Oil controls lifted; Price hikes anticipated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today lifted the domestic price and allocation controls on petroleum, a step sure to lead to higher gasoline and heating oil prices.

Reagan said the controls had hampered U.S. production, artificially lowered consumer energy consumption, aggravated the nation's balance of payments problem and stifled technological breakthroughs.

Price controls have also made us more energy dependent on the nations — a development that has jeopardized our economic security and undermined price stability at home, Reagan said in a statement.

Fears that the planned phase-out of controls would not be carried out for petroleum products has been lifted. Reagan said the controls, which were put in place in 1973, had done little to curb the price of oil.

A key industry group charged that the controls had done little to curb the price of oil. The group, the American Petroleum Institute, said that the controls had done little to curb the price of oil.

Reagan said the controls had done little to curb the price of oil. He said the controls had done little to curb the price of oil.

Ending price controls is a positive first step towards a balanced energy program — a program free of arbitrary and counterproductive constraints — one designed to promote prudent conservation and vigorous domestic production, he added.

If Reagan had not acted, the price controls would have phased out over the next eight months under a gradual decontrol program started by former President Carter in June 1979. That program already has removed price controls on about 75 percent of domestic crude oil.

Reagan pledged during the campaign to speed the process, saying oil companies had been shackled by price controls for nine years and higher prices would spur faster domestic production.

Consumer groups attacked the decision even before it was announced, charging Reagan's action awarded oil companies an "unacceptable windfall."

It's nothing more than picking the pockets of consumers to further bloat oil company profits, said Ellen Bernstein, executive director of the Consumer Energy Council of America.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., two congressional opponents of decontrol pledged to try to block Reagan's action.

Metzenbaum charged decontrol could lead to gasoline prices of $2 per gallon by the end of the year and give the oil companies a $170 billion windfall on their current reserves.

Most energy analysts, however, said the economic impact would not be anywhere near that great.

Private and congressional experts said immediate decontrol probably will mean consumers will pay an extra $10 billion for petroleum products over the next eight months. Of that amount, the government will recoup $7 billion through the "windfall profits" and other taxes, oil companies will get $2 billion and state and local governments will realize $1 billion in added revenues.

Critics charged Reagan's need to whittle down the budget deficit was the primary reason he chose immediate decontrol and its promise of $7 billion more in federal revenues.

But administration officials estimated the higher prices brought about by immediate decontrol would decrease the country's appetite for oil by 100,000 barrels per day. This would not only reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil, they said, but perhaps ward off further OPEC price increases by cutting demand.

The estimate of the impact on consumers varied widely because of different assumptions on just how much OPEC will raise prices in the next few months — increases that domestic producers will now be allowed to match fully.

New application fails to secure beer permit

LISA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Emory Isenberg discovered Tuesday that Mother Nature may be easier than fooling the Midland City Council.

His application to sell beer in the restaurant area of Dellwood Lanes was put on hold until March by the council during its regular session in City Hall Council Chambers.

The extra time will make it one year since Isenberg first applied to sell alcoholic beverages in the bowling facility. And it will give him time to better define his "restaurant" area. The restaurant under his plan stretches across the entire front of the facility.

In March 1980, Emory Isenberg and his son, Randy, applied to sell alcoholic beverages — wine, beer and mixed drinks — at Dellwood Lanes, a bowling facility. That application was rejected on the basis that too many people from the nearby Crestview Baptist Church and others in the neighborhood opposed it.

Under city code, a year must pass before the applicant tries again.

Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development explained this application is different in that the first one applied to selling the beverages in a recreation facility. This new one refers only to selling beer in a restaurant.

But, he cautioned the council that he didn't view the restaurant portion of the bowling facility as being "sufficiently defined. I don't see a sufficient distinction between the two applications."

Emory Isenberg said bowlers can bring their own beer and mixed drinks now. The permit, he claimed, would give the management better control over where the beverages are taken. Business at Dellwood is "fair," he said, but being able to sell beer would increase their business.

The Isenbergs also own Air Park Lanes and are allowed to sell alcoholic beverages. When the lanes are full there and people are advised of space at Dellwood, the elder Isenberg said people remain at Air Park because they can buy beer.

Unlike the previous time when the application was opposed by residents, no one in the audience voiced their opposition. Rather, about 15 persons stood up in favor of it.

But the council looked at past problems with the Dellwood parking lot in which teen agers parked there at night and fights ensued. Because of the history at Dellwood, Police Chief Wayne Gideon said he was against the beer permit.

But, he added, since the bowling facility has been open, "the problems have not recurred. I think what we've done is move them (teen agers) down to Town and Country Shopping Center. I don't think we eliminated the problem."

Councilman Carroll Thomas said he would vote against the application because "the sale of beer will run a high risk of the parking lot returning to the previous conditions (with the youths)." And we don't like to see these applications come up more than a year apart. People get tired of coming down here to defend their property."

Doris Howbert, another council member, concurred. "I have no objections to anyone drinking beer while they bowl. It worries me more about the past problems in the Dellwood parking lot," she said.

However, Councilman Tom Sloan recalled residents along North I. Street had problems with teen agers congregating in the street and drink

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 11 American hostages held by Iranian terrorists since the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran last October are being flown home today.

Washington officials said the hostages were flown to West Berlin on Tuesday and then to their families in the United States.

The hostages were held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since they were taken there on November 4, 1979. They were held there for 444 days.

Thanksgiving service to be held Thursday

To celebrate the release of the American hostages and the day of national Thanksgiving as proclaimed by President Reagan, Midlanders will hold a citywide service Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at First Christian Church, 1301 W. Louisiana Ave.

The service is sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches.

The Service of Grateful Praise will be led by ministers of several Midland congregations. Speaking at the service will be the Rev. Steve Edwards of First Christian Church, "Bondage to Freedom"; Father Cliff Blackburn, St. Ann's Catholic Church, "Principalities and Powers"; and the Rev. Pat Wilson, "The Gifts of Living Humanly."

A combined all faiths choir also will sing the anthem "Now Thank We All Our God."

A special program was designed for the service, featuring a freedom logo (shown at right) drawn by Midland College students Sharon Seay and Deborah Hamilton.

Midlanders of all faiths are invited to attend and participate in this service of prayer. A nursery will be provided.

Architects designing proposed new schools

By RICHARD ORR
Staff Writer

Midland school trustees have hired an East Worth architectural firm of Dallas, Geran and Associates, to draw up design plans for two proposed new elementary schools that may come before the voters in a bond issue election this spring.

The action came during a lengthy, but largely routine, school board meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Tentative plans call for constructing a new De Zavala Elementary school to replace the current one in east Midland, and a new school on the far north side in the Bluebird Lane Ward Street area.

Total cost of the proposals would come to about $45 million. In addition, trustees would like to renovate the old De Zavala school and turn it into a storage building for the school district. The cost of such renovation would be about $500,000.

Trustees cite overcrowding conditions and a deteriorating physical plant at De Zavala as reasons for seeking a new school. A fast growing student enrollment at the elementary level is the reason a new north side school is needed, according to school officials.

A preliminary analysis of facility deficiencies at De Zavala by the architect firm lists an inadequate stage area, overcrowded office space, bad plumbing, smelly bathrooms due to absorbent asphalt tile floors, leaking roofs on the multi-building campus, insufficient insulation and gas-fired furnaces that have served their useful purpose.

Other problems include overloaded electrical circuits, inadequate storage space, damaged lockers and leaky windows and doors. The original school was built in 1928, with several additions and repairs made over the years.

School officials say it would cost about as much to renovate the building as it would to erect a new one.

Trustees also heard reports on various school programs, including a favorable review of the Waukegan Kindergarten Project, which began this year on a pilot basis in the district.

Manuel Carrasco, director of elementary education, told trustees the program is designed to stimulate parental involvement in the education of their children and increase reading and math skills for disadvantaged students.

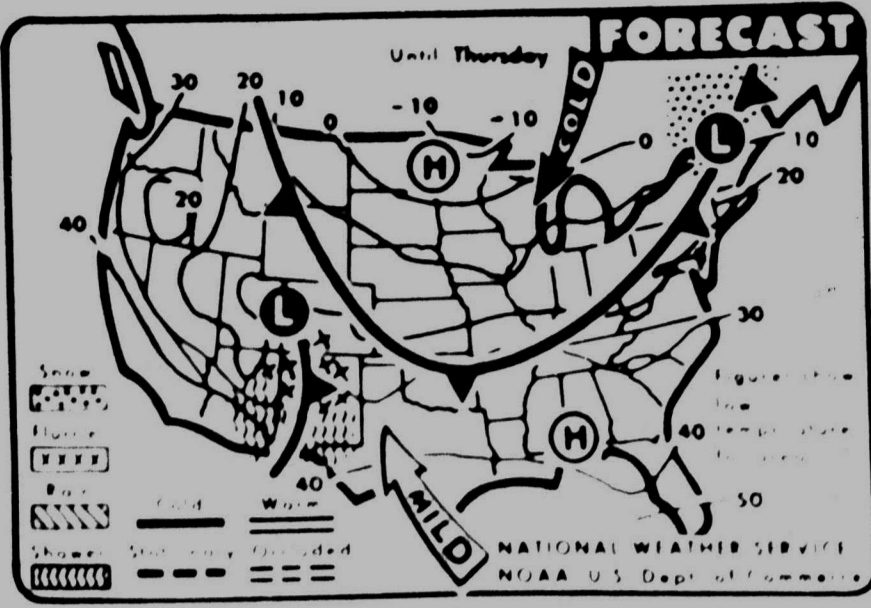

Carrasco noted that the program is the only one of its kind in Texas, and one of 36 such programs in the nation.

Prior to the meeting, trustees had lunch at Washington Elementary School and observed kindergarten students reading complete sentences. "I'm thrilled about it (the project)," said school Superintendent Dr. James Malley.

Trustees voted to continue the program and possibly expand it in the future.

Gunman shot in Arkansas sorority house

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Police say they don't know why a University of Arkansas student pointed a shotgun at women in a campus sorority house and said he was fixing to do some shooting.

The man, who was not identified pending notification of relatives, was shot to death by a campus policeman in the Tuesday night incident at a Delta Delta Delta house, authorities said. About 125 women were in the house dining hall about 10:30 p.m. when the man walked into the building and pointed a 12 gauge shotgun at them, said Merry Lee Howitt, a sorority member. Many of the women dove to the floor, Miss Howitt said.

Probation recommended in attempted rape trial

Despite prosecutors' contentions that probation is no punishment at all, an eight-man jury in 18th State District Court late Tuesday recommended a five-year probation sentence for a 19-year-old Midland man. The jury had convicted him for the attempted rape of an 18-year-old El Paso woman in her Midland apartment on a weekday afternoon in early November.

The defendant, Johnnie Ray Cruse, murmured after the jury had deliberated two hours on the punishment phase of his trial. "I was worried. Cruse, married and whose wife has one child and one on the way, had been charged with the No. 5 offense. He maintained that he had gone into the woman's apartment after he had picked her up while she was hitchhiking in Midland and drove her to her apartment in his 'jacked up' yellow sports car to get cigarette papers to roll and smoke a 'joint' of marijuana." Cruse alleged that he and the woman smoked the marijuana, that he drank a beer, and then "she asked that I leave (and said) that her husband was coming home (soon)." But Cruse testified that the woman had hidden his "baggie" of marijuana while he used the restroom and that he "grabbed her" to frighten her into returning his marijuana. "I was trying to scare her, so she'd give me back my marijuana," Cruse testified. "I did scare her." But he contended that he had no intention of having sexual relations with the woman he had just met.

"NO, SIR," Cruse told his defense attorney, Benny Lowe, "I didn't (have sex with her)." The victim's story differed with that of the defendant's version. She maintained that she was relaxing and was reading a book in a Street (Wadley-Barron) Park on that Thursday afternoon when Cruse, whom she alleged was wearing jogging shorts, approached her and struck up a conversation about the weather.

The woman said that they drove to her apartment — in which she, her boy friend and her boy friend's brother had recently moved into — and that she provided "rolling papers for Cruse to smoke a joint of marijuana." He was getting ready to roll one and I asked him to leave at that time," she said.

She said Cruse left but returned later "about 3 p.m." She said in search of his wallet. Instead of wearing his jogging shorts, Cruse was wearing pants and a red shirt.

Though she said she protested Cruse's insistence that she let him inside the apartment to search for his billfold, she nevertheless relented and opened the door. He initially gave me no intention of sexual advances at all as far as I could tell," she said, but conceded that he was making me kind of nervous. "I KNEW THAT MY boy friend was going to be home before long," she said. The woman said that as she started to sit on the couch, Cruse assaulted her. "He didn't really throw me on the couch," she said. "I was getting ready to sit on the couch, and he sort of pushed me into it. He wasn't being soft." He was being forceful, yes." She said Cruse tore at her blouse, grabbed her breast, placed his hand over her mouth to suppress her screams and that she fought him off. He fled. "He (her boy friend) warned me that something like this would happen (if she welcomed a stranger into her house)," the woman said under questioning of prosecutor Jim Rex, "and it happened. I was upset."

When the county clerk began to read the indictment, Cruse's attorney, Rex, requested a continuance for the first Saturday in April. In the Midland Independent School District and Midland Memorial Hospital. Two judges in the county were set to hear the case. The judge who was to hear the case was unavailable and was to be replaced by Judge F. M. Stewart. When the case was heard by Judge Stewart, he recommended probation for Cruse. Cruse was arrested five days later, placed in Midland County Jail and later was released under a $25,000 bail bond.

ON THE STAND, Cruse and his defense witnesses, including his pregnant wife, his mother, his brother and a friend, testified that he was wearing different clothes than the victim had alleged. The defense witnesses claimed that Cruse was wearing blue or black coveralls, no shirt and black patent leather shoes. Cruse maintained that he, his brother and the friend were working on cars on the day of the offense, drove around for awhile, and drank a six pack of beer.

He testified that the state of Texas has gotten their government out of control of their own money and banks, and that they had to work for wages as a means of maintaining themselves. He said that the offense was serious and had the woman in great pain and fought off her assailant who might have been raped or seriously injured. Rex, in referring to Cruse's pregnant wife and to his 11-month-old six daughter, told the jurors not to let sympathy influence their verdict.

If you're going to have mercy on anybody," Rex said, "have mercy on his next victim." UNLIKE THE prosecution, the defense attorneys minimized the offense, recommended probation and said that Cruse promptly would be sent to penitentiary should he violate rules of probation.

The only thing that happened to this lady was that her blouse was torn and her breast was touched. Lowe pushed the prosecution's suggestion that "crime will run rampant in this city" if the defendant were not sent to prison and, presumably, used as an example for would-be sex offenders. Earlier, when he was pleading for a not guilty verdict, the defense attorney implied that Cruse's advances were typical of some teen-agers, "sexual dating inclinations." If that's attempted rape," Lowe reasoned, "half of the high school boys (in Midland) ought to be in jail." After the trial was over, the jurors volunteered, "It was a hard decision." A juror, who requested anonymity, said the "conflicting stories" by defense witnesses helped sway the jurors toward the guilty verdict. "We (jurors) had a real difficult time on this thing — both of them (the guilt-innocence and punishment phases of the trial). If he (Cruse) breaks probation rules and regulations, he's going down there (to prison) for five years anyway." "He (Cruse) had placed judgment on his own self if he violates probation," the jurors said.

City awards jogging track contract

A contract to build a jogging track of about 2.5 miles was awarded to Wadley Barron Park at a bid of $1,400,000. The city of Midland awarded the contract to the Wadley Barron Park Authority. The track will be built in the park area and will be paved with asphalt. The track will be about 2.5 miles long and will be about 40 feet wide. Strong-arm robbery reported

A strong-arm robbery topped the list of criminal activity under investigation by city police. Hollingsworth, 46, of 503 W. Cowden told officers a man and woman entered their apartment early this morning and stole cash and jewelry worth a total of $1,129. Hollingsworth said the man used a headlock to subdue him, then tied his hands and legs with electrical cord before the pair made off with a checkbook set, minus two checks and $20 in cash. Hollingsworth suffered two abrasions in the incident. The victim, Juan Wallace, reported 375 square yards of carpet.

Police, Fire Roundup

Police: A $3,800 stolen from 111 W. Texas, while a combination radio stolen from 2071 23d was removed from the Road Runner Charter School at Midland Regional Airport. A traffic violation complaint was lodged by Patsy Edens, 1011 W. Storey, who said four tires were cut on her vehicle. No value was listed. And Rex said there was a $1,129 robbery on Hollingsworth. Officers the windshield was broken out of her vehicle while it was parked at 411 Air Park Tuesday. Value was placed at $200. Sheriff's deputies said they stopped a man on a traffic violation Tuesday night and discovered his vehicle contained copper wire stolen from the man's employer. The man, who is expected to be formally charged with theft over $200 after today, allegedly ran a stop sign at Garfield Road and the Midland College access road about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and told deputies his employer gave him the wire. Deputies contacted officials from Kay & Kampany Electric Inc., 704 S. Johnston, and learned the wire had been stolen. City firemen spent an hour extinguishing a pasture blaze near the 1600 block of Fairgrounds Road early this morning. The fire appeared to have been set, according to the report. Firemen also responded to two grass fires and one dumpster blaze Tuesday.

High costs eat away at cattle feedlot business

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising costs put the bite on the cattle feedlot business last year, contributing to a sharp drop in their numbers, according to the Agriculture Department's latest figures.

The annual statistics were examined Monday in a weekly "Farm Paper Letter" issued by the department's Office of Governmental and Public Affairs.

Feedlots of all sizes totaled 113,326 in 1980, down 8 percent from 123,436 in 1979. That was "perhaps the sharpest" year-to-year decline since the department began keeping track of cattle feedlots in 1962, the report said.

The feedlot numbers dropped 3 percent from 1978 to 1979, and 4 percent from 1977 to 1978, for example.

Department statisticians include feedlots of 1,000-head capacity or larger if those operate at any time during the year. Feedlots smaller than 1,000 head are counted only if they are in operation at the end of the year.

A five year low of about 23.2 million head of cattle were marketed from all feedlots last year, down from 24.6 million in 1979 and 26.6 million in 1978.

"As in former years, the sharpest declines in feedlot numbers was recorded in the smallest category — those with a capacity of under 1,000 head," the report said. "They declined 8 percent last year, from 121,330 in 1979 to 111,182."

Although the smallest category of feedlots accounts for about 98 percent of the total feedlot numbers, they produced less than 30 percent of the cattle marketed from feedlots last year.

"Last year 72 percent of all cattle marketed through feedlots were marketed through the larger lots," the report said. "This compares with 71 percent in 1979, 68 percent in 1978, and only 58 percent in 1971."

Even so, it said, only two size categories of feedlots were more numerous last year.

Feedlots with capacities of from 1,000 head to 1,999 head increased from 971 in 1979 to 1,046," the report said. "Those with capacities of over 32,000 head increased from 68 to 69."

Grain policy could hurt Soviets

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The United States could effectively penalize the Soviet Union by extending and tightening controls on grain exports to the U.S.S.R., according to a new study.

The study urging further restrictions on grain sales to the Soviets comes when President Ronald Reagan is under pressure from farm groups to lift the partial embargo imposed by former President Jimmy Carter in the wake of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

A policy of going beyond the grain sale cutback the former president imposed could cause Soviet meat shortages similar to those that touched off recent disturbances in Poland, according to a study prepared for the Heritage Foundation, a conservative, Washington-based public policy research institute.

"If the United States were to tighten its controls and seriously seek cooperation from other suppliers in 1981, Soviet citizens would feel the effects and there would be noticeable repercussions in the Soviet economy," according to Paige Bryan, author of the study.

"If meat is scarce and prices are high, the U.S.S.R. could experience uprisings such as the ones which occurred recently in Poland. There have, in fact, been small uprisings in the Soviet Union during the last few years, but these have not received publicity."

Bryan currently is associate director of foreign trade policy at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. An international economist, she worked for three years with the Bureau of East-West Trade and the Office of Export Administration in the Department of Commerce.

Her arguments that the export door to the Soviets should be further closed runs counter to arguments from farm groups that Reagan should keep his campaign pledge to lift the partial embargo on grain sales to the Soviets.

President Reagan has been urged to lift the embargo by many agricultural groups or their chief officers, including the presidents of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers' Union and the National Farmers Organization. Reagan's secretary of agriculture, Illinois farmer John Block, also is philosophically opposed to embargoes and has said all of the agricultural embargoes of recent years were mistakes.

Block said at his confirmation hearings that embargoes should be imposed only as a last resort and should not be limited solely to agricultural products. Block also said he did not know if the Afghanistan invasion justified a complete embargo on all exports to the Soviets.

AGRICULTURE

Grain inventories show drought effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest grain inventory figures by the Agriculture Department show the effects of last year's drought shriveled harvests and a record demand abroad for U.S. commodities.

With the exception of wheat, the department's quarterly report issued Monday showed declines for all major grains and oilseeds. Last year's wheat crop set a record and was mostly harvested before the summer's drought and heat wave took a toll.

As of Jan. 1, the report showed:

Corn stored in "all positions" such as on farms and in commercial warehouses at about 5.85 billion bushels, down 15 percent from a record Jan. 1 level a year earlier of 6.89 billion bushels.

Sorghum grain at 465.8 million bushels, down 28 percent from 647.7 million a year earlier. That was the smallest Jan. 1 stock of sorghum since 1975.

Oats stocks at 390.9 million bushels, down 18 percent from 476.8 million a year earlier. It was the smallest Jan. 1 inventory of oats since the department began keeping such records in 1942.

Agriculture appointees not pleased with letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some departing political appointees at the Agriculture Department are miffed at the wording in letters of dismissal being received this week.

As part of the transition from Democratic to Republican control, they were notified earlier to submit their resignations and stand by to see which ones were accepted.

The firings were carried out in a terse two-paragraph form by the department's director of personnel, John W. Fossum. It was the final paragraph that rankled some of the departing job holders.

This action is due to lack of confidence in your ability to carry out the programs and policies of the current leadership of this agency, and should not be construed in any way as a reflection on you personally.

Frugality doesn't cost

Ronald Reagan went into office with a flurry of activity that indicates he will attempt to follow up on his pledge to bring federal spending into line and, presumably, the economy into control.

That requires drastic action and the new president got started in that direction by telling federal employees and officials, in effect, to set an example for the rest of the people of the nation.

He expects them to do that by cutting government travel by 15 percent, outside consultations by 5 percent and to stop buying office furniture until further notice. He even told his appointees "not to redecorate their offices."

Initially, President Reagan's thrust at re-teaching federal employees to live within the means of the government — and to keep those governmental costs to a minimum — meet with our approval. Nobody said it would be easy — or painless — to make the cuts necessary to bring our runaway economy back under control.

But it is necessary if we are not to suffer economic collapse. That, of course, must not be allowed.

Now that our nation's going to be learning to live on a reduced budget, the real trick is for each of us to learn to demand less of that government. We must understand that we only get what we pay for and that by demanding less, the bill will be lower.

Frugality begins with each of us.

Recognizing talent

Congratulations to Katie Dennedy, recently named this year's "Young Career Woman" by the Midland Uptown Chapter of Business and Professional Women's Club.

The award is presented annually to a Midland woman between the ages of 21 and 30 who is actively engaged in business or a profession.

The recognition of excellence is important in all segments of society. Ms. Dennedy's recognition is important because she represents a vital and growing segment of the American labor force — the young, career-oriented woman.

Too often, it seems, many Americans fail to recognize the important role served in business and industry by women. Without women filling the roles they fill today, our society would be sorely pressed to fill the void and deprived of the creative talents of many individuals.

We appreciate the contributions and the talents of not only Ms. Dennedy, but also of every woman who takes an active role in the life of this community.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1981. There are 337 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 28th, 1871, Paris surrendered to Germany in the Franco-Prussian war.

On this date: In 1547, 9-year-old Edward VI became king of England on the death of Henry VIII.

In 1596, Sir Francis Drake, the English navigator, died on his ship off Panama.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson signed legislation creating the U.S. Coast Guard.

In 1979, China's First Vice Premier, Deng Xiaoping, arrived in Washington for the start of an eight-day state visit.

Five years ago: The Senate approved a 200-mile fishing limit off the United States coast.

One year ago: Islamic foreign ministers meeting in Pakistan passed a resolution condemning Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Today's birthday: Actor Alan Alda is 45.

Thought for today: The luck of having talent isn't enough; you must also have a talent for luck — French composer Hector Berlioz (1803-1869).

NICK THIMMESCH

Treating Iran coldly now will help get the point across

WASHINGTON — One big question in this town is what should U.S. policy be on Iran, now that the hostages are free? Iran, though run by irresponsible, fanatical revolutionaries, is a major country, rich with oil and market promise, and strategically important.

Still, across our land, people are furious about this absurd, cruel regime, and the way it treated the American citizens who staffed our embassy. To the revolutionaries, these Americans were detested symbols. But to the citizenry here, barbarism is barbarism, and we are outraged.

There are emotional cries for retaliation. One hostage said that if he ever went back to Iran, he would only go in a B-52 loaded with bombs. But there will be no such military retaliation. And while some angry people want President Reagan to renege on the agreement Jimmy Carter negotiated, we must honor it. To do otherwise is to stoop to the level of the Iranian kidnappers.

That doesn't mean we have to cater to these thugs by quickly implementing the agreement. We can drag our feet, make them fume and sweat, and thus get a smidgen of satisfaction for the anger we feel.

By no means should we restore diplomatic relations with this madhouse regime. We should be ice-cold to Iran, ignoring that gang of outlaws with a magnificent aloofness. We should, however, consult with our European allies on what changes might occur in Iran, allowing us to communicate with elements able to establish a new, reasonable government. We waited out the revolutionary regime in-Portugal this way, to our eventual benefit.

Meanwhile, we should not trade with Iran, even though some big American businesses such as General Electric want to. The hell with these firms and Iranian interests, too. Any businesses, lawyers or others wanting to traffic with this regime should be put to public shame through the media.

And while the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that Americans have a right to travel anywhere, even to enemy states such as Iran, I think these travelers should be put to shame, too, as Ramsay Clark, the former attorney general, has been.

There are many Iranian students in the U.S., and again, we would be acting like the Khomeini regime if we abused them. Unless they break the law, we should allow them to complete their studies and return to Iran. We should grant political asylum to those who strongly oppose Khomeini.

We should keep the five frigates and destroyers we have in the Persian Gulf right there, and the same for the carrier task force on station in the Gulf of Oman. Any removal of these ships would only be interpreted as a sign of weakness. We would be crazy to deliver any arms purchases to Iran. That Iraqi-Iran war is a blessing to us. It has developed into a dying war, and one day, all will be quiet on the Iranian front. Meanwhile, let those two nations lock in deadly embrace.

What was once called the United States Information Agency, which now lives awkwardly with the acronym ICA, has been beaming Persian broadcasts in Persian into Iran for two years. After the storming of our embassy in Tehran in early 1979, and the seizure of our staffers later that year, these broadcasts were increased to five hours a day. They include reports on speeches by the son of the late shah in Cairo, who has proclaimed himself the new shah.

ICA reports that the programs prompt good response from Iranians in Iran, but claims it doesn't have enough staff to handle five hours of programming. Given President Reagan's skill and interest in communications, I think he should authorize more money for these Persian programs, so we can get our message into Iran. There must be rational people in Iran, and we should reach them.

Now, there are experts in this town who would disagree with my ideas on how to treat Iran. These people aren't necessarily dovish, and describe themselves as realists.

Take Robert J. Pranger, the highly respected director of International Programs at the American Enterprise Institute. He is as disgusted as anyone over the Iranian revolutionaries' despicable behavior, but he believes that we should shift from our hard line and try to find some sort of normalized relations. In offering the reminder that the U.S. has a vital stake in Iran, and that the Soviets are blatantly courting the revolutionary regime by siding with them on the hostage issue, Pranger says: "A conservative foreign policy distinguishes national interests from a feeling of understandable moral outrage."

I'll buy that, but I would add that the problem with American foreign policy in recent years is that it gave the rest of the world the idea that we have no backbone, and are vulnerable to mischief-makers and outright bullies like the Iranian regime. We have been shamed enough by consenting to an official U.S. government agreement made with terrorists calling themselves a government.

That's why I am for giving Iran the coldest of shoulders and doing them no favors. They did wrong, and should be made to know it.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bureaucrats still deny justice to doctor

WASHINGTON — It's bad enough when U.S. consular officials fail to help Americans who run into trouble overseas; it's worse when the bureaucrats dissemble about what they did or failed to do.

Last month, I reported the disgraceful case of Dr. April Sasaki, a 29-year-old physician from Hawaii who was raped, beaten and robbed by a Nepalese soldier while she was hiking in the Himalayas in November of last year.

The vicious attack was only the beginning of Sasaki's troubles. When she made her way to a nearby village, she managed to persuade Nepalese officials that she needed hospital care, and a government helicopter flew her to the primitive hospital in Katmandu.

There she was visited by the American consul, Nancy Powell, who told Sasaki she would not be allowed to leave until she had paid $4,300 for the one-hour helicopter ride. The demand was made enforceable by the fact that Sasaki's passport had been picked up earlier by a U.S. consulate employee.

Sasaki got a friend in Bangkok to wire her the "bail money." Now back in the United States recuperating from her ordeal, Sasaki recently went to work to raise the money to repay her debt.

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Consular Affairs reacted to my original column by claiming that money was never an issue, that Sasaki's passport was never confiscated — and that the consulate should be commended, not chastised. A State Department official also insisted that the department is still trying to recover Sasaki's money.

Sasaki, however, sticks by her account of the episode. And a sworn statement by her hospital roommate in Katmandu, Sharon Lee Childs, puts the lie to the State Department's version of events.

I remember how utterly amazed I was when I heard the woman from the American Embassy tell April that the embassy was holding her passport until she could somehow get or raise 50,000 rupees ($4,300) for the emergency airlift provided by the Royal Nepalese Army helicopter," said Childs, "and that she could not leave the country of Nepal until the bill was paid."

Childs' affidavit, along with that of another witness, Gregory Petrie, has been obtained by Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii. But the senator's repeated efforts to pry information from the State Department have been stonewalled, and a Privacy Act waiver authorizing Inouye's access to the Sasaki file has apparently been lost in Foggy Bottom's mailroom.

"We would really like to hear State's side," an Inouye aide told my reporter Charles Berman. The senator himself has called Sasaki's treatment inexcusable, and has requested "the immediate reimbursement of (Sasaki's) expenses ... accompanied by a strong letter of apology."

Far from offering an apology, however, Ambassador Phillip Trimble chose to play P.R. games with the case. He sent Sasaki a letter on Dec. 3,

ART BUCHWALD

It's a difficult choice between driving or eating

WASHINGTON — Every once in a while, someone comes up with a magic word that will end the energy crisis. The latest one is "gasohol." It is now possible to make fuel for cars from grain products, potatoes and practically anything that can be grown on a farm. Several major oil companies are starting to get into the gasohol business. Since we are the largest food-producing nation in the world, we should be able to solve our energy problems with "gasohol."

But food experts are pessimistic, and with reason.

This is what could happen in the next few years on a farm in Nebraska: A buyer from an oil refinery and one from a grain dealer show up at the same time.

"We'll take your whole crop," the refinery buyer tells the farmer.

"Wait a minute," the grain dealer says. "We need that wheat for bread."

"Gasohol is more important than bread," the refinery buyer insists. "The more fuel we can make at home, the less we have to order from abroad."

"People need bread more than they need gasoline," the grain buyer protests.

The farmer finally says, "I don't care what you're buying it for. What are you paying?"

The refinery man says, "We'll give you $5 a bushel." The grain merchant says, "We'll give you $3.50."

The refinery man says, "We'll give you six and we don't even care what the wheat looks like."

The grain man is getting nervous. "We'll pay six-fifty, but that means the price of bread will go right through the roof. You can't let people go hungry this winter."

The refinery man says, "People would rather have a full tank of gas than a full stomach. You can't waste good wheat on bread."

The farmer says, "Keep talking price. I ain't interested in any other arguments."

The refinery man says, "We'll give you $7 and throw in two large harvesting machines as a bonus."

"We can't compete with that," the grain man says. "Well, OK, we'll pay $8 a bushel and paint your house."

The refinery man says, "We'll give you $9 a bushel and a two-week vacation in Acapulco."

The farmer says, "Do I hear $10?" The refinery man says, "Ten dollars."

The grain man is about to slug the refinery buyer. "You people are crazy. If we can't feed the population, this country will go down the drain."

"Not if they can drive their cars," the refinery man says.

The farmer smiles. "This is getting to be a lot of fun. I think I'll resign from the farmers' union and join OPEC."

The grain man says, "All right, Howell, forget the wheat. Let's talk about your corn."

The refinery man says, "You mean you have corn, too? Why didn't you say so? We can use all the corn you've got."

"I usually sell my corn for cattle." "Forget the cattle. Give us the corn crop and we'll make you another J.R. Ewing."

"So what do people do for meat?" the grain man asks.

The refinery man replies, "Let 'em eat cake."

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

Welcome home, former hostages. Now comes the tough part — publicity.

Beware of any television network which wants you to be a script consultant for a new situation comedy called "Those Incredible Hostages!"

Turn a deaf ear to any guy with a cigar and pinky ring who wants to make you president of his corporation — especially if you only have three years of high school.

Watch out for the Bible-thumpers who want to instantly ordain you a minister in their church and send you out on a speaking tour of 150 cities three days after you get home.

If you've never had a car dealership, fast-food restaurant or neighborhood tavern named after you or never had your picture painted on a souvenir plate, don't let them talk you into it now. Being a hostage once is enough.

The Newspaper BIBLE

AN UNBORN BABY FILLED WITH JOY!

A few days later Mary hurried to the highlands of Judea to the town where Zacharias lived, to visit Elizabeth.

At the sound of Mary's greeting, Elizabeth's child leaped within her and she was filled with the Holy Spirit.

She gave a glad cry and exclaimed to Mary, "You are favored by God above all other women, and your child is destined for God's mightiest praise.

"What and honor this is, that the mother of my Lord should visit me! When you came in and greeted me, the instant I heard your voice, my baby moved in me for joy! You believed that God would do what He said; that is why He has given you this wonderful blessing."

Mary responded, "Oh, how I praise the Lord. How I rejoice in God my Savior!"

"For He took notice of His lowly servant girl, and now generation after generation forever shall call me blest of God.

"For He, the mighty Holy One, has done great things to me. His mercy goes on from generation to generation, to all who reverence Him.

"How powerful is His mighty arm! How He scatters the proud and haughty ones! He has torn princes from their thrones and exalted the lowly. He has satisfied the hungry hearts and sent the rich away with empty hands.

"And how He has helped His servant Israel! He has not forgotten His promise to be merciful. For He promised our fathers--Abraham and his children--to be merciful to them forever."

Men at TWU: Enrollment no joke

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Men enrolled at Texas Woman's University are "very serious, very fine students" and are not a joke, no matter what a disgruntled would-be transfer student says, according to the school's president.

The complaint came from a 20-year-old DeSoto man, Eric Herman, who told a newspaper reporter he wants to transfer from Howard Payne University in Brownwood to TWU, the Denton school's music therapy program.

But when he inquired at the admissions office about transferring, an employee told him he was ineligible "because I'm a guy," he told the Dallas Morning News.

He said the employee told him, "We have a lot of males who come here and we say it's not that they can't pass the entrance, they can't pass the physical."

"What perturbed me the most was their attitude that it was a joke because I was male," he said.

TWU President Mary Evelyn Huey said she could find neither a formal admission application from Herman nor the employee who, Herman claims, considered his inquiry a "joke."

"I'm sorry if he has been offended," she said. "I have not been able to find who said that but certainly we do not take the young men at our university as a joke. They are very serious, very fine students and we take them very seriously."

She said Herman's only contact with the university, as far as she could determine, was an informal visit during the fall semester.

The university policy banning men from its general studies field is legal, under a 1972 amendment to Title VII of the Public Education Act that permits single-sex admissions at any college that "...from its establishment has had a policy of admitting only students of one sex."

Admission standards are "clearly set out in the university catalog," Mrs. Huey said, and are carefully explained to each of the "10 or 12" male applicants the university gets each academic year.

"This is the first one who has been apparently unable to accept our policy," she said Monday.

"We try to counsel with these young men, as was done in this case. He was told he could complete his undergraduate work, then enroll in our graduate program."

Men are enrolled in the graduate school and health sciences division, but not in the undergraduate general studies division, a situation that is both legal and proper, she said.

"I'm very strongly in support of the notion that a woman's university is a proper thing," she said. "First of all, a woman is given a better opportunity to realize her full potential at a woman's univ. Studies affirm and confirm this."

"On a single-sex campus a woman has a greater opportunity to participate in total campus life and assume positions of leadership, than at coed schools," she said.

"We have several students who transfer to TWU who have been discouraged because of the treatment they get at coed schools.

"I grew up on this campus. I never knew that there was any question but that a woman could do anything she decided to do, and our students leave TWU convinced of that."

Herman said he did not want to enroll for the other music therapy programs available in Texas because one, at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, is "very expensive" and the other, at West Texas State University in Canyon, is "so far away."

He said he has worked with retarded children at a summer camp near Argyle, north of Denton, and wants to combine that with his love of music in studying music therapy.

Labor unrest increasing as Solidarity calls another strike

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A general strike was called in southeast Poland today as labor unrest increased across the country again. Warsaw Television said strikes Tuesday cost 40,000 tons of coal production and accused the independent labor movement of maintaining an atmosphere of anxiety and tension.

The general strike was called by the Rzeszow chapter of Solidarity, Poland's big independent labor union, because the government failed to send a delegation to the city 160 miles south of Warsaw to discuss the delay in the registration of an independent union of private farmers.

Some 300 farmers and peasants have occupied a union building in Rzeszow since Jan. 3, protesting the lack of a farmers' union and other grievances. Lech Walesa, Solidarity's moderate leader, met with the protesters Tuesday but failed in an attempt to talk them out of a general strike.

Former hostage resting comfortably in hospital

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Robert C. Ode is hospitalized with bronchitis and suffering from exhaustion, but his physician said today the oldest of the 52 former hostages is doing fine.

"He rested comfortably, he is in satisfactory condition and his temperature is down," said Susan Steif, director of public affairs at the National Hospital for Orthopaedics and Rehabilitation. "We're taking good care of him."

Ode, 65, checked into the hospital's emergency room shortly after 7 p.m. Tuesday, and was admitted for rest and observation, said State Department spokesman Jack Tuohy.

"He had a little fever and a cough and obviously fatigue," Miss Steif said.

She quoted Ode's doctor, Richard A. Schwartz, as saying he was making a satisfactory recovery. The doctor did not think the bronchitis had been contracted in Iran, she said.

Miss Steif said Ode would remain hospitalized at least through today. Ode had retired from the foreign service, but went to Iran on a temporary assignment a month before the embassy was seized. Ode and his wife, Rita, lived in Falls Church, Va., but while he was gone Mrs. Ode carried through on their plans to move to Sun City, Ariz.

Reagan's tank sale may anger Algeria

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration plans to notify Congress that it would like to sell 108 U.S. M60 tanks to Morocco, a move that could anger Algeria, The Washington Post reported today.

The request for the tanks was made in July, several months after the Carter administration had decided to sell Morocco about $252 million worth of reconnaissance planes and helicopters.

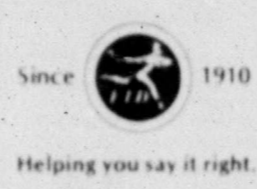

The Post, quoting unidentified State Department sources, said Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., under the original schedule, already has allowed the transfer to Morocco of the first two reconnaissance planes.

Transfer of the tanks had been put aside after Algeria entered the hostage negotiations.

Morocco, a longtime ally of the United States, and Algeria have been engaged in a bitter dispute over the status of the Moroccan-claimed territory of Western Sahara. Algeria backs a nationalist guerilla movement there.

Secretary OK's Times purchase

LONDON (AP) — Government approval of press tycoon Rupert Murdoch's purchase of the prestigious Times of London and its four stablemates cleared the way today for negotiations with the printers' unions that will decide whether he goes ahead with the deal.

Trade Secretary John Biffen gave the government's green light Tuesday to the Australian-born publisher of the New York Post and Britain's two biggest-circulation newspapers, the tabloid daily Sun and the Sunday News of the World. But he told the House of Commons the government was attaching eight conditions to guarantee the independence of the editorial staffs of the Times, the Sunday Times, the Times Literary Supplement and two educational supplements.

Biffen told the House of Commons the Times Newspapers' articles of association would be amended to specify that the four independent directors on the 19-member board would be increased to six, only the independent directors could hire or fire editors, editors would retain control over political comment and news reporting, editors would have the sole right to hire and direct the other journalists, and the papers could not be resold without the approval of the independent directors.

The editor of the Sunday Times, Harold Evans, said this constituted "a charter of freedom." But the Daily Telegraph, another leading British paper, said the conditions could "lead to endless contention and repeated deadlock."

Proposed budget gives UTPB increase in funds

AUSTIN — The University of Texas at the Permian Basin would receive $12.92 million for the 1982-83 biennium under a budget proposed by the Legislative Budget Board, as compared to $12.85 million the school would receive under Gov. Bill Clements' proposed budget.

According to the LBB proposal, UTPB would receive $6.19 million in fiscal 1982 and $6.73 million in fiscal 1983. Clements' proposal would provide $6.15 million for 1982 and $6.69 million in 1983.

The largest single component of the UTPB budget is faculty salaries which the LBB budget would appropriate $1.88 million for in 1982 and $2.05 million in 1983.

Clements' budget call for about $300,000 less for faculty salaries—$1.76 million in 1982 and $1.86 million in 1983. The governor's proposal, however, does include merit salary increases of $121,702 in 1982 and $186,255 in 1983.

Both the LBB and governor's proposals are only recommendations and still must be approved by the Legislature.

Other differences between the LBB budget and Clements' proposal for UTPB (stated in totals for the biennium) include: general administration, LBB $1.08 million, Clements, $1.04 million; staff benefits, LBB, $354,640, Clements, $296,640; departmental operating expense, LBB $730,669, Clements, 761,532; library, LBB, $747,254, Clements, $761,532; and purchased utilities, LBB, $3.69 million, Clements, $3.69 million.

The LBB also has proposed a budget of $12.45 million and $13.33 million in 1982 and 1983, respectively for the Big Spring State Hospital, and a budget of $2.93 million in 1982 and $3.15 million in 1983 for the West Texas Children's Home.

Clements has proposed $11.54 million and $12.35 million for Big Spring State Hospital. Clements' proposal does not indicate specific budget figures for the West Texas Children's Home, except for $1.26 million in construction funds for fiscal 1982.

The hospital and children's home budgets also must be approved by the Legislature.

Patricia Hurley to speak Saturday

World affairs analyst Patricia Hurley will address issues of what America can expect from Congress and President Reagan at a talk Saturday in the Frontier Room of the Holiday Inn, 3904 W. Wall St. The talk begins at 8 p.m.

Ms. Hurley, sponsored by local chapters of the John Birch Society, will talk on "No Honeymoon for Correcting Our Foreign Policy Debacles."

A resident of Southern California, Ms. Hurley has lectured coast to coast under the auspices of the American Opinion Speakers Bureau, an adjunct of the John Birch Society. She is the daughter of the late Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, who was Secretary of State under Herbert Hoover and Ambassador to China during the months when the post World War II fate of Asia was being shaped.

For years, Patricia Hurley was her father's confidante, and had access to his reports, records and correspondence. She also is a world traveler who has visited parts of Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe and North and South America.

In her talk in Midland, Ms. Hurley is expected to present evidence to show that for years America's leaders haven't put this country first. Her knowledge of national and international policies is reinforced by her close contact with a number of the 20th century's greatest crises.

Specific topics to be covered include the crises in Iran and the Middle East, the Panama Canal treaties, the Soviet arms buildup, the threat facing the free world, U.S. military preparedness and U.S. policies toward Red China.

Rep. Perry taken by practical joke

ATLANTA (AP) — State Rep. Ed Perry thought he was too smart to fall for a prank traditionally played on first-term lawmakers.

When he got a note, purportedly from Gov. George Busbee, requesting an immediate audience in the governor's office, the Democrat scribbled a reply that, "Governor, I'm busy voting, and I'll be down when I'm through."

Perry's tormentors immediately got Busbee's executive secretary, Tom Perdue, to inform Perry that the governor was terribly offended.

Perry showed up at the governor's office later to apologize and Busbee, who by then was a party to the proceedings, informed the first-term lawmaker that in his six years in office, he had never been subjected to such rudeness.

Busbee lectured the white-faced legislator: "There's really only one thing wrong with you — the friends you keep."

At that point, Perry realized he'd been had.

Priest urges adoption of black kids

CHICAGO (AP) — A black Roman Catholic priest who plans to adopt a black child says he'll stump the nation to persuade other blacks to follow his example.

The Rev. George Clements, 48, once chaplain for the Black Panthers and a civil rights marcher, said Monday he expects to leave today for Los Angeles, the first stop on a national tour that will include 12 cities.

"My message will be that in 1981, we as black people are going to have to get rid of this problem of 100,000 homeless black children in this country. It's a national scandal. And if we don't, we'll just have to hang our heads in shame," Clements said in a telephone interview.

"I'll be asking help of black churches, calling it, 'One church, one (adopted) child,'" he said.

Clements, pastor of Holy Angels Church, plans to adopt Bobby, a 12-year old black child he met through an orphanage, as soon as possible. He said that the adoption could be completed as early as mid-April.

The Catholic Archdiocese has issued no strong opposition to Clements' adoption plan. The priest has said he would not go through with it if forbidden to do so by church authorities.

The boy, whom Clements took along on a 2 1/2 week trip of Nigeria earlier this month, will not accompany Clements on the tour, the priest said.

"But I'll be home every weekend. After all, that's my gig," said Clements, who has been named the boy's foster parent.

"The trip to Nigeria was an opportunity for me to get to know (Bobby) and for him to get to know me. We certainly did that," he said.

"And we also found there are no homeless children in Africa because of the extended family system which is able to take over if necessary. Homeless kids are an American phenomenon."

Clements said he's often heard black families here say they cannot afford to adopt a child, "but the Nigerians have so much less than we do."

His transportation costs for touring this country will be paid by black congregations and radio and television stations in the cities he plans to visit, Clements said.

Other cities on his tour are Washington, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Cleveland, Atlanta, Pittsburgh and Newark, New York and Houston, he said.

At last — the real homecoming

Freed hostage Thomas Schaefer loses his hat amid enthusiastic hugs from family members upon his arrival Tuesday at Andrews Air Force Base, Md. Schaefer, an Air Force colonel, is a resident of Falls Church, Va. (AP Laserphotos)

By C.W. MIRANKER
Associated Press Writer

Military bands and color guards were at the ready at airports around the country. Shoulder-to-shoulder crowds ringed tarmacs and lined motorcade routes as hometown welcomes began for the freed hostages.

Greetings of all kinds awaited the 52 special Americans, from public acclaim to silent thanksgiving. They're getting keys to cities, glasses of champagne, bouquets of yellow roses. They'll hear church bells and the national anthem. They'll see miles of yellow ribbon and their names on billboards.

After a stirring celebration Tuesday in the nation's capital — from a White House reception to fireworks over the Potomac — the freed captives began leaving for smaller, but no less heartfelt welcomes in their hometowns.

When Rodney "Rocky" Sickmann's plane touches down at St. Louis today, the 22-year-old Marine sergeant will see a giant yellow ribbon wound around the airport control tower.

A Marine Corps color guard was to post colors as a U.S. Air Force band played the national anthem in his honor.

Yellow ribbons mark each mile along the route from St. Louis to Krakow, Mo., where "Welcome Home Rocky" signs appear in hundreds of windows, and trees appear to have sprouted yellow ribbons.

His hometown hopes to throw a celebration Feb. 12 if Sickmann approves. At a special Mass at St. Francis Borgia Catholic Church, the date still uncertain, the young man will extinguish a votive candle like the one his mother first lit on Ash Wednesday last year.

Donald A. Sharer was returning to Norfolk, Va., for a celebration beginning at the airport and ending at the courthouse, where a tree was being planted in his honor.

The Navy commander from Chesapeake, Va., has a green thumb that didn't get much use for 444 days in Iran.

"I've planted so many gardens in my head...you wouldn't believe all the things I've grown in the past 14 months," he quipped. "Once we really planted orange seeds in some old dirt but they wouldn't grow — typical Iranian oranges."

Jimmy Lopez and his family were flying into Phoenix to board a state plane with Gov. Bruce Babbitt for a flight to Globe. On Thursday, the 22-year-old Marine will be honored in a parade and welcome-home celebration by his hometown.

The state on Sunday plans a parade in Phoenix for both Lopez and Robert Ode, at 65 the oldest of the freed Americans.

A billboard near Interstate 80 in West Sacramento, Calif., is emblazoned with "DONALD WELCOME BACK TO FREEDOM!" in readiness for Donald Hohman's return Thursday. The city plans a reception for him on Feb. 6.

In San Diego, Wednesday through Saturday are "Richard and Dorothea Morefield Days."

Morefield, who was U.S. consul general in Tehran, was due back in his hometown today after an airport welcome from a Navy band, a Marine Corps color guard and crowds of well-wishers. Mrs. Morefield was to get a bouquet of 52 yellow roses, and church bells were to peal for five minutes after their arrival.

On Thursday, there will be a Thanksgiving Mass and on Saturday a giant celebration in Balboa Park.

Frederick "Rick" Kupke, flying to Indianapolis today, was getting an escort on his drive to Francesville, Ind. Church bells were to ring as the family passed through Rensselaer, where there will be a program honoring the 34-year-old man Thursday night.

A Marine color guard was to escort Kevin Hermening from Milwaukee to his home in suburban Oak Creek, Wis., today. Those awaiting his arrival at his alma mater, Oak Creek High School, included Gov. Lee S. Dreyfus.

Marine Sgt. Steven Kirtley was expected to return to Little Rock, Ark., quietly today, with public celebrations planned for next week.

A champagne reception awaited William Belk at Columbia (S.C.) Metropolitan Airport today. After toasts from Gov. Dick Riley, a motorcade was to carry Belk and his family home to West Columbia.

Shoulder-to-shoulder crowds, decked in yellow ribbon and waving flags, were expected to line the five-mile route. Local radio stations handed out 3,000 flags, and another distributed 17½ miles of yellow ribbon.

'Fourth of July' celebration held

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was Ronald Reagan's kind of day — a day of anthems and American flags, an old-fashioned Fourth of July transplanted to January, complete with fireworks.

As on the night of Reagan's inauguration, just one week before, an array of skyrockets burst over the monuments of American government, this time not for one man come to power but for 52 come home.

Hollywood could not have produced a better cast as a rallying point for a new president dedicated to the old virtues of patriotism and the individual.

At his inauguration, President Reagan spoke of all his countrymen as the real heroes of the land. Here in testament to that were 53 of them, including one released by Iran more than six months ago because of ill health.

"Mr. President," said Bruce Laingen, the ranking hostage-diplomat who spoke for them all, "...I give you now 53 Americans who will always have a love affair with this country and who join you in a prayer of thanksgiving for the way in which this crisis has strengthened the spirit and resilience and strength that is the mark of a truly free society."

It wasn't Reagan's crisis; it was Jimmy Carter's. Indeed, Reagan the campaigner had at times raised it as an issue against the president he defeated. But it was Reagan's celebration.

Carter was gone, on the way to a Virgin Islands vacation he would rather not have had time for, far from the ceremony of homecoming he so dearly wanted to convene at his own White House.

Actually, the freed hostages honored by Reagan and the nation's capital Tuesday were 52 Americans who happened to be standing in the wrong places at the wrong time, on Nov. 4, 1979, when Iranian militants seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. To say so does not detract from the valor they showed in the 444 days of captivity that followed.

Laingen said he didn't feel like a hero. But they were all honored as heroes, Reagan's kind of heroes, ordinary people bearing — and overcoming — extraordinary stress.

"I can assure you that we're prepared to go out and become rank-and-file common citizens again," Laingen said.

To such rank-and-file citizens, Reagan had dedicated his inaugural address. That inauguration was a national ceremony, too, but it was a celebration of party as well as country, a day for Republicans returned to power.

Tuesday's homecoming celebration knew no political party. It was for Americans. That made it a second, special inauguration for the Reagan administration.

Never mind that the hostage liberation was negotiated by Carter's administration, or that Reagan has yet to firmly commit his government to all the terms of the agreement that got them out. Those were details, set aside for this day.

Reagan's inaugural address, once deemed by his aides a likely vehicle for a stern warning to Iran, made no mention of the hostages or their captors. On Tuesday, there was no mention of anything else.

Warning there was, exactly the kind of warning candidate Reagan had said he would have issued had he been in the White House when the hostages were taken. Reagan the candidate said he would have told Iran to release them or face the certainty of very unpleasant steps in retribution for their capture.

He said that as president, in more general terms, Tuesday, "Let terrorists be aware that when the rules of international behavior are violated, our policy will be one of swift and effective retribution," Reagan said. "We hear it said that we live in an era of limit to our powers. Well, let it also be understood that there are limits to our patience."

But he was speaking to freed men and women, safe on the White House lawn, not — as was Carter's lot — to an unpredictable revolutionary government that held the lives of Americans in its power. Perhaps his warning will be enough. But as Laingen said, the nation had best be braced for the possibility that American diplomats may again be seized in an alien land. When and if they are, Reagan might face a dilemma like the one that beset Carter for so long.

Marines planned escape from Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Marines held captive in Iran engineered an elaborate escape plan that would have been attempted on Feb. 12 had they not been released, said Marine Sgt. John D. McKeel, a former hostage.

"We already had plans made up and had everything we needed, and we were fixing to break out," McKeel said today in an interview on the Larry King Show on the Mutual Broadcasting System.

McKeel said the Marines planned to jump the Iranian guards, try to get their weapons and fight their way out. The plan, he said, was to head for Greece.

The Marines used razor blades and pens to fashion homemade knives and planned on mixing kerosene from the water heater and soap detergent to produce a makeshift bomb, he said.

"We had very many different types of weapons," he said. "If you let your imagination go wild you come up with something."

McKeel said they also had discovered where the Iranian weapons were being kept.

Although plans for the escape were made in June, while he was being held in an Iranian prison, the Marines decided not to implement them until after the presidential elections, McKeel said.

"We were going to give it until February because of the presidential election," he said. "We were going to wait until that and see what happened."

McKeel said he believed they would be able to reach Greece.

Trips to Iran discouraged despite lifting of travel ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is warning Americans to stay away from Iran, even though the ban on travel there was lifted with release of the American hostages.

The U.S. government's ability to protect anyone who gets in trouble in Iran is "very limited," State Department spokesman William Dyess said Tuesday. Among the dangers, he said, is the possibility that Americans could be "detained without charge."

"The State Department strongly urges U.S. citizens to avoid travel to Iran," Dyess said.

The Reagan administration had considered reimposing the travel ban, but Dyess said officials opted instead for the warning, which carries no penalties.

Dyess said the advisory applies to all Americans, including reporters, although it was issued partly in response to inquiries from businessmen.

The agreement that led to the release of the 52 American hostages also lifted the trade ban with Iran, but Dyess said the State Department was advising businessmen to "go slow."

The Justice Department, meanwhile, asked 25 U.S. District courts to delay for 30 days any action on claims against Iranian assets. During that time, no one will be prosecuted for delays in transferring assets to Iran as required by the hostage release agreement, the department said.

The delays are necessary to give the Reagan administration time to review the pact, which was signed by former President Carter, the department said in statements of interest filed with the courts.

The Justice Department said the delay also would give the government time to prepare Treasury Department regulations and "possible further executive orders" to implement the deal.

In another legal matter, attorney Melvin Belli said he will decide whether to file suits against Iran on behalf of a number of former hostages and their families after he talks to the freed Americans.

The hostage release agreement promised there would be no such suits.

Ribbons wanted

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Veterans Administration Hospital in this Florida city is asking Americans around the nation to send discarded yellow hostess ribbons here for an "honorable disposal."

On Feb. 20, the Bay Pines VA Hospital will burn the ribbons in the hospital incinerator and the U.S. Coast Guard will scatter the ashes over the Gulf of Mexico.

U.S. blinded to problems, hostage says

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — American government and business interests in Iran blinded the United States to the instability and inevitable downfall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, former hostage Michael Metrinko says.

"I'd say American business, American government, if you will, the American defense establishment, had a great stake in Iran at the time — a stake that Iran remain as it was," Metrinko said in an interview Tuesday.

"And people who don't want something to change don't like to believe it will change," he said.

Metrinko, a political officer at the U.S. Embassy when it was seized by militants Nov. 4, 1979, said he had alerted superiors to the precarious position of the shah, but said his was "a minority opinion" among State Department analysts.

The 34-year-old resident of Olyphant, Pa., said he spent half his 444-day captivity in solitary confinement.

He had been accused of being a spy and was told several times that he already had been tried and sentenced to death, he said. But Metrinko told the Scranton Times that he never feared death.

"I thought a lot about it, especially in the beginning, and I decided I didn't very much care if they killed me now or not."

Horse owners in vigilante mood

Janice Zimmerman, daughter of Walter and Jeannine Zimmerman of Midland, displays the saddle she won at the annual Golden Spread Quarter Horse Association Year End Awards Banquet held in Amarillo last weekend. GARLAND, Texas (AP) — Back in the days when Texas was a wild, young part of the American West, a convicted horse thief was a rare man — usually because ranchers made sure he didn't live long enough to stand trial.

Times may have changed since then, but 13 horse thefts in the past two weeks have angry horseowners in this Dallas suburb arming themselves and thinking about forming a modern day "posse" to deal with the "varmits."

But the vigilante mood of the equine enthusiasts has had dangerous drawbacks, says one stable owner. "It's a powder keg," said Bill Taylor of the Lazy J stables here. "Two women were out checking their horses and they almost shot each other the other night."

"Horse owners and horse traders are real proud people," adds Garland police Det. Jackie Waggoner. "They buy a horse when it's a small colt and raise it for years and years and years. When it gets stolen, they don't like it one bit."

Waggoner said police have increased their patrols around corrals and horse pastures and are "following every lead we can get our hands on" in an effort to catch the culprits responsible for the thefts.

Seven thefts were made from two stables inside the Dallas city limits, four of them at the Diamond Eight Stable on Monday. One of the missing animals was a $10,000 cutting horse, said Garland police officer John Hamilton.

The stable padlock was cut and the four horses, valued at a total of $18,000, were stolen sometime before dawn. They included a mare and a Shetland pony that belonged to a 5-year-old boy, Chase Deadman.

"There's no way to put a monetary value on a Shetland pony that belongs to a 5-year-old," Langley said. "Stealing a horse is not like kidnapping a person, but it's the very next thing to it."

But Langley said reports that stable operators and horse owners plan to organize vigilante-style protection groups are bad news.

"I know one stable owner in Mesquite that's trying to organize patrols and that's dangerous, dangerous, dangerous."

Added Taylor, "It's getting to the point we've got to get calm, cool and collected and let the police do their job."

But even people like Taylor and Langley, who disapprove of horse owners carrying guns, get worked up over horse thieves.

"When we finally catch one of those low-down, thieving, conniving rascals that would steal a 5-year-old's horse," explained Langley, "he posts bond and beats us back to the house. They slap their hands and turn them loose."

"I'm not saying I want retaliation. I want justice."

"One of the things these folks are not thinking about is the legal ramifications if they carry a gun and shoot someone, an innocent person," said Garland policeman Larry Rollins. "Not only could the person who was shot file a damage suit, but there could be criminal charges, too."

"And if some people form patrols, they should realize that if anyone sues one of them that he can sue everybody. The legal problems could be staggering."

"It would certainly be better if they just gave us a call and let us handle it."

One difficulty for the police, however, is the ease with which a horse thief can dispose of the evidence — at a packing plant.

"The big deal is that they can get 60 cents a pound, on the hoof, at a packing house for shipment to Europe where they can eat horse meat," said Hamilton.

"Any horse that's walking is worth from $50 to $1,000 because they are getting 60 cents a pound at the meat market," Taylor agreed.

"What we recommend is that anybody with a CB (citizens band) radio can call on channel 9 and talk directly to an operator here at the police station. And we'll come out and handle it," Hamilton said, adding his voice to those warning against vigilante action.

"Somebody could get hurt," he said. "And even if they don't get hurt, there's going to be some hard feelings."

Concert remembers Holly

CLEAR LAKE, Iowa (AP) — His death immortalized in the song American Pie by Don McLean — the lyrics say "The day the music died" — and considered a rock and roll pioneer, the late Buddy Holly will be remembered in a special concert next month at the last place he appeared before his death.

Four people were killed in a plane crash five miles north of Clear Lake on Feb. 3, 1959. The wreckage was strewn over a farm field. It wasn't discovered that February morning until 9:30 a.m. The plane was last heard from at 1 a.m. shortly after takeoff.

Killed were entertainers Holly, 22, Ritchie Valens, 21, J.P. Richardson, 24, better known as the "Big Bopper," and the pilot of the aircraft, Roger Peterson, 23, of Clear Lake.

The three entertainers had just played the Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake the night before and were on their way to Fargo, N.D., for another appearance at Moorehead, Minn. Other members of the troupe were Dion and the Belmonts and Frankie Sardo and the Crickets, of which Holly was the singing star.

Most left Clear Lake by bus. But the stars had decided to fly because the heater in the bus was broken. Among those to attend, according to the tribute organizer — Clear Lake radio station KZEV personality Darryl Hensley, "The Mad Hatter," — is Holly's widow, Maria. She will also attend the Feb. 6 "Mad Hatter's Tea Party," a back-to-the-'50s record hop with Bob Elefson with KZEV and Bill Griggs of Wethersfield, Conn., president of the Buddy Holly Memorial Society.

She will also attend the Feb. 7 tribute concert, which will feature music by The Whitesidewalls, Dell Shannon, Carl Perkins, Cricket Nicki Sullivan and the Rocket 88s.

The Whitesidewalls, Shannon and Sullivan all performed at each of the three previous Buddy Holly tribute concerts.

The first Holly tribute concert was held at the Surf in February, 1979, 20 years after the plane crash.

Even though it was more than 20 years ago, bits and pieces continue to surface.

Last year, Cerro Gordo County officials, in the process of cleaning out old court records, ran across an envelope marked Charles Hardin Holly recd April 7, 1959. Also written on the package was "J.P. Richardson."

Inside the envelope were found perhaps the most famous eyeglasses in rock and roll history — they were considered part of Holly's image, much as was the long hair of The Beatles.

Also found in the envelope was a watch that belonged to the "Big Bopper." An inscription on the watch read "KTRM Champion Disc-A-Thon — 122 hours eight minutes — J.P. Richardson — 5-4-57."

Opposing lawyers exchange heated words in hallway

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Lawyers on opposite sides of an investigation into the Christmas day police killing of a Mexican alien exchanged heated words in a hallway outside the room where a grand jury is investigating the death.

"You don't have guts enough to come into the courtroom. You get things started, then run and hide like a rat," attorney Fred Semaan, who represents policeman James Cammack, told civil rights lawyer Ruben Sandoval Tuesday.

"I hope you enjoyed this circus," retorted Sandoval, who represents the family of the dead man. "If this goes on tomorrow, I'll have my staff bring some popcorn and soda water."

Inside, grand jurors met for the second day to hear more from the 24 witnesses called in an investigation of the death of Hector Santoscoy, 25, of Piedras Negras, Mexico. The investigation continues today and reportedly could take all week.

Cammack said he shot Santoscoy in self defense after crawling under a house where the burglary suspect was hiding.

Cammack reported that he and his police dog encountered Santoscoy wielding bricks in the 18-inch space beneath the house and fired several shots for self protection.

Sandoval represents Alicia Santoscoy, 51, of Piedras Negras, who has protested to the city council that her son was "shot like a dog" by the police officer.

Mrs. Santoscoy, who spent a day and a half waiting outside to speak to the grand jurors, and her husband, Cipriano Oviedo, took a bus back to Piedras Negras Tuesday, saying Mrs. Santoscoy had to go to the hospital for treatment of leg rheumatism. But their attorneys said they intended to return before the grand jury investigation ends and she would attempt again to testify. Sandoval has alleged that police were attempting to cover up an unwarranted use of deadly force to subdue Santoscoy, whom police said they saw run from a fast food restaurant after its window was knocked out.

A police internal review cleared Cammack of any impropriety in the shooting, but pressure by Sandoval and local Mexican Consul General Raul Gonzalez Galarza was instrumental in obtaining the investigation by a Bexar County grand jury. Cammack remains on active duty pending outcome of the grand jury investigation.

Space center officials study repairs, may postpone launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Kennedy Space Center officials are trying to determine whether repairs to a leaky seal on the fuel tank of the space shuttle will mean a delay in the Columbia's scheduled March launch.

Gas which escaped during a week-end fueling operation or moisture in the air likely caused the erosion of the fuel tank's foam insulation, used to keep the tank from overheating and improve its aerodynamics, engineers said Monday.

"The seal didn't fit good, and that's where we had damage to the foam insulation," said Terry Williams, division chief for mechanical systems in shuttle launch operations.

Fixing the tank "will be a one-man, simple operation where you spray in primer and then patch in bonding matter and put some paint on over that," he said.

The damage occurred when aerospace workers were loading liquid oxygen into the shuttle's fuel tank on Saturday. The test left an area at the top of the 154-foot high tank damaged.

Engineers have not pinpointed the cause of the problems, and until the damage is assessed they cannot predict whether the craft's maiden voyage — already two years late — will be delayed further.

The damage could alter the tank aerodynamically and cause a poor seal when the tank is loaded for the on-pad firing of the shuttle's engines next month, Williams said.

Work crews are scheduled to begin loading Thursday the fuels that power the shuttle's in-orbit engines.

A "tanking" test last week also resulted in a pencil-line crack about 1½-feet long, which also will have to be patched.

The winged, three-rocket Columbia is the first of four shuttle spacecrafts intended to replace the one-shot rockets currently used in the U.S. space program. Once in operation, the shuttles will carry satellites into orbit and will be used for manned orbital missions and for various scientific experiments.

Many technical problems — particularly the delicate installation of thousands of heat-resistant tiles designed to protect the craft's "skin" on re-entry — have pushed the shuttle program far behind schedule.

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Angelo Strano knows what it's like to come home to America after months of captivity in a foreign land. He's been free 13 years, and has some idea of what's ahead for the 52 Americans just freed from Iran.

Strano, a Navy electronics technician, spent 11 months in a North Korean prison camp after his ship, the USS Pueblo, was captured in the Sea of Japan.

"Probably the best thing to do is treat the captivity as a learning experience," Strano said when asked what advice he would give the 52 former hostages. "Forget it happened and go about the process of living your life."

Strano said good can come out of hostage situations.

"Now that it's over, I'm kind of glad it happened because it gave me a chance to grow," he said. "I had a lot of time to think about my life. If you have an experience like that and if you put it in the past, use it as a learning experience and go on and live your life, it will be better because of it."

Strano was 23 and single when he and the other 82 crew members of the Pueblo were released on Dec. 22, 1968.

Some of the former Iranian hostages will have little trouble adjusting to life back in the United States, he said, while others will have difficulty.

"Those who are more mature will probably adjust more easily to the return home," he said. But it may be more difficult for the former hostages who are married.

He said married couples continually make adjustments to each other on a daily basis, but when they are separated for a prolonged period of time the changes have occurred without the daily adjustments.

The Navy isolated the Pueblo crew for about four months after the 1968 release so an official inquiry could be conducted. He said families of the crew members were not questioned by the media nearly as much as the families of the Iranian hostages.

"We didn't have the openness we have now, or the press didn't pursue the subject of the released prisoners of war as much as they are the Iranian hostage subject," he said.

Space center officials study repairs, may postpone launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Kennedy Space Center officials are trying to determine whether repairs to a leaky seal on the fuel tank of the space shuttle will mean a delay in the Columbia's scheduled March launch.

Gas which escaped during a week-end fueling operation or moisture in the air likely caused the erosion of the fuel tank's foam insulation, used to keep the tank from overheating and improve its aerodynamics, engineers said Monday.

"The seal didn't fit good, and that's where we had damage to the foam insulation," said Terry Williams, division chief for mechanical systems in shuttle launch operations.

Fixing the tank "will be a one-man, simple operation where you spray in primer and then patch in bonding matter and put some paint on over that," he said.

The damage occurred when aerospace workers were loading liquid oxygen into the shuttle's fuel tank on Saturday. The test left an area at the top of the 154-foot high tank damaged.

Engineers have not pinpointed the cause of the problems, and until the damage is assessed they cannot predict whether the craft's maiden voyage — already two years late — will be delayed further.

The damage could alter the tank aerodynamically and cause a poor seal when the tank is loaded for the on-pad firing of the shuttle's engines next month, Williams said.

Work crews are scheduled to begin loading Thursday the fuels that power the shuttle's in-orbit engines.

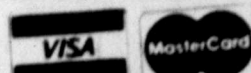

A "tanking" test last week also resulted in a pencil-line crack about 1 1/2 feet long, which also will have to be patched.

The winged, three-rocket Columbia is the first of four shuttle spacecrafts intended to replace the one-shot rockets currently used in the U.S. space program. Once in operation, the shuttles will carry satellites into orbit and will be used for manned orbital missions and for various scientific experiments.

Many technical problems — particularly the delicate installation of thousands of heat-resistant tiles designed to protect the craft's "skin" on re-entry — have pushed the shuttle program far behind schedule.

GOREN BRIDGE

Sooner or later declarer must take the diamond finesse. East wins the diamond and reverts to a club, and West scores two clubs to complete a one-trick set.

Declarer can make the hand if he realizes that time is all important here. Since his weak spot—clubs—has not yet been attacked, he is one step ahead of the defenders. He should win the opening heart in his hand and immediately take the diamond finesse. East can take the king and, in an attempt to catch up, shift to a club, but he cannot make up for lost ground. When West allows the queen of clubs to win, declarer cashes dummy's high diamonds, stuffing a club from his hand. Now declarer can afford to turn his attention to the trump suit. His only losers are one spade, one diamond and one club.

Bridge is often a race between declarer and the defenders. Declarer strives to set up enough tricks to make his contract before the defenders can establish enough winners to defeat the hand. The race goes to the swiftest, and to lose a tempo could easily mean the loss of the contract.

After North had supported his suit, South's hand revealed to close to an opening bid. He might have probed for game with three clubs, which would have been forcing. However, the texture of his suit was so good that he decided to be a little aggressive and jumped straight to four spades himself.

After the lead of the queen of hearts, those declarers who live in a world where all suits break and all finesses succeed are likely to be defeated by good defense.

Assume that declarer wins the opening heart lead and plays a trump. East wins the ace and shifts to a club. Declarer inserts the queen, but instead of gobbling up the trick with the ace, West allows declarer to win.

Commission studying federal aid for crime victims

By KINGSBURY SMITH
National Editor
The Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON — Victims of crime are going to get some special attention under the Reagan administration.

At the request of White House Counselor Edwin Meese, plans have been prepared for the establishment of a special presidential commission to explore what federal assistance can be rendered to victims of rape, robbery, mugging and other forms of violent and non-violent crimes, including those which result in financial loss to the victims.

A proclamation has been prepared for President Reagan to declare the week of April 20th to 26th National Crime Victims Rights' Week.

Plans have also been made for establishment of a presidential commission to study and make recommendations on measures to improve and strengthen law enforcement and the administration of justice.

These plans await President Reagan's approval. In view of Meese's interest in them and the fact he is a cabinet member, they are expected to receive the President's okay shortly.

A former San Diego criminal law professor, Meese has long been interested in providing relief and assistance for victims of crime. Before assuming one of the most important positions in the Reagan White House, he had been a director of the Crime Victims Legal Advocacy Institute, Inc. This is a privately funded non-profit organization which offers free advice to crime victims on their legal rights, and free assistance to attorneys handling victims' lawsuits to recover financial losses or obtain compensation for crimes committed because of negligence on the part of public authorities or private enterprises.

One of the founders of the Institute and its Executive Director is Frank Carrington, probably the country's foremost authority on crime victim matters.

Carrington, who also serves as Vice Chairman of the American Bar Association's Victims Rights Committee, was asked by Meese to set up transition advisory task forces on victims' rights, law enforcement and the administration of justice. The recommendations of those task forces that presidential commissions be established to further study and recommend action have been submitted to Meese for President Reagan's approval.

"I think we are going to see an explosion of interest in victims' rights in this administration," Carrington told The Hearst Newspapers.

One of the strongest supporters in Congress of crime victims' rights is Senator Dennis DeConcini (D-Ariz.). As a public prosecutor in Arizona, he set up two programs. One, a restitution program. The other, an assistance program to victims and witnesses.

"For example, a man who stole a set of tools from a small business firm was caught," the Senator said. "He had to pay back the cost of the tools, and the break-in damage. He also had to sit down and talk to the victim."

"In addition to that kind of treatment of non-violent crimes, we would make the defendant do some kind of charity work in the community for six months — hospital or Red Cross work."

"In the assistance program, we would provide sociological aid for a rape victim. In those and other cases, we would send someone to stay with them at night, or secure their homes. For witnesses, we would supply them with a baby-sitter or other assistance when they were in court.

"These are the kind of programs I think the federal government should be involved in. I also believe we should have mandatory minimum sentences for violent crimes so parole officers cannot let them out before they are rehabilitated."

The Crime Victims Institute is more concerned with victims' litigation rights. Victims have been turning to the courts in recent years on an increasing scale to vindicate their rights, and some of have obtained very large settlements. One of them was singer Connie Francis, who won $1.5 million in damages against a motel where she was raped.

A California couple won an out-of-court settlement of $225,000 from the State government because their son had been assaulted by another youth released from jail without being given the psychiatric therapy ordered as a condition for his release. In the State of Washington, a widow won $186,000 after her husband was killed by a state prison inmate while participating in a "Take a Lifer to Dinner" program.

In view of the budget deficit, it is unlikely the Reagan administration will support any federal funding of compensation to crime victims but it may propose federal legal and other assistance to victims.

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE

Local MHMR center offers regular evenings, weekend counseling hours

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

Question: I am sure there are quite a few people who need counseling and who would go, if it were not for the fact that they would have to take off work in order to see a counselor. Do any counselors or psychologists have evening or weekend hours? Also, what can people do if a crisis happens outside of normal office hours?

Answer: The fact that the normal office hours for most counselors, psychologists and psychiatrists are also the normal working hours of the large majority of the population undoubtedly does prevent many from seeking professional counseling. Since a program of counseling usually involves several sessions rather than just one or two, the problem is further compounded.

Community mental health centers and other such agencies have recognized this difficulty and have for a long time operated with regular evening or weekend office hours. The Midland MHMR Center offers regular evening hours as well as Saturday hours to those whose work schedules require it. A full range of counseling and psychological services are available during these hours for individual, marital or family problems. Other area agencies also offer expanded hours.

Your comment that family or personal crises may occur at any time of the day or night is certainly an accurate one. In Midland, the MHMR Center operates a 24-hour hotline number (683-5591) whose purpose is to provide effective crisis intervention services. Trained personnel are on duty 24 hours each day, every day of the year.

This is a community service and is provided to anyone who calls regardless of whether the caller is a client of the MHMR Center or of some other agency or private practitioner. The personnel who staff this service deal with mental health problems, mental retardation problems, alcoholism problems and drug abuse problems.

If a person is not sure of where to turn for assistance or is not sure if his is a problem the MHMR Center can help deal with, such a person is encouraged to use this hotline and can be assured that he will be appropriately referred if the services of the MHMR Center are not needed.

Question: Are speakers available to talk to church or service groups about the problems you see and deal with?

Answer: Yes. The Midland MHMR Center will be happy to schedule a speaker for your group. Simply call the Center (683-5591) during normal office hours and arrangements will be made. Speakers are available to talk about virtually any topic within the field of mental health, mental retardation, alcoholism, drug abuse, family relations or other counseling/psychological issues.

Question: I have read and heard of the possibility that some of the former hostages may have "post-traumatic stress disorder." Is this a mental problem? I have never heard of it before.

Answer: The term "post-traumatic stress disorder" is a new diagnostic term, so it is little wonder that many have never heard of it. However, the group of symptoms to which it refers has been widely recognized for many years.

The term refers to the symptoms which may occur in some individuals after a traumatic event or events occur in their lives. Natural disaster, combat, kidnappings, hostage-taking, and multiple deaths are all examples of the traumatic event which provoke these symptoms.

Symptoms usually occur after the traumatic event is over and may include anxiety, nightmares, sleep problems, dreams of the traumatic event, startle response, re-experience of the event as if it were re-occurring, withdrawal, detachment, guilt and depression.

These symptoms may occur in previously well-adjusted persons. Most often, the symptoms are transient and will respond to the passage of time and treatment. These symptoms have often existed in survivors of situations which have caused multiple deaths such as combat, fires and the like.

Questions or comments from our readers are invited. Although the Update cannot give personal replies or give specific advice, we will use as many comments and questions as possible in our future columns. Please address them to: Mental Health Update, 3701 N. Big Spring St., Midland 79701.

Kenneth H. Wolf, MSSW, SP, is MHMR Program Director for Midland County. He is a licensed psychotherapist and a certified health care provider in clinical social work. He has worked in the field of MHMR for eight years.

443 still missing in Java Sea

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A total of 464 people are missing or dead in Indonesia's worst maritime disaster, the sinking of the inter-island passenger ship Tampomas 2, but eight rescue ships are bringing 672 survivors to port, a government spokesman said today.

With 21 deaths confirmed, 443 people were not accounted for, the spokesman said. Bad weather in the Java Sea hampered the search, and most or all the missing were believed dead.

The 2,420-ton Tampomas caught fire Sunday during a trip across the Java Sea from Jakarta, the Indonesian capital on the northwest coast of the island of Java, to Ujung Pandang, the capital and chief port of the big island of Sulawesi (Celebes) 1,000 miles to the east. F. Habibie, secretary to the director general of sea communications, said there were 1,054 passengers and 82 crew members aboard.

The ship sank early Tuesday about 220 miles from Ujung Pandang. Meanwhile, Habibie's office in Jakarta received incorrect reports that the fire had been put out, the ship taken in tow, and all aboard were safe. Habibie said 651 of the survivors were being taken to Ujung Pandang, and 21 were aboard another rescue ship en route to Surabaya, on the northeast coast of Java.

He said a large-scale search by ships and planes was under way in the Java Sea, but the weather was still bad. Heavy seas prevented rescue ships from getting alongside some of the bodies that were sighted, he reported.

The government sent 13 ships and five planes to the area, and the aircraft dropped 60 rubber dinghies into the sea. But the crews reported seeing no one in the dinghies and no life jackets dotting the waves.

Court-martial continuing in Blackthorn sinking

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — One year ago today, the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn's homesick crew of 50 cast anchor for Galveston, Texas, after four months in drydock repair. Before the ship cleared Tampa's harbor, disaster claimed the lives of 23 of its seamen.

The buoy tender collided head-on with a huge oil tanker at the mouth of Tampa Bay. Within minutes, the cutter rolled over and sank, taking nearly half the crew to the bottom of the cold, murky shipping channel.

A six-ton granite monument has been placed within sight of the channel where the crash occurred last Jan. 28. The 8-foot tall marker is inscribed with the names of those who went down with their ship in the Coast Guard's worst peacetime accident.

Coast Guard Commandant John B. Hayes flew from Washington to dedicate the monument in a commemorative service today at Blackthorn Memorial Park.

On the night of Jan. 28, 1980, the 180-foot Blackthorn was headed out to sea as the Capricorn, 30 times heavier and nearly three times as long, was coming into port with a load of oil for a power company.

Suddenly the ships, closing at 2,500 feet per minute, rammed head on. Sparks lit the sky and metal tore like tissue paper.

The tanker's six-ton anchor lodged in the hull of the cutter, the vessels churned wildly in the water and the Blackthorn went under.

A year later, Lt. Cmdr. George J. Sepel, 35, Blackthorn skipper on his first at-sea command, is facing a court-martial and his deck officer, Lt. J.G. James R. Ryan, faces lesser disciplinary proceedings.

The Blackthorn, raised from the bay, has been scrapped, while the Capricorn has been patched up and is back in service.

Lawsuits totaling more than $42 million are pending.

A Coast Guard Marine Board of Inquiry and a panel from the National Transportation Safety Board have come to differing conclusions on the cause of the collision.

Officers of one vessel blamed those on the other in the three months of hearings. Crewmen on each ship said the other vessel was off course, had strayed across an imaginary center line in the channel into the path of the oncoming vessel.

President Bani-Sadr charges he was target of Rajai's assassins

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr and the conservative Islamic clergymen opposed to him exchanged more charges as their power struggle heated up.

Bani-Sadr claimed two plots to assassinate him had been uncovered in the past two months. The militant Islamic mullahs charged that supporters of the Westernized, moderate president ransacked an office of their Islamic Republican Party.

Writing in his Tehran newspaper Enghelab Islami Tuesday, Bani-Sadr said one band of plotters planned to shoot him Nov. 19, the Shiite Moslem holy day of Ashura, during a speech he was to make at a rally in Ahvaz, the beleaguered capital of Khuzistan province, where the war with Iraq is being fought. He said para-military units discovered the plot.

The president, who is commander in chief of the armed forces, said the army secret service reported a second plot on Jan. 14. His motorcade was to be attacked by rocket grenades during a trip to Ahvaz from the provincial capital, he said.

Although Bani-Sadr did not identify the plotters by name, he left no doubt that he meant Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and his associates in the cleric-led Islamic Republican Party. He said that in both instances, the plotters planned to declare national mourning after he was killed. In case of the president's death, only the prime minister or Parliament, which is controlled by the IRP, has the power to proclaim national mourning.

From its side, the IRP charged that supporters of the president ransacked their party's office in Mashhad, in northeast Iran, chanting, "Close the nest of spies." The "nest of spies" is the epithet bestowed on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by the young Islamic militants who seized it and its staff on Nov. 4, 1979, and held 52 of the Americans hostage for 444 days.

First Lady dresses with 'a lot of class'

By LUCRETIA STEIGER
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — "Nancy Reagan looks the way an American president's wife should look. "I adore the way she dresses. She's a nice, elegant American woman with a lot of class."

Dominique Sahut, director of haute couture and ready-to-wear divisions of Lanvin, the French fashion house, leaned back on the soft couch at a boutique filled with expensive clothing and discussed America's new first family.

"The companies and people doing business in Europe were for Reagan, and there was relief when we heard he had been elected. And Mrs. Reagan, we would like to dress her. She's very elegant, just our style."

Lanvin style is "elegant, dressy, exclusive and entirely custom-made in Paris with finest workmanship," according to the director, a veteran of the Paris fashion scene at 35. It's also expensive: couture items sell for $4,000 to $6,000 and lower-priced ready-to-wear garments for $900 to $2,000.

How can a woman justify spending $6,000 on a dress today?

She doesn't justify it, Sahut says. The woman who can afford to spend this much simply does so "as you or I would buy a pair of stockings."

"She'll spend $5,000 in five minutes and it means nothing to her. Some fortunes are huge today, in every country. Of course, some women make the effort to realize that they are spending huge sums of money, but most don't. They just buy what they want."

Sahut shrugs and says that she loves her job because she enjoys "meeting people, and touching all these fine silks, crepe de chine, and taffetas. ... I would not like to work in heavy industry, with steel, for instance, which is hard and cold. But the fabrics are gorgeous and I've always liked elegance."

For spring and summer, she forecasts lots of black and white, plus bright reds, blues and greens, and few pastels. Shorter jackets, to several inches below the waist, and skirts to just below the knee go well with the flat pumps and sandals she also forecasts, except for an occasional golden high-heeled sandal at night. Dressy ball gowns and cocktail dresses, however, are in solid pastels such as peach, salmon, light pink and yellow.

In the Lanvin collection, red piping decorates a navy suit around lapels and jacket hem, and important black buttons and belt spice up a white suit. Another suit has a yellow jacket piped in black with a black skirt and white blouse. Dress skirts often feature a hip yoke, tight from waist to top of hip, then gathered. One black and white checked suit is accompanied by a black, white and red print blouse in Chinese figures. Chinese prints are very important this season, Sahut said, and the newest sleeve length is to just below the elbow.

Women on the streets of Paris today wear sheer black or sheer white stockings and silk blouses with their suits, she said. That's for working women, who dress as though they were in New York or any other big city, she added. Women students, however, wear jeans and plain white, old-fashioned tennis shoes. Hair usually is cut short, worn long in braids, or medium-length in a full mane style, called "a la lionne" for the lioness.

Working for a fashion house does not mean you must dress expensively, Sahut says. (Although as a representative of Lanvin, she wears all Lanvin clothes.)

"It takes imagination, not money. Even with nothing, you can arrange to look well if you're very careful. A little scarf or something that makes it you," she said.

Born in Grenoble in the Alps to parents who were physicians, she grew up and attended school there before moving to Paris. She worked for the fur division of Christian Dior and had several other jobs before going with Lanvin seven years ago. Last Christmas, she was named director of haute couture as well as ready-to-wear.

A slender woman with short, dark hair, she wore a heavy silk striped dress with high ruffled collar, leg-of-mutton sleeves with wrist ruffle and full skirt.

Lanvin does not stress a designer symbol, she said, "because we don't like that sandwich-man look." But an occasional grouping of letters representing either the name Lanvin or the name of house designer Jules Francois Crahay can show up in a silk blouse.

Mary B. Dunn and Charles Archer, both of Midland, will attend a meeting of the Regional Advisory Committee for the West Texas Panhandle Region of the Regional Day School Program for the Deaf in February at El Paso.

Mrs. Dunn is a member of the Advisory Committee and Archer has been proposed for membership on the committee.

The WT Panhandle region includes Lubbock, Odessa, Midland, Amarillo and El Paso. The committee, which makes suggestions to the superintendent of the day school program, meets three or four times a year.

...APOLOGIES GO TO Jana Loyd Cox, whose name was inadvertently left out as chairman of the recent Young Career Woman program sponsored by the Uptown Chapter, Business & Professional Women here.

...CARDIOPULMONARY RESUSCITATION (CPR) classes sponsored by the Bowie PTA, Parent and Family Life Education Committee, begin tonight from 6-10 at the school. Classes are also to be held Thursday.

Classes tonight and Thursday are in basic CPR and participants will learn basic life support for certification or re-certification by the American Heart Association.

After completing basic CPR, persons may take an instructor course to be eligible for AHA certification as an instructor in basic life support.

This class will be Feb. 3, Feb. 5 and Feb. 10 from 6-10 p.m. at the school.

For information, call Celeste Thomas at 683-7433. Dress comfortably, she advises. Jeans are appropriate.

...A CANCER FUND has been established at First National Bank for Floyd Garmon of Midland.

Contact Guy McCrary at the bank for donations.

...TWENTY-FOUR SENIOR citizens at Casa de Amigos, an ecumenical Christian service center, received certificates of achievement for attending English and Spanish classes for a year.

"These students made their own graduate caps and wore choir robes," said Isabel Gonzales, program director. Conductor of the ceremony was Berta Jimenez, instructor.

Classes will continue on Tuesdays and Thursdays. For more information, call 682-9701.

...SPECIAL INTEREST GROUP "Merry Mariners" will resume meeting after the holiday recess Saturday for the Red Cross Basic Water Safety instruction.

First session of the course will be at the Red Cross Building on Elizabeth St. from 1-3 p.m. Second session will be Feb. 7 from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Alamo YMCA.

Fee is $3 for the course and all who attend both sessions will receive certification. Helen Cumble will instruct. For more information, call Pat Stanley at 682-1848.

...JAMIE JONES of Midland has been initiated into Pi Delta Phi honorary French society at Southwestern University at Georgetown.

Jones was chosen as a member for her overall high academic achievement, especially in the study of the French language.

Initiation ceremony also celebrated the tenth anniversary of the Zeta Nu Chapter of Pi Delta Phi at the state's oldest university.

National health quiz

By SHARON A. HILLIS
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

Television's upcoming National Health Quiz will get a helping hand from our County Extension Office here in Midland where "answer sheets" for you to use during the test will be available before it airs on most PBS stations.

The National Health Quiz, set for Feb. 15 at 9 p.m. CST, will help people evaluate their health-risk factors for the four leading causes of death: heart disease, cancer, stroke and auto accidents. The test is a self-test in which viewers will score themselves, too.

Prior to the Sunday airing of the National Health Quiz, "answer sheets" will be given to anyone who asks for them at our County Extension Office free of charge beginning Feb. 1. We are located in the Court-house Annex Building, 218 W. Illinois.

Co-hosted by cover girl Cheryl Tiegs, also a health and beauty reporter, along with actor Peter Graves, the National Health Quiz is based on a medical concept termed "prospective medicine." This concept seeks to identify and assess an individual's health risks and then reduce those risks before danger develops—that is, before a crisis, disability or death.

Prospective medicine's approach to fighting America's major health problems starts with the idea that

Come, on let's twist again

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a special twist young parents should learn, says Chubby Checker, king of the 1960s "twist" dance craze. It's the "twist" needed to properly reseal child-resistant caps on hazardous household products and drugs.

"Reseal the caps so they are child-resistant after every use," Checker urges. "It's worth a twist of your wrist to save a child's life."

The latest figures, through 1978, released by the National Center for Health Statistics, reveal that deaths of children under 5 from aspirin poisoning have dropped 72 percent since child-resistant closures were mandated in 1972. Deaths of preschoolers from accidental ingestion of all covered products, such as prescription drugs, anti-freeze, drain and oven cleaners, are down 63 percent.

these "killers" are actually "helped along" by their victims' behavior.

With that in mind, prospective medicine was developed to accurately define the risk factors for disease development—and auto accidents, so that behavior can be changed before the disease or accident strikes.

Once an individual becomes aware of specific health risks, he can work to change unhealthy behavior and habits to reduce those risks.

Viewers are urged to check television listings for any differences in local schedules.

DEAR ABBY

Abby says party brouhaha is no laughing matter

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband's former wife, Velma, with whom we have remained on fairly good terms, invited us to her home for a party. She is now married to a very well-to-do man. Velma told me it was going to be a costume party, so my husband and I dressed up like a couple of rabbits.

Imagine our surprise when the butler opened the door and ushered us into a room filled with men in tuxedos and women in stunning gowns! We felt like a couple of fools. Velma laughed and said she thought it was funny. I was very upset to have been made the butt of her joke, so I got myself a glass of punch and spilled it on her gown. Then I laughed and told her I thought it was funny. However, she didn't see anything funny about it.

My husband isn't speaking to me, and he thinks I owe Velma an apology. What should I do? — A WIFE IN NEED

DEAR WIFE: Send

Velma a bunch of carrots, and tell her you're sorry.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you because I am a very private person, but I have nowhere else to turn. I've been married for 21 years to a man I'll call Bob. (No children.) Fourteen months ago was the last time we had sex. I've never been very interested in sex, but I enjoyed the intimacy of it. As I look back on our marriage, Bob never was overly sexy, but he performed. I thought we had a good marriage.

About the time our sex life stopped, Bob developed a friendship with a man. Their friendship grew from getting together, just the two of them, one evening a week, to spending week ends together. Last summer Bob spent his entire vacation with this man, excluding me. That's when I strongly suspected that he was gay. When I confronted him with my suspicions, he flatly denied it. I begged him to go with me to a counselor. He refused. I offered him divorce or separation. He wanted neither. He says he "cares for me," but he no longer "loves" me.

Abby, I still love him and don't want to give him up even if he is gay. I'm too embarrassed to discuss this with anyone I know. My heart is broken and I am desperate. Please help me. — MASS. HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: It's unfortunate that you don't want to "give him up," because it appears that he has already given YOU up. You both need counseling, but you can't force it on Bob if he refuses to accept it. Please go for counseling without him. You desperately need to learn how to cope with a painful situation that is more common than you know.

DEAR ABBY: In our town when people are invited to a party, they are often asked to bring something to serve. My wife is famous for her delicious cakes, so that's what she usually brings. At the end of the evening, if there is any cake left over, my wife matter-of-factly picks it up and takes it home. I am embarrassed, feeling that she should leave whatever is left for her hostess. My wife disagrees with me, insisting that the cake is "hers."

My question: What should happen to the left

College libraries give accurate barometer of school's academic climate

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Students planning spring trips to visit prospective colleges will do well to take a close look at each campus library if they want an accurate barometer of the school's academic climate, suggests a university librarian.

Football captain likes to sew with the best of them

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Robert Hyatt says he likes to surprise people with his ability to sew with the best of them, including girls.

Hyatt, 16, of Ridgefield, Wash., proved his ability Monday night by capturing a national sewing contest over 52 female competitors from 27 states.

Hyatt modeled a zippered fleece-lined jacket and gray slacks that he created to win the junior division, ages 14 to 16, of the 36th Annual Make It Yourself With Wool national finals.

Hyatt said he does not expect any ribbing from his male friends because of his sewing prowess.

"As a matter of fact, it's kinda neat being the only guy here," said Hyatt, whose Copenhagen blue wool jacket with raglan sleeves was lined with acrylic fur. He used elastic casing for the sleeves and waist of his jacket and three gray wool stripes accented the sleeves and matched his western style wool slacks.

Hyatt said his sewing has not detracted from his other activities, pointing out he was co-captain of his school's football team and also is on the basketball, baseball, wrestling and track and field teams at View Ridge Middle School in Vancouver, Wash.

"Mom is a sewing teacher and I began to notice how much fun the three of them (mother and two sisters) seemed to have sewing together, and well, I guess I wanted to get in on it," Hyatt said in explaining his interest in sewing.

John P. McGowan, head librarian at Northwestern University here, says that in addition to checking out tuition, living costs and such factors as the quality of the faculty, the breadth of the curriculum and the occupational success of the school's graduates, prospective students should inspect the library.

"In an age of unprecedented development of knowledge, a school's library not only can make a student's life easier, but can give him or her an often-exciting link to the accumulated culture of our time," he said.

"The library and its books are the lifeblood of any university," McGowan points out.

"The library is the capital of the university and plays an important role in the intellectual lives of students. It is the barometer of the school and provides a good way for prospective students and their parents to evaluate the academic climate of the institution." McGowan, whose own library has implemented an IBM "on-line" catalog that gives students instant access to more than 400,000 catalog records, recognizes that with inflation adding to already tight budgets, many libraries are not able to acquire all the books they would like.

But he feels there are several criteria that might be kept in mind by students who visit libraries at prospective schools.

—What is the library's total collection and what does it spend each year for books and periodicals? —What provisions are made for orientation of new students? Most academic libraries are monumental in size compared with high-school libraries and most students need help in making the transition.

—How does the library relate to the rest of the university? Does the library staff include resource people with advanced degrees in various subject areas? —What is the targeted seating? Is there nearly always a seat available at the library for a student wishing to study? —What hours is the library open? Many students like to study late and need library resources.

—Does the library accommodate a wide range of abilities and interests? Are graduates and undergraduates segregated? —How is the "comfort index" for students using the library? Is it designed for convenience and is there adequate privacy for students requiring high levels of concentration?

McGowan says that as costs continue to increase, libraries are finding better ways to share resources with other libraries through regional networks. For instance, his library's IBM "on-line" catalog is now linked to a national network of other leading universities to facilitate interlibrary loans, reference, and cataloging information.

"This is just one more step in the advancing sophistication of libraries," he adds.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Storing those plastic bags

DEAR HELOISE

I seem to collect an abundance of small plastic bags, especially after shopping for vegetables and fruit, so I devised a neat way to store them for future use.

I use a one-quart container — most any kind will do as long as it has a plastic or cardboard cover — then cut a slot in the lid.

Whenever I have a plastic bag to store, I stuff it in the slot. When I need some, I pull them out one by one, just as I would a tissue.

It's a quick and hassle-free method of storage. I don't have to bother with folding the bags, yet they are always out of sight. — Evelyn Bastian

Easily accessible too! And the container would fit nicely on a cabinet shelf. These bags are so nice to have around but "hassle-free" storage is a problem sometimes. Hugs for sharing your nifty way. — Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE: Recently at a funeral I attended there were well over a hundred floral offerings. As I was helping the family with thank-you notes, I noticed a few of the cards had the sender's address on the back.

It surely would be helpful to the family on such occasions if more people would remember to do this. The family does not want to omit thank-yous to anyone but, without addresses, sometimes it can't be helped. — Patsy

BUTTON TAPES

DEAR HELOISE: To keep matching buttons together, stick them to a strip of clear, sticky tape.

Cover with a second strip of tape, then just snip off buttons as needed. — Tiny Weesner

LAP BOARD

DEAR HELOISE: The portion cut out of a laminated counter top for the sink can be used as a writing area when placed over the arms of a chair.

If need be, a circular area may be cut out to make it better fitting.

This board makes an excellent lap table for various other projects as well. — Ruby Osborn

SHE'S COMPLAINING

DEAR HELOISE: I have a bone to pick with manufacturers of children's clothes.

I like to buy used clothes at garage sales, etc., but the sizes have washed off the clothes, even though the brand name of the manufacturer is still on.

It's hard sometimes to get the right sizes for the children, even though I know the size they wear. — L. Stewart

I've noticed this too on many garments, especially jeans. With recycling so popular today — and so necessary — manufacturers would be doing everyone a favor if they'd print the size permanent and readable. Hope they're listening, don't you? — Heloise

BABY FOOD

DEAR HELOISE: When I want to warm or just take the chill off baby's food, I set the jar on my automatic coffee warmer, which always seems to be on anyway.

Saves starting up another appliance to do the job. — M. Beaverson

MONEY MEASURE

DEAR HELOISE: A dollar bill is one-sixteenth of an inch less than six inches.

Knowing this can be handy if there is nothing else to measure with. — T.W.

LONE SOCKS

DEAR HELOISE: I have finally found out what to do with those extra socks that I can't find the mate to.

After I'm sure the washing machine has eaten their mates, I take the ones that are left and slip them over cans of spray cleaners, etc.

Terre Haute residents support police 'shoot-to-kill' policy

By MASHA HAMILTON
Associated Press Writer

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Roy McMasters says he would rather play Russian roulette than go jogging in Terre Haute, where the police chief has just instituted a "shoot-to-kill" policy.

McMasters worries about jogging past a purse-snatching or a robbery in progress, and being mistaken for the criminal by a policeman quick on the trigger.

But he appears to be in the minority. Most of the 61,000 residents in this city on the Indiana-Illinois border seem to be supporting their police chief for his plan to crack down on criminals.

Chief Gerald Loudermilk, who announced the policy earlier this month, says an officer is trained to use his gun to kill, and should not be expected to wound or fire warning shots on the job.

At firearm testing sessions, which are taken twice a year by every officer including the chief, "you score your biggest points by hitting the trunk of the body (of the target.) That happens to contain the vitals," Loudermilk said.

"You can't expect an officer to train for 10 to 15 years shooting vitals, and then draw his gun on the spur of the moment and shoot someone in the foot," he said.

Loudermilk said a rising crime rate and concern for officers on the 115-member force prompted the new, tougher firearms policy.

"Under the old policy, there was always a question in a police officer's mind as to whether or not he would get in trouble if he used his gun," Loudermilk said.

He decided to issue the policy after two city officers failed to shoot a robbery suspect leaving a house, he said.

"They chased him down, and he dropped a fully loaded weapon," he said. "When I asked them why they didn't shoot, the only thing they could tell me is that they could have, but they didn't know whether they'd get in trouble. They didn't know whether we'd get sued."

"If my people are out there thinking like that, I'm going to end up with a dead police officer on my hands," Loudermilk said.

In Loudermilk's 19 years on the force, however, no Terre Haute police officer has been shot or wounded in the line of duty.

And crime may be up here, but the rate is one many other cities this size might envy.

There were four murders in 1980, up from three in 1979. Robberies almost doubled last year, to just under 150. There were 20 rapes and 67 aggravated assaults in 1980, compared with 14 rapes and 38 assaults in 1979.

But Loudermilk said he isn't taking any chances. Since he was made chief a year ago, he has collected $7,000 in private donations to form and outfit a special 30-member tactical unit. The unit, equipped with the most modern weapons, will be even tougher and more prepared for emergency than the riot squad that it will replace.

That might be great news in some big cities, but in Terre Haute, the riot squad hasn't been used in years. The last time it was called out was 10 years ago, to help quell a racial disturbance on the Indiana State University campus, Loudermilk said.

Despite the contrast between the city's mild history and Loudermilk's tough talk, most response has been favorable. There has been some criticism, like that from McMasters, an inmate at the federal prison here whose comments were printed in the Terre Haute Tribune.

"What does a policeman do when a crime has been committed and he immediately sees someone who happens to be jogging by, getting his early morning exercise? I would rather play Russian roulette than go jogging in the city of Terre Haute," McMasters wrote.

"Who gave you the right to play God?" he added. "After you have pulled the trigger on your .357-caliber Magnum, and found your neighborhood jogger in the street or sidewalk, can you reverse your decision?"

One writer said police were becoming "street corner judges."

Lena Casad wrote: "Policemen are trained to apprehend suspects, and suspicion of guilt is far from actual guilt. Most serious crimes in this state are not punished by the death penalty — i.e. rape, burglary, kidnapping and sometimes even murder."

But Loudermilk says he's gotten calls from across the nation, applauding his hard line policy.

Senate adopts resolution to honor 'Tiger' Teague

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate has adopted a resolution honoring former Texas congressman, Olin "Tiger" Teague, who died Friday.

Teague's burial was scheduled for Tuesday in Arlington National Cemetery.

After becoming America's second most-decorated World War II combat soldier, Teague was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1946 and served until his retirement in January 1979.

He was chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee from 1953 to 1973 and was chairman of the Science and Technology Committee from 1973 to 1979.

The resolution said Teague was instrumental in the 1960s in producing legislation that resulted in the United States "being the first nation to land a man on the moon."

Mrs. Harris tells of terrifying depression

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Jean Harris, crying behind her dark glasses, testified that although Scarsdale Diet doctor Herman Tarnower had jilted her and saw other women she was "never happier" than when she was with the man she is accused of murdering.

But in the months before his death last March 10, Mrs. Harris said she reached a terrifying state of depression and exhaustion. "I functioned until I couldn't function any more," she said Tuesday.

The defense maintains her troubles as headmistress of The Madiera

School of Girls in McLean, Va., led her to decide to take her own life.

Her lawyer says Tarnower, 69, was shot accidentally as he tried to stop her suicide. Prosecutors maintain Mrs. Harris deliberately murdered her lover of 14 years at his Purchase, N.Y., estate in a jealous rage over his affair with another woman.

On her first day on the witness stand, Mrs. Harris, 57, told of their romance after meeting in 1966.

"He gave me a lovely ring and asked me to marry him," she said. During the 1967 courtship, Tarnower sent her flowers and letters and maintained a long distance romance between her home in Philadelphia and his in Purchase.

He later said he could not "go through with it," but Mrs. Harris said their relationship continued and they often traveled together.

Mrs. Harris said that in 1978 she helped Tarnower write his best-selling book, "The Complete Scarsdale Medical Diet."

Mrs. Harris, identifying the manuscript in court, said that "some of the pages in my handwriting are in the book exactly as I wrote them."

She testified that she returned a $4,000 check he sent for her work on the book.

Mrs. Harris said she was "never happier than when Hy (Tarnower's nickname) told me I made a positive contribution to the book."

But two months later, Mrs. Harris bought a .32-caliber revolver because she said she felt "hopeless" and "frightened."

"It was like a security blanket. I felt that if I couldn't function any more I could handle it. I didn't have to worry any more about feeling helpless," she testified.

In 1979, after a consultant report recommended that the Madeira board of directors fire her, Mrs. Harris said she became too "frightened and exhausted" to do her job.

By the fall of 1979, the defense said, Mrs. Harris was growing suicidal.

"It was very depressing," she said. "I looked at my home and realized I had to pack up everything and start somewhere else. It was just a matter of time before I left."

Atlanta's children ordered off streets by 9 p.m.

ATLANTA (AP) — After ordering that children 15 and younger be off the streets by 9 p.m., Mayor Maynard Jackson has turned to President Reagan and Gov. George Busbee for help in solving the deaths and disappearances of 17 black children.

The investigation has cost the city some $500,000, Jackson said in telegrams pleading for whatever "additional resources might be made available" by the state and federal governments.

"The children of Atlanta are under attack. Fourteen have been murdered and three are missing, all black and all poor," the mayor's telegrams said.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, several immediate counties and the Atlanta police are engaged in a massive effort to solve the problem, but the state of affairs is acute."

Jackson asked for separate meetings with Busbee and Reagan "at your convenience to discuss this crisis."

A spokesman for Bus-bee said the governor probably will meet with Jackson "early next week." No response had been received from the White House by late Tuesday.

Although Jackson did not ask specifically for money, his spokesman, Angelo Fuster, said the mayor was concerned about the escalating costs of the investigation, which now involves a special task force of at least 35 officers.

Fuster added that the Georgia General Assembly is considering legislation authorizing a grant of $100,000 to Atlanta to help defray the costs of the inquiry.

Earlier Tuesday,

Jackson imposed a 9 p.m. curfew in hopes of preventing further violence.

He imposed the curfew through executive order because the city's temporary 11 p.m. curfew had expired, he said. The order will be effective until the City Council can act on a proposed ordinance making the curfew permanent.

Meanwhile, police continued their search for clues in the case of 15-year-old Terry Lorenzo Pue, the latest victim. All of the victims have been between the ages of 7 and 15 and all but two were boys.

Pue's body was found Friday morning in suburban Rockdale County. Officials said he had been strangled, probably Thursday night.

Employees of a fast-food restaurant told authorities Pue spent last Wednesday night there, chatting and drinking hot chocolate.

His mother, Helen Pue, said she last saw her son Wednesday afternoon when he left home to go play basketball. She said she had warned her son that "that killer was going to get him and choke him because he liked to stay out so late."

She said her son had told her he "wasn't going to be scared off by no killer."

Inmate says Alexander's girl smuggled gun in jail

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A Lubbock County jail inmate says the girlfriend of convicted capital murderer Billy Wayne Alexander Jr. smuggled a gun into the jail while Alexander was awaiting trial.

However, defense attorneys succeeded Tuesday in blocking the state's attempt to show that the .38-cal. derringer was intercepted by another inmate, who later used it to commit suicide.

The testimony came in the second day of the punishment phase of Alexander's trial. He was convicted last Saturday of killing DPS trooper Jerry Don Davis Oct. 5.

Defense attorney Floyd Holder argued that the "inflammatory, prejudicial nature of such testimony" would far outweigh any probative value. Judge Bob Wright agreed.

Ricky LaVelle Smith testified Tuesday that he saw Elaine Hill carry the weapon into the jail inside a cigarette case on Dec. 10. Alexander never received the pistol.

The judge recessed court long enough to allow Lubbock County District Attorney John T. Montford to instruct his witnesses not to refer to the suicide in their testimony.

Earlier Tuesday, Montford introduced more than 40 pounds of marijuana and some LSD and other drugs allegedly found in Alexander's home on Oct. 6.

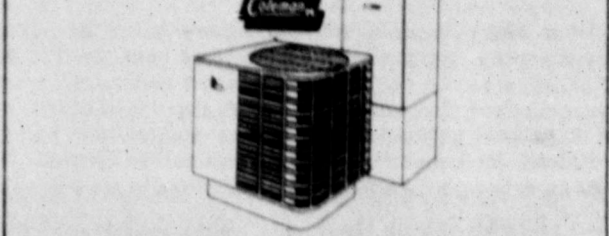

Defense testimony was to get underway today.

Sugarless foods which contain hexitols can cause diarrhea

Dear Dr. Solomon: A few months ago I decided to go on a diet and began using sugarless foods to satisfy my sweet tooth. One of the early consequences of my efforts was a bout with diarrhea, which disappeared as soon as I returned to my normal way of eating. I still have about 20 pounds I'd like to lose, but I'm reluctant to resume the diet. Could the diarrhea have been related to my use of sugarless foods, or do I have to look for some other source? — Meg

Dear Meg: It could very well have been the sugarless foods that caused the diarrhea, particularly if they were consumed in great quantity; however, it's difficult to be certain of that when evaluating a situation from a distance. Nevertheless, there have been other reports of diarrhea associated with the use of sugarless products, and even a suggestion that the condition be named "dietetic food diarrhea." The responsible element in these products is the hexitols, a group of sugar alcohols that include sorbitol and mannitol. If you still have 20 pounds you would like to lose, why not try altering your usual diet but without adding any of the sugarless foods. If the diarrhea does not return, it's a good bet it was related to the use of the dietetic foods.

Dear Dr. Solomon: You have previously written that heart disease may be linked with the kinds of foods we eat — for example, foods with a high-fat content or those containing a great deal of salt.

Since improved transportation and communication facilities have made the world a much smaller place than it used to be, it would seem that the differences in diet found in various countries today should not be as sharp as they were, say, 50 years ago.

In fact, I've read that some of the fast-food franchises so popular in the United States have opened outlets in foreign countries. If this is so, shouldn't the kinds of health problems found in modern, industrialized nations like the United States be found with greater frequency in underdeveloped countries? — Mike

Dear Mike: What you suggest as a possibility is, unfortunately, what seems to be happening. Dr. Ethel Nelson, of Bangkok Hospital in Thailand, reports that an increasing incidence of heart disease and myocardial infarction in Bangkok is mainly the result of a more Western-type high-fat diet.

For example, she notes that the death rate from infarction among an Indian subgroup, which amounted to 73 per 10,000 hospital admissions during the period 1959 to 1963, rose to 230 per 10,000 for the period 1974 to 1978. By comparison, the average mortality from myocardial infarction in a typical U.S. hospital is slightly less than 100 per 10,000 hospital admissions.

'Sweetheart Town' preparing for very busy Valentine's Day

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Lovers who want to give their valentines a special sign of affection can send their cards to Loveland, where they will be stamped with a postmark from the "Sweetheart Town" and re-mailed.

The valentines will be stamped in red ink with a four-line poem and a special postmark reading "A Sweetheart of a Town on Valentine's Day."

The poem will read:
 "Dan Cupid's gone a-questing,
 "All lonely hearts to find;
 "And thru his sly endeavors,
 "Every heart is valentined."

More than 300,000 valentines are expected to be handled here this year, the 35th year the service has been performed.

Dennis Anderson of the local Chamber of Commerce the valentines come from around the world, including Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Valentines should be pre-stamped with adequate postage, then placed in an outer wrapper and addressed to Postmaster, Loveland, Colo., 80537. The service is free.

Vasectomies speed up hardening of arteries

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Vasectomies speed up the hardening of arteries that leads to heart disease in monkeys and may present an extra "risk factor" to some men, says an Oregon researcher.

Nancy J. Alexander of the Oregon Regional Primate Research Center in Beaverton, Ore., cautioned Monday the risk has not been proved in human males.

But, she added, a man who "exhibits many other (heart disease) risk factors might well want to wait" until more is known about any effects of the common birth control operation before deciding whether to have it.

Smoking, obesity and hypertension are among the factors that increase the risk of heart disease.

Ms. Alexander told an American Heart Association seminar for science writers that studies done with two species of monkey indicated vasectomies cause complex immune reactions that "can accelerate atherosclerosis," the narrowing and hardening of blood vessels that sets the stage for heart attacks and strokes.

She said the National Institutes of Health are funding several large-scale studies around the country to determine whether vasectomies have similar effects on human males.

"Monkeys are not human beings and it may be ... that this effect will not occur in men," she said. "If I had to guess, I would guess vasectomy may be a risk factor for a certain percentage of the population and at the present time we cannot define that population."

A vasectomy is a simple operation in which the passage through which sperm cells travel is tied off, without interfering with normal sexual activity. The operation does not stop sperm production, so the cells accumulate and eventually break down inside the body.

The body's immune system apparently mistakes the broken-down material for an enemy and dispatches defensive cells called antibodies.

These anti-sperm antibodies are found in about half of all vasectomized men or male animals.

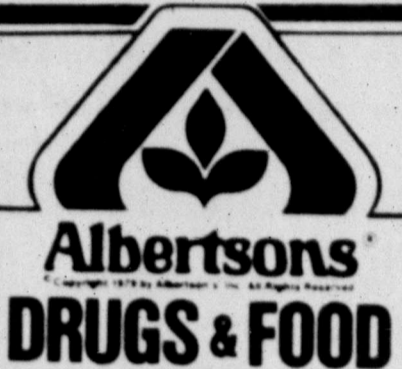

Ms. Alexander said it's unclear why not all individuals produce them.

She said the antibodies apparently can damage the inside walls of blood vessels and eventually lead to atherosclerosis.

A pilot study involved 10 monkeys fed a diet overloaded with cholesterol. After six months, some of the monkeys received vasectomies, while others were given sham operations, she said.

When the animals were killed and autopsied 10 months later, said Ms. Alexander, "There was significantly more atherosclerosis in the vasectomized group."

A second study involved 10 monkeys of another species that had been vasectomized nine to 14 years earlier and fed a diet almost free of cholesterol throughout their lives. They were compared with unvasectomized monkeys of the same age.

Use of artificial heart in humans approved

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Artificial hearts could save thousands of lives by the end of the decade, but for now they will be used only in life-and-death situations because recipients must remain confined to their homes, University of Utah surgeons say.

A university subcommittee gave approval Tuesday to a plan to begin implanting polyurethane artificial hearts in human patients. There have been only two other artificial-heart implants in history, and in both cases the patients quickly died.

The plan must have government approval. A candidate for the operation has not yet been selected, but the person would be a heart patient who would die "unless the heart is implanted," said Dr. Ernst J. Eichwald, subcommittee chairman.

Under current technology, recipients must remain connected to bread-box-sized compressed air machines that drive the heart. The two six-foot-long air tubes can't be unhooked.

However, within the decade, biomedical engineers at the university's Artificial Organs Division hope to perfect a fully mobile battery pack that could be worn as a vest or a belt. The batteries would have to be replaced with recharged batteries once or twice a day.

Once a mobile power supply is available, the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute estimates that from 17,000 to 50,000 people per year could be implanted with artificial hearts. That could help get around the problems of heart transplants, which have been limited to 30 to 50 a year in the United States by the limited supply of organs and problems of rejection.

DeVries said the first operation could occur within a week — or up to a year — after the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approves the subcommittee's recommendation. The FDA has 30 days in which to approve or deny the plan, and Utah doctors say they are confident they will get the approval.

FBI bodyguards with attorney general again

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a four-year absence, FBI bodyguards are back at the side of the attorney general, at least until William French Smith decides whether he really needs or wants them around.

FBI spokesman Roger Young said there have been no threats against the silver-haired, 63-year-old Smith since he was appointed attorney general. But a dark-suited FBI agent appeared in Smith's outer office late last week and has accompanied him on outings outside the Justice Department since then. While waiting for the attorney general to leave the building, the agent has helped Smith's guests find their way to the elevators on the way out.

Aides to Smith, who asked not to be identified, said a discussion of security arose when a building alarm went off accidentally last week. They suggested then that the bodyguard system be revived on an interim basis, and Smith and the FBI agreed.

"The agents are there in a security posture while the attorney general has an opportunity to evaluate his needs and whether he feels the system works for him," Young said.

Smith's aides said he would make a final decision on keeping them after discussing the interim arrangement with FBI Director William H. Webster.

Of recent attorneys general, Republicans John Mitchell, Richard Kleindienst, William Saxbe and Edward Levi had FBI bodyguards. Republican Elliot Richardson and Democrats Griffin Bell and Benjamin Civiletti did not.

The bodyguard system has on occasion caused some embarrassment. Life magazine once printed a photograph of FBI bodyguards in a St. Louis hotel room ironing Martha Mitchell's dress. A onetime aide to Mitchell said, "Martha used to ask them to do all sorts of things and they could hardly refuse. Once in a New York hotel, she summoned them to her suite to help her turn on the lights because she couldn't figure the switches out."

When Bell was appointed by former President Carter, he dispensed with the guards "because it just wasn't his style," said Terry Adamson, a former top aide to Bell. "But I think it's a good idea to have someone there," Adamson said, recalling a man who slipped past building security twice in one week and was tackled by aides as he headed toward Bell's inner office.

Leftist demonstrators last year sprayed a slogan on the outer wall of Civiletti's office, but department officials can recall finding Civiletti out shopping, alone and unrecognized, in shops near the department.

Mitchell brought on the guards after he was named to a top-level intelligence coordinating committee. Kleindienst kept them during anti-Vietnam War unrest.

Kawasaki recalls its snowmobiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kawasaki Motors Corp. will spend an estimated $3 million to $4 million to recall about 16,500 snowmobiles and also will pay a $90,000 penalty to settle a case brought by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The 1978 and 1979 model snowmobiles involved in the recall have been implicated in about 20 injuries, the commission said Tuesday. Kawasaki's $90,000 penalty is to settle a charge of failing to report a hazardous product.

In a second case, the safety agency said the Marriott Corp. agreed to pay $70,000 to settle a similar charge in connection with rides at amusement parks in Santa Clara, Calif., and Gurnee, Ill.

At least a dozen collisions of roller coaster cars at those parks have caused "a substantial number" of injuries and the death of a 14-year-old boy, the commission said.

The rides have been modified since the fatal accident, but Marriott agreed to submit regular reports to the commission for two years on the safety record of the rides.

Both companies signed the agreements without admitting any violation of the commission's reporting requirements or safety regulations. Spokesmen for both companies declined to elaborate on the agreements.

The commission said Kawasaki has told the agency of about 20 injuries involving snowmobile tracks, including fractures and wounds that in three cases required finger amputations. The problem in 1978 and 1979 models was not reported until May 1980, it said.

Kawasaki is mailing notices to all snowmobile owners with registered warranties for the 1978 and 1979 Invader and Intruder models, telling them of a program to replace the tracks, free of charge, with a newer model track that does not have the problem.

Boy refuses to take pledge

BURNABY, British Columbia (AP) — Carlo Guerreto doesn't mind pledging to serve Queen and country, but the 11-year-old can't find a religion that "makes any sense." And that means he can't join the Boy Scouts.

Carlo would like to join the 2nd Burnaby South Boy Scout troop, but refuses to take the Scout pledge with its traditional vow to "love and serve God." His stand has thrown local Boy Scout executives and human rights organizations into a quandary.

"The Scouts are dedicated to the mental, physical, social, and spiritual development of the boys," said Ted Hathaway, provincial executive director of the Boy Scouts. "If the boy couldn't take the promise, we don't have any alternative."

He blamed Carlo's parents for the controversy, contending that "children of that age aren't capable of making up their minds."

But Bob Clarke, Carlo's stepfather, said the decision was the boy's.

"He's an exceptional little guy. ... His mom and I think he's really something special in his temperament and his capacity for feelings. When he gives his word, he takes it seriously," Clarke said.

Carlo has nothing against God or religion, says his mother, Vittoria Clark.

"He's a good kid, but he says he sees a lot of the other kids — not all, but some — who've taken the pledge to God, who do terrible things to other kids and he can't see why he can't just leave that part out and respect all of the other rules and pledges," she said.

Said Carlo on Monday: "It just doesn't make any sense to me to say 'God.' My parents will let me have any religion I want but anything I've ever heard of doesn't make any sense."

Carlo, who has a newspaper route, does well in school and loves to swim and camp out, has a background in Cub Scouts and has earned Scout proficiency badges. He had been a member of the troop since October, but was asked to leave by an assistant Scoutmaster after he continually declined to take the full oath.

The Clarks approached the British Columbia Human Rights Branch, which turned the question over to its federal counterpart because the Scouts operate on a federal charter. Reggie Newkirk of the federal branch said lawyers are investigating the complaint.

"Federal law states that one cannot be discriminated against, on religious grounds, for provision of a service which is available to the general public," he said, but because Boy Scouts is a private society, there is some confusion over the definition of service.

Mike McNamara, executive director for the Burnaby region of Boy Scouts of Canada, says the organization, although non-denominational in matters of religious observance, has a "real problem" when faced with a youngster who says he has no religion at all.

"We have a Moslem troop ... and, of course, we have many, many Oriental Scouts who may or may not be Christian," he said. "All that is required is a pledge of duty to a supreme being."

"My personal thinking ... is perhaps we could come to some agreement involving a pledge to do, at least, with the supernatural," he said.

Cold shooting Rebels lose

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Sometimes hustle and determination just aren't enough to pull out a victory in basketball and the Midland Lee Rebels learned that lesson at Chaparral Center Tuesday night in a 69-60 District 5-5A loss to the Odessa Permian Panthers.

The Rebels played well at both ends of the court only to find out that the ball has to go in the hoop every now and then to come out on top in the scoring. After hitting only 31 percent from the field on 24 of 79 shots and 12 of 24 from the charity stripe, the Rebels should have been blown out in his one. The only saving grace was that hustle does account for coming close.

"BASKETBALL IS a simple game. You either put it in the basket or you don't. We didn't hit anything and that was the plain and simple difference," assessed Lee coach Paul Stueckler after the defeat.

The loss dropped Lee out of contention for the first half District 5-5A league title with a 2-3 reading. Their season mark fell to 11-14. Permian still has first half title hopes with a 4-1 reading and a 13-8 season standing.

Permian hit 57 percent from the field with a 24 of 42 shooting eye, but they actually won the game at the free throw line, outscoring the Rebels 11-12. Lee, however, forced 21 turnovers from the Panthers while making only 11 mistakes themselves and that kept them in the game.

Still, the Panthers had a hard time cutting this one away. The lead was led seven times in the first half and Permian led six different times and led on three occasions. The Rebels were led by five points in the first quarter despite hitting only seven of 20 shots from the field. And in the fourth period, Lee trailed only 65-63 with 35 seconds left in the game.

IT WAS the third period where Mojo put the Rebels away, jumping to a 45-35 lead with 2:35 left in the period on a Lee McClendon basket. McClendon, who hit for 14 points, had six in the quarter. Lee played it even from there on out with the exception of a fourth quarter rally which brought Lee to within three at 63-60 with 36 seconds left in the game.

In the third period, Lee hit only four of 16 shots and Alvin Dunson got three of them. With only eight points in the period, Lee dug a hole they could never climb out of. Dunson led the fourth quarter charge with eight of his 20 points.

"We couldn't hit, but we still had a chance to win the game with 35 seconds left," Stueckler said.

GALE SMITH led Permian with 17 points, eight in the first period and six in the fourth and Permian's leading scorer on the season Mike Woolley was held to 10 points. Kenneth Brown and Randy Pepper each had 10 for the Rebels.

"It was a tough game, but we settled down and didn't foul as much in the second half and I think that was a big difference," PHS coach Charles Padillo said. "We also changed defensively at the half and went man-to-man on Randy Pepper and gave a 3-1 zone to the rest. We held Pepper to only one field goal in the second half, but Dunson hurt us in the fourth quarter, however."

Stueckler was really disappointed with the loss to the Panthers. "I scouted Permian seven times and I really wanted to beat that bunch. But I can't go out there and stuff the ball in the basket."

The Lee junior varsity again failed to pick up their first district victory when they dropped a 65-63 decision to Permian after leading at the half by a 37-27 margin. Permian's Terry Anderson insured the win with a rebound layup with four seconds left and Lee's Derek Lane missed the front end of a one-and-one. Anderson led all scorers with 25 points and Brett Riley had 16. Lane had 13 for Lee and Blake Adams hit 16.

In the sophomore outing, Lee took a convincing 87-52 victory as Craig Holland hit for 12 and Luther Johnson and Mike Burton each had 10.

Grid Hall of Fame adds 3 1920s stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Three stars from the 1920s — Ralph "Moon" Baker of Northwestern, Walter Koppisch of Columbia and Herbert "Cobbles" Sturhahn of Yale — were named today to the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame in the deceased player category.

Baker played one year at Illinois before transferring to Northwestern where he was a triple-threat back for three years (1924-26). He led the Wildcats to a share of the Big Ten championship in 1926.

J.R. Richard Nolan Ryan Don Sutton

Richard, Ryan, Sutton to appear at banquet

Now if we can just figure out a way to keep 'em here for the Texas League season. If Midland Cubs general manager Bill Schammel has any cunning, guile or outright deceit in him, like most good GM's do, he'll find a way, rest assured.

And if he does, the Cubs' pitching problems would be solved. So much for daydreams.

For Midland fans it may be enough to have the Houston Astros' pitching trio of J.R. Richard, Nolan Ryan and Don Sutton in the Tall City for one day, the Midland Sports Banquet Feb. 10 at the Greentree Country Club.

WHEN HOUSTON owner John McMullen agreed to speak at the Midland banquet, he also promised to bring three players with him. In lining up Richard, Ryan and Sutton, he didn't exactly scrounge around at the bottom of the Astro barrel. McMullen and his star-studded pitching triumvirate will join a galaxy that includes White Sox Coach Bobby Winkles as the feature speaker; Atlanta Falcons General Manager Eddie LeBaron; former Oklahoma quarterback Jack Mildren; former major league manager Bill Rigney, Sr., now with the California Angels; Chicago Cubs GM Bob Kennedy and a few more surprises to be revealed later.

Ryan and Richard, of course, give the Houston Astros so much heat they may not be able to keep the Astrodome at the government regulated 65 degrees. Anyway, rival National League clubs are suggesting an investigation. Sutton, picked up from Los Angeles during the off season, may be just the missing ingredient the Astros need to win their first pennant, assuming that Richard, who has been given permission to begin workouts again, can regain his pre-stroke form.

RICHARD has compiled a 107-71 record in his six seasons with the Astros and seemed to be on his way to a best-ever year in 1980 with a 10-4 record and 1.89 ERA when cut down by a stroke in mid-July. Some feared it might be the end of a career, but the Richard, who made the initials J.R. as famous in Houston as they are in Dallas, made a remarkable recovery. And like the other J.R. may be his old onery self come April.

Ryan, 34, a native of Alvin, Texas, has enjoyed a blazing baseball career with the Mets, Angels and now Astros. Since breaking into the majors 13 years ago, he has compiled a 178-169 won-lost record and 3,109 strikeouts. He and Sandy Koufax are tied for most career no-hitters, four, and Nolan also has pitched seven one-hitters. He holds the record for most games with 15 or more whiffs (21), most seasons with 300 or more strikeouts (5).

Sutton, 36, is 230-175 major league pitcher and is the Dodgers' all-time pitching leader in eight different categories. His five one-hitters ties for the high in the National League and while he has had only one 20-game season, he's a consistent double-figure winner and the kind of guy a manager likes to have starting in a "must win" game. Last year with LA he was 13-5 with a 2.21 ERA.

Tickets for the banquet are $35 each and $500 for a sponsor table of 12. —TED BATTLES.

While Velasco led with 14, Johnson wound up with 18 and would have had more, but was saddled with four fouls and didn't play a whole lot in the second half.

MIDLAND CAME out gunning in the third period to outscore OHS, 20-8 for a 56-27 advantage going into the final eight minutes of play.

Steve Miller, who usually gets limited playing each time out, scored eight points with six of those coming from long range in the first period. Don Sharnowski also scored eight points as 10 of the 16 Bulldogs got into the scoring column. Preston Robertson also wound up with eight points for the winners.

Big guns for the Bronchos were Rayford Wright and David Olivias. Wright, a 6-2 senior, scored 19 points and Olivias nine.

Midland cashed in on 10 of 17 free throws while OHS connected on 14 of 19, but only hit 18 field goals to Midland's 30 and that was the difference.

It was ragged contest and Midland only had to play well in spurts to down the frustrated Bronchos who missed numerous easy shots from close in, especially in the first half.

While Velasco and Miller were having a good first period, Sharnowski popped in three baskets in the second period and that has been the key all season long as the Bulldogs have shown great bench strength.

THE MIDLAND and OHS sophomores took the evening underway with Odessa posting a 51-41 decision. High for Midland was Mark Page with nine points.

Midland finally ended a three-game losing streak in the junior varsity contest by taking a 65-61 victory over the OHS JVs.

Doug Hixon and Johnny Pannell scored 10 points each for the Pups who are 2-3 in 5-5A play and 11-6 on the year.

McMullen wins Astros internal power struggle

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Houston Astros President and General Manager Tal Smith went job-hunting today, Al Rosen woke up from a good night's sleep and millionaire shipbuilder John J. McMullen was still sailing smoothly as captain and primary authority of the Astros.

That series of events became clear Tuesday night when Smith, fired Oct. 27 in an unpopular move by McMullen, said he had been told he would not be rehired, though his rejoining the Astros had been widely rumored.

McMullen denied however that any decision had been made concerning Smith.

"The issue at hand, I guess, is will the new board of directors hire Tal Smith back or not," McMullen said. "The board hasn't been legally formed yet."

Wills needles Billy Martin

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Mariners manager Maury Wills had a couple of barbs Tuesday for Oakland A's skipper Billy Martin.

Asked to describe the major difference between Martin and himself, Wills replied, "I think we're different in that I don't go around punching people."

At the weekly meeting of the Puget Sound Sports-writers and Broadcasters Association, Wills also talked about the acquisition of shortstop Mario Guerrero from the Oakland A's. Guerrero played for Martin last season.

"Mario just had a little personality conflict with Billy Martin," the Seattle manager said. "But you know that can be understood. Mario likes marshmallows."

Alborn still unsigned

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football coach Ray Alborn, one of only four coaches in the history of the school to be offered a contract, has not signed a three-year pact extended to him by Athletic Director Augie Erfurth early this month.

Erfurth said Tuesday that the two men haven't been able to discuss the contract, however, because of Alborn's recruiting trips.

NFL's James Boys steal another Super Bowl grid title

Los Angeles Times
NEW ORLEANS—Are you ready for a shock? Brace yourself: The AFC won the Super Bowl here Sunday. And a pie's round and there's a cow in Texas and water boils at sea level at 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

Clean living took another shot to the eye. The good guys got run up the draw. The claim jumpers took over the territory. The Gary Coopers got dry-gulched. The good guys never even really got their guns out of the holsters. The Captains Courageous got belted by the Captain Bloods. Those are white hats in the dust.

Mothers, don't raise your sons to be Boy Scouts, altar boys, lifeguards, preachers. Raise 'em to be Oakland Raiders.

Take down those wall maxims. Early to bed and early to rise and you get beat 27-10. Throw away the copy-book homilies. Hold the ice cream and apple pie. I'll take a shot and a beer. The team that trained on Bourbon Street, the one that had to hire five guards to keep the tackles in after midnight the night before the game, threw the other one around like rag dolls, the one that was in bed with the playbook by 10 and the only adult films they saw had fully clothed guys all wearing helmets and playing the Green Bay Packers.

THE OAKLAND football team is just a bunch of All-American boys like everybody else. But, in 27 boardrooms of the NFL, they are as outland as the James Boys. There's a price on their head and on that of their leader, Al Davis, the Sundance Kid.

To them, he's the kind of guy you lock up the kids and board up the bank when he comes to town. He's trying to take his team in the lam with him to L.A. and you'd think he was stealing Rhode Island. Only the Philadelphia Eagles stood between him and the championship of all football Sunday. And there are bits and pieces of them lying all over Main Street.

To understand how Commissioner Pete Rozelle and his 27 owners feel you'd have had to be in Paris when the Germans marched through.

So, take that, Frank Merriwell. Run up the Jolly Roger and let's hear it for the team that leads the league in drunk-driving arrests and big games won. The last two Super Bowls they've been in, the score was Oakland 59, NFC 24.

The Oakland Raiders won the game because they had the better receivers. For instance, everyone was afraid of the skyscraping Philadelphia receiver, Harold Carmichael. To play him, you have to get a ladder. He goes 7 or 8 feet or something. Well, the Philadelphia quarterback completed almost as many passes to a receiver named Rod Martin as he did to Carmichael. Rod Martin caught more Ron Jaworski passes than all but two Philadelphia Eagles.

THIS IS curious because Rod Martin doesn't play for the Philadelphia Eagles. He must have run better routes than they did because Ron Jaworski found him open three times Sunday. I guess habit asserted itself. Jaworski hates to throw the football away, so, he found Rod Martin open on three key plays and, as the guys who laid three points on Philly say, "That's show biz."

Rod Martin's not supposed to catch anybody's passes. He's a linebacker and he's primarily supposed to pull people, not footballs, down. The three passes he intercepted Sunday were not only a Super Bowl record, they were one more than he had intercepted all year.

Oakland's receivers are supposed to win games for them but they're supposed to catch Jim Plunkett's passes, not Eagles'. You can't fault Jaworski too much. You see, on a pass play, the Eagles only have five eligible receivers. The Raiders have 11 eligible. The temptation is strong.

Jaworski completed his first pass to Martin on the third play of the game on the Eagle 47 and Martin returned it to the Eagle 30 whence the Raiders scored their first touchdown.

JAWORSKI'S SECOND completion to Martin came as the Eagles were driving toward the Raider goal to make the game close. Martin caught the pass on the Raiders' 34 and they got a field goal out of that to put the game out of reach, 24-3.

The third interception, you'd have to say, by now, Jaworski was comfortable with Martin's routes and delivered it to him in the flat. It was a nice spiral.

Rod Martin really turned the game around, so to speak. Which is also curious, because he's not supposed to be the star in the Oakland defense. Ted Hendricks is, the "Mad Stork," "Ted Terrific," the guy who's so good he's allowed to do whatever he thinks best out there.

Rod Martin was drafted (out of USC) on the "afterthought round," 14th, the "Well, let's see what's in the bottom of the barrel."

After the Raiders got him, they didn't want him. They traded him to San Francisco. He couldn't even last there, which is like being kicked out of the Salvation Army.

Several clubs expressed an interest. Rod tried out with the Chicago Bears, Kansas City Chiefs, and Tampa Bay Buccaneers. They told him to leave his number, they'd get back.

But it was the Raiders who got back. They traced him to the beach at Santa Monica where he was running with his dog to stay in shape. "It was the weight thing," Rod explained after the Super Bowl Sunday. "They thought I was too light. I weighed 207. But I kind of revolutionized the linebacker weight style. Jerry Robinson (Eagle linebacker) might think he did, but I was here two years before he was."

THE JAWORSKI-to-Martin may not go down in history with the great combinations like Dorais-to-Rockne, Isbell-to-Hutson, Baugh-to-Miller, but Ron's completions to Rod were the most important of the day. They decided the Super Bowl. Rod completed 21 passes altogether, 18 to as-sorted Eagles, and 3 to Rod Martin. But, then, every great passer has a great receiver.

So, the team whose coach never sleeps lost to the team whose players never sleep, so long as the beer is flowing and the honky tonks are open and the sun hasn't come up yet.

The Oakland team won because, as usual with an AFC team, they were so much faster than the Philadelphia team, they made the Eagles look like a bunch of guys waiting for a bus.

They also won, because, as Rod Martin said, "The Raiders like to loosen it up, lighten it up on you, they don't require that you stand at attention or goose step."

THE RAIDERS are the first wild card team ever to win this tournament. That's altogether fitting. In fact, the word "card" doesn't need to be there. In fact, this is a team which would have to shape up considerably to be considered merely "wild." But they unveiled the most devastating forward-pass combination since Walter Camp -- or maybe it was George Halas -- invented the thing.

Jaworski couldn't have gotten the ball to him more effectively if Martin was wearing green and they'd been practicing all week. In fact, only two receivers on his own team caught more passes than Rod Martin did. That's why the Oakland Raiders are going home with a big silver bowl and 27 conferees are gnashing their teeth. The team nobody wanted is the team that got it all.

And Ron Jaworski can someday say in his memoirs, "The most effective receiver I ever threw to was playing outside linebacker for the Oakland Raiders at the same time." Too bad, because they were picture passes.

Cards see light at end of tunnel

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Now that the Louisville Cardinals have regained their shooting eye perhaps they can start to see daylight at the end of the tunnel.

College basketball's defending national champions finally put it all together Tuesday night, shooting 57 percent — their season average was only 46 percent — in trouncing Providence 71-55 at Louisville. The victory still left them under the .500 mark at 7-8.

"If we can just shoot and be relaxed we will be a good team," said 6-foot-6 forward Derek Smith, who led the Cardinals with 24 points, 12 rebounds and four assists.

Louisville isn't thinking Top Twenty thoughts just yet but four ranked teams were in action and all won, although No. 14 Maryland had to come from seven points behind in the final three minutes before edging Pittsburgh 69-66 in overtime.

MEANWHILE, EIGHTH-ranked Notre Dame crushed Cornell 80-57. No. 16 South Alabama downed Jacksonville 55-48 and No. 20 Connecticut whipped Massachusetts 98-64.

In winning for the fifth time in its last six starts, Louisville connected on 28 of 49 shots from the floor.

The Cardinals took command of the game with a 13-4 burst early in the second half — they shot 61.5 percent after the intermission — to open a 49-33 bulge. Smith had help from Jerry Eaves, who accounted for 19 points on 9-of-13 accuracy.

Notre Dame had no trouble with Cornell as John Paxson scored 15 points, Tracy Jackson added 14 by making seven consecutive shots and Kelly Tripucka had 13. The Irish trailed 10-6 before the Jackson-Paxson show sparked a 12-2 burst with four points apiece.

Albert King and Greg Manning rescued Maryland in regulation time and Buck Williams, held to seven points in the first 40 minutes, hit six in overtime to propel the Terrapins past Pitt.

MARYLAND trailed 62-55 with 2:56 left but King hit a bank shot and a three-point play and Manning's baseline drive tied the score with 1:27 to go. Williams put the Terrapins ahead to stay with a basket one minute into overtime and added a pair of free throws a minute later.

King was Maryland's high scorer with 23 points and Manning added 19 while Pitt got 17 apiece from Sam Clancy, Dwayne Wallace and Lenny McMillian.

Ed Rains scored four of his 18 points on late free throws to help South Alabama turn back Jacksonville in a Sun Belt Conference game. After trailing by as many as 11 points, Jacksonville pulled within one early in the second half but four points by Tony Hafley gave South Alabama some breathing room.

Mike McKay and Chuck Aleksinas scored 18 points apiece to lead Connecticut over Massachusetts. The winners broke a 24-24 tie by scoring 15 consecutive points late in the first half, with McKay getting eight of them.

ELSEWHERE, Gene Banks' 18 points led Duke over Rutgers 53-51. Tulane shaded Cincinnati 63-60 in a Metro Conference game behind Joe Holston's 17 points.

TED BATTLES

What if Raiders set up Eagles?

After "setting up" the haughty, aloof, overconfident Cowboys in the NFC championship game, the Philadelphia Eagles advanced to the Super Bowl and fell easy prey to the "renegade" Raiders in a game so one-sided it made one thankful they at least gave us a look at Ralph Sampson working his wonders for Virginia before the Super extravaganza cluttered up the network.

The Raiders made it look so easy, one wonders if they "set up" the Eagles and, if they had wrought such a dastardly deed, what the post game locker room scene might have been like.

We can see it now, Coach Tom Flores, "We just wanted to convey the feeling that we were happy just being in the Super Bowl. After all, we were playing the NFC champions while we finished no better than fourth in the AFC and had to ride a wild-card ticket into the playoffs. How could a team culled from the misfits and rejects of the NFL expect to play with the team that had so easily beaten America's Team."

FLORES might have added, "We wanted to give the impression that all Philadelphia had to do to win was show up."

"It worked," chortles a Raymond Chester. "They fell for it and we deflated their balloon."

Over in a corner, Lester Hayes is fussing and cussing. "How am I ever going to get this damned stickum off? I think that was carrying this psychological ploy too far. I'm glad they didn't throw much in my territory. With all this stickum, I'd never been able to get my arms loose from my jersey to make an interception. But Coach Flores' strategy worked."

"That's right," chimed in Ted Hendricks. "Flores was afraid they'd take advantage of Lester, so that's why we made such a big deal over the interceptions he made in the playoff games. AFC teams knew that was our weak spot and kept working on Lester. Only he got lucky and intercepted a few...we all knew his luck couldn't last forever."

"BOY, DID they ever fall for it," howled Burgess Owens, another defender. "And they did just what we wanted them to do. They tried to beat Rod Martin and everybody in the AFC knows he's the one guy you don't want to mess with. All he did was intercept three...which is more than he had all year, but no one else was ever foolish enough to throw in his territory."

"Another big difference," theorized offensive tackle Gene Upshaw, "was that the Eagles didn't have a Mark Van Eeghen to run the ball. All they had was Wilbur Montgomery, not fast enough to get outside our quick defense, and not strong enough to run inside. Just a pusseyfoot...but I'm glad it wasn't my job to contain him outside."

And from Lester, again, "Did you notice how those Eagle receivers, Carmichael and the rest, kept bearing footsteps all afternoon. We sent them all copies of Jack Tatum's book with a note that we got rid of him because he more talk than stank."

"SURE, they beat us during the regular season," agreed Kenny King, who ran for more yardage on one pass play than he had gained rushing all of his 1979 season with Houston, "but it was part of the overall plan. They came into this game figuring they could beat us any time and any way they wanted to. And it hurt. They just didn't show us the proper respect."

"Boy, did they ever fall for that plant about me being out on the town until 3 a.m.," laughed Marv Matuszak. "But that was the difference. The Eagles are not a disciplined team. Not like it takes to win the Super Bowl. They just aren't dedicated. They're too much of a fun-loving, free spirited, happy-go-lucky bunch. I'm afraid Vermeil doesn't spend enough time on the small details it takes to win a game like this."

But, of course, it never happened. Even "charming rogues" turned "outlaw" have too much class to behave like that, don't they?

RHCC's Bill Keys wins merchandising award

Bill Keys of Ranchland Hills Country Club has been named by Sports Illustrated and the Professional Golfers' Association as a sectional winner of the PGA/SI Merchandiser of the Year Award.

The awards, co-sponsored by the PGA and SI, were established in 1978 to cite excellence in golf shop retailing and merchandising, and to inspire an even higher degree of professionalism in the golf business. The awards are also designed to recognize the expert personal service and products PGA pros provide and the ways they help golfers at all levels enjoy the game.

Bill Keys

Award nominations were submitted by both SI readers and PGA members. PGA officials then screened the nominations and selected winners from each of the 40 PGA Sections in three course categories — public, private and resort. Keys was the private sectional winner.

It is the second time the award has come to Midland. Rex Worrell of Hogan Park was a public sectional winner last year.

SCRATCHPAD Benirschke receives award

San Diego placekicker Rolf Benirschke, who overcame Crohn's Disease, disabling intestinal disorder, was honored as Most Courageous Athlete of 1980, after undergoing two operations for removal of part of his colon. His weight dropped from 180 to 125 pounds, and afterward he had to completely rebuild atrophied muscles. Although he exhibits no symptoms of the disease now, Benirschke has a constant reminder — the ileostomy bag that collects his body wastes...

Baylor linebacker Mike Singletary won the Davey O'Brien Memorial award as the outstanding football player in the SWC for the second straight year. Oakland's Lester Hayes, Kenny King and Cliff Branch received death threats before the Super Bowl Sunday and left the field two minutes before the end of the game as a precautionary measure... Washington Huskie football coach Don James received a raise from $50,184 to $62,000 with his new five-year contract... Tom Lovat, former Green Bay assistant, is new offensive line coach for the St. Louis Cardinals... Joseph Redmond, Central State, Ohio, succeeds Jim Sorey (5-17 in two seasons) as Texas Southern football coach... Former Redskins assistant Ray Callahan will join the Houston Oilers as offensive line coach...

BYU's Danny Ainge was named WAC Player of the Week after scoring 53 points against Colorado

State and Wyoming on the way to a new WAC career scoring record...

Oregon State coach Ralph Miller took his team's fall into a tie with Virginia for first in the AP college cage poll in stride. "It doesn't make that much difference to us. The fact that Virginia looked very good on television (Sunday) ... probably didn't hurt. It's unusual. Usually you have to get beat before you, in a sense, go down in the rankings..."

Denise Potvin, Bryan Trotter and Mike Bossy of the Islanders will head the NHL Campbell Conference All-Star team that will play the Prince of Wales Conference Feb. 10. Also picked were Flyers Pat Quinn and Bill Barber, St. Louis goalie Mike Liut; Colorado defenseman Rob Ramage; Dave Williams and Kevin McCarthy of Vancouver; Pete Peeters and Behn Wilson of Philadelphia; Wayne Gretzky, Edmonton, and Mike Gartner, Washington...

Toronto first baseman John Mayberry signed a four-year, multi-million dollar contract after setting club records for homers, 30, and rbis, 82, last year. Former WBC light heavyweight champion John Conteh says he will fight champion Carlos de Leon, probably at Liverpool, Eng., in late March... Wayne Webb, 23, who led the PBA with $115,000 in prize money in 32 events, ended Mark Roth's three-year run as Bowler of the Year... —TED BATTLES

Watson ready for Crosby golf

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Tom Watson, golf's leading light over the last four seasons, opens his 1981 campaign this week confidently anticipating an improved performance.

"I'm ready to go. I'm very antsy to start playing golf. I'm very ready for it to begin. I'm champing at the bit," Watson said.

It is entirely possible, however, that the start of his season could be delayed. The 40th Bing Crosby National Pro-Am is scheduled to begin Thursday on three Monterey Peninsula courses.
