Reagan cuts government travel, spending

Reagan, saying he is redeeming his their offices pledge to force government to live within its means issued orders 15 percent cut outside consultations by 5 percent and stop busing office farniture until further notice

Reagan in a memorandum to department and agency chiefs said he was taking the actions because coping with runaway deficits in the cur rent and pending budgets is one of the most urgent tasks before us

And he told his Cabinet members to personal offices. Appointees Real change

The president said his actions will help reduce unnecessary federal today to slash government travel by spending but there was no estimate on how much will be saved

> Reagan issued the memo shortly after meeting with his economic polies group He was meeting with congressmen who head economic related committees in the afternoon

A fact sheet distributed by the White House said the travel reduction this fiscal year is directed at trips that are not essential to the perforset an example by avoiding unneces mance of agency missions. It does sary expenditures in setting up their anot apply to military station reduction also applies to manage ment and professional services and special contract studies and analyses The fact sheet said the cut was "in tended to help assure that contracts and consultants are not used to evade personnel ceilings or to carry on studies and analyses that are not essential to the performance of agency

The furniture moratorium also applies to office machines, data process ing equipment and other equipment that is not needed for the national defense or to carry out other essential

The impact of these requirements

measures will be considered over the next two months," the White House statement said

Meanwhile, Reagan is working on a 'sweeping, comprehensive, bold, farreaching economic plan" that in cludes tax and budget cuts. Budget Director designate David Stockman said vesterday

Our program will be one designed to jolt the economy." he said Wednes day. "It will be a full throttle, fouryear plan in which there will be no equivocation

Just as Reagan has telephoned sev eral foreign leaders Wednesday to establish friendly relations from the outset, aides said today's meetings with congressmen were designed for informal consultation.

Easing into his White House routine. Reagan performed a mixture of ceremonial and official duties Wednesday that ranged from clean ing house of most Carter administra tion holdovers to throwing his first White House party.

His aides, too, began unpacking in their new quarters after taking a oath of office administered by Chief Justice Warren Burger. The White House switchboard, trying to adapt to a new list of names and phone numbers, was jammed all day.

After four days of inaugural celebrations, the new president's first full day on the job began with a live rendition of "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief" by the Marine Band as Reagan entered the East Room for his staff's swearing-in.

"I want you to know that I don't expect every morning to be greeted by the Marine Band," Reagan joked. Then he turned serious, telling them their loyalty now is "only to this nation and the people we represent" and banning any discussion of political considerations in making deci-

15 Million of the South Control of the Officials seek Loop extension

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Midland County commissioners, the county judge and representatives of the Greenwood Independent School District were to argue today in Austin tor a Loop 250 North extension that would give Greenwood residents

The Midland Greenwood delegation was to appear before the Texas State. Highway and Public Transportation Commission to propose the 13 mile

The proposed extension would link Farm Road to, (Cloverdale Road) to the interstate by way of the now caliche covered strip of County Road Lie The north south CR 1130 is five miles west of the Greenwood School More than the convenience, the Loop extension would allow the school astems three buses to bapass the railroad tracks and U.S. Highway 80. which each bus now crosses four times daily. The proposed access also would provide emergency schieles with a quick route to Greenwood which is about 10 miles east of Midland

It might be a little farther to travel later on said Greenwood ISD Su perintendent James Warlick - but it might be safer Warlick said his principal concerns in getting the Loop extension are the safety of the school children and the ready access by fire sheriff constable, ambulance and other emergency services to the community

Plus," said Warlick, "with our growth as it is, it would be nice to have ready access to the city of Midland

The Greenwood community is expanding and seemingly is transform ing from a rural to an urbanized atmosphere due to the influx of Midland families moving into the Greenwood School District. The school has an enrollment in excess of 600 students from kindergarten to the 12th

Expected to appear before the commissioners were County Judge Bill Ahders, Commissioners Durward Wright, Charlie Welch, C. DeWayne Davis and Win Brown, Greenwood ISD trustee John Underwood; Fred Tyler, executive vice president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and

If the state commission agrees to extend the loop, then the Midland County commissioners would acquire the right of way land needed for the CR 1130 runs north south from about Golladay Road northward, across FM 307 beyond the interstate and U.S. 80, and then become Wallace Road until it ends at its junction with CR 60 In its westward route, CR 60 runs into the Lamesa Highway (Texas 349) At the intersection is FM 868.

The expanded and newly constructed FM 868 will form part of the link making up the proposed Loop 250, which will provide a northern route from Midland to Odessa

Upton County may host solar desalination plant

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Upton County residents may get cleaner drinking water - free - if a government project to begin there is approved as a final test site to begin operation in early 1983

Ernie Crawford, president of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, announced Wednesday the body had approved an application from Boeing Engineering and Construction Co to begin work on a solar-powered water desalting plant in Rankin

Boeing was awarded a contract by the Solar Energy Research Institute to prepare conceptual designs for a desalination system that would trans form brackish well water into potable

The contract covers phase 1 of a three-phase program sponsored jointly by the governments of Saudi Arabia and the United States and administered by SERI to advance the development of solar energy technology in the two countries. Phase 2 will involve construction of a pilot plant and phase 3 will cover pilot plant operation and training of personnel. At a cost of $25 million, a test plant totally powered by solar thermal electric power, able to produce 1.6 million gallons of purified water daily, will be designed for study by a subcontracting firm called Resources Conservation Company. RCC plans to use a reverse osmosis system that requires a minimum amount of energy for operation. It can recover up to 90 percent of brackish feed water as potable water for household and irrigation use

Some 505 glass heliostats (mirrored panels) will be erected to attract sunlight, which will then be directed to a central receiver mounted on a 1,643-foot-high tower. Air heated to 1,500 degrees farenheit in the receiver would be pressured and used to power a gas turbine-generator set used in the desalination process.

The test plant studies should be completed by August, according to Don Zimmerman, representative of the Seattle-based Boeing. A set of five test areas - three in Saudi Arabia and two in the United States - will be funded by the two governments at a total cost of $100 million. Among the five, two will later be selected for full-scale test opera-

In the Rankin-McCamey area, the test operation if approved would ac-tually be scaled down from the test plant's 1.6 million gallon produ to 100,000 gallons a day.

Clements outlines ambitious legislation for 'Superstate'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements laid out an ambitious legislative program today that he said would preserve and enhance Texas' status as a Clements indicated he might have abandoned any notion of direct tax relief in favor of applying a treasury surplus to a State Water Trust Fund.

He presented a $26.2 billion budget for the 1982-83 biennium, 18.5 percent higher than current spending but lower than the Legislative Budget Board's rec-

All he had to say about direct tax relief was, "We should continue to look for opportunities to return surplus tax dollars directly to the people of this state.

The governor's program for the 67th Legislature unemployment gave top priority to improving public education and putting the brakes on crime, particularly a drug traffic that he said exceeds $3 billion a year.

Wiretapping - unpopular with legislative committee chairmen who will say much about its fate is "right at the top of my list" of recommendations. for fighting the "horrendous drug traffic," Clements.

He said 85 percent of the Texans who responded to a statewide crime poll said they favor wiretapping. "I ask you to support it too, because I think it's high time we get serious about stopping this drug traffic. I want us to put these drug peddlers in jail and lock them up," Clements said. In the education field, he urged competency testing for new teachers, a 22 percent teacher pay raise over two years, an end to social promotions and a law permitting school districts to establish guidance centers for handling discipline problems. Nothing is more on the minds of the people of Texas than public education, particularly elementary and secondary, and there is nothing needed more in this area than a return to the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic and stronger discipline in the classrooms," Clements told the lawmak-

Clements had said in the past he was confident legislators would be able to give Texans $1 billion in tax relief if they kept spending under tight control. But his budget fell only $300 million below Comptroller Bob Bullock's revenue estimate. "He still thinks there will be $1 billion left over in the long run, but with the comptroller's estimate as it is now, that is about as far as we can go," said Jon Ford, the governor's press secretary

Clements said any revenue surplus should be returned to the taxpayers or put in a trust fund, and he said a "high priority in this regard" should be creation of a State Water Trust Fund.

The fund, first suggested by Speaker Bill Clayton, would be available in the future for major water supply projects, which Clements said could be a critical need some day.

Clements said a water trust fund would be "a form of tax relief because by putting this money in trust, we are preventing a future onerous tax burden that the state could be forced to levy as oil and gas revenues decline and our population increases.'

He reminded legislators of Texas' explosive growth, which catapulted it to the nation's third largest state, with more cities of 100,000 or more people than any other.

Business for all

With the American economy deteriorating the way it has been the past few years, it's become tougher and tougher for businesses to survive. New businesses, particularly, suffer and die

There is an organization that is on the side of new businesses. It helps educate young businessmen and businesswomen in the principles of business while they're still in high school. That, in turn, prepares them for the all important world of business they enter after graduation from high school or college.

The organization is Junior Achievement and the chapter in Midland is now holding its 1981 fund-raising campaign. The campaign began last weekend and JA officials are hoping to raise $77,-000 by Feb. 18.

Junior Achievement teaches the principles of business by allowing its young men and women to actually organize and operate their own businesses, develop production plans, manufacture goods. and sell their products to pay their expenses and realize a profit.

The method of "learning by doing" has been proven effective countless times throughout hitory; it's again proving effective in teaching the principles of business to young Junior Achievers.

But the organization of business cannot succeed without your help. Junior Achievement, in the true tradition of free enterprise, accepts neither government funding or national grants. It depends solely on its annual fund-raising drive to collect necessary capital for awards and scholarships, and to pay the JA professional staff and the electric bill.

Gary Petersen, executive director of JA, explained recently that JA is a business education institution and, therefore, chooses to be funded by people who want to perpetuate the free enterprise system

In this day and time, that is a commendable and admirable attitude.

Free enterprise has made this nation great and will keep it great. We all owe a debt of gratitude to the Junior Achievement organization. Midlanders should support the organization financially because it will benefit us all in better prepared businessmen and businesswomen in the fu-

Many Americans underpaying federal taxes

WASHINGTON - President Reagan's stated goal of meeting increased federal expenditures without raising taxes could be reached with a simple step that was strangely overlooked by the Carter administration: Give Uncle Sam's biggest moneymaker, the Internal Revenue Service, the funds it needs to collect billions of dollars of income taxes that are evaded each year.

In one rejected IRS proposal, the agency asked for 6,500 additional employees in each of the next five years, at a cost of $1.7 billion. The return on this investment was estimated at $6 billion to $7 billion.

To answer those who purport to fear "taxpayer backlash" if IRS is unleashed on the chiselers, an agency study noted that no such reaction had occurred when audit coverage had been increased in the past. Indeed the study added, a backlash could much more reasonably be expected from the perception, founded in fact. that for lack of adequate enforcement many are not paying their fair share of the tax burden.

IRS insiders told my associate Dale Van Atta that, in fact, one of the agency's biggest concerns is that the more the gap grows between what is collected and what should be, the greater temptation there will be among taxpayers to take a chance at underpaying - or even not paying at

KEEPING THE LOOT: Bernard C. Welch, the accused killer of Washington cardiologist Michael Halberstam, lived in a $235,000 house in Virginia, had a $102,000 summer home in Minnesota and was in possession of $4 million worth of stolen property - yet he has been declared indigent, and will be defended at taxpayers' expense.

Shocking as this situation is, experts say it's not unusual for crooks to keep their ill-gotten gains, even when convicted. For instance, gangsters and drug smugglers have invested heavily in banks and the government can't lay a finger on their assets. And when the Justice Department announced its intention to file civil suits to regain the thousands of dollars in bribes it paid to politicians convicted in the Abscam operation, defense lawvers howled in outrage.

It may be no coincidence that much of a criminal defendant's loot goes to his lawyers - while the victims ket vacated its training center in the Justice Department basement and moved across Pennsylvania Avenue into its own building, the bureaucrats decided to put the empty space to use for their own diversion. It's now a gymnasium where desk jockeys can go to keep their paper-shuffling muscles toned up. Other nearby agencies are allowed to use the gym, but to the Justice Department's dismay, one neighbor - the Internal Revenue Service - refuses to kick in a penny to help defray expenses. With truly Homeric hypocrisy, the IRS explains that this would be an illegal use of government funds.

At least five U.S. banks get part of frozen assets

U.S. banks have received part of the $5.1 billion in frozen Iranian assets set aside by the Algerian Central Bank for repayment of loans to Iran, bank officials say.

The banks were among about a dozen that released $5.5 billion in frozen Iranian funds early Tuesday, on cue from government officials, aspart of the hostage settlement.

Only hours after those Iranian assets were transferred to an escrow account at the Bank of England, the Algerian Central Bank set in motion the process of repaying Iran's delinquent loans to American and Europe an banks, sources said.

Bank of America, for example, which transferred about $2.8 billion of Iranian assets held at its overseas. branches, said it received payment for an estimated $100 million of the $300 million in its outstanding loans to

Of the $7.977 billion in frozen Iranian assets transferred from the Federal Reserve Bank in New York to the Bank of England, about $5.5 billion was Iranian deposits held in foreign branches of U.S. banks. The rest consisted of $940 million worth of Iranian-owned gold and $1.4 billion worth of Iranian-owned Treasury securities that had been frozen in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and about $40 million in frozen Iranian funds held by the U.S. government.

Of that nearly $8 billion, the Algerian Central Bank - which controls the escrow account - set aside $5.1 billion to pay off Iranian bank debts. It transferred the remainder, or about $2.9 billion, to Iran.

First National Bank of Chicago, which transferred $76 million in frozen Iranian assets, said that by Tuesday afternoon it had received repayment of more than half of $86 million in outstanding Iranian loans. The bank expected to receive the remaining portion by the close of business Wednesday, said Ken Arenesen, the bank's senior vice president and general counsel.

Chemical Bank began receiving repayment at its New York headquarters Wednesday of a large portion of the $150 million in its outstanding loans to Iran.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., also of New York, said it received payment Tuesday for a syndicate loan - of which $38.7 million in principle had been outstanding - that had been granted in 1976 to the National Iranian Tanker Co.

Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago has confirmed that it has received some payments on outstanding loans.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for Security Pacific National Bank said it was owed about $65 million from Iranian borrowers and had received word Wednesday that it could expect repayments within 48 hours.

In a related development Wednesday, a State Department spokesman said the Reagan administration would not commit itself to fulfilling terms of the U.S.-Iran agreement until there was a chance to examine it in detail. Afterward, some bankers said they did not see that as evidence President Reagan would repudiate

Big surge not expected in U.S.-Iranian trade

Major U.S. purchases of Iranian oil were not likely, the executives said in interviews Wednesday, But Iran probably would use independent brokers in Europe to get food, spare parts and military goods from American companies, they added.

Anti-American feeling, possible difficulties in financing sales to Iran, a continuing ban on American travel to the Persian Gulf country and Iran's war with Iraq all stand in the way of large-scale trade, they said. And federal government action also appears, for the time being at least, to be keeping commerce with Iran from

News headlines greeted events

By The Associated Press

America's newspapers greeted the twin events of Ronald Reagan's inauguration and the freeing of the hostages with an emotional outburst of headlines and color displays rarely seen in journalism.

"What A Day!" exclaimed a 2-inch headline in the Detroit Free Press on Wednesday

"Absolutely Fantastic!" said the front page of the afternoon Cleveland

A noon-hour "extra" edition on the hostages' release put out by the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle-Beacon was being sold on Wichita street corners by circulation employees and executives themselves. The headline: "Hostages Rejoice In New Freedom; Reagan Promises New Era."

Carter's Deputy Secretary of State, Warren Christopher, called for lifting the ban after the hostages were freed Tuesday. The agreement also called for submitting existing claims against Iran to an international tribu-

"It's going to take a lot to get anyone back" into Iran, said Thomas C. Reardon, a spokesman for General Telephone & Electronics Corp. The communications equipment maker had a $500 million contract with Iran on which it has been pressing a $100 million claim. At a large oil company, one highranking official said, "the curse is off on dealings with Iran if they are handled in a politically discreet man-

But the official, who asked not to be identified, added that to many Iranian officials, "we're still the demon." Until the trade cutoff, the United States depended on Iran for as much as 700,000 barrels of oil a day. The oil shipments supplied 4 percent of U.S. petroleum needs and accounted for most of Iran's $2.9 billion in exports to America in 1979.

The United States sold $4.1 billion worth of goods and services to import-hungry Iran in 1979, according to International Monetary Fund statistics. The U.S. exports included nearly $500 million in food and animal feed, plus a wide range of other civilian and military items.

Now, Iran "desperately needs parts for American equipment" used in its oil fields, its communications network and on its highways, the oil company executive said. But he said that "all we can reasonably expect to do in the short term is to have some very indirect conversations" with Iran. Industry sources said Iran now is exporting nearly 1 million 42-gallon barrels of crude oil a day - about what it was selling overseas before its war with Iraq began. The sources said war damage to Iran's refineries has forced the country to import about 250,000 barrels of petroleum products a day, probably from a refinery at the Arabian seaport city of Aden.

Hostages tell of beatings, abuse

Three Americans still being held by Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) - The negotiations leading to freedom for the 52 American hostages did not involve three U.S. citizens who are still being detained by Iran's revolutionary government, the State Department says.

The department says the three are Zia Nassry, an American of Afghan origin; Cynthia Dwyer, an Amherst, N.Y., housewife and free-lance photographer; and Mohi Sobhani, a naturalized U.S. citizen of Iranian background.

We cannot discount the possibility of others being held, particularly people of dual nationality," State Department spokesman Joseph Reap said Wednesday in reply to questions about a Jan. 14 column by Jack Anderson about Nassry.

Nassry has been in prison in Iran for 10 months. Reap said. The Swiss embassy in Tehran, acting after U.S. inquiries, verified last September that Nassry was in Evin prison, he said.

He added that the Iranians have not told the Swiss of any charges against Nassry and have not allowed the Swiss to see him. The Swiss have represented U.S. interests in Iran since relations were broken because of the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the capture of the hostages.

Anderson's column described Nassry as a New York City travel agent who told his wife, Tur, last March that he was going to Tehran to open a clinic for Afghan refugees. The column said a representative of the Swiss embassy had told Mrs. Nassry that he was charged with spying for the United favorite foods after a steady diet of rice and lamb But others had grisly stories to tell.

And Jimmy Carter, after an emotional meeting with the 50 men and two women Wednesday, said Iran had subjected the hostages to "abominable circumstances," "barbarism" and "savagery. "Our Americans in Iran were mistreated much worse than previously described," he said. As he flew back to Georgia today, Carter said that the hostages had been forced "one by one" to run a gauntlet of jeers and kicks before being permitted to board a plane for Algiers. "Even after month after month, they (the Iranians) still took pleasure in abusing them psychologi-cally, even physically," Carter said.

America awash with ribbons, flags

By SCOTT KRAFT Associated Press Writer

You could tie your yellow ribbon on it.

The buoyant displays of red, white and blue. The singing of God Bless America, the Battle Hymn of the Republic, America the Beautiful. The tears in the eyes of a seaman.

The release of the 52 Americans kindled a burst of patriotism like a thousand Fourth of July sparklers. And the sparklers haven't been doused yet.

Church bells pealed on Wednesday, sirens wailed, thousands knelt in prayer, flags were raised to full-staff and yellow ribbons were affixed to everything from coat lapels to oak trees.

They did it in Olive Branch, Miss. They did it in Lynchburg, Va. And they did it in Wiesbaden, West

They celebrated freedom.

Indiana Chief Justice Richard M. Given, wearing a ribbon on his black robe, looked out on a similarly attired crowd gathered for his "State of the Judi clary" speech and remarked: "It's good to see all the yellow ribbons and know they won't be needed any-

For more than 14 months, yellow ribbons have meant hope to Americans - hope that one day the hostages would return safely.

More than 10,000 yards of yellow ribbon streamed through city offices and police and fire stations in Lynchburg. Billboards around Albany, N.Y., carried the joyful message: "Thank God They Are Free." "The End - Freedom Day 1."

The Chamber of Commerce in Olive Branch collected yellow ribbons from the townspeople and said it planned to package the symbols of American hope and send them to Ayatollah Khomeini.

'We would just like the Ayatollah to know the support the citizens of DeSoto County have had for the hostages these many months," said Jim McAlexander, chamber president.

At St. Meinrad Archabbey in Evansville, Ind., the Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander proclaimed Sunday a statewide "Day of Praise and Thanksgiving" for the safe return of the former hostages. Doors in the Tennessee Capitol, as well as many downtown businesses, were decorated with yellow ribbons and the governor said a yellow banner will fly over the Capitol until the freed hostages

At the state Capitol in Lincoln, Neb., a tattered white flag was lowered from a pole Wednesday for the last time and Lt. Gov. Roland Luedtke said: They are free ... thank God.

The flag, a small, white cloth bearing a star, a lighted lamp and the inscription "Hold Not Our Nation Hostage," had flown just beneath the Ame, ican flag since August. It was lowered, rolled and tied with a yellow ribbon Cardinal Humberto Medeiros, Archbishop of Boston, celebrated a special Mass of thanksgiving at St. Anthony's Shrine in Boston. "Our prayers have been answered," he said. "They who were lost are restored to us.

WASHINGTON (AP) said the divorced father Parveneh Limbert, the wife of one of the 52 American former hostages, kept her Iranian descent secret throughout the 141/2-month ordeal for fear of reprisals against her relatives still in Iran, according to a published report. in Thursday's editions,

Is it calamity or opportunity?

S He was leaving the Temple that day, one of His disciples said, "Teacher, what beautiful buildings these are! Look at the decorated stonework on the walls."

Jesus replied, "Yes, look! For not one stone will be left upon another, except as ruins."

And as He sat on the slopes of the Mount of Olives across the valley from Jerusalem, Peter, James, John, and Andrew got alone with Him and asked Him, "Just when is all this going to happen to the Temple? Will there be some warning ahead of time?"

So Jesus launched into an extended reply. "Don't let anyone mislead you." He said.

"For many will come declaring themselves to be your Messiah, and will lead many astray.

And wars will break out near and far, but this is not the signal of the end-time

For nations and kingdoms will proclaim war against each other, and there will be earthquakes in many lands, and famines. These herald only the early stages of the anguish ahead.

But when these things begin to happen, watch out! For you will be in great danger. You will be dragged before the courts, and beaten in the synagogues, and accused before governors and kings of being My followers. This is your opportunity to tell them the Good News.

And the Good News must first be made known in every nation before the end-time finally comes:

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - When the state trooper spotted the red-and-white Thunderbird speeding along U.S. 84 south of Lubbock that stormy night last October, he gave chase, overtaking the car and its four occupants near the exit to downtown Sla-

It was there, near midnight, that a police officer found Trooper Jerry Don Davis dead in his patrol car, shot in the head. Davis was 26, a Department of Public Safety officer less than two years.

The shooting set in motion a chain of events that investigators said included a manhunt, a suicide and an aborted jail break.

Wednesday, testimony began in the capital murder trial of a 21-year-old unemployed Lorenzo man named Billy Wayne Alexander.

Judge Robert Wright of Lubbock, who is presiding, transferred the widely publicized case to state District Court in Abilene on a change of venue. Alexander, in his own words, is "scared to Texas law enforcement officers call the killing an

The bottom line is whether Billy Wayne gets the death penalty or not," said one officer, who did not want to be identified. "That's what everybody's fighting about.

Most of the "fighting" will be done by Lubbock District Attorney John Montford, the prosecutor, and Floyd Holder, the defense lawyer. The court well knows we plan to ask for the death penalty," Montford said. "Examine the facts of the case and you'll see why Montford's chief aide, Hal Hensley, said his 37year-old boss decided at the outset to try the case

"He was outraged," Hensley said. "A lot of people were outraged. Any homicide is bad, and important, but there is something particularly repugnant about

Montford has never lost a case as a prosecutor. Holder, a 46-year-old former Army intelligence officer, says me likes to represent murder defen-

'They're your better class of criminals...at least from my point of view," he said with a smile.

Talking with the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, Holder said:

"If you can't do anything else but get jurors to think of the defendant as a human being then you've really cut down on the price he's going to have to pay society - because they go in there thinking he's an animal.

If the choice is the death penalty or life in prison, then you try to show the jurors why the choice should be life rather than death. In most cases, all you're doing is haggling about the price.

Holder concedes the evidence against Alexander is "overwhelming.

Searching the slain trooper's patrol car, investigators allegedly recovered four identification cards and a speeding ticket Davis issued to Alexander.

They said Alexander's driver license was found in the patrolman's hand. Investigators maintain Davis was killed with a 357-caliber Magnum he had confiscated from Alexander's car only minutes earlier.

One occupant of the Thunderbird later testified at a bond hearing that he heard gunfire moments before Alexander emerged from the patrol car. "I just shot that (expletive) cop!" he quoted Alexander

Council finds fun way to raise funds

By JULIE GUYTON, VICKI MADDEN and KATHY WOOD

This week has been a very busy week for the Bulldogs. While most students were recovering from the shock of their final exam grades, a select group of senior girls were beginning to fret over Catoico nominations which were held Tuesday in an allschool assembly. The seven most-voted-for girls will be selected for the court. Good luck, girls.

The Student Council is planning a fun way to raise money soon. If any student has a large lawnmower or a small tractor mower and would not mind if the SC borrowed it, come by the office and speak to Mr. Hixon about it. He will fill you in on the details of the

The Super Bulldog Basketball team played the Abilene Eagles Tuesday night. As usual Herbert 'Ice Man" Johnson and Don "Feet" Scharnowski played well. Rasco's News: There was a joint Junior Council and 100 Club meeting this morning at the Youth Center. All of you who were supposed to be there, beware. Be sure to talk to Rasco about your absence.

This year's workers have been doing a fairly good job of staying on schedule. Please be sure to show up for the duties you have agreed to perform.

At this time we would like to take a few moments and silently remember our gratitude for the release of the Americans in Iran. And it is our sincere hope that similar situations will be avoided in the future.

How did television cover the release of the hostages? In heavy detail, minute by minute. But on Monday, while the world waited to be told whether the 52 really would be freed, when word finally came there was a little snag ....

> By Scott Lebar Hearst Special News Service

Sometime during television's long hostage watch, it would not have been inappropriate on Sunday for the networks to have flashed on the screen:

"Due to technical difficulties beyond our control, we cannot bring you the conclusion of the hostage story. No adjustment to your set is necessary.'

The networks did everything but that. It was the day of the big wait, where no news was the news. It was almost inevitable. The subtleties, slow pace and technicalities of international diplomacy do not mix with the lightning-fast capabilities of television news. It comes in tiny pieces that eventually lead to a big story but are not really stories by themselves. But television thoroughly covered it anyway -

In a way, that was a letdown. Once the Iranians broadcast a message heard on television sets around the world that an agreement had been struck, it set a mood for quick resolution to the crisis, a mood that the laborious diplomatic crossing of "t's" and dotting of "i's" simply could not keep pace with.

Ex-employee convicted in movie studio swindle

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A former Paramount Pictures employee convicted of swindling the film studio out of $495,000 has been sentenced to four years in state prison.

Freeman G. Packard Jr., 38, who was found guilty of grand theft after a non-jury trial last September, was sentenced Wednesday by Superior Judge Gordon Ringer.

Packard was arrested in December 1979 on charges that he bilked Paramount out of $495,000 by forming a fictitious company, called "Scripts Unlimited," for photocopying television scripts.

While working as a production coordinator at the studio, Packard billed Paramount for copying scripts used by the casts of several shows, including "Laverne and Shirley" and "Happy Days," according to court records.

But Paramount officials testified that Packard was not authorized to order the script copy and that his firm never did any of the copying that was billed

Investigators said Packard successfully operated the scheme for more than four years before being

Packard was fired from his job Nov. 29, 1978.

Throughout what is usually a slow news day, a day usually reserved for the fantasy thrills and chills of network sports, viewers were bombarded by minute-by-minute coverage of an event that, officially, had not occurred.

They watched the reactions of families of hostages to the news that Iran had agreed to release the 52 hostages, although it actually had not done so.

Through the early afternoon, viewers listened to the plans for the historical 4 p.m. announcement. It wasn't until 4: 15 that NBC, and then ABC, said it had

Then ABC viewers heard Sam Donaldson conclude, "So it appears to be done," to audible cheers of the ABC studio staff, who were either rooting for the statement or for Bjorn Borg's fine backhand in a tennis match they may have been watching on

Meanwhile, CBS waited until 4:30 to say that the 4 p.m. announcement had not occurred and that they would be back with more hostage related infor-

At 5:45, the message from CBS was, "It is on hold." At 6 p.m., Robert Pierpoint uttered it could be "at any moment.

In what may be the understatement of the day, NBC said the only problems "were a little bit of

The story of the agreement was related with maps, figures and a plethora of State Department and Administration officials saying there were no new developments. In the picture business of television, diplomacy is hard to sell. So they began the next series of stories. CBS News with Charles Osgood devoted about 21 minutes to the hostages - where they would go, what they would eat, how their families were reacting, how President-elect Ronald Reagan was reacting. ABC News with Donaldson devoted about 15 minutes to similar material. Once the networks got into prime time, the frequent interruptions stopped.

And when the announcement of a formal agreement finally came at 4 a.m. Monday, many local stations across the nation were off the air. Oops.

'What's good for country' only consideration: Reagan

Hearst News Service

Washington - Presilent Reagan pledged to this nation and the Wednesday that the White House staff will make decisions affecting the nation based on a doctrine of "what's good for the country" and operate as if there were no next election.

'Their and my loyalties will be to the nation and the people we represent," Reagan declared forcefully at an early morning swearing in ceremony for 38 of his closest aides

"They (decisions) will be made as if there were no next election and if none will be seeking a public office ever the President

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Warren Berger as the first order of White House business as Reagan watched The President appeared slightly tired after the hectic day of inaugural activities Tuesday that kept him up until way past midnight. But he was in a good mood.

Following the ceremony. Reagan held his first official Oval office cabinet meeting and lunched with his top White House aides Chief of Staff James Baker III: Counsellor Edwin Meese III and Deputy Chief of Staff Michael K. Deaver.

The President, who entered the East Room as the Marine Band played 'Hail to the Chief' made light of the reception, joking that he doesn't expect to be greeted "every morning at breakfast' by the band.

He said that looking at the men and women about to be sworn-in he saw many faces of people who had served with him during his California days when he was governor and the 1976 and the 1980 presidential campaigns

'We're a team now and will act as a team.

Reagan recalled that during his political career he had learned "the alty" and of "the great capacity of these men

Trustees want to move Cowboy Hall of Fame

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center trustees in at least five states have made overtures to officials of the Oklahoma City showpiece requesting that the center be relocated

The director of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame, who last week complained to the City Council about commercial encroachment in the museum's area, said Tuesday a study will be made about moving the hall.

Dean Krakel said trustees would meet Saturday in Denver to appoint a committee to study problems here "and we'll know then where we

Krakel, in an emotional talk before the council last week, accused it of failing to adhere to a 1969 study that recommended that the museum area in the city's northeast quadrant be protected from commercial encorachment.

He said at that time if it were within his power, he would move the museum from Oklahoma City.

The board is expected to form a committee to review proposals by trustees in Texas, Colorado, California, Oregon and Wyoming who have requested that the $40 million facility be relocated in one of their states. Krakel and other officials said.

pays off, especially if you've invested in quality to begin with, says Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist.

Ms. Vanderpoorten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Here are her "just-a-minute" shoe care guidelines:

After each wearing brush or wipe shoes with a clean cloth to remove soil. Dust or grit left on shoes, especially leather ones, works its way into the finish, dulling and marring it.

Polish shoes after every five or six wearings to keep the color rich and the leather supple. Use a matching color or a neutral polish and buff to get a good shine

Insert shoe trees into shoes to prevent toes from durling and wrinkling - and to allow free air circulation. For boots, use boot trees or rolled award sponsored by the Uptown Chapter, B&PW CLub. They include, continuing from left, Lana Cunningham, Katie Dennedy, Angelia Thomason and Betty Laxson. Winner of the YCW honor will be announced during a reception and dinner tonight at Ranchland Hills Country Club. (Staff photo)

'Career Woman' award to be conferred tonight

The 'Young Career Woman' (YCW) honor will be awarded by the Midland Uptown Chapter of Business and Professional Women's Club during a reception and dinner from 6.30 to 9 tonight at Ranchland Hills Coun-

There are four nominees for the award which is open to any woman between 21-30 years of age and who is active in business or the professions.

The program is an annual B&PW event designed to recognize successful young business women. According to Karen Clark Nickel, chapter president, B&PW regards the YCW candidates as leaders for the advancement of women in business.

"The attitudes and actions of our young women," she says, "will ultimately determine the future achievement levels for women in business, ir. government, and in fact, in all aspects of our society." Ms. Niekel added that through the YCW program the community is afforded an opportunity to hear opinions and problems facing the young business woman today

Selection of the YCW recipient is based on resume, personal interview, a three-minute prepared speech on any topic and on the evaluation of roundtable discussion among the candidates.

Lana Cunningham is one of the fournominees vying for the award. Ms. Cunningham, a graduate of New Mexico State University, is assistant city editor with The Midland Reporter

Since 1976, she has won numerous journalism awards, including first place honors from the Texas Press Women's contest for interview, government political writing and interpretive series, as well as many other categories. In all, she has seven first-place awards and five secondplace awards in TPW. She also has ar. honorable mention award from the National Federation of Press Women and awards from Associated Press

Managing Editors. In addition to Ms. Cunningham's writing and reporting awards, she has been active in such community projects as publicity chairman for plays sponsored by the Midland Community Theatre

Katie Dennedy, another nominee, is a systems engineer with IBM, where she is responsible for computer and software installation, application consulting and technical assistance She graduated with honors from the University of New Mexico and holds a charge of departmental advertising BBA with concentration in management information systems.

Ms. Dennedy was recently named to attend an Achievement Confer ence, an honor for excellence and the highest award given to a systems engineer within the IBM Corporation. For a second year, she also won "Eagle Money," a cash incentive, award given for outstanding achievement in her job.

She is a member and past president of Alpha Iota Delta, an organization for both the honorary and the decision sciences field. Currently, she serves on the board of directors of Uptown B&PW Club and as NIKE chairman, a program aimed at helping high school students obtain career information.

Betty Laxson, candidate, combines career and family, and states that she is dedicated to work for the improvement of the status of working

She is the general merchandise manager at Furr's Family Center No. 29, and she is supervisor of H employ ees in her division. She is responsible for the operation of departments such as guns, softgoods, cameras, beauty aide, housewares, retail drugs and sporting goods. In addition, she is it.

and FDA gun regulation reports.

Since her employment with Furr's over five years ago, Ms. Laxson has won first place awards in various sales contests such as the Coty-Price Matchabelli contest fo marketing She has completed numerous sales and marketing training programs and is a B&PW member. Currently, Ms. Laxson is the only woman holding a general merchandising position within her company, and she is cited as the only woman to ever achieve Angelia Thomason, another B&PW member and YCW nominee, is a professional employment consultant with 'The Desk Top." She holds certification rating from the National Association of Certified Personnel Consultants and is also a member of the Texas Association of CPC's

Ms. Thomason has completed spe cialized studies in the areas of "Oil and Gas Law," Permian Basin Graduate Center and IBM MagCard II Training School in Shreveport, La.

She has also attended sales and working relationship seminars, and a Success Seminar for Women in Business." During a seminar sponsored by the Future Secretaries Association, she addressed women on the subject of job interviews, 'Control and confidence, continuing education and personal drive" are major factors toward career success in the competitive field of personnel consulting, according to Ms. Thomason. She has been guest speaker on. the subject of interviewing for em ployment to vocational classes at Midland High School.

The local YCW winner will represent Midland at a district contest, and district winners will compete during a state convention in June. State winners go on to a national convention ir. July. Last year, Midland's Sandra Waisley, geologist with Exxon, won first runner-up at Texas' Young Career Woman.

During local competition tonight, three judges will select a Midland representative. Judges include Je-Braden, co-owner of Adobe Inc. Realty: Florence Hughes, geologist and executive with Sipes, Williamson and Associates Inc.; and Joe Kloesel, president of Drilco Industrial, A complimentary cocktail hour is sponsored by Energy Temps and by Explora tions Graphics.

A nosy neighbor, seeing the cars. came over to see who was there. ("I thought you might be having a party.") Noticing a pot of mums that obviously came from a florist, she asked, "Who sent the flowers?"

Pretending I hadn't heard, I turned to the lady beside me on the sofa and made some random remark. In a few moments, Curious Kitty asked again. Who sent the flowers?" I studied the flowers, smiled and said, "Lovely, aren't they?

As the unplanned gathering was breaking up, this same lady said. "I asked you three times who sent the flowers." I interrupted with, "And I never once answered, did I?

SOUTHERN BISCUITS

- 2 cups sifted flour 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt 1/3 cup shortening
- 3/4 cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening finely. Stir in milk just until blended.

Turn out on lightly floured pastry board and knead lightly (about 30 seconds). Roll 1/2 inch thick. Cut into biscuits. Re-roll scraps and recut. Bake with sides touching at 400 degrees for 10-15 minutes.

Richard Triplitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Triplitt, Rt. 2, is 12 years old. He has been a member of 4-H for three years and a participant in the foods and nutrition project for two years.

His entry, Almond Pinecones, was in the snacks and beverages category

ALMOND PINECONES

- 1.1/4 cups whole almonds
- 1 (8 oz.) package cream cheese 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 5 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled
- 1 tablespoon chopped green onion 1/2 teaspoon dill weed
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper

Spread almonds in a single layer in shallow pan. Bake at 300 degrees, 15 minutes, stirring often, until almonds just begin to turn color.

Combine softened cream cheese and mayonnaise, mix well. Add bacon, onion, dill and pepper; mix well. Coer; chill overnight. Form cheese mixture into shapes of two pinecones on serving platter. Beginning at narrow end, press almonds at slight angle into cheese mixture in rows. Continue overlapping rows until all cheese is covered. Garnish with artificial pine springs. Serve with crackers.

Stacey Hillis, daughter of Mrs. Sharon Hillis, 3225 W. Golf Course Road, is 12 years old. She is a fouryear member of 4-H and also a four-year veteran of the foods and nutrition project. Her entry, in the main dishes category, was Imperial Chicken.

IMPERIAL CHICKEN

- 6 medium large chicken breasts, skin removed
- 1 stick butter I clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups prepared herb seasoned bread crumbs 1/3 cup Parmesan cheese, grated
- 1/2 cup dried parsley, flaked
- 1 cup Swiss cheese, grated
- Melt 1 stick butter with minced garlic and let stand.

Mix bread crumbs, Parmesan cheese, Swiss cheese, dried parsley, black pepper, cayenne pepper and salt together, mixing well.

Dip chicken breasts into butter, then into crumb

Arrange on a baking dish lined with foil, so that chicken doesn't touch.

Saute two cups mushrooms in remaining butter. adding 1/2 cup semi-dry white wine, 1/2 teaspoon sugar and 1 teaspoon Cavender's Greek Seasoning. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

Prepare one 6 oz. box long grain rice and wild rice according to directions. Add 2 cups sauteed fresh mushrooms and liquid and 1/4 cup semi-dry white wine during last 5 minutes of cooking time of rice.

To serve, place cooked chicken pieces over bed of rice and mushrooms on serving dish of your choice.

Garnish with your favorite garnishes. Serves 6. Bread crumb mixture may be frozen and kept for 3

If you rinse the bowls in cold water, quickly wash them in warm suds, rinse again in cold water and thoroughly dry the surface, you're on the right track.

After letting them sit a spell to make sure they are dry, rub them with warm olive oil and let them again sit overnight. The thinner the oil, the better it will penetrate. The next day, wipe off any excess oil with a clean, soft cloth.

Perhaps your problem stems from letting the salad and dressing stay in the bowl for too long a period of time.

If you must mix your salad ahead of time, line the bowl with a sheet of plastic wrap, and don't pour the dressing on until the last minute - especially if you're using vinegar and oil.

Same goes when cleaning up after the meal rinse those bowls out pronto. Don't leave them piled up with the rest of the dishes you plan to do later.

Dear Heloise: When newborn infants get stuffy noses and can't turn themselves over to help them breathe, do what the hospital nurserv does.

Lower one end of the crib a notch or two, allowing the baby's head to be slightly higher than his or her feet. This helps the mucus to drain, thus giving the baby a more restful sleep.

What's cooking?

Janice Waters

Preparing a meal for one person can be tedious. Most recipes serve at least four persons, and converting them to serve one is not always possible. As a result, many single persons are often forced to eat at restaurants or eat lots of sandwiches and TV dinners.

Janice Waters, who works as an accountant for Texaco in their Midland comptroller's office, has a recipe for "Tater Tot Casserole" that is easy and fast and is a great way for a single, working person to enjoy a home-cooked meal. It is also economical.

The thing I really like about this recipe is that it's a whole meal in one dish," she explained. Janice says that all you really need to go with it is a

Although the recipe makes enough to serve several persons, she says that it freezes well. It may be frozen in individual servings and warmed

Janice, who is originally from Austin, is a graduate of Lubbock Christian College. She came to Midland eight months ago to work for Texaco. Her hobbies include snow skiing, reading and cooking.

TATER TOT CASSEROLE

- 1-pound ground beef
- 1 can cheddar cheese soup I can French style green beans
- 1 bag tater tots (1 pound)

Brown meat with salt, pepper and minced onion in skillet. Put drained meat on bottom of easserole dish. Put green bean and soup on top of meat and top with tater tots. Bake uncovered in 450 F, oven for 15 minutes, then cook for 10 minutes on broil for crisp tater tots.

SUNSET'S FREEZER FRENCH TOAST

Thick slices of French bread soak up an egg-nutmeg batter before they're frozen for a convenient freez er-to-oven-to-table entree. You bake (without thawing) as many slices as you want. Serve topped with powdered sugar, honey or syrup.

- I cup milk 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- teaspoon ground nutmeg 8 slices day-old French
- bread, cut 3, inch thick Butter or margarine, melted

In a medium-size bowl, beat togeth er eggs, milk, sugar, vanilla and nutmeg. Place bread slices on a rimmed baking sheet. Pour egg mixture over bread and let stand for a few minutes. Turn slices over and let stand until all the egg mixture is absorbed. Freeze, uncovered, until firm; then package airtight and return to freezer. To serve, place desired number of frozen slices on a lightly greased baking sheet. Brush each slice with melted butter. Bake in a 500-degree oven for 8 minutes. Turn slices over, brush with melted butter; bake an addition al 10 minutes or until nicely browned. Makes 4 servings of 2 slices each. # Good cooks are not always found in fancy restaurants

By MERLE ELLIS

Some of the best cooks in this country are not to be found in the kitchens of fancy restaurants or teaching gourmet cooking classes in gourmet cookware stores. Most of them have never written a cookbook - and almost everybody has written a cookbook. Some of the best cooks are to be found feeding their families good, simple food mixed with lots of love and prepared with imagination in simple country kitchens. Most of them don't even own a copper pot.

New Orleans is one of the few really great food cities in this country. We ate at least five meals a day each of the 10 days we were there and never had a bad one. It must be against the law to be a bad cook in New Orleans.

One of the great cuisines in that part of the country is called "Cajun" - and one of the best-known and respected of the Cajun cooks in New Orleans in Paul Prudhomme, formerly the chef at a famous restaurant there called "Con mander's Palace." I had seen Paul on several national TV programs and read about him in countless food magazines, so quite naturally, he was the man I sought to learn a little about Cajun cooking.

We found him in the French Quarter now the proud owner/chef of his own Cajun restaurant, 'Kay-Paul's." He fixed us a marvelous lunch and we sat for a while talking at all Cajun food.

'Cajun cooking is country cooking and you really can't get at the essence of it in a restaurant. If you want to meet a really good Cajun cook, let me take you up to were I come from to meet my sister-in-law. Odelia Prudhomme. She's the best Cajun cook

Dear Dr. Solomon: My daughter tipped over a pot of boiling water, causing what the doctor described as second-degree burns on her forearm. Although this is not the most prominent part of the body, I'm concerned about the possibility of scarring. Would you please tell me what "second degree" means in regard to burns? I would also appreciate some general information about burns and their possible complications-Mrs. T.P.

Dear Mrs. P: Burns are not an uncommon injury. It is estimated that 100,000 Americans will have to be hospitalized because of burns this year, and almost 15,000 will die.

Burns usually are classified in order of increasing severity as first degree, second degree, and third degree. A first-degree burn, which is the least serious, causes a reddening of the skin. While it often is painful - as, for example, with a bad sunburn - it does not pose a threat to life.

A second-degree burn, such as your daughter has, destroys the top layers of the skin and results in blistering. If it is a deep burn, it could cause scarring and may require grafting. Why some patients scar easily and others do not has still not been

In a third-degree burn, the most serious, all layers of the skin are destroyed, and grafting becomes necessary because there are no skin cells left to reproduce themselves. In addition, since all layers of the skin are gone, there is a significant danger of infection and a threat to life.

The seriousness of a burn also is related to its extent. Second and third-degree burns are considered serious when they involve more than 20 percent of the body; they become critical when they involve 30 percent of the body. As with some other life-threatening situations, very young and very old patients are even more at risk.

The reason burns are so important from a medical standpoint is that the skin is considered to be our largest organ. When it is destroyed, we become susceptible to fluid loss, infection, and uncontrolled temperature extremes.

A great deal of progress has been made in the treatment of burn patients in recent years, including the development of new methods for skin grafting and for maintaining the patient's nutritional health. Some researchers are now trying to produce an artificial skin that would be appropriate for grafting. while others are exploring the possibility of growing skin in the laboratory, using the patient's own skin cells.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Should a child who has eczema receive measles vaccine? I realize now important it is for all chilren to get thier shots, but I would not want to aggravate an existing condition. What would you suggest?-Mrs. D.F.

Dear Mrs. F.: Measles vaccine should not be withheld from a child simply because he or she has eczema. There is a greater danger of the child getting measles than of having the eczema aggra-

Senator takes all he can get

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A newly elected state senator says he doesn't balk at accepting campaign contributions from business intersts - as a matter of fact, the large donations make him "proud.

Sen. Dee Travis, R-Garland, received $102,623 from 51 business political action committee for his race against pro-consumer Democrat Ron Clower The business donations made up 53.1 percent of Travis' campaign war chest, a total of $192,000.

"I was strongly supported by business political organizations because of positions I have already taken in the campaign, and not for positions they (the groups) hope I will take in the future." Travis told a Tuesday news conference. He said he had "no problem at all" accepting contributions from business groups, and added that he was "proud to get so much my first time He called the conference to respond to remarks

Texas Consumer Association President Jim Hightower made last week.

Noting that Travis' campaign got donations ranging from $500 to $15,000 - and collected more business money than anyone else - Hightower said that $500 is "enough to get (a lobbyist) in the door, and $15,000 kicks the door in.

Travis said the statement "bordered on slander. and added:

"No one has to pay me (to work for business). I'd do it for free.

"I said during the campaign that I am pro-business and anti-consumer, and the fac: that I got the support I did should surprise no one. Nobody has bought and paid for this seat." he said.

Travis, a businessman and long-time aide to Republican U.S. Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas, said he thinks that "the interests of conservative politics and pro-business politics will succeed in this session.

"I plan to support efforts to weaker the Deceptive Trade Practices Act," Travis said. "I feel it has been detrimental to business, particularly in my area. He said that the consumers could best be protected by the "workings of the free enterprise system.

"I think 1981 will usher into Texas conservative, pro-business politics. The era of consumer, Ralph Nader kind of thing has passed us by - and that's the greatest thing that could happen to Texas," Travis said.

East Texans reject Cubans

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) - Pressure from local and state officals may have derailed a plan to resettle Cuban refugees in East Texas, says the personnel manager of a religious organization in-volved in relocation efforts.

"It appears we just don't have the community support down there," Stevie Shaw of World Relief International said Tuesday.

The evangelical organization, based in Wheaton, Ill., has been active in helping Cuban refugees resettle, but Mrs. Shaw said it is "rather doubtful" that relocation efforts will continue in East Texas.

"It doesn't look as though we will be locating in Texas, either, due to the response we have received," she said.

She said the international evangelical group is still taking applications for possible East Texas resettle-ment, but she added that prospects for moving any of the 5,800 refugees from Fort Chaffee to Texas appear dim.

DALLAS (AP) - Claiming its commercial image was being done irreparable harm, Dr Pepper Co. has filed a federal court suit here, claiming Sambo's restaurants and a public relations firm infringed on its "Be a Pepper" jingle. The suit seeks an injunction against Sambo's and Bozell & Jacobs International Inc. to force them to stop the alleged In the suit, Dr Pepper claims that Sambo's broad-

The commercial, Dr Pepper contends, was designed to attract senior citizens into Sambo's restaurants and uses a jingle substantially similar to Dr Pepper's jingle.

The jingle contains the phrase. "Den't you want to be a senior, too" and the music and dancing are similar to the Dr Pepper commercial, the suit says.

The suit asks that all copies of the commercials be impounded, but left it to the court to decide the amount of damages.

State officials still searching for prison site

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - State officials whose prison site search has been stymied for three years will not know until Friday whether their latest attempt will be stopped by a judge.

State District Judge Pete Lowry, who listened to two days of testimony, said Tuesday he would rule at the end of the week in a suit filed by 10 Grimes County residents who don't want a prison in their community.

Prison officials agreed in court Tuesday not to purchase the land until Lowry's ruling.

The plaintiffs' suit claims the state violated the Open Meetings Act in approving the $6.7 million for 5,968 acres near Navasota.

They also claimed the prison would have a detrimental effect on nearby property.

Roy Weaver, calling himself the largest queen bee producer in the world, said pesticides used on cotton at the prison "kills our bees.

Weaver owns an apiary his grandparents started in 1888. Some of the bees are housed about two miles from the proposed prison site.

The plaintiffs complained their views were never heard before the decision to buy the land was made. Weaver said a meeting called by prison officials to talk with Grimes County residents was not set up to hear "input from us as to our views." Charles Coates, former chairman of the State Board of Control, complained about the lack of notice of meetings concerning the selection of the site. Coates lives in Grimes County. Attorney Karl Hoppess, represening the plaintiffs, said the Board of Corrections made its decision in an executive session in November.

Hoppess also questioned the Approval Board system, which gives the governor, the land commissioner and the chairman of the prison board the last word on site selection.

The board was set up by the Legislature. Hoppess said its decisions are made on the basis of public opinion. He said board members' biggest con-What is going to be the political ramifica tion of this?" Assistant Attorney General Jerry Cain, represent

The Grimes County site was the third selected in prison officials' long search for a new prison for the overcrowded system. An Edinburg farm selected in 1977 fell to an attorney general's opinion. A Starr County site picked last year was abandoned because of overwhelming local sentiment against the

Dallas airline bucks trend

DALLAS (AP) - Southwest Airlines, breaking from the trend, has announced record earnings for 1980, including the last quarter of the fiscal year. Net income for the airline was $28,117,000 during the year, a 71 percent increase over 1979. Earnings per share increased 61 percent, from $2.17 to $1.06. Two other Dallas-based airlines, Braniff International and American, have announced they expect to end 1980 with operating losses of several million dollars.

Total revenues for Soutwest for 1080 were up 57 percent, while operating income rose 68 percent. Net income increased 32 percent for the three months ended Dec. 31, and earnings per share were

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Beautiful young Prin-cess Caroline of Monaco shares this birthday with you. In the year ahead, travel will be a dominant force in your efforts to increase your income and find greater contentment. Change of residence could be a sign that you are now ready to adopt an entirely new lifestyle! You are able to strengthen existing personal relationships while developing several new ones. Be sure to keep in touch with older family members. Financial outlook is brighter, yet savings may still be difficult to accumulate. Consult the experts regarding an unusual business venture. Now may be the time to bail out of an unrewarding romance.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may want to say goodbye to a certain way of life now and begin a new journey. Loved one's actions help to make your decision an easy one. Talk things out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Optimism helps you to move ahead even when the going gets tough. Others admire your attitude. Gossip could upset important plans. It is best to keep what you Don't regard those players to your right and left as your enemies. On occasion, you might have to call on them for assistance and it is surprising how often they will be forced to oblige! Consider this hand.

We do not like North's decision to make a positive response to his partner's demand opening bid. Even though he had the required 7 points and one quick trick. his suit was shabby and his singleton in partner's suit was reason for caution. South, too, might have taken a quieter approach by bidding only five spades at his third turn but it is difficult to fault him once he had received a positive response. West led the king of hearts and dummy was somewhat of a disappointment. Declarer had at least-one spade loser. Therefore, it seemed that he would have to rely on the club finesse to make his slam. One glance at the layout reveals that this would have failed and the slam would have been defeated. Declarer unearthed a line that improved his chances enormously. Instead of winning the ace of hearts and discarding a club from his hand, he played low from dummy and ruffed.

Next came the ace and king of spades and declarer heaved a sigh of relief when both defenders followed.

The ace and king of diamonds were now cashed. With the stage set, declarer led a trump, discarding a heart from dummy. When it turned out that West held the last trump, declarer could claim his contract.

If West exited with a red suit, he would permit declarer to get two club discards on the ace of hearts and queen of diamonds. A club lead would prove equally suicidal: declarer would play dummy's ten and, whether or not East could cover, declarer would be assured of an entry to dummy to discard his remaining low club.

What if East won the third spade? Declarer would be no worse off than if he had taken the club finesse early. East's only safe return would be a club and declarer would let that run. Observe that the crucial maneuver in this whole plan was the holdup of the ace of hearts at trick one.

Definite case of hijacking

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) - Maybe this is a case for the FBI or the Interstate Commerce Commission I'm not sure, but I've got to report a hijacking

A state senator from Monmouth County down on the Jersey shore is trying to hijack bocce (sometimes spelled boccie) as the official State Game of New Jersey, which is like naming lasagna the national dish of Afghanistan.

Now everybody knows that bocce is a New York game, and the most popular game in New Jersey is collecting tolls or perhaps swatting mosquitoes. It used to be rolling wicker chairs along the boardwalk in Atlantic City, but now the crap shooters have moved the action indoors.

Anyhow Sen. Eugene Bedell of Keansburg, who is of Irish ancestry and probably wouldn't know a bocce ball from a Kerr's Pink Irish potato, has introduced Senate Bill 1573 to make bocce the official State Game of New Jersey. But I understand the real hotbed of the conspiracy is located in Asbury Park, which has had itself designated Bocce Capital of New Jersey by the Legislature and boasts the state's honorary bocce commissioner, Anthony "Putt-Putt" Petillo, a city policeman who got his nickname from his motorcyčle.

The smart talk around Trenton is that if the Bedell bill passes both houses, it will be signed into law by Gov. Brendan Byrne, another Irishman, which will be the greatest piracy perpetrated against neighboring New York since the hijacking of the football day Giants to the Meadowlands.

Bocce was brought to America by Italian immigrants settling in New York's Greenwich Village just politan statistical ty urban area, encomafter the American Revolution. It may have looked areas," Clements office passing McAllen, Pharr suspiciously like the game Peter Stuyvesant's good burghers played on Bowling Green in their wooden shoes, back when the town was called Nieu Amsterdam, but that is just proof of an earlier hijacking.

Now bocce may be big along the boardwalk in Asbury Park. It may even have its followers in Secaucus, Camden, Newark and the more recherche sections of Jersey like Linden and Bayonne. where they go to have something to do besides making gin and unloading crude. But it is a way of life in Astoria, Corona, Greenpoint, Massapequa, Buffalo, Utica and similar New York enclaves of genuine Italian-American culture where Jersey is regarded as a state you drive through to get somewhere else. The trouble with the George Washington bridge is that it doesn't really go any place, unlike the Manhattan bridge which has bocce courts under

I may have to buck this hijacking complaint up to the Unione Federazioni Italiana Bocce, founded ip Turin in 1898 to settle bocce arguments, which has got to make it the busiest deliberative body either side of Glasgow night court.

In keeping with the game's edifying history, Petillo is hereby advised that it is going to take a miracle and then some to swipe the grand old game away from the Empire State.

'Uncle Sam' addresses Downtown Lions Club

By RICHARD ORR Staff Writer

"There are inequities, but the majority of them lie in people — not the system," Sam Dunlap, alias "Uncle Sam," told some 150 members of the Downtown Lions Club during a luncheon meeting in Midland Center Wednes-

Dressed in red, white and blue, the 51-year-old former manager of the city of Midland employees' credit union spoke at length on the beauty, promise and past glory of America.

"The timing couldn't be any better," he noted in reference to the re-lease of the hostages in Iran and Ronald Reagan's ascent to the presidency. "I'm thankful and prayerful that this occurred.

"I hope and pray the new administration stands stronger, as it must if we are to remain a free people. The eyes of the world are looking at us. It wouldn't make me unhappy if 99 percent of the Iranian students in this country were sent

"And I'm not looking forward to masses of Cuban refugees coming here — without knowing what kind of people they are. I don't know if it's good for the country. We need to be more careful in the future than we have in the past.'

Dunlap, who used to be the city manager of Morton, founded a one man organization in 1970 to promote Americanism at various schools and civic functions across the Southwest.

He ran it full time until the end of 1976, using funds provided by private foundations and individual contributors.

Since disbanding the organization ("Uncle Sam In Action"), he speaks to students and civic organizations when time permits and without charge. He is also writing a book he hopes will eventually be incorporated into public school systems across the country.

He told Lions Wednesday that he favors reinstatement of the draft "so this nation can become strong again. Freedom is not free. I wish it. otherwise, but men have had to die to preserve it. A strong defense will actually save lives."

Dunlap said the John Birch Society has approached him several times to speak on their behalf. He declined to do so because "they wanted me to oppose things, not stand up for something.

He urged "positive involvement" on the part of Lions Club members. noting the impact individual people can sometimes have on the course of human events:

"It was one vote that got Texas, California and Oregon into the Union. It was one vote that saved the selective service system just before World War II. And Adolph Hitler became the leader of his party by Citing the trauma of Watergate and Vietnam, Dunlap said, "This was still - as far as I know - the only country in the world with a waiting list of people wanting to be citizens.

'Lions is a good way to express citizenship and help make good communities. Good communities make good states, and good states make a good, strong nation.

"With a new president coming in, even older people need to be reminded to show respect for people in high office. I'm not saying we shouldn't criticize them, but they should be called Mr. Reagan or Mr. Carter. We can improve the quality of leadership by showing respect.

To the strains of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" on a piano in the background, Dunlap said: "We the citizens of this country hold the future of America in our hands.

It's up to us to keep it free and strong. It's as we wish.

Following the meeting, Dunlap said his inspiration for forming his now defunct one-man patriotism organization sprang from "the apathy and derogatory things" in this country during the late 1960s and early 70s.

"I felt we needed to promote the positive and the good things in America," he added. "It gave me an opportunity to speak on responsible citi-

Can Chaps get well?

A chance to get well? Odessa College is only 1-6 in Western Junior College Conference which should give Midland College, loser of its last two. an opportunity to regain its equilibrium with a victory ... it says here.

Before taking anything for granted, despite its less than intimidating rec ord, the Wranglers lost only 67-62 to league-leading Howard College Monday night and that was at Big Spring. Tonight the Wranglers get the slumping Chaparrals on their bandbox home court at 8 p.m. where anything can, and sometimes does, happen.

MIDLAND COLLEGE is coming off successive 74-72 and 69-67 losses to Howard and Frank Phillips and the Chaps, not long ago riding the crest of a 17-game streak and No. 1 national ranking, finds itself in third place in the Western Junior College Conference race, two games behind leagueleading Howard.

Howard took charge in the WJCC race Tuesday by defeating Frank Phillips, 73-62, at Big Spring. The Plainsmen, 6-1, who played at Mid land Monday before going to Big Spring, returned to Borger Tuesday

Midland Lee's girls entertain the Big Spring Steers at 7 p.m. today in Chaparral Center and Coach Shirley Stephenson's Rebels will be crossing their fingers hoping for Coach Jane Young's Midland High girls to polish off unbeaten San Angelo Central in San Angelo.

There will be no junior varsity game tonight between the Steers and Rebels.

The games tonight bring to close the first half of the District 5-5A basketball race. Lee must dispose of Big Spring tonight and Midland must down San Angelo in order for Lee to share the first half crown with the Bobcats. A Central win, how-ever, would give the Bobcats the first half title outright no matter what Lee does.

Central owns a sparkling sea-son record of 19-1 while going 6-0 in 5-5A play. Lee stands 5-1 in league play and 12-10 on the year. Midland is 3-3 and 11-13.

In games Monday night, Lee defeated Cooper, 50-43 while Midland was dropping a tough 45-42 decision to Abilene High.

Junior varsity games start today at 6:15 p.m. Besides the Lee-Big Spring, MHS-Central games, Permian plays Cooper and OHS battles Abilene as the first half comes to an end.

Walker to make debut in track

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) - Herschel Walker, the University of Georgia's record-shattering All-American in football, faces another challenge Friday night at the Philadelphia Track Classic when he makes his college debut in the 60-yard dash.

Walker, the 18-year-old freshman who led the undefeated Bulldogs to the national football championship by racing for 1,616 yards and 15 touchdowns, claims track as his first love. Dancing and football, he says, are next in line.

The 6-foot-1, 218-pound Walker will be severely tested in the dash with an entry list that includes a pair of 1980 Olympians, including teammate Mel Lattany.

But Walker, who broke Tony Dorsett's freshman rushing record of 1,-586 yards, is confident even though he has never run a 60-yard dash either in competition or indoors.

"I think I'll do pretty well." he said Wednesday.

Track Coach Lewis Gainey, however, is not sure Walker is ready to run in this sort of competition, which includes Olympians Carl Lewis of Houston and Lattany; Willie Gault and Jeff Phillips of Tennessee, and Steve Riddick of the Philadelphia Pioneers Track Club, who holds the meet record of 6.16 seconds

Gainey had wanted to enter Walker in a triangular meet last weekend against Ohio State and Kent State. But Walker, who began working out only last week, had not yet fully recovered from a separated shoulder suffered in Georgia's 17-10 victory over Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl Jan.

"He hasn't run a 60 for a time," Gainey said. "I wouldn't say he's at his sharpest running condition. At Johnson County High School in Wrightsville, Ga., Walker won the Class A state title in the 100-yard dash as a junior and senior, and in the 200-yard as a junior. His best times were 9.5 seconds in the 100 and 21.5 in the 200.

Georgia will take 11 members of its track team to the meet, including Walker's sister, Veronica, a sophomore who is entered in the women's 60-yard dash and the mile relay.

Walker will stay away from Georgia's spring football practice so he can run track. Although football Coach Vince Dooley has given his permission, it is rare that Dooley allows a freshman to miss his first spring practice.

"I like to see them take part in. other sports," said Dooley. "It throws them behind the first two or three weeks of football training, but I hope they keep that in mind and work out in the summer.

Walker also is entered in the 60yard dash at the Millrose Games in New York Feb. 6.

TYPICAL SCENE - When sandhill crane hunting near the Muleshoe Wildlife Rufuge, sights of large flocks of cranes are common. Currently, the Northwest sectors of Texas winter more cranes than anywhere else in the United States. Crane season closes Jan. 31.

The most unique waterfowl hunting in the entire United States takes place in Texas each winter. Sandhill crane hunting! It's a rare commodity. One reason being that only seven other states in the Union offers crane hunting and the states do not have as generous a season as Texas. And most of those states do not winter as many sandhills as Texas.

Cranes simply amaze me to no end. I've been hunting these large waterfowl members for 17 years now. And I have yet to completely figure them out. But if I did figure them out completely, then it might not be as big a challenge.

I FIRST started hunting the big birds in 1963, the first year Texas had an open season. Of course, I was educated on the methods of hunting cranes and knew as much about cranes as I did women. And I was only 13 years old. The only thing I knew about cranes on that first hunt was the fact they were large gray birds that supported four foot wingspans, made a noise one might hear in a horror movie an grew legs longer than a snake. But I was told they were easy prey. How wrong was that statement?

For the first 11 years, I had only bagged 11 cranes. And that came from pass-shooting as they left their overnight roosting grounds and other techniques like dressing up in a horse costume and trying to sneak up on a flock of feeding birds. But none of those methods seemed to work extremely well. But I didn't give up Maybe I should have, but something kept me going strong. That big ma-Jestic bird, I guess!

It was not until 1974 until a friend of experienced coastal goose hunter, but orginally from Enochs, and loved to hunt waterfowl. He had grown up around the sandhill cranes as his home town in West Texas, just south of Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge, boasted the largest concentrations of cranes in the United States. Since he had been so successful at decoying geese on the coast, why not try some gray rag spreads on cranes back at his old stomping grounds. He did and it worked

TODAY, this man lives back in south Texas for other business rea sons than being a waterfowl guide and I've kind of taken up here he has left. off. So far, this season, my groups have bagged 79 cranes and more to come: Let's hope. And I've loved every minute of it.

Deoying cranes with gray rags is similar to the rag spread goose hunters use. But most of the time, we will drape our rags over mile stubble, whereas goose hunters prefer laying their rags on the ground or supporting them with wooden stakes in wheat report from previous afternoon must be done before we know where to set up the next morning. We don't miss very often. But we can't always get th birds to work the decoy spread as After placing out about 1,000 or more gray rags, we and our hunting party neatly drape large gray coats over our bodies and assume a ground position. The birds normally begin flying about 30 minutes before sunrisc on clear days. As the birds leave their overnight roosting site, one, two and three birds in small groups begin circling around. These are scouts. They are doing nothing other than finding out dangerous feeding patches and then warning the others. As the morning progresses, large flights begin stringing out in search of food As soon as the sky begins filling with thousands of cranes, the shooting begins.

If we are set up in the right place, thousands upon thousands of the big birds look over our decoys. But only a small percentage ever are fooled by the gray rags. Large flocks are almost impossible to decoy into gun range. There's just too many eyes up there. With that many eyeballs looking our spread over, it's no wonder we can't decoy them.

AFTER the birds are up, flying and hungry, they begin to break off into smaller flocks. Here's where the excitement begins.

Flocks of one to five birds are now common. They are in dire need of breakfast. We know this when flock after flock begins setting their wings about 200 yards from our spread. Only mine invited me on a hunt. He was an a small percentage of these flocks ever decoy to our satisfaction. But when a small group does decoy, and we knock out two or three, that's all it takes. You're then hooked on sandhill crane hunting.

The most exciting thing about hunting crane by the decoy method is the fact that you have actually outwitted one of nature's most intelligent creations. The huge gray birds can see for miles, can tell if just the slightest thing is wrong in the decoy spread and have a warning system htat would even bewilder Einstein.

There's been times when the birds would not even take a look at the decoy spread. That's seldom, however. Of all the people I've taken out crane hunting, none have gone home dissatisfied if the birds worked well on the decoys.

Over the quail season, crane season stays open the longest. Sandhill crane season closes in Texas on Jan. 31. But not all of Texas is open to crane hunting. Only the portions from the top of the Texas Panhandle, south to Tahoka, east to Floydada. Take out a map, it's a limited area, but that's where the cranes winter. Key Cards still unsigned

White-tail deer skittish

White-tailed deer are known as skittish creatures which often bolt and run from any unusual sight or sound

But a Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist, Robert West of San Angelo, believes constant noises don't necessarily spook the cautious animals. He recently observed a group of deer at night basking in the light of a roaring oil well flare. Another group of deer, in the same oil field, was feeding a few feet away from the steady din of a large one-cylinder pump.

LICENSE RECORD

Texas outdoorsmen bought hunting and fishing license at a record clip during the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's "Texas Parks and Wildlife" magazine, December 1980 issue, reported license revenue of $14,832, 329 for the year ending August 31, 1980. This figure exceeded the previous year's income by almost $1 million. However, officials pointed out that the overall six percent increase in revenue was well below the rate of inflation during the fiscal

One of the largest increases was in resident combination hunting and fishing licenses, with 50,762 more sold in 1979-80 than in the previous year. bringing in an additional $431,852 in revenue

Sales of resident hunting and fish ing licenses also gained, contributing almost $100,000 over the previous year's total.

Nonresident fishing license revenue declined, which is explained by the TPWD as a reslut of the newly established Lake Texoma fishing license. The $5 Lake Texoma license enables its holder to fish the waters of the border reservoir, where in the past an Oklahoma resident had to purchase a Texas nonresident license to fish on the Texas side of the lake and vice Sales of hunting and trapping license showed gains. The resident trappers license showed an increase of 7,433 licenses sold, and the department sold 3,636 more archery stamps than in the previous year.

One decrease was in the sales of white-winged dove stamps, which probably resulted from bad weather conditions during the four-day whitewing season in South Texas in

GUN VALUES

The skyrocketing replacement value of our firearms is enough to take away ones breath. This rapid appreciation results, basically, from run-away inflation. This includes the high cost of labor which has resulted in costs being so high that manufacturers have stopped producing many good quality, popular firearms.

We have obsolete Parker shotguns bringing $12,500; old L.C. Smith double shotguns going for $4,000; a Winchester Model 21 for $8,500. If you really have the extra bucks to put into a fine old gun, you might find a Abbiatico & Salvinelli sidelock 28 gauge, engraved for about $21,000. That's right! No misprint - $21,000. For that fine firearm send your check to Champlin Firearms, Inc., Enid, Okla. It is number 629 on their current list.

We've seen pre-'64 Winchesters' bringing a good price for several years. Now we are seeing a demand for pre-'78 Remington Model 700s among some gun buyers. List price on my old Model 700 was $119, when I purchased it a few years back. Current list price is in the neighborhood of $260. A similar increase is seen for my Ruger Blackhawk 41 magnum which, when new, cost $82. A similar revolver carries a price tag of more than $200 today. Mine is an early model with a four digit serial number and is valued at $350.

The point is that all guns are worth enough today that special care must be taken with them. All your guns should be marked with your Texas drivers license number using an electric engraver. A list of your fire arms should be kept in a secure location. The list should include make. model, serial number and ID number. If your weapons are extra ordinary or have unusual characteristics, those should be noted. Your rifle scope should also be marked and that in formation should appear on your

Your insurance coverage should be reviewed as some policies limit coverage to unrealistic amounts. You may be able to purchase a "rider" to increase the coverage to replacement cost should you lose your guns to fire or theft. The National Rifle Association offers what is probably the least expensive gun insurance available. The NRA can be contacted at 1600 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washing-

Drug may aid lung cancer victims

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - A drug long used to slow blood clotting also may prevent the spread of at least one type of cancer, according to a medical professor who is concluding a fiveyear study of the substance.

The drug, warfarin, appeared to more than double the average life expectancy of patients suffering from so-called "small-cell" lung cancer, according to Dr. Leo Zacharski, an associate professor at Dartmouth College medical school. Small-cell cancer victims generally have responded poorly to surgery

"For a long time there has been a suspicion that the clotting mechanism has something to do with the spread of cancer," Zacharski said Wednesday. 'What we have is the first good study that gives this some validity.

He said tests on patients with other types of cancer are not complete.

Zacharski, who was reached by telephone at the Veterans Administration hospital in White River Junction, Vt., said his study will be published in the Journal of the American Medical Association in late February. A total of 437 hospital patients in eight VA hospitals were involved in the study.

What we have is a foot in the door," he said. "We have an insight that needs to be tested in a variety of cancers.

In a study of 50 small-cell cancer patients at VA hospitals, the 25 who were not treated with warfarin had a median survival period of 24 weeks. Those who received the drug had a median survival period of 50 weeks, Zacharski said.

The median figure means half died earlier, half lived longer.

"The survival was greatly increased with the warfarin - it just. about doubled," Zacharski said. He said survival was measured from the time the patients entered the study, "pretty close to the time of diagno-

The drug - prescribed for years to phlebitis patients - appears to prevent the blood from giving tumor cells a place to anchor and grow, said Zacharski. Phlebitis is a circulatory disorder.

"The best evidence is that coagulation reactions are involved in the seeding of tumor cells that are floating around in the body," Zacharski

NOTHING ELSE works like WANT ADS. Dial 682-6222

Now, after Kennedy's quest for the presidency threw them back together for a time, they are ending their 22-year union.

Although they have lived apart for the past three years, the two vacationed together in Colorado over the Christmas holidays in an apparent last-ditch attempt at patching up their marriage. And some of their friends said the couple seemed to draw closer together during last fall's Nonetheless, Wednesday's brief, written announcement of impending divorce came as no surprise.

'Appropriate legal proceedings will be commenced in due course,' the statement said.

Mrs. Kennedy, a self-described "recovering alocholic," has been living in Boston since 1978 attending college. Kennedy lived at their home in suburban Virginia with their children.

After the divorce announcement, Kennedy's office reaffirmed the 48year-old Democratic senator's intention to seek re-election from Massachusetts in 1982. He has been elected four times in the heavily Catholic

The political impact of the impending divorce remained uncertain for the senator, who close aides say has his eye on another try for the presidency in addition to his Senate race.

Coincidentally, the Kennedy divorce announcement came one day after the inauguration of President Reagan, the first divorced man to become president.

Mrs. Kennedy campaigned extensively for her husband last year during his unsuccessful presidential campaign. Aides hoped her presence would help quell rumors of the couple's marital difficulties.

She handled the frequent questions about their personal relationship with courtesy, defending her husband and saying repeatedly she would move into the White House if he were elect-

To many observers, they appeared ill at ease with each other, rarely touching or holding hands. But several sources insisted the long, arduous campaign brought them closer together, a view also expressed by Mrs.

In the months following the campaign, sources said, they were together more than they had been in some time as they tried to see whether they could save their marriage.

"They are good friends," one source said.

"With regret, yet with respect and consideration for each other, we have agreed to terminate our marriage, the couple said in their statement. We have reached this decision together, with the understanding of our children, and after pastoral counsel-

In their statement, the couple announced that Mrs. Kennedy, 44, would remain in Boston to complete work on a master's degree in education at Lesley College Thereafter, she intends to work full time in the field of music education of children," the statement said. Kennedy will live at their home in McLean with son Patrick, 13. The couple's other two children, Kara, 20, and Edward M. Jr., 19, who lost a leg to cancer, are away at college.

The Kennedys, both Catholic, were married in 1958. On their fifth anniversary, President John F. Kennedy was shot to death in Dallas. A little less than five years later, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot to death in Los

In between, Edward Kennedy himself almost died in the crash of a small airplane during his 1964 senatorial campaign. That left his wife to carry on as they main campaigner while he was hospitalized with a bro-

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market edged lower today, continuing a threeday slide. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which had fallen 27.04 points the first three days of the week, dropped another 7.68 points in the first two hours today. Losers outnumbered gainers by a 7-5 margin among New York Stock Exchangelisted issues The market has been sliding amid investor concern about the high level of interest rates and uncertainty over how quickly the Reagan administration will make a mark on the economy The market's recent selling pressure was not eased by encouraging economic news reported Wednesday by the Commerce Department, showing the Gross National Product rose at an inflation-adjusted pace of 5 percent in the fourth quarter, compared with a 2.4 percent gain in the third quar-

Among today's early prices, American Airlines was up 1/4 to 93/4. The company said Wednesday it had ordered 15 Boeing 757 aircraft for $25 million each and took an option for an additional 15 planes. Delta Air Lines Inc. was up at 613 General Electric, which reported that its earnings in the final quarter of 1980 rose about 7 percent, showed a gain of 1/4 to 59 1/4 The major oil stocks were mostly lower.

Volume on the Big Board was 17.38 million shares over the first two hours.

The NYSE's composite index of common stocks gave up 0.60 to 74.79.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 1.00 to 342.53.

Indictment 'unproven

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - As industry is challenged to reindustrialize, said the professor, nothing is more ridiculous than the claim that too many businesses are run by financial people who manage for dollars

There are many things wrong with corporate America," he said, "but that indictment has yet to be proven." It is fallacious," he said. It isn't backed up by facts or informed observation, he said.

Professor Eugene Jennings, Michigan State University, is an authority on corporations, having all his adult life studied and written about them, and advised those who make major decisions about their Presumably, he said, critics think financial wizards know too little about the fundamentals of business, including markets, technology, production and workers. They are accused of having tunnel vision that brings an analytical preoccupation with facts and studies," he said.

Jennings maintains there aren't that many money men running big corporations anyway, but that those who do are as rounded as others. Their backgrounds do not eliminate the possibility of their possessing vision or a willingness to take entrepreneurial risks,

He points out that some industries doing poorly. such as steel, autos and consumer electronics, are without large numbers of financial men in decisionmaking jobs. The problems cannot be blamed on

'In fact," he says, "in the largest industrial corporations the percentage of chief executives with financial backgrounds is about 15. They are seldom found in command positions in steel, an industry run largely by operating and manufacturing people, or in consumer electronics, where sales and marketing types prevail."

There is a mistaken notion, the professor continues, that there is something in a finance background that precludes taking an overall and long view. Furthermore, there is an assumption that there is something in a financial education that precludes vision and risk.

Not so, he says. Such characteristics are not in the education. "You cannot educate for vision or willingness to assume risk in any field of endeavor. They are qualities that are in individuals.

Jennings traces the recent evolution of manage ment leadership from manufacturing types in the 1950s, to sales marketing people during the rapid growth of the 1960s, to financial people in the 1970s. But the latter never got above 22 percent (of chief executives) in any year.' Now, he says, business has an insatiable appetite for people thought to have a well-rounded background because they managed business units. "In the past three-years they represent 10 percent of the top jobs. Such changes, he reasons, are due to the flexibility of U.S. business to respond to changing problems. But the changes also generate criticisms, such as those against people with financial backgrounds. 'In fact, a case can be made that U.S. business hasn't given proper attention to financial management," Jennings asserted. I have never failed to find that the best financial people are the first to know the limits of their discipline," he explained. "Time after time I have seen people from manufacturing and marketing over rely on numbers, especially in crises."

And so Jennings the observer and adviser on corporate life shrugs off the criticism against financial people, and in fact some of the other criticisms about the "types" who run American industry.

"The ultimate criticism will be that business is headed too much by businessmen," he said.

40 oil companies start DOE fight

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Lawyers for 40 oil companies fighting millions of dollars in government fines and penalties have begun a federal court battle with a lawsuit challenging U.S. Department of Energy regulations governing injection wells in 15 states.

About 24 lawyers jammed into the front of U.S. District Judge Frank Theis' courtroom on Monday to participate in the opening day of the trial. The judge consolidated numerous separate cases on the same issues on May 26, 1977.

Joseph W. Kennedy, who represents the oil compan ies, delivered an opening statement claiming DOE officials exceeded their statutory authority when they issued a rule excluding water injection wells from the calculations of stripper well production.

Theis ruled in January 1978 that the then Federal Energy Administration failed to follow the Administrative Procedures Act when it implemented the injection well exemption and he struck it down.

But the U.S. Court of Emergency Appeals, a panel formed in Washington, D.C., to hear energy cases, reversed Theis' opinion in November 1978 and sent the case back to Wichita for trial.

Marginal oil wells are sometimes removed from production and used to inject water into underground oil-bearing rock formations in hopes of creating pressure that will produce better flows at other nearby

The oil companies in the case want to be able to count the injection wells as producing oil wells when calculating average daily production."Old oil" wells that produce 10 barrels or less a day are considered stripper wells and qualify for higher decontrolled crude prices. When water injection wells are removed from the calucations, many wells wouldn't be eligible for stripper prices and would instead be covered by the ceiling price for "old oil."

Kennedy said besides exceeding its statutory authority, the DOE acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner by eliminating a practice that had been accepted industry-wide for 40 years.

He said injection wells still are counted as producers by state regulators in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico.

"The man who wrote this regulation didn't even know what an injection well is," Kennedy said.

The states where wells involved in the litigation are located are Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Illinois, Arkansas, Louisiana, Montana, New Mexico, California, Colorado, Michigan, Nebraska, Utah, and Producers in Kansas were the first to become involved in the litigation and have a great deal at stake since Kansas has proportionately more stripper wells than any other state in the U.S.

Many of the companies involved in the lawsuit have been fined or ordered to pay back hundreds of thousands of dollars in alleged overcharges because they calculated stripper production using water injection wells in the producing well total.

Independent oil men who tried to determine whether injection wells could be counted in production averages got conflicting answers from federal agencies,

The use of injection wells in stripper calculations isn't a dodge to avoid federal regulation, but instead it is a bona fide production practice, he said.

"The agency made an error in 1973 and 1974 and they have been desperately trying to justify it ever since,

The plaintiffs began presenting witnesses Monday afternoon, with most of the initial testimony dealing with the geological mechanisms by which oil is formed and trapped underground.

Federal government lawyers said Monday they would reserve their opening statement until the plaintiffs have completed their case.

Officials testify for stripper wells

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Oil production regulations employed by the U.S. Department of the Interior and the Texas Railroad Commission allow water injection wells to be classified as producing oil wells, longtime employees of those agencies testified Wednesday

John Duletsky, an Interior Department field supervisor, appeared as a witness in a U.S. District Court trial involving 40 oil companies.

The plaintiff companies are challenging Department of Energy regulations that exclude water injection wells from calculations of oil field production averages.

More than $1 billion is at stake because the inclusion of injection wells in the calculations often brings the daily output averages down enough to qualify the crude oil produced for sale at higher stripper well

Water injection wells are used to pump water into oil-bearing rock formations in fields where production has fallen off. The water creates pressure that forces the remaining oil to recovery wells.

"It's more than an aid," Duletsky said on cross-examination. "It's a producing well when you look at the whole system

When asked if the classification of injection wells as producing wells is "a Department of Interior concept," the witness said the practice is widely accepted in the oil business.

"It's a petroleum engineering practice when you're looking at a producing system," Duletsky said.

He agreed with a DOE lawyer who suggested the Interior Department regulations were not adopted as price controls or inflation-fighting mea-

UMW opens contract negotiations

By MERRILL HARTSON

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three years after the nation's longest coal strike, the United Mine Workers union is opening negotiations on a new contract with the soft coal industry

The UMW's 41-member bargaining council was sitting down today with representatives of the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association here to discuss the goals of the union's 170,000

Union sources indicated the UMW will seek better wages, cost-of-living protection and a reduction in a $200-ayear deductible that miners must pay on medical benefits.

The current three-year contract. which expires March 27, covers miners employed by some 130 coal producers in the East and Midwest.

In December 1977, UMW members struck the soft coal industry. The walkout lasted a record 109 days despite a Carter administration effort to force a return to work under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The $200 deductible was among the items accepted by the UMW in the strike settlement of March 1978. The miners got an hourly raise amounting to $2.40. At the time of the previous contract negotiations, rank-and-file miners were earning an average of $7.80 an hour.

The UMW bargaining council finalized its proposals for the new contract in meetings held in the nation's capital in mid-January.

Sam Church, union president, gave no indication what the economic demands would involve but said "we must carry a policy to the bargaining table to ensure that the rank-and-file coal minet can afford to support a family, to ensure that he or she has adequate insurance coverage, and to ensure that he or she shares in the profit from their labors."

He said the UMW also would stress improved safety.

"I hope that the majority of coal operators in this country and Canada will come to the realization that safe coal mines are productive coal mines and Evolution of the U.S. Atlantic Continental Margin.' Dr. Grow is a replacement for Dr. Henry William Nenard of Rustin, Va., who also is with the U.S. Geological and that they will begin to act accordingly," he said.

The Labor Department reported last week that preliminary information for 1980 shows a record-low number of accidental deaths in the mining industry

Fatal accidents in coal mining dropped to 126, down from 144 the previous year, the department's Mine Safety and Health Administration

It also said the reduction occurred in a year in which "coal production reached its highest annual total in U.S. history, more than 835 million tons, according to U.S. Department of Energy estimates."

We believe these reductions are the result of the cooperative efforts of labor, industry and government mine safety and health.

energy secretary has recommended that three suppliers of natural gas not be granted any rate increases until the state can determine whether the companies mismanaged their fuel reserves and contributed to a current shortage.

As Massachusetts entered the second week of its "energy emergency," spring-like temperatures and conservation measures slashed statewide gas consumption by 20 percent within a 24-hour period. Gas consumption, which had totalled 932 million cubic feet from 8 a.m. Sunday to 8 a.m. Monday, fell to 742.6 million the following day.

Within the Boston Gas service territory, usage plummeted from 382 mcf

However, state officials urged Boston-area gas users to leave thermostats set on 63 in homes and 55 in businesses, saying reserves would remain dangerously low until a tanker from Georgia delivers a liquefied natural gas shipment to Boston on

The Democratic caucus and Republican conference, acting on the recommendations of smaller committees for each party, establish their parties' committee lineups, subject to the rubber-stamp approval of the full House.

Committee assignments also were approved as expected for the three freshmen congressmen from

Rep. Bill Patman, a Democrat from Ganado, will serve on the House Banking Committee and the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee: Rep. Ralph Hall, a Rockwall Democrat, on the House Energy and Commerce Committee and the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee; and Rep. Jack Fields, a Republican from Humble, on the House Public Works Committee and the merchant marine and fisheries panel.

Fields said earlier his first choice would have been the energy and commerce committee.

Requirement could cost phone users

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A re: quirement that California telephone companies begin providing free special services for deaf customers will mean an estimated increase of 15 cents in the monthly bills of all telephone customers, officials said

The Public Utilities Commission ordered Wednesday that the telephone companies begin taking bids on the devices, which allow the deaf to communicate via keyboards, electronic screens that can flash messages and hard-copy printers.

Estimates of the cost of each phone device range from $375 to as much as $600, according to one bid already received by Pacific Telephone Co. Preliminary estimates are that 90,000 customers will be provided with the devices by the end of 1983.

A group of about 100 pro-abortion demonstrators held a candlelight vigil at the U.S. Capitol across from the Supreme Court building Wednesday evening. The vigil, which commemorated the 1973 Supreme Court decision establishing abortion as a constitutional right for all women, comes on the eve of a large anti-abortion "right to life" rally planned for

'Warning strikes' staged in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Independent labor unions staged "warning strikes" today in a dozen Polish cities, set more of the same for Friday, and called a another nationwide strike for Saturday after a six-hour meeting with Premier Jozef Pinkowski failed to satisfy workers' demands for a five-day work week and full access to the mass media.

Leaders of Solidarity, the independent labor federation, said workers planned to strike some 800 plants today in the Baltic seaport of Gdansk. flashpoint of last summer's labor re bellion. It was no immediately known if the Gdansk job actions took place.

Union leaders in Warsaw said the city's bus and streetcar workers would stage their second four-hour walkout of the month Friday, and the work force at 30 to 40 plants in the area were expected to quit for several.

Solidarity sources said all members of the federation would be urged to stay away from work Saturday, the second such strike this month. A union spokesman predicted at least half of the federation's 10 million members would heed the call.

"We did not achieve anything." Solidarity leader Lech Walesa said in a terse statement after the meeting with Pinkowski broke up Wednesday Solidarity delegates, said they were still in contact with the government, trying to arrange a resumption of the

Warsaw Radio reported the two Troops range countryside searching for murderers

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Troops, police and a British army helicopter ranged over the countryside today hunting the terrorists who murdered a titled 86-year-old Protestant political leader and his 48-yearold heir and bombed their ancestral

Officers raided the homes of IRA sympathizers on the theory the attack Wednesday night was carried out by the Irish Republican Army in reprisal for the attempted assassination by Protestants last Friday of Roman Catholic civil rights crusader Bernadette Devlin McAliskey and her hus-

Police said the terrorists invaded Tynan Abbey, near the border with the Irish Republic, and killed Sir Norman Stronge, a baronet and former speaker of Northern Ireland's provincial parliament, and his 48-year-old son, James, another former member of the legislature, with gunshots to the Police, who rushed to the burning home after hearing two explosions, used their cars to block the main driveway in an attempt to stop the gunmen, who also were in cars.

Authorities said the driver of one of the two getaway cars tried to crash through the blockade. When this failed, at least eight masked gunmen jumped from the two cars and opened fire on the officers. Police returned fire and the terrorists scattered on foot toward the Irish border, a police

Rationing plans approved to cut back water usage

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - Officials have approved seven more mandatory rationing plans and brought to 103 the number of Pennsylvania municipalities forced to cut back on water consumption.

Some 35,000 residents of State College, in Centre County, came under one of the new conservation plans approved Wednesday by the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Council.

The new plans call for a 25 percent cut in water consumption to help municipal and private water suppliers cope with dwindling supplies caused by a shortage of rainfall since last summer.

Customers using more water than permitted will be hit with steep "excess usage" charges.

If overuse persists, water suppliers may install devices restricting water flow or even to cut off water service to errant customers for up to 48 hours. The governor has empowered PEMC to review and approve all rationing plans, giving the formulas the force of state law

With Wednesday's additions, a total of 18 mandatory water rationing plans have been implemented in Pennsylvania, representing 35 water

In addition, residents in 13 eastern

Pennsylvania counties were banned from non-essential water use last week under an order by the Delaware River Basin Commission

School boycott ends

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) - An eight-month-old school boycott by an estimated 60,000 black pupils was ended early today, the South African Press Association re-

The pupils of schools in the eastern Cape province and Cape Town had joined last year's boycott by colored (mixed race) pupils to protest inferior educational facilities. The government spends several times as much on white pupils as on coloreds, and up to 10 times as much on whites as on blacks.

SAPA said black student leaders. following a six-hour meeting that ended at 2 a.m., decided to end the boycott. The decision was made a day before the deadline for re-registration at schools, but the white minority government announced that the deadline would be extended.

SAPA said the number of pupils reporting to black schools in the affected areas increased perceptibly sides had narrowed their differences over the length of the work week to one hour, with the union willing to work 41% hours and the government offering 42 % instead of the present 46. But it said the union was still de manding every Saturday off while the government was holding out for two working Saturdays, the present

The government radio said Pinkowksi proposed creation of a government-Solidarity commission to examine the economic impact of the demand for a shorter work week immediately

Solidarity claims that the five-day, 40-hour work week and full access to the government controlled newspapers, television and radio were promised in the Gdansk agreement that ended the nationwide summer strike wave and authorized the first legal unions free of Communist Party control in the Soviet bloc.

The government so far has said nothing publicly about the demand for media access. It has offered to phase in the five-day, 40-hour week over five years. But it says it cannot put it into effect now because of the country's acute economic and financial crisis. Warsaw Radio said the government negotiators told the Solidarity delegation January's production targets, already in danger because several million workers struck Saturday Jan. 10, could not be met if the workers stayed home this Saturday.

Walesa succeeded in getting other Solidarity leaders to agree to a nostrike pledge last fall when the fear of Soviet military intervention reached its peak. And this week, on his return from a meeting with Pope John Paul II in Rome, he urged fellow unionists to compromise with the government, saying they must be "realistic.

Some observer's viewed the decision to go ahead with the strikes as a defeat for Walesa, but a member of the Warsaw chapter commented: "If Walesa retires, that would be the beginning of the end of Solidarity.'

Meanwhile, the British Foreign Office announced a $72-million emergency loan to Poland, including a $36-million credit for the purchase of surplus Common Market grain and $36 million to pay interest and other charges due on British loans to Po-

Poland's debt to the West is now $23 billion, and the government has said it may have to postpone the repayment schedule.
