City admits spilling effluent into draw

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

The city of Midland conceded Tuesday that it hasn't been entirely innocent recently concerning a charge by county residents that effluent has spilled into Midland Draw from the sewage treatment plant.

But that problem was stopped Monday night, the Midland City Council told county residents during its regular session Tuesday in City Hall Council Chambers.

During a two-hour discussion Mayor G. Thane Akins informed the complaining residents that "we're here today to find out what the problems are. We want to maintain a facility in compliance with state regulations and with the people." The county residents had charged the city was dumping effluent into Midland Draw from its sewage treatment plant near Cole Park.

Councilman Tom Sloan later in the meeting told the group the city was stopping "what we know is going on, and that is raw sewage spilling over into the draw. We will be irrigating 300 more acres with the effluent water. It may stink," he warned, "but it stops the raw sewage from spilling over.

Assistant City Manager Fred Poe explained this morning that there was too much treated effluent in holding ponds and the city was trying to di-vert some to an old pond. Instead, it ran over a canal into the draw. By irrigating the extra 300 acres, water will be taken out of the holding ponds to accommodate more effluent. John Lowe, director of public uti-lites, explained raw sewage can be taken through two processes at the plant: Primary or secondary treatments.

UNDER THE PRIMARY treatment process, the heavier parts are removed and the effluent is put into oxidation ponds where "another degree of reduction is achieved." This effluent is used to irrigate a nearby farmer's alfalfa fields. For the secondary process, which Lowe called "energy intensive," the primary treated effluent has oxygen driven into it to remove more of the heavier solid parts and remove the bacteria. This water then is used to irrigate local golf courses, including that of Midland Country Club.

"Chlorine is not an efficient odor re-duction material," said Lowe. "We're using some odor control chemicals before the effluent is used for irrigation to kill some of the bacteria. George Pat Anderson of Route 1 told the council a neighbor had some of his well water tested by Martin Water Lab of Midland. That water was found to be high in nitrates and detergent. And the neighbor claimed he was getting a sewer odor from his well.

ANDERSON CHARGED that in the draw there is a smelly green mildew - the same color as the irrigation water. "I feel the sewer water is coming down the draw." Jane Clark complained about the smell coming from the plant. "It's awful to go outside the house. When the wind comes from the northwest, it stinks. A town as rich as Midland could put in a good sewer system rather than put their money downtown in expensive buildings.

Lowe refuted Anderson's charge that the "green slime" is coming out of the sewage treatment plant. Water in the draw is slow-moving and creates an environment for algae growth, he said. This creates the "green slime." When the algae dies, it

Council delays action on proposed rezoning

Like sleeping giants slowly rum-bling to life, office buildings are sprouting out of the ground east and west of North Big Spring Street. Resi-dents in the 500 block of Holmsley Street are finding themselves crunched up against one of the slowly rising structures and asked the Midland City Council on Tuesday to change their zoning to office. But nearby residents along West Kansas and West Storey avenues didn't much like the idea.

The council, during its regular ses-sion in City Hall, put the issue on a back burner to give the members time to review an upcoming zone change on an adjacent piece of land. Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, explained the Holmsley residents wanted the zone changed from single family to O-1, offices limited to 21/2 stories.

Sarah Branum, representing the residents, explained the land south of this block is zoned 0-1, and an office is going up across the alley from these people. Mrs. Roy Gardner, 511 Holmsley, said residents remaining on her block are senior citizens. "Sooner or later, we're going to have to move. If left as housing, no one would want to buy them.

And Mary Elkins charged the street isn't safe to raise children.

But residents along Storey and Kan-sas avenues claimed the business and sas avenues claimed the business and office districts are getting too close for comfort. By denying the office zone, it would give them a bit of breathing room. Betty Lawless, 509 Storey Ave., said nearby office zoning hadn't increased the value of their house, but has de-creased it, according to a recent an

Super cold grips East

Death toll stands at 44

By The Associated Press

A wave of super-cold air that has claimed at least 44 lives since Christmas continued its frosty assault on the East today, icing harbors from Maine to Chesapeake Bay, freezing Florida oranges by the millions and forcing up the prices of some shellfish.

The mercury dipped to 22 below zero in Massena, N.Y., early today after falling to record lows Tuesday in many Southeastern cities. Temperatures hit 7 in Wilmington, N.C., and 8 in Tallahassee, Fla. New England continued to register temperatures from the teens to below zero.

At least 44 deaths - most from exposure and over-exertion while shoveling snow - have been reported in 14 states since Christmas.

The cold meant trouble to people trying to travel in sluggish cars or buses and to people staying at homes affected by sporadic power outages and heating fuel shortages.

There were rotating power blackouts for some 250,000 homes in dozens of Florida communities as cold-weather demand strained generating plants.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Edward J. King declared a statewide energy emergency because of a natural gas shortage and urged residential customers of the state's largest gas company, Boston Gas Co., to keep thermostats at 63 degrees from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m. and lower at Customers of Philadelphia Gas Works also have been asked to roll back thermostats 5 to 20 degrees because of potential shortages.

New York City officials have logged nearly 10,000 telephone calls this week from public housing tenants without heat or hot water. "Babies are put to bed bundled in snowsuits and apartments are heated by keeping ovens going all night," complained tenant Ese Varses.

Mass transit in many cities was affected by the cold nearly one of every five scheduled subways and buses in New York City was disabled Tuesday by mechanical troubles from frigid temperatures.

"No one can remember a worse day - at all," said Metropolitan Transit Authority spokesman Robert Huber

Many of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority buses wouldn't start Tuesday. "The big problem is that batteries go down overnight and it's hard to start the buses no matter what precautions we take," a spokesman said.

As much as a fifth of Florida's orange crop - equal to 49 million gallons of concentrated juice - has been damaged by temperatures hovering in the 20s.

Frantic citrus farmers lit smudge pots, switched on wind machines or warm water sprays and hired helicopters to keep the wind moving in an effort to prevent frost from forming on the plants.

Winter fruit and vegetables also were badly stung by the freeze

"It's a disaster," said Betty Tilson, whose husband, Ed. is a bean farmer near Homestead, Fla. "Our fields aren't frosted, they're iced over. My husband says every bean field we've got is just black, and the tomato fields next to us are too.

In the ice-bound harbors of New England, fishing fleets were trapped at the docks where ice floes uprooted piers and knocked holes in boat hulls.

The entire fleet of cutters from the U.S. Coast Guard Search and Rescue Center has been dispatched to chop up ice in harbors from Maine to Rhode Island. Breaking a channel to Nantucket and clearing the way for fuel barges are the highest priorities, officials said.

The cold-weather fishing slowdown has forced up the price of lobsters and scallops, and fishermen fear the cold may produce long-term problems.

The water, about 3 to 4 degrees colder than normal, may drive the fish far from shore in search of warmer temperatures, said Frank Mirarchi, president of the Inshore Draggerman's Association.

Removing the odor of effluent, whether it has gone through one or both processes, is difficult, he said.

He pointed out that a piece of land to the south and east of Holmsley would be coming before the council on a request to be zoned 0-2, offices limited to six stories.

"THE PROBLEM IS that once you get into this neighborhood, it's difficult to decide where to stop with it (rezoning into office districts). And the traffic will present problems here," he said.

until late February, Councilman Tom Sloan advised the opponents that he lives within 140 feet of a neon sign and within 300 feet of the new Texas Electric Service Co. building that will go up on Wall Street.

"IT'S NOT AN adverse thing. These are nice buildings," he said of the offices. "I thought they would be offensive, too, but they're not."

The council decided to publicize its (See CITY COUNCIL, Page 4A)

$5 million bond election may be held this year

By RICHARD ORR Staff Writer

Midland voters likely will face a $5 million school bond election later this year for construction of two new schools and the renovation of an old one after Midland School Board members met Tuesday to discuss the plan.

"DeZavala needs major work,' school superintendent Dr. James Mailey told school trustees during their meeting Tuesday afternoon. "The windows don't close properly, the heating system is poor and the cafeteria is inadequate.

Preliminary estimates show it would cost $2.9 million to remodel DeZavala, and Mailey said, "We'd still be left with a 1928 building" - the year the school was built.

Instead of putting that kind of money into an old building, trustees tentativley decided to call for a bond issue election this spring to build a new school in the same far east side area

The decision was based on figures showing a new school could be built for about $2.5 million. "It would be a shot in the arm to the people in the area," a member of the audience told the board, an apparent reference to the redevelopment taking place on the east side.

Trustees noted that DeZavala is not just an eastside school, but part of the cluster plan for desegregation of the school district.

"I think if interested parties or groups would go out and see the con-ditions at DeZavala, they'd agree something needs to be done," board and a second of the second of the member Johnny Warren said.

In addition to a new east side school, trustees are considering another new elementary school in the Bluebird Lanc area on the city's north side, citing enrollment projections for that part of town as justification for a new school.

Such a school would cost in the neighborhood of $2 million. Trustees would also like to renovate DeZavala and turn it into a storage build-ing for the district. This would bring the bond issue package to approximately $5 million.

Mailey agreed to obtain more precise figures and present them to the board at a later date. If formally approved, the bond issue would prob-

Haig hearings become heated

WASHINGTON (AP) - Alexander M. Haig Jr. says Watergate was a stupid and illegal abuse of power but it is not for him to render moral judgments against Richard Nixon or Henry Kissinger. "I must leave that to others, to history and to God," Haig told senators Tuesday during confirmation hearings on his nomination to be secretary of state

Haig denied any wrongdoing himself in Watergate and said he has no apology for the role he did play in wiretapping, covert Chilean operations and the Vietnam War bombing of Cambodia and Hanoi.

Haig made the statement after an angry exchange on Watergate during the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings.

The committee called him back for a fifth day of hearings today and scheduled a vote Thursday that almost certainly will clear Haig for confirmation by the full Senate.

Haig's voice rose in anger as Sen. Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md., questioned him on each of the major Watergate issues and asked if he thought they ware morally wrong.

"I never willingly or consciously or unconsciously participated in an act I considered immoral or, above all, illegal," Haig exploded.

"I didn't do it then and I haven't done it in 37 years of military service, service to the country," said the retired four-star Army general and former NATO commander. "And I am somewhat surprised at your persistence on this."

But other senators took up Sarbanes' question of whether Haig thought Watergate was morally wrong and Haig finally replied: "I believe it was both illegal and stupid. I think if President Nixon were here, he would say it was stupid."

Meanwhile, two other Cabinet nominations were to be voted on today by the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee: former South Carolina Gov. James B. Edwards as energy secretary and James G. Watt as interior secretary.

The Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee plans to vote Thursday on the nominations of Terrel H. Bell as education secretary and construction executive Raymond Donovan as labor secretary. In confirmation hearings Tuesday:

-Transportation Secretary-designate Drew Lew said he would end the national 55-mph speed lim and let states set their own limits.

In the Haig hearing, the secretary of state-desi nate said he sought as Nixon's chief of staff to "ke the country on an even keel" and prevent any furth abuses in the closing days of the Watergate veru

Richards is a former Utah state GOP chairman with a reputation as a good political organizer.

Four years ago, he tried for the national party job and lost to Brock. Reagan was overtly neutral in that contest, although it was understood he favored Richards.

Throughout the interview, Richards went to great lengths to separate himself from the group of ultraconservative Republicans who cheered his selection as GOP chairman while being sharply critical of Reagan's failure to appoint more conservatives to top posts in his administration. "I believe that they (the conservatives), since the campaign, have overstated their role in the last cam-paign," he said. "Maybe they honestly believe it was paign," he said. "Maybe they honestly believe it was they who elected Ronald Reagan.... I think they overstate what their position is, and when they say, 'Hey, you've got to play the game our way or we're going to get rid of you, too,' they are again over-stating their position. more willing to compromise. Richards described the 1980 election as "very much a Ronald Reagan victory," but he warned: "I don't think we made Republicans out of 43 million people" who voted for Reagan.

He said many people who have never voted Re-tories sublican supported Reagan, but many of them may never again desert their Democratic Party tradi-years.

Sinatra, Cross top Grammy nominees

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Ol' Blue Eyes is back, at least with the Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, which named Frank Sinatra and a Texas newcomer named Christopher Cross as the top nominees for he 23rd Annual Grammy Awards.

The eight-time Grammy-winning Sinatra, whose last award was in 1966 for "Stranger in the Night," was nominated Tuesday for best album and best album notes on "Trilogy: Past, Present and Future." His "Theme from New York, New York" earned nominations for record of the year, song of the year, best male pop vocal and best arrangement accompanying vocalist.

Cross, a virtual unknown until his debut album "Christopher Cross" soared to the top of the record charts this year, won seven nominations, including record, album and song of the year.

The album included such hit singles as "Sailing" and "Ride Like the Wind." "Sailing" also earned him the song and record of the year nominations as well as a nomination for best arrangement accompanying a vocalist.

The album was listed in the album of the year, best male pop vocal and best engineered recording categories.

Barbra Streisand, whose hugely successful "Guilty" benefited from Bee Gee touch, was nominated for album of the year. The single 'Woman in Love," written by Bee Gee members Barry and Robin Gibb, received song of the year, record of the year and best female pop vocal nominations

Miss Streisand's duet with Barry Gibb, "Guilty," also was nominated for best pop vocal performance by a duo or group.

Other record of the year nominees were "Lady" by Kenny Rogers and The Rose" by Bette Midler. Billy Joel's "Glass Houses" and Pink Floyd's "The Wall" rounded out the album of the year nominations, and 'Fame,'' "Lady" and "The Rose" were the remaining nominees for song of the year

"The Rose" also earned a best female pop vocal performance nominations; "Lady" also received a nod for best male pop vocal performance; and Rogers, with Kim Carnes on "Don't Fall in Love with a Dreamer," was nominated for best pop vocal performance by a duo or group.

Olivia Newton-John's "Magic" and Donna Summer's "On the Radio" received best female vocal nominations, and Paul Simon's "Late in the Evening" and Kenny Loggins' "This Is It" for male vocal.

The pop group vocal nominees were Bob Seger & The Silver Bullet Band ("Against the Wind"), Ambrosia ("Biggest Part of Me"), Kenny Rogers and Kim Carnes ("Don't Fall in Love With a Dreamer") and the Pointer Sisters ("He's So Shy")

Cross was nominated as best new artist. An eighth nomination, producer of the year, went to his producer, Michael Omartian.

The winners, to be determined by balloting among 5,000 Academy members nationwide, will be announced at an awards show to be telecast Feb. 26 on CBS from New York's Radio City Music Hall.

Blood stains indicate struggle

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A er a struggle. criminologist has testified at the murder trial of Jean Harris that "straight-line gushing" blood patterns plus "more random" spots indicate a struggle occurred as Scarsdale Diet Dr. Herman Tarnower was struck by bullets last March.

Herbert L. MacDonell, a $1,000-aday consultant from Corning, N.Y., was hired by the defense, which contends that Tarnower, 69, died not by murder but during Mrs. Harris' botched suicide attempt

Prosecutors say the 57-year-old former headmistress of the Madeira School for girls in McLean, Va., killed her lover of 14 years at his Purchase. N.Y. estate in a jealous rage over Carnower's affair with another MacDonell also said he believed blood stains near a chipped bathtub in Tarnower's guest bathroom were 'consistent" with Mrs. Harris' having banged the blood-covered weapon on the bathtub after the shooting.

The defense maintains she did not know how to eject the cartridge casings and banged the gun to get them out so she could reload and take her own life

The witness also disputed the prosecution's theory that the hand wound Tarnower sustained came as he held his hand in a "classic defense gesture" to ward off an attack

The defense says Tarnower put his

Polish strike near Soviet border

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Thousands of workers evict them began a two-hour strike today in a town near the Demonst Soviet border and protesters draped red and white Polish flags on buses and trolleys in Warsaw, where the Soviet commander of East Bloc forces met with the nation's Communist Party chief

The two-hour strike was launched in the town of Rzeszow, about 40 miles from the Soviet border. Labor sources said workers at a big machinery plant and other factories there walked off the job in support of farmers seeking to organize a union independent of Communist Party control.

A spokesman in Rzeszow for Solidarity, the nation's biggest independent union, said workers at the Stalowa Wola tractor plant and "all major enterprises here" stopped work at noon local time. He said about 30 factories were involved, and that muncipal transport had stopped.

Solidarity's national leadership said earlier a decision had been taken to close only the Stalowa Wola plant. There was no immediate indication why the strike had been expanded.

In Warsaw, workers hung placards on the buses and trolleys, along with the flags, to protest the government's threats of reprisals against municipal transport employees who boycotted work last Saturday in response to Solidarity's appeal.

Solidarity urged the workers to boycott their jobs over the weekend to press demands for an immediate, five-day, 40-hour work week. The Politburo of the Communist Party said 3 million workers heeded the call Saturday, while more than 7 million showed up for work

On Tuesday, workers at about 120 firms walked off the job for an hour in Przemysl, also near the Soviet border, to support the Rzeszow laborers and farmers who have occupied a former trade union building for over two weeks.

About 300 farmers and workers at Rzeszow have vowed to continue their occupation until the communist government negotiated their demands, the chief one being recognition of farmers' rights to organize

They also said they would ask sympathizers to join a general strike in the area if police force was used to

Labor leader tours Abbey

MONTE CASSINO, Italy (AP) - Polish labor leader Lech Walesa toured the famous Benedectine Abbey here today with a delegation from his independent union Solidarity.

A chartered bus carried the group 54 miles south of Rome in time for morning Mass at the hilltop abbey, site of one of the bitterest battles of World War II.

The delegation, including Walesa's wife Miroslawa, planned to visit the nearby Polish war cemetery after Mass, and later tour southern areas struck by the powerful earthquake Nov. 23.

Homeless quake victims hung banners and posters honoring Solidarity in a tent city in Avelline, one of the communities hit worst by the quake

"Solidarity unites Polish workers and Italian laborers hurt by the earthquake," a banner in Piazza Castello said.

Pope John Paul II, a native Pole, visited Monte Cassino last September to commemorate the 35th anniversary of the 1944 battle. Polish forces under Gen. Ladiflao Anders took the abbey in fierce fighting with its German defenders.

The Allies heavily bombed the sixth century abbey

Demonstrators staging a sit-in at government buildings in Ustrzyki Dolne, just west of the Soviet border, and Nowy Sacz, about 90 miles west, cleared out this week when confronted by security forces. The protesters were demanding government recognition of their unions.

City admits spilling

effluent

Joe Reed with Ed Reed & Associates, a local hydrology company, said the area water table had risen, causing water to be flowing through a normally dry Midland Draw.

"It seems strange to talk about a rising water table in this arid area. But Wadley-Barron Park is proof of that. Ed Reed, my dad, walks across that park every day and noticed the standing water.

Then came calls from residents throughout the city about flooded basements

This rising ground water wasn't there 18 months ago, said Reed. Causing it has been the abandonment of several major well fields, more urban runoff as the city grows and abandonment of domestic wells within the city

ONE COUNTY RESIDENT suggested that dye be injected into effluent. If that dye shows up in Midland Draw, it would be proof that the city is dumping into the draw, he said. "You can't pollute the draw worse than what's been done the last few days." But Sloan rejected that idea. "Radioactive dye is a heck of a pollutant.

Ethel Wisler related how her family moved to Midland County from Iowa and hoped to make a living growing pecan trees, cotton and wheat. But flooding waters from Midland Draw has ruined their wheat and they can't get their cotton out.

"The bank is on our doorstep wanting money. Our backs are against the wall," she said. "Who's going to pay for the damage to our property?"

"Let's work that out later," replied Sloan. "It might be better if you didn't pin me down right now

Attending the meeting were County Commissioners C. Dewayne Davis and Charlie Welch. Welch commended the council on its attitude of want ing to resolve the problem. But he also charged that the city has been contaminating the draw for a number of years

The biggest problem facing the council now, said Sloan, is trying to stop "any possibility of raw sewage being dumped in there. We have to find a place to put it in case of emergency

'But it takes time.'

"Chlorine is not an efficient odor reduction material." - John Lowe, director of public utilities.

"I feel the sewer water is coming down the draw." - George Pat Anderson, Midland County resident.

intention to sell $400,000 in certificates of obligation for moving the Service Operations Building to a new concrete foundation east of the current building. The structure was placed on top of an old landfill which is now sinking. causing cracks in the floor.

The council also approved an agreement selling the certificates to First National Bank.

No further action was taken on the issue of turning Wadley-Barron Park at A Street and Cuthbert Avenue into a lake. Fred Baker, director of public works, explained how the basin in the middle of the park could be excavated further to hold water and keep the south end as a park area. According to his plan, excavation would cost about $126,500.

He pointed out, however, that the basin wouldn't hold any more water during a heavy rain than it now does. Sloan said he was "concerned about the flood capacity of the lake and I'd like to see the capability increased."

City Attorney Joe Nuessle mentioned the city's liability in case of a drowning, but Sloan countered with You got water there now. Someone might die of malaria.

The bottom of the park has been filled with water for several months and pumps installed by the city have failed to remove it. A local hydrology firm studied the park and concluded the area water table has risen above ground

IN A DAY-LONG meeting in which council members continuously forgot the procedures on making motions and voting, the panel decided to buy a density moisture gauge for the Public Works Department; amended the lease agreement with Basin Flying. Inc., to buy a hangar at Midland Air Park; approved one-hour parking meters along several downtown streets; decided to advertise for sale a tract of land at the southwest corner of A Street and Wadley Avenue: and set up a parking plan for the west side of Midland Center off the alley.

The council shortened the length of time a resident has to get its pet neutered if the animal was adopted from the Animal Control Shelter. The time limit had been 45 days. After a second reading of the ordinance, it will be 30 days. The members also gave an OK to remodeling and enlarging the shelter.

Midland Jaycees offered $6,000 to construct a Tot Lot in Tumbleweed Park currently under construction, and the council accepted it.

After some questioning as what a study of future effluent disposal needs would entail, the council approved a contract with Black & Veatch for a preliminary report and an amendment to the contract with Ed Reed & Associates, local hydrologists. The study will focus on disposal needs in the Midland Regional Airport vicinity and at the water pollution control plant

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - A state district judge says he's happy that three jurors have been selected from the first five potential panelists questioned in the capital murder trial of Billy Wayne Alexander, but cautions that jury selection may start slowing down

State District Judge Bob Wright said Tuesday attorneys for the prosecution and defense had "a streak of luck" in agreeing on three jurors so quickly, but said he was afraid the process would "stall out."

Alexander is charged with the Oct. 5 shooting of DPS trooper Jerry Don Davis of Slayton. The trooper was found shot to death in his car after making a traffic stop.

Attorneys Monday picked a 45year-old mother of four who told the court she was active in the Mormon Church.

On Tuesday, the second juror selected was a 38-year-old hospital business manager who is also a deacon in the Baptist Church. The third panelist is a 23-year-old man who is an administrative assistant at a hospital.

In other major action Tuesday, the board approved cutting back on extracurricular activities in an effort to combat soaring expenses for travel, food and lodging on overnight trips by students who participate in athletics, band, vocational education and forensic events outside the district.

Mailey presented trustees with statistics showing expenses for such activities have nearly doubled in the past five years, due largely to the increased cost of gasoline. As a result, trustees agreed to several measures designed to save the district roughly $18,000

Included in the cutbacks are reductions in the travel limit from its current 350 mile radius to 250 miles and a reduction in the number of overnight trips allowed by the school ad-

ANDREWS - An accident 12 miles south of Andrews on U.S. 385 near Midland Farms County Road in Andrews County Tuesday night left six Odessa men hospitalized this morning in Andrews and Odessa - one in critical condition, according to a spokesperson from the Odessa office of the Texas Highway Patrol, which worked the accident.

At 10:18 p.m. Tuesday a 1971 white Mercury Marquis, driven by 55-yearold Odessan Jimmy Simmons, was involved in a collision with a 1980 white Chevrolet Custom 20 pickup, driven by 23-year-old Odessan Michael Hyman. Details of how the two collided were not available.

Five of the men were transported to Permian General Hospital in Andrews. The other, 17-year-old David Barker, a passenger in the Simmons vehicle, was taken to Odessa's Medical Center hospital with serious head injuries. Barker was listed in critical condition early this morning in the hospital's critical care unit.

action "doesn't tell us what their final position would be," but said Washington expected an Iranian reply "in a day or so. Behzad Nabavi, Iran's chief negotiator in the 14-month hostage crisis, mentioned decisive action on the hostages in two or three days in what was seen by observers as an effort to push Parliament into action on both emergency measures.

Later in the morning, a spokesman for the Majlis (Parliament) told The Associated Press in Beirut by telephone that the government "will decide on the future of the American hostages" Thursday or Friday. He refused to amplify his remark. Meanwhile, Swiss authorities issued an attachment order on a villa in St. Moritz owned by the family of the late shah of Iran. The order apparently was taken at the initiative of Iran's lawyers in Switzerland, but it was not known if the action was directly connected with negotiations to free the hostages.

Tehran Radio reported in a commentary on the situation that in the waning days of his administration, Carter was "forced to deposit 70 percent of Iranian assets in U.S. banks with the Algerian national bank." The report did not elaborate and it was not clear if the commentator was outlining terms for an agreement or part of an effort to prepare Iranian blic opinion for an accord.

But Ahmad Azizi, Nabavi's aide in hostage negotiations, said the Tehran Radio report "is not Iran's official position and the government denies what was said in that dispatch."

The Majlis approved a bill auth-orizing appointment of a third government to act as arbitrator to settle financial and legal claims between the United States and Iran. But despite Nabavi's prodding, it shelved until Sunday - after the Carter administration's deadline for an agreement - the other bill to nationalize the wealth of the late Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and his relatives.

Nabavi told the deputies their failure to act on the second bill would delay the return of the shah's fortune to Iran. It was not known, however, whether approval of the legislation was necessary before an agreement with the United States could be reached.

It is assumed that Algeria, which is acting as intermediary in the negotiations between the two countries, would be chosen to arbitrate their rival claims.

Debate on the bills was postponed Tuesday because there were not enough members present from the 12man Council of Guardians, which must give its assent to all legislation. A parliamentary source said there was no significance to this, that they had not been informed in time of the session.

There were other indications that Iran and the United States were approaching an agreement, but spokesmen for both governments still talked of delays. The Iranian government filed a new suit in a U.S. court for recovery of the shah's fortune, and one of Western Europe's leading newspapers, Le Monde of Paris, reported a complete accord may have already been reached.

The bill to nationalize the shah's fortune would provide a legal basis for the Iranian suit filed in a U.S. federal court in New York Tuesday by attorney Paul O'Dwyer to track down the royal wealth in the United States.

The product of the

It named 65 Iranian and American defendants, including the shah's widow, his twin sister Princess Ashraf, other relatives and the deposed monarch's estate. It estimated the shah's fortune at $35 billion and also asked for punitive damages of $36 billion plus whatever else the court deemed appropriate.

Iran filed suit in a New York state court against the shah in November 1979, while he was still alive, for $56.6 billion, but the court has postponed action at the request of the U.S. government until the hostages are released. There was speculation that the new suit represented an acceptance by Iran that it would have to recover the royal wealth through the U.S. and other foreign courts. But there was no indication that Iran had modified its demand, rejected by the Carter administration, that the United States deposit $10 billion in Algeria as a guarantee for Iran's recovery of the shah's fortune. However, Le Monde, reporting that Iran and the United States may have reached complete agreement on the terms and procedures for release of the hostages, said Iran would aban-don the demand for the $10 billion and would admit the competence of the U.S. courts to decide the disposition of the Pahlavis' assets in the United States.

Mystery hostage remains in Iran prison

WASHINGTON --- There is another. unreported American hostage sweating it out in an Iranian prison cell. He was dragged from his room at the Tehran Hilton by Revolutionary Guards more than 10 months ago and was accused of being a CIA spy.

ill-fated venture into Iran in March 1980, he was a New York City travel agent. His strange odyssey from a Greenwich Village apartment to a dank cell in Tehran's Evin Prison is a tale of heroism, danger, international intrigue and, above all, mystery. It was pieced together by my associate Howard Rosenberg.

On March 1, Nassry told his wife, Tur, that he was going to Tehran to open a clinic for Afghan refugees. The announcement did not surprise Mrs. Nassry. Her husband was born into a prominent Afghan family 34 years ago and came to this country as a youth. He attended Harvard Business School and became well known in the Afghan exile community. He also became a U.S. citizen. Nassry had made two trips earlier in the year to Peshawar, the city on the Pakistan end of the Khyber Pass into Afghanistan. There, he told his wife, he had opened a clinic for the hordes of refugees fleeing the Soviet invaders But in fact, according to our sources, Nassry had been smuggling weapons to Afghan rebels on his trips to Peshawar. He had also made himself useful to exiled rebel leaders, arranging press conferences and acting as their contact with western reporters. Eventually, however, Nassry took to describing himself as a rebel leader. Unimpressed, Pakistani authorities arrested him several times, and finally kicked him out

Jack Anderson

The last contact Mrs. Nassry had with her husband was on March 8, when he called from London to say he was on his way to Tehran. When a month went by with no further word, his wife called the Tehran Hilton. A clerk informed her brusquely that Nassry had indeed checked in on suite at the Khyber International Hotel in Peshawar. Yet during the Islamic Conference in Islamabad a year ago, Nassry had only a modest room at the Holiday Inn.

Nassry's father once headed Afghanistan's modest intelligence agency in the 1950s, but Nassry's own connection with any American intelligence agency seems doubtful. What appears more likely is that Nassry is the victim not so much of circumstances as of his own delusions of grandeur.

Glib and gregarious, Nassry has been described variously as a hustler. braggart, loving husband and father. In addition to his self-proclaimed ties to the Afghan rebels and his suspected connection with the CIA, Nassry is rumored to be mixed up with the Soviet secret police and the Muslim Brotherhood. Such rumors might well have originated with the suspect himself

The guard took him into the warden's office. The warden said, "I've been reading your record, Doolittle. You're a tough nut. You predicted a seven percent inflation rate for 1978, four percent unemployment in 1979, and said the Gross National Product would double in 1980. That makes you a three-time loser. If you don't walk the line here, we'll send you to the Lyndon B. Johnson School in Austin, Tex. "Not Austin," Doolittle pleaded. "I couldn't do four years in Austin.

"Keep that in mind if you get any smart ideas about breaking out of this think tank.

Then the warden said, "Guard, take this man to his cell."

The guard took Doolittle down a long, dark hallway, and finally unlocked the door to a cubbyhole. All that was in there was a desk, a chair, and small couch filled with straw. On the wall was a blackboard with a piece of chalk

"Is this it?" Doolittle said.

"This is your home, Buster. Now start thinking. "What about?"

Ronald Reagan's choice for secretary of the Department of the Interior, James Watt, apparently didn't make any friends with environmentalists when he told a Senate energy committee he has the balanced perspective necessary to manage the nation's natural resources.

Maybe that's partly because some environmentalists have been too insistent on reshaping the nation's environmental policy in their image. That won't work any more than will the philosophy of rabid destructivists who would ravage this nation's natural resources strictly in the name of progress.

The environmentalists have incorrectly assumed that all Americans are willing to sacrifice forward progress in the name of clean air, water and land. We aren't; not all of us anyway.

Certainly we all should be aware of the need for care and conservation - protectiveness where the environment is concerned. We should not pollute any more than is necessary. We should take steps to clean our environment. We should take steps

After seven months of appeals for information to every governmental and private agency she could think of, Nassry's wife was finally contacted by a representative of the Swiss Embassy in Washington. The message was shattering: Nassry was alive, but in prison, charged as an American spy

Zia Nassry's true reason for being in Tehran remains a mystery. If he was an arms smuggler, he was a small-time operator and clearly inexperienced. If he was in fact a CIA agent, he kept it from his wife, who scoffs at the very suggestion.

Nassry never seemed to lack for money, and he always traveled in style - though that would not in itself be surprising for a successful travel agent. He stayed at posh hotels in Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Washington, and claimed to keep a permanent Nassry's opportunism got him some dubious publicity over the past few years when he promoted a New York necktie salesman, Hassan Durrani, as the pretender to the vacant throne of Afghanistan. After I exposed the scheme, Nassry disavowed the pumped-up pretender.

Whatever Nassry is - con man, spy or hero - this much is certain: He is a prisoner of the Iranians, at times kept bound hand and foot and blindfolded, held incommunicado despite requests from the Swiss Embassy in Tehran to visit him. One more thing: He is also an American citizen.

OUT-PLACING THE OUTS: The word for this month at the Whit-House is "out-placement" - which, is plain English, means giving soon-to be-unemployed Carter officials tips on the dreary but necessary art of resume writing, upbeat interviews and other job-seeking techniques.

The career counseling service, which has drawn 65 or more middleand upper-level Carter appointees on two recent weekends, is being given by the New York firm of Fuchs, Cuthrell, which specializes in finding employment for corporate executives who get the impressions they are being eased out of their jobs. The out-placement experts are taking no fee for their White House seminars, which they consider "educational."

If Ronald Reagan's right for nation, so is Gen. Al Haig

WASHINGTON - The public grilling which Gen. Alexander Meigs Haig must go through to be confirmed for high public office can happen only in America.

For a man or woman to willingly bare soul, conscience, convictions, memory, finances and personal health history in this fashion only attests to how earnest and demanding our system can be in examining such nominees for our top policy-making posts

Cabinet officers in European gov-ernments are offered by the ruling party or coalition, and unless they are opeless drunks or idiots, they quickly take office. The hypothetical Haigs and Weinbergers of a Soviet government must only pass strict political inspection for Communist orthodoxy and loyalty to the chairman. The run of dictators across the globe pick and choose on the basis of how much the men can be trusted not to join in any coup d'etat. And so it goes.

In the U.S., for better or worse, usually better, we run these folks through the mill, "We don't want another Bert Lance," was the unat-tributable explanation offered by some senators. And there still are people in this town who remember the vivid aspects of the Vietnam War, the excitement and tragedy of Watergate, and the crushing experience of seeing the forced resignation of an American president.

For weeks, Haig fired artillery shells designed to blast away the en-trenched notions that it wasn't good to have a military man as secretary of state, that Haig was a culprit in wiretapping and coverup and the pardon of Richard M. Nixon

He reminded Washington that a career military man named George Catlett Marshall served with distinction as secretary of state during the diplomatically trying period after World War II. He repeated and re-peated the fact that he had testified eight times under oath about his service in the Nixon White House, and that Senate committees were evidently satisfied with that testimony. He reiterated his belief that Nixon was innocent until proven guilty, that the presidency as an institution was worth protecting, and that the security and military actions he was involved in during the Vietnam period were legal and justified at the time.

He was civil, courteous and correct in making his defense, but he didn't back down. He remains Gen. Al Haig, the West Point graduate who would readily agree with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, that it is the "corps, the corps, the corps" which counts. Al Haig is not a mush-mouth. When the gung-ho transition team at the State Department had finished its duty, he sent them packing, as any spit-and-polish officer would. They came near to saluting.

The republic is in the mood for a Ronald Reagan president, one who believes it is time to again lift our sights, declare where we stand and draw some lines to show enemies and harassers that we mean business. With Haig as secretary of state, the nations that give us trouble, and the allies that are troubled by our recent history of wavering and waffling, will know what the score is.

For that reason, Haig is the right choice for the Reagan administration. If the national mood is based on misperceptions, if Reagan is wrong for the country, then Al Haig will be, too. At this point, the country, the Senate and most wise hands in this town think otherwise. So we will have a Secretary of State Alexander Meigs Haig.

When I first knew him as a colonel in the White House, he worked 12 and 14 hours a day, six and seven days a week, with days off a rarity. I think his body paid a price for excess, and the years of equally heavy toil which followed. If there is one thing about Al Haig which worries me, it is that his repaired heart might not take the kind of work Haig might impose on it. He had a triple bypass heart opera-tion (that's a big one) last April.

He was a youngster when his father died, and the trust money ran out. Al Haig was fired by the ambition of an upper middle-class background and the haunting inconvenience of knowing there were only bare means to look middle class. He was a driven man in the military, and his record shows all the ribbons, the Purple Heart, the commendations.

His mother once told me she wanted him to be a senator. His brother, Father Frank Haig, Society of Jesus, once told me that he thought Al was headed for a political career. No one who knows him well ever thought he would slow down, retire or spend weeks fishing.

As the storm of Watergate gathered in late 1973, his mother told me: "I don't know how Alec can work so hard. The strain has made him look so much older. He admires Mr. Nixon so much. I'll be glad when it's all over.'

Fewer kids smoking, new study shows

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Cigarette smoking among U.S. high school seniors has declined largely because of peer pressure and potential health damage, a University of Michigan study concludes.

Of 17,000 seniors surveyed, 21 percent said they smoked cigarettes daily, compared with 29 percent in a similar survey taken in 1977. Significant drops were reported among both males and females.

"While we think this drop-off in smoking among our newest young adults is likely to have very favorable health consequences for the nation 30 or 40 years hence, clearly the problem has not gone away," said the report released Tuesday by three researchers at the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research.

The study, sponsored by the National Institute on Drug Abuse, followed an announcement by the U.S. Surgeon General that the proportion of smokers in the United States had dropped from 40.3 percent in 1964 to 32.5 percent.

"We are inclined to attribute this change to a long-term increase in young people's health concerns about smoking, as well as to a sharp decrease in the perceived peer pressure of smoking," said professors Lloyd Johnston, Jerald Bachman and Patrick O'Malley.

Nearly two-thirds of the 17,000 seniors surveyed said they believed there was "great risk" in smoking a pack of cigarettes a day. The percentage who said their friends would disapprove of cigarette smoking increased from 55 percent in a 1975 survey to 74 percent in the new report.

"The norms have changed regarding the legitimacy of expressing one's disapproval of other people's smoking," the researchers said. "Early on, the adverse health evidence gave legitimacy to communicating such disapproval because it expressed caring or concern for the well-being of the smoker."

Nineteen percent of the college-bound seniors said they smoked, while 36 percent of those not going to college said they had the habit.

Retail sales down in December Automotive sales lead the decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retailers hoping for big December receipts got a different Christmas "present" instead — an end to six months of slow but steady recovery from the plummeting sales of earlier in the year.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that overall retail sales fell 1.3 percent last month. That reflects basically flat sales for most kinds of stores, with a big drop in automotive industry sales dragging the overall figures into the decline. In a mixed bag of other economic news Tuesday:

-The National Association of Realtors said sales of existing houses also declined last year, hitting a five-year low.

-The Commerce Department said American businesses plan to increase spending for capital projects this year by 10.8 percent, a "real spending" increase of just 1.8 percent if nonresidential inflation stays at the 9 percent level the government estimated for last year.

-The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, a frequent spokesman for American businesses, forecast an improving economy if Congress follows President-elect Ronald Reagan's budgetand tax-cutting plans. However, the chamber also said the short-term outlook is clouded by "severe monetary restraint (and) future energy and food price shocks, all of which could slow the economic recovery."

A continuation of tight money has been promised by Paul Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. And most economists are predicting new inflationary pressures early this year.

Overall retail sales for last year totaled about $942.5 billion, the Commerce Department reported. That was a 6 percent increase over the year before, but the gains were more than wiped out by inflation, which exceeded 10 percent.

The department adjusts its monthly figures for seasonal variations such as heavy Christmas-season buying — but not for sales increases caused by inflation.

The seasonally adjusted figures showed about $80.8 billion in sales last month compared with $81.9 billion the previous month and $77.2 billion in December 1979.

Sales in the troubled auto industry sank about 7.4 percent in December, by far the biggest decline among durable goods — which slid about 4 percent overall. Sales of nondurable goods such as food and gasoline remained basically unchanged last month.

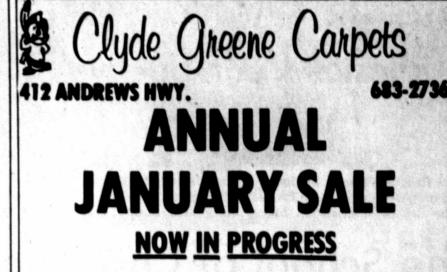

Slight increases were reported by grocery stores, restaurants and bars and clothing stores. Decreased sales were recorded by general merchandise stores, drug stores and gasoline service stations.

Those gas stations, however, showed a 28 percent increase in sales for the year, the Commerce Department reported. Much of that would be attributed to sharply higher gasoline prices.

As for housing, the Realtors said high interest rates helped hold total home resales to 2.86 million in 1980, the lowest level since the recession year of 1975. Sales totaled 3.7 million houses in 1979 and a record 3.86 million in 1978. The figures do not include new houses.

Mortgage interest rates, which topped 15 percent in some areas, hurt sales in every part of the nation, said association president John R. Wood. Existing-home sales the past two months were off 18 percent in the West

When he started living and working with the Pueblo Indians, he was sure it would take him at least two years to gain their acceptance. But he was wrong - it only took three weeks.

In talking with the elders of the community he found out why. It was the children. The adults had asked the kids what they thought of him and they said he could be trusted.

Since children's reasoning facilities are less developed than adults, their reactions are often more motivated by empathy, Jerome Berryman explained during his Tuesday morning session on "Faith Development During the Life Span" at the School of Christian Living being held through Thursday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

During his talk he dealt with youth up to seven years of age. His manner of discussing the various developmental stages the mind goes through is quite educational, especially for anyone working with children

An example Dr. Berryman used was a mother asking her young son to put himself in her shoes. He can't, Berryman said, explaining that all he is doing is "receiving vibrations." If a mother is upset, the child feels the emotion, but does not understand why, explained Berryman, who is currently the director of the Children's Center at the Institute of Religion at Texas Medical Center in Houston.

There is one session remaining in The School of Christian Living, which is sponsored by the Midland Council of Churches, but that session will be held Short is able to simplify difficult concepts and pass them on through the use of humor.

Dr. Kerley's talk Tuesday was informal and informative. His focal point was the types of depression and how to identify and overcome them. His use of humor and examples from life is highly effective. He gives those there actual exercises to try in changing their lives and explains that they can't expect change to occur overnight.

Dr. Craven joined the faculty at Brite Divinity School at TCUlast fall as an assistant professor of the Old Testament. She is currently working on a new edition of a standard Old Testament introduction.

In her detailed coverage of the Book of Job she explains that one can find the ultimate "dark night of the soul." Her use of such comments as "in an ineffective argument with someone you attempt to scare the socks off of them" and that part of what is aimed at Job marks the "sign of a highly insensitive teacher who hasn't heard what Job has said" help make the characters of the Old Testament seem real and alive today. Her dry wit keeps the course moving and helps her presentation be effective.

Palme in Baghdad today with efforts to end war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's special envoy Olof Palme arrived in the Iraqi capital of Baghdad today in his second effort to end the 115-day old Iran-Iraq war, Iraq's official news agency said.

It quoted the former Swedish prime minister as saying in an arrival statement that he had no specific peace formula ready Palme is also trying to complete arrangements for the safe departure of about 70 foreign ships trapped in the Shatt al-Arab waterway separating Iran and Iraq since the war broke out Sept. 22. Tentative approval to his plans were made during his first peace mission last November.

Before leaving Stockholm, Palme talked with Farouk Kaddoumi, head of the political department of the Palestine Liberation Organization. PLO leader Yasser Arafat maintains close ties with both warring Persian Gulf nations and helped initiate an unsuccessful cease-fire attempt by non-aligned nations.

Palme is to spend two days here, fly to Tehran on Friday, and report to aldheim next week

Meanwhile, Pakistani President Zia ul-Haq announced he will visit Jordan on Thursday, presumbably to enlist the help of King Hussein in ending the Iran-Iraq war. He announced the trip in Ankara, where he ended two days of talks with Turkish officials, but would not say what his intent in the Jordanian trip is.

Military communiques from both Iran and Iraq reported paratroopers locked in battle in the Gilan Gharb and Ilam regions.

Tehran Radio broadcast a communque claiming Iranian forces wrested more foothills from the invading Iraqis in the two regions and killed 150 enemy troops.

The official Iranian news agency Pars said a Soviet-supplied Mig-21 fighter jet and three helicopter gunships were shot down, 60 Iraqi tanks were destroyed and 20 captured with their crews in the battles. It said nine Iranians died in the fighting.

The Iraqi war communiques reported an Iranian U.S.-made Phanton jet was shot down in Gilan Garb. Baghdad Radio broadcasts of the war claims said Iraqi troops beat back Iran's offensives in fierce fighting that killed 338 Iranians and left 44 Iragi soldiers dead.

Renewed shelling was also reported in Iran's oil-rich Khuzistan province. Pars said 14 Iranians were killed by Iraqi artillery shelling on the suburb of Zolfigar, outside the refinery city of Abadan, along with two civilians. It said 19 people were injured.

The Tehran newspaper Etelaat reported Iran's roving Islamic judge, Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, narrowly escaped death when Iraqi mortar shells shattered his car during an inspection tour of Abadan Monday. His driver was seriously injured, according to the report.

Pars also said a mass funeral would be held today for 100 Iranian Islamic revolutionary guards killed in the past day of fighting

Each of the warring Moslem nations claims more than 3,000 enemy deaths in the past eight days, since an Iranian counter-offensive was ordered by Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, who is also commander in chief of Iran's armed forces.

Hard-line Islamic clergymen have criticized his conduct of the war. War claims are unverifiable because reporters are barred from the battlefront.

Defense attorney Howell argued that no witnesses actually spotted Marion entering or leaving the house and that Harrison could not positively identify the defendant as one of the men whom he saw jumping the fence.

"He (Marion) was not identified until Bobby Harrison found him in the cotton patch, (which was) quite a bit away from where the burglary was committed," he said.

Howell called the case against his client as "this inference deal."

"You can't infer a man guilty of an offense," said Howell, who suggested that Brown, who has already pleaded guilty to the burglary, "instigated this whole thing."

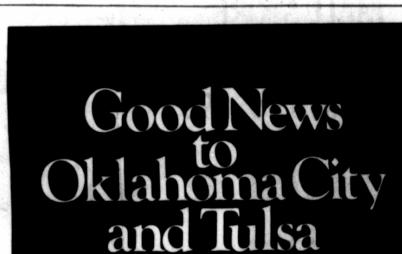

Prosecutor Frazier responded to Howell's attack on the guilty-by-inference "deal."

"You can infer facts from evidence," Frazier reasoned. "You can't infer guilt from evidence.

Frazier also noted that Marion had signed a statement, taken by ex-Deputy Sheriff Jim Atwater, now an investigator for the district attorney, admitting his part in the offense. That statement was taken on the day of the burglary.

The defense attorney had suggested that the jurors find Marion guilty of criminal trespass rather than burglary, since no one testified that Marion was actually seen going into or leaving the Brooks house. Criminal trespass, a Class A misdemeanor, carries a penalty of up to two years in

Carter extends temperature controls

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans shivering through their second winter with mandatory temperature controls where they work and shop will have to shiver at least a little longer.

President Carter extended the controls, which were scheduled to expire Friday, for another nine months Tuesday.

Whether the controls stay in effect anywhere near that long is far from certain, however. Ronald Reagan can undo Carter's action as soon as he takes office.

Reagan aides refused Tuesday to say what the president-elect will do, but during the campaign Reagan was critical of mandatory energy conservation efforts.

The controls, which have been in effect for 18 months, require thermostats in 2.8 million non-residential buildings to be set at 65 degrees in the winter and 78 degrees in summer.

Carter cited the continuing precarious world oil supply situation as justification for keeping the controls. By law the president can impose the restrictions no more than nine months at a time.

The controls were first imposed in July 1979, when many Americans were sitting in gasoline lines following the Iranian revolution

Carter said the Iran-Iraq war and other Middle East tensions in the past few months have increased the "risks from reliance on insecure oil imports.

Although businesses that fail to comply with the controls may be fined, no penalties have been imposed. Nevertheless, the Energy Department says the program is saving the country 140 million barrels of oil annually, or 6 percent of U.S. imports a year.

DOE officials estimate the compliance rate for the program is 80 percent, based on 50,000 actual inspections. They say that of 68,000 telephone calls the department has received concerning the program, less than 1 percent have been complaints.

"This program is needed and it works. I just hope the president-elect gives us time to explain the benefits before he makes a decision on rescinding it," said Lorn Harvey, deputy DOE director of emergency conservation programs

Jim Atkin, a member of the Reagan energy transition team, refused to say whether aides have made a recommendation to Reagan on keeping the controls.

But he said: "To the extent we can live our lives without having a federal regulation tell us how to live, then it is a better way to live.

The program covers all government and private office buildings, restaurants, shopping malls, theaters, airports, bus terminals and other establishments open to the public

Residences, hospitals, hotel sleeping areas and day-care centers are exempt.

Cold hampers efforts of New York firefighters

NEW YORK (AP) - Ice cakes their adders and their hoses freeze to the ground. Hydrants freeze shut, sweat freezes on clothing and the ground becomes a sea of treacherous ice as the firefighters of the Ninth Battalion try to work in frigid temperatures.

"There's nothing the men dread more than a winter fire," said Battalion Chief Joseph W. Rooney, warming himself in his mid-Manhattan office between runs in sub-freezing cold.

New York City averages 350 fires a day, and even when the temperature dips to zero, the fire alarm must be met. But firefighters pay a price.

In winter, the time required to bring an apartment house blaze under control triples and the number of injuries to firefighters and civilians said It gets so cold at some of those fires that everybody actually tries to get inside the building instead of staying on the outside," said Capt. Edwin Paynter of the battalion's Engine Co.

When you're in the middle of a raging fire your adrenalin is pumping, you're lugging heavy equipment and because of the extra clothes you start to sweat," he said. "As the pace slows, the sweat freezes and you find yourself frozen inside and out."

Because firefighters are so busy, there are relatively few frostbite cases, the men said. But colds and flu are commonplace. "Most of the men are sick the whole winter, but they still come in and they still have to go out in the cold," Rooney said.

If a hydrant is frozen when the firefighters arrive, "We just look for another one," Paynter said, "and keep looking 'til we find a good one, which we always do."

Sounds of winter cold tell story Freezing weather creates various problems By DAVE TABOLT Associated Press Writer

In Florida, a sound of winter cold is the whir of a helicopter. In Massachusetts, it's the gasp of a homeowner. And in New York, it's the ring of a telephone

These are sounds of Americans coping with a record cold wave across the East and South that has damaged crops, iced over scallop beds and overwhelmed electricity and natural gas suppliers.

In Florida, it's helicopters and wind machines moving the warm air of oil-burning heaters over already frost-damaged citrus groves and vegetable fields. "Our forecast doesn't call for anything better if anything, it could be worse," said U.S. Department of Agriculture spokeswoman Jo Ann Dellinger.

In Boston, it's homeowners shrieking upon the arrival of a home heating oil bill - $100 or more for a week. "It's bad," said South Boston social worker Phyllis Curtis. "People can't afford to pay for heat anymore. They're borrowing money to pay.

In New York, it's 9,500 calls this week alone from tenants complaining to the city about a lack of heat. "Babies are put to bed bundled in snowsuits and apartments are heated by keeping ovens going all night," said tenant Ese Varses.

And in both cities, it's the stomping feet of thou-pes in Virginia. "The colder it gets, the busier we et," said Ted Bosiak, service manager for R.W. ash Plumbing in Staunton. —The crunching of Coast Guard ice-breakers on Chestreet people come in, the ones who try to make it out on the street when the weather's warm Cash Plumbing in Staunton.

Sitting in the warmth of the kitchen in their firehouse at West 48th Street and Eighth Avenue, several firefighters talked of what it is like to battle the elements while battling deadly flames.

"You try to prepare for the cold by wearing layer upon layer of extra clothes, but nothing helps," said Tom Carroll. "The spray always gets you. The water drips down your neck, up your sleeves, into your boots and freezes.

Rooney, who spent 26 years as a ladder man before becoming a chief in 1972, said it's futile to try to protect yourself from the cold.

So when lines freeze on the ground. axes and ice picks are used to chip away the ice. One man in five is hurt during the winter - suffering sprains and even fractures

The men of the Ninth Battalion say there is one winter fire that tops all others - a six-alarm warehouse blaze in January 1977 that engulfed an entire row of buildings between West 29th and 30th streets.

The entire block was encased in solid ice and the fire smoldered for three weeks, Rooney recalled. "Cold? You want to know how cold it was?" Paynter asked. "I took my cigar out of my mouth for less than 30 seconds to answer a question and when I put it back in the tip was covered with ice.

Wicked Raiders spoil everybody's Super Bowl fun

By MELVIN DURSLAG

Hearst Special News Serivce Up until now, the Super Bowl game has been a oyous occasion. Owners have come to the event in a festive frame of mind, relishing the parties, the cheer and the good fellowship.

In expansive moods, some even have brought their general managers, coaches and publicity directors, all entering into the carnival spirit and offering support to the flagbearers of their respective conferences.

But today, their world is vacant. How can they enjoy New Orleans with the presence there of the wicked Oakland Raiders?

If they attend the league party, the prime social event of the Northern hemisphere, will they choke on their canapes?

Will they raise their glasses and toast the beauty of the wicked Raiders?

Or will most clubs stay away, explaining the press of detail in Cleveland, San Diego, Denver and the like prevents, regrettably, their leaving town?

Will some clubs be unable to attend because they're getting ready for the draft?

THE WICKED Raiders are wrecking the whole Super Bowl.

And all they have done is sue the league for a lousy $160 million (plus treble damages) and accuse the commissioner of misconduct.

The sum they ask isn't even a record for antitrust. People have sued oil companies for billions with fewer hard feelings resulting. If the wicked Raiders, for instance, had asked $160 million from Exxon, do you think Exxon would stay away from the Super Bowl?

Or root for the Oilers, Browns, Chargers anyone, please God - to knock off the wicked Raiders in the playoffs?

Al Davis, corporate leader of Oakland, doesn't mind folks rooting against him. It is the fuel, in fact, that fires his turbine.

Not easy to confuse with the boy next door, Al is an unusual inividual who, if he feels he is right, would rather spit in your eye than offer explanations.

AL, FOR example, is the only owner who doesn't contribute to the charity program undertaken by the league office. He offers the league no explanation, but actually is motivated by a private belief that the commissioner and committeemen have no business picking Al's chari-

Nor will Davis taik to all newspaper people. He talks only to those he likes. Those he doesn't like get no explanation.

Entering into a war one time with a paper in Oakland, Al suggested that the paper ignore totally the Raiders and their functions, and the Raiders, in turn, would ignore the paper. At this point, he won't deal with any of the networks, even refusing to appear on NBC after beating San Diego. Privately, he doesn't trust the networks' position on the Raiders fight with the NFL, feeling thy are too closely allied with the league and have given him the worst of

CITING Brent Musburger of CBS as the prime offender, Davis challenges the networks to parade before an impartial panel all the footage on the subject and let the judges choose which side has received the short end of the story. But if Al, in ways uniquely his own, wages war on many fronts, he maintains a remakarbly smooth relationship with those most important to his well being a the players to his well being -- the players.

HE ALSO does little things that appeal to performers. If, for instance, he is in a restaurant and players and their wives walk in and take a table, Al makes it a standard policy to send for their tab.

So he is a leader of many facets, some of which don't appeal to his league brothers, but whose contempt worries him little. Once he establishes in his mind that he is right, he feels no compulsion, as we say, to explain

Rebels whip Hosses

Lee overcomes foul problems for easy win

By MIKE CRUVER Sports Writer

The Midland Lee Rebels haven't had many cakewalk wins this season. In fact, Rebel fans are getting use to the nip-and-tuck Rebel style. Lee, overcoming foul trouble and controlling the boards, surprised its followers with a surprisingly easy 65-55 win over the Odessa Bronchos to open the District 5-5A race Tuesday night at Chaparral Center.

The Rebels had four players with three fouls late in the second quarter. In the end, Lee lost Olen Smith and Darius Berry to fouls.

Lee head coach Paul Stueckler attributed the fouls to, "First district game jitters. We pressed and it's a fine line separating what is a foul and what isn't. One time the officials call a foul and the next time they don't."

BERRY and Smith set the tone of the game in the first minute of play by making a steal apiece and scoring a bucket to give the Rebels a 5-0 lead their never gave up.

the kids played smart." Smith led the Lee attack with 16 points while Dunson added 12 and Blackwell netted 11.

ODESSA head coach Joe Tubb said, "We're not playing bad, just making silly mistakes. I'm proud of our kids. We need to win that first game, then we will be all right."

A key to the game was the rebound work done by Kenneth Brown, Andre Van Buren and Smith. The Rebels outrebounded the Bronchos 49-25. Brown led the Rebels with 13 offensive boards and five defensive.

Lee managed 28 of 72 from the field for 39 percent while Odessa hit 19 out of 39 (49 percent).

Tubb stated, "Most of the offensive rebound damage was done in the first quarter. And I attributed that to the fact the kids were nervous in the fisrt district game and just stood around.

Stueckler said, "We just played hard on the boards. Odessa isn't small and we wanted to get our fast break started early.

win gives Lee a 1-0 district record and 10-11 overall. Odessa is 0-1 in district and dropped its ninth game in a row as the Bronchos' season record tumbled to 4-16.

IN the junior varisty contest, Odessa used the free throw line in the final minute of play to pull out a 46-45 thriller over Lee.

Odessa had trailed the entire game before pulling it out at the end. John Bailey led the Bronchos with 20 points. Greg Gill topped Lee with seven and David Hicks, Blake Adams and Derek Lane had six tallies in the losing cause. The Rebels next game will be Fri-day evening when San Angelo comes calling at Chap Center.

ODESSA - Coach Jack Stephenson's Midland Bulldogs are off and running in District 5-5A play.

Led by Herb Johnson's 26 points, the Bulldogs shot down the Odessa Permian Panthers, 68-59 Tuesday in the Permian Fieldhouse in a big district basketball opener.

Midland broke open a close game by outscoring the Panthers, 17-8 in the third period and that was the key the rest of the way after only holding on to a 38-35 lead at halftime.

The Black Cats matched Midland basket for basket in the first period as the two rivals were deadlocked, 19-19 at the end of the opening quarter. Stephenson's crew matched the 19 points in the second period for the three-point edge at intermission.

ONE OF THE keys to the game was the fact that Mike Woolley, the 6-foot-

8 center who scored 13 points for the Panthers, picked up four fouls in the first half. Another was the way that the Bulldog defense shut down the baseline drives of the Panthers in the second half after Permian had scored numerous points in the first two quarters, by driving the baseline with success.

Gale Smith, who scored five buckets in the first period for Mojo, wound up with 12 points after only scratching for one basket in the second half.

Johnson got off to a slow start, but his three baskets in the big 17-point surge in the third period, was the difference. That and the fact that Permian only hit nine of 20 free throws. Midland, meanwhile, cashed in on 14 of 22 charity tosses to chalk up its 18th win of the season in 21 outings.

The loss drops Mojo to a 9-8 record and of course, a 0-1 5-5A reading. Smith and Woolley were the big Sharnowski wound up with 13 points for the night with nine of them coming in the big third period.

Woolley netted 15 points before fouling out of the game with 3:27 left and Midland holding on to a 60-47 lead.

Smith was the other Panther in double figures with 12 points.

Mojo finally outscored Midland, 16-13 in the final eight minutes, but it all came too late as far as catching the Bulldogs at the finish.

Jimmy Gilland, 6-foot-5 junior, the first points on the scoreboard for Odessa with 5: 16 left in the first stanza. Alvin Dunsin responded to the Odessa basket by hitting two quick buckets for Lee to push the lead back to seven.

At the end of the quarter Lee led top 17-12.

Lee opened the second quarter with three straight steals that were converted to buckets to lift the lead up to ten, 23-13.

Odessa fought back behind the inside work of Rayford Wright. Wright, the Bronchos leading scorer with 23, gunned in two buckets and three free throws as OHS crept back.

With 2:22 left in the half, the Bronchos had whittled the margin to 29-26. Lee fans were starting to get a little tense.

SMITH, a rebounding demon all night, grabbed an offensive rebound, banked it home, was fouled by Wright and converted the free throw. Wright's questioning of the call led to a technical foul. Barry Blackwell nailed the free throw as the margin climbed to seven, 33-26.

At intermission the Maroon and White was on top 36-29.

In the second half the Rebels went conservative. Taking their time, working the ball around, looking for the good shot and forcing the Bronchos out of their zone defense.

Odessa tried to get back in the game with a half-court zone press. But Lee had little trouble breaking the press.

Stueckler said, "We played conservative more than normal because it is so important to win that first district game." Stueckler added, "Randy Pepper played a very good game, especially in the second half against their half-court zone press. That is a defense you just have to react to and

Ho-hum, another SMU overtime win

By The Associated Press

"It's just another typical Southwest Conference basketball game," Southern Methodist University coach Dave Bliss said after the Mustangs upset Houston, 72-70, in triple overtime Tuesday night.

It was the second overtime upset for the Mustangs in as many weeks as they beat the University of Texas Longhorns in overtime at Austin last week. It also continued a string of SWC upsets, coming one night after Texas upset Arkansas.

In other Southwest Conference action, Texas Tech edged Texas Christian, 57-54, and Baylor whipped Rice, 72-61

THE HERO in Tuesday night's upset victory for SMU was Gordon Welch, who earlier made a jump shot at the buzzer to give the Mustangs the upset victory over Texas. Welch scored 13 of the 20 points SMU scored in the three overtime periods and finished the night with 21.

"We just played our hearts out the whole game. It was 55 minutes of good, solid basketball," said Welch. Houston coach Guy Lewis had little good to say about the game. "This is certainly the worst first half of basketball we have played this year," Lewis said, "I kept thinking it would get better as time went on. But time went on and on and we didn't get any better." SMU held a 29-26 halftime lead.

SMU was able to keep Rob Wil-liams, the SWC's leading scorer, slightly below his average. Williams, who went into the game averaging 25.7 points per game, got 24. TEXAS TECH had to come from a 29-22 halftime deficit to beat Texas Christian, 57-54. Bubba Jennings had 16 points and Dave Swannegan had 14 to lead the Red Raiders over the Horned Frogs. Darrel Browder had 18 for TCU.

Derailed over the weekend, DePaul is back on the track now.

We learned more from the loss to Old Dominion than from any other game in the last two years," said DePaul Coach Ray Meyer Tuesday night after a 93-67 decision over St. Louis University. "While we were No.1, we played not to lose. Now that we are fourth, we have something to shoot at."

The Blue Demons were ranked No. 1 most of the college basketball season until Saturday night, when they were upset at home 63-62 by an unheralded Old Dominion team. As a result of that shocker, they were dropped to No. 4 in the national polls. But it didn't necessarily bother Meyer's players.

'Being on top is only important at the end of the season," said DePaul forward Mark Aguirre. "At this point, it doesn't mean a thing. Tonight, we were able to do almost anything we wanted: And when we come to play, we know we can do our thing.'

Aguirre did his "thing", for one, scoring 36 points as the Blue Demons outclassed the Billikens.

"There is no way we could compete with them on a man-for-man basis," said St. Louis Coach Ron JUNIOR guard Ken McAlister made two free Ekker, "I con't think our kids were in awe of throws with 14 seconds remaining in overtime, lifting them, but we were up against the best."

IN OTHER games involving the nation's ranked eams, No. 13 South Alabama defeated North Carolina-Charlotte 80-63 and San Francisco upset No. 7 Notre Dame 66-63 in overtime

DePaul, 14-1, grabbed a 46-29 halftime lead as Aguirre scored 19 points and reserve Bernard Randolph added 10. During one stretch, the Blue Demons scored 20 straight points, and in a seven-minute flurry outscored the Billikens 30-5.

Aguirre has now amassed 1,877 points and is within 19 of the all-time record held by former DePaul center Dave Corzine. Only a junior, he has long surpassed one of the greatest players in DePaul history in George Mikan.

St. Louis was led by freshman Willie Becton's 24 points.

South Alabama's Ed Rains scored 31 points to lead the Jaguars over North Carolina-Charlotte, their 13th consecutive victory. Rains hit 14 of 19 field goal shots and three of five from the foul line as South Alabama improved its record to 14-1. Phil Ward had 16 points and Tyrone Stephens 10 for UNCC.

San Francisco over Notre Dame. The victory improved the Dons' record to 12-2, while the Irish lost their second straight game for the first time in a year and dropped to 8-3.

A layup by senior forward Orlando Woolridge had given Notre Dame a 63-62 lead with 1:05 to go. The Dons then called time to set up a final play. McAlister was fouled by forward Bill Varner and made both ends of a one-and-one situation for the

After Notre Dame's Kelly Tripucka missed a final shot, USF's Quintin Dailey was fouled by Woolridge and made both free throws with two seconds left, concluding the scoring.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Gary Springer scored 35 points, including a jump shot at the final buzzer over overtime, to lead Iona to an 82-80 victory over Wagner; Bob Brown scored 19 of his game-high 29 points in the second half to lead Army over Yale 77-62; John Carrabino and Don Fleming scored 12 points apiece to help Harvard beat St. Anselm's 69-49 and Terrell Schlundt scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds while freshman Glenn Rivers scored all his 15 points in the second half to lead Marquette to an 86-67 victory over Mem-phis State. phis State.

Super Bowl black market ravages land

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A black market in Super Bowl tickets that extends nationwide has become a multi-million dollar business involving National Football League players, coaches and team officials along with professional scalpers, the Los Angeles Times reported in its Wednesday editions. Competing ticket scalpers and travel agents have organized ticket captains on all 28 NFL teams to pay scalpers' prices for the tickets the teams are allotted each year. The Times said in a front-page story.

The ticket captain takes his profit, the newspaper said, funnels the tickets to brokers who take their profit and who then feed the tickets into high-priced Super Bowl tours underwritten by corporate giants and the wealthy.

Networks of buyers feed the black market, The Times said, driving the price of a single ticket for this year's game at the New Orleans Superdome on Jan. 25 from its $40 face value to $500 or more for a good seat.

Ticket brokers began developing their team networks in the mid-1970s to barter with NFL personnel and officials who had access to thousands of Super Bowl tickets but never went to the game, the newspaper said.

"I think everyone (ticket brokers) has some contact on every team in the league," The Times quoted former Los Angeles Rams' tackle John Williams as saying. "Tickets come from everywhere, coaches, too.

According to The Times, Williams said he once worked out of a Los Angeles ticket agency, lining up NFL personnel across the country while he played for the Rams from 1972-79.

Mel Renfro, former defensive back for the Dallas Cowboys, was a ticket captain, The Times said.

"I just did it when we were in the Super Bowl," the newspaper quoted Renfro as saying. "It really took away from my concentration. Guys are calling you every day. You hate to really bother your teammates

Renfro was quoted as saying that he remembers buying about 80 tickets from other Cowboys one year for $50 to $150 and sold them to "just faces that you see often.

"Every time you turn around, they're there, saying, 'Let's make a deal for your tickets,"' The Times quoted Renfro as saying. The newspaper said that sports writers and editors from its staff and other newspapers and publications have also been recruited by ticket brokers to get them tickets from the teams they cover. In some cases, The Times said, reporters got personal vacation travel.

The black market tickets generally are collected in December and January by runners who fly from team to team carrying large amounts of cash to pay up to $150 over face value, the newspaper said

"I once saw a man with a briefcase full of money in a room buying tickets," The Times quoted Alan Page, a lawyer who plays defensive tackle for the Chicago Bears, as saying.

Bum has inside prayer with Saints

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Steve Rosenbloom, general manager of the New Orleans Saints, says the National Football League team hopes to name its new head coach next week. and former Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips is the leading candidate

"He's right next door to me," Rosenbloom said Tuesday in a telephone interview. "I'm going to take the opportunity to get together with him. The two are in Mobile, Ala., for the

Senior Bowl

Phillips, fired from his job with the Oilers, has had at least two talks with team owner John Mecom Jr. about the coaching job with the Saints. Mecom said Phillips is the favorite in the race for the job as coach, but he emphasized that the Saints already have a general manager.

Rosenbloom said he saw no potential struggle for control of the team if Phillips is hired. He said he still has not completed interviewing candidates for the job, but hopes to be week, prior to Super Bow! XV on Jan. 25. "I'm very excited that Burn Phillips became available," Rosenbloom said. "Obviously, he is the one person ready to make an announcement next of everyone we will talk to who has had success as a head coach in this league. He said he would never have been a stumbling block to the hiring of Phillips as coach to replace Dick Nolan. There was speculation that Rosenbloom, in his first year with the team, siphoned off some of Nolan's authority after the coach led the Saints to their best seasons ever, 7-9 and 8-8, in his first two years at the helm.

"The only thing we have tried to do, despite all the rumors and speculation in the media, is to do our homework and talk to all the available people," he said.

"Once we are able to do that --which shouldn't be too much longer --we will narrow the field down, and Bum would have to be one of the finalists, certainly.

Until then, the T had been a ponderous may explain while the Cardinals, despite toying with power-oriented offense in which the quarterback handed off to the third back plowing into an off tackle hole or pitched out to a back sweeping wide behind a mob sometimes mistaken for the student body.

In the old T, the guarterback didn't pass. He was a receiver, skipping in motion before heading down field while the direct snap went to the halfback, who drifted into a pocket formed by his two backfield mates

THEN ALONG came Shaughnessy at the college level and George Halas in the NFL to introduce a quick-striking attack with brush blocks, crossing halfbacks and passing quarterbacks, and the football revolution had begun.

NCAA brings women into governing structure

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE-The National Collegiate Athletic Association adopted a controversial package of amendments to bring women into the governing structure of the formerly all-male organization. The proposal provided that women will be represented on the NCAA Council and Executive Committee and all other key bodies. The Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, as well as many leaders of the women's right movements, fought the NCAA's entry into women's athletics, claiming the association would only swallow them. Essentially, the proposals do not make involvement with the NCAA mandatory. Rather, each member school will have the option to join either program. Snake has Mavs, 14-13 last year, on move in '81

By CHARLES RICHARDS

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Bob "Snake" LeGrand likes the informality of his team. He also likes the 10 victories his Texas-Arlington basketball players have rung up in their first 12 games.

When somebody said something about the two-a-day workouts Southern Methodist has been having during the semester break, LeGrand laughed.

"If I was to have two-a-days of anything except meals, I'd have a revolt on my hands," LeGrand said.

The Movin' Mays nailed down the cellar of the Southland Conference basketball race a year ago and were 14-13 for the season, but LeGrand has them aiming for higher sights this year.

"I don't like to practice either, you know?" LeGrand said Monday after returning with the championship trophy of the Florida Southern Festival.

'It's kind of a letdown to practice, especially when you're winning," he said.

THE MAVS beat Northeastern (of Boston) 97-83 on Friday, then won the title by defeating Valparaiso 70-67 on Saturday. Three players were named to the all-tourna-points. High for Mojo were Terry Anderson and Jeff Metcalf with 18 and 14 points, respectively.

Darrell Jones hit three key free throws in the final two minutes that were the difference in the game. The Bullpups now stand 10-3 on the year with the victory. Midland travels to Big Spring Friday for a date with the Big Spring Steers in 5-5A play.

NAU star suspended

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) - Ray Murdock, a senior reserve guard and forward on the Northern Arizona University basketball team, was suspended from the team indefinitely Tuesday, Coach Jodey Gardner announced

Gardner declined to disclose the reason for the suspension beyond saying that it was unrelated to Murdock's basketball play and wasn't for academic reasons.

ment team, headed by MVP Albert Culton, who scored 24 points and pulled down 24 rebounds in the first-round game.

"It was a heck of a trip, and we won the tournament without (Melvin) Polk, who got hurt in the first minute of the first game. The only thing he did was hurt his average," LeGrand said.

Polk, UTA's leading scorer, saw his average dip from 17.3 to 15.7. He suffered damaged tendons in his foot and will be sidelined for a week. LeGrand thinks he might be back for the Mavs' game Thursday night at Houston Baptist.

"We didn't even miss him," LeGrand said. "The other guys were on the sideline dividing up his shots. They figured he'd take about 20 shots, and Ralph (McPherson) said 'I'll take 3,' and somebody else said 'I'll take 4.' The other guys were kind of glad Polk got hurt," LeGrand joked.

Culton, a 6-7, 200-pound junior forward, hit 10-of-10 from the floor in one game. Joining Culton, a transfer from Texas A&M, as all-tourney picks in Florida were McPherson, a 6-9, 210-pound junior center who transferred to UTA from Texas Tech, and Jeffrey Stewart, a 6-1, 175 junior guard.

LEGRAND, In his fifth year at Texas-Arlington, called Culton and McPherson "unsung heroes" in the Mavs' success so far.

Some coaches have questioned the wisdom of taking transfers from other colleges, where they have had problems.

"Send 'em to me. I'll take a transfer in a New York second," LeGrand said. "Not everybody is suited for the college he signs with, just like not everybody is suited for the job he takes," LeGrand said.

'Maybe a school doesn't fit a player's lifestyle or maybe their play doesn't fit their playing style. That was the case for Ralph and Albert, and their leadership is without doubt helping us this year. I can't say enough about what they've done for us.

LeGrand feels the team-oriented philosophy of his players is the biggest factor in the success so far of his run-and-gun crew.

"The guys are not afraid in a situation, whether in a game or in practice, to say 'My fault' and to accept the blame. That has a lot of effect on a team's closeness, and that's something my teams haven't always had," Le-Grand said.

"It takes talent to win, but more important is the blend of personality and talent. We're a loose organization, and if a guy comes in with an ego problem, we can't use him really, no matter how good he is. I'm lucky. We've got talent plus the personality."

WHETHER that combination is good enough to break Lamar University's 3-year stranglehold on the Southland Conference is another question.

'We've got a good team and a good shot at winning it, I feel, but we are going to have to have some breaks down the road," LeGrand said. He said several conference schools have tough teams this season. "Lamar, I feel, is better than they have ever been before," he said of the Cardinals, who have won 10 of 11 games this season and have beaten 36 straight opponents on their home court.

"Lamar has some advantages over us, and I think we've got some advantages over them. But I feel our play-ers will want it more than Lamar," LeGrand said.

Andrews downs Lamesa, 93-52

ANDREWS-Andrews' 12th ranked AAAA basketball team demolished Lamesa, 93-52, here Tuesday night to raise its record for the season to 16-3 and its 2-4A mark to 3-1. Lamesa is 3-2 in conference after the loss. It was never close with the Mustangs vaulting to a 44-22 halftime spread.

It was expected to be a close game, but the Tors were fighting off the flu bug, and "We just got out to a fast start and they couldn't catch up," said Coach Frank Bice. The Mustangs host Fort Stockton Friday night.

In other 2-4A games, Odessa Ector (4-1) beat Monahans (0-4), 93-71.

Slush fund revealed

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) - The University of Oregon basketball program used a secret travel fund to recruit players in violation of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, a Lane County prosecutor said Tues-

Deputy District Attorney Darryl Larson said in Lane County Circuit Court that the account was set up in 1977 in the name of former assistant basketball Coach Ron Billingslea and was kept secret from the university administration.

Billingslea has been indicted on a charge of taking $1,680 in 1978 from the account, set up with the Bronson Travel Agency in Eugene.

Larson's comments came at a hearing before Judge Douglas Spencer on whether theft charges should be dismissed against Billingslea and former assistant basketball Coach Mark Barwig.

Barwig has been charged with tak-ing $2,000 in 1978 from another fund set up in his name at Bronson Travel.

ESPOSITO never tired of working to improve the lot of his peers. In that sense, his off-ice style was much the same as his on-ice manner.

'He had great stamina and could stay on the ice for five-minute shifts,' added Sittler. "He'd go through two sets of wingers before he'd come off.

"And he was such a natural scorer. You'd have him all tied up, holding him and sticking him, and he still got the shot off."

"Phil was the kind of guy who could keep going until he collapsed," said Johnny Bucyk, a former teammate of Espo's in Boston and, like Esposito, a certain Hall of Famer. "I thought he still had it and that he'd give Gordie (Howe) a run for the No.1 overall scorer."

WITH THE praise of Esposito came the stories of shenanigans. Perhaps the most superstitious athlete ever to don skates, Espo insisted that everything be in its place in his locker; that the team file onto the ice in a certain manner, with Espo following the backup goalkeeper; that his uniform be put on a certain way.

Esposito admitted he'll miss the locker room comraderie among the players more than anything, which is quite likely since Espo is a prank-ster of the highest order, as well as a great team

Archie Dennis Jr.

Whether Archie Dennis Jr. steps to the microprione on stage in front of thousands in Budgess, Hungary as part of the Billy Graham Crusade. team or the pulpit of a small country church, it only takes moments to realize that within this man God has birthed a song-a unique song born from his personal experience and daily walk with Jesus Christ.

Recognizing his natural singing talent at an early age, Archie joined his high school choir and upon graduation moved to New York. He later joined the Roberta Martin Singers and traveled extensively with them until 1966. At that time his songs changed to a more varied spectrum of sacred music as he felt the call to a solaist ministry. In 1971 an honorary Doctorate of Sacred Music was conferred upon him from a seminary in England.

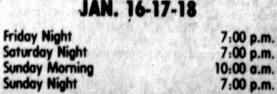

In July 1972 Dennis accepted an invitation from world-renowned Billy Graham to perform as guest solaist at the Cleveland Crusade. Since that time he has been a regular guest with many crusades recently returning from his 31st trip abroad. His tours have taken him to Africa, Brazil, Switzerland, Japan, India, and the Philippines. Archie will soon be retur-ning to the Royal Albert Hall in Landon for another engagement as well.

Henry Davis, a product of Howard University in Wahsington, D.C. has been Archie's accompanist for 8 years and between tours has writ-ten some of Archie's best loved songs like "I Believe in God" and "You'll Never Be the Same Again."

Archie's sensitivity to the Spirit of the Lord has been evidenced in the response to his performances all around the world. At the Billy Graham crusade in October 1977 in Cincinnati he received a standing ovation for God Bless America

It has been Archie's dedication to God's calling upon his life and his willingness to respond which has taken him around the world to musically bless the lives of the many who have heard him sing. And just as important are the lives he touches in Pittsburgh, Pa. where he resides with his wife, Claudette and their family. PITTSBURGH, PA

But Davis said that his thoughts were not on the antitrust suit filed against the NFL by the Los Angeles Coliseum, but rather on preparations for Super Bowl XV Jan. 25 in New Orleans, where Oakland will face Philadelphia.

Tuesday's meetings were an attempt to settle the suit, which claims the NFL violates antitrust laws by requiring approval of franchise moves by 21 of its 28 teams. The league voted 22-0 last March to block the Raiders' move.

Rozelle and Davis exchanged icy greetings during their first encounter in a courthouse hallway, and later when the meetings were finished, they met the press separately. In between, they and their lawyers met with Pregerson, who saw first one side, then the other, then both together.

is Oregon State? And who in the world

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer If you like to play the percentages, you've got to go with undefeated, top-ranked Ore-gon State.

Senior center Steve Johnson, the highest percentage shooter among NCAA Divison I basketball players last season, has taken up where he left off, shooting at a 77 percent clip. Through last weekend's games, he had hit 92 of 119 attempts and was averaging 18.9 points.

That, alone, is sufficient cause to admire the efficiency of the Beavers' offense, but consider also the statistics of the other four Oregon State starters.

-Charlie Sitton, forward, 6.3 ppg, 57 percent.

-Jeff Stoutt, forward, 9.4 ppg, 52 percent

-Ray Blume, guard, 10.8 ppg, 56 percent.

-Mark Radford, guard, 13.9 ppg, 55 percent.

As a team, Oregon State is averaging 58.1 percent from the field, nearly a point better than the NCAA Division 1 record of 57.2 by Missouri last season. The Beavers' poorest shooting performance this season was 50 percent in a 76-62 victory over Stanford.

COUPLED with a per-game scoring aver-age of 81.416 vs. 59.916 for the opposition, the statistics seem to support Coach Ralph Mill-er when he says: "The scheme always has been, as far as we're concerned, that the pass is the chief weapon of our attack."

Miller, in his 30th year of college coaching, has built his program on home-grown talent. His is a total team concept that rarely includes the mention of an individual player unless specifically asked. He stresses an aggressive defense and a patient offense. "This is strictly a team," he says. "There are some very good individuals on it, but they are totally dedicated to a' team concept.

"The pass is our weapon of attack, and we are very strongly defensive-minded coaches.

"We are the best passing team in the country, or at least one of them. Therefore, our people get the ball to Steve (Johnson) wide open possibly more times than anybody in the country, and he's an excellent shooter. By the same token, we have other excellent shooters.

"The kind of shots we get are the ones we want. We believe in control, but our offense still likes to capitalize on mistakes for our transition game. Our opponents are averaging 25 turnovers a game, and we are averaging 12 to 13 steals. That allows us to capitalize on mistakes for our transition game.

This season, Miller starts four seniors and one freshmen, Sitton, a 6-foot-8 power forward recruited from McMinnville, Ore. Johnson, of San Bernadino, Calif., is the only non-Oregonion on the starting five. Blume and Radford, both quick and excellent shooters, are from Portland, and Stoutt, a reserve last season, is from Lake Oswego, Ore.

THIS WEEK'S No.1 ranking is the first in Oregon State's history and Miller's first in a coaching career that included 13 years at Wichita State and six at Iowa.

"To get the title of No.1 is something anybody who works in basketball works toward," Miller says. He says his players "take a lot of pride in where they are ranked. The higher they get, the more they enjoy

However, he does recognize the possible pitfalls of being No.1 and hopes his players can avoid them

"We've never been No.1, but being up high is not a new sensation. We were No.2 for part of last season, and we were No.2 for two weeks this season.

"I don't know what the difference will be between No.1 and No.2, but I don't think it'll be serious - at least I hope not. We've gained a lot of experience."

Miller said the parity in college basketball means that no opponent, "no matter what name they've got on their shirts," can be disregarded.

"Sure, you have your top 20 teams, and probably they belong there," he says, "but on the other hand, the people out of that vicinity are tough ballclubs. If you have a bad night or you're not prepared, you're in for a bad night. Anytime you do not respect the opponent, you're asking for trouble because everybody wants to play the No.1, 2, 3, 4 teams."

Last season, Oregon State was 26-4, but lost to Lamar in the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

"That loss did us more good than harm," Miller says. "We might have gone all the way, but we didn't. Fortunately, we've got a good number of these kids back. It made them realize that you don't go to sleep ever. Ever!

Coach John McDougal posted the traveling squad for the Mid-American Conference contest and it did not include the six black players, sports information director Bud Nangle said Tuesday.

Prior to the Monday afternoon practice session, NIU co-captains Ray Rhone and Ernie Starks asked McDougal why guard Ray Clark was not making the trip to Mount Pleasant, Nangle said.

McDougal told them it was his choice and that he was adding two players to the travel roster - Bruce Johnson, a 6-foot-8 forward who transfered from

DEKALB, Ill. (AP) - Northern Illinois Universi- Villanova University and became eligible Monday,

Nangle said the other player dropped from the roster was Leonard Hayes, a freshman guard, who is black and was hospitalized for examination of a knee injured in the Loyola game.

Nangle said Rhone and Starks told the coach that because Clark, who is black, was dropped to make room for Johnson, who is white, they did not intend to practice.

Nangle said the team has a rule that prohibits a player from playing in a game if he does not practice. So, Nagle said, the six will not make the trip.

In addition to Starks, Clark and Rhone, others not permitted to make the trip were Shawn Thrower, Terry Green and Kerry Mitchell.

Lakers rally to beat Cavs; Mavericks win one

By Associated Press

Sometimes the Los Angeles Lakers need a little extra incentive. Falling behind by 11 points is just the ticket.

"As a team we play a little better when we know we're in the most crucial part of a game," said Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who scored four clutch baskets in the fourth quarter as Los Angeles rallied to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 108-104 Tuesday night. "Maybe we just gear up a little bit extra.

The Lakers trailed 69-58 midway through the third quarter before guard Norm Nixon got them untracked, scoring 15 points in a 41/2-minute span as Los Angeles pulled in front by as many as 10 points. Then Abdul-Jabbar took over, hitting four shots in the last four minutes to turn back a Cleveland comeback.

Nixon's play helped the Lakers to their fourth consecutive victory. Los Angeles' record is now 30-16, including 15-11 since guard Magic Johnson suffered his knee injury.

Mavericks 112, Bulls 106

Reserve forward Abdul Jeelani scored eight points in the first 3: 20 of the fourth quarter to help the expansion Mavericks to only their seventh victory of the season. Bill Robinzine scored a season-high 26 points and Tom LaGarde 24 for Dallas, but Jeelani's 16 in the fourth quarter made the difference.

Suns 104, Sonics 99

Guard Walter Davis hit two jump shots in the final minute as Phoenix held off Seattle. The Sonics had wiped out a nine-point deficit to draw even with 2:35 to play but were outscored 7-2 after that.

Celtics $3, Knicks 89

Boston held New York without a field goal for the final 4:17 and outscored the Knicks 8-3 down the stretch to post its fifth consecutive victory. Larry Bird topped the Celtics with 21 points and also had 11 rebounds and eight assists.

Bucks 119, Pistons 96

Milwaukee outscored Detroit 41-19 in the third period to wipe out an eight-point halftime deficit and hand the Pistons their fifth straight loss. Nuggets 135, Hawks 132

Two free throws apiece by David Thompson and Kiki Vandeweghe in the last 25 seconds gave Denver the victory over Atlanta. Alex English topped the Nuggets with 36 points while John Drew scored 33 for Atlanta.

NHL returns only one winner in five games

By The Associated Press

In the National Hockey League Tuesday night, it was Close Encoun-ters of the Third-Period Kind. Five games were played and four wound up in ties - all as a result of goals in the final period:

-In Quebec, Michel Goulet scored his second goal of the game at 3: 54 of the last stanza to give the Nordiques a 3-3 deadlock with the Winnipeg Jets. -In Detroit, Paul Woods scored on a short backhand shot late in the final period as the Red Wings skated to a 3-3 standoff with the Boston Bruins.

-In Calgary, the New York Rang-ers scored three third-period goals to come from behind and tie the Flames

-And in Vancouver, Brent Ashton scored two goals in a 45-second span to lift the Canucks into a 3-3 tie with the Colorado Rockies.

In the night's other NHL game, the New York Islanders whipped the Pittsburgh Penguins 6-3.

The Nordiques' tying goal came on a weak backhander from behind the net that deflected through the pads of goaltender Markus Mattsson.

Islanders 6, Penguins 3

Mike Bossy, the NHL's leading goal score, boosted his total to 45 with three power-play goals and a shot into an empty net to lead the Islanders over Pittsburgh. It marked the seventh game this season in which Bossy scored three or more goals, tying an NHL record also shared by Joe Malone of the 1917-18 Montreal Canadiens, Phil Esposito of the 1970-71 Boston Bruins and Rick Martin of the 1975-76 Buffalo Sabres. He has two four-goal games this sea-

Permed, curled hair is a necessary fashion ingredient again, says Doris Williams of Statesville, North Carolina, styles director for the 68,000 member professional organization.

Ms. Williams explained that fashion apparel designers are showing the most variety in fashion ever for Spring-Summer, including cowboys and Indians, hi-tech, romantic feminine and school girl designs.

"Straight, sleeked hair, which made a big return to fashion along with the preppy look, is not versatile enough to cover all the designer fashion moods now before us," says Ms. Williams. "Spring-Summer hairfashions require curls, waves, expansion and volume for more versatility," Ms. Williams added. The "Lightning" hairfashion collec-tion includes electrified waves and curls, bolts of fringe, wav currents, wave turbulence and wave explosions, which describes curl movement away from the head

Expanded curls and waves are perm-designed to add softness to facial structures in lengths ranging from at-the-shoulder to above the ear.

The "Lightning Hair" collection includes electrified curls with expanded width to the headshape, super glamour star bambshell looks, shoulder length waves with fringe on one side, super short new wave looks with accenting fringe and versatile asymmetrical lightning curls and wave action.

'Lightning Hair" is highlighted by dazzling color, including Color Classics that capture some of the dynamic looks created by Hollywood's screen immortals. Any year is the year of the blonde, and "Lightning Hair" offers two striking summer blondes, the "Blonde Bombshell" and the "Carmelized Blonde." These entrancing shades harken memories of Marilyn Monroe and Doris Day, tow of film-dom's most popular blondes. PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Step back and view the vivid watercolors of Stanley Obritski Jr. and you'd never know this rising young artist is paralyzed from the chest to his toes, and paints with a brush in his mouth

"It was just like a ride on a gallop-ing horse," said the 38-year-old qua-driplegic from Jackson, N.J., in describing his first dismal efforts to be creative. "I fell off a lot of times, but it's been a great, exciting ride.

"Oh, man, to be sitting in a wheelchair, and just existing, just wasting, and all of a sudden to be a productive man. That's hard to really put in words.

Obritski, who can spend only a few hours at a time in a sitting position because of a 1970 auto crash that crippled him, was one of the honored guests at an international art exhibit for artists with physical disabilities sponsored by Moss Rehabilitation Hospital. Honorary chairman was Andrew Wyeth.

"This show educated the public that handicapped people can do what is considered normal things," said Obritski, whose paintings of flowers, bees and other subjects in nature grace greeting cards, calendars, and galleries all over the world.

"When you see my work you don't have to guess what it is, but you know, too, it wasn't taken by a camera," he said. "It's different, alive. They bang right out at you."

sex harassment WASHINGTON (AP) - A woman need not prove economic loss to sue her employer for sexual harassment, a federal appeals court > says. The unanimous ruling was handed down Monday by a three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District Columbia.

In effect, the panel said that sexual harassment is by itself a violation of the law.

In his decision, Chief Judge J. Skelly Wright said previous rulings required that a woman prove her resistance to sexual harassment "cost her her job or some eco-nomic benefit, but this will do her no good if her employer never takes such tangible action against her.

less the unless employers are prohibited from maintaining "a discriminatory environment," the employers could 'sexually harass a female employee with impunity by carefully stop-ping short of firing the other tangible actions against her in response to her resistance.'

Smoking seminar to begin Tuesday

If you are having trouble keeping your New Year's resolution to quit smoking, the Midland Unit of the American Cancer Society wants to help you. An eight session "Help Smokers Quit" clinic will begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas.

Tom Buford, ex-smoker and Midland program facilitor, recently said that "smoking is a habit, it is not an addiction. The 'Help Smokers Quit' sessions will help you learn why you smoke and how to quit," said Buford. "Many people have worked for years developing the smoking habit. We're not going to give them a fast, easy remedy. We strive to give the participant insight into his character, his psychological and behavorial needs, why he smokes and why he might want to quit."

Buford along with co-facilitator Ray Sharbutt of Safety International are working to make this "Help Smokers Quit' clinic even more successful than the one they put on in the fall

"Although about 80 percent who participate in the stop-smoking program eventually quit smoking, some don't," explained Sharbutt. "And that should not be viewed a failure since many aren't able to quit but do cut down.

The stop-smoking programs are offered to the public at no cost. If you or someone you know needs help in "kicking the habit" go by the American Cancer Society office at 601 S. Main or call 683-6374 to enroll in the program.

Women pay for fight against males

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) - Night-mares, depression and stress are the price that many women pay as they fight their way through male-dominated corporate structures, a new study indicates.

Women managers, often trying to manage a family at the same time, are far more likely than men to suffer ose problems, and are four times as likely to seek psychological help, a Stanford University study found.

"These women are very hard on themselves. They feel they constantly have to be proving themselves," said Harvey Weinstein, co-author of the study of 73 women and 50 men who received masters degrees from the Stanford business school in 1977 and 1978.

The difference "doesn't mean women are weaker or more psychologically ill. It just may be that they're receiving a kind of strain men don't," Weinstein said.

"Part of it stems from the fact that women have not been accepted into many parts of the business world," said the researcher, a clinical assistant professor of psychiatry at the Stanford Medical Center.

The men in the business study were more likely to abuse alcohol, according to Weinstein and fellow researcher, psychologist Laraine Zappert.

Women in business often face the strain of trying to build a career while playing homemaker at the same time, Weinstein noted.

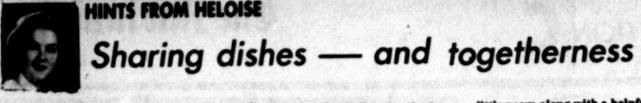

"These working women, who obviously are very career-minded, generally carried on a mainstay of homelife as well, whereas the men had wives who assumed more traditional roles," he said

"Consequently, working women had to worry a lot about what's going on at home while they're at work, while men just forget about it." The professor said businesswomen

also tended to earn less and be given fewer responsibilities than male colleagues with equal training, which seemed to be an indirect cause of stress, although the women were not always aware of the discrepancies, he added

The men in the study also said they set higher salary goals - $42,000 to be satisfied, compared with $31,000 for the women. Actual salaries averaged $29,676 for the men and $25,688 for the women.

Mother and child happily reunited for third time

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) - A woman reunited with her 4-year-old daughter after the child was allegedly kidnapped a third time by her father, says she and the girl need time to get reacquainted.

Ms. Karen Grant, a resident physician specializing in obstetrics and gynecology at Erlanger Medical Center, said Monday that her daughter, Tiffany Dawn Sammons, is in good condition

"Tiffany's more like a little friend to me right now than a child, because the mother-daughter relationship's been irritated so much," Ms. Grant said. "She has a lot of questions about what's been going on." The child's father, Michael Lee Sammons, is charged in Tennessee with kidnapping Tiffany three times from July 1979 to May 1980, from Ms... Grant, who has legal custody of her.

Sammons, divorced from Ms. Grant more than two years ago, also faces one count each of extortion and burglary in connection with the alleged abductions.

Florida Department of Law Enforcement officers said they arrested Sammons, an investment counselor from Dallas, Friday at a Bradenton, Fla., motel. Officials said the child was with her father.

Ms. Grant flew to Florida to join her daughter, who had been missing since May Sammons had been charged in a federal warrant with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, but federal authorities said that warrant would be dismissed to allow Tennessee authorities to proceed with extradition efforts.

Ms. Grant said she is afraid her former husband won't give up.

"He said, when picked up, that he'd do it again if if he got out, except this time he wouldn't bring her back into this country at all," Ms. Grant said. Police said Tiffany has been reported missing five times, although charges have been filed in only three of the incidents.

In one of the reported abductions, Oct. 1, 1979, police accused Sammons of breaking into Ms. Grant's apartment and charged him with burglary.

Sammons was also charged with extortion after someone called Ms. Grant demanding money in exchange for information about Tiffany's whereabouts.

With FBI agents helping in that search, the girl and her father were found in January 1980, in Toronto, Canada. Tiffany was returned to her mother and Sammons waived extradition. Toronto police took him to the U.S. border and turned him over to agents of the FBI's Buffalo, N.Y., office.

Sammons refused extradition from New York state, however. Chattanooga police were waiting for extradition papers between states to be processed when the child was again reported abducted in May.

A new textbook by R. Dale Huchingson takes a questioning look at devices and machines that are supposedly people-oriented but don't quite measure up.

"The book advocates that we think critically of the world," said Huchingson, professor in Texas A&M's Industrial Engineering Department. "Americans grew taller by fourtenths of and inch per decade to 1970, our last reliable figure. Engineers and others in design must take these factors into consideration."

"We don't all have to be human factors engineers to think about human factors," said the 25-year veteran in the field, 15 in industry. Huchingson believes engineers and scientists must think more and more that way though.

McGraw-Hill placed Huchingson's 'New Horizons for Human Factors in Design" on its book of the month list for science and technical readers, emphasizing it could have lay interest. Huchingson calls the writing "cornpole simple," though it contains new design suggestions in personcomputer interface, voice synthesis and recognition, design aids for the handicapped, consumer products, surface vehicle and traffic control device design.

The book contains sections on aerospace, surface transportation, communications and data processing sys-

In this fast-paced society, time just to be together is decreasing.

Well, we had the dishwasher fixed, but found we enjoyed out talk time so much that we gave it to our neighbor, and now do all the dishes together by hand.

Somehow, soapy water and time together make for better communication. We now have at least an hour and a half guaranteed together each evening. - Dishpan Hands

How much privacy do you have concerning your finances? Consumers today are facing changes in the financial world regardiang their right to privacy. In the past, consumers have always had certain expectations of confidentiality about the privacy of their personal financial records.

During the 18th and 19th centuries in the United States; personal financial records were kept in the home, protected by the individual and the Fourth Amendment (which states the problems with privacy. right of people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures) In the 20th century, consumers relied on financial institutions to make many of their financial transactions -and they looked on financial officers as a sort of "trustee" of their account and financial activities. However, after the 1976 Supreme Court decision in U.S. vs. Miller, which held that a customer of a financial institution has no constitutional standing to contest access to the institution's records of his transactions, the consumer has been de prived of that expected degree of privacy. Privacy in financial transactions is an important concern among customers, since these transactions reveal so much about a person's activities, associations > and beliefs. So, almost a year ago the Fair Financial Information Practices Act (SB1928 and H.R. 5555 and 5559) was introduced in the congress. This has not become law yet. It covers five major areas: consumerreporting, agencies, credit grantors, credit and check-authorization services, depository institutions and insurance companies. The act has two functions -- setting standards

talk to credit bureaus and insurance companies, they can make their views clear regarding privacy, along with the idea that they will only do business with companies that respect consumer rights.

What about divorce?

THEN He left Capernaum and went southward to the Judean borders and into the area east of the Jordan River. And as always there were the crowds; and as usual He taught them.

Some Pharisces came and asked Him. "Do you permit divorce?" Of course they were trying to trap Him.

"What did Moses say about divorce?" Jesus asked them. "He said it was all right," they replied. "He said that all a man has to do is write his wife a letter of dismissal."

"And why did he say that?" Jesus asked. "I'll tell you why---it was a concession to your hardhearted wickedness. But it certainly isn't God's way. For from the very first He made man and woman to be joined together permanently in marriage; therefore a man is to leave his father and mother.

And he and his wife are united so that they are no longer two, but one.

And no man may separate what God has joined together.'

Later, when He was alone with His disciples in the house, they brought up the subject again.

He told them, "When a man divorces his wife to marry someone else, he commits adultery against her.

And if a wife divorces her husband and remarries, she, too, commits adultery."

Agency proposes ban on sale of home insulation

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal safety agency is proposing a ban on further sale of a popular type of home insulation because of fears it can cause cancer. The Consumer Product Safety Commission, by 3-2 vote, proposed the ban Tuesday on urea formaldehyde foam insulation. A ban is the most severe sanction the commission has and only about a dozen products have been banned since the agency was formed in 1973 About 500,000 consumers, some lured by federal tax breaks for energysaving measures, already have bought the insulation. If the ban becomes final - another vote must be taken after a 60-day public comment period - these homeowners could see the value of their propery fall because the walls

Media blamed in feud among Gulf Coast fishermen

SEABROOK, Texas (AP) - A U.S. Justice Department official believes the news media is adding fuel to the smouldering feud between American and Vietnamese fishermen along the Texas gulf coast.

James T. Hammett, of the Houston field office, said Tuesday, "If we don't continue to try to develop better relations between the two groups it could be a bad problem just from the heightened tensions created by the media."

The comment came shortly after fires were reported aboard two Vietnamese-owned shrimp boats docked near Seabrook.

Police said both fires were set deliberately.

The weekend fires followed an exchange of charges that both sides had violated an agreement under which the number of shrimp boats in operation would be limited to the number in existence at that time.

Each group has accused the other of building new vessels for use with the opening of the 1981 shrimp sea-

The moratorium on expanding the shrimp fleet was negoitiated by the Justice Department and the Governor's Task Force on Indochinese Resettlement last April and involved about 70 American and 55 Vietnamese boats.

Hammett said several newspapers and broadcast stations devoted considerable attention to the latest dispute although only a few American shrimpers, probably no more than seven, were voicing loud protests about sharing Galveston Bay with the refugees.

"Most of the disruption in the community has been confined to a small module of fishermen," Hammett said. "Reporters have encouraged a continuation of unrest between the two groups by investing the dissident fishermen with undeserved credibility as community spokesmen.'

One Vietnamese shrimp boat was docked at Kemah when set afire and the other was across Clear Creek at Seabrook the Vietnamese fishermen in the area, said, "My people are angry and upset but we are satisfied with the promise by the Justice Department that they will investigate.

Kemah Police Chief Dennis Mangurn said one of the boat fires appeared to be the work of an amateur.

Whoever it was took some kind of flammable fluid, apparently gasoline, and splashed it over the deck," Mangurn said

Seabrook Police Chief Bill Kerbr said the fire on his side of Clear Creek 'was an obvious case of arson.'

John Townsend, chairman of the governor's task force, said an investigation also is underway into reports that some of the Vietnamese fishermen are receiving state and federal food stamps and welfare and Medicaid payments.

"We have had complaints that seven Vietnamese heads of house-holds are receiving state and federal aid and at the same time building new shrimp boats. If they are building $30,000 boats, they shouldn't be eligi-ble for food stamps, welfare or Medicaid," he said.

Dallas woman is safe after alleged abduction told officers the two men came to her apartment door about 6:30 a.m. Monday after one of them told her he had struck Ms. Hever's car in a parking lot. men, one of them armed with a 45-calibe pistol, forced their way into the apartment and tied up Ms. Hever's boyfriend, 30-year-old James Eddie Jones. The suspects then questioned the woman about the bank's burglar alarms and vault and took the woman outside after telling her to get her bank keys The woman said she was held at a construction site all day in a van, but got free and was given a ride to the bank by a worker about 2:30 p.m. Monday. Jones said he managed to free himself and call police after the two men and the woman left. Officers went to the bank, but found no one had been inside.

DALLAS (AP) - Police say they still aren't sure why two men abducted a bank's head teller at gunpoint, held her captive at a construction site and then released her unharmed.

Judge requests videotapes which as many as 10 politicians either turned down payoffs from undercover FBI Abscam operatives or were not offered them for various reasons.

The order was issued Tuesday by U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt, who said he would view the tapes tonight and decide whether to turn them over, as requested, to defense lawyers representing seven politicians convicted of taking payoffs. Pratt is conducting a hearing to determine whether the government acted properly in conducting the undercover Abscam investigation.

The Justice Department official who coordinated the political corruption investigation, in which FBI operatives posed as representatives of Arabs seek-ing favors, testified Tuesday that the government was fair in conducting the investigation and did not entrap politicians.

Undercover FBI agents and Justice Department lawyers involved in bribe payoff sessions with politi-cians were "instructed that there were to be no ambiguities in the meetings," Deputy Assistant Attorney General Irvin Nathan said.

*Further, Nathan testified, government Abscam procedures required that public officials attending

Some of Jenrette's cash from Abscam?

WASHINGTON (AP) - More than a dozen of the $100 bills the wife of former Rep. John Jenrette said she found in Jenrette's closet last week were part of the Abscam bribery money the South Carolina Democrat was convicted of accepting. The Washington Post today quoted sources as saying.

Jenrette, who has denied taking money from FBI undercover agents, could not be reached for comment on the Post report. But he told the Post on Monday, "I can assure you if the money came from Abscam I'll walk into jail right now.

Jenrette said the $25,000 found by his wife, Rita, was from a variety of sources, including his law office, legal funds donated by friends and "money my mother gave me before she died." Rita Jenrette has said she is seeking a divorce from the ex-congressman.

The Post quoted its sources as saying that a complete check of the $100 bills by FBI agents on Tuesday showed some serial numbers matched those of money used in the Abscam investigation. A spot check on Monday had not found any matches.

One Justice Department official, noting that only part of the money found in Jenrette's closet was from the Abscam investigation, said the department is interested in finding out the source of the rest of the cash, the Post said.

'We're always interested in the source of $25,000 in cash in a congressman's closet," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) - Federal prosecutors have the payoff sessions were to "understand precisely been ordered to produce videotapes of meetings in the nature of the transaction."

In other developments:

-U.S. Attorney Edward R. Korman said his office would obey Pratt's order to produce the FBI's entire Abscam file. He left open, however, the option to appeal the providing of sensitive documents the judge may want to turn over to the defense. -The judge lashed out at defense attorneys for wasting time, asking "stupid questions" and inquir-ing in to areas that offer little hope of being productive for the defense. "We're getting so far away from the central problems here, I'm beginning to wonder if I'm in Alice in Wonderland," said

-A federal appeals court in New York rejected claims by three men convicted on Abscam charges that they would be put in unconstitutional double jeopardy if tried on any more charges stemming from the investigation.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a ruling by Pratt, who refused to dismiss charges against Mayor Angelo Errichetti of Camden, N.J.; Philadelphia City Councilman Louis C. Johanson: and lawyer Howard Criden, also of Philadelphia. All three have already been convicted of aiding a conspiracy to bribe former Rep. Michael Myers. D-Pa., in August

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE Autism rare condition

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW

QUESTION: Please explain what autism is and what is known about it.

ANSWER: Infantile autism is a severe developmental condition which is noticeable during the first two years of life. Its cause is not known but is thought to be organic in some sense. This includes possible genetic factors, chemical factors, or other such conditions which are present and which serve to alter the child's perception of and response to his environment.

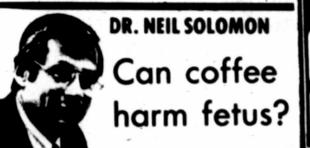

It was formerly thought that the cause of infantile autism was psychological. Usually, there was some implied accusation that the child's family, and particularly his mother was to blame. This particular viewpoint is no longer commonly held.

The symptoms of autism include an almost complete lack of response to other people including parents, severe deficits in language development, peculiar speech patterns and strange responses to or interest in different parts of his environment.

Moving objects such as spinning toys or the like can hold his attention for long periods of time. He usually does not speak but probably understands the spoken word. When he does speak, his use of language is strange in that he may parrot the exact words of others (echolalia) or he may use strange or bizarre sentence forms. Before the diagnosis of autism is confirmed, such children are often thought to have a hearing impairment because of their lack of response to others in their environment.

Autism is different from mental retardation, although they both may be present in a single individual. It is not certain if autism represents a single disorder or if the cluster of symptoms which are known as autism can arise from differing underlying conditions.

Autism is relatively uncommon. It occurs in much less than 1 percent of the general population. Some professionals in the mental health field see fewer than 100 such children in 20 or 30 years of practice. The treatment of autistic children is quite difficult

Dear Dr. Solomon: The last time I was pregnant, my obstetrician insisted I refrain from any kind of alcoholic beverage, even a glass of wine. Now that I am pregnant once more, he insists I stop drinking coffee. He is well thought of in the community, and I don't even like to think of changing doctors at this stage of the game. I should also add that I would much rather have proof that caffeine has ever been responsible for a birth defect in a person; but scientists are of the opinion that the kinds of studies needed to establish either the safety or the lack of safety of the use of caffeine by pregnant women have not yet been done. In the absence of such conclusive evidence - the scientific equivalent of the smoking gun - the Food and Drug Administration suggests that a prudent a doctor who is conservamother-to-be consider tive in his approach than caffeine an unnecessary one who beleves in taksubstance and avoid its ing risks. But isn't this It is always possible, of course, that humans do not respond to caffeine the way rats do, and that the findings derived from studies of rats are not applicable to people. For example, rats and people may not metabolize caffeine the same way. But this is something that still has to be determined. In brief, experiments so far have demonstrated that caffeine can cause birth defects in rats; they have not shown caffeine to be safe or unsafe — in humans. In the absence of concrete proof, the FDA recommends that women eliminate the use caffeine-containing of products during pregnancy or, at least, use them sparingly. Your obstetrician, apparently, agrees with this approach. Concern about the efbecause the children are so difficult to reach, in the social sense. The most successful treatment programs for such children have been those which use behavior modification techniques, with parents being taught the techniques as well. Autism remains as one of the mysteries of brain functioning and psychological life. Although the condition is relatively rare, the impact of such children on others is a lasting and profound one.

restriction on coffee carrying things a little too far? - Mrs. L.F.

Dear Mrs. F.: The rec ommendation that pregnant women restrict the use of caffeine because of its potentially harmful effects on the fetus is of fairly recent origin. Although some of the facts surrounding the use of caffeine have been established for some time, doctors are not in complete agreement on their significance.

As you note, your obstetrician apparently is conservative in his philosophy and has concluded that the safest approach is to eliminate coffee - and, I assume, other caffeine-containing foods - during your pregnancy. While caffeine ordinarily is associated with coffee, it also is found in tea, cola drinks, chocolate and a number of drugs.

fects of caffeine on the fetus stem from an experiment that showed that caffeine fed to pregnant rats caused birth defects and delayed skeletal development in the offspring. This concern is heightened by the knowledge that caffeine ingested by a pregnant woman crosses the placenta and reaches the fetus. Moreover, it has been established that caffeine, which is a stimulant, has a druglike effect, and that pregnant women generally should avoid any such substances. So much for what is known.

What is not known is how the findings in the experiment with rats apply to humans. As of now, there is no concrete

Midland operators strike in Ward, Howard counties

Exxon Corp., Midland, has completed a Devonian gas discovery in Ward County, and Wagner & Brown, Midland, announced the reopening of a field in Howard County.

Exxon Corp. has completed No. 1 Sabine Gas Unit as a Devonian gas discovery in Ward County, three miles northeast of Barstow.

Operator has suggested the new field designation of Quibar (Devonian).

The well finaled for a calculated absolute open flow of 320,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 17,458 to 18,044 feet which had been treated with 12,500 gallons of acid.

The Devonian was entered at 17,450 feet, on ground elevation of 2,606 feet.

The well drilled to a depth of 18,177 feet, was plugged back to 17,931 feet, and a five-inch liner was hung from 15,006 to 18,171 feet.

Wellsite is 1,320 feet from northwest and southwest lines of section 180, block 34, H&TC survey.

HOWARD REOPENER

The Big Spring (lower Strawn) field of Howard County has been reopened with completion of Wagner & Brown, Midland, No. 1 Haney.

Operator reported the well finaled for a calculated absolute open flow of 103,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day. Production was through perforations from 9,283 to 9,289 feet, which had been treated with 1,500 gallons of acid. The pay was topped at 9,283 feet on ground elevation of 2,608 feet. Hole bottomed at 9,730 feet, 4.5-inch casing was set at 9,729 feet, and plugged back depth is 9,345 feet. The site is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 34, block 31, T&P survey, and 10 miles northeast of Big Spring.

Iran raises oil prices

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - Iran has raised its oil prices by $2 a barrel effective Jan. 1 to $37 for light crude and $36 for heavy crude, the Iranian news agency Pars announced today. The increases were not as high as had been forecast by U.S. oil trade sources who had anticipated the Iranian action following a round of price hikes kicked off in mid-December by a decision of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to authorize price increases of up to $41 a barrel Iran's price increase also had a limited impact since exports have been curtailed by the Iran-Iraq war that broke out in September and resulted in damage to major Iranian oil facilities

But there have been unconfirmed reports in the oil trade that Iran has managed to export some 200,000 barrels a day despite the war, using Lavan Island ports in the lower Pertion 7, block 6, H&TC survey, and 24 miles northeast of Barnhart. It is one mile northeast of the Ela Sugg (Cisco oil) field, and 1% miles

nomic Survey, a well informed oil review, said earlier this month that Iran had been seeking to line up crude oil sales for the first quarter of 1981 and was offering discounts of as much as $7 a barrel to buyers prepared to risk loading at Kharg Island in the northern Persian Gulf.

Well fire out

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) - An offshore drilling platform choked it-self off Tuesday and stopped a flaming blowout that sent 31 rig workers into the frigid Gulf of Mexico, killing one and leaving two others hospital-ized, an official of Placid Oil Co.

'The well fire is out. There's no gas blowing," said Van Cojis, district ad-ministrative assistant with Placid. "It bridged over. The hole filled up in a natural process."

The rig burst into flam evening, about eight hours after the

Guerrillas to fight to victory in Namibia

will return immediately to their operational bases and fight "until final victory" following the collapse of the conference called to arrange a cease-fire in the war for control of Namibia, or South-West Africa, their chief declared today.

"The oppressed people of Namibia are left with no alternative but to continue with the liberation strugde until final victory," President Sam Nujoma of the th West African People's Organization told the final session of the meeting

The week-long conference broke down Tuesday night when South African observer Danie Hough declared it was "premature" to fix a cease-fire date because of alleged U.N. bias toward the South-West African People's Organization, which has been fighting a guerrilla war for independence from South Africa for more than a decade.

Nujoma and his senior aides were scheduled to leave Geneva later today for New York to renew demands that the U.N. Security Council vote manda-tory sanctions against South Africa, which has con-trolled the big territory for 65 years.

This could force President-elect Ronald Reagan's new conservative administration into one of its first major foreign policy decisions - whether to abandon the long diplomatic effort to arrange independence elections and support the white South Africans, with whom American conservatives generally sympathize, by vetoing the sanctions resolution.

Although the Security Council voted an arms embargo against South Africa in 1977 because of the white-minority government's apartheid policy of racial segregration, Britain and the United States have always blocked attempts to get economic sanctions. But British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is reported to have told South Africa it can no longer count on a British veto. SWAPO spokesman Theo-Ben Gurirab said in addition to the political offensive at the United have been waging against South African security forces from bases in Angola, South-West Africa's northern neighbor

Brian Urguhart, the U.N. undersecretary-general who was chairman of the conference, contended that line up support.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Guerrilla leaders the U.N. peace plan was not dead and said negotiations would resume.

'We shall continue to live in hope and press on," he told reporters. "Whether it will make any difference, God knows."

He said the conference was not worthless because South Africa, SWAPO and the major political parties operating inside South-West Africa had at least had direct exchanges.

South Africa took neighboring, mineral-rich South-West Africa, now called Namibia by the United Nations and black Africans, from the Germans in 1915 and in 1920 received a League of Nations mandate to administer it.

The United Nations rescinded the mandate in 1966, two years later renamed the territory Namibia and in 1974 recognized SWAPO as the sole legitimate representatives of the Namibian people. But South Africa refused to comply.

South Africa and SWAPO agreed in 1978 to a peace plan drawn up by the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Canada. It called for a cease-fire and internationally supervised elections prior to independence. But negotiations to implement the agreement have dragged on ever since.

Since Zimbabwe, formerly Rhodesia, became independent in 1980, the Namibian war has been the last independence conflict in southern Africa. Fighting between SWAPO and South African forces increased markedly last year.

The Geneva talks were called to fix a cease-fire date --- March 31 had been suggested as a target --- as a prelude to U.N.-supervised elections and independence by the end of the year. But the biggest pro-South African political party in the territory, the multi-racial Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, or DTA, contended that United Nations could not ensure an impartial election.

The DTA said the international organization should prove its impartiality by rescinding its recog-Nations, the guerrillas would step up the war they nition of SWAPO and allow a DTA spokesman to address the General Assembly, as Nujoma has done. Begin stalling for time

JERUSALEM (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin postponed until Friday his government's deci-sion on whether to call early elections while one of his ministers tried to work out a plan to hold on to power through the summer. Leaders of Begin's Likud bloc have twice postponed a decisive meeting, and with the session now luled for Friday, it means a final decision is almost impossible before Sunday, when the Cabinet next meets.

"Everything is open," said one Begin adviser. "Begin is playing a waiting game, at least until next week," he said.

Begin's aides said the premier still favored elections in June but was giving his party time to try and build support among parliamentary splinter factions for staying on until November.

gael Hurvitz has left Begin with no more than 58 or 59 coalition members, a minority in the 120-member Knesset, or Parliament.

Levy has told reporters he can muster 63 supporters. He would also give the vacant defense portfolio to Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon.

A Begin aide said, however, Begin would agree to cancel plans for early elections only if the Likud had "a stable and representative majority" that did not rely on unpredictable independent splinter groups.

Begin's aides say they doubt Levy's reshuffle plan could save the government since it is opposed by the junior coalition partners. The three-man Democratic Movement says it will guit the coalition unless early elections are scheduled.

The coalition suffered an embarrassing setback Tuesday when the Knesset voted to lift the parlialavid Levy, a power broker in mentary immunity of Religious Affairs the Likud bloc, called on the premier with a plan to Aharon Abu-Hatziera, clearing the way for on bribery and corruption charges. Abu-Hatzeira, of the 12-seat National R Party, has denied accusations that he took $ bribes to channel extra government funds gious institutions. His trial would be the fir cabinet minister in office. The influential NRP, the Likus's senior says it favors early elections, but political do not take the party's public statements too ly. They believe the NRP would rather wa November vote to allow Abu-Hatzeira's finish.

Abu-Hatziera, of the 12-seat National Religious Party, has denied accusations that he took $15,000 in bribes to channel extra government funds to reli- gious institutions. His trial would be the first for a cabinet minister in office. The influential NRP, the Likus's senior partner, says it favors early elections, but political analysts do not take the party's public statements too serious- ly. Small radiation leaks found at Indian Point nuclear plan

BUCHANAN, N.Y. (AP) - Small amounts of radiation have been leaking, possibly since early December, into an auxiliary steam system and then into the Hudson River at the Indian Point power plants, Consolidated Edison says.

The leak, which went undetected by monitoring equipment, was discovered Monday during a monthly sampling of the steam system's water, utility spokesman Marty Gitten said Tuesday night.

The monitor is now working and the amount of radiation emitted was within allowable limits and estimated at one 1,000th of a curie daily, he said.

The source of the leak is not clear, and "We're still said. finding something (leaking) there," said Gitten. Officials have not determined how or why the monitors failed. Karl Abraham, spokesman for the Nuclear Reguin the steam system, he added. latory Commission, said the NRC was told of the leak Tuesday. He also said the levels were "extremely minute" and said officials would await the results of the utility's investigation to determine any necessary action.

Assuming the worst case, Gitten said, the steam system - which heats such equipment as space and and was referred to other duties until April, Con tank heaters at the Indian Point 2 and 3 power plants Edison said.

he said. A curie is a measurement of radiation. The maximum dose effect sustained by the emitted radiation is .00002 of a millirem. A typical chest X-ray causes an exposure of 20 to 30 millirems.

Gitten said the steam system regularly purges itself and discharges water into the Hudson River. It was last checked for radiation in early December, he

The monitor failed and the leak began sometime between that time and the January check on Monday, he said. It was the first leak to have developed

The incident followed the release Sunday of a minute and allowable amount of radiated gas from the Indian Point 3 plant operated by the state Power Authority, and the exposure Saturday of a radiographerto radiation. The worker, doing subcontract work, received a dose allowed each three months,

Seattle newspapers propose joint operation arrangement

SEATTLE (AP) - The Seattle Times and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer have proposed a joint operating arrangement that would end competition on weekday mornings and Sundays, the papers announced.

The two newspapers would retain separate news departments under the proposal, which is subject to federal government approval, but the Times would federal government approval, but the Times would run the production, advertising, circulation and busi-ness functions of both papers. The proposed arrangement was announced Tues-day, and includes these features: —There would be only one Sunday newspaper, carrying the joint masthead of the Seattle Times and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Each newspaper would have its separate editorial and comic sections in the joint Sunday issue. —The Press-Intelligencer would be published six mornings a week, while the Times would be pub-lished five afternoons a week, Saturday morn-ings and all holiday mornings. The Times would discontinue the Monday-through-Friday morning editions that it began last February.

-No change of ownership would be involved. The Press-Intelligencer is owned by The Hearst Corp. and the Times is jointly owned by a Seattle family and Knight-Ridder Newspapers.

-Operating and business functions of each newspaper would be performed by the Times at its plant, using production, advertising, circulation and busi-ness staff employed by the Times. Similiar joint operations are now in effect in 24 cities in the United States.

-The Hearst Corp. would retain sole responsibility for news and editorial material in the Press-Intelligencer, and the Times would retain sole responsibility for its news and editorial material. The arrangement is subject to a number of condi-tions, including negotiations with labor unions and approval of the U.S. attorney general under the deral Newspaper Preservation Act.

Union spokesmen reacted hesitantly to the news of the joint operating agreement, and a Time spokes-man said it probably would be several months before joint operations could begin. In the meantime, both newspapers will continue business as usual. In February, 1885 the City of Midland was founded. Midland is now 96 years old and its present population is over 79,000. How long has your business been in Midland?

Telegram Classified section will be the Honor Roll Report. This interesting feature will list Midland firms in chromological order by the number of years they have been in business. The feature will be published on January 18, 25 and February 1 and 8. 1981.

RAMSTEIN, West Germany (AP) - Two U.S. Air Force planes attached to bases in West Germany crashed today at separate sites and the fate of the crews was unknown, Air Force spokesmen said.

Nine people were believed aboard a C-130 American transport plane that crashed near Ramstein and two men were aboard a Phantom jet that crashed near the Spanish town of Molina, an Air Force statement said.

The C-130 crashed within the Weilerbach storage area just northeast of the the air base here, the statement said. adding, "nine persons are believed aboard the aircraft and their condition is unknown at this time.

The crash site is in the vicinity of Kaiserslautern, a garrison town near the French-German border

A statement on the Phantom crash, near the Spanish town of Molina said: "The F-4D carried two crew members and was on a local training mission when it crashed.

Pinball machines now unplugged in Ohio city

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) - Pinball machines are no longer pinging in this southern Ohio city, but litigation is far from over in the four-year battle over their operation.

Amusement firms backed trucks up to bars, game shops and stores throughout Middletown to remove the electronic steel ball games, said Police Chief Russell Dwyer.

The Cincinnati-based Stern Amusement Co., which has fostered litigation against a 1978 city ordinance banning pinball machines, failed to get a last-minute reprieve from the 1st District Ohio Court of Appeals. The company had asked for a stay of a December appellate court decision upholding the constitutionality of the ordinance.

The law does not affect other electronic games.

Officials in the city of 70,000 outlawed pinball machines as a possible source of gambling, corruption of youths and an attraction for undesireable elements, Dwyer said.

Middletown had banned the machines in 1965, but accidentally omitted the ordinance during recodification of city laws four years ago. The City Commission passed another law in 1978 after the machines reappeared within the city limits in 1976.

Stern Amusement officials have described the ban on pinball machines in commercial establishments as unconstitutional and discriminatory.

The company's attorneys are preparing an appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court.

orkshop on genetics scheduled

With an increasing awareness of genetic disorders, problems which they cause and possible prevention of inherited disorders, the Texas Department of Health will present a one-day seminar on the topic Jan. 23 at Midland Regional Airport.

'Genetics and the Public's Health" is the topic of the workshop, which is designed to provide health care, social service and special education professionals with a working knowledge of genetics. Attention will be given to identification of people with genetic disorders, with emphasis on their counseling needs. The importance of appropriate referrals and continuing follow-up also will be discussed by experts in the field.

The course will provide participants with: an understanding of the basic principles of human genetics; a recognition of the major aspects of medical intervention in genetic services; and an understanding of the continuing supportive roles of community professionals in genetic services.

Shirley Carrigan, Midland president of the Permian Basin Perinatal Association, will preside at the 8:30 a.m. opening meeting of the conference. Sue Barfoot, RN, director of nursing for the TDH Public Health Region 12 presides at the afternoon sessions Presentations include: Dr. Charleen Moore, University of Texas Health Science Center, Houston, "A Practical Look at Genetics" and "Implications of Genetic Disorders - Impact on Families: Genetic Testing and Counseling"; Candy Holtzman, RN, coordinator of the TDH Texas Genetics Network, a film on heredity and birth defects; Dr. Mary Jo Harrod, University of Texas Health Science Center, Dallas, "Identification of the High Risk Family: OB-GYN Aspects"; Dr. Vincent M. Riccardi, Identification of the High Risk Family: Pediatric Aspects"; and Dolores Conroy, social service program consultant with the Texas Genetics Network, "Implications of Genetic Disorders - Impact on Families: Psychosocial Factors."

A panel discussion is scheduled on the topic, "Now that I know all this, what do I do and where do I go?" Previous speakers will appear on the panel along with Lynn Bass, PHR 12; John W. Clarke, executive director of the Permian Basin Rehabilitation Center; Adrianne Hamilton, Lubbock Regional Genetic Screening and Counseling Service; and Barbara Pierce Hurst, Permian Basin Community Centers for MHMR.

Women accused in random snipings 'coldest criminals'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The alleged assailants in a series of apparently random shootings of pedestrians and motorists were among "the coldest criminals I have ever dealt with," said one investigator after the arrest of two young women in the case.

"Why did they do it? They liked it. They thought it was fun — just like Charles Manson — it's that vicious and cruel," Lt. Bob Martin said. One man was killed and at least 10 others were injured in the gang-related shootings over the past year.

"They would shoot indiscriminately into crowds," said Martin, head of the police department's Community Resources Against Street Hoodlums in West Los Angeles.

He said Esperanza Alvarez, 22, of Santa Monica, and a 16-year-old girl were booked Tuesday for investigation of murder following the shootings that had police baffled.

Martin said the trail of shootings ranged from the Pacific Ocean to the downtown Los Angeles Convention Center and that the two young women were cooperating in the investigation.

The woman and the girl, whose identity was not released because of her age, were booked in connection with the death of Javier Galvin, 16, of Venice. Galvin died May 23 after he was hit by a bullet fired from a passing car in Venice.

The shootings were definitely gangrelated and more victims may be added to the list of those who were shot, Martin said, adding that the story was just beginning to unfold and could include robberies as well.

A 24-year-old man now in Chino Prison on an unrelated assault conviction also was allegedly involved in the case with the two young women and will be booked for investigation of murder, police said.

Deputy Chief Daniel Sullivan said the shootings stopped shortly after the man was arrested. He said the two women and a man would usually drive up to a corner where pedestrians were standing and ask two questions: "Where's the party?" and "Where are you from?"

Christopher Richardson

Skeletal remains identified

ATLANTA (AP) — The latest identified victim in Atlanta's string of child slayings disappeared 15 miles from the suburban wood where his bones and teeth were found, says Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown.

The discovery of skeletal remains of two bodies Friday brought to at least 12 and possibly 13 the number of black children found dead in the Atlanta area in the past 18 months. One of the skeletons found Friday was that of

One of the skeletons found Friday was that of Christopher Richardson, 11, who disappeared June 9, 1980, while walking to a swimming pool near his home in east suburban Decatur, Brown said Tuesday.

The second skeleton, found 75 yards from the Richardson child's remains, has not been identified and the cause of both deaths has not been determined.

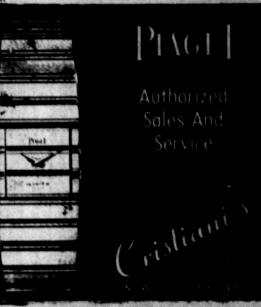

But "we are treating it (Richardson's death) as a criminal homicide," Brown said. "We can assume that the cause of death was not due to natural "auses."

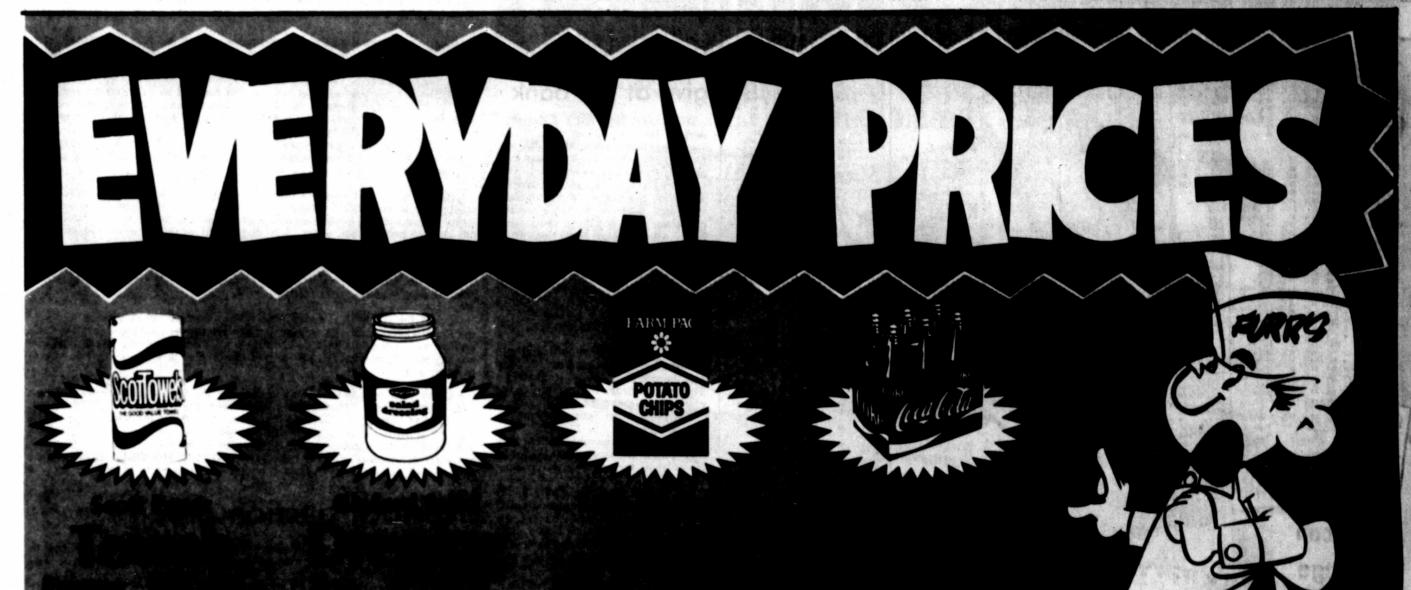

Four children who disappeared in the last 18 months remain missing. Dr. Robert Stivers, Fulton County's chief medical examiner, whose office identified Richardson's body, has said that tentative identification indicates the other skeleton found last week is that of one of the four.

But Stivers said outdated dental records of one of the suspected victims has made it difficult to prove an identity.

Brown said the medical examiner's office hasn't given police any other information — such as damaged bones or holes in clothing found with the skeletons — that might indicate the cause of death in either of the two latest cases.

He declined to speculate on how the new discoveries would affect the investigation into the slayings.

Button up save on taxes

> By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

You can button up your house - and your budget - against the cold without spending a lot of money. You may even be able to get a tax break in exchange

Federal legislation provides tax credits of up to $300 for energy improvements - and the improvements can be as simple as caulking and weatherstripping

The U.S. Department of Energy also says that more than half the 50 states offer additional tax incentives for conservation. In at least three states - Colorado, Kansas and Ohio - you get a double inducement to save: a tax credit, plus a preferential assessment on your property.

The savings on your heating bill alone can be substantial. They will vary widely, depending on where you live, how many conservation steps you have taken already and how cold the entire winter turns out to be. To calculate your potential savings, check your records to see how much fuel you used last year, then multiply by this year's prices and figure out what a 5 percent or 10 percent cut in consumption would mean.

Conservation around the house also is important in reducing overall national energy consumption. Just over 20 percent or one-fifth of the energy used in the United States is consumed in the home and most of it goes for heating and hot water

An energy audit can help you find out whether you are wasting energy and where the leaks are. Federal law requires major utilities to develop audit programs for their customers. Some of the audits are do-it-yourself projects: others involve utility company employees who visit homes and make recommendations. There may be a small charge for the service. Contact your local utility for details and advice.

Insulation is often the single biggest money saver, but it is also expensive to install. The Credit Union National Association, in a guide for credit union members, says there are a lot of other things to do first. Among them:

-Adjust the thermostat. You can cut your fuel bill by 3 percent by reducing the setting by one degree. If your winter heating bill is $1,000 - not unreasonable - a 3 percent cut is $30. In the upper Midwest, you can save 22 percent on your fuel bill by cutting temperatures from 72 degrees to 68 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night. Make sure, however, that your family can adjust to the lower temperatures comfortably. Infants and older people may need more warmth.

-Reduce hot water temperatures. A setting of 120 degrees is sufficient for most uses. If your heater gauge reads only low, medium or high, test the temperature with a kitchen thermometer. About one-fourth of your home fuel bill goes to provide hot water. A 20-degree cut in temperature can mean a cut of about 20 percent in the cost of operating the water heater

-Insulate your water heater to reduce heat loss. Refit kits, including a specially designed blanket of fiberglass insulation, are readily available at building supply and hardware stores

-Check for air leaks at doors and windows, around the chimney and above the foundation. Caulk and weatherstrip to plug holes. A thorough job on the entire house will probably take about $100 worth of materials. It can cut your heating bill by 7 percent to 13 percent, depending on how much draft there was to begin with

-Cover your windows. Storm windows are the most expensive way to stop heat from escaping through the glass, but they can cut your fuel bill by about 15 percent a year. You'll recover the cost of the windows in a few winters. Plastic coverings are just as effective, although they are less permanent. Many hardware stores and lumber yards now offer plastic sheeting designed for windows. You can expect to spend about $5 a window. Keep drapes open during the day to let the sun in and closed at night.

American soldiers giving up spit shine

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - In the interest of national security, American foot soldiers are giving up the spit-shine.

The Defense Department says the gleaming boots produce a "signature" that can be spotted easily by an enemy using infrared lenses from afar

The shiny boots, first introduced in the 1950s, will be replaced by rough, brown leather boots similar to those that carried soldiers into World War I. Unlike their World War I predecessors, however, the new boots will not come with

The boot will feature a steel-plate toe, a fiberglass protected sole, a new high-traction tread and a speed-lacing design to allow for fast changes. Military officials say they won't show up under infrared lenses, which are used in part to spot troop concentrations.

The Army project is to be adopted by all

Colorado lawyers told to improve their writing

DENVER (AP) - The Colorado Supreme Court has asked the state's lawyers to improve their services.

According to the Marine Corps, it is too early to say how much the new boots will cost. The boots will be phased in with new recruits and as replacements are needed. Boots now cost $30 a pair.

Many foot soldiers didn't really use spit to shine their foot-gear because the acid ruins the polish. It's cotton balls, hot liquid polish and lots of elbow grease that work up the bright gleam. But nonetheless, some servicemen say they can't imagine an unshined boot. "I don't believe it," said Marine Corps Military Policeman George Huffman, 20, stationed at Atlantic Fleet Marine Force Headquarters in Norfolk. The Marine Corps is scheduled to introduce the new boots in 1983.

"They might change the boot, but they'll still find a way for us to shine them," Huffman said

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A cult joined by the daughter of a congressman slain while investigating the Peoples Temple once condoned violence but stopped the practice after more than 900 people died at the Peoples Temple's Guyana camp, says the head of a counseling center for former cult members.

Shannon Jo Ryan, daughter of the late Rep. Leo J. Ryan, said in an interview published Saturday that she is a follower of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, who is known as the "free sex guru.

Joshua Baran, director of "Sorting It Out" in Berkeley, said in a telephone interview Sunday that cult has a "history of people acting out their violence.

"It was apparently quite awful," he said, but added that former cult members, known as Sannyasians, told him the practice was discontinued after Peoples Temple leader Jim Jones led his followers in a murder-suicide ritual in 1978.

Ryan's daughter in cult of former violence

Ryan and four others had been killed hours earlier as they prepared to leave Jonestown, Guyana after a fact-finding trip.

Baran, who works with former members of a number of cults, said therapy group leaders at Rajneesh's Poona, India, retreat encouraged cult members to hit each other when they felt like being violent.

"They came under a lot of criticism for their violence. Apparently it got way out of control," Baran said.

Baran said he had heard no reports of violence since Rajneesh ordered the practice stopped in early 1979.

Miss Ryan, 28, told the Los Angeles

Times said she had "heard other peo-ple say if Bhagwan asked them to kill themselves, they would do it." However, she said she didn't believe he would ever order such a step, or tell them to kill others.

"What Jones created was a prison and what Bhagwan has created is a way out of the prison of ordinary life," she told the newspaper during a visit to her mother's Burlingame home

Rajneesh, 49, blends a number of religions, philosophies and psychological therapies in the work at his retreat, Baran said. While "a lot of people benefit from it," Baran said, others fall under the spell of his "total guru trip.'

He has outraged much of the highly puritanical Indian society with his approach.

Brewster topples in, holds cardinal position in Illinois bird lady's life

NORMAL, Iil. (AP) — Brewster sat on Terri Laub's knee as she patted and rubbed his tiny back gently with a big, fluffy powder puff. He twittered softly, hunkered down and laid back his crest.

"He usually just takes off singing when I do that," Miss Laub said of her cardinal, "but I guess all this atten-tion is too much for him."

Miss Laub, 23, has a knack for rearing baby birds that have fallen from their nests and face certain death.

CO.C.

Brewster is the third bird Miss Laub has raised to the point where it can fend for itself in a world full of prowling cats, storms and uncertain food supplies. The first two were robins.

Brewster toppled from the nest when just a few days old. When the bird's mother failed to retrieve him, said Miss Laub, she took him in. Now Brewster is about seven months old and Miss Laub thinks he's a male. But she won't know for sure unless he

A veterinarian put the baby cardi-nal on a diet of chicken mash and vitamin B drops. Brewster also eats sunflower seeds and wild bird seed. The bird has his own room in Miss Labu's apartment and bathes about three times a day in a dish of water. "Brewster was sick once," said Miss Laub. "One Sunday morning he couldn't stand up - he just flopped around. It scared me to death and I took him to Dr. Nord who discovered

Brewster goes almost everywhere with his human friend. He is never fettered, but rides quietly on Miss Laub's hand, even outside.

He also accompanies Miss Laub to the restraurant which she manages for her mother. There, Miss Laub supplies him with a bowl of popcorn while she works at her desk. He sleeps in a 7-foot potted fig tree in Miss Laub's apartment.

"I had the shower curtain closed and he just slipped right in under it and started flapping around. He real-ly seemed to enjoy it," she said. Miss Laub thinks the trick to suc-

pick them up," she said. "People give them too much attention and they die. I just left Brewster alone in a box with a soft towel in the bottom and pretty

The cardinal is the Illinois state bird and protected by law because it is a species of finch. But Miss Laub checked with authorities, who told her she was breaking no laws by taking care of a bird unable to fend for itself.

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Mount St. Helens has settled down again after surge of late-December grumbling, but scientists say they are unsure how long the hiatus in volcano activity will last.

The mountain kept volcano-watchers busy through the Christmas holidays when the lava dome corking the crater opening suddenly resumed its growth.

The growth has stopped and the mountain was seismically quiet all day Monday, said Bob Norris of the University of Washington geophysics center in Seattle.

"It means we're down to a seismically quiet period," said scientist John Dvorak.

Meanwhile, Thom Corcoran of the U.S. Forest Service reported "the typical cold weather steam plume," a burst which rose to about 1,500 feet above the crater Monday.

U.S. Geological Survey scientists said at a briefing Monday that earthquake activity, movement of the crater and gas emissions have decreased since about Jan. 4, lessening chances of a devastating eruption similar to one May 18.

The group of USGS scientists said signals and measurements from the mountain indicate a return to normal activity after December's flare up.

Scientists noted a marked increase in the growth of the north part of the crater in the middle of December. Previously the crater was expanding about a third of an inch a day, but toward the latter part of December and early January observers noted growth several times larger.

Just before Dec. 24, two small earthquakes were recorded beneath the mountain and as many as four were recorded hourly for a few days after Christmas.

Officials issued an advisory Dec. 27 that the mountain's activity was back to a potentially dangerous stage. An airborne observer spotted a new lava dome in the crater the next day.

But scientists say seismic activity has declined since then. Geologist Chris Newhall said scientists are refining their techniques of analyzing and predicting the volcano's activity.

"The fact that we predicted several eruptions during the summer was state-of-the-art," he said. But the mountain continues to present a large degree of unpredictability that has observers often guessing.

"No, we're not 100 percent on top of it," he said. "If we were 100 percent on top of it, we would be able to predict (eruptions) two weeks in ad-
