 (159).

"This team really falls in place and gets along with each other and this helps the team tremendously," said Coach Milton Ham.

The next tourney was the High Country Shootout in Ruidoso where WTC took 7th place.

"When you have a team as young as ours you have to get your feet a little wet before you can go out and beat other teams," Ham said.

"Throughout the fall we will be after the playing experience so that we can compete better against people like Midland in the spring."

Martin Gustafson again led individual scoring with 75-74 (149). Other totals were Jason McGrath, 74-75 (149); Cory Mahaney of Tulia, 74-76 (150); Brad Nutt of Bastrop, 80-79 (159); and Kory Williams of Stanton, 83-80 (163).

The team played this past weekend at the Midland College Invitational.

Chris Halbert is a freshman at WTC. He is the son of Bill and Janet Halbert. He is a 1998 graduate of Snyder High School. While in high school he wrote music reviews for his high school paper. For the Texan, Halbert will be writing music reviews for page 2.
