Yorkshire Ripper...he may be in custody

Yorkshire Ripper

Police charge truck driver in killing of woman allegedly slain during reign of terror

LEEDS, England (AP) — As a crowd howled and screamed, a 35-year-old truck driver was charged in court today with the murder of one of the 13 women allegedly slain over the past five years by the so-called Yorkshire Ripper.

Peter William Sutcliffe was charged with the murder last Nov. 17 of 20-year-old college student Jacqueline Hill. He was ordered held without bail until Jan. 14.

Police previously described Miss Hill as the 13th and latest victim in a reign of terror in northern England's Yorkshire and Lancashire counties.

A crowd of more than 1,000 people besieged the magistrates' court in the town hall of Dewsbury, a mill town near Leeds where the Ripper killed five women.

The crowd screamed abuse as Sutcliffe, a married man from nearby Bradford, was brought to the court under heavy police escort.

Men, women and children shouted "you bastard" and "kill the bastard" as police held the mob back.

Police earlier indicated Sutcliffe was the Ripper but that their questioning of him "had not developed as quickly as we had anticipated."

Liaison officer Supt. Frank Morrill told reporters earlier that Sutcliffe's "facial features will form part of the prosecution's case." Police have said a bite mark on the body of one of the Ripper's victims indicated the murderer had a gap in his front teeth.

Sutcliffe's employers at the Bradford trucking firm, Clark Holdings Ltd., said police had questioned Sutcliffe "two or three times" in 1977.

Company chairman Tom Clark described him as a "funny chap, very sensitive and if I had to say something sharp to him would break into tears."

Managing director William Clark said, "When police came to the firm, Peter showed no emotion and was quite cool."

Sunday, West Yorkshire's Chief Constable Donald Gregory said he and his men were "absolutely delighted, totally delighted with the developments at this stage." The police also said they were "scaling down" the Ripper investigation, the biggest manhunt in British history.

A police spokesman said Sutcliffe's wife, Sonia, was being questioned, and the police were guarding their four-bedroom home in Bradford, a West Yorkshire city where three of the Ripper's victims died.

Neighbors said Sutcliffe was a quiet, handsome man who they believed worked as a long-distance truck driver. They said his brunette wife taught art part-time, and they had no children.

"He was a very, very quiet man who went about his business," said one neighbor, David Bowman. "I just said, 'Hello, Peter,' now and again when I saw him. He was very quiet, you could say mysterious."

"He often worked late into the night in his garage on his car and sometimes a friend came to help him."

"He kept himself to himself but was not distant. He and his wife didn't appear lovey-dovey but there was no impression of any strain between them."

"They kept their home 'beautifully,'" one neighbor said. Police Sgt. Robert Ring and Constable Robert Hydes told a news conference Sunday they arrested the man late Friday night in the red light district of Sheffield, a Yorkshire town close to the six cities in which the Ripper killed. Although he never killed in Sheffield, many of his victims were prostitutes.

The two police officers said that during a routine check they found suspicious license plates on a parked Rover automobile. They said after a computer check of the car's registration, they arrested the driver on suspicion of theft of the plates.

"It was just a spot check on a car parked in a certain area where prostitutes take clients," said Ring.

Gregory said the man did not resist arrest. He said a woman with him at the time "is helping with inquiries, but has not been arrested."

Iranians move three of U.S. hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Iranian government says it is studying President Carter's final offer for the release of the U.S. hostages, has transferred the three Americans held at the Foreign Ministry to a new location and has taken full control of the other 49 captives from the Islamic militants who seized them 14 months ago.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai's spokesman, Ahmad Azizi, told The Associated Press Sunday that the "U.S. response is being studied" and Iran's reply would be "announced later."

Azizi said U.S. Charge d'Affaires Bruce Laingen, political officer Victor Tomseth and security man

Michael Howland had been moved from the Foreign Ministry in Tehran to "a more appropriate place of residence," the official Iranian news agency Pars reported. Contacted by telephone from Beirut, he told the AP this was done for reasons of "convenience."

"It was decided from the beginning that when the hostages were delivered to the government, the three at the ministry would also be taken by the government," Azizi said.

"The other 49 hostages are now in the hands of the government," he reported, indicating for the first time that the militants who seized the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4, 1979, had surrendered control of the captives as they promised to do last November when Iran's Parliament set conditions for the Americans' release.

Laingen, Tomseth and Howland were at the Foreign Ministry when the militants took over the embassy and had been kept there ever since. Azizi refused to say where any of the Americans were being held now or whether all of them were together.

After the abortive attempt to rescue the hostages last April, the militants said they had transferred their 49 prisoners to other cities. But there was speculation in Washington that they never left the embassy.

The head of Iran's hostage negotiating team, Behzad Navabi, said on Dec. 21 the hostages had been transferred recently to "very beautiful hotels provided with complete services." The other 49 hostages were reported reunited for Christmas services, but it was not known if they remained together afterwards.

U.S. officials in Washington said they had no confirmation of Azizi's report that the government had taken control of the hostages.

GOLDEN FLEECE

Feds ask employees how they like their jobs — twice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire said Saturday he is giving his "Golden Fleece" award for January to two agencies that spent $126,729 asking federal employees how they like their jobs.

Proxmire, a Wisconsin Democrat, said in a statement that the Office of Personnel Management and the Merit Systems Protection Board sent similar job-attitude surveys to 19,782 high-level federal employees last November. Not every worker involved received both forms, however, he said.

"The thought of one agency spending taxpayer money to find out if public employees who earn an average of $41,000 a year like their jobs is bad enough," Proxmire said. "To have two agencies sending out surveys on that topic is utterly ridiculous."

"This is the classic case of the right hand not knowing what the left hand is doing," he added. "This only deserves the back of the hand from the taxpayers."

Robert Woodrum, a spokesman for the Office of Personnel Management, said he had not seen the Proxmire statement "but from what we know we've determined we're not going to comment on it."

No spokesman for the Merit Systems Protection Board was immediately available for comment.

Proxmire presents his "Golden Fleece" to what he considers the biggest or most ridiculous example of government spending and waste.

...U.S. puzzled, concerned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration says it is puzzled and concerned by the announcement that the Iranian government has moved three Americans held separately for 14 months and has taken charge of all 52 hostages.

The State Department was taken by surprise by Sunday's developments and could not confirm them, officials said.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said Algerian diplomats in Tehran have been asked to check out the report while they await a response to last week's U.S. proposal for a negotiated settlement to the 14-month hostage stalemate.

"We have no reason to doubt it, but then again we have no basis for confirmation," one official said.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, interviewed Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation," said the administration had no indication why the three hostages held at the Foreign Ministry in Tehran were moved.

"We are not in a position at this point to make a judgment about either the purposes or the reasons for or the circumstances of their new situation," Powell said. "We are engaged in a very active manner in attempt to learn as much as we can about both things."

He added, however, "The matter does cause us some concern inasmuch as the three hostages ... in the Foreign Ministry had been under somewhat more favorable conditions, both in terms of communication with them and in terms of the amenities which they enjoyed during the time that they were held, as compared to the other Americans there."

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Bruce Laingen, political officer Victor Tomseth and security man Michael Howland were at the Foreign Ministry when the U.S. Embassy was taken over by Islamic militants Nov. 4, 1979. They had been kept there for the past 14 months.

Ahmad Azizi, a member of Iran's hostage negotiation team and spokesman for Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, told The Associated Press the Americans at the Foreign Ministry were moved for "convenience" after the government took control of the hostages from the militants.

"It was decided from the beginning that when the hostages were delivered to the government, the three at the ministry would also be taken by the government," Azizi said. "The other 49 hostages are now in the hands of the government."

The announcement stirred speculation that the government was assembling the hostages either to release them or try them as spies, something Iranian officials have threatened to do if the United States failed to meet Iran's demands.

Powell said the administration wants more information "before characterizing" the move.

Famed tax reformer coming

Howard Jarvis, sponsor of the successful Proposition 13 tax reduction measure in California, will be in Midland Wednesday for a public hearing and private reception.

A press conference will be held at 4 p.m. in the Midland Hilton. The public hearing starts at 5:30 p.m. in Midland Center and the public is urged to attend.

The private reception begins at 6:30 p.m. and will be in the Midland Hilton.

Deane Stoltz, who has helped to organize the event, said Jarvis is trying to educate the taxpayer. The Midland visit is being sponsored by Texas 13 and about 50 local persons are sponsoring the event.

"This is a nationwide education of taxpayers for a need of controlling and limiting excessive taxation," said Stoltz.

Texas 13 is the Texas version of the California tax awareness program. Unlike California which had the Proposition 13 on its ballot to cut taxes, Texas 13 is a broad program for educating the voters.

For the past several years, Jarvis has traveled throughout the United States in an effort to alert the American taxpayer to the "grave threat to his way of life," according to Stoltz.

Waggoner Carr will chair the state Texas 13 program. Jarvis' visit to Midland is part of an 18-city tour of Texas which starts Tuesday. The tour will include stops in El Paso, Lubbock, Odessa, Abilene, Fort Worth, Tyler, Waco, Dallas, Lufkin, Beaumont, Galveston, Houston, Victoria, McAllen, Harlingen, San Antonio and a statewide tax relief rally in Austin Jan. 12.

Reagan to go into Mexico today

He hopes to show U.S. friendship for neighbor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan's visit to Mexico today, a rare preinaugural journey across the U.S. border, is intended to be long on symbolism of friendship and short on specifics of discord between the two countries.

The main purpose, said Reagan aide Edwin Meese III, is to portray the importance of the new administration attaches to U.S.-Mexican tie after four years of less-than-smooth relations.

Meese said there was no specific topic for Reagan's meeting with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo at the Museum of Art and History in Ciudad Juarez, on the U.S.-Mexican border near El Paso, Texas.

Reagan and Lopez Portillo planned to meet on the Cordova International Bridge, which spans the Rio Grande, and then begin private talks, followed by lunch in Ciudad Juarez.

The president-elect left Los Angeles International Airport shortly before noon EST for the 90-minute flight to El Paso.

After the meetings, Reagan is flying to Washington for his first meeting with his Cabinet nominees. He returns to Los Angeles on Thursday.

Reagan, whose eight years as governor of California placed him in a unique position to keep tabs on the U.S. relationship with Mexico, said Friday he was going to Ciudad Juarez "to express our desire for a complete friendship."

Preinaugural foreign travel by a president-elect is highly unusual, and Meese said Reagan's trip indicates his view that Mexico is "a true partner."

"He's not going down there with a list of demands or a list of proposals, but rather, to talk over on a mutual basis with the president of Mexico, Lopez Portillo, how we can best carry on our relationships in an effective way as partners," Meese said.

Nevertheless, there is no shortage of issues on which Reagan and Lopez Portillo could focus:

—Mexico, although concerned about outside interference in El Salvador, to its south, has been sympathetic to the Marxist-led opposition there. Reagan's transition team has spoken harshly about the left-wing guerrillas and about the Carter administration's policies in El Salvador. Seven Americans have been killed in El Salvador in the last month, including two agricultural advisers shot in a San Salvador hotel restaurant Saturday night.

—Mexico is supplying the United States with about 700,000 barrels of oil a day — 80 percent of the export of the nationalized Mexican oil industry. Although the product is sold at world market prices, there is sensitivity in Mexico that the United States is taking advantage of its southern neighbor.

—With the great disparity in Mexican and U.S. personal incomes — it is the greatest between any two neighboring nations, according to Robert Krueger, the chief State Department official concerned directly with U.S.-Mexican relations — the flow of immigrants entering the United States illegally from Mexico has not been stopped.

Woman, five children slain in Iowa; Husband apparently a suicide victim

DELMAR, Iowa (AP) — When police went to notify Bonnie Gilbert that her husband had apparently committed suicide, they found the 34-year-old woman and her five children shot to death in the family home.

Ballistics tests will be conducted on a gun found at the site of the apparent suicide to determine whether there was any connection between the slayings, authorities said.

Clinton County Sheriff Michael Galusha said Mrs. Gilbert and her children were found in their upstairs bedrooms Saturday night after authorities made several unsuccessful attempts to contact them.

The bizarre chain of events began Saturday in Yale, S.D., when police there said Gene Gilbert, 28, committed suicide. Police went to the Gilberts' rented home in this eastern Iowa town of 600 residents and found the bodies of Mrs. Gilbert; Dawn Roling, 13; Michelle Roling, 11; Jason Roling, 9; Gene Gilbert Jr., 2; Rachelle Gilbert, 1.

The three older children were Mrs. Gilbert's by a previous marriage.

The body of Gilbert, an unemployed construction worker, was found in the home of his father, Guy Gilbert, according to Beadle County Sheriff Mel Scheibe. Yale is about 450 miles from Delmar.

Near the body, Scheibe said, was a note containing "personal material." It was not clear whether the note mentioned the Iowa incident.

Neighbors in Delmar said they didn't know much about the Gilberts.

Delmar authorities roped off the white, wood-frame, two-story house where the bodies were found. They refused to elaborate on what they found at the house, but Clinton County Medical Examiner Salvador Borja said all six victims were found lying on beds on the second floor of the house. Each was shot at least once in the head, the medical examiner said.

Extended forecasts

West Texas: Partly cloudy with an important temperature change Wednesday through Friday. Highs in the 40s and 50s and lows in the 20s and 30s.

North Texas: Partly cloudy Wednesday through Friday. Highs in the 40s and 50s and lows in the 20s and 30s.

Clouds won't bring any rain

Despite the overcast skies and smell of rain in the air, Midland has no chance of precipitation, according to the weatherman.

Skies should be clearing to partly cloudy tonight and remain that way through Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Nor is there to be much temperature change.

The thermometer should register a reading in the low 30s tonight and rise into the middle 50s on Tuesday, said the weatherman. Winds should change from southerly to northerly tonight and blow at 10 to 15 mph.

High on Sunday was a mild 35 degrees, still colder than the record balmy 70 degrees set on that date in 1948. Today's low reading was 35 degrees, a hot night compared to the record low of 2 degrees set on this date in 1971.

No precipitation has been recorded this year. 1960 ended with 17.76 inches.

Town may lose its gas

DAISETTA, Texas (AP) — Residents of this tiny Southeast Texas town have won one battle — a leaky natural gas service has been fixed — but are now faced with having the service turned off, despite their repair efforts.

"We may lose next Friday (at the court hearing)," said Mayor Harold McCann Sunday night after exhausted workers finished patching the city-owned natural gas line.

"If we lose, we've got a lot of poor people that are in a sad situation. A lot of people on welfare can't afford to switch to propane."

The city won a temporary reprieve Saturday when a state district judge delayed a Railroad Commission order that would have shut down natural gas service in this town of 1,100.

But McCann says back-breaking efforts by city council members and volunteer workers — who manned tractors and dug ditches for six straight days to restore the service — may be for naught if a judge upholds the RRC ruling at a hearing this Friday.

The city's problems started last Friday when RRC officials called an emergency meeting and ordered the system shut down because of leaks.

McCann said service to 12 homes had been halted and another 200 homes were experiencing "pressure difficulties."

"The line is on test and holding," McCann said Sunday after volunteers worked into the night hours to restore the system. RRC officials said a two-hour pressure test would be needed before the gas could be turned on.

"We didn't have the kind of equipment, but an oil company sent a man out with gauges and logs and he got right on it. We've had tremendous response from our community."

He said the city applied two months ago to the Farmer's Home Administration for a loan to repair the system, but that no word has been received about the status of the loan.

"I will call the FHA in the morning (Monday) to see what the status of that loan application is," he said.

He added that other avenues of financing are open to the city, but that the length of time involved might force people in the city to switch over to propane or electricity before the lines could be repaired.

He said the RRC was asking the city to patch the old, trouble-plagued line to "up-to-date RRC standards."

District Judge Pat Baskin jokes with W H "Bill" Collins and other well-wishers, above, after installation ceremonies for the 238th district court today, while Midland County Attorney Robert Rendall, right, solemnly swears as County Judge Bill Abders administers the oath of office to him. ## House not related to deaths

ATLANTA (AP) — Police have found no connection between an abandoned house where Bibles and strange paintings were nailed to walls and the deaths or disappearances of 15 Atlanta children, says Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown.

The house, which had a strong, foul smell, was pointed out to searchers who were combing southwest Atlanta Saturday for clues about the missing or dead children.

Volunteer search captain Katherine Whetstone described the house as smelling "like decaying flesh." It also had several Bibles and "strange paintings" nailed to the walls inside. Shovels, an ax and a hatchet were strewn around the floors.

But so far, there is "nothing to suggest that there is any relationship between that and our ongoing investigation" into the child cases, Brown said in an interview. "If there is evidence uncovered that relates to our investigation, we're not going to talk about it publicly."

"To even imply that there is a relationship is incorrect at this point," he said.

David Westbrook, owner of the house, said he rented out the structure, but did not know where the tenants were. He said they had left their possessions behind.

Billy Bob's plans to outdo Gilley's

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Move over Gilley's, here comes Billy Bob's Texas, a cowboy club that is not only bigger, but boasts live bull riding as well.

"We're not interested in publicity about a place that's trying to outshine Gilley's," says Spencer Taylor, a Fort Worth night club owner who is one of the partners in Billy Bob's Texas.

And while Taylor claims there's no effort being made to replace Gilley's under the "world's largest nightclub" section in the Guinness Book of Records, the new cowboy club will be huge — even by Texas standards.

First, Taylor says, there will be a rodeo arena in the middle of the 127,000 square-foot club that will feature live bull riding, not the mechanical moo cow that John Travolta rode to fame in "The Urban Cowboy."

Only certified professional cowboys will be able to ride the bulls, and that suits Taylor just fine, who says the monster club will cater to "real" cowboys, not their urban counterparts.

Surrounding the ring will be bleachers that seat 500 people. Taylor says that 40 bar stations will be placed throughout the club, which can hold up to 6,000 people on a busy night.

"I started dreaming about doing this two years ago," says Taylor, who already operates several successful Fort Worth night clubs.

He thinks that bulls have become the centerpiece of the country western craze, but knows that mechanical bulls — especially the type featured at Gilley's — are no big deal anymore.

So he thought live bulls would be better, and then topped the idea off with a huge, life-sized mirrored bull that will twirl slowly over the 30,000 square-foot dance floor.

Plans also call for a "VIP" membership, available to members who pay a $300 a year fee. VIP members will be entitled to enter a "club within a club," according to Taylor, and will be able to lounge in a "quieter, more relaxed and fancier" area inside the club.

While Taylor is the most visible of the partners responsible for creating Billy Bob's Texas, he says all the backers are concerned that the western dance palace be authentic.

"It's just like Billy Bob," Taylor says, talking about the club's namesake, a 6-foot, 5-inch, 270-pound Fort Worth cowboy who has done everything from herding cattle to playing professional football.

His father brought him to this area to watch Willie (Nelison), who used to play here. Bob Wills played here. You have to sit down here and get the feel of it, and do it right."

Six injured in Sunday accidents

Five people injured in traffic accidents in Midland County Sunday evening remained in Midland Memorial Hospital this morning being treated for the injuries they sustained.

Injured in a two-vehicle mishap shortly after 6 p.m. at the intersection of Fairgrounds Road and U.S. 80 were Charlie Awbrey, Treza Awbrey, Jennie Hendrickson, Pauline Dean and Florence Allega.

Tony Fussell, who was injured in another accident at 5:35 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of County Road 1162 and County Road 80, is in satisfactory condition at Midland Memorial Hospital.

In the five-injury accident, all the persons involved were hurt when an automobile driven by Awbrey, 58, of 3402 Sycamore, was involved in a collision with a car driven by Ms. Hendrickson, 77, of 2800 W. Illinois

Ave. Awbrey was treated and released from Midland Memorial, but a passenger in his vehicle, Treza Awbrey, 33, of the same address remains at Midland Memorial in fair condition. She is being treated for multiple trauma injuries.

Ms. Hendrickson is in serious condition in the post critical care unit. She reportedly sustained a broken arm, broken wrist and lacerations to her left eye in the collision.

Passengers in her vehicle also were critically injured. Ms. Dean, 75, of Lovington, N.M., is in critical condition in the critical care unit suffering from a head injury and Ms. Allega, 76, of 2900 W. Illinois Ave. also is in critical condition in the critical care unit being treated for multiple trauma.

The accident was investigated by DPS trooper Ken Pittman.

Tony Fussell, 12, of 201 Shanks St. was injured when the motorcycle he was riding was involved in a collision with a pickup driven by Oren Lewis Jones of Midland at the intersection of County Road 1162 and County Road 80.

He is being treated at Midland Memorial for multiple trauma injuries.

The accident occurred as Jones was driving his pickup west on County Road 80 and the Fussell youth was riding his motorcycle north on County Road 1162.

It was investigated by DPS trooper

Jim Swain.

Also this morning, Midland police continued to look into the reported burglary of Jim Garrett's residence, Apartment 510 at 4400 Andrews Highway. Garrett told police that burglars took diamonds valued at $500, a coin collection valued at $300 and a ring valued at $15 in the break-in.

Emergency calls kept firemen and ambulance attendants busy Sunday and early today.

Firemen used only five gallons of water shortly after 3 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a car fire at the intersection of Garfield Street and Louisiana Avenue. According to fire department reports, the vehicle, owned by David Summers, address unknown, sustained slight damage under the hood.

Probable cause of the blaze was listed as a broken hydraulic line.

Temperatures plunge across United States

By The Associated Press

Football players bounced off the frozen turf in Cleveland, citrus growers in Florida fretted for their oranges and 6,974 New Yorkers complained about cold apartments as arctic air sent temperatures diving in the Midwest, Northeast and South-east.

Car batteries died and fuel lines froze, and the American Automobile Association predicted it would be swamped with plaintive calls today as workers tried to drive work today after the long New Year's weekend.

Temperatures fell as far as 42 degrees below zero Sunday — in Old Forge, N.Y., in the Adirondack Mountains — and this morning it was 4 below zero in Boston, 1 below in Pittsburgh and just 11 above in Raleigh, N.C.

At least one death, that of an unidentified man found on a Philadelphia street, was attributed to the deep freeze.

In Cleveland, about 270 patients were evacuated from a hospital when a boiler blew up, knocking out the heat while the temperature outside dove below zero.

"We just totally destroyed the record," said National Weather Service meteorologist Dean Gulezian of the conditions in Houlton, Maine, where the mercury slid to 41 below Sunday.

The icy storm system swept into the Northeast Saturday from Canada, spreading snow squalls from the Great Lakes and Upper Ohio Valley into western New York. Sunday's frigid blasts were the icing on the cake.

While health officials from Minnesota to Maine warned of the dangers of frostbite, motorists seemed to take the brunt of the weekend's cold wave. Many local chapters of the AAA reported being inundated with calls from motorists whose cars wouldn't start.

In New York City, where the low was 5 degrees Sunday, the Central Complaint Bureau received 8,074 calls between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. about heating problems in apartments.

A spokesman said it could take up to a week to respond to the complaints because of budget cuts that have left the agency with fewer inspectors.

"A year ago we were able to tell people we would have an inspector there in 48 to 72 hours," said acting hot-line supervisor Alphonso Lee. "Now we just tell them we'll be there as soon as we can."

Citrus growers in north and central Florida were concerned about overnight frost.

New Congress to gather

Hearings on nominees set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Congress with more Republicans and more conservatives is opening shop with plans to give Ronald Reagan a head start on installing his government once he assumes the presidency.

Senate committees scheduled a week of hearings on the president-elect's Cabinet nominations in hopes the Senate can vote on confirmation on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20. Until then, Congress has no legislating to do. The Senate, controlled by Republicans for the first time since

"The most crucial part of the hearings is where (Haig) wants to go ...how he would conduct the office of secretary of state."

1955, and the House, still led by Democrats, scheduled only the swearing-in of members and ceremonial proceedings today. They will meet in joint session Tuesday to count the votes cast by presidential electors and then adjourn until Jan. 19.

The confirmation hearings may give Reagan his first taste of battling with Capitol Hill.

Considerable controversy surrounds the selections of retired Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. for secretary of state and of Colorado lawyer James G. Watt for interior secretary.

Haig, who now heads United Technologies Corp., will be questioned by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his role as White House chief of staff during the closing days of the Nixon administration. Some senators also have questioned the wisdom of having a military man running the State Department.

The Haig hearings are expected to open Friday. White House press secretary Jody Powell said Sunday that President Carter will authorize the National Archives to search for specific presidential tape recordings and documents sought by Senate Democrats for use in the Haig hearings.

But two Republican senators said Sunday Watergate should not play a major role in Haig's confirmation.

"The most crucial part of the hearings is where he wants to go ...how he would conduct the office of secretary of state," said Sen. Charles Mathias of Maryland.

Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, appearing with Mathias on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program, added: "Even if he (Haig) has some problems...it appears to me that he has served with distinction as commander in chief of our NATO alliance...I'm tired of the Watergate syndrome and I think the American people are, too."

The Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee will open hearings Wednesday on Watt. Some environmentalists oppose Watt because he has been in the forefront of a battle to open Western lands for oil and mineral development.

Despite scattered opposition to Haig and Watt, the Senate is expected to confirm both, because presidents traditionally are given wide latitude in selecting a Cabinet. In fact, not since 1959, when the Senate refused to approve Lewis Strauss as commerce secretary, has a Cabinet nominee been rejected.

The Senate Finance Committee will conduct a hearing Tuesday on the nomination of outgoing Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., to head the Department of Health and Human Services. That will be followed by a hearing on Treasury Secretary-designate Donald Regan, chairman of Merrill Lynch & Co. Inc.

Also scheduled Tuesday are confirmation hearings on Malcolm Baldrige, chairman of Scovill Inc., as commerce secretary; John Block, Illinois farm commissioner, as agriculture secretary, and Caspar W. Weinberger, a former secretary of health, education and welfare, as defense secretary.

Hearings will be held Wednesday for Pennsylvania businessman Drew Lewis, nominated for transportation secretary, and New Jersey construction executive Raymond J. Donovan, picked to head the Labor Department.

Senate Republicans, who hold a 53-47 majority, are keeping their leaders, but they are taking on more power with the new GOP control. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee is the new majority leader; Ted Stevens of Alaska is Baker's deputy.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., steps down to minority leader, with Alan Cranston, D-Calif., as his deputy.

In the House, the Democrats remain in control but their margin has been trimmed to 243-192. The lineup in the last Congress was 273 Democrats, 159 Republicans and three vacancies in seats formerly held by Democrats.

Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts will continue as House speaker and Jim Wright of Texas has been given another term as House majority leader.

Politicians and students of the political process say both houses of Congress are expected to be more conservative this year.

In many cases, liberals were defeated by those embracing conservative goals. Other liberal lawmakers may moderate their positions because of what is perceived as a rightward swing by the electorate.

Despite the conservative trend, however, both Hatch and Mathias said the new Congress should concentrate on "getting the economy on its feet," rather than such issues as abortion, school prayer and busing to achieve integration.

His third term, trial begin

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Rep. Raymond F. Lederer, the only congressman accused in the Abscam probe to win re-election, was being sworn in for a third term today in Washington as his trial was starting in Brooklyn.

An aide said the Philadelphia Democrat intended to be present on the House floor when Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill administered the oath of office shortly after noon. Then Lederer planned to fly to New York, where jury selection was to begin in a federal courtroom.

Lederer is the sixth member of the House to stand trial on Abscam charges. Four others have been convicted and the other, Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., is on trial in Washington.

Lederer, 42, is accused of accepting a $50,000 bribe from undercover FBI agents posing as representatives of Arab sheiks who promised jobs and industry for his congressional district in return for his cooperation in immigration matters. Lederer allegedly took the money on Sept. 11, 1979, at a hotel near Kennedy International Airport.

He has pleaded innocent to the charges of bribery, conspiracy, accepting an unlawful gratuity and interstate travel in aid of a racketeering enterprise. Bribery, the most serious charge, carries a prison term of up to 15 years.

The government claims Lederer received $5,000 of the money with the remainder divided among Camden, N.J., Mayor Angelo Errichetti, Philadelphia Councilman Louis Johanson, Philadelphia lawyer Howard Criden and another, unidentified, individual.

Criden, Johanson and Errichetti were convicted in August of similar Abscam offenses. At that trial then-Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., also was found guilty of Abscam offenses. Myers was expelled from Congress and lost a re-election bid.

Errichetti, Johanson and Criden are not on trial now, having appealed their convictions and claiming any trial on charges stemming from the Lederer case would constitute double jeopardy because the allegations are similar to those of which they convicted.

Lederer's trial is expected to last about 2 to 3 weeks.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., the only member of the Senate indicted in the political corruption investigation, is scheduled to stand trial in Brooklyn in February or March.

The other three representatives convicted of Abscam offenses — Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., John Murphy, D-N.Y., and John Jenrette, D-S.C. — all lost re-election bids in November. All are appealing their convictions.

ADA says voting record doesn't mean more liberals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans for Democratic Action says the average senator had a more liberal voting record last year as conservatives took the initiative, forcing moderates "to side with liberals to prevent harmful legislation from passing."

Therefore, says ADA National Director Leon Shull, the fact that the Senate voted with the ADA position 46 percent of the time last year compared with 38 percent the year before does not mean the Senate was more liberal.

The liberal organization said Sunday that Senate Democrats in 1980 averaged 58 percent, up 10 percentage points, while Republicans averaged 29 percent, compared with 23 percent in 1979.

Northern Democrats voted along with the ADA position 66 percent of the time, up 7 points from the previous year, the organization said. Southern Democrats averaged 42 percent last year, compared with 26 percent in 1979.

The ADA said the highest percentage by a senator was a 94 scored by Sen. Carl Levin, a first-term Democrat from Michigan. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., had 89. Those scoring an 83 were Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Patrick Leahy, D-Vt.; Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio; Donald Riegle, D-Mich.; and Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.

Nelson was one of six key Democratic senators defeated last November after conservative groups targeted them for defeat. The other five and their 1980 ADA ratings are: John Culver of Iowa, 78; Warren Magnuson of Washington, 72; Birch Bayh of Indiana, 61; George McGovern of South Dakota, 56; and Frank Church of Idaho, 50.

The lowest score — a zero — was given to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the ADA said. Sens. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., and John Tower, R-Texas, voted with ADA 6 percent of the time.

The Republicans with the highest "liberal quotients" in 1980 were John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland and Lowell Weicker of Connecticut. Each had a mark of 72.

The ADA rating scale is based on 18 votes on such issues as limiting federal spending to a set percentage of national output, draft registration, the MX missile, arms control, disaster aid to Nicaragua, abortion, and federal safety inspections of small business.

In releasing the ratings, the organization said its system of "rating" senators according to their voting records does not try to judge a lawmaker's work in committee, where important decisions are made. The organization also said the ratings do not reflect the success or failure of Congress itself in dealing with issues.

Also, the ratings can be affected by absenteeism. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., did not cast a single vote against an ADA position but scored only a 33 because he missed 12 of the 18 test votes while campaigning for the presidency.

The new Senate that convenes today will be under control of Republicans for the first time since 1955 and is expected to be considerably more conservative than last year.

Town may lose its gas

DAISETTA, Texas (AP) — Residents of this tiny Southeast Texas town have won one battle — a leaky natural gas service has been fixed...

"We may lose next Friday (at the court hearing)," said Mayor Harold McCann Sunday night after exhausted workers finished patching the city-owned natural gas line.

"If we lose, we've got a lot of poor people that are in a sad situation. A lot of people on welfare can't afford to switch to propane."

The city won a temporary reprieve Saturday when a state district judge delayed a Railroad Commission order that would have shut down natural gas service in this town of 1,100.

But McCann says back-breaking efforts by city council members and volunteer workers — who manned tractors and dug ditches for six straight days to restore the service — may be for naught if a judge upholds the RRC ruling at a hearing this Friday.

The city's problems started last Friday when RRC officials called an emergency meeting and ordered the system shut down because of leaks. McCann said service to 12 homes had been halted and another 200 homes were experiencing "pressure difficulties."

"The line is on test and holding," McCann said Sunday after volunteers worked into the night hours to restore the system. RRC officials said a two-hour pressure test would be needed before the gas could be turned on.

"We didn't have the kind of equipment, but an oil company sent a man out with gauges and logs and he got right on it. We've had tremendous response from our community."

He said the city applied two months ago to the Farmer's Home Administration for a loan to repair the system, but that no word has been received about the status of the loan.

"I will call the FHA in the morning (Monday) to see what the status of that loan application is," he said.

He added that other avenues of financing are open to the city, but that the length of time involved might force people in the city to switch over to propane or electricity before the lines could be repaired.

He said the RRC was asking the city to patch the old, trouble-plagued line to "up-to-date RRC standards."

Billy Bob's plans to outdo Gilley's

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Move over Gilley's, here comes Billy Bob's Texas, a cowboy club that's not only bigger, but boasts live bull riding as well.

"We're not interested in publicity about a place that's trying to outshine Gilley's," says Spencer Taylor, a Fort Worth night-club owner who is one of the partners in Billy Bob's Texas.

And while Taylor claims there's no effort being made to replace Gilley's under the "world's largest nightclub" section in the Guinness Book of Records, the new cowboy club will be huge — even by Texas standards.

First, Taylor says, there will be a rodeo arena in the middle of the 127,000 square-foot club that will feature live bull riding, not the mechanical moo-cow that John Travolta rode to fame in "The Urban Cowboy."

Only certified professional cowboys will be able to ride the bulls, and that suits Taylor just fine, who says the monster club will cater to "real" cowboys, not their urban counterparts.

Surrounding the ring will be bleachers that seat 500 people. Taylor says that 40 bar stations will be placed throughout the club, which can hold up to 6,000 people on a busy night.

I started dreaming about doing this two years ago," says Taylor, who already operates several successful Fort Worth night clubs.

He thinks that bulls have become the centerpiece of the country western craze, but knows that mechanical bulls — especially the type featured at Gilley's — are no big deal anymore.

So he thought live bulls would be nice, and then topped the idea off with a huge, life-sized mirrored bull that will swirl slowly over the 30,000 square-foot dance floor.

Plans also call for a "VIP" membership, available to members who pay a $300 a year fee. VIP members will be entitled to enter a club within a club, according to Taylor, and will be able to lounge in a "quieter, more relaxed and fancier" area inside the club.

While Taylor is the most visible of the partners responsible for creating Billy Bob's Texas, he says all the backers are concerned that the western dance palace be authentic.

"It's just like Billy Bob," Taylor says, talking about the club's namesake, a 6-foot, 5-inch, 270-pound Fort Worth cowboy who has done everything from herding cattle to playing professional football.

His father brought him to this area to watch Willie (Nelson), who used to play here. Bob Willis played here. You have to sit down here and get the feel of it, and do it right."

House not related to deaths

ATLANTA (AP) — Police have found no connection between an abandoned house where Bibles and strange paintings were nailed to walls and the deaths or disappearances of 15 Atlanta children, says Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown.

The house, which had a strong, foul smell, was pointed out to searchers who were combing southwest Atlanta Saturday for clues about the missing or dead children.

Volunteer search captain Katherine Whetstone described the house as smelling "like decaying flesh." It also had several Bibles and "strange paintings" nailed to the walls inside. Shovels, an ax and a hatchet were strewn around the floors.

But so far, there is "nothing to suggest that there is any relationship between that and our ongoing investigation" into the child cases, Brown said in an interview.

"If there is evidence uncovered that relates to our investigation, we're not going to talk about it publicly."

"To even imply that there is a relationship is incorrect at this point," he said.

David Westbrook, owner of the house, said he rented out the structure, but did not know where the tenants were. He said they had left their possessions behind.

Six injured in Sunday accidents

Five people injured in traffic accidents in Midland County Sunday evening remained in Midland Memorial Hospital this morning being treated for the injuries they sustained.

Injured in a two-vehicle mishap shortly after 6 p.m. at the intersection of Fairgrounds Road and U.S. 80 were Charlie Awbrey, Treza Awbrey, Jennie Hendrickson, Pauline Dean and Florence Allegra.

Tony Fussell, who was injured in another accident at 3:35 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of County Road 1162 and County Road 80, is in satisfactory condition at Midland Memorial Hospital.

In the five-injury accident, all the persons involved were hurt when an automobile driven by Awbrey, 58, of 3402 Sycamore, was involved in a collision with a car driven by Ms. Hendrickson, 77, of 2800 W. Illinois Ave.

Awbrey was treated and released from Midland Memorial, but a passenger in his vehicle, Treza Awbrey, 53, of the same address remains at Midland Memorial in fair condition. She is being treated for multiple trauma injuries.

Ms. Hendrickson is in serious condition in the post critical care unit. She reportedly sustained a broken arm, broken wrist and lacerations to her left eye in the collision.

Passengers in her vehicle also were critically injured. Ms. Dean, 75, of Lovington, N.M., is in critical condition in the critical care unit suffering from a head injury and Ms. Allegra, 76, of 2800 W. Illinois Ave. also is in critical condition in the critical care unit being treated for multiple trauma.

The accident was investigated by DPS trooper Ken Pittman. Tony Fussell, 12, of 201 Shanks St. was injured when the motorcycle he was riding was involved in a collision with a pickup driven by Oren Lewis Jones of Midland at the intersection of County Road 1162 and County Road 80.

He is being treated at Midland Memorial for multiple trauma injuries. The accident occurred as Jones was driving his pickup west on County Road 80 and the Fussell youth was riding his motorcycle north on County Road 1162.

It was investigated by DPS trooper Jim Swan. Also this morning, Midland police continued to look into the reported burglary of Jim Garrett's residence, Apartment 510 at 4400 Andrews Highway. Garrett told police that burglars took diamonds valued at $500, a coin collection valued at $300 and a ring valued at $15 in the break-in.

Emergency calls kept firemen and ambulance attendants busy Sunday and early today. Firemen used only five gallons of water shortly after 3 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a car fire at the intersection of Garfield Street and Louisiana Avenue. According to fire department reports, the vehicle, owned by David Summers, address unknown, sustained slight damage under the hood.

Probable cause of the blaze was listed as a broken hydraulic line.

Temperatures plunge across United States

Football players bounced off the frozen turf in Cleveland, citrus growers in Florida fretted for their oranges and 8,074 New Yorkers complained about cold apartments as arctic air sent temperatures diving in the Midwest, Northeast and Southeast.

workers tried to drive work today after the long New Year's weekend. Temperatures fell as far as 42 degrees below zero Sunday — in Old Forge, N.Y., in the Adirondack Mountains — and this morning it was 4 below zero in Boston, 1 below in Pittsburgh and just 11 above in Raleigh, N.C.

frigid blasts were the icing on the cake. While health officials from Minnesota to Maine warned of the dangers of frostbite, motorists seemed to take the brunt of the weekend's cold wave. Many local chapters of the AAA reported being inundated with calls from motorists whose cars wouldn't start.

In New York City, where the low was 5 degrees Sunday, the Central Complaint Bureau received 8,074 calls between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. about heating problems in apartments. A spokesman said it could take up to a week to respond to the complaints because of budget cuts that have left the agency with fewer inspectors.

The lowest score — a zero — was given to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the ADA said. Sens. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., and John Tower, R-Texas, voted with ADA 6 percent of the time.

The Republicans with the highest "liberal quotients" in 1980 were John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland and Lowell Weicker of Connecticut. Each had a mark of 72.

The ADA rating scale is based on 18 votes on such issues as limiting federal spending to a set percentage of national output, draft registration, the MX missile, arms control, disaster aid to Nicaragua, abortion, and federal safety inspections of small business.

In releasing the ratings, the organization said its system of "rating" senators according to their voting records does not try to judge a lawmaker's work in committee, where important decisions are made. The organization also said the ratings do not reflect the success or failure of Congress itself in dealing with issues.

Also, the ratings can be affected by absenteeism. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., did not cast a single vote against an ADA position but scored only a 33 because he missed 12 of the 18 test votes while campaigning for the presidency.

The new Senate that convenes today will be under control of Republicans for the first time since 1955 and is expected to be considerably more conservative than last year.

BACK PACKING

Sensible Ford ruling

What was criticized as a step backward for consumerism earlier this week actually was a step toward reality for the United States government and private enterprise.

Ford Motor Co. had been named in several lawsuits stemming from problems associated with transmissions installed in the company's vehicles manufactured between 1970 and 1979. The transmissions reportedly can slip suddenly from park to reverse while the vehicles are idling, causing accidents in some cases.

But unlike years gone by, the Transportation Department didn't order a recall this time around. Apparently the government felt that a recall was more than Ford could stand financially at this particular point in time. According to a recent Associated Press news story, the company lost $1.2 billion in the first nine months of 1980 anyway.

One estimate indicated that if a recall had been ordered and if 25 percent of the 22 million owners responded to it and if the work on each transmission cost $50 to perform, the repair work this time around would have cost the company $250 million.

What the Transportation Department ordered Ford to do is to send a dashboard warning sticker and a letter to each of the vehicle owners, noting the possible hazard and suggesting precautions. That procedure alone is estimated to cost the company from $5 million to $10 million.

That solution, while costly, probably will not result in pushing Ford to the brink of having to approach the federal government for guaranteed loans as Chrysler is now doing. At the same time, we believe the federal government in the past has overstepped the bounds of acceptability in its intrusion into the world of private business.

Obviously, protection of the citizens of this country is a role of the government, to some degree. But when that role becomes too involved and Big Brother begins to create both problems and additional cost for citizens, it's time to reassess the responsibilities willed to the government.

"The buyer beware" is a basic premise of the free enterprise system. It has proven effective in years past and still will work when given the opportunity to do so.

The Transportation Department's recent ruling is the first one — virtually in years — to approach sensibility from a cost-benefit rationale. Perhaps it does mark the start of the return to an accountable society and a favorable free enterprise system.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, Jan. 5, the fifth day of 1981. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 3, 1895, German physicist Wilhelm Roentgen announced the discovery of the X-ray.

On this date: In 1606, Capt. John Smith, a Virginia colonist, was captured by Indians.

In 1781, a British naval expedition under command of Benedict Arnold burned Richmond, Va.

In 1948, President Harry Truman dubbed his administration "the fair deal" during a State of the Union speech.

In 1964, Pope Paul VI and Patriarch Benedictos of Jerusalem met in the Holy Land for the first meeting in five centuries between a Roman Catholic Pope and an Eastern Orthodox Church patriarch.

Ten years ago: United Nations representatives from Israel, Jordan and the United Arab Republic resumed peace talks in New York.

Five years ago: President Gerald Ford warned the Soviet Union about further intervention in Angola.

One year ago: Diplomatic sources said there might be as many as 100,000 Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

Today's birthday: Spain's King Juan Carlos is 43.

Thought for today: Vanity plays lurid tricks with our memory — English novelist Joseph Conrad (1857-1924).

INSIDE REPORT:

Walesa's revolutionary experiment testing the Soviets

WARSAW, Poland — The tidal wave of Solidarity, the free workers' movement of Lech Walesa, has transformed Poland, turning it upside down, but to institutionalize and consolidate the transformation while staving off brutal Soviet intervention demands the wisdom of Moses, the patience of Job.

"The ruling groups (the Communist Party) are divided into many sides with this in common: They don't understand the new situation or the new pressures Walesa can turn against them because it is a new invention to them," Stefan Bratkowski, a leading intellectual, told us. What makes his opinion important is that he is one of the dangerously few who can speak with credibility to both Communist Party boss Stanislaw Kania and to Walesa.

Within the irresistible force — let loose by Walesa's discovery of the sit-down strike — are perhaps as many divisions as within the party. In our interview with Walesa last week he said without bravado: "I am the movement." In fact, he is its founder and leader, but within Solidarity and within radical factions on its fringes lurk extreme political dangers. Some of these factions show impatience with Walesa's go-slow policy. Hence, they expose a vulnerable flank to Communist Party hit men.

But Walesa is well aware it will take months if not years to consolidate his movement without seeing it ravished by force from the Soviet Union. He knows that too many quick demonstrations of Solidarity's power will build a trap for Kania and the frightened Politburo, even assuming they dare to explore with Walesa the revolutionary path of change he wants.

That trap would be sprung by Soviet invasion if the Kremlin decides Kania cannot carry out his pact with Moscow: Consolidate the immense changes demanded by Solidarity without putting at risk the party's "leading role."

Sinister forces threaten Kania's pledge to accommodate Solidarity with Poland's bankrupt, unworkable communist system. In 35 years that system has plunged Poland into misery on three previous occasions. Hard-liners within the party are not eager to give up the pleasures and treasures of their "new class" or their control over industry, agriculture and everything else. For them, the choice between Soviet intervention and the loss of these very special privileges may not be all that easy.

Whether Kania and his Politburo strongmen, Stefan Olszowski and Mieczyslaw Moczar, genuinely want to find accommodation, as they profess, is a secret within the Politburo. The alternative would be slow whittling down of Walesa's power by driving wedges to split Solidarity and using other tactics finely honed over the years by communist tyrannies to eliminate reformers.

But Walesa has allies that cannot be overlooked in his strategy of slow consolidation and toward building unique new institutions to carry out Solidarity's charter and its pledge to "renew" Poland. Out of the Communist Party's membership of 3,500,000 at least 2 million have ties to the old Catholic Left. For whatever reason that they joined the party, their support for Solidarity comes a lot easier than their support for the economic misery dumped on their country by the corrupt, selfish party brass.

Walesa's own ties to the Catholic Church (he attends mass almost every day) have brought the papacy close to the center of Solidarity's struggle. "The socialist idea behind a Walesa-style Christian society is very close to the ideas of the Polish pope," an influential communist told us.

Finally, there is the rise of education not only in Poland but throughout Eastern Europe's enslaved communist states. Here are no longer ignorant populations whose communist rulers could entice by contrasting their false promises of "socialism" to pre-World War II's rigid class society. Having ruled out force against Solidarity, Kania opened a floodgate of public debate, and every part of that debate enhances Solidarity with the educated public.

The party-controlled press now publishes political news unthinkable last summer. Polityka, the party organ, recently reprinted a scathing attack on the collapse of the economy in the '70s written by KOR, the intellectual-based workers' defense league, and favorite party target. The longer debate proceeds, the more Walesa and Solidarity gain.

Success of Walesa's promised industrial peace the rest of this month would be a first slippery step in the long journey to consolidation and an acute defeat for Moscow. Whether the brave Polish people are allowed to continue their extraordinary and revolutionary experiment will depend on whether Moscow accepts such a defeat — or tries to eliminate the movement by brute force.

CHARLIE REESE

President's 'media events' actually serve no purpose

I hope Ronald Reagan abolishes the presidential press conference. If he does, he will be doing a favor for himself, the nation and the press.

In the first place, a press conference is not what it seems. It seems to be a person answering questions, but it is really a media event cooked up by political public relations types in cahoots with the press. It serves one purpose: to generate a news story. The politician likes this and so does the press. The content of the "story" is immaterial.

A president could call a press conference and recite "Baa, Baa Black Sheep," and it would be dutifully reported. As it is, the communication, both from the president and from the press, is about on that level of banality. In the glare of national television lights it seems neither politician nor newsman can resist the temptation to posture.

As a member of the press, I'm embarrassed for the public to see what a bunch of yahoos there are carrying press cards in their pockets. This industry spends a lot of money convincing the public that we are all wise and good and then they see these characters jumping up and down like a bunch of teenagers, yelling "Mr. President, Mr. President!"

What's worse, they see them, after all of that, ask dumb questions or make little speeches in the form of a question. The Washington Press Corps, which numbers about 1,700 souls now, has become a circus. There are only three television networks, two major wire services and a handful of newspapers with enough dough for a Washington bureau. I wonder who the other 1,600 represent.

In the old days, a few hard news types hung around the White House and got to know the president and his men so they could get a clear picture of what was going on and report it. Now there is an army which straggles after the president and it has a voracious appetite for gossip and trivia.

They want to know what he eats for breakfast, who is playing tennis on the White House courts, who schedules the courts, what kind of nail polish the First Lady uses, what her second cousin thinks about the Middle East, and a lot of other things that are frankly none of our business.

We elect a president, not marry him, and what we ought to be concerned about is how and what he is doing as president, not how well his digestion system works or what kinds of quirks his relatives have. Not only is the present situation silly, it interferes with the business of hard news gathering which is what we should be doing.

I am not suggesting that the president stay away from the press. I hope he has a lot of informal, off-camera meetings with responsible members of the press. If the TV guys are interested in being informed, they should be included as long as they leave their cameras outside. A president ought to be entitled to hem and haw, stumble over his words or change them in mid-sentence just like everybody else. No president can afford to do that when he's being televised worldwide. That's why you get performances instead of conversation.

From time to time, the president ought to arrange to be a guest on one of the regular television news shows like "Meet the Press" or "Issues and Answers" where a small panel of good newsmen can ask intelligent questions in a deliberative atmosphere.

That, plus regular speeches and daily bulletins from his press office, should satisfy the public. It won't satisfy the Washington Press Corps because they love their hour on the boob tube, but then it's about time the circus tent was folded up.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Iran may destroy itself by holding hostages

WASHINGTON — The stubborn Iranian refusal to release the American hostages, except for a shah's ransom, could lead to the break up of Iran. This possibility has been raised by the Soviets in secret, unofficial contacts with key Americans. Sources close to Ronald Reagan say he "may not object to a break up."

The Soviets have hinted that the most sensible solution to the Iranian problem might be to divide the country into separate Soviet and American spheres of influence. Under this arrangement, a pro-Soviet government would occupy the northern provinces and a pro-American regime would govern the southern provinces.

There have already been secret contacts between Iraqi and Iranian military leaders, who would like to end the war and set up a provisional government in southern Iran. They probably would install Shahpur Bakhtiari, a former Iranian prime minister, as its head.

He would establish close ties with Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the other Arab nations on the Persian Gulf. The United States would keep in the background, but would quietly support this realignment. Strategists advising Reagan believe such a Persian Gulf bloc would be "strategically acceptable," even though it would mean dismembering Iran and permitting some Soviet encroachment. In fact, they think this would be preferable to the present chaotic, anti-American government now in place.

President Carter, meanwhile, has been courting Iran by allowing Israel to smuggle military supplies into Iran, including spare parts for F-4 fighter planes and shipboard weapons. The Israelis have also provided arms and advisers to the Kurdish rebels in Iraq — this, too, with Carter's silent approval. The Kurds have drawn some of Iraq's forces away from the Iranian front.

Reagan's advisers expect him to cut off this secret aid to Iran and to shift U.S. support to Iraq. They will also advise the new president to authorize precision-guided missile attacks upon selective Iranian targets. This limited military operation would be expanded if the hostages were harmed.

The strategists around Reagan doubt that it will be possible to negotiate the hostages' release. By making the ransom demand public, the Iranians can hardly back down without losing face. And the president-elect certainly doesn't intend to pay a $24 billion ransom. When he first learned about the ransom demand, according to witnesses, he called it "insulting to the honor of the country."

Reagan will carefully study all the alternatives before he takes action against Iran, his advisers say. The Iranians will have to wait until after January 20 to find out what he'll do. But it would be a mistake to rule out military action.

Footnote: In past columns, I have cited secret intelligence reports on the treatment of American hostages in Iran. These reports have given a grim account of physical abuse and psychological torture. State Department spokesmen have now confirmed the reports. Some hostages allegedly have been interrogated at gunpoint, others blindfolded and bound for long periods, still others isolated and held incommunicado by extreme militants. There are reports that the latter have been tortured to gain phony confessions. Six wives haven't heard a word from their hostage husbands.

THE CUTTING EDGE: Power lawnmowers can be dangerous pieces of equipment. Carelessly handled, they can — and do — lop off fingers or toes, causing more than 150,000 accidents each year.

In February 1979, the Consumer Products Safety Commission proposed a safety rule that would require manufacturers of power mowers to include an automatic shutoff that would stop the dangerous mower blade within three seconds after the user lets go of the handle. The effective date for this regulation was to be Dec. 31, 1981.

But the industry spent much of its time trying to cut back or at least delay the effective date of the proposed regulation. The industry's argument has been that it can't work out a safe machine by the commission's deadline.

The reason is obvious. Automatic blade-stop mechanisms may add as much as $40 to the price of a power mower, which could well mean a lower sales volume.

The power mower industry has found a friend in Rep. Larry Coughlin, R-Pa., whose district includes Bethlehem Steel, which makes mower blades. Another is Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., whose state is home base for several mower manufacturers.

Through their combined efforts, a six-month extension on automatic blade-stops passed Congress. It was written not by the legislators who sponsored it, but by the Washington law firm of Collier, Shannon and Rill which represents one of the largest manufacturers.

According to the CPSC, the unsafe mowers produced during the extension period could cause as many as 34,000 injuries.

IRANIAN EXPORTS: Iran's oil exports have been reduced to a trickle. Instead, Iran has become a leading exporter of narcotics. According to British intelligence reports, "approximately 40 percent of the narcotics seized in Britain comes from Iran. Yet only two years ago, that country accounted for only 3 percent of the illicit narcotics seized."

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

The Russians are not going into Poland — what's the matter with you people? They're filming a sequel to "The Longest Day."

We seem to be more nervous about the Russians moving into Poland than we were when they invaded Afghanistan. The reason is that there are not a whole lot of Afghanistan-Americans living in Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

If anyone ever enjoyed Afghanistan sausage or did the Afghanistan polka at an Afghanistan wedding, things might have been different.

Time is running out for Carter. The highly efficient Gallup and Harris polls indicate that if Carter doesn't save Poland, he could lose the election.

Poland is trying to hang on until Ronald Reagan is sworn in. Then the workers, employing the tactics of the Screen Actors Guild, can clobber the Russians the way Ronnie once brought 20th Century-Fox to its knees.

One of my New Year's resolutions is to be nicer to my fellow man — and my fellow woman.

Throughout the new year I'll try to listen to more top 40 music, on the theory that pain develops character.

In '81, I'm going to go for the gusto and the brass ring. I want it all because you only go around once. I'm going to give it my best shot and do it my way. I gotta be there. Therefore, I'm going to learn to fox trot.

Iran, Iraq trade war claims

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran and Iraq claim to have wiped out about half of each other's arsenals, killed or wounded thousands of troops and crippled their oil industries in the first 100 days of their border war.

As the war entered its 16th week, both sides reported more fighting in the Iranian oil province of Khuzistan, and Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr came under increased pressure from Iran's Moslem hard-liners to launch a new counter-offensive against Iraq, a sign of growing domestic criticism of Bani-Sadr's handling of the war.

A communique broadcast by Baghdad Radio said 78 Iranian soldiers were killed Sunday and two gunboats were sunk. It conceded seven Iraqi deaths.

Tehran Radio said Iranian forces killed five Iraqis on Sunday and 150 on Saturday in fighting in the central sector of the warfront that claimed four Iranian lives. It also claimed pro-Iranian guerrillas inside Iraq killed six Iraqi soldiers. Two guerrillas were reported killed.

The warring Persian Gulf oil giants in rival announcements Sunday claimed total enemy losses between Sept. 22, 1980, but neither side said anything about its own losses. In some cases, the number of weapons reported destroyed exceeded the total number believed on hand at the outbreak of the war, but most such claims from both governments throughout the war are believed to have been exaggerated.

Tehran Radio claimed Iranian forces killed or wounded about 20,000 Iraqi soldiers and destroyed 215 MIG fighters and Tupolev bombers along with 30 helicopters. It said this represented 90 percent of the Iraqi air force's operational capability.

It said Iraq also lost some 3,000 tanks and 1,800 other military vehicles, and Iranian planes "bombed and destroyed" more than 500 Iraqi oil centers, military bases, airports, ports and other strategic and industrial targets.

The International Institute for Strategic Studies in London said in its latest military estimates, issued before the war, that Iraq had 339 warplanes, 2,500 tanks and a similar number of armored personnel carriers, plus other military vehicles.

The Iraqi government newspaper Al-Gomhuriyah claimed Iraqi forces killed 8,413 Iranian soldiers and captured 964 in the same 100-day period. It said Iran lost 558 warplanes, 147 naval vessels, 1,089 tanks and armored cars, 1,270 armored personnel carriers, 115 rocket launchers and 44 radar stations, plus 70 oil pipeline networks and fuel storage tanks which were destroyed.

The London Institute estimated that Iran had 445 combat aircraft, 50 naval vessels and 1,985 tanks at the start of the war.

Shop by calendar and save

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Shopping by the calendar can save you hundreds of dollars.

Almost everything you need will probably be on sale at some time during the year. As a general rule, you'll save the most if you buy things out of season or at the end of the season.

Make a list of the items you'll need throughout the year — including gifts. Buy them on sale and store them until they're needed. Here is a month-by-month guide of what to look for when.

JANUARY — The traditional white-sale month, with big discounts on linens and towels. Storewide clearance sales offer bargains on holiday merchandise, from Christmas cards and ornaments to toys and gift items. Other good buys include clothes, dryers, furniture, radios, stereos, refrigerators and freezers. The earlier you shop, the better the selection. Beware of faded items that will lose their popularity before you're ready to use them.

FEBRUARY — Lincoln's and Washington's birth day sales and final markdowns on January leftovers. Check out air conditioners, bicycles, bedding, dishes, curtains, glassware, men's shirts, rugs and carpets. If you're a home gardener, check catalogs and start early indoor seeds to be transplanted later.

MARCH — Pre-season sales on spring clothing and end-of-season sales on winter items. Plan ahead and look for next year's winter coats, sportswear and sports equipment. Other bargain items may include housewares, china, laundry appliances, storm windows and luggage.

APRIL — Use your income-tax refund — if you get one — to shop for building materials, paint, garden items, wallpaper and outdoor furniture. After Easter, April 19, you can look for sales on women's dresses and coats, men's and boy's clothing and pre-season summer bargains.

MAY — Mother's Day and Memorial Day sales. Now is the time to replenish stocks of winter blankets, get children's camp clothing and any vacation luggage you might need. Make a list of things you'll need for summer — if you didn't get them at last year's end-of-season sales — and start looking for bargains.

JUNE — Father's Day sales, plus end-of-semester sales on school supplies, including typewriters.

Other potential good buys include cars, tires, men's clothing, hosiery, lingerie and summer sportswear.

JULY — Storewide clearances again. The biggest markdowns are likely near the end of the month, but your choice may be limited. After the Fourth of July, check sales on shoes, bathing suits, air conditioners, hats, appliances, garden supplies, outdoor furniture and sports equipment.

AUGUST — A second round of white sales. Also worth checking: summer clothing, coats, fall fabrics, camping items, furniture, bedding, lamps, back-to-school supplies and pre-season discounts on fall clothing. Look for auto sales toward the end of the month.

SEPTEMBER — Labor Day sales, back-to-school promotions and pre-season specials on winter merchandise. Final sales on summer clothing, garden supplies and outdoor furniture. Watch for good buys on china, glassware, furniture, bedding and silver. If you're a theater or concertgoer, check on season tickets at a discount.

OCTOBER — Sales on the last of the old model automobiles, along with Columbus Day coat promotions. Take advantage of post-season sales on bicycles and fishing equipment and pre-season deals on ski items. Other good buys may include auto batteries, electric blankets, children's fall clothes and lamps.

NOVEMBER — Veterans Day sales. You'll also find the lowest prices of the year on paint, hardware and other home-improvement supplies, along with relatively good buys on blankets, stoves, water heaters and used cars. Look for bargain bulbs, trees and shrubs for late fall planting. Try to shop early, the sales will disappear toward the end of the month as stores switch to full-price Christmas merchandise.

DECEMBER — The major retailing month of the year and the worst time to buy. Sales are few. If you've planned wisely, you should be able to avoid big purchases.

Reclaiming the land

By KEN LUBAS
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — The county forester's boots kicked up small clouds of ash, as he worked his way up the charred hillside past the blackened limbs of once lush vegetation.

Joseph Ferrara, a senior deputy in the Los Angeles County Fire Department's forestry bureau, was involved in the task of gathering information to be used to reclaim the land that had been devastated by the wind-driven fires that each fall plague Southern California.

"That's something," Ferrara said looking out over the barren landscape from the hilltop. "Look there." He motioned to a patch of green on a gray and black sea. "Trees I planted 14 years ago survived."

Then he stooped and cleared away small area of ash so he could take a soil sample.

Ferrara was gathering information that would be studied and analyzed by foresters in preparing a plan to reclaim the land and to minimize mud and debris flows in winter and spring rains.

It is a task that has been carried out on numerous occasions already this fall. It will be repeated as long as the strong dry winds continue their periodic sweeps, most recently drimphasis is on service to people, hence the emphasis on urban forestry."

Arndt said that while the bureau becomes most visible to the public following major fires such as the stubborn blazes near San Bernardino in late November, its work covers a wider spectrum.

"We are heavily involved in erosion control in areas other than after a fire," he said, "and these include areas downstream of developments and major construction.

"The bureau is involved in fuel modification, plant and tree propagation through our nurseries, education, land clearance and prescription burning."

According to Arndt, much of the bureau's work is still in its infancy, but even so it has captured national attention.

Her credentials include hate mail

By MARIANNE BERNHARD
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Beth Platz, who became the first woman minister in the Lutheran church in America 10 years ago, has all the credentials of her male colleagues and more.

Along with the diplomas and certificates, the 40-year-old University of Maryland campus minister has a box of hate mail.

Three are crinkly, yellowing letters, and fresh crisp ones, all bearing similar messages: that she's "a disgrace to the church," an "instrument of the anti-christ," that her "defiance" of the Lord will send her straight to hell.

But now that her female Lutheran colleagues number about 200, the letters only trickle in. And by far, most of the people she hears from are supportive.

Unlike some of her peers, Platz never campaigned for ordination. Although she'd completed Lutheran seminary training in 1965, she was content to work as a lay assistant with the university campus ministry. However, after five years of "doing everything I do now except preach and administer the sacraments," Platz said she felt a call to the ministry.

A short time later — the day after the Lutheran church in America voted to ordain women, Platz's bishop called to tell her she was fully qualified to be a minister and invited her to apply.

Four months later, before a crowd of 1,200 and a large contingent of media representatives, Platz was ordained.

Today, she is an upbeat minister who is popular with students for her sense of humor and her knack for applying the gospel to daily life. She quotes "Peanuts" comic-strip characters as freely as she does the Bible in her sermons.

"I find her sermons very powerful," said Terry

Scott, a 22-year-old university senior. "She draws theology into your everyday life, and not many people do that anymore. Her ministry has affected me a great deal."

Scott met Platz through the university's counseling program. After attending services and other religious functions, he converted from Methodism to the Lutheran faith.

After counseling troubled students for more than 15 years, Platz has become privy to their needs, hopes and fears.

A decade ago, she said, students were concerned with social issues — civil rights, the Vietnam War and abortion. Today, she said, their concern is survival. "How can I get a good job?"

Some students are confused over what they see as two competing value systems, others have no value systems at all — which is in itself a value system."

A lot of faculty and staff here believe common value systems among the young are gone... and that is scary," Platz said.

She believes this search for values has contributed to the rising popularity of "very judgmental and exclusive" fundamentalist groups afloat on campuses, as well as Nazi and Ku Klux Klan groups there.

"People who join the Klan and the Nazis," said Platz, "are looking for security. They see these groups with common beliefs and end up retreating and becoming rigid."

But Platz believes that today's young people also are rebelling more against peer pressure "that dictates that they must be sexually active."

For the first time in her counseling career, Platz said, she is also encountering students who are questioning what it is to be a man or a woman.

"Before, the young had strict role models to follow and never had to contemplate what it meant to be a man or a woman," she said.

Cloning of humans may be next

TORONTO (AP) — Like something out of a science fiction movie, researchers in a Swiss laboratory have developed techniques that could lead to the cloning of a simple mammal, such as a mouse, and ultimately a human being.

The method makes it possible to produce clones — exact genetic copies — of a mouse embryo; something that had previously been achieved only with plants and lower animals.

But scientists said that because of several important limitations, the discovery falls far short of immediately allowing human beings to be cloned or lost limbs to be regenerated. The discovery's importance is expected to be limited to scientific research.

"Worries about cloning humans are very far away for purely practical reasons," said Dr. Davor Solter of the Wistar Institute in Philadelphia, a scientist who works in the field. "Even if we did know how to clone a human, I don't know why we would want to do it."

The main commercial application of cloning would require being able to make clones from adult cells, so that one could, for example, make multiple copies of a cow that happened to be an excellent milk producer, said Solter.

But the discovery may have great scientific importance, said Dr. Michael I. Sherman of the Roche Institute of Molecular Biology in Nutley, N.J. He said it would open up new tools for studying the functioning of genes in growth, aging and cancer.

The technique was developed by Dr. Karl Illmensee of the University of Geneva and Dr. Peter C. Hoppe of Jackson Laboratory in Bar Harbor, Maine, who was working with Illmensee. It will be reported later this month in the scientific journal Cell.

The method can be used only to make clones of embryos which are in the earliest stages of development.

The two scientists removed the nuclei of cells growing in 4-day-old mouse embryos. They were inserted into newly fertilized eggs of mice of a different strain. The original nuclei of the eggs were removed.

The eggs — with their transplanted cell nuclei — were then implanted in female mice of a third strain and allowed to come to term.

Of hundreds of such transplants performed, only three survived to become living adult mice. Tests using enzyme and genetic markers showed that each of the three mice was genetically identical to the embryo from which its nucleus had been plucked, but not to the egg into which the nucleus was implanted or to the female mice who carried the animals.

A British scientist, Dr. John Gurdon, proved more than a decade ago that a similar feat could be performed using cells from frog embryos. The work of Illmensee and Hoppe simply extends this discovery to mammals.

One scientist who worked on the project but who asked not to be identified, said that the experiments should properly be referred to as "cell nucleus transplantation" rather than cloning because the three mice were not genetically identical with each other but only with the embryos from which they sprang.

"If all the offspring had come from the same embryo, that would be a clone. But they weren't," he said.

But other scientists said Illmensee and Hoppe had managed to produce multiple copies from a single embryo in later, but still unpublished, work. The two scientists could not be reached for comment Sunday.

Quake rocks California

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) — A very slight earthquake shook Walnut Creek and Concord Sunday night, authorities said.

The quake measured 2.5 on the Richter scale, said Gary McDaniel of the Office of Emergency Services in Sacramento, and hit just before 7 p.m.

"It was short and sharp," he said.

He said the center of the quake was just west of Concord, about 20 miles east of San Francisco.

Don Koue, a University of California spokesman, said the earthquake alarm at the campus Police Department was not triggered by the quake.

"It would have to be pretty damn small not to set off the alarm," he said, adding that a reading would be made Monday at the university's seismographic station.

BART stopped train service for five minutes, in accordance with set procedures, and then allowed trains to continue at reduced speeds, said spokesman Ben Yardley.

The Contra Costa County Sheriff's Department reported a few calls about 7 p.m., but no damages or injuries were reported.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. An earthquake of 3.5 on the scale can cause slight damage in the local area.

Pardon sought for banker

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Mayor Glenn Estes went to Washington today, seeking a pardon from President Jimmy Carter for the former president of the Bank of Kirksville who was convicted in connection with a check kiting scheme worth $18 million.

the time it takes for the checks to clear the banks, participants in the scheme have use of an inflated balance in their accounts.

Prosecutors said Young told Eddie C. Norman, a livestock dealer, how to manage the kites with three other men after Norman's cattle business suffered cash flow problems. Federal law was broken when Young paid overdrafts on Norman's account, which Norman and two other defendants inflated by $18 million using the kiting technique, federal prosecutors alleged.

Estes' trip on behalf of Harvey B. Young, who was to enter federal prison in Lexington, Ky., today, was paid for by donations from about 1,500 citizens who tossed bills and coins into barrels at a town meeting last week.

"Nobody believes it's true," Estes said. "I've known the man, I've known the family. Harvey's dad lent me money in the Depression."

The 61-year-old Young was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000 in 1979. Prosecutors alleged he managed three separate check kites from September 1973 through July 1974.

"You hear about things like this happening in Russia or East Germany," Young said. "But I never thought it would happen in Missouri. It's been nightmare after nightmare."

A check kite involves the exchange of checks between accounts at two or more banks. During

Get to know Commercial Bank's Doughboy, your day and night banker.

Commercial Bank's Doughboy works day and night, weekends and holidays, whether the bank is open or not, providing almost every personal banking service available from a teller.

The Doughboy can accept deposits and help you make transfers, withdrawals and payments — even tell you how much you have in your savings or checking accounts — all in a matter of minutes, or even seconds.

And the Doughboy is conveniently located in the corridor between our bank lobby and the Commercial Tower, and is easily accessible from our Wall Avenue entrance, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

How The Doughboy Works

The Doughboy is a snap to operate! You need only two things — your Commercial Bank Automatic Banking Card and your Personal Identification Number.

The Doughboy displays a logical sequence of easy-to-follow steps, guiding you through each transaction —

- 1) Insert your card.
- 2) Enter your Personal Identification Number.
- 3) Select the transaction you wish to complete by pressing one of the six function keys (any number of transactions can be completed).

Withdrawals

The Doughboy can make cash withdrawals from your savings account or your checking account in increments of $5, up to $300 a day, or the available balance in your account, if less than $300.

The Doughboy will accept deposits (cash and/or endorsed checks) to your checking and savings accounts.

Balance Inquiries

The Doughboy will provide a printed record of the current balances in your checking and savings accounts.

Money Transfers

The Doughboy will transfer money between savings and checking at the touch of a button, and provide you a written receipt of the transactions.

Loan Payments

Doughboy can accept loan payments by transferring money from your savings or checking account, and provide you a transaction receipt for the payment.

To Our Savings Customers

And you can have the opportunity to use our Doughboy to make savings deposits and withdrawals electronically, day and night, seven days a week, whether the bank is open or not.

If you also have a checking account at Commercial Bank, you can use this self-service banking terminal to transact an even greater number of personal banking functions automatically.

For more information on this new service, call (915) 683-5281, or write: Automatic Banking Department, Commercial Bank & Trust Co., P.O. Box 3118, Midland, Texas 79702.

Extreme rightists blamed in killings in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's government says the killers of two American lawyers and the head of its land-redistribution program may have been extreme rightists, but police say they have no leads to the gunmen.

Jose Napoleon Duarte, president of the U.S.-backed civilian-military junta, promised "an exhaustive investigation" into the killings of Mark David Pearlman, 36, of Seattle, Wash., Michael Peter Hammer, 44, of Potomac, Md., and the Salvadoran president of the Agrarian Transformation Institute, Jose Rodolfo Viera, 40.

Their deaths raised to seven the number of Americans killed in the past month of political warfare between the extreme right and extreme left that took more than 9,000 lives in El Salvador last year.

The three men were drinking coffee at the Sheraton Hotel Saturday night when two men walked up to their table, pulled out pistols and shot them.

The gunmen escaped, and there have been no admissions of responsibility for the shootings.

In Washington, the State Department expressed grief at the deaths of the three, "whose lives were dedicated to the building of a more just and equitable society in El Salvador."

Duarte's government said it "laments and energetically condemns... the vile murders."

"Those who benefit most by these killings are leftist groups," the government said in a communique. But it added that the killings may have stemmed from "the irrational ideas of extreme rightists," an apparent reference to right-wing opposition to the government's land-reform program on which the three victims had been working.

Rodolfo Viera escaped an assassination attempt eight months ago that was also blamed on rightists.

Informed sources said Pearlman had been working in San Salvador for the past seven months as an adviser to the Agrarian Institute and Hammer arrived Saturday for a brief visit. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said both worked for the American Institute for Free Labor Development, an international branch of the AFL-CIO that has been operating in El Salvador on and off since 1966.

Sources said Pearlman helped draft and administer the land reform laws announced by the junta early last year. A source quoted Pearlman as saying the land reform effort was intended "to take the wind out of the left's sails."

Leftists fighting a guerrilla war to replace the junta with a Marxist regime claim the government's land reform plan doesn't go far enough. But an estimated 80 percent of the 9,000 political killings last year were blamed on right-wingers opposed to any reforms reducing the economic and political power of the small conservative oligarchy that controlled El Salvador for years.

Four American women missionaries, three Roman Catholic nuns and a lay social worker, were shot to death outside San Salvador on Dec. 2. Their killers have not been caught, but it is generally assumed they were rightists who have made reform-minded Roman Catholic officials one of their main targets.

Thomas Bracken, described by officials here as an American mercenary, was shot to death by unidentified gunmen on Dec. 17.

Intense gunfire was heard in several areas of El Salvador Sunday night, and there were unconfirmed reports that leftist guerrillas were trying to gain control of a northern highway and the town of Ciudad Delgado, near the capital.

There was no official comment on the shooting. Witnesses said guerrillas used bazookas against government troops in trying to take the highway, one of the main links between the capital and rebel concentrations in the northern jungles of this Central American nation.

Radioactive steam creates blanket of snow at reactor's parking lot

MORRIS, Ill. (AP) — Radioactive steam vented unexpectedly from a power plant, then turned to snow in the sub-freezing air and sprinkled an empty parking lot, but the Nuclear Regulatory Commission says there was no threat to health or safety.

An NRC spokesman said Sunday the steam, laced with small amounts of the radioactive isotope cobalt-60, condensed and fell on a plant parking lot Saturday at the Dresden Nuclear Power Station during a test of a backup cooling system.

Linda Scott, a spokeswoman for Commonwealth Edison, which operates the plant, said the release came as the plant's No. 2 reactor unit was being closed down for refueling and said the shutdown proceeded without incident.

She said the radioactive material had been contained in what she described as "crud" that was stuck to the walls of a tank of water.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Collins, 1900 W. Texas Ave., spent Christmas with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill J. Harris, and children, Carol Ann and Russell Philip, at Tyler.

JAMES ALTON BOBBITT of Lodi has been awarded the designation of Knight of the York Cross of Honour. This honorary degree, highest in the York Rite of Freemasonry, is conferred only on those who have held the highest office in each of the four bodies of the rite.

Bobbitt served as Master of Midland Lodge of Masons in 1977, High Priest of Keystone Chapter, Royal Arch Masons in 1976, Master of Keystone Council, Royal and Select Masters in 1977, Commander of Midland Commandery, Knight Templar, in 1979.

PERMIAN BASIN STAMP CLUB will meet today at 7:30 p.m. at the Main Post Office Conference Room, 100 East Wall St., according to Jim Lunney, president.

Program will be a Philatelic Auction and the public is invited to attend and bring stamps or other philatelic items to be auctioned.

In another item of business, the club will vote on changing the regular meeting date from the first Monday to the first Thursday of each month, and on the collection of dues.

Trading of stamps and envelopes will be available to members, guests and visitors.

DEAR ABBY

Hypocritical non-drinker lacks guts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband is the head of a large corporation. He does not drink hard liquor, but very few people know this because he takes one drink and pretends to sip it all evening.

He watches his junior executives' drinking habits very carefully, and they are promoted accordingly. Anyone who takes more than two drinks is passed over for promotion — no matter how good a job he does.

I feel that my husband should have a talk with the man and give him a chance to cut down. He says, "No, once a drunk, always a drunk." He says it takes guts not to drink in today's society, and he needs men with guts to run the business right. What is your opinion? — SCARSDALE

DEAR SCARSDALE: If everyone who takes more than two drinks is (as your husband states) a "drunk," there are a lot of "drunks" effectively running a lot of businesses.

I agree, it takes guts not to drink in today's society, but one who "pretends" to drink it so no one will know he's a non-drinker is lacking guts himself. If guts is the issue, the person who says, "No thanks, I'm an alcoholic" has far more guts than your holier-than-thou abstainer.

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't believe that letter signed ARKIE. He said a dental supply salesman told him that big-city morticians made a fortune removing dental gold from the mouths of human remains while preparing them for burial. What a crock!

As a licensed mortician in Arkansas, I can assure you that such low-down practices are not tolerated in this or any other state. If ARKIE (or anyone else) has proof of such unethical conduct, he needs only to report it to the state board of embalming.

That dental supply salesman must be laughing out loud knowing his ridiculous story fooled both ARKIE and Abby. This is not a dig from a mortician, just the facts. — DUFFIE, JON, ESBO, ARK.

DEAR DUFFIE: Yup. I bought ARKIE'S story. Shame on me. And now morticians all over the country have come to bury Abby — not to praise her.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from BEEN THERE AND BACK, the woman who spent the last two years in a mental institution, interested me because I have also been there and back.

When people ask you where you've been, telling them is tough enough. But there is something worse — those tacky enough to ask, "Why were you in there?"

I finally thought up a very simple answer: "Because I'm crazy."

I've gotten some strange looks, a few laughs and a couple of walk-aways. But never has anyone come up with a response! — BEEN THERE TOO

Test-tube twins expected in Australia

LONDON (AP) — The world's first test-tube twins may be born in April in Australia as a result of a new development in the procedure for fertilization outside the mother's womb, according to a report in the British magazine New Scientist.

The magazine's correspondent in Canberra, the Australian capital, reported that two sets of twins are among nine embryos fertilized outside the womb, returned to the women from whom they came and now progressing normally at two Melbourne hospitals.

The report said the women were treated by Carl Wood, a professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Melbourne's Monash University who has developed a procedure for fertilizing human eggs produced by induced ovulation.

All four previous test-tube babies were born after eggs were taken from the mothers during their natural cycle of ovulation, the magazine said. It reported that Wood gave the mothers fertility drugs to induce ovulation, the process by which a mature ovum is produced and discharged from the woman's ovary.

As a result, doctors in future can schedule the time of ovulation and fertilization in advance, the magazine said, adding that such predictability will make it easier for clinics with limited resources to offer routine test-tube fertilizations.

The magazine said Wood treated 160 women last year. Five of the women who became pregnant produced two embryos. Some of these have since aborted, the New Scientist said, but two sets of non-identical twins remain. The first are to be born in April, it added.

The parents were not identified.

The world's first test tube baby was Louise Brown, born to a woman in Bristol, England on July 25, 1978. The birth followed 10 years of research by Cambridge University physiologist Robert Edwards and gynecologist Patrick Steptoe, who have since announced plans to open a private clinic for childless couples.

The procedure, also known as in vitro (in glass) fertilization, is used in cases where an egg cannot be fertilized normally because of a blockage of a woman's Fallopian tubes. The egg is removed and fertilized in the laboratory, then returned to the mother for the nine-month gestation period.

Willpower: It's not enough in solving problems

By JOHN FARINA
Copley News Service

Can't stop smoking? Browbeating your wife? Letting the boss give you too many work assignments? Eating too much?

Want to change all that? You can by looking at life a little more objectively and a little less emotionally, according to psychologist Kirk R. Wachtmann. But you'll have to work at it.

Willpower isn't always enough, as you might know by now, considering the failure rate of all those New Year's resolutions you were determined to keep — but never could.

Your problem likely is in one of two categories — you may be a little too passive or a little too aggressive.

FURTHERMORE, YOU'RE RELUCTANT to change your behavior because you're comfortable with those attitudes which seem to work for you, but really don't.

Is drinking excessively really a way to preserve a faltering marital relationship?

Does your dominating behavior really produce a worthwhile relationship with your spouse?

You want to please your boss, but is it worth high blood pressure and ulcers?

Wachtmann, who teaches a course in behavioral attitudes at University of California Extension, says every one develops some undesirable behavior pattern which makes interpersonal relationships difficult.

Recognizing the problem and attempting to solve it through sheer willpower doesn't work as a rule, said Wachtmann, unless the person involved has a tremendous amount of self-esteem and control over his environment.

"ALSO," said the doctor, "willpower does not usually in itself produce sufficient insight into behavioral patterns."

Unfortunately, the passivity factor looms ever larger in a society over which the individual seems to have less and less control, said Wachtmann.

What can one person do about inflation, war, and other societal stresses? Not very much, says

Wachtmann. So those conditions are accepted by most people who are under increasing control from outside factors, said Wachtmann.

And passive reactions breed still more passive reactions.

On the other hand, there are people who are tremendously assertive, but do not necessarily enjoy life more than the passive personality.

The domineering spouses who make life hell for their partners may think they have found the best form of behavior for them. But they may not realize that the behavior is not producing a full measure of happiness for either of them.

"Aggressive people usually get their way, but they don't have the best relationships," said Wachtmann.

Both the passive personality and the aggressive personality often are prone to physical ailments produced by stressful situations, said Wachtmann — tension, migraine headaches and similar maladies.

THE PASSIVE PERSONALITY gets into trouble because such people tend to be manipulated by others. The aggressive personality often is not liked by many people.

Either personality can turn to crutches: eating as a form of affection, smoking as an attempt to reduce stress, personality quirks to cover shortcomings.

Of course, passive reactions are appropriate to some situations, aggressive behavior to others.

But excesses can cause difficulties.

Wachtmann's message is that people — passive or aggressive — who find they don't like the way they're meeting life's problems should think before they react. Try new behavioral approaches. Experiment for a better way and greater happiness.

"Objectivity," he said, "is the key" to behavioral modification.

And you don't have to visit a psychiatrist to do that. Friends can help. Sometimes family members. Work associates.

Caning legalized in Kenya for hoarding food

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — In a move to end food shortages, Kenya has introduced mandatory corporal punishment for people convicted of smuggling and hoarding.

Caning is carried out by a prison officer using a birch cane after a magistrate determines the number of strokes.

President Daniel Arap Moi signed a law Thursday providing the penalty for both male and female smugglers. Until now, smuggling and hoarding have been punished by fines and prison terms. Women had been exempt from caning in any case.

During the past year, Kenya has faced acute shortages of maize meal, milk, rice and cheese. Government officials have blamed the shortages on hoarding by traders and black-marketers, and on smuggling across the border to Uganda.

Beauty mask recipes

By PATRICIA DIBSIE
Copley News Service

The Make-Up Center in New York City uses many beauty masks — some to moisturize, others to tighten the skin, according to makeup specialist Rose Cartier.

Many of these masks can be made at home in the kitchen, but there are important considerations to remember for beneficial results. If the ingredients in a mask require refrigeration before using, the mask will need refrigeration afterward, too. But keep it safe. Only make enough mask for one application, and then just before you intend to apply it to your face.

If softer skin is the goal, try a corn milk facial. Grate an ear of corn, gather the mash into a piece of cheesecloth (or gauze) and squeeze into a clean container. Apply the liquid to the face and neck. Add another application when the first one dries, gently massaging it into the skin.

After 20 minutes of repeated applications, allow the last layer to dry completely. Then rinse with warm water.

only.

Some swear this leaves a softer skin.

Buttermilk and natural yogurt are said to be skin bleachers. Apply either to the face and let dry. Again, rinse with warm water.

And then there's Cleopatra's tightening mask: Beat together one whole egg, one tablespoon of milk and one teaspoon of honey. Apply to the face and allow to harden. Let the mask remain for as long as possible. Rinse off with warm water.

And last, a wrinkle fighter: Beat an egg yolk until fluffy, add a tablespoon of olive oil, and apply to the face. Let stand for 15 minutes and rinse away. Variation: Replace the olive oil with two capsules of lecithin.

These and many other mask suggestions come from The Make-Up Center in New York City and are contained in a book by that name written by Caryl Wendkos-LaTorre.

"It's true, any woman can be pretty," Cartier said. "Some just require a little more work than others."

Fellowship awarded

NEW YORK (AP) — Mona Van Duyn has been awarded a $10,000 fellowship by the Academy of American Poets.

Miss Van Duyn is the 40th recipient of the award, which is given at least once a year "for distinguished poetic achievement."

She is the author of five books of poetry.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Pickled beets are so good!

DEAR HELOISE:

A few years ago, you had a recipe in the newspaper for Pickled Chinese Beets. They were delicious and the whole family just loved them.

So, grab your scissors, gals and guys, and clip this recipe. Don't miss an opportunity to enjoy some good eatin'!

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: This thought is not original but, considering the times, I feel it's appropriate.

DEAR HELOISE:

Can you help those of us who are struggling to feed our families, yet still trying to keep our homes spotless by using budget cleaning supplies?

Besides, Mom and Dad can enjoy the movie, too. — Susan Maddex

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a good tip for people who travel a lot by plane, as I do.

I make brightly colored nylon net pompons in a contrasting color and tie one to each piece of luggage.

Now, when my suitcases come down the luggage ramp, I can quickly spot them. — C.C.D.

A simple matter to go to the index box to look up which book it's in. Saves me a lot of time as I have many cookbooks. — Ann Noren

LETTER OF THOUGHT

After reading that the hint from one of your contest winners was to make numbers for mailboxes, etc., out of self-adhesive paper, I thought your readers might be interested in a project being started in my hometown.

We're trying to get each home to have its house numbers displayed where they can be easily read or picked up by a spotlight.

Our emergency services have coined a slogan. We can't help you if we can't find you. How true!

We've had great response in a united volunteer project to get building numbers up and out front.

If the front door is visible from the street, they suggest you put 4 to 7 inch high numbers on or beside the front door.

For a house back from the street, put two sets of 4 inch reflective numbers visible from both directions at the end of the drive that can be seen with headlights. If you want to make your own, we suggest using bicycle reflector tape.

The numbers not only cut response time in an emergency but conserve fuel and costs for everyone. — Saralie Jones

DEAR HELOISE:

I send some of my own address labels to family members and friends whom I write to often.

They can easily stick one of the labels on an envelope when addressing a letter to me.

This really helps an older sister of mine whose handwriting is a little shaky. — Lucile Jones

DEAR HELOISE:

Thaw meat out on an open egg carton. The egg carton catches all the blood and drippings, keeping it away from the meat.

This saves you making a mess in the refrigerator. — Sheryl Selig

DEAR HELOISE:

While taking our small children to see a children's movie, we discovered that taking along a booster chair saves wear and tear on Mom and Dad.

The children can see the movie from their own seat and are much happier not having to sit in a parent's lap.

RECIPE FILE

Dear Heloise: Whenever I try a cookbook recipe that I like, I write down the title of the book it's in on a card and place it in my recipe box under the proper category.

Then, when I want to use the recipe again, it's

Have a great hint that could be helpful to someone else? Send it to Heloise in care of this newspaper. She can't answer your letter personally but will use the best tips received in her column.

PICKLED CHINESE BEETS

- 3 (No. 303) cans beets lecup sugar 21tablespoons cornstarch 24whole cloves 21tablespoons catsup 21tablespoons cooking oil

- Dash of salt 1teaspoon vanilla 1 1/2cups beet juice.

Mix all the ingredients in a pan and cook for three minutes over medium heat, or until the mixture thickens. After cooling, store in the refrigerator.

That's all there is to it, honeybuns. Serve these over cottage cheese or chop them up in salads, or eat them right out of the jar. Delicious!

FABULOUS FIFTIES

Dear Heloise: To recycle the two-quart size plastic bags from the vegetable department at the supermarket, use a gallon bleach bottle or similar jug. Cut off the top.

Place the bag inside the container and set it in or near the sink. You have the perfect receptacle for all wet garbage.

Keep a clamp clothespin handy to close the bag in between meals to keep down odors. At the end of the day, close the top of the bag with a twistie and put the bag in the garbage can.

Next morning, another plastic bag in the container and you're back in business. — Mrs. Wm. J. Matthews

AT WIT'S END

Dressing for success

By ERMA BOMBECK

I've never been what you might call "dressed for success."

I'm the type that when wigs were in, I couldn't stand the deception. I'd walk into a restroom of strangers and say to the woman who held the door open for me, "Thanks, I'm wearing a wig, you know."

I used to fantasize about entering a room in a smart black skirt with a slit to my knee and dark-rimmed glasses to disguise my violet eyes and play down my sensuous mouth. As a pathetically enamored man would stare at my long legs entwined around one another, I would snap, "What are you staring at? We have a bridge to build." And he would stammer, "You have a puckered heel on the top of your foot. I think you have your hose on backwards."

I'd wake up in a sweat.

I used to sit in airports and study the people who were dressed for the top of the corporate ladder, and you know what I discovered? The men and women who, when they talked, E.F. Hutton listened, all carried attaché cases.

No wonder no one took me seriously. My business cards smelled like hair spray. My speeches had splashes all over them from felt-tip pens. My boarding pass always had a piece of discarded gum folded over in the corner.

I took my first attaché case to Washington last week and I looked like a winner.

The man sitting next to me and I both had our attaché cases returned when we were airborne and opened them at the same time. Out of the corner of my eyes, I surveyed his. It was as neat as the cupboards of a model home. Two manila folders, one marked "CONFIDENTIAL," pens, airline ticket, legal scratch tablet, paper clips, rubber bands, stamps, calculator, price cost notebook, clean shirt neatly folded, socks, change of underwear, toiletries bag, and a copy of Forbes.

I opened my attaché case. Three candy bars, five curlers, a pen without a cap, a bread dough brooch, two unmailed letters, a stack of notebook paper, a trashy novel that could only be read with the cover folded back, a sandwich bag containing Christmas cutouts that you stuff with cotton and sew the opening shut for ornaments.

When I left the plane, I inadvertently left my attaché case. The man said to me, "Better be careful. Someone will steal it."

I figured it would be like stealing Bette Midler's luggage. It would serve them right.

Breakfast helps kids make better grades

Children who eat nutritionally adequate breakfasts usually have significantly better total diets than children who don't eat breakfast.

And students who achieve higher scholastic levels have significantly better diets than children who are poorer students. These are among the findings of a doctoral thesis by Josephine Martin, former head of Georgia's school food service and past president of the American School Food Service Association. Her 1979 study of fourth grade students and their eating habits in Atlanta also shows that higher achievers obtain fewer calories from snacks and soft drinks.

This supports the thesis that children — rich or poor — who don't get breakfast before they come to school in the morning are likely to be sleepy, dull and hungry during morning classes. Students can be too hungry to concentrate on their class work.

However, school kids don't have to go to class hungry. Parents who don't have time in the morning to prepare a good breakfast can send their children to school for a meal of fruit or juice, cereal or toast, milk, and an additional protein food. Children may even have fresh breakfast rolls made in the school cafeteria kitchen. That is, if their school participates in the School Breakfast Program.

This program is similar to the National School Lunch Program. Participating schools must serve nutritious meals every school morning. Both pupils and teachers can buy the breakfast at a reasonable price.

If children don't have the money for breakfast, schools can arrange to give them breakfast free, or at a reduced price. Children receiving free or reduced price breakfasts cannot openly be identified, or discriminated against in any way, and school must offer the breakfast to all the children.

"Previously, I was opposed to the breakfast program," said one school superintendent. "I thought it was the parents duty to feed their kids at home in the morning."

"But one day when one of the 'sick' kids at school asked for some crackers because he had a stomach ache, I wondered how many in the classroom were feeling bad because they were hungry," he said. "We began a trial breakfast program in the district a few years ago, and everyone, especially the teachers, are supporting 100 percent."

Pretty face involves makeup over matter

By PATRICIA DIBSIE Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The best part is that you don't have to start out pretty.

It just happens, naturally. Or something like that. Somewhere between the lotions and the creams, the powders and the brushes, a new look takes hold — one that's sure to please, if it's done right.

And doing it right isn't that hard, it just takes practice, according to makeup artist Rose Cartier of Beverly Hills and New York City.

Cartier is a facial artist with The Make-Up Center in New York City (the center cares for the faces of some of the world's most glamorous women — models, actresses and television stars). She's opening a West Coast outlet for the center's famous line of cosmetics — On Stage

The artist is better known for her makeup on magazine cover girls. Many of the models on the covers of Vogue, Glamour and Mademoiselle look to Cartier for her expertise.

She has just finished working with Sally Struthers on the movie, "Gun In The House."

Cartier has worked with Barbra Streisand, Cher, Liza Minnelli... the list goes on and on.

Cartier flew here from New York to demonstrate current makeup fashion: "Pastels," she said.

That seems to be the latest gospel from the beauty trend setters of Paris. (Of course, one must take into consideration that such trends travel across the ocean by slow boat to New York and from there by covered wagon to the West Coast.)

Proper diet and pregnancy should go together, says nutritionist

In this age of nutrition consciousness-raising, proper diet is essential to the physical and mental well-being of a vast group who remain passive on the issue: the unborn.

"Pregnant women have a responsibility to themselves and to their unborn babies to maintain the best nutritional pattern possible," says Dr. Sarah Short, a professor of nutrition at Syracuse University, author and mother of three.

According to Dr. Short, the best time for a mother-to-be to establish an ideal nutritional pattern is before she becomes pregnant. She advises, "Greet pregnancy when you're in the peak of health — not overweight, not underweight, but with all systems 'go' for nurturing the child you'll bring into the world."

Women will do well to carefully plan their weight gains throughout their pregnancies, following their physicians' advice as closely as possible, Dr. Short says, adding, "Most doctors and nutritionists now believe that the average mother-to-be should ideally gain 24-27 pounds throughout her pregnancy."

Dr. Short cautions women not to diet to lose weight during their pregnancies, for she believes their unborn children could suffer severely from and inadequate amount of essential nutrients.

Even more important than how much the mother-to-be eats, what she eats can profoundly affect her child's health as well as her own, says Dr. Short. Again, she advises accordance with a doctor's recommendations for proper diet, and suggest that careful programming of nutrient intake will most likely require adequate amounts of calcium, protein and B vitamins as well as all the other essential nutrients. Many physicians will also advise supplementing the diet with iron and folic acid (a B vitamin), she says, and drinking six to eight glasses of fluoridated water a day.

To debunk some modern-day old wives' tales which she feels confuse many a mother-to-be, Dr. Short says, "In spite of what pregnant women may hear from their mothers and grandmothers about the need to limit their salt intake, we now know that the need for iodized salt actually increases during pregnancy."

For the special concerns of vegetarian mothers, she offers, "It's important to consult a doctor about the nutritional adequacy of the particular type of vegetarian diet to which the mother-to-be subscribes. Some of these programs, such as the one which eliminates eggs and dairy products as well as meat, may not provide enough protein, iron, vitamin B-12 and some other substances an unborn child needs. And the consequences could be tragic."

Smoking, drug use and drinking of alcoholic beverages can be health hazards for both a mother-to-be and her unborn child, according to Dr. Short. Smoking and even a moderate amount of daily alcohol intake have been linked to lowered birth weight in babies, she says. And it's important for a pregnant woman to consult her physician about any medication she plans to take, for in effect, her baby will be taking it, too.

Even after the birth of her child, a mother may still feel bombarded by a plethora of old wives' tales about nutrition, says Dr. Short. So she explains, "The American Academy of Pediatrics has asserted that, in spite of myths to the contrary, mother's milk is the ideal sustenance for newborns. And when a mother cannot, or chooses not, to breast-feed, commercially prepared infant formula — which closely matches human milk in nutrient balance — is the best alternate form of nutrition for her baby."

"Unmodified cow milk, on the other hand," she continues, "has too much salt and protein for an infant's young digestive system and not enough iron and some other substances a newborn needs." Her conclusion is that breast milk or formula, or a carefully planned combination of the two, should comprise the diet mainstay of a child's entire first year of life.

Proper timing of the introduction of solid foods to infants is an issue which has long been clouded in controversy as well, says Dr. Short. To clear the confusion, she says she agrees with the many other nutritionists and pediatricians who now believe that children are generally not ready to digest solids until sometime between their fourth and sixth months of life. Again, though, she recommends accordance with the instructions of the youngster's doctor.

Tea exhibition

NEW YORK (AP) — An exhibition that explores the social, cultural, political and economic impact of tea on life in 18th-century America is being shown at the Fraunces Tavern Museum through June 19.

The museum says that "Tea: A Revolutionary Tradition" is the "first exhibition to focus on the history of tea and the development of tea drinking in 18th-century America from both an historical and aesthetic perspective."

The show consists of prints, paintings, decorative arts, rare books, manuscripts and artifacts.

Estate dispute settled

LITTLEFIELD, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for both sides involved in the dispute over the multi-million dollar will of South Plains cotton farmer F.O. Masten have reached an out-of-court agreement, according to a Lubbock newspaper.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported in today's editions that sources close to the case said the settlement, reached Saturday, was the result of six months of negotiations between attorneys for Abilene Christian University and Masten's relatives.

State District Judge Pat Boone, who was to have presided over the trial, declined to comment on the reported settlement Sunday. "I am not giving out any news stories on this case," he said.

Attorneys for both sides, also contacted Sunday, declined to reveal the terms of the settlement because Boone has placed a gag order on all parties involved.

A hearing is still scheduled at 9 a.m. Monday, but the 163 prospective jurors who had been called for the case have been contacted and told not to appear, a court official said.

Since Masten's death last year, a major legal battle has been brewing over one small scrap of paper that could represent millions to a small Church of Christ university or wealth for Masten's relatives.

Before he died last January, Masten scrawled a hand-written note on a doctor's pad, saying he wanted his $12 million holdings to go to Abilene Christian University.

But 18 members of Masten's family claim the ailing, 89-year-old cotton farmer was out of his head when he penned the note, suffering from the mouth cancer that eventually killed him.

"What you've got here is an old man who might very well have wanted ACU to have the money or who might have had no idea what he was doing," said one attorney who asked not to be named. "You just never knew about Masten. That's what is going to be so difficult to figure out."

The aging, eccentric farmer scribbled a note on hospital stationery in late 1979 that left his entire estate to Abilene Christian.

Court records reviewed by the Avalanche-Journal before Boone's order show Masten wrote the will 72 days before he died on Jan. 8, 1980, and the school probated the instrument the next day.

Masten relatives claimed ACU President Dr. John Stevens got Masten to make out the will through fraud and misrepresentation. Statements filed on behalf of the family contended the note is not a valid will, but a letter, and that Masten's medicine "affected his brain."

Ironically, Masten successfully contested his wife's 1967 will, which left a portion of her $4.8 million estate to ACU.

Stevens has declined comment on the entire affair. But his lawyer has produced a statement from Joan Burris, who was hired to sit with Masten at the hospital. Ms. Burris described the family as "a bunch of vultures circling over an old animal, waiting for it to die."

The relatives also say that two other notes written on Oct. 28, 1979, make provisions for a woman in Amarillo to receive $25,000 yearly and a part of Masten's property and for compensation for his nieces and nephews, who have joined in claiming the will is not valid.

Masten's sprawling, 111,300 acre-ranch, which spreads over parts of six West Texas counties on the New Mexico border, is estimated in the court documents to be worth $12 million.

Earlier evaluations, which include oil and gas rights, place the value of the estate at about $80 million.

Court records also show that doctors and nurses who treated Masten during his hospitalization gave depositions last October and November. All said the found Masten to be alert and rational at the time the note was written.

But a Lamb County court ruled on Nov. 7, 1979, that Masten was "of unsound mind" and appointed his brother, Robert Masten, to provide for his medical care.

The court also ordered Masten's nephew, W.C. Masten, to oversee all farm and ranch operations. A copy of Masten's note included in court records reads:

"Dr. John Stephens
"My dear friend;
"It is now my will and testimony (sic) to leave (sic) Abilene Christian University all I have in this world take over as soon as possible. Yours truly,
"F.O. Masten
"I want W.C. Lewis to be my executor."

Masten's genius for cotton farming was well-known in agriculture circles and he was credited with pioneering many improvements in cotton growing at his headquarters in Sudan, about 20 miles north of here.

This is a 1965 file photo of F.O. Masten left his multi-million estate to Abilene Christian University. Relatives filed a suit contesting the will. (AP Laserphoto)

Buffalo, N.Y. police compare notes

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Working on the theory that one man killed eight black men in the Buffalo area and Rochester, city detectives were heading for Manhattan today to compare notes with New York City police about four similar slayings there last month.

Four men, three blacks and one dark-skinned Hispanic, were stabbed to death and two wounded in Manhattan during a 10-hour period on Dec. 22, apparently by the same man, authorities said.

Erie County District Attorney Edward Cosgrove has said he believes the upstate attacks may be linked to those in Manhattan.

Cosgrove had predicted on Friday that authorities would capture a suspect in the case by Saturday. He refused comment Sunday on the prediction.

Meanwhile, Buffalo police revealed that they had recovered a hunting knife near the scene of the latest attack on a black man in western New York.

The knife, about six inches long with a wooden handle, was found Saturday a block from the home of Larry Little of Buffalo. Police said Little fought off a white assailant near his home Friday morning.

The suspect has been described by witnesses as a white male, between 5-foot-7 and 5-foot-10, with a fair complexion and short brown or light brown hair.

One black man in Buffalo and another in Rochester were stabbed to death by a white man last week. Six black men were slain in the Buffalo area in September and October, four of them by the same 22-caliber gun.

Little gave police one of their few solid clues in the three-month search for the killer — a description of the attacker's getaway car and a partial license plate number.

Cosgrove said a computer check of autos has turned up hundreds of registrations fitting Little's description. He said Buffalo police questioned two white men Saturday about the attacks, but both were released because of lack of evidence. They remain under police surveillance.

Many pregnancies were unwanted

Dear Dr. Solomon: With all the talk about birth control and abortion, I'm curious about how many women become pregnant when they don't want to. Are there any statistics gathered on this? — Arlene

Dear Arlene: According to Urban Health, the "1976 National Survey of Family Growth" showed that more than 8 million women in the United States did not want to have their babies at the time they became pregnant. This figure included more than one-fourth of the more than 3,000 black women who were interviewed, and almost one-tenth of the more than 22,000 white women.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband is slowly recovering from a bad case of viral hepatitis, which had first been misdiagnosed as the flu. Any information you can give me about hepatitis, including treatment, will be appreciated. Do most people make a full recovery from this illness? — Mrs. R.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: It is not unusual for viral hepatitis in its early stages to be confused with other viral illnesses, such as the flu, because they do resemble each other. The disease may range from extremely mild to very severe, in some cases even resulting in death; however, complete recovery is the rule in almost all instances.

There are different types of hepatitis, but all involve inflammation of the liver — infectious hepatitis (Type

A), serum hepatitis (Type B), and a recently identified strain, non-A, non-B hepatitis. Type A, the mildest form, can occur suddenly or very gradually. Anyone exposed to a person with Type A hepatitis may be protected with injections of gamma globulin.

Type B is the most dangerous form of the disease, frequently leading to chronic hepatitis which may last for months or even years. This type is seen quite often among young adults and in large metropolitan areas where contaminated needles used by drug abusers help spread the disease from one person to another. In addition, Type B hepatitis can be spread through blood transfusions from infected donors. Gamma globulin also is used on occasion to prevent the disease in people who have had contact with patients with Type B hepatitis.

Their symptoms of the disease include fever, nausea, vomiting, extreme fatigue, aching muscles, headache, loss of appetite, and dark urine. Very often the patient develops jaundice, a yellowing of the skin which may also include the whites of the eyes. In addition, a person with Type B hepatitis may suffer from itchy hives and possibly arthritis.

The only effective cure for hepatitis is the ability of the patient's body to combat the disease. Recommended treatment includes bed rest and nutritious foods and liquids.

Judges battle again

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A state judge has ordered troopers posted at a rural high school on Monday when three teen-age girls are expected to attempt to attend classes there in violation of a federal judge's desegregation order.

It could be the most dramatic confrontation yet in a Rapides Parish tug-of-war between Louisiana District Judge Richard Lee and U.S. District Judge Nauman Scott.

Lee, in an order Friday, ordered the troopers to be at Buckeye High School when classes resumed after the Christmas holidays in case anyone should try to prevent the girls from enrolling. As part of his order, Lee made the girls wards of his court and the state of Louisiana their guardians.

Lee's action followed a threat by Scott to fine anyone — parents, guardians, school officials or sheriff's deputies — who prevented the girls from enrolling at an Alexandria junior high school on Jan. 5. Lee assigned the white girls to the predominantly black school 15 miles away from their homes as part of a desegregation plan.

The battle between the judges started soon after Scott announced his desegregation plan last year.

The girls' parents gave up custody of their children to friends living in the new attendance zone for all-white Buckeye High School so the girls could go to school there.

Lee approved the custody swap and told Scott to stay out of it, twice assigning deputy sheriffs to accompany the girls to classes. Scott's threat of fines came the day before school recessed in December for the holidays.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has declined to stay Scott's desegregation order while the case is pending before the appellate panel.

Small businesses not showing much optimism

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The winter gloom might have set the mood, and those slow-pay and no-pay customers might have deepened it, so it's no surprise that small-businesses aren't very optimistic this month.

Interest rates, materials costs and payroll expenses are expected to remain high or even rise, while sales and profits shrink. The economic winter, that is, will coexist with the ice, the wind and the snow.

"There is no real cause for economic optimism among small business owners," says Herbert Liebeson, president of the National Small Business Association, which regularly surveys small-business owners.

Adds Liebeson: "The overall direction for small business is down and will remain that way until major steps are taken to get the economy going again." Grim comments, documented by cold facts.

The NSB business outlook index, derived from a monthly survey covering 12 economic indicators, fell in January to just 39 points, of a possible 100, compared with 54 last September and 45 in December.

What's especially bothersome about the decline is that it is a rather significant "leading indicator" that, says Liebeson, "anticipates government studies which take many months longer to complete."

Bothersome also is the way in which it diverges from attitudes along Wall Street, where many analysts feel confident that business will work its way out of the doldrums. Witness that confidence in the rising prices of many stocks in spite of vast national economic problems.

Small business is very different from big business — small business groups spend much energy emphasizing the point — but small and big also suffer economic pitfalls together. And so, it can be said, there may be a big-business message in small-business gloom.

What can be done? Liebeson's message sounds like an echo. "Trimming down the public sector and providing small business tax cuts to promote growth can take us a long way to solving the problem."

That opinion was given mainly as a remedy for high interest rates, which often have to be swallowed rather than passed on to customers in the manner of big business. But as Liebeson say, "High interest rates, with all the damage they do, are a direct result of inflation."

In spite of their mood, small businesses do feel a bit more secure than a few years ago, when they feared being squeezed to death by the "big three" of big business, big government and big labor.

One year ago a White House Conference on Small Business produced a new recognition of the small business role — as creator of jobs and trainer of skills, among other things — and several legislative victories have been won since then, including the Omnibus Small Business Act.

One thing the act does is speed up guaranteed loans and set up new financing programs to help employee stock ownership programs purchase small businesses. And it permits small business to compete for government orders that once went almost routinely to big business.

Also high on the list of accomplishments was passage of the Equal Access to Justice Act, which requires federal agencies to pay a small business' court costs in fighting unwarranted regulatory penalties.

But those are victories won, and small business today doesn't look back. It is realistic, aggressive, organized, aware of its role and fanly equipped to publicize itself. It looks ahead; it seeks more.

Frustratingly, and maybe just for the time being, it doesn't see many victories ahead in the marketplace.

Ill infants have better chance today

CLEVELAND (AP) — Premature and seriously ill infants have a better chance of growing up today because of newborn intensive care units like the one at Cleveland Metropolitan General-Highland View Hospital.

The two-year-old unit, which handles about 800 babies a year, can help keep infants alive even if they are born three months premature, according to director Dr. Melinda S. Kwong.

The premature and sick infants may stay in one of the 30 isolate incubators for up to several months, until they are big enough and strong enough to go home. Each day in the unit costs $400.

It is a medically but not emotionally sterile environment.

Vacuum cleaner repair is Harold Ervin's bag

Harold Ervin, owner of B & B Appliance at 1109 N. Midkiff Road, probably knows more about vacuum cleaners than anyone in Midland. A 27-year veteran in the field of vacuum cleaner repair, Ervin can assess the problem and give you a free estimate of the repair cost in a matter of minutes. A former serviceman trainer for Hoover, Ervin says he'll do "anything that has to be done" to a vacuum cleaner to keep it operating at maximum efficiency.

What's more, Ervin does all the repairs himself. "If something doesn't work, there's no one to blame but me," he said. But Ervin says he's not in the sales business. "My only business is service," he says, adding that there will be no high pressured pitch to buy a new machine in his shop. With low overhead, B & B Appliance can offer low repair costs, too. Ervin says any vacuum cleaner fan can be replaced for under $20, for example. Ervin also repairs some small appliances, and says he specializes in mixer repairs. Open from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, B & B Appliance features general vacuum cleaner repair with overnight service. Bring your faulty vacuum to B & B Appliance at 1109 N. Midkiff Road for friendly, professional servicing, or give Harold Ervin a call at 697-2369.

General Motors Corp. raises automobile prices today

DETROIT (AP) — The average sticker price of a General Motors Corp. car will rise $149 today, but some models will become slightly cheaper, the nation's largest automaker said last week. Prices of the subcompact Chevrolet Chevette, a 5-year-old model that is GM's smallest and most popular car, will be cut by $100. The prices of the popular "X-Car" front-wheel-drive compacts — the Chevrolet Citation, Pontiac Phoenix, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Skylark — will remain unchanged. Those prices had been raised about 10 percent when the 1981 models were introduced in the auto industry's last round of increases. The prices of the subcompact Chevrolet Monza and Pontiac Sunbird, which are no longer in production and are due to be replaced in May by the front-wheel-drive "J-car," also will stay the same. A Detroit-area dealer who asked not to be identified, said the Chevette price cut "is a declaration of war on the Ford Escort, Mercury Lynx, Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon."

In New York, Rafael Cohen, head of the Independent Dealers Committee For Action, a dealers' group frequently critical of the manufacturers, said he feared the higher prices would drive away potential buyers. "When it gets down to wheels or butter, butter wins," Cohen said. Chrysler Corp. is giving rebates of 7 percent on almost all its models until Jan. 20, and Ford Motor Co. is limiting finance charges to 12 percent on six car lines until Feb. 7.

Safety administrator refutes Reagan saying auto safety is cost effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief of the National Traffic Safety Administration, rejecting a finding by advisers to President-elect Ronald Reagan, says there are still ways her agency can increase the safety of cars without sharply raising their prices. Joan Claybrook said Tuesday that thousands of lives could be saved with about two dozen additional automobile safety features which have "minimal or negligible cost." She said she sent automakers a list of the features, which include brake wear and low tire pressure indicators, bigger rear brake lights, more interior padding and plastic linings on windshields to protect against broken glass on impact. Her comments were in rebuttal to a statement by a Reagan transportation advisory group that the agency "has effectively exhausted its ability to increase automobile safety at reasonable social cost." Mrs. Claybrook's remarks were made during a news conference called to discuss a detailed comparison of test results of more than 2,000 tire brands and models. "Some tires may vary in price by as much as $30 apiece, yet offer the same performance," as measured by a new grading system, Mrs. Claybrook said.

Three West Texas strikes final

Operators have announced potential tests on discoveries in Terry, Nolan and Runnels counties, and proven field areas of West Texas have gained new wells.

TERRY STRIKE

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland No. 1 Newsom has been completed as a lower Clear Fork discovery in Terry County, 14 miles west of Brownfield.

The operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 10 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 1/2 barrel of water, through perforations from 7,847 to 7,855 feet. The zone was acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 20,000 gallons.

Total depth is 10,541 feet, and 4 1/2-inch casing is set at plugged back depth of 7,970 feet.

The lower Clear Fork was topped at 7,843 feet on ground elevation of 3,414 feet. Other tops include the Yates, 3,319 feet; San Andres, 1,774 feet; Glorieta, 6,780 feet; upper Clear Fork, 6,814 feet and Tubb, 7,815 feet.

Location is 990 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 89, block D-11, C&M survey.

The discovery is one mile northwest of the depleted opener of Coroco (Wolfcamp) field and 3 1/4 miles northeast of the one-well Coroco (Clear Fork) pool.

NOLAN OPENER

R. L. Adkins Corp. of Sweetwater Nod 1 Stanley has been completed as an Ellenburger discovery five miles south of Sweetwater in Nolan County.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 110 barrels of 45-gravity oil and 190 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,518 to 6,524 feet. The pay was washed with 250 gallons of mud acid. The gas-oil ratio was not reported.

Total depth is 6,600 feet, 4 1/2-inch pipe is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 6,547 feet.

The Ellenburger was topped at 6,484 feet on ground elevation of 2,165 feet. Other tops include the Noodle Creek, 3,644 feet; Strawn, 6,031 feet; Odom, 6,318 feet; and Mississippian, 6,410 feet.

RUNNELS DISCOVERY

Tex-Star Petroleum Oil & Gas of Abilene No. 2 Aldridge, a re-entry project in Runnels County, has been completed as a Mississippian gas discovery.

The well, one mile north of Content, finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 3,750,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with a gas-liquid ratio of 250.875-1. Gravity of the fluid is 62 degrees.

Completion was from pay behind casing perforations at 4,514-4,519 feet after a 1,000-gallon acid treatment. The Mississippian was topped at 4,510 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,000 feet.

The well is a former producer in the Burney (Gray oil) pool.

FISHER WELL

Penroc Energy (formerly Frank O. Cox of Abilene) No. 1 Humphries has been completed as the second well in the Sylvester, East (Strawn) field of Fisher County, three miles northeast of Sylvester.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 47 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 95 barrels of water, through perforations from 5,669 to 5,676 feet. The perforations were washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. Completion came after a 12,000-gallon fracture job.

Scheduled as a wildcat, No. 1 Humphries drilled to 5,502 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing was set at 5,500 feet. Well site is 1,650 feet from south and west lines of section 49, block 1, HT&B survey and one location northeast of the other producer.

REAGAN PRODUCER

Champlin Petroleum Co., operating from Midland, has completed No. 3-70 Estelle Council in the Conger, Southwest (Pennsylvanian) field of Reagan County, 19 miles southeast of Garden city.

The well finished for a daily flow of three barrels of 40.2-gravity oil and 11 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 146,667-1.

Completion was through a 20/64-inch choke and perforations from 8,244 to 8,328 feet after 2,000 gallon of acid and 70,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Total depth is 8,600 feet, 4 1/2-inch pipe is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 8,550 feet.

Well site is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 70, block 2, T&P survey.

PECOS OILER

Olsen Energy, Inc. No. 1 Barnett is a new well in the Abell (Permian general) pool of Pecos County, seven miles east of Imperial.

It completed for a daily flowing potential of six barrels of 33.8-gravity oil and three barrels of water, through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 2,884 to 3,758 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 29,167-1, and the pay was acidized with 8,300 gallons and fractured with 14,600 gallons.

Total depth is 3,830 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 3,785 feet.

Location is 467 feet from northeast and 530 feet from northwest lines of section 15, block 2, H&TC survey.

ANDREWS WELL

Amoco Production Co. No. 29 Midland Farms (Deep) Unit has been completed in the Midland Farms, West (Devonian) field of Andrews County, 13 miles southeast of Andrews.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 19 barrels of 34.6-gravity oil and no water, through a 13/64-inch choke and perforations from 11,011 to 11,056 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 890-1, and the pay was acidized with 20,000 gallons.

Total depth is 12,795 feet, 5 1/2-inch pipe is set at 12,793 feet and hole is plugged back to 12,350 feet. The pay was topped at 11,011 feet on ground elevation of 3,036 feet.

Well site is 2,101 feet from south and 550 feet from east lines of section 24, block 42, T-1-N, G&MB&A survey.

STONEWALL COMPLETION

Bright & Co. of Dallas No. 1 R. F. Clark is a new well, the fourth, in the Peacock (Tannehill) field of Stonewall County, two miles east of Peacock.

It finished for a daily pumping potential of 80 barrels of 38-gravity oil, no water, through perforations from 3,523 to 3,541 feet after 1,000 gallons of acid and 18,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Location is 467 feet from north and west lines of section 264, block D, H&TC survey. It is one location southwest of other Tannehill production.

Total depth is 3,650 feet and 4 1/2-inch pipe is set on bottom.

Burleson strikes in Pecos; Culberson wildcat slated

Lewis B. Burleson, Inc. of Midland has announced potential on a Yates discovery in Pecos County, 12 miles west of Fort Stockton.

No. 1 Pioneer potential for a calculated absolute open flow of 2,700,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 2,559 to 2,571 feet, which had been acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 36,000 gallons.

Operator has requested the field designation of either Roberta (Yates) or Spool (Yates).

The hole bottomed at 2,775 feet, where 4.5-inch casing was set. On ground elevation of 3,244 feet, the pay was topped at 2,490 feet.

Well site is 1,980 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 101, block 3, T&P survey.

CULBERSON WILDCAT

Petroleum Technical Services Co., operating from Midland, has staked location for an oil wildcat in Culberson County, 22 miles northwest of Orfa.

No. 1 Mecum Trust is 467 feet from south and east lines of section 20, block 58, T-1, T&P survey.

It is three-fourths mile east of nearest production in the three-well Ed Kennedy (Cherry Canyon) field, which produces from 3,530 feet. Contract depth is 4,500 feet.

LOVING OUTPOST

Exxon Corp. of Midland will drill a project in the Linebery (Silurian gas) field of Loving County, one mile north of the field's opener and lone producer.

No. 1 C. G. Ludeman "B" is 1,867 feet from south and east lines of section 11, block C-25, Public School Land survey, and 19 miles northwest of Kermit. The test is scheduled to 20,300 feet.

CRANE RE-ENTRY

Gulf Oil Corp. of Midland will re-enter No. 10 McElroy Ranch Co. "G," a producer in the McElroy, North (Devonian oil) field of Crane County for dual completion attempt from the Wolfcamp.

Test site is 1,040 feet from south and 840 feet from west lines of section 18, block 42, T-5-S, T&P survey, and eight miles north of Crane.

It is two-fifths mile south of the opener and lone producer from the McElroy Ranch (Wolfcamp) field, which was completed in July 1980, through perforations from 7,696 to 7,725 feet.

Gulf will perforate at approximately 7,677 feet for the Wolfcamp tests.

PECOS TESTS

Exxon Corp. of Midland has staked two locations in the current eight-well Fort Stockton (lower Yates) field of Pecos County.

No. 218 Fort Stockton Unit, two-thirds mile northeast of nearest production, is 350 feet from southeast and 1,600 feet from southwest lines of section 306, Garcia, Montez & Duran survey, 8.5 miles north of Fort Stockton. Contract depth is 3,400 feet.

No. 721 Fort Stockton Unit is 875 feet from south and 2,260 feet from east lines of section 17, block 119, GS&F survey, 7.5 miles north of Fort Stockton, and is five-eighths mile south of nearest production. Contract depth is 3,450 feet.

REAGAN/IRION TESTS

Palo Petroleum, Inc. of Dallas staked four outposts to the one-well Barnhart, Northeast (Grayburg oil) pool, 11 miles southeast of Big Lake in Reagan County.

Each will be drilled to 2,100 feet. No. 1S University "45W" is 1 1/4 miles south of the field and 2,310 feet from south and 2,423 feet from west lines of section 4, block 43, University Lands survey. Ground elevation is 2,605 feet.

Palo Petroleum No. 2S University "45W" is 1 1/4 miles south of production and 990 feet from south and 2,423 feet from west lines of section 4, block 43, University Lands survey and in Reagan County. Ground elevation is 2,595 feet.

Palo Petroleum No. 1S University "7NE" is to be drilled in Irion County 2 1/2 miles south of the Barnhart, Northeast field. The drillsite is 330 feet from north and 2,423 feet from east lines of section 7, block 43, University Lands survey.

The same operator staked No. 2S University "7NE" 2 1/2 miles south of the field and 1,650 feet from north and 2,423 feet from east lines of section 7, block 43, University Lands survey and in Irion County. Ground elevation is 2,639 feet.

Indian Wells Co. of Ozona No. 4-1 Phillips is a new project in the five-well Irion, West (Canyon oil and gas) pool of Irion County, 5.6 miles southwest of Mertzon. The location for the 6,900-foot project is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 1, Gonzales County School Land survey. Ground elevation is 2,310 feet.

IRION PROJECT

STONEMOUNT COUNTY Laneer Resources Co. of Abilene

will dig No. 3 Alexander Trust Estate as an east offset to one of the two wells in the Alexander, South (lower Canyon) field of Stonewall County, 10 miles southeast of Aspermont.

Location is 3,040 feet from south and 2,000 feet from west lines of section 6, Austin & Williams survey No. 348. Contract depth is 5,100 feet.

TOM GREEN RE-ENTRY

SUNEX Energy Corp. of San Angelo will re-enter the former Fortune Drilling Co. of San Angelo No. 3 F. J. Holik Jr., a former producer in the Lora (Strawn) field and attempt to recomplete it at 4,500 feet as the second well in the field.

Location is 2,127.31 feet from north and 1,093.33 feet from west lines of section 165, block 11, SPRR survey.

Ground elevation is 1,976.5 feet.

SCHLEICHER GASSEER

Discovery Operating Co. of Midland has completed the current fourth producer in the W.O.D. (Canyon gas) field of Schleicher County, 25 miles northwest of Eldorado.

The confirmer, No. 1 Lin "C" finished for a calculated absolute open flow of 2,300,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 6,731 to 6,765 feet.

The pay was washed with 2,500 gallons of mud acid and fractured with 40,000 gallons.

Drilled as a wildcat to 7,032 feet, where 4.5-inch casing was set, it was plugged back to 6,978 feet.

Well site is 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block A, GC&SF survey.

18 wildcats slated in 8 WT counties

Eighteen more wildcat operations, including eight in Runnels County, have been announced in eight West Texas counties.

TOM GREEN TESTS

A pair of wildcats, one by Ike Lovelady, Inc. of Midland, and another by J. A. March of Dallas, have been scheduled in Tom Green County.

Lovelady announced location for a 5,200-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, one mile east of Veribest.

It is No. 1 Weatherford, 1,980 feet from north and 853 feet from east lines of section 2216, F. W. Schultz survey. Ground elevation is 1,813 feet.

The prospect is 3 1/4 miles northeast of the depleted Veribest (Harkey oil) pool and 4 1/4 miles north of the depleted Veribest, South (Ellenburger) field.

March spotted his No. 1 Johnson as a 6,500-foot wildcat in Tom Green County five miles northeast of Christoval.

Location is 4,896.4 feet from the most southerly south line and 2,400 feet from the most southerly west line of section 548, William Scherz survey, abstract 8,194.

Drillsite is 1,915.6 feet northwest of the lone well in the J.W.J. (Canyon gas) field which produces gas at 4,682 feet.

IRION EXPLORER

A 7,100-foot wildcat was announced for Irion County, 12 miles northeast of Mertzon.

It is Mayo Exploration Co. of Dallas No. 1 Tullios "B," 7,550 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 842, P. Stuhrhahn survey.

It is a southeast offset to the Arden, Southeast (Wolfcamp) field which produces at 6,332 feet and 1 1/4 mile-west of a 7,378-foot dry hole.

REAGAN RE-ENTRY

Cities Service Co., operating from Midland, will re-enter a 10,020-foot dry hole seven miles southwest of Texon and test it as a wildcat.

It is the operator No. 1 University "BU" which was plugged and abandoned in July 1977.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 5, block 1, University Lands survey and 2 1/4 miles south of the lone well in the Gunnx (Strawn) field which produces at 8,442 feet.

Cities Service will clean the project out to the old total depth.

STONEWALL COUNTY

Three more wildcats have been announced for Stonewall County, with Clear Fork, Inc. of Abilene spotting two of the prospectors nine miles southeast of Aspermont. They are contracted to 5,500 feet.

The firm's No. 2-347 Alexander Trust will be drilled 3,757 feet from north and 130 feet from west lines of section 1, William Vardeman survey No. 347.

The drillsite is one location north of Clear Fork No. 1-347 Alexander Trust, recently completed second well in the Alexander (4300 Canyon) field. The well was completed at 4,232 feet.

Clear Fork No. 2-4 Alexander Trust will be drilled 1,650 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 7, Austin & Williams survey No. 349.

It is one location east of a 3,733-foot dry hole and one location north of Clear Fork No. 1-7 Alexander Trust which recently was completed at 4,824 feet as the third well in the Alexander (Canyon) field.

Enserch Exploration, Inc. of Dallas spotted a 6,800-foot wildcat eight miles northwest of Peacock in Stonewall County.

Scheduled as No. 1-346 J. D. Patterson, it is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 364, block D, H&TC survey.

The drillsite is 7/8 mile northeast of a 6,812-foot dry hole and three miles northwest of the depleted Ellenburger discovery well of the Peacock field.

Enserch Exploration, Inc. of Dallas spotted a 6,800-foot wildcat eight miles northwest of Peacock in Stonewall County.

Scheduled as No. 1-346 J. D. Patterson, it is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 364, block D, H&TC survey.

The drillsite is 7/8 mile northeast of a 6,812-foot dry hole and three miles northwest of the depleted Ellenburger discovery well of the Peacock field.

SPORTS IN BRIEF Mahaffey wins Spalding golf

By The Associated Press
GOLF—John Mahaffey broke a tie at the 18th hole by matching par while challenger Buddy Allin took a bogey and won the Spalding Invitational at Pebble Beach, Calif. Mahaffey claimed a one-stroke victory in the non-tour event by closing with a par 72 on the 6,806-yard Pebble Beach course for a 72-hole total of 279. Allin had a 69 for a 280 total, finishing one stroke ahead of Mike Reid, Mark Lye and Dave Stockton.

Donna Caponi, one of three women pros in the tournament field, led through two rounds and was second starting the final round. She shot a 79 for an eighth-place finish at 288.

SWIMMING—Tracy Caulkins registered her third and fourth world-best performances at the U.S. International Meet at Jacksonville, Fla. Caulkins, who won seven gold and two silver medals in the meet, was clocked in 1 minute, 11 seconds to better the world standard of 1:01.94 in the 100 backstroke. She also captured the 200 individual medley. Rick Carey won the 100 backstroke in the world best time of 55.29 seconds.

The United States established nine of the startling total of 16 individual world-best standards set in the meet, although they cannot be recognized as official world records because the races were held on a 25-meter course.

TRACK—Grete Waitz of Norway and Alberto Salazar of Oregon bested their own world's best times in the Runner's World Five Mile Invitational. Waitz ran the course in 25 minutes, 21.4 seconds, topping the women's mark of 25:28 she set here in 1979. Salazar's time of 22:04 bettered the mark of 22:13 he set in the event in 1979. Jim Dingwell of Scotland won the Sheraton Sea of Galilee Marathon, beating more than 600 runners. The Scot was timed in 2 hours, 16 minutes, 19 seconds. Israel's Zehava Shmueli led a field of 27 women runners in 3:52.45.

SPEED SKATING—Natalya Petrusova of the Soviet Union set a world speed skating record for overall points at the close of the Soviet women's championship. SOCCER—World Cup holder Argentina drew 1-1 with Brazil in a Gold Cup soccer match that ended in a free-for-all brawl. Argentina led 1-0 at halftime with a 30th-minute goal from Diego Maradona, and Brazil equalized two minutes after the interval through Edvaldo. The Argentina-Brazil match ended in chaos as referee Erich Linemayer of Austria battled to separate fighting players on both teams. Armed police raced onto the field to break up the feuding players and both teams left the field.

SKIING—Norway's Oddvar Braa turned back a strong challenge by Sweden's Thomas Wassberg and Thomas Eriksson and won the 28th annual 15-kilometer Monolith cross-country ski race. Christian Orlainsky of Austria came from behind in the final run and won the men's second World Cup giant slalom race of the season. Ninth after the first run, Orlainsky clocked 1 minute, 19.78 seconds the second run for a winning total of 2:41.41.

HORSE RACING—Sunday's Races—Donesbury, $16.60, won the $71,100 first division of the Malibu Stakes at Santa Anita by 1 1/2 lengths over Roper, and Raise A Man, $5.20, edged Just Right Mike by a nose to win the $71,400 second division. Full Flame, $3.80, posted a 1 1/2 length victory over Drop and Wiggle in the $14,500 Spectacular Bid Handicap at Turf Paradise. The thoroughbred racing card at Aqueduct was canceled after two races because of inclement weather. The thoroughbred racing at Suffolk Downs was canceled because of inclement weather.

Pat Dye's task clear at Auburn

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Auburn President Hanly Funderburk says there's one way for new football Coach Pat Dye to unite the school's alumni — win. But Dye isn't saying how long that will take.

Auburn is coming out of a nine-month stretch where alumni and trustees struggled to find a new president and football coach.

"We have a man who has been successful in this business. He is going to build a championship football team for Auburn in the 80s," Funderburk said Saturday after announcing Dye's appointment.

Dye, who resigned at Wyoming to pursue the Auburn job, said he is glad to move to a school with a great football tradition.

"I am confident we will be able to bring this football tradition back to what it once was," he said.

Asked when Auburn might win a Southeastern Conference championship, Dye said he didn't know how long it would take.

Tech's Jerry Moore

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP)—Jerry Moore, hired away from North Texas State to come to Texas Tech, was a ball of enthusiasm Sunday night after he was announced as the fourth coach to direct the Red Raiders' fortunes in 10 years.

"It's a dream come true for me. I can remember twice when I came out here to play in Jones Stadium and I've always wanted to come back and coach. It's the best of both worlds for me," said Moore, 41, a former standout receiver for Baylor.

Texas Tech athletic director John Conley announced Moore's hiring at a 6:30 p.m. news conference Sunday. Moore succeeds Rex Dockery, who resigned last month to go to Memphis State.

CONLEY recommended Moore to Texas Tech president Dr. Lauro Cavazos after a Texas Tech selection team interviewed six applicants Friday at the Amfac Hotel near the Dallas-Fort Worth airport.

Moore, 41, an assistant at Southern Methodist for eight years and at Nebraska for six years before NTSU hired him in 1978, said he plans to bring most of his staff with him and hopes to install a Nebraska-like attack at Texas Tech.

"Most of my background has been at the University of Nebraska, and we plan to be a little bit similar. Offensively, we'll probably be an 'I' team, and defensively, we'll use odd fronts and some over-shifts. But first of all, we'll have to look at the people we've got coming back and evaluate the talent we've got."

MOORE'S salary or length of contract were not announced, but Tech officials had said last week the new coach would be offered the best contract ever given to a coach at the school.

"Our immediate task is recruiting, and I hope by this time tomorrow, we will be recruiting. I plan to bring a pretty good portion of my staff at North Texas State."

Moore, 41, noted for his offensive innovations, coached receivers and coordinated the offense during games while an assistant at Nebraska from 1973-78, when the Cornhuskers were participating in six bowl games.

"I really like the opportunity to come back and work in West Texas. I really liked working the area when I recruited for Nebraska. I can't wait to get this coat and vest off and get my boots and hat on and get on with recruiting," he said.

Moore was 11-11 in two years at North Texas State, with four of the losses by last season's 6-5 Mean Green team coming at the hands of post-season bowl teams.

Moore's name had never come up during the three weeks of speculation that followed Dockery's resignation and Sunday's news conference.

The Dallas Morning News said in its Sunday publication that "barring unforeseen complications" Tech would hire John Mackovic, head coach at Wake Forest.

Moore is the fourth Texas Tech head football coach in 10 years. Jim Carlen, now at South Carolina, coached from 1970-74; Steve Sloan, now at Mississippi, headed the program from 1975-77; and Dockery coached from 1978-80.

"He is Texas born and bred. He has coached in the Texas high school and college ranks. Moore will inherit 15 starters from last season's 5-6 Texas Tech team. Offensively, he will benefit from

Danny, Drew heroics foil Falcons

By TOM SALADINO
ATLANTA (AP)—Danny White's heroics advanced Dallas into next Sunday's National Football Conference title game but an embarrassing loss three weeks ago may be an even bigger reason the Cowboys are still alive in their quest for a third Super Bowl victory.

White, the quarterback heir to former Cowboy great Roger Staubach, fired two touchdown passes to Drew Pearson in the final 3:40 Sunday, the last a 23-yarder with 42 seconds remaining, to lift the Cowboys to a 30-27 quarterfinal playoff victory over the Atlanta Falcons.

Dallas now meets the Eagles in Philadelphia next Sunday for the right to play the AFC winner in the Super Bowl, Jan. 25.

"Everybody was embarrassed by our loss to the Los Angeles Rams," said White, referring to the Cowboys' 38-14 drubbing on the nationally televised Monday night contest three weeks ago.

"We just sat down and said, 'Hey, we're the Dallas Cowboys.' We've got to play better than that. This team established itself on spirit and pride," said White, a six-year veteran who has guided Dallas to a 14-4 record in his first year as a starter after Staubach retired.

THE COWBOYS came back to beat the Eagles in the final regular season game, then knocked off the Rams 34-13 last week before Sunday's come-from-behind thriller.

The Falcons, behind the throwing of Steve Bartkowski, who hit on 18 of 33 passes for 320 yards, led 27-17 on Tim Mazzetti's second field goal, a 34-yarder with only 6:37 left.

Earlier, Bartkowski hit on touchdown tosses of 5 yards and 60 yards. Lynn Cain scored on a one-yard plunge and Mazzetti booted a 38-yard three-pointer.

The Cowboys had scored on a 38-yard field goal by Rafael Septien, a 1-yard run by Robert Newhouse and TD strikes of 5 yards and 14 yards, the last to Pearson with 3:40 remaining. "After that embarrassment to the Rams, we decided to play 60 minutes every game. Even if the score was 60-0, we would keep plugging away," said White.

"We got that first one to Drew and then the defense rose to the occasion and suddenly we were only three points down and had the ball," said White who was uncanny in the second half, hitting 15 of 20 passes for 239 yards after going only 10 for 19 and 89 yards in the opening half.

"This was the biggest game I've ever played in," said White. "Sure there was a lot of pressure but I need to get in those situations."

DREW PEARSON, the 8-year veteran who has been the Cowboys' big-play receiver for many years, said the winning touchdown was "nothing special."

"Danny is a fine quarterback and if you're open, he'll get the ball to you," he said. "It was a great feeling but I didn't feel the satisfaction of it all until the final whistle."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry, known for his stoic face, even was seen smiling after the victory.

"What can you say? It was just a tremendous thing (the comeback)," he said. "When we got down by two touchdowns (24-10) in the third quarter, I thought our chances of coming back were slim. But the ball bounces funny sometimes."

It was the second time White had beaten the Falcons in the playoffs with second-half passing, leading the Cowboys to a 27-20 triumph two years ago after Staubach was sidelined at halftime with Dallas trailing 20-13.

"He was just super, amazing..." said Landry. "You know, actually, he's a first-year quarterback although he's spent some time in the league."

"He was simply amazing on a couple of plays, the final touchdown to Pearson and the 5-yarder to Billy Joe Dupree," said the coach who has taken the Cowboys to 15 playoff appearances in 16 years.

FOR THE FALCONS, who finished with a 12-5 record after winning the West NFC title, the loss left most of the players in a state of shock.

"It was a bitter pill to swallow," said Falcons' Coach Leeman Bennett. "I still feel we're good enough to go to the Super Bowl. Any team that wins 12 games is good enough. But it's a very empty feeling losing in the playoffs."

Bartkowski attributed the loss to the failure of the Falcons to control the ball after Pearson's first scoring catch.

"We knew we had to control the ball and keep their offense off the field. When we got the ball back after Pearson's first touchdown, I thought if we could make three first downs, we would win the game. But we couldn't make one," said Bartkowski.

Jenkins, who had four catches for 155 yards, felt Dallas' playoff experience was not a factor.

"Not the way we played today. The factor was that Dallas buckled under and came back. They played four quarters of football just like we did, but they played a better second half," he said.

HPC win streak ends

By The Associated Press
Howard Payne's 10-game victory streak — longest in the Lone Star conference during inter-sectional basketball play this year — is no more.

The Yellow Jackets were victims of Wayland Baptist's Dennis Johnson, who hit a short jump shot with six seconds to play Saturday night for a 68-67 upset at Plainview. Howard Payne is now 10-2.

Southwest Texas State, priming for its conference opener Saturday with East Texas State, won the D.L. Ligon Classic by beating Midwestern State 77-73, improving the Bobcats' season mark to 9-2.

Hard-luck Abilene Christian is finding 1981 about as charitable as 1980. The Wildcats lost a pair in the Wayland Baptist Tournament, the last loss 68-67 to Sul Ross State Saturday night.

By BRUCE LOWITT
CLEVELAND (AP)—They weren't supposed to even be in the playoffs. Yet here they are, just one step from the Super Bowl.

It's enough to make a grown man cry. "If I start talking too much about this," Coach Tom Flores said, surveying the jubilation in the Oakland Raiders' locker room, "I might get tears in my eyes."

The tears in the Cleveland Browns' eyes are drying today — the tears of frustration, of dismay, of seeing a chance at a championship inching closer and closer, then having it cruelly snatched away at the last instant.

It was Flores' clever decision to kick into the wind to start the second half which began the Browns' downfall, because it forced them to fight that wind in the final quarter.

But ultimately it was Cleveland's own doing which led to its undoing on Sunday, to the Raiders' 14-12 victory which placed them in the American Conference title game next Sunday in sunny San Diego, far from the bitter cold which whips in off Lake Erie and brings tears to the eyes of anyone foolhardy enough to face that sub-zero wind.

COACH SAM RUTIGLIANO of the Browns chose not to face it in the final minute. He opted for a gamble, a shot at a touchdown rather than a kick into the teeth of that wind, an attempt at a game-winning field goal.

And that gamble almost certainly killed the Browns. The team which had spent the season on the precipice, looking down the yawning throat of defeat one Sunday after another, yet escaping each time by the skin of its teeth, finally got swallowed up.

"Sam took a chance. He could have thrown snake eyes," said Lester Hayes, the Oakland cornerback who stole quarterbacks blind all season, who swiped two of Brian Sipe's passes on Sunday.

But the interception which destroyed the dream of yet another Sipe-inspired heart-stopping triumph belonged to strong safety Mike Davis.

It came on second down on Oakland's 13-yard line, with 41 seconds to play. Ozzie Newsome, the receiver in the end zone, never had a chance.

"Ozzie was my man all the way," said Davis. "Sipe was sliding out of the pocket and didn't seem to want to risk the run... I saw Ozzie look up, so I looked up and I saw Sipe let go of the ball."

And Davis, diving, wound up with it, cradling it while free safety Burgess Owens and then the rest of the exultant Raiders enveloped him and began celebrating their victory.

RUTIGLIANO, of course, defended his decision to ignore — for one play, anyway — place-kicker Don Cockroft and shoot for the big six points. "If we threw on second down," he said, "we could run on third and still go for the field goal."

And for Cleveland, field goals had been hard to come by. Cockroft had made two, from 30 and then 29 yards, both in the third period with the wind at his back. He had also missed two, from 47 and 39 yards away, both in the second period with the wind in his face. Another attempt had gone awry on a botched snap from center. And the only conversion Cockroft attempted, after Ron Bolton's 42-yard second-quarter touchdown run with an interception, had ended with Oakland's Ted Hendricks batting the ball down. All in all, not the best of days. Which is why Cockroft couldn't second-guess his coach.

"It was very logical," he said of Rutigliano's decision, "because we were having trouble with the entire kicking unit."

BUT UP in the press box, surveying the scene, Al Davis, the owner of the Raiders, couldn't resist a second guess. As he stuffed a celebratory piece of chewing gum in his mouth, he announced: "I don't know what the heck they threw that ball for." And as if to punctuate his observation, he balled up the gum wrapper and flung it away.

And so, today, the Raiders turn their thoughts to San Diego, where yet another challenge awaits them, namely the most devastating passing attack in the National Football League. "I'm looking forward to seeing my old friend John Jefferson again," Hayes said of the Chargers' superb wide receiver. "It's a challenge to face someone on a par with me."

And it will no doubt be a pleasure playing on soft, warm grass which gives way under the feet and cushions the falls. "This was the worst surface I've ever played on," said Hendricks, the Raiders' linebacker. "It was like playing on a roller-skating rink with out roller skates."

MARK VAN EEGHEN, the fullback who bashed his way over the goal line twice in the first half, admitted: "I'm surprised I scored the TDs I did. I was on ice, pushing off the ball."

Now he, too, can get back to thinking seriously about San Diego. He thought about it a lot on Saturday watching the Chargers defeat Buffalo 20-14 in the other AFC playoff game. "I was glad when that game was over so I could start thinking about Cleveland again," he acknowledged.

Dogs' Dooley favors playoff...in the future

Vince Dooley isn't about to give back Georgia's first national college football championship, but he thinks a two-team playoff after the bowl games would be the proper way to decide it, conceding that "the system we have is far from perfect" and said that "a playoff would be far better. Based on the system we have, the voting came out right," he said with a chuckle. "I've always wanted at least four teams in a playoff, but the only practical way to do it now is to take the top two teams after the bowls based on the poll and a committee of some kind and play the weekend before the Super Bowl. It would be good for college football."

Pridemore, Falcons came ever so close

By ED SHEARER ATLANTA (AP) — A hero's role was only minutes away for Atlanta Falcons' defensive back Tom Pridemore — then it suddenly was snatched away.

"We were trying to stop them or use up the clock, and we couldn't do either," Pridemore said Sunday after Danny White fired two touchdown passes to Drew Pearson in the final 3:40 to give the Dallas Cowboys a 30-27 comeback victory over the Falcons in a National Football League quarter-final playoff game. Pridemore had stopped a Dallas threat early in the third period when he recovered a fumble by Preston Pearson at the Atlanta 15. Then, his 22-yard return to the Cowboy 38 of a pass interception set up a 34-yard field goal by Tim Mazzetti that gave the Falcons a 27-17 advantage with only 6:37 remaining.

It all until the final whistle. "Atlanta is the best team we have faced this year, the hungriest team we have faced this year, and was the best prepared," said Dallas defensive back Charlie Waters.

"I FEEL our playoff experience helped us a lot today," said Tony Dorsett, the Cowboys runner who was held to 51 yards on 10 carries.

"They have a great young team with great young players, so we will probably be seeing some more of them in the future," Dorsett added. "They play football like it's supposed to be played. We were very fortunate to win."

"It just wasn't meant to be," said Atlanta linebacker Joel Williams.

"You're not supposed to lose games when you have a lead like that," said Jeff Merrow, a defensive lineman for the Falcons, who were appearing in the playoffs for only the second time in their 15-year history.

And, it was White who knocked them out both times. The Dallas quarterback took over for the injured Staubach in the second half of a 1978 playoff with the Cowboys trailing Atlanta 20-13 at intermission and sparked a 27-20 comeback victory.

Runnin' Razorbacks terrorize SWC foes

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

They full court press, single the net off the bucket, and fast break. They're quick and they can jump. They wear red uniforms with a Razorback on the britches. You can close your eyes and almost see the graduated Sidney Moncrief, Ron Brewer, and Marvin Delph, going twice as fast. The Aggies stumbled out of the starting gate Saturday night, falling 56-51 to feisty Texas Christian.

But there's still a way to go Bears come a long way

BY TED BATTLES

Two Southwest Conference institutions had just hired new coaches and since the press had mustered en masse in Dallas for the 1972 Cotton Bowl game between Penn State and Texas, it seemed like an appropriate time for an introductory press conference.

The Holiday Inn meeting room packed 'em standing-room-only when Emory Bellard, the new boss at Texas A&M, began an hour long question-answer session. When it was over, many media members left. When new Baylor coach Grant Teaff was brought in, more left, one commenting, "Just another Baylor coach. He won't last long."

NOW, a decade later, Bellard, despite compiling the best won-lost record at A&M since Homer Norton, is long gone to Mississippi State and didn't leave a SWC championship in College Station to be remembered by.

Teaff? He's still around at Baylor, having given the Bears a team that hadn't won a championship since 1924, a title in 1974 and its first Cotton Bowl trip.

And while the 30-2 loss to Alabama New Year's Day may not be the way to end the season for a team that at one time was thinking national championship, the Bears had another SWC title and Cotton Bowl trip in a trophy case that for eons resembled something out of Mother Hubbard and 10-2.

IN COMPARING his championship teams, Teaff described the '80 squad as having more talent than the '74 club that also was a Cotton Bowl loser, 41-20 to Penn State, "but then everyone does. I can't say this team has more talent than the 1978 team, but it does have the intangibles that make the difference."

Even before the game with the Crimson Tide, Teaff admitted the once-laughed at Bruins still had a ways to go. "We don't command the respect of a national power. You can see we are not there yet. If Texas were 10-1, it would be ranked No. 2," he noted without rancor.

Quite obviously, Teaff had hoped Baylor would earn the respect Thursday that would lead to more consideration from the pollsters in the future. As it turned out, the 30-2 margin left a lot of skeptics out in the audience. As All America linebacker Mike Singletary observed, "The loss doesn't spoil the season. It's one of those things that happens in high school, college the pros. You just can't make five turnovers against a team that is a real power like Alabama and expect to win."

WHILE THE Cotton Bowl loss represents a setback in the campaign for respect, it's not as though the Bears are back in Square One.

Baylor's football program had become the laughing stock among the students and everyone else, Teaff related. "Now we have 9,000 students and 8,500 show up at the games. Baylor broke the Cotton Bowl ticket sales record for a school both times it appeared."

But to gain the stature of a Texas or Arkansas, Teaff admitted, "You've got to be consistent, and patient." Once every six years won't do it.

As for the other private schools in the SWC staging a similar resurrection, Teaff quickly adds, "It may take time, but that doesn't mean a school can't do it."

Teaff credited the annual maximum 30 scholarship rule as being the great equalizer. In 1978, for example, the Baylor team that Teaff compares with his 1980 champions, lost its first five games by a total of 21 points and wound up a dismal 3-8.

"A few injuries and you find yourself on the outside looking in, like Arkansas this year. We will see this more and more. This year we were fortunate. We lost just four starters during the year."

OF COURSE, the season's primary goal had been achieved when Baylor earned the Cotton Bowl bid. "If we get beat by Alabama, we can't lose from it. If we win or play them close, we'll move up. If we lose all you have to do is look at what Alabama has been doing over the last 35 years and you can't feel too bad," Teaff elaborated before the game.

Looking back on a 10-1 regular season, Teaff described the loss to San Jose as the low point. "The real consternation of retroactively looking at it was knowing you could have done something as a coach to remedy it." Baylor lost its field goal kicker in the TCU game and employed a walk-on kicker. "He missed his first attempt by 20 miles. Five times we were inside the 20, but didn't try the field goal. We had so many chances to put the game away and didn't."

The only effect of the San Jose loss was to bring Baylor back to earth, Teaff said. "Oh, lord, it's hard to be humble every Monday when you are undefeated. It served to restore our priorities."

Grant Teaff... "he won't last long."

PART OF Baylor's success is attributable to abandoning the suicidal non-conference dates against the likes of Ohio State, Michigan, Georgia, Alabama and the rest. Asked when he recognized the futility of such scheduling, Teaff said, "Two years before I came to Baylor, but schedules are made up so far in advance, there's not much you can do about it."

He continued, "But I did notice that Texas and Arkansas, playing lesser caliber opponents, came into November with one loss and it made no difference who you had played when it came time to pick a bowl team."

Teaff, however, was making no apologies for the BU schedule, pointing out Lamar was coming off a good year and was to be played in hostile Beaumont while Oklahoma State had been picked to finish third in the Big Eight. "I don't know how much the losses to us effected their season. Besides, it's accomplishment enough when you go through a conference as tough as the Southwest undefeated and win by three games."

LANDING BLUE chip prospects is still part of the key to winning and it's a battle Baylor annually loses to Texas and Texas A&M. "It's the old question of what comes first, the chicken or the egg. Northwestern can't get blue chippers without winning."

As a result, Baylor still takes chances on the Steve Bairds, the cannonball back who led the Bears to the 1974 SWC title. "We have some on this squad like Joe Campbell and Max McGeary, who weren't good enough for some others. Still, Ralph Anderson is about as blue a chip as we have."

To compensate, the Bears go a little deeper in seeking out prospects. They want to know his approach to life, his capability of graduating. "We search for character," says Teaff. That's one reason that the 212-215 pounders recruited two or three years ago played at 260 this year.

TEAFF RATES the Texas game as Baylor's best, but others seemed to feel it was the Bears' win over Arkansas that was most impressive. Teaff admits that perhaps there was a reason.

"Kyle Wood, who suffered a broken neck Sept. 1, 1979, has been a paraplegic ever since. But he has been an inspiration to this team. Before the Arkansas game we asked him to give the devotional."

"He knew our concern over the upset loss to San Jose and what it might do and he said, 'In life one takes a setback and turns it into a comeback.' Everyone knew what he was talking about, but then he pushed himself up from the wheelchair into a standing position and you can imagine the effect that had on the squad."

Last Thursday, Wood was on the sidelines at the Cotton Bowl, walking with the aid of braces. "With that kind of determination," said Teaff, "There's no telling how far he may go."

Mistakes plague Davidson

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Coach Eddie Biedenbach is in his third season of rebuilding the basketball program at tiny Davidson College in North Carolina, but his schedule is making it look mighty tough.

Last Thursday, Davidson lost an 80-73 heartbreaker to eighth-ranked Wake Forest, and Sunday, a little worse for the wear, the Wildcats dropped an 87-67 decision to fourth-ranked Notre Dame.

"We can't be in games against teams like Wake Forest and Notre Dame and make as many mistakes as we did today," Biedenbach lamented after the loss to Notre Dame dropped Davidson's record to 4-7.

Davidson committed 21 turnovers against Notre Dame, now 7-1, but the Irish turned the ball over 23 times themselves. Forward Kelly Tripucka led the Irish with 21 points, missing only four of his 14 field goal attempts.

Davidson, with an enrollment of only 1,300, had its most recent glory years in 1969, finishing No. 5 in the nation, and 1970, finishing 15th.

BIEDENBACH, however, is trying to turn around a team that went 8-18 last season and finished last in the Southern Conference. So, he has scheduled Wake Forest and North Carolina State from the Atlantic Coast Conference and independents Notre Dame and South Carolina to supplement his conference schedule.

"Davidson is a much-improved team over last year," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said. "The score was no indication of how much they've improved."

Phelps said the Irish tried to wear down the Wildcats and be an opportunistic team, taking advantage of the turnovers to build a lead.

Davidson trailed by four, at 17-13, early in the first half, but the Wildcats turned the ball over eight times in 11 possessions to help Notre Dame score eight straight points.

Tracy Jackson helped the Irish along with 15 points, and 6-foot-7 Todd Haynes led Davidson with 25 points.

If Davidson's recent upset attempts fell short, those of Kansas, Kansas State and Texas Christian did not. Kansas edged sixth-ranked North Carolina 56-55 at Lawrence; Kansas State gave Coach Jack Hartman his 200th victory at the school with a 67-47 upset of Louisville, and Texas Christian dealt 11th-ranked Texas A&M its third consecutive loss, 56-51, all on Saturday.

Also on Saturday, top-ranked DePaul rolled over Furman 78-65; second-ranked Oregon State got by No. 14 Arizona State 71-67; third-rated Virginia defeated Virginia Tech 64-51; No. 5 Kentucky trimmed Georgia 74-62; seventh-ranked UCLA clobbered Washington 96-74; No. 8 Wake Forest beat Georgia Tech 87-61; ninth-ranked Maryland downed William & Mary 69-64, and 10th-ranked Louisiana State whipped Florida 92-66.

Lee, MHS face toughies

After opening with victories Saturday

The Midland Lee and Midland High girls basketball teams both got off to a fast start Saturday with victories over the Odessa teams as the District 5-SA season got underway, but both will face stern tests today when the league goes into round two.

Midland Lee will host Abilene High today at 8 p.m. in the Chaparral Center in an effort to gain some ground in the first half district race. Abilene High lost a 56-52 thriller to San Angelo Saturday while Lee bested Odessa Permian, 51-41. However, Abilene High owns a 12-5 record for the season and just barely fell to 15-1 San Angelo, who is favored to win the loop crown this year.

Lee has been the loop's only playoff representative in the three previous seasons the loop has been in existence. The Rebels have won two title outright and shared one with Midland High, but went to the playoffs after defeating the Bulldogs in a playoff contest. Lee is 7-8 on the season and 1-0 in loop play. AHS is 6-1 in district play.

Midland High, a 50-38 victor over Odessa High Saturday, will carry its 8-10, 1-0 mark on the road today against Abilene Cooper. Cooper is 9-4 and 1-0 after a 75-39 pounding of Big Spring Saturday in their first league game. Cooper is another strong district entry. That contest is also slated for an 8 p.m. start.

In other games tonight, Permian (7-11 and 0-1) travels to San Angelo (15-1 and 1-0) while Odessa High (5-11 and 0-1) hosts Big Spring (4-13 and 0-1).

NFL parades its new look

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

"Shoot from the hip."
"Bombs Away!"
"Lightning in a bottle."
"Bingo!"

It's the new face of pro football — wild, wide-open, unpredictable and so structured that, as in a good "B" movie, you don't know who gets the girl until the final reel.

"It's a whole new game," former Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach was saying last Saturday at Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, where the Eagles beat the Minnesota Vikings in a divisional playoff. "It has had a facelift. Do you know why? It's to please all these people."

HE SWEEPED his arm toward the near 70,000 spectators in the stands. "The rules have defanged the defense. A defender can't use his hands or touch a receiver 5 yards beyond the line of scrimmage. It gives the receiver a tremendous edge."

Terry Bradshaw, the booted, cowboy-hatted Louisiana who quarterbacked the Pittsburgh Steelers to four Super Bowl crowns in six years, was quick to agree.

"The league is loaded with excellent quarterbacks now," he said, "fellows with strong arms and a lot of poise. There's a ton of fine receivers — two or three on every club."

Staubach and Bradshaw are part of football's roving circus, doing commentary for ABC-TV.

Pete Rozelle and Co. of the National Football League have put some pizzazz into their entertainment product and stifled old criticism that the mercenaries, with their stereotyped, predictable strategy, were duller than the collegians.

SO NO MORE of that 3 yards and a cloud of dust stuff. No more taking two whacks at the line, throwing a pass and finally punting. No more grinding out first downs laboriously, small chunks at a time, and winding up with a baseball score.

No, sir. Now you unfasten your belt buckle, reach back and let 'er fly. Throw with abandon and pray that the ball falls in the arms of a man wearing the same color jersey.

What's 100 yards? With a good arm and some good legs and fingers, no reason you can't cover the distance in two minutes or less. If the game doesn't produce 50 or 60 points, forget it. Keep those calculators spinning.

In the 1980-81 era of pro football, covering that kind of space in seconds is a snap. Furthermore, you might wait until the final seconds — maybe even the final play — just to give the folks in the stands and back home watching television a little thrill.

It isn't choreographed to that minute detail. But you couldn't have told from the weekend playoffs, setting up the conference championships for the cast in Superbowl XV.

In Philadelphia, the Eagles, traditionally a so-what team, fell behind 0-14, then rallied for a 31-16 victory in a game marked by repeated turnovers and a rousing quarterback duel between Ron Jaworski and Tommy Kramer.

IN SAN DIEGO, daring Dan Fouts threw a last-gasp pass to Ron Smith for a 50-yard touchdown that gave the Chargers a 20-14 victory over the rugged Buffalo Bills. In sub-zero Cleveland, where quarterbacks seem to be throwing bricks, Jim Plunkett, a one-time castoff, won a battle over the league's top passer, Brian Sipe, who had thrown for more than 4,000 yards and 30 TDs as the Oakland Raiders beat the Browns 14-12.

Climaxing the weekend, Dallas' Danny White hit Drew Pearson with a pass in the end zone with 42 seconds remaining to edge the Atlanta Falcons 30-27. Between them, White and the Falcons' Steve Bartkowski threw for 624 yards.

Now it's the Cowboys against the Eagles in Philadelphia, the Raiders against the Chargers in San Diego. And, then for the winners, on to the Super Bowl.

Whose is the fastest gun?

"I like San Diego," said Bradshaw. "Fouts is great and he has the most good receivers."

"I would go with the Cowboys if they were at home," said Staubach. "I like San Diego, too."

Moore new Tech coach

the return of virtually the entire Red Raider unit, including quarterback Ron Reeves and wide receivers Renie Baker and Jamie Harris.

Moore earned 14 high school varsity letters in four sports at Bonham, Texas, where he was an all-state end. He made the all-SWC freshman team at Baylor in 1957, ranked eighth in the nation in receiving in 1958 and was seventh in 1960, when he captained the Baylor team that played in the Gator Bowl.

Then came a tryout with the Dallas Cowboys — "so short I bet Tom Landry doesn't remember me," Moore said.

He served as assistant coach at Corsicana High School from 1961-64, with a cumulative record of 39-7-1 over the four years, with his 1963 team posting a perfect record and winning the Texas high school championship for Class 3A. He coached the 1964 Texas high school coaches' all-star football game.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran up a sharp gain in heavy trading today, aided by hopes for lower interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial climbed 15.79 to 988.57 by noon.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 3-1 margin in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

On Friday many large banks lowered their prime lending rates from 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 percent. Today Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York cut its basic rate on blue-chip loans to 20 percent.

Hopes that the recent downturn in interest rates might continue were reinforced today with the Federal Reserve's report of a decline of more than $2 billion in the basic measure of the money supply.

Among stocks sensitive to interest rate prospects, American Telephone & Telegraph rose 1/2 to 49 1/2. Great Western Financial 1/2 to 18 1/2, and Pacific Power & Light 1/2 to 16 1/2.

Polaroid led the active list, up 1/4 at 25 1/4. A 513,600-share block traded at 24 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index gained 82 to 79.08. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.57 at 358.17.

Volume on the Big Board reached 29.04 million shares by noon, up from 12.22 million at the same point Friday.
