Haig feels military power best deterrent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alexander M. Haig said Friday that the best deterrent to war is to demonstrate to the Soviet Union "our willingness to do whatever is necessary" — including the use of nuclear weapons — to protect America's vital interests.

That, he said, would be a message Soviet leaders can understand.

Haig, Ronald Reagan's nominee as secretary of state, said he does not advocate "flirting with the desirability of getting into a nuclear conflict." But, he told his Senate confirmation hearing:

"My experience in the international community suggests to me that our deterrent achieves its credibility by the perception of our willingness to do whatever is necessary to protect our vital interests if they are challenged.

"And that must include the arsenal of nuclear weapons that we maintain at such great cost today."

The Foreign Relations Committee hearing was recessed for the night after Haig promised "generally" not to pursue a policy of nuclear superiority or to approve covert military operations without consulting Congress.

"Absolutely," he said. "We'll share that burden together."

He declined to be drawn into a discussion on what factors might prompt a decision to commit American troops to the Middle East should there be an oil cutoff. And he said he is concerned about America's capability to conduct such operations — a concern, he said, that was shared by the Carter Administration.

In his six hours of testimony, Haig praised the Camp David agreements reached under Carter as "a tremendous achievement in diplomacy."

The hearing will continue Saturday and Monday — and perhaps longer. It may be drawn out by efforts of Democrats who want to subpoena records and tape recordings from Haig's days in Richard M. Nixon's administration.

Former President Nixon's lawyers oppose release of the materials and Haig, who once was Nixon's chief of staff, told a senator he would not encourage the former president to release them.

"I have no reservations whatsoever what may or may not have been on those tapes," he said. "I'm just not going to interpose myself in this question."

But Haig told the panel his actions in behalf of Nixon always were "within the boundaries of the law," and complied with what he saw as his duty "to preserve that office in the national interest."

Haig, a former NATO commander, said he has always supported arms control, "especially efforts to get the nuclear genie back in the bottle," but he warned against making such efforts an end in itself.

"I have always believed that we acquire breakthroughs in negotiations with the Soviet Union in arms control only when they perceive the alternative facing them is the willingness on the part of the United States to match or better what they are willing to deploy," Haig said in a long exchange with Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

The United States, Haig said, must make it clear to the Soviet leaders that they can't expect benefits in arms control, trade, credit and technological transfer "while they are indulging in activity worldwide which is endangering worldwide peace."

However, Haig declined to commit himself as to whether the United States would continue the grain embargo leveled against the Soviets by President Carter. Reagan has opposed the tactic, saying any such sanction should apply across-the-board for all products. Haig acknowledged that it would be "difficult" to lift the embargo, since it recently was renewed by Carter.

Although he declared that "the years ahead will be unusually dangerous," Haig cautioned against the pursuit of peace at any price.

"There are things we Americans must be willing to fight for," he told the committee. "This republic was formed by armed conflict for the freedoms and liberties we enjoy today. We must understand that."

Firemen remove one of at least 20 bodies from a Keansburg, N.J., rest home, where a Friday morning fire in which many elderly and retarded residents died or were injured. (AP Laserphoto)

At least 20 die in fire

KEANSBURG, N.J. (AP) — A raging fire swept through a two-story brick boarding home for the elderly and mentally retarded before dawn Friday. At least 20 people were killed and 13 others were missing and feared dead in the charred rubble.

Eight people were injured and scores of residents, some of them naked, were forced to flee into the freezing night.

"It was unbelievable...the smoke," said Nick Naumetz, a 67-year-old resident who escaped from the burning Beachview Rest Home in this central New Jersey community.

"The sirens went off. I looked at my watch and it was 4 a.m. Smoke built up rapidly, in no time at all...all of a sudden," he said.

Firefighters spent hours searching through the rubble for additional bodies. The roof and large portions of the first floor caved in, making their job more difficult, and many of the bodies were badly charred.

Officials suspended the search at mid-afternoon and said they would resume Saturday morning with the help of a crane.

The cause of the fire was not known.

Frank Cappadona, owner of the boarding home, said the building did not have sprinklers, but he said it has smoke detectors in the individual rooms, the halls and the closets.

Fred Hebler, director of the health facility inspection division of the state Department of Health, said there was no law requiring the two-story brick residential building to have sprinklers, which are required for buildings with three or more stories.

Earlier, Monmouth County Prosecutor Alexander Lehrer said Dr. Solomon Goldberg of the state Department of Health waived a state law that would have required sprinklers. But Hebler said what Lehrer referred to as a waiver was issued as a formality for construction without sprinklers of a new one-story intermediate care facility at the rear of the building.

Lehrer said 20 bodies were found by Friday night and he expected more bodies to be uncovered in what remained of the home, a former resort hotel that housed 111 residents. He said he was initially misled into believing that 21 bodies were found because "unfortunately we only have parts of some bodies."

Lehrer said 13 people were missing, all of them residents.

"I'm positive I was lucky," said Frank Shultey, 68, who escaped from the second floor. "I walked out by myself. I saw a lot of smoke."

Lederer becomes fifth convicted in Abscam

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Raymond Lederer, the only Congressman indicted in the Abscam investigation to be re-elected last November, was convicted late Friday of bribery-conspiracy charges.

The Philadelphia Democrat was the fifth member of the House to be convicted in the political corruption scandal.

The U.S. District Court jury in Brooklyn took five and a half hours to determine that Lederer accepted a $50,000 bribe in return for promising to introduce private immigration bills for two supposed Arab sheiks.

According to testimony, the congressman, who had pleaded entrapment, kept only $5,000 of the money, giving the rest to alleged confederates.

Lederer, 42, could face disciplinary action, including expulsion, from the House and is also subject to a 15-year prison term on the bribery conviction, the most serious of the charges.

He was found guilty on four charges: bribery, conspiracy, accepting an illegal gratuity and interstate travel in aid of a racketeering enterprise.

When the verdicts were announced Lederer's wife, Eileen, began sobbing loudly and rushed out of the courtroom. She returned a few seconds later.

Lederer showed little emotion. "We're just going to live through the night and stay alive," he said after the verdict, smiling weakly.

His attorney, James J. Binns, said they would appeal. "We're disappointed. We felt he would be acquitted," he said.

Prosecutor Thomas Puccio said the verdicts were "fair and warranted by the evidence."

A videotape recording played at the five-day trial, that of a Sept. 11, 1979, payoff meeting at a Kennedy Airport hotel, showed Lederer assuring undercover agents "I can give you me."

In the Abscam sting operation, undercover agents posed as Arab sheiks or their representatives and paid bribes in return for favors from politicians.

The jurors began their deliberations at 4:38 p.m. following two hours of instructions from U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt.

At one point, they returned to the courtroom for a second look at the videotape recording of the Sept. 11, 1979, meeting. They also asked the judge to repeat his definition of entrapment.

Earlier in the day Puccio and Binns had presented hour-long summations with the question of possible entrapment the central issue.

Binns said the government "created Abscam. They created the scenario. They created the scene, and they had the cameras rolling."

During the trial, defense attorneys contended that Lederer was enticed to accept a bribe.

On Thursday the defense called two Justice Department attorneys who testified they had been critical of the behavior of a convicted con man who helped set up the government case. One of the attorneys said the con man, Mel Weinberg, was "putting words in people's mouths."

1980 ends with inflation up, more Americans out of work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation at the wholesale level climbed 11.7 percent in 1980, as the year ended with 1.5 million more Americans out of work than at the end of 1979, the government reported Friday.

The rise in wholesale prices for 1980 was down only slightly from a 12.6 percent jump in 1979, while the number of unemployed people was up sharply from 6.3 million at the end of 1979 to 7.8 million in December, the Labor Department said.

Moreover, 1981 begins with energy prices advancing at a double-digit annual rate after months of moderation as a result of new increases in fuel prices announced by major oil companies.

In the last inflation and jobless reports issued before President Carter leaves office, the government said wholesale prices increased a relatively modest 0.6 percent in December, the same as in November, while the unemployment rate declined from 7.5 percent in November to 7.4 percent in December.

The wholesale price increase for 1980 compares with a 3.3 percent rise in 1976, the year before Carter moved into the White House. The latest unemployment rate was nearly identical to the 7.5 percent rate that confronted Carter upon taking office in January 1977.

If the rise in wholesale prices continued at December's 0.6 percent monthly increase for a full year the annual inflation rate would be 7.8 percent. However, economists caution that coming months will bring renewed price pressures on food and energy.

Although the December wholesale price and unemployment reports suggest a very modest improvement in the economy as President-elect Ronald Reagan prepares to enter the White House, most economists expect high inflation and unemployment to persist during the Republican's first year in office.

And the Carter administration, in its 1981 economic outlook to be released next week, is predicting a 12.6 percent inflation rate at the retail level and unemployment rising as high as 8 percent by spring.

Gasoline prices in December climbed 1.5 percent after rising 1.7 percent in November. Previously, they declined for five consecutive months. Home heating oil prices jumped 1.9 percent last month, following an 0.9 percent advance in November, the department reported.

"The fact that energy prices have accelerated significantly in recent months bears watching," cautioned Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"Although these prices are not now increasing at the levels registered (in late 1979 and early 1980), they will be an important factor in the inflationary climate for 1981," she told Congress' Joint Economic Committee.

Donald Ratajczak, a Georgia State University economist, warned that new price hikes by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries "clearly will sustain or even intensify those (energy) price increases in the months ahead."

Chase Econometrics Associates, a private forecasting firm, predicts gasoline prices will increase at a 9 percent annual rate during the first three months of 1981 and at a 22 percent annual rate from April through June.

December's unemployment news, meanwhile, sustains a stable pattern begun in May, when the jobless rate peaked at 7.6 percent of the workforce, the Labor Department said. The number of people holding jobs remained unchanged at 97.3 million in December.

Last year began with a 6.2 percent jobless rate, but the recession quickly forced layoffs and hiring freezes that most affected adult males working in key manufacturing sectors such as autos and housing.

Despite employment gains totaling 500,000 since June, the number of job holders still is 540,000 below February's peak, the Labor Department said.

U.S., Algerian negotiators debate answers

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — A U.S. negotiating team consulted with Algerian mediators in secret session about answers to new questions Iran has raised about financial arrangements for freeing the 52 American hostages in Iran.

In Washington, the State Department said the negotiating team reported "serious problems continue to exist." The American hostages spent their 433rd day in captivity Friday.

The Americans negotiators remained behind the walls of the U.S. Embassy and were reported "in frequent contact" with Algerian mediators as they tried to nail down an agreement to free the hostages before President Carter leaves office Jan. 20.

Reports from the negotiating team were sent to Washington where U.S. officials said Iran had raised new questions on the substance of the American proposals for depositing frozen Iranian assets in an Algerian bank and on how the plan would be carried out.

Warren M. Christopher, deputy secretary of state, told the State Department in a telephone conversation about the new Iranian questions. State Department spokesman John H. Trotter said the Christopher team is working on responses to Iran's new round of questions and will consult with the Algerians before sending the answers to Tehran.

There was no indication of whether a breakthrough could be expected or how long the U.S. negotiating team would stay in Algiers.

Iran has demanded $24 billion in deposits in Algeria to cover Iranian assets frozen in the United States and as a guarantee for recovery of the wealth of the late shah. The United States has offered to set up an escrow account in the Algerian Central Bank and to transfer several billion of the estimated $8 billion to $14 billion in frozen assets so that the money would be available to Iran when the hostages are released.

The Algerian go-betweens were said to be urging the U.S. negotiators to make clearer explanations of the plan in an effort to meet Iranian objections.

The Carter administration ruled that the Iranian demand for $24 billion was excessive and offered a counter-proposal. Iran, according to U.S. officials, came back with 15 questions about the proposal and a reply was drafted Tuesday night.

An American negotiating team was hurriedly dispatched to Algiers to discuss the response with the Algerians before sending it on to Tehran where four Algerian diplomats were maintaining direct contact with the Iranian government.

There was no new word on the progress of the negotiations from Tehran, where the Moslem country was observing the Islamic sabbath.

In Chicago, meanwhile, commodity futures slumped on rumors the United States had transferred billions of dollars to Algeria as part of the hostage negotiations with Iran. But Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, mentioned in the rumors, denied such a transfer and the State Department in Washington had no comment.

As the negotiations went on, the Algerians were taking a larger role. U.S. officials said a more active Algerian role could speed up the negotiations.

One major problem with transferring frozen Iranian assets is that as much as $6 billion is tied up by legal claims against Iran filed by U.S. individuals and companies. The Carter administration has said it cannot legally quash the lawsuits.

Galveston fears student invasion

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Galveston leaders fear their clean beaches, trendy nightclubs and fancy restaurants may be invaded by college students boycotting Florida resorts to protest a law raising the legal drinking age in that state from 18 to 19.

Local leaders and residents contend the presence of thousands of college students idling away their spring vacations at this coastal resort will revive "Splash Days," a celebration popular in the 1950s.

The ritual, however, was halted in 1962 after crowds of riotous students were arrested.

The Florida Youth Alliance recently mailed letters to universities organizations, fraternities and sororities across the country urging students to spend spring break at Galveston "as a means of protesting the action of the Florida Legislature raising the legal drinking age from 18 to 19" on Oct. 1.

Steve Kingsley, the alliance's public relations director, claimed Thursday the Florida legislature's action dealt a big blow to one of the state's major industries — tourism.

"I'm sure that many of the cities whose residents scream about the trouble caused by younger visitors each year would scream even more loudly if they lost the money that those youthful tourists bring in," Kingsley said.

In the letter, the group pointed out Galveston's virtues — excellent beaches, availability of entertainment at a variety of bars and clubs and Texas' legal drinking age of 18.

But leaders of this coastal city of 80,000 view the youths' arrival with reservation.

"We welcome all tourists," said City Councilman Rudy Teichman, "but they're not gonna come down here and hold drunken parties just to protest something they can't do in Florida."

But Kingsley said Galveston residents have little to fear because the boycott of Florida beaches is "sort of symbolic."

"I don't think they will come down in huge numbers," he said. "We're mostly interested in them boycotting Florida."

Kingsley noted student tourists spend $66 million each year in Fort Lauderdale, the traditional college spring-break capital.

"If just 5 percent of the 220,000 spring-break visitors decided not to come, this would cause the city to lose around $3 million in revenue," Kingsley said. "If even that much of a decline is experienced by Fort Lauderdale and other beach cities this year, we will consider our efforts to have been successful."

UTPB plans Spanish program

ODESSA — A new course in business Spanish being offered at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin this spring will prepare a group of students for an exchange program between UTPB and Universidad del Noreste in Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico, this summer.

Dr. Thomas Wolff, UTPB assistant to the president and coordinator of the exchange program, noted that while the course is designed for students wishing to participate in the summer internship and exchange program, it will be of benefit to area business personnel who desire to better their business communications through use of the Spanish language.

"Bilingual persons have become more and more valuable to various professions — particularly in West Texas — and this course will give them the specialized vocabulary they need for business," said Wolff.

Students wishing to take the course — Spanish 489 02, Business Spanish — should have some conversational knowledge of the Spanish language, he added. Registration is set for Jan. 15-16 in the UTPB student lounge.

Meeting times for the class will be arranged between the students and instructor, Dr. Thomas E. Schaefer, associate professor of management at UTPB.

Schaefer, who taught for eight years in Puerto Rico before coming to UTPB, will also travel to Mexico in May for a lecture series at Universidad del Noreste.

The exchange program resulted from a visit last fall by Vice Rector Hector Rivas from the Universidad Autonoma del Noreste.

Following completion of the business Spanish course, students in the program will enroll at UTPB, but will complete their work in Mexico and live with Mexican families during the summer. They will study there and work for a Mexican firm in the area of business administration.

"We also hope to have several Mexican students on the UTPB campus as part of the program," said Dr. Wolff.

Dr. Schaefer, who has written numerous publications, both in Spanish and English, has studied in Puerto Rico and Spain.

Group urges use of advisory panel

Citizens' views on redistricting needed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A House study group recommended Friday that legislators listen to a citizen advisory committee before reshuffling congressional and state legislative districts because of the 1980 census.

"We have had 17 public hearings throughout the state," said Rep. Tim Von Dolen, D-Victoria, "and many of the witnesses appearing there were from the minorities, but this (the committee) would be an opportunity for everyone to give advice to the legislators."

"I just want to be sure this advisory committee would be really useful and not just window dressing," said Rep. Gary Thompson, D-Abilene.

The recommendation for a citizen advisory committee was included in a final report given preliminary approval by Von Dohlen, chairman of the House redistricting committee, and four other members. The six other members of the committee will vote by mail.

The advisory committee would be appointed by the House speaker and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Another recommendation calls for the new lineup of 27 congressional districts to be within one-half percent of the ideal population average of 528,977 persons for each district.

The report says the redistricting of seats for the 130 state representatives should be within 4.5 percent of the ideal average of 94,856 persons per district.

The Texas Senate will draw up its own bill for the 31 Senate seats.

Figures presented in the final report of the House redistricting committee show that 18 of the present 24 congressional districts are over the ideal district size according to the 1980 census. Six districts were under.

Among Texas' 13 top metropolitan counties, six of them were over the ideal size, including Bexar, Cameron, Dallas, Harris, Lubbock, and Travis. Jefferson, McLennan and Nueces were under the ideal district size. El Paso, Galveston, Hidalgo, and Tarrant districts are about the right size.

Among non-metropolitan counties, there were 37 less than the ideal size and 21 that were over. Variations ranged from Dist. 21 in Fort Bend and Brazoria counties with 74.8 percent over the ideal size and Dist. 67 in Collin and Rockwall counties with 67.7 percent over to Dist 66 in the lower Panhandle with 24.5 percent too few.

New York firm's Medicaid bid lower

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A consultant said Friday that a New York firm's bid for Texas' $2 billion Medicaid contract was lower than H. Ross Perot's but the price advantage might be overcome by Perot's ability to control costs.

Touche Ross & Co. presented its $120,000 report to the three-man State Board of Human Resources, which will decide next Friday who gets the contract.

National Heritage Insurance Co., a subsidiary of Perot's Electronic Data Systems, has held the contract to cover medical expenses of 700,000 needy Texans since 1977.

Bradford National Corp. of New York City was the only bidder against Perot for the new contract, which takes effect on Sept. 1, and the board voted on June 15 to award the business to Bradford.

After personal visits from Perot, the board reopened the contract and later hired Touche Ross to analyze both bids.

Each bidder has indicated it will sue if it loses.

Touche Ross said Bradford came in $18 million to $42 million lower than NHIC for the

Egan play to close

Final performance of the Country Squire Dinner Theatre's production of "Broken Up" with Richard Egan is tonight.

The theater, located just east of Odessa on Highway 80, will open its next play, "Ninety Day Mistress," Thursday. The production will star English born actress June Wilkinson, who was selected by Hugh Hefner as Playboy Magazine's favorite "playgirl."

four-year contract "before claims cost control differences are considered."

"When the claims cost control differences of the bidders are considered, NHIC's claims costs could be lower than Bradford's, potentially eroding the Bradford pricing advantage," the report said.

It said that while NHIC had the greater financial ability to take a major loss, both could meet the "minimum financing and cash flow requirements to operate the program."

Touche Ross concluded that because of difficulties in price analysis and the closeness of the bids when cost control is considered, "the selection should not be based on pricing alone."

Peter Del Col, Bradford's president, said the report shot down all of Perot's major arguments against giving the contract to Bradford.

"The time has come for the board to act. You must put an end to NHIC's dilatory tactics and confirm your award to Bradford. Everyone has confirmed that Bradford is the best and lowest bidder, and it is now time to allow us to get on with the job we have to do for the state of Texas," he said.

Del Col dismissed Touche Ross' findings that NHIC's ability to control claims costs because Touche Ross never expected them in dollars. "If the possibility cannot be quantified, it should not be considered — certainly not to overcome a hard dollar advantage of $18 million to $42 million," he said.

Perot asserted that Bradford's plan for control of the state of Texas, NHIC's methods to its own "just won't work." Bradford could performing committee show that 18 of the present 24 congressional districts are over the ideal district size according to the 1980 census. Six districts were under.

Among Texas' 13 top metropolitan counties, six of them were over the ideal size, including Bexar, Cameron, Dallas, Harris, Lubbock, and Travis. Jefferson, McLennan and Nueces were under the ideal district size. El Paso, Galveston, Hidalgo, and Tarrant districts are about the right size.

Among non-metropolitan counties, there were 37 less than the ideal size and 21 that were over. Variations ranged from Dist. 21 in Fort Bend and Brazoria counties with 74.8 percent over the ideal size and Dist. 67 in Collin and Rockwall counties with 67.7 percent over to Dist 66 in the lower Panhandle with 24.5 percent too few.

East Texas doesn't need Cubans, Clements says

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — East Texas does not need an influx of Cuban refugees "who have a fifth-grade level educational background" and "can't speak the language," Gov. Bill Clements said Friday.

The governor reacted sharply to reports of a plan to move 2,000 Cuban refugees from Fort Chaffee, Ark., to several East Texas cities, including Marshall and Longview, although U.S. State Department officials said those reports were made "prematurely."

"The decision has not been made," said Arthur Brill, the state department's director of public information in Washington. "It's strictly a proposal at this time by the World Relief Agency."

"Perhaps the word has gone out a little prematurely," he said.

Clements asked President Jimmy Carter to prevent relocation of the refugees to Texas until the potential impact can be measured. The governor called on Attorney General Mark White to "take all legal actions necessary" to postpone the arrival of the Cubans.

"I do not want these people in Texas until we know that they can be gainfully and properly employed and assimilated within these communities, and that the communities want them. On any other basis I'm opposed to their coming to Texas," Clements said at his weekly news conference.

Community support in East Texas for the Cubans seems sparse.

Dangerfield Mayor W.O. Irvin has said, "We don't have room for them, and, as far as we can find out, there are no jobs for them."

Clements said Texas should not be a "dumping ground for some teen-age or young 20-year-old Cubans who have a fifth-grade level educational background and who will become a burden to the community, and can't speak the language."

Officials with the Resource Development for World Relief Organization have confirmed the plan to open an East Texas office to help relocate Cuban refugees. The organization already has helped place 20,000 refugees throughout the United States in 18 months.

Clements said he has heard only "ambiguous" reports about the Cuban relocation plan.

In a letter to White, Clements said, "I am shocked at reports to relocate 2,000 Cuban refugees from Fort Chaffee, Ark., to East Texas. "I have called upon the president to delay the relocation until there has been an adequate time for the state and local officials to assess the impact, feasibility, practicality, and justifiability of this relocation," said Clements' letter.

He said there has been an adequate time for state and local officials to determine the impact, feasibility, practicality, and justifiability of this relocation," said Clements' letter.

"I call upon you to take all legal actions necessary to see that the relocation of these 2,000 Cuban refugees is postponed until there has been an adequate time for state and local officials to determine the impact, feasibility, practicality, and justifiability of this relocation," said Clements' letter.

Clements forecasts success, fears fate of referendum plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements is forecasting success for most parts of his legislative program, but admitted Friday his initiative and referendum plan has only a "50-50" chance of passing.

"My expectations are reasonably high," Clements said at his weekly news conference. The 67th Legislature comes to town Tuesday and the governor has a list of pet topics he will be pushing. He said he has found sponsors for his legislation, but declined to name the legislators who will carry his bills.

"I would predict to you that by and large our crime package will pass," Clements said. That package includes a plan to allow law enforcement officials to tap the telephones of known drug dealers. Clements said the legislators also would favorably receive a bill that would clamp down on so-called "head shops" that sell drug equipment.

He also predicted success for his ideas on elementary and secondary education. Clements, however, was less optimistic on initiative and referendum, giving it a "50-50 chance, no better than that."

The governor said his polls show 70 percent of the state's residents favor a system that would allow the voters to decide on some laws.

Clements called for an obvious tax relief plan, one that would clearly show Texans they are getting a break.

More oil firms raise prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of California, Shell Oil Co. and Union Oil Co. of California on Friday raised wholesale heating oil, diesel fuel and gasoline prices 1 to 3 cents a gallon following similar increases a day before by several large refiners.

"The recent sharp rises in the price of foreign crude (oil) and the continuing decontrol of domestic crude" prices sparked the move by Shell, the nation's eighth-largest oil company, spokesman Kitty Borah said in Houston. In San Francisco, fourth-ranked SoCal attributed its increase to "the continued escalation in the cost of its raw materials."

The nation's three largest oil companies — Exxon Corp., Mobil Corp. and Texaco Inc. — were among those raising wholesale fuel prices as much as 3 cents a gallon Thursday, and several refiners raised prices as much as a nickel a gallon a week earlier. Wholesale prices can be passed on to consumers.

On Friday, Standard of California's Chevron heating oil and diesel fuel rose 1 to 3 cents a gallon and its gasoline rose 1 to 2 cents a gallon; and Shell heating oil, diesel and jet fuel rose 2 to 3 cents a gallon.

Union, the No. 15 oil company, increased gasoline, heating oil and diesel fuel prices 1 to 2 cents a gallon except in Alaska, where the price of a gallon of unleaded regular gasoline rose 3 cents.

The Labor Department said in Washington, meanwhile, that wholesale gasoline prices rose 1.5 percent and wholesale heating oil prices gained 1.9 percent in December.

Heating oil prices have risen dramatically since last fall amid unusually cold winter weather, a round of increases by Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries members and gradual lifting of crude oil price controls in the United States.

Industry sources said costly spot-market purchases of heating oil by major refiners, whose storage tanks are brimming with gasoline, also may have played a role in the price increases.

Heating oil and diesel fuel are virtually identical by-products of gasoline in oil refineries. Gasoline demand has plunged since 1978 as prices soared.

Thus, "we were throwing out a lot of gasoline and we just couldn't sell it," said an executive at one of the nation's largest refiners.

To meet the needs of heating oil customers during this winter's cold weather, "we had to buy quite a slug" of heating oil on the spot market, said the executive, who asked not to be identified.

Navy fighting oil spill in San Francisco Bay

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — The Navy used a floating boom and absorbent materials to clean up a 1,000-gallon oil spill from San Francisco Bay as efforts continued to save 37 seabirds contaminated by the sticky diesel fuel.

"It looks like a major portion of the work will be done in 36 to 48 hours," Howard Thomas, a spokesman for the Alameda Naval Air Station, said Friday. The oil spilled Tuesday was spread over a mile and a quarter of shoreline by tidal action, he said.

Capt. Norman Campbell, commander of the Alameda Naval Air Station, said the Navy accepted responsibility for the spill and cleanup.

The spill was near the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea and the oil ship USS Wabash, although details about how it happened were not made public.

The spill polluted the Crab Cove Marine Preserve at the west end of Robert W. Crown Memorial State Beach.

More than 30 seabirds died of oil contamination, but 37 others were collected and taken to the Alexander Lindsay Jr. Museum of Natural Science in nearby Walnut Creek.

Gasoline spilled

MOUND CITY, Ill. (AP) — The Coast Guard closed a 10-mile stretch of the Ohio River to reduce the fire hazard Friday after a grounded barge spilled more than 22,000 gallons of gasoline into the water.

The river was closed to water traffic between Cairo and Mound City on the extreme southern tip of Illinois while officials awaited cleanup crews.

Coast Guard Commander John Bailey said a 10-barge tow ran aground Thursday. The stretch of river was closed after one of the barges began leaking when a towboat tried to move it from a snag, he said.

"We've directed the barge owner to hire a pollution cleanup contractor for the spill and the river will be closed until the pollution is cleaned up," Bailey said.

A view of the world in turmoil...

In Iran...

Iranian troops, left, move cautiously through the back alleys of Susangerd, in southern Iran, during a search for Iraqi snipers. Both Iran and Iraq Friday reported casualty figures, marking the bloodiest single day of combat — Iraq claimed the death of 1,062 Iranians, Iran claimed the death of 467 Iraqis. Above, Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, background center, is greeted by troops near Ahvaz. (All photos on this page Associated Press Laserphotos)

In Israel...

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, seen leaving his Jerusalem office, is facing his gravest crisis since taking office in 1977 — the threatened resignation of Cabinet members in a dispute over teachers' pay. Israeli newspapers are saying he will resign next week, since there is little hope for a compromise.

In England...

The coffin of Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, last survivor of Queen Victoria's 37 grandchildren, is carried from St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, following Thursday's funeral service. Behind the coffin are Sir Henry Abel Smith and Lady May Abel Smith, the only surviving daughter of Princess Alice; Queen Elizabeth; Prince Philip, the Queen Mother and other members of the royal family.

In Poland...

Union leader Lech Walesa, center, talks with members of Solidarity, Poland's largest independent trade union, during a break in plenary meetings in Gdansk. A new confrontation between labor and government over the 40-hour work week appears to be shaping up.

In Mexico...

A student walks through the remains of a glass door after some 500 strikebreakers Thursday captured the campus of Autonomous University, Baja California. Some 20 people were injured, including one shooting victim, in the university melee which followed.

In Brazil...

Survivors of a shipwreck on an Amazon tributary arrive Thursday in the far-off jungle port of Macapa, in northern Brazil. The death toll was 230, with 256 survivors reported. The accident occurred Tuesday on the remote Cajari River.

TAX TIPS

Many losses allowable for income tax purposes

This is the second in a series of tax tip articles provided by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Every day it seems that some kind of major or minor disaster — fire, storm, oil spill, plane crash — takes its toll somewhere.

The tolls can be costly. Some things can never be replaced and no dollar value can be placed on them. But in many cases where a loss is sustained, a definite value can be determined. When this is so, the loss is usually allowable for federal tax purposes. This is true for natural disasters and thefts.

Questions about your 1980 tax return will be answered at the "Taxes and You" program. This public service course is sponsored by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service. The informal two-night course will be offered Jan. 13 and 15 from 7 to 10 p.m.

More than 25 CPAs will volunteer their time to provide taxpayers with instructions and question-and-answer sessions. The program is open to the public at a charge of $1 per person to cover administrative costs.

LOSSES ON business property, regardless of the cause, are generally deductible. This is not true of nonbusiness property.

For a nonbusiness casualty loss to be deductible, certain clearly defined conditions must exist. A casualty is the complete or partial destruction or loss of property as a result of an identifiable event that was sudden, unexpected, or unusual in nature.

Damage in itself is not the criterion. Slow and steady, progressive destruction is not a casualty for tax purposes. For example, if a sonic boom breaks all the dishes and even the windows, that's a sudden, unexpected and identifiable event.

If the stones from a retaining wall fall out one by one because of gradual erosion by the elements, there is no casualty for tax purposes even though there is damage.

THERE ARE CERTAIN things to keep in mind if a casualty loss is to be claimed on a tax return, according to the Internal Revenue Service. If the damaged or stolen property was insured, then a tax deduction may only be claimed for any loss beyond the insurance payment (or the anticipated payment if the insurance payment has not yet been received).

Taxpayers who feel damaged property was worth more than the insurance company paid must provide detailed proof of the added value with any claim for a tax deduction.

Further, if the damaged property was insured, but for some reason the taxpayer chooses not to claim the insurance payment, no tax deduction may be claimed unless it's for an amount beyond what the insurance payment would have been.

People involved in auto accidents, for example, are frequently tempted to forego an insurance claim in order to avoid a rate increase, thinking they will claim a tax deduction instead. A tax deduction for the loss in insured property, however, is not allowed.

TAXPAYERS WHO have suffered casualty losses should work as quickly as possible to make exact lists of items lost or damaged, including the estimated value of each item. Before and after photos and in some cases professional appraisals, are also of great value if they are available.

By reconstructing all losses as soon after the casualty as possible, the taxpayer avoids the need to trust to memory at tax time.

Some areas of the U.S. are often hit by natural disasters. When a natural disaster occurs, the President may determine that these areas are eligible for federal disaster assistance. When this happens, taxpayers in the areas have a special tax option.

They may deduct the loss in the year in which it occurred. Or they may elect to deduct their losses in the preceding year as if they had occurred in that year.

For disasters other than those in a presidentially specified area, the loss must be deducted in the year in which it occurred. For example, if a family's home burned in July 1980 the casualty would be deducted on the 1980 tax return.

BUT SUPPOSE a hurricane hit in August 1980 causing the area to be declared a disaster area by the president. Taxpayers could deduct their losses on their 1980 tax return or elect to amend their 1979 return and deduct them as if they occurred in 1979.

Deductions for losses by theft are also allowed. A theft can include such unlawful acts as kidnapping for ransom, extortion, larceny, robbery and embezzlement, but it is not limited to these.

Proof of the theft is essential. A police report, for example, would be acceptable. The mere disappearance of property would not qualify, nor would mislaying money or property.

The first $100 of casualty or theft losses involving nonbusiness property is not deductible. If the actual loss is $100 or less, there is no deduction. Also, nonbusiness property losses may only be claimed by those who itemize deductions using a Schedule A with the "long form," Form 1040.

To provide help in the correct reporting of casualties, IRS has prepared Pub. 547, "Tax Information on Disasters and Thefts." It is detailed on all aspects of losses and arranged so that readers can select only the sections needed.

To register for the "Taxes and You" program, simply fill out the registration form found on Page 3A in today's Reporter-Telegram.

Classes will be held at the Allison Fine Arts Building on the campus of Midland College.

Stock market posts modest gain despite steep declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, closing out the busiest week in Wall Street history, recovered enough from the steep decline of the past two sessions to post a modest gain Friday.

Recently-battered oil issues were among the leaders of the advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, coming off a two-day slide of almost 39 points, rose 2.99 to 968.69.

The average finished the week with a net loss of 4.09.

New York Stock Exchange volume totaled 50.19 million shares, down from 55.35 million Thursday.

That put weekly turnover on the Big Board at 324.54 million shares, topping the previous record of 306 million set last Nov. 17-21.

The market benefited from an easing of the selling pressure touched off Wednesday by investment adviser Joseph Granville's recommendation that his subscribers dump their holdings.

The Dow Jones industrials climbed more than 6 points in early trading, slipped back to the minus side at mid-day, and then turned upward again just before the close.

In the economic news, several banks which had not yet joined in a recent prime rate reduction to 20 percent did so. But one that had gone to 19.5 percent, Chemical Bank of New York, raised its basic rate on business loans back to 20.

Hopes for a further decline in interest rates were heightened after the close by the Federal Reserve's report of another large decline in the basic measures of the money supply. Wall Street economists said it was a strong signal that the economy was slowing.

In the oil group, Exxon gained 1/2 to 77 1/2. Standard Oil of California picked up 1 to 94 1/2. Texaco's to 45 1/2. Conoco 2 1/2 to 61 1/2. Union Oil of California 1 1/2 to 41 1/2. Superior Oil 3/4 to 19 1/2, and Mobil 1 1/2 to 28 1/2.

On Thursday Mobil reported the completion of tests on an exploratory well off the coast of Newfoundland.

Citicorp was the volume leader, off 1/2 to 23 1/2. A 178,600 share block traded at 23 1/2.

Some blue chips that sold off sharply Wednesday and Thursday continued to lose ground. International Business Machines slipped 1/4 to 67 1/2, and General Motors was off 1/2 to 45 1/2.

Texas International climbed 1 1/2 to 40. The company reported on a gas discovery in Texas.

The daily tally on the NYSE showed about three stocks rising in price for every two that declined. The exchange's composite index rose 24 to 76.44.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 57.41 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials was up 63 at 151.72, and S&P's 500 stock composite index added 42 to 133.48.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 3.55 to 339.93. The NAS-DAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 197.66, up 1.77.

U.S. hostage-related rumors create short-lived commodity price slump

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures prices slumped for a time Friday in part because of rumors the United States had transferred billions of dollars to Algeria in hopes of freeing the American hostages in Iran.

Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, mentioned in rumors on the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade, denied it had transferred any large amount of money.

The rumor was that Chase sent $10 billion and Chemical Bank of New York transferred $6 billion to Algeria as part of a plan to have the 52 American hostages in Iran released.

"Chase has not transferred any money to Algeria, unless there was some routine business transaction," said Steve Rautenberg, a bank spokesman. He added any such routine transaction would not have involved a large sum.

It's down to the Blues against the Whites

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When you reach a football conference championship game, you grasp for any edge you can find. So the Philadelphia Eagles, with the home team option, will wear their white uniforms Sunday against Dallas in the National Football Conference title game.

geles. Dallas beat St. Louis wearing their blue jerseys. Some of the Cowboys shrug off the color complex and Randy White growled he'd wear pink if he had to. The Cowboys were in their lucky whites last Sunday when they staged a brilliant three-touchdown rally in the fourth quarter to eliminate Atlanta 30-27.

they beat Green Bay, 17-13. The hero of that contest was iron man center-linebacker Chuck Bednarik, who played 58 of the 60 minutes and finished the game with his arms wrapped around running back Jim Taylor as time ran out.

Pack whips Estacado, 85-72

It took Midland time to warm up, but once the Bulldogs did, they went on to chalk up their 17th basketball victory of the season Friday night. Trailing 22-17 at the end of the first period to Lubbock Estacado, the Pack finally erupted for 28 second period points to go on to post an 85-72 victory over the Class AAAA Matadors in Chaparral Center.

the final period when it outscored MHS 26-18, but there was too much for the visitors to make up. MIDLAND WON the game at the free throw line, hitting 13 of 23 charity tosses while Estacado connected on only six of 18 free tosses.

JOHNSON WAS almost the whole show on offense in the third period for the Pack in scoring his 12 points to break open a close contest. Cade waxed hot in the final period, hitting four field goals during the 26-point outburst.

ESTACADO RODE the hot shooting of Kenneth Cade, Rodney Guyton and James Barnett in the first period, while MHS was cold as the dickens. Herb Johnson, who finally wound up with 26 points to pace the Bulldogs, misfired on the first six shots he took, but he still had 14 points at the half with Midland holding on to a 45-33 advantage.

Stephenson substituted freely during the game, with 11 players getting into the scoring column. Estacado lost the services of Barnett when he left the game with his fifth foul after scoring eight points. He fouled out with 45 seconds left in the second period. The Matadors also lost Jerry Gray with five fouls in the final five seconds of the contest.

MIDLAND (85) — Herb Johnson 10-8-20; Norace Brown 1-2-12; Michael Feldt 4-2-10; Mike Velasco 2-1-10; Steve Miller 1-1-4; Don Sharnowski 5-2-11; Justin Morrell 0-1-1; Todd Barry 2-2-4; Kevin Griffin 1-1-1; Raymond Parker 2-2-2; Preston Roberston 1-1-1. Totals: 85-72. Virgil Slay(s) HC Hawks as Chaparrals win, 95-84

BIG SPRING—Midland College never trailed in posting its 16th straight victory this season, defeating Howard County in the ABC Classic finals, but it wasn't the piece of cake the final 95-84 margin makes it seem. The nation's No. 1 ranked junior college basketball team was under pressure all the way from the Hawks, now 12-4, but in the end, Coach Jerry Stone's Chaparrals had their fourth straight tournament victory of the season.

The Chaps resume WJCC play Monday against Amarillo College in Amarillo. The tournament closed out the Chaps non-conference schedule. Other tournament victories came at Hutchinson, Kan., Amarillo, and Midland.

Midland College (95) — Puntus Wilson 10-8-20; Scotty Taylor 8-2-12; Virgil Slay 8-2-20; Raleigh Freeman 1-0-2; Charles Johnson 2-2-2; Derrick Wilson 2-0-2; Ernie Tate 2-1-2; Kevin Williamson 1-0-2; Jeff Hodges 1-0-2. Totals: 95-84. Howard College (84) — Ron Akins 8-8-18; Randy Corber 14-27; Jeff Peterson 1-4-2; Ken Johnson 1-3-2; Crumby Loving 2-0-12; Bobby Ward 1-0-2; Walter Hall 1-0-2. Totals: 84-95. Scorer by periods: MC 26, HC 15. Total fouls: MC 21, HC 14. Fouled out: Jones, HC.

Jefferson, Hayes matchup

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John Jefferson and Lester Hayes probably won't be conducting their usual chatter during Sunday's American Football Conference championship game. Any game with a trip to the Super Bowl riding on the outcome can do that sort of thing. Jefferson, the San Diego Chargers' third-year wide receiver, and Hayes, Oakland's fourth-year cornerback, will be going head-to-head all afternoon. The winner of the matchup could be the determining factor in which team makes it to New Orleans to fight for the National Football League championship in two weeks.

DAN FOUTS, the San Diego quarterback who passed for a league-record 4,715 yards (breaking the mark of 4,082 he set a year ago), also expresses the highest regard for Hayes. "He's got better hands than just about any other defensive back... You don't necessarily like to go with your strength against the other team's strength. You like to look for the weaknesses and exploit them. But if your strength and theirs happen to collide, that's how you play it." That's how he played it earlier this season, the first time the two teams met. Twice, Hayes came out the loser. Ultimately, so did the Raiders. In the second period, Jefferson made an acrobatic 4-yard touchdown catch. And in overtime, the two competitors went out stride for stride, Fouts lofted a pass, both jumped for it, the sun flashed in Hayes' eyes for an instant, Jefferson came down with the ball and rolled into the end zone with the 24-yard pass that beat Oakland 30-24.

Bufs, Rangers, Owls go for crown

JEFFERSON LED the league in receiving yardage in 1980, gaining 1,340 yards on 82 catches. And Hayes led the league in interceptions this season with 13, one shy of the NFL record. Jefferson also led all receivers in last weekend's 20-14 playoff victory over Buffalo, catching seven passes for 102 yards, while Hayes picked off two more passes in Oakland's 14-12 playoff victory over Cleveland (he has four interceptions, one good for a touchdown, in the Raiders' two playoffs).

BIG LAKE — The Stanton Buffaloes, Reagan County Owls, Greenwood Rangers and Coleman continued their march to a championship showdown in the 50th annual Reagan County Invitational Basketball Tournament by posting wins in the championship bracket Friday night. Stanton had the most difficulty in gaining a place in the semifinals. David McReynolds tossed in 15 points to guide the Bufs past Marfa, 57-56. Parras paced the Shortborns with 16 counters. Undeclared Coleman, waiting to meet Stanton in the semifinals at 3 p.m. today, posted a 49-29 win over Wall. Childress netted 24 points for the winners while Spence tossed in 13 for Wall. In the 8:30 p.m. semifinal game, Greenwood will tangle with Reagan County. The Rangers advanced with a 67-47 thumping of Christoval. Rex Evans headed the Rangers with 26 while Hayes netted 23 for the losers. James Phillip tallied 18 counters to lead the Owls to a 65-45 win over Alpine and a place in the semifinals. Mata tossed in 20 points for Alpine. In the consolation bracket Shallowater, Kermit, Ballinger, and Denver City nailed down victories. Ballinger and was the busiest teams of the day, winning two games. Ballinger opened its second day of play by slipping by Canutillo, 49-47. Manley netted 15 for Ballinger while Sifuentes tossed in 16 for Canutillo. In its second game of the day, Ballinger drubbed Bronte, 51-24. Fuchs led Ballinger with 17 points while Ball netted 15 for Bronte. In other consolation bracket games, Shallowater rolled over Crane, 61-38, behind the 12 points of Garland. Kea netted 12 points for the Golden Cranes. Oldham shot in 13 points to paced Kermit over a cold-shooting Iraan, 55-19. Joe Sconiers hit 10 for the losing Braves. Denver City pounded Ozona, 81-47, with Johnson pouring in 21. Borego tallied 17 for Ozona.

Idaho women cancel season

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP) — The College of Idaho's women basketball team, down to five players because of injuries, has decided to cancel its remaining games this season. School officials said the team started the season with eight players but injuries have hit so hard that the Caldwell school was left with only three healthy players. Two of those were walk-ons. Coach Don Braunacker said his players agreed with the decision. College President Arthur DeRosier released a statement apologizing for the decision.

Wrestler with losing record gives Iowa St. win over Iowa

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Heavyweight Dave Osenbaugh, the only wrestler in the meet with a losing record, pinned favored Lou Banach to cap Iowa State's 25-14 upset of top-rated Iowa Friday night. It was a costly loss for the Hawkeyes, who not only saw their dual meet victory streak stop at 22, but also lost two-time NCAA champion Randy Lewis indefinitely. Lewis suffered a dislocated left elbow in his 134-pound match with Jim Gibbons and had to forfeit. Iowa officials said the senior from Rapid City, S.D., may be out four to six weeks. A crowd of 13,192, the largest of the last six meets between the two powerhouses, saw third-rated Iowa State snap a five-match losing streak to the Hawkeyes. Iowa State is now 6-0 in dual competition and Iowa fell to 9-1. Iowa State dominated the lower weights, building a 16-4 lead, but Iowa fought back and trailed 19-14 heading into the heavyweight contest. Banach needed a pin to give Iowa the victory

Midland Christian fails to Lee Sophs

Lee High School's sophomore boys rolled to a 65-54 win over Midland Christian Friday night at the Lee gym. Lee held a 16-15 lead after the first stanza. In the second period, the Rebels outscored the Mustangs 20 to 12 to take a commanding 36-27 half time lead. The second half was played on even terms as the Rebels claimed their sixth win against three losses. Randall Smith, Lee coach, played 23 players and 16 got into the scoring act. Billy Sewell headed the Rebels with 11 points. Scott McInroe tossed in 20 points and Larry Belcher added 15 markers for the Mustangs. The sophomores next game will be Tuesday night in Chaparral Center against Odessa.

Billy Sims makes predictions ring

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Sims has a way of making predictions come true — especially if they envision good things for the talented running back.

When Sims was being recruited as a high school sensation back in Hooks, Texas, Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer told him he'd win the Heisman Trophy. Sims made that prediction come true in 1978.

When the Detroit Lions made Sims the No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft last spring, his agent — Houston dentist and real estate developer Jerry Argovitz — told him he'd probably be rookie of the year.

That forecast came true Friday when Sims was named the Associated Press Offensive Rookie of the Year.

"I'll tell you, it's something else to be rookie of the year," Sims said by telephone from Miami where he is attending a national coaches convention. "I've got some big shoes to fill. Hopefully I can keep up what I started this season."

Sims helped the Lions go from worst in the NFL with a 2-14 season in 1979 to a respectable 9-7 mark in 1980 — the club's best finish in 10 years.

Along the way, Sims finished fifth in the NFL in rushing with a club record 1,303 yards. He gained over 100 yards in five games, including three of his first four. Sims also scored more touchdowns in a single season than any previous Lion, rushing for 13 and catching three.

"My first year was a learning process," Sims said. "Coming to rookie camp, I figured I could play ball in the professional league. I didn't know I'd have the kind of season I had, but I did think I could play."

"I was kind of surprised the way I started off. But, as the weeks went on, it got harder. We had a really good offensive line but then a lot of those guys started getting hurt."

Everyone knew Sims could run. With the Lions, however, Sims proved that he also is a decent receiver, catching 51 passes during the season for 621 yards.

"I still have a lot to prove," Sims said. "I have something new to learn all the time. I want to improve my pass catching and also my running."

However, he would most like to lead the Lions to a championship — an old Oklahoma habit.

"If the yardage is there for me, fine," Sims said. "But I'd mostly like to win and get the Lions in the playoffs. It can't be all Billy Sims."

That last statement is typical of Sims, who is very low key off the field.

Fred Akers to stay as coach at Texas?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — University of Texas officials say rumors that football Coach Fred Akers is on the way out have been planted by enemies seeking to hurt Longhorn recruiting.

One UT regent said the reports that Akers is on the chopping block are "a bunch of garbage."

The Longhorns sagged to a 7-5 mark this season after a strong start that propelled them to the No. 2 ranking in the nation. Akers has a career mark of 36-12 at UT. He makes $59,500 a year, and has four years to go on a five-year contract.

One report making the rounds says Mississippi State Coach Emory Ballard, former Texas A&M coach and a UT assistant under Darrell Royal, will replace Akers.

"There's nothing to it," said Jones Ramsey, UT sports information director. "(The regents are not going to buy his contract. It (the reason behind the reports) is recruiting. It happens every year."

"That's a bunch of garbage," UT Regent Howard Richards of Austin said Thursday about the Akers' rumors. "Just a bunch of garbage."

UT Regent Jane Blumberg of Seguin said the regents met in executive session Tuesday, but said the Akers situation "was not brought up."

"I think our opponents are stirring it up to use against us in recruiting. If we were going to fire Fred Akers, we'd have done it a long time ago. I've even had people suggest we hire (fired Houston Oiler Coach) Bum Phillips. There's nothing to it. If we ever get in the business of firing coaches who lose a little bit, we ought to just hang up our boots," she said.

Bob Mettlen, executive assistant to UT President Peter Flawn, said, "There hasn't been a piece of paper with Fred Akers' name on it come through here in several days. Silliness is afoot."

Ramsey said he has fielded "a million phone calls" about the rumor.

Akers, in Wharton on a recruiting trip, was unavailable for comment. Ballard also could not be reached.

Johnny Miller gains two stroke lead at Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller, who once blitzed the desert with a casual proficiency that made him golf's Golden Boy, fired a 6-under-par 64 and assumed two-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $300,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open.

"It's fun being back, but there's still a long way to go," Miller said after posting his 36-hole total of 130, 10 strokes under par on the 6,763-yard Randolph Park Municipal course.

"I'm putting beyond my wildest expectations," said Miller.

Dan Halldorson, the hot-handed Canadian who led the first round with a 63, had a share of the top spot until he bogeyed the last two holes late in the day. He finished with a 69 and was tied for second at 139 with Dan Pohl, who had a second-round 65.

New Orleans is no-no for six Oiler assistants

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog Friday released five of six Oiler assistant coaches from their contracts to seek employment anywhere in the National Football League except New Orleans.

Oiler offensive coaches include line coach Joe Bugel, quarterback coach King Hill and backs coach Andy Bourgeois. Defensive aides are Bob Gambold and John Paul Young. The offensive coaches came under fire because of Houston's poor scoring punch this season.

"They know we want them to stay and now they have the unique opportunity to examine other opportunities and still retain the chance to stay with the Oilers," new Oiler head coach Ed Biles said.

A sixth assistant, defensive line coach Wade Phillips, was given unconditional permission to talk with any NFL club, including the Saints.

Herzog, who intends to pursue tamping charges against former Coach Bum Phillips, said the Oilers also would pay expenses of the assistant coaches to attend the Senior Bowl in Mobile, Ala. to help them seek other employment.

The six Oiler assistants have one year remaining on their contracts.

"All we ask is that they let us know by Jan. 31 if they intend to remain with the Oilers," Herzog said following a morning meeting with the coaches. "This will handicap the Oilers by keeping our staff unsettled but we want to be as much help as possible."

"As you know, the Senior Bowl will allow them to circulate and see what other opportunities might be available."

Herzog, who replaced Bum Phillips as general manager Dec. 31 when Phillips was fired, said Wade Phillips, was given an unconditional release because "I think Bum has the New Orleans job and I don't want to be known as the man who kept a father and son apart."

Phillips is considered the favorite to take over as coach of the Saints, which skidded to a 2-14 season last year.

Dick Nolan was fired near the end of the season and assistant Dick Stanfel was named interim coach for the remainder of the campaign.

Herzog said the Oilers would seek compensation in the form of draft choices if any assistant other than Wade Phillips accepts a job with the Saints.

Herzog said he hoped the assistant coaches would remain with the team to retain continuity and that he delayed a formal meeting with the assistants to give them time to consider their situation.

Is Bradshaw really retiring?

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw missed a Friday news conference in Los Angeles where he was expected to explain whether he was giving up football for an acting career, but his mother said she doesn't believe her son is quitting football.

Bradshaw was reported heading back to his Shreveport home on Friday, but nobody answered his residence telephone, and the staff of his Shreveport office said his whereabouts were unknown.

"He hasn't retired. That's just a big old rumor that got out of hand," said Novis Bradshaw, the quarterback's mother. "If he were going to retire, he'd hold a press conference and let everybody know."

The news conference was called and canceled by NBC in Los Angeles.
