LARGER NUMBER ENTRANTS FOR FIGHT THURSDAY

Fifteen Bouts To Be Staged In Third Tournament Here

After a lapse of two weeks, the third amateur boxing tournament, sponsored by the local fire department, will be staged Thursday night in the arena in the rear of the City Hall.

Largest number of entrants yet listed is reported by City Marshal Britton, who is assisting as matchmaker. Eighty-five amateur fighters, ranging in age from 10 years up, have entered, Mr. Britton reported.

Fifteen bouts, three rounds each, will be staged, and opponents in each weight division will draw for places in all except the main events.

First bout will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock, with two flyweights, Red Haynes and Lamson Smith, Jr., featured in the opener.

Two main bouts will be staged, between Olin Bartlett, 170 pound Haskell fighter and Claud Neilan, 175, of Abilene, winner of a recent tournament in this city.

Other bouts expected to prove among the best of the evening will be between Lloyd McMillian of this city and a Stamford boxer, and Obid Nelson of Aspermont who will draw for an opponent in his class.

Two negro bouts are being arranged in the light and heavy weight divisions, with "Sluggo Sparty", Haskell dark-skinned champion as the challenger in the latter event.

Although not guaranteed to be staged, arrangements are under way for a three-round bout between two negro women, Mr. Britton stated. The challenger, a dusky Amazon who only weighs 220 pounds, approached Mr. Britton concerning the match, and suggested the name of her opponent.

Tournament sponsors are willing to stage the match if the two women agree to the match.

Haskell Man Is High Executive of Phillips Co.

A. M. Hughes, former Haskell businessman and the son of S. A. Hughes, pioneer Haskell resident, has recently been named as the executive of one of the largest oil companies in the Southwest.

Mr. Hughes, as vice president of the Phillips Petroleum Company of Bartlesville, Okla., recently completed a tour of nineteen states, where he met with the company's representatives and outlined sales and advertising campaigns for the year.

Accompanied by other officials of the company, the tour was made in a huge Lockheed seven-passenger plane.

Mr. Hughes, formerly engaged in the wholesale and retail oil business here, has been connected with the Phillips Company for the past ten years.

EIGHTEEN BALES OF COTTON GINNED IN HASKELL THIS WEEK

Wide Demand For Wildlife Bulletin In Other States

A bulletin published by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission outlining adequate methods of increasing the supply of Bobwhite Quail, fast becoming scarce in more demand in other parts of the nation than in Texas, it was revealed in Austin this week.

The bulletin, sold by the commission for 10 cents, contains information that has been found to be worth hundreds of dollars to individual farmers and other landowners.

Copies of the bulletin have been ordered by scientific societies, educational institutions, state departments, government agencies, and interested individuals all over the nation in excess of the number requested by Texans, according to Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the commission.

The work especially is in demand in the District of Columbia, New York, Michigan, and Wisconsin, he said. Many leading wildlife authorities have informed the commission that the bulletin supplies a long felt need.

Important, and what is more significant, usable information pertaining to the nation's greatest game bird," Tucker declared.

The bulletin, entitled "Increase Quail By Improving Their Habitat" is the first that has been published by the commission as a result of its cooperative research program with A. & M. college, the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, and the American Wildlife Institute.

Dr. Walter P. Taylor is in charge of the research program. Vaugene Lehmann, author of the quail bulletin, is a former resident of Brenham. He graduated from the University of Texas, where he specialized in those branches of sciences pertaining to wildlife.

After working for a time with the Texas game commission he joined the staff of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey. When the wildlife research set-up was perfected at A. & M. he returned to the Texas commission and was assigned to work in Dr. Taylor's organization.

Mr. Lehmann's bulletin stresses the fact that Bobwhite quail can be increased to a great extent by minor farm and ranch adjustments and manipulations.

Providing Bobwhites with adequate food and cover by simple expedients, as for instance the cultivation of weeds and shrubs in certain areas, is held by Mr. Lehmann to be the most likely way of increasing the bird's supply in Texas.

Other methods of providing food and cover are outlined, including "spot-burning" of forest trees, half-cutting of trees, and the loosening of tight sod by ploughing.

Restocking and other conservation and restoration efforts will not produce the desired quail population, Mr. Lehmann declares, unless the Bobwhite is given food to eat and cover in which to live.

Prewitt Wins In Main Event At Stamford

Quite a few Haskell fight fans attended Stamford's first amateur boxing tournament, held in that city Monday night.

Ernest (Rosy) McMillian of this city and Pete Prewitt of Stamford were featured in the main event of the evening, Prewitt winning the decision over McMillian on points. Both the young men are well-known amateur boxers, and are rated "tops" by fight fans of West Texas.

Hot Weather Causes Premature Opening of Early Cotton

Hot, dry weather prevailing during the past three weeks has caused premature opening of early cotton in several sections of the county, resulting in "first bales" coming in to every town in the county last week.

Since the first bale ginned here on Monday of last week, Haskell gins had turned out eighteen additional bales at noon today, according to their reports this morning.

The Haskell Electric Gin has ginned six bales, according to Duncan Head, manager.

Sanders & Crawford Gin reports five bales to date, Co-Operative Gin Company four bales, Haskell Co-Operative Gin two bales, and the Wair & Watson Gin had "fired up" preparatory to turning out two bales standing on their yard.

Two other Haskell gins, Duncan Gin Company and Harrison & Gilstrap, were practically ready for the start of the season, although extensive repairs and placing of machinery in readiness has not been completely finished.

By the end of this week, if dry weather prevails, local cotton buyers and ginner expect cotton to be coming in at a fairly rapid rate. Farmers, on the other hand, are hopeful that a general rain will halt early opening of cotton and assure maturing of a large part of the crop.

LARGER QUOTA CCC ENROLLEES IS IN PROSPECT

Regulations More Liberal Regarding Status of Eligible Youths

More liberal rules governing enrollment of youths in the Civilian Conservation Corps have been received by Mrs. Kate Perdue, at the Haskell County Welfare Office, who has charge of the enrollment in Haskell county.

The new rules will permit the enrollment of a larger number from this section, she stated.

All young men between the ages of 17 and 23 are eligible for enrollment. Mrs. Perdue was advised, and the restriction that they must be members of families on the relief rolls has been changed. Youths need not have dependents to become eligible under the revised rules.

Quota for Haskell county has not been determined. Mrs. Perdue announced, but she is anxious to secure the names of all prospective enrollees within the next few days in order that this county may be assigned a liberal quota.

Young men interested in enrolling are requested to notify Mrs. Perdue not later than Saturday, Sept. 21, or call at her office for full particulars concerning enrollment.

WORSHIP DEAD ACTOR

According to a London film critic, no man in history was inspired such adoration from women as did Rudolph Valentino, the famed Italian-born film star who died in 1926 at the age of 31.

WOMEN AS POLICE

A world survey of conditions with respect to the welfare of women and children made under the auspices of the League of Nations discloses that in 18 countries women are employed to a greater or less extent as police.

Do You Remember

... these happenings of 10 and 15 years ago? (Taken From the Files of the Haskell Free Press)

August 18, 1927

The 1927 Tax Levy for the county was made Saturday by the Commissioners' Court, the general levy for the county being set at 64c, based on an assessed valuation of property of $9,800,000 made by Tax Assessor Mike B. Watson.

The City Council last week purchased an Austin Motor Grader, to be used in grading and maintaining city streets. Wayne Perry has been employed by the city as street maintenance supervisor.

The postoffice at Elbert in Throckmorton county, was burglarized sometime Monday night, presumably right after a hard rain which had fallen in that vicinity early in the night.

Raleigh Lemmon and Oscar Oates returned last week from a six-weeks vacation which was spent in a motor trip through the Northwest, California and Old Mexico.

The marriage of one of Haskell's most popular school teachers, Miss Douglas Surratt of Albany and one of Haskell's popular young business men, Mr. John V. Davis, was solemnized in the home of the bride's parents in Albany Monday morning, August 8th at six o'clock.

Haskell's first bale of cotton from the 1927 crop arrived in town Monday afternoon and was ginned by the Farmers Gin Company. The bale was brought in by O. H. Andrews, farmer living about five miles south of town on the C. D. Grissom farm.

The first bale of cotton of the season was ginned in Haskell Monday, when G. W. Hutto, a farmer living in the Sayles community southwest of town brought in a bale of this year's cotton. The cot-now has branches in many countries. By these women, few of whom ever saw him except on the screen, he has been elevated to something like sainthood since his death, and his memory is kept alive among them by making gifts in his name, distributing his photographs, through correspondence and in other ways.

Valentino received a good education in his native Italy and came to the United States in 1913, first appearing as a dancer, then in musical comedy and after being stranded in San Francisco he entered motion pictures at Hollywood taking minor parts. He scored his first great success in "The Four Horsemen," after which his career until his death was a succession of triumphs. He was twice married and twice divorced. He died from peritonitis following operations for gastric ulcer and appendicitis.

Conceding his great ability as an actor and the charm of his personality, the fact that he is still literally worshipped by thousands of women throughout the world is somewhat difficult to understand.

Perhaps the reason we don't understand all this is that we don't understand women.

MATRIMONIAL TANGLE

One of the strangest matrimonial mix-ups on record is reported from Pittsburgh. Two years ago John Murphy and Frances Jones wanted to get married, but on account of Murphy's extremely youthful appearance he feared to apply for a marriage license, so a friend named Leffingwell volunteered to secure the coveted document in Murphy's name, which was done.

To complete his good turn, Leffingwell also went through the marriage ceremony with Miss Jones, representing himself to be Murphy, then turned the happy bride and wedding certificate over to Murphy and called it a day.

Later on, meditating no doubt over his friend's happiness, Leffingwell took unto himself a bride of his own, but their matrimonial bark soon went upon the rocks of incompatibility and a divorce was the result. Meditating again, Leffingwell was reminded that he had really been married to the supposed Mrs. Murphy, confronted her with the fact, and suggested that she fly with him. She flew. Tiring of wedded life for the second time, Leffingwell flew again, but alone. In the meantime Murphy has also disappeared.

Now Mrs. Murphy, or it may be Mrs. Leffingwell, if either, finds herself in a predicament and is asking these questions: Has she a husband at all? Or has she two? Or if only one, which? And why?

WOMEN AS POLICE

A world survey of conditions with respect to the welfare of women and children made under the auspices of the League of Nations discloses that in 18 countries women are employed to a greater or less extent as police.

The largest number are employed in the United States, with Great Britain and Argentina following. Satisfactorily over the results obtain through the work of policewomen is expressed by all countries reporting, except South Africa, where women police formerly used in Cape Town have been discontinued.

Not all the countries which include women on the police roster use them for making arrests, however, as a great many are detailed to duty only as matrons or for investigation work.

The employment of women in this and other branches of public service appears to be steadily increasing, and the spread of the idea, particularly in countries in which women have the ballot, is an indication that in time very few human activities will be closed to them.

Some business enterprises are over-equipped for business they never get and others are under-equipped for business that they lose.

'WAY BACK WHEN

by Jeanne

SINGER WAS A BISCUIT PACKER

USUALLY we are inclined to give too much credit to chance or luck in analyzing the success of prominent people, forgetting that without the talent to take advantage of an unexpected opportunity they could not have risen. Helen Morgan's sudden rise to fame is an example.

Born in Danville, Illinois, her father died when she was very young, leaving Helen Morgan and her mother practically penniless. When she was five years old, paint thrown by another child partially blinded her, and she had to spend a full year in a dark room. She sang to herself to pass the long dark hours and later she sang in a church choir in Chicago. There, she worked at a manicurist, a waitress, a comptometer operator, and a model. She was a ribbon clerk at Marshall Field's department store and a biscuit packer for the National Biscuit Company.

None of her jobs lasted long, for her eyes were always on the stage. She sang occasionally in cabarets and finally got a job through Ziegfeld in the chorus of "Sally." Dissatisfied, she quit, and Billy Rose hired her to sing in his Backstage club.

That was Helen Morgan's lucky chance. The Backstage club was so small that she was forced to sit on the piano! Most of us would consider it a disadvantage, and perhaps she did, too. But the public was interested; she became a sensation, and speedily rose to fame. Musical comedies and motion pictures starred her, and soon she was singing in a night club named for her, at a salary of $1,500 per week. Today she is known the world over, and wherever she appears, sings sitting on the piano.

Perhaps, if Helen Morgan had not had to sit on the piano in the Backstage club, she would never have risen to stardom. Perhaps, she would have sung comparatively unknown for a couple of years, and gone back to manicuring or biscuit packing. But, remember, she had something worth delivering when she sat on that piano.

ton was ginned by the Haskell Electric Gin and weighed 423 pounds. The cotton was graded as strict middling and was bought by R. C. Montgomery, president of the Farmers State Bank, for 21c per pound. Local business men made up a premium of $1.50, making a total of $141.38. Mr. Hutto received for the bale.

Rochester's first bale of cotton was also received on Monday, and Tuesday the first bale was ginned at Weinert.

Earl Cogdell of Granbury, owner of the Western Cotton Oil Mill in this city, has been here for the past two weeks supervising the overhauling and repairing of the mill preparatory to this year's run.

S. S. Kouri returned the first of the week from Wichita Falls, where he has been for the past week completing arrangements for a rotary drilling rig to be used in finishing the Commonwealth Company's test for oil east of town.

Twenty-eight new automobiles were registered in Haskell county during the month of July, 1927.

J. E. Grissom and family, Virgil Hudson and family, and R. J. Reynolds and family have returned from a five-weeks vacation trip through eleven states and Old Mexico.

About sixteen strike-breakers are at the Wichita Valley and Katy shops in Stamford, according to authentic reports. The men are being guarded by several United States Marshals and one or two state rangers. They are being furnished meals and lodging at the shops, and remain on the company's property when off duty.

Sinclair Oil Co.

Is Low Bidder On '38 State Contract

The Sinclair Refining company was low bidder on contracts to supply the state with gasoline, lubricating oil and grease for the next year.

On 337,910 pounds of grease and 241,645 gallons of oil, its bid was $84,190. Gasoline bids were as follows:

Second and third grade, 5,494,770 gallons, bulk delivery, seven-tenths cent below the posted tank wagon price.

Retail delivery, 237,292 gallons first grade and 402,644 gallons second grade, four cents; 4,501 gallons third grade, three cents.

The company bid one cent a gallon on 253,275 gallons of kerosene for bulk delivery.

The state board of control deferred award of the contract, possibly until tomorrow.

Why Lincoln Grew Beard Is Explained

An eleven year old girl promoted Mr. Lincoln's beard in the midst of the 1860 presidential campaign and proof of her success along this ultra-modern line of endeavor may be seen by any visitor to Washington, D. C. The little girl was Grace Bedell, whose home was Westfield, Chautauque county, New York. The episode was brought to the attention of the writers who are preparing articles on the capital for the American Guide, the Government's forthcoming travel handbook.

In 1860 Mr. Lincoln was clean-shaven and more than a trifle gaunt. None of his masculine supporters guessed that his regular emaciated appearance would have any effect on the voters—all male in those days—but the ladies had a better understanding of popular psychology. Probably after having heard a great deal of talk on the subject at the sewing circles and elsewhere in her village, Miss Bedell wrote Mr. Lincoln on October 15, 1860, the following letter:

"Dear Sir: My father has just come home from the fair and brought your picture and Mr. Ham's. I am a little girl only eleven years old, but want you should be President of the United States very much so I hope you won't think me very bad to write to such a great man as you are. Have you any little girl about as large as I am? If so give them my love and tell her to write to me if you cannot answer this letter. I have got four brothers and part of them will vote for you anyway and if you will let your whiskers grow I will try and get the rest of them to vote for you. You would look a great deal better for your face to be so thin. All the ladies tease their husbands to vote for you and then you would be President. My father is going to vote for you and if I was a man I would vote for you too but I will try and get everyone to vote for you that I can. I think that rail fence around your picture makes it look very pretty. I have got a little baby sister, she is nine weeks old and is just a cunning as can be. When you answer, address your letter direct to Grace Bedell, Westfield, Chautauque county, N. Y.

"I must not write any more answer this letter right off. Good-by, Grace Bedell."

Mr. Lincoln saw the point and started immediately to raise a crop of whiskers, though he felt rather amused of himself for doing it, as is indicated in the reply he sent his youthful girl advisor on October 19.

"My dear little Miss: Your very agreeable letter of the 15th is received.

"I regret the necessity of saying I cannot answer you more than one time, and that seven years of age. They, with their mother, constitute my whole family.

"As to the whiskers, having never worn any, do you not think people would call it a piece of silly affectation if I were to begin now? Your very sincere well-wisher, A. Lincoln."

These letters are now on display in a little cabinet at the Lincoln Museum.

Straining to make an ugly face at his little sister to frighten her, young Curtis Terrell of California threw his neck out of joint.

U. S. Cotton Is Threatened By New Weevil

Federal entomologists have started an eradication campaign to rid the Southeast cotton area of the United States of a new weevil that may become serious in a few seasons unless checked immediately. Infestation is now centered in only thirty-five square miles of Alabama and Florida, but the government, fearing rapid spread, has allotted part of the $1,000,000 set aside for plant pest control for research on this weevil.

It was identified last summer as napausquet leucoloma, a native of Argentina, Chile and Uruguay, and has also been reported from Australia. Since its establishment in this area it has seriously attacked fields of peanuts, cotton, corn, velvet beans, Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes, and has been found devouring cabbage, collards, tomatoes and other garden crops.

Most of its damage is in the larval stage, entomologists declare. As a small grub in the soil, it feeds extensively on the roots of plants. Adult beetles cannot fly. They come out in tremendous numbers from the ground in the fall on the foliage of one plant before they deposit their eggs in some fields of cotton replanted three times out getting a satisfactory ton field area of fields where weevils have been almost exterminated by numerous means.

Do You Remember... these happenings of 10 and 15 years ago? (Taken From the Files of the Haskell Free Press) August 18, 1927. The 1927 Tax Levy for the county was made Saturday by the Commissioners' Court, the general levy for the county being set at 64c, based on an assessed valuation of property of $9,800,000 made by Tax Assessor Mike B. Watson. The City Council last week purchased an Austin Motor Grader, to be used in grading and maintaining city streets. Wayne Perry has been employed by the city as street maintenance supervisor. The postoffice at Elbert in Throckmorton county, was burglarized sometime Monday night, presumably right after a hard rain which had fallen in that vicinity early in the night. A typewriter, several packages of mail and three or four dollars worth of stamps were reported missing. Houston Griggs, age 21, of Stamford and a member of that city's company of the National Guard, died in a Houston hospital Wednesday morning from injuries received in a fall from the troop train on which the guardsmen were en route to the encampment at Palacios last Saturday. Raleigh Lemmon and Oscar Oates returned last week from a six-weeks vacation which was spent in a motor trip through the Northwest, California and Old Mexico. The marriage of one of Haskell's most popular school teachers, Miss Douglas Surratt of Albany and one of Haskell's popular young business men, Mr. John V. Davis, was solemnized in the home of the bride's parents in Albany Monday morning, August 8th at six o'clock. Haskell's first bale of cotton from the 1927 crop arrived in town Monday afternoon and was ginned by the Farmers Gin Company. The bale was brought in by O. H. Andrews, farmer living about five miles south of town on the C. D. Grissom farm. The bale weighed 423 pounds and was sold to Seigel & Hizzell of this city, who paid 18c per pound for the staple, a total of $73.15. Business firms will raise a premium for the bale. August 18, 1922. The first bale of cotton of the season was ginned in Haskell Monday, when G. W. Hutto, a farmer living in the Sayles community southwest of town brought in a bale of this year's cotton. The cot-

Southern Farmer Has Good Feed In Cottonseed Hulls

In cottonseed hulls, grown on their own farms, Southern farmers have an excellent roughage for dairy and beef cattle, horses and mules, experiment station tests and the experience of practical feeders show. The fact that hulls are free from dirt and trash makes them attractive to feeders.

A simple mixture gaining popularity with many Southern livestock feeders is one of hulls and molasses. Two parts of molasses and one part of warm water are being kept in a sprinkler can for sprinkling over the highly absorbent hulls at feeding time for work stock and dairy and beef cattle.

Compare Well With Hay

Both in analysis and in actual feeding, cottonseed hulls compare well with such choice hays as alfalfa and Johnson grass. Morrison's standard text on feed and feeding gives the digestible nutrients in 100 pounds of alfalfa hay as 50.3 pounds, compared with 43.7 pounds, total digestible nutrients in cottonseed hulls, 50.3 pounds in Johnson grass hay, and 43.0 pounds in bermuda grass hay. In feed lot trials, hulls have been found to have a feeding value far in excess of laboratory analysis.

In Mississippi experiment station tests to compare various roughages in the rations of steers, 100 pounds of hulls were equal in feeding value to 99.88 pounds of Johnson grass hay, Mississippi Press Bulletin No. 859 shows. Bulletin No. 278 gives average figures for a three-year period, showing 100 pounds of hulls equal in feeding value to 139 pounds of corn silage, 272 pounds of sorghum silage, or 249 pounds of sragrain silage.

Reduce Feed Costs

Small amounts of cottonseed hulls, added to a cottonseed meal-sorghum silage-hay ration, saved feed and made use of hulls very profitable in a 1930-31 steer feeding test in Mississippi. In this test, $1.63 worth of other feeds was saved by $1.41 worth of hulls; 313 pounds of hulls saved 14 pounds of cottonseed meal, 988 pounds of sorghum silage and 8 pounds of Johnson grass hay for each 100 pounds gain in live weight, when 1 part of hulls was fed with 9 parts of sorghum silage. In addition, less labor is required to feed 300 pounds of hulls than to handle 1000 pounds of silage.

Louisiana agricultural experiment station found that hulls, supplemented with calcium, green feed and protein, were superior to a mixture of carpet grass and bermuda grass hay, and almost equal to high quality bermuda grass, as a roughage for dairy cattle.

In three Oklahoma experiments, cottonseed hulls, fed with cottonseed meal and ground limestone to steers, proved equal to prairie hay in rate of gain produced and value per ton. Fed this way, the hulls produced as rapid gains as did alfalfa hay.

Improve Dairy Mixtures

Light and bulky, hulls are especially valuable for mixing with concentrates in the daily ration. "Feeds and Feeding" comments: "When bulky concentrates, such as oats and wheat bran, are not available or are high in price, cottonseed hulls may be useful to increase the bulkiness of a mixture of heavy concentrates." The late Dr. C. H. Eckles, one of our greatest dairy authorities, said: "There is a decided advantage, especially to high producing cows, in the concentrate mixture being of a light character. A mixture of this kind remains porous when moistened and is easily penetrated by the digestive juices."

Hulls or hull bran appeal to the mixed feed manufacturer for use in dairy feed mixtures.

Buchanan Dam To Inundate Archaeological Field; Rush Work to Salvage Specimens

At the mouth of Falls Creek, some twenty miles above Buchanan Dam on the Colorado river, was found one of the most productive sites for archaeological excavations in Texas. Here J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology at the University of Texas and supervisor of a Works Progress Administration project for anthropological research, has secured thousands of specimens—flint and bone implements, bones and animals, and skeletons of humans—and the work is still going forward.

When a $9,000 WPA grant became available, together with local funds, last January, Professor Pearce began a project of exploration of all Indian campsites located above Austin in the lake beds. The eventual inundation of the lake beds, resulting from the construction of dams on the Colorado will mean the loss of a wealth of archaeological materials unless it is excavated at once, he said. A survey of the territory by A. T. Jackson, University field foreman in archaeology, located fifty important sites on the west side of the Colorado above Buchanan Dam. Of these, a five-acre tract at the mouth of Falls Creek was selected for excavations first, and so production has it been that Professor Pearce does not plan to abandon it for several weeks.

A beautiful stratification is found at Falls Creek, Professor Pearce stated. Specimens are located in the order of age with the oldest at the bottom.

The mouth of Falls Creek was an excellent campsite for man for centuries, Professor Pearce explained. The creek rises on the west side of the river, approaches the larger stream from a high plateau of hard limestone, and then plunges 104 feet forming, he declared, the most beautiful waterfall in Texas. The river was navigable for the canoes of the Indians, and the clear water from the falls assured drinking water the year around: Silt deposits by the river formed a high terrace on the side nearest the creek, and the plateau protected the Indians from the winter winds. A hardy growth will be allowed the children who attend the Exposition.

Much that is new and educational is offered this year. Included is the Cavalcade of the Americas, greatly enlarged, presenting the romantic history of the Americas without charge. The Pan American Casino, largest indoor stage in the world, will offer entertaining programs. In the $1,200,000 Texas Hall of State, in addition to the romance of Texas, is presented an exhibit from Tulane University of Mid-American history. The Federal building has added numerous new features as has the Hall of Texas History, all these being free attractions. The football season will be in full blast. Students may spend two days at a very nominal expense and witness the only international Exposition of the year.

of mountain cedar, live oak, and evergreen shrubs provided an abundance of small game, which could be easily killed with bow and arrow in the thick brush. Fish and mussels from the rivers could also be used for food.

The camp debris of the Indians is being uncovered today in order to reconstruct the Indian life in Central Texas. Labor for the excavation of campsites is provided through the WPA and must be from the relief rolls. Professor Pearce has made use of Mexicans and works the men in relays. Since only half-time work is allowed, two squads of fifteen men each work alternate periods of two weeks.

When the material collected has been cleaned and catalogued, Professors Pearce will write a report on his findings to be published by the University of Texas. The specimens will be the property of the University, but many of them will be used for exchange with anthropological societies throughout the world. The Australian Anthropological Association has already requested an exchange of specimens. The collection of Australian publications and artifacts which now are the property of the Anthropology Museum of the University of Texas are the gift of this association, sent here after Professor Pearce, upon request, provided members of the association with copies of his book, "Tales That Dead Men Tell."

Mrs. Tom French and children of Dallas and Miss Maybelle Taylor who has been away the past six weeks visiting in Dallas, Pittsburg, Pa., Louisville, Ky. and other places arrived in Haskell the latter part of last week to be in the home of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Taylor.

HOT WEATHER BLOW-OUT WARNING

RIDE ON SILVERTOWNS—THE ONLY TIRES IN THE WORLD WITH GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION

Right now you are going into the toughest season of the year for tires! There's more wear and tear chalked up against tires in the short summer months than at any other time of year. Because when you're speeding along at 40-50-60, the heat generated inside tires is terrific. And unless your tires are protected against this internal heat, you may be headed for a blow-out.

Play safe this summer. Let us equip your car with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns. Remember, Silvertowns are the only tires in the world that give you the protection of the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This amazing invention is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific heat generated inside all tires at today's high speeds. See us today. And don't let these life-saving, long-lasting tires actually cost much less than super quality tires.
