Polish farmers may cultivate association

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Supreme Court ruled today that Poland's private farmers could form an association but not the Rural Solidarity independent trade union they had sought.

It was not immediately clear what effect the ruling would have on the farmers, who had appealed to the Supreme Court after a lower court denied them a union charter. They had spoken of boycotting food supply centers if their demand was not met.

Thousands of farmers massed outside the court building, waving banners and cheering as independent trade union leader Lech Walesa arrived before the ruling was announced.

The court ruling came after Warsaw Radio announced the end of the general strike in Jelenia Gora and the suspension of walkouts scheduled in the Silesian coal mines. There was also a government shakeup Monday with Defense Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski, a general regarded as a moderate, replacing Premier Jozef Piskorski.

Meanwhile, Communist Party chief Stanislaw Kania warned Soviet patience was wearing thin and appealed to the Polish army to "guard our independence" and to the workers to "stop the anarchy." He urged farmers to ignore the call to unionize and "frustrate the designs of those who want to break agricultural self-government."

Warsaw Radio said the strike in southwestern Jelenia Gora was called off after the government agreed to lease a sanatorium for army and government officials to provincial authorities for use as a public hospital until a new provincial hospital is opened.

As many as 100,000 members of Solidarity, Poland's big independent labor federation, were reported to have staged sit-in strikes Monday in their plants and offices in Jelenia Gora, demanding that the sanatorium be turned into a public hospital.

Meanwhile, coal miners in southern Poland had threatened to strike today unless their five-day, 37½-hour week was extended to administrative workers in the mines. But Warsaw Radio quoted Solidarity representatives as saying the walkout was called off "in consideration of the national interest, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa's appeal, and the announcement of the changes in the government."

Piskorski was replaced at a Central Committee meeting Monday, forced out after only six months by the continuing labor crisis. The new premier, Jaruzelski, was reported to have advised against using force against the strikers last summer. Parliament on Wednesday is expected to approve him, and he probably will relinquish the defense minister's job.

Piskorski's predecessor was Edward Babuch, whose announcement of an end to meat price subsidies July 1 triggered the nationwide strike wave last summer that produced the independent labor movement. He was replaced by Piskorski Aug. 24. In the next week, an agreement to end the strikes was reached; Solidarity, the first union free of party control in the Soviet bloc, was established, and party chief Edward Gierek was replaced by Kania.

Despite the agreement to end the summer strikes, Poland's labor unrest continued and the nation's private farmers began pressing for an independent union. Kania addressed the Central Committee Monday. So did Politburo member Kazimierz Barcikowski, who said the Politburo saw no justification "to express approval" for a farmers' union.

He accused Solidarity leaders of "pushing our community toward anarchy by arbitrary actions."

Just look at the face on that...

Cynthia Dwyer to fly to Zurich

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — American writer Cynthia Dwyer, convicted of espionage and deported from Iran after nine months in prison, flew to freedom today in a plane packed with Iranian workers and peasants. She landed in this Persian Gulf sheikhdom on her way home and was whisked away in a police car, declining to talk to reporters.

Mrs. Dwyer, 49, flew to Dubai, 700 miles south of Tehran on a regularly scheduled Iranair flight after Iranian officials delayed her departure nearly 24 hours. Markus Hirsiger of the staff of the Swiss Embassy in Tehran escorted her, the Swiss Foreign Office said.

The Foreign Office said she would fly to Zurich Wednesday, arriving at 8:35 a. m. (2:35 a. m. EST), and leave for New York a few hours later.

U.S. Ambassador William Walle and the U.S. consul to Dubai, Tom Dowling, met her at the Dubai airport.

"Mrs. Dwyer is well, and has expressed a desire not to meet the press," said a U.S. Embassy spokesman. "She has no itinerary, but she is on her way home."

In Amherst, N. Y., a suburb of Buffalo, Mrs. Dwyer's husband, John, 45, a college English professor, said he felt "terrific" knowing she was finally free. "There have been so many letdowns. It's a new feeling," he said.

Dwyer said she learned from the State Department that during the delay in releasing his wife in Tehran the Iranians wanted to take her back to Evin Prison, but Swiss officials insisted she not be taken back and she spent 20 hours waiting at the Tehran airport.

He said his main concern during the nine months his wife was in prison was not so much that she was being mistreated, but that the political instability of Iran would delay her release. He said he and their three children would await further news before deciding where to meet her.

Reporters were not allowed near the plane at Dubai, but passengers said Mrs. Dwyer sat among the Iranian workers on the jetliner. The plane arrived more than an hour late because of delays at Tehran's Mehrabad airport.

One passenger said Mrs. Dwyer was wearing a skirt and blouse and her head was covered by a scarf.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Sue Pittman said she knew of no government plans to hospitalize Mrs. Dwyer or debrief her, as was done with the 52 American hostages freed by Iran on Jan. 20.

Mrs. Dwyer had been scheduled to leave Tehran on Monday on a flight to Austria, but Iranian officials stopped her at the airport. Swiss Ambassador Erik Lang said she was delayed because of the "lack of a travel document." Other sources reported the Iranians said her American passport could not be found. It had been seized when she was arrested.

'Informal' work sessions may violate state law

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Midland County commissioners for years have held "informal" work sessions on mornings prior to their regularly scheduled 1:30 p.m. meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Those meetings may have been held illegally even though the county judge does post notices of the commissioners' session to "review bills and correspondence."

"Probably it is a technical violation," County Attorney Robert Rendall said Monday. "(But) they never take any action."

"It's a work session; they don't make any decisions; they (legally) can't."

The "work sessions" have been held either at 9 a.m. or 10 a.m. on those second and fourth Mondays, and usually conclude with the four commissioners and County Judge Bill Ahders going out together for lunch.

But, as Commissioner Charlie Welch had noted earlier, his fellow commissioners Durward Wright, C. DeWayne Davis and Win Brown and the judge make concerted efforts not to discuss county business; it's not allowed by law.

However, Welch did admit that their restraining from discussing county-related business was somewhat difficult, though self-enforced, since the county is the officials' common bond.

Effective Monday, the "informal" morning meetings will be discontinued.

"There will be a change in format," Rendall said. Regular meetings

Library, annex changes studied

By ED TODD

Midland County commissioners, who sometimes haggle over what's the best solution for a given problem, are soliciting advice on what to do about two quandaries.

The propositions: (1) how to enlarge and enhance or build a new Midland County Public Library and (2) means to build a new courthouse annex and better utilize existing courthouse space.

And the four commissioners, after some bantering, decided to appoint a "blue-ribbon ad hoc" committee to make suggestions on the library and on a courthouse annex.

Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis, who said that committee proposal was his "idea," allowed that "I'm taking the credit one way or another."

"Please do," encouraged Commissioner Win Brown.

Davis, now in his first year on the Commissioners' Court, has not been privy to library-annex talk which the commissioners have taken up from time-to-time over the past several years.

"I think this (committee) is essential to get citizen input to share the responsibility with us," Davis said.

Veteran Commissioner Durward Wright, who seemed comfortable with the committee's looking into the courthouse annex dilemma, didn't seem equally receptive to the inquiry into the library.

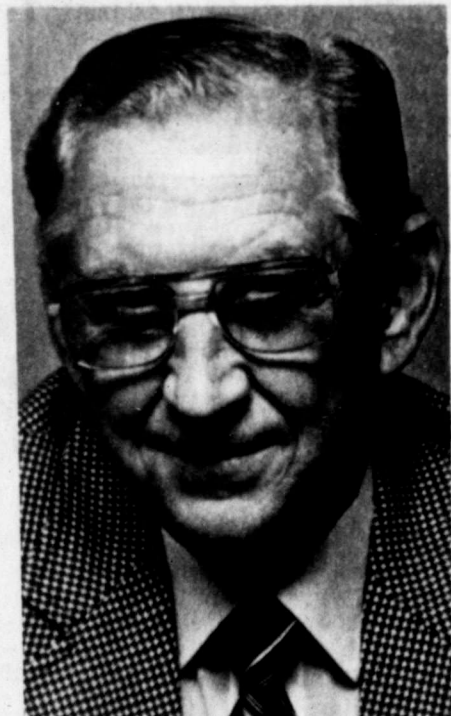

"THE LIBRARY has a very capable (advisory) board, and Friends of the Library are very well represented by the citizens," Wright said. "How much of a camel are we going to build (with a third committee)?"

Wright said the county already has paid for advice from an architect and a land appraiser on a design for a new library and a plot on which to build it.

"We've reached the point where we're right at the kick-off (of a new library)," Wright contended in an apparent effort to keep the ad hoc committee out of the commissioners' library business.

"Mr. Wright," countered Davis, a retired high school government

'Agent Orange' records found

By SUE FAHLGREN
Staff Writer

Marsha and Roger Stinson may be happier this week than they were last week.

The couple has been involved in a battle with the Veterans Administration hospital in Houston seeking the transfer of Stinson's medical records to the VA hospital in Big Spring since September. The records are associated with testing done in August on Stinson in connection with his exposure to Agent Orange during the Vietnam Conflict. Monday the family received word the "missing" records had been located.

"Tom Craddick's office found them there (in Houston)," Mrs. Stinson said this morning. The records, which VA officials had reported to the Stinsons as non-existent, suddenly turned up in the Peace Clinic, the psychology department at the Houston hospital.

"They (the hospital officials) said they had been sending them to our old address," Mrs. Stinson said, adding the hospital workers reported the records had been returned to their office.

Mrs. Stinson said the records would be transferred to Big Spring's VA hospital this week, however the couple was told they would not be receiving a copy of the records for themselves.

"We started tracking this down Feb. 2" after Mrs. Stinson called the office, an aide from Rep. Craddick's office said this morning. "We found them yesterday in the Peace Clinic."

The aide said the hospital officials had been writing the Stinsons at their old address outside of Houston. After the letters had been returned to the VA hospital office, hospital officials kept the records. "So they had been holding (the records) down there," the aide said, adding she did not know whether a doctor had the records or a secretary had been keeping them until contact could be made with the Stinsons.

The aide also said she believed the hospital officials had been trying to contact Stinson "for additional tests" in connection with his Agent Orange exposure.

The Stinsons reported earlier when they had called the hospital — and the same office there — a nurse had reported the records had been "picked up" by "the military" and that the records "don't exist here any more."

The Stinsons may never see the records compiled on Roger's exposure to Agent Orange since, according to the Texas Medical Association, the records are the property of the physician and not the patient in most cases. But, as Marsha Stinson said this morning, "At least they've admitted they've got them."

Lamesa man killed when truck overturns

LAMESA — A Lamesa man died when his truck overturned on wet pavement near here shortly after noon Monday.

Pronounced dead at the scene by Dawson County Justice of the Peace Fred Vera was 41-year-old Aucencio Rodriguez.

According to the Department of Public Safety, Rodriguez was driving a 1976 Chevrolet truck north on U.S. 87 about 12:15 p.m. Monday when it skidded into the median and rolled over several times, throwing Rodriguez from the vehicle.

The accident occurred 14 miles south of Lamesa. Rodriguez's body was taken to Brannon Funeral Home in Lamesa, where services are pending.

Reagans won't be spared as federal budget pared

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It appears not even President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, will be spared from efforts to cut the federal budget.

Mrs. Reagan wants to restore the White House and two government guest homes across the street, and Reagan's aides want the White House office buildings cleaned more often. But there may not be enough money.

The first lady is considering trying to organize a private fund-raising effort to redecorate the White House family living quarters, which were exempted when Reagan told Cabinet secretaries to skip redecorating their offices.

While Mrs. Reagan considers how to finance the redecoration, White House aides are pushing to have their offices cleaned every day.

Cleaning the old and new executive office buildings next to the White House, including vacuuming and cleaning toilets, was downgraded to once a week as part of the Carter administration's austerity program.

General Services Administration spokesman Ted Leininger said that move cut the quarterly cleaning bill for the White House offices and the office buildings from $134,000 in 1977 and to $50,000. He did not say how much it would cost to comply with the Reagan administration's request.

"They didn't want to know why too much," Leininger said of the Reagan request for more cleaning. "They wanted it increased. It was our idea to tell them why."

As for Mrs. Reagan's restoration project, her staff director, Peter McCoy, said there were "little things that have gone neglected for a number of years" and need attention in the White House, Blair House and a small government guest home that faces Lafayette Square.

Blair House "needs work," McCoy said. It is the large government guest house a half-block from the White House where the Reagans stayed before the inauguration and where foreign dignitaries stay. The nearby guest house on Jackson Place also needs refurbishing, he said.

Son's use of funds investigated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan's eldest son is under investigation for allegedly diverting funds from a gasohol development project to his own pocket, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Michael E. Reagan, 35, also has been accused of offering and selling stock in a corporation, which, according to court documents, was planned but never incorporated, the newspaper said.

Reagan was not immediately available for comment, but his lawyer Donald Wager said, "I'm sure he's (Reagan) going to be exonerated by the time the investigation is completed."

The Times said authorities from the Los Angeles County district attorney's office and the state Department of Corporations are trying to find out how the president's son used $17,500 given to him by investors who purchased shares in his Agricultural Energy Resources venture.

Search warrants were served Friday at Reagan's home and at a Security Pacific National Bank branch in Hollywood, the Times said. The warrants called for "all documents, checks, correspondence and literature pertaining" to AER.

Reagan, who operates AER from his Sherman Oaks, Calif., home, told investigators that the entity distributes gasohol but also serves as a broker in procuring alcohol for use as a fuel additive, according to court documents cited by the newspaper.

Investigators also are looking into possible state corporate securities law violations by both Reagan and Century City lawyer Sheldon H. Lytton involving the offer and sale of stock to AER investors, the Times said.

Lytton was not available for comment immediately.

When first questioned by district attorney's investigator Larry Rooker and Corporations Department investigator Kathryn Jonkey last Aug. 8, both Reagan and Lytton refused to answer questions about AER, the Times quoted court documents as saying.

But Reagan subsequently did talk to investigators, the newspaper said.

Reagan's lawyer told the Times "it is a complex situation, and when all of it is sorted out, they will find that he has done nothing wrong. That's true for Mr. Lytton, too," Wagner added.

The newspaper also reported that:

—The court file indicated the complaint initially was made to authorities by Paul Edward Morenz, one of four men Reagan solicited as investors in AER.

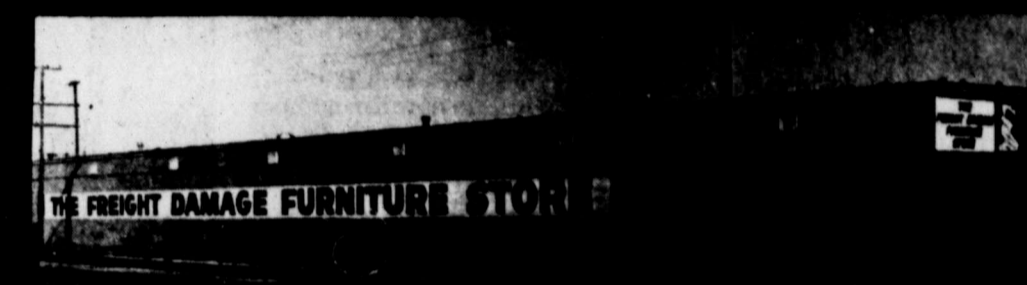

—Morenz complained to Rooker that Reagan had used the invested money to pay his expenses instead of spending it to develop AER.

—But a statement signed just two weeks ago by Morenz and the other three investors stated they "are at a loss to understand what possible motivation the district attorney's office could have for an investigation of AER."

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Republican Party officials say Rep. Jon Hinson, who was arrested last week on attempted sodomy charges and who reportedly has decided to resign, should leave office as quickly as possible so his successor can be selected.

State party Chairman Mike Retzer said Monday that Marshall Hanbury, a key Hinson aide, called him and said the Republican Mississippi congressman had decided to resign.

"I encouraged them to work on a timetable and clear the air as quickly as possible," Retzer said.

Hinson, 38, checked into a Washington-area hospital Thursday after entering an innocent plea to a charge of attempted sodomy. He was arrested by Capitol police Wednesday after being found in a restroom of a congressional office building with Harold Moore, 28, of Oxon Hill, Md.

Trial is set for May 4. If convicted, he could face a year's imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

"His intention is to resign," Hanbury told the Jackson Daily News. "We're in the process of getting the paperwork done."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Rockwell being probed for shuttle scam

WASHINGTON — Even as the long-delayed space shuttle Columbia is being readied for its first mission, its builder, Rockwell International, is being investigated for apparent misuse of millions of dollars on the contract.

Evidence from two years of investigations by the FBI, the Defense Contract Audit Agency and the inspector general of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been turned over to a federal grand jury in Los Angeles.

Rockwell employees, past and present, have described the corporate swindle in depositions and interviews. They have insisted that the mischarges were not only known to company higher-ups but were ordered by them.

In a signed statement, one foreman testified that his supervisor ordered him to switch expenses from the first shuttle project to a second one because the first "was running out of funds."

meeting in (the project director's) office, and that was the way we were to go."

The night foreman also signed a statement claiming that he was ordered to mischarge space-shuttle expenses. Both foremen said they were asked to sign memoranda clearing the corporation of responsibility.

Robbing Peter to pay Paul was apparently a standard Rockwell scam in the space-shuttle project. A confidential Defense Contract Audit Agency report disclosed that Rockwell charged work supposedly being done under one budget supplement to a future one — because the money in the first supplement had already been spent.

The G-men are also looking into a fishy subcontract Rockwell awarded to a public-relations firm that employed a company vice president's son. The firm, Winner-Wagner, was awarded contracts for $1.5 million to publicize the space shuttle over a three-month period in 1979...

Sources told my reporters Frank Washington and Eric Yoder that the four contracts awarded to Winner Wagner were kept to less than $500,000 each to get around a company policy requiring corporate approval for contracts above that amount.

Where's Dolley?: With an effete snobbery that would have chagrined the staunchly Republican president for whom their building was named, officials of the James Madison Building annex to the Library of Congress have decreed that all furnishings in the building be relentlessly ultramodern chic.

That has genuinely upset some of the library annex employees in the poohbahs' decree that desk lamps are just not acceptable.

NEIGH SAYERS: Despite the enormous profits racked up by Big Oil in recent years, New York State will get more tax revenues from horses than it does from the fuel pharaohs.

Spain's progress slows

Spain's steady and encouraging progress from the Franco dictatorship to a stable democratic government has hit a snag. Prime Minister Adolfo Suarez' resignation does not mean the progress will be reversed, but will slow for awhile.

Spain's economy had been showing increasing vitality. Expert economists were brought into the government to advise the prime minister, and negotiations were well under way to make Spain a member of the European Economic Common Market.

Still it helped bring him down. His resignation was due to internal fighting that involved regional and political factions. The Catholic Church and the army were involved. It was reported that Mr. Suarez had lost favor with King Juan Carlos who appointed him. And he was presiding over his ruling party lacking 11 votes of a majority in the lower house of Parliament.

And Spain, too, has suffered a blow. New elections can be a drain on Spain's political health at a time when the government should be concentrating on the economy.

Spain still has a long way to go before it gets itself out of General Franco's political woods. Hopefully the momentum of progress can be restored.

Senate testimony gave William Clark rough road to court

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although his embarrassing performance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will not kill William P. Clark's confirmation as deputy secretary of state, it has placed serious obstacles in the way of his elevation to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Clark, an intimate of Ronald Reagan who was named by him to the California Supreme Court, is the unannounced choice for the first High Court vacancy to be filled by President Reagan. But Capitol Hill operatives advise the White House that Clark's mindless response to questions at his confirmation hearing for the State Department post guarantee a Supreme Court confirmation fight.

So did a letter proposing a post for Lawrence Brady, who became a conservative folk hero after being fired from the Commerce Department during the Carter administration for blocking sales of strategic equipment to the Soviet Union.

CONSERVATIVE SPLIT A split in the ranks of the conservative Republican Senate Steering Committee over the nomination of Lawrence Eagleburger to a high State Department post has pitted Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, chairman of the steering committee, against Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, a vice chairman.

Helms is leading the fight against Eagleburger, who once was Henry Kissinger's right-hand man. But Hatch, who keeps an eye on foreign policy matters for the steering committee, has become a strong Eagleburger supporter.

Opposition to Eagleburger as assistant secretary of state for European affairs is based on his record as a top Kissinger aide in the Nixon-Ford administration and his support for détente.

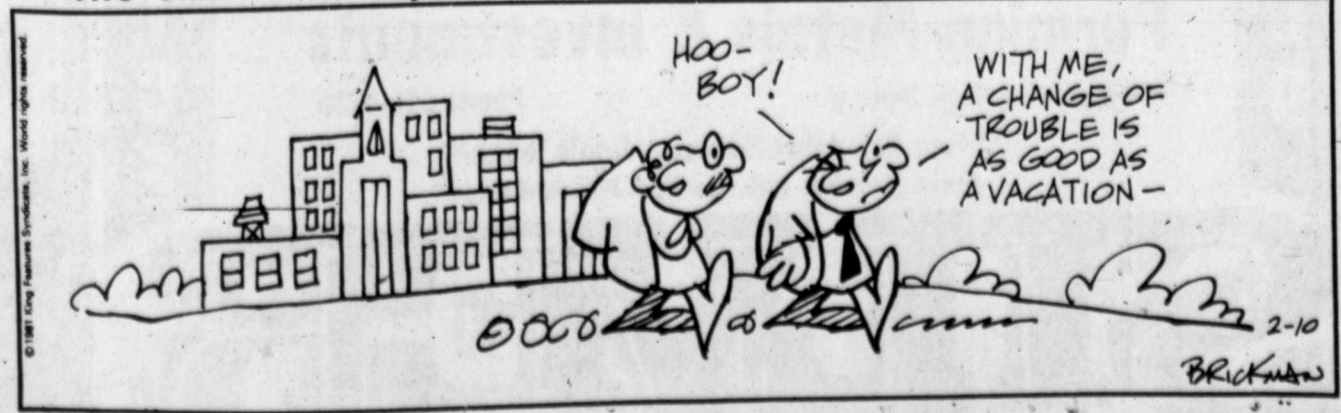

DANNY AND RONNIE White House insiders are deeply suspicious of the new Democratic chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, not because he is hostile to President Reagan but because of the warmth and professions of friendship by this consummate Chicago politician have them worried.

"How do you like your new job?" Reagan asked Rostenkowski when they first met. "How do you like yours, Mr. President?" asked Rostenkowski. That set off a pleasant conversation. It included when Rostenkowski bid the president that Reagan ultimately would find Democrat Rostenkowski had treated him better than his Senate counterpart: the often prickly Republican chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas.

Rostenkowski may be better company than Dole, but the president has been warned about all that good fellowship. Rep. Barber Conable of New York, senior Republican on ways and means, has privately told Reagan not to trust the chairman. Rostenkowski has been a bitter-end foe of the Kemp-Roth tax bill, now encompassed in the Reagan economic program.

Anderson of New York, N.Y., and the landmen associated with Steele & Associates.

Rock star Haley dead

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Bill Haley, one of the fathers of "rock 'n roll" music, spent his final years of life seeking seclusion, but he was considering a comeback and was writing his autobiography, a close friend said today.

Haley, best known for his record "Rock Around the Clock," died Monday at his two-story wooden house where he was pronounced dead at 12:35 p.m. He was found alone and lying fully-clothed on a bed.

Justice of the Peace Tommy Thompson ruled death was from natural causes and said he assumed Haley had suffered a heart attack about six hours earlier. A friend had gone by to visit Haley, Thompson said, and became concerned when he did not answer the door.

The former rock star was 56 according to a July 6, 1925, birthdate on his Texas driver's license. Musicians reference books listed his birthdate as March 27, making him 53.

The funeral home in charge of arrangements said Monday night that his widow, Martha, had banned release of any information about funeral arrangements. In addition to his wife, Haley was survived by a daughter, Martha, 18; and two sons, Pedro 10, and Georgina, 6.

Lee High takes awards over 42 high schools

AMARILLO — The Midland Lee High School speech and drama squads won sweepstakes over 42 other Texas and New Mexico high schools in the Amarillo Tascosa TFA Invitational Tournament held here last weekend.

Lee amassed 348 points for first place, while Amarillo High was a distant second with 228 points. Abilene Cooper was third with 156.

Two Lee teams — Bobby Dawson and Kenny Jonsson, and Eric Fryar and John Kimberly — tied for first place in cross-examination debate. Jon Franke and Jennifer King tied for first in Lincoln-Douglas debate.

Bobby Dawson placed second in boys extemporaneous, while Jennifer King took first and Tracy King third in girls extemporaneous. In original oratory, Eric Fryar placed first and Robyn Rose second, while John Shrode was first in humorous interpretation.

Lee's group improvisation team of Andy Cross, Marcia Norton, Raul Infante, Beverly Walker, Tina Lopez, Ann Gillis, Suzanne Driggs, Barri Beard, Suzy Boyd, Cari Rohner, Paul Cain and Chuck Camarillo also placed first.

Finalists were Sonja Goza and Robyn Rose on Paige Pendleton and Billy Todd in duet acting, John Shrode in dramatic interpretation and Jimmy Moseley and Kenny Jonsson in boys extemporaneous.

Taking semi-finalist honors were Jill McElligott and Jimmy Moseley and Raymond Garlett and James McCrackin in

U.S. risking another Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former top official of El Salvador's land reform program says he may support insurgent leftist guerrillas there after fleeing the strife-torn country three weeks ago to avoid assassination by government troops.

And Leonel Gomez, the second-ranking official in the U.S.-backed land reform program, said the United States is risking involvement in another Vietnam-type conflict by supporting El Salvador's ruling military junta, which he called unpopular and corrupt.

"Leave it to us," Gomez said Monday. "It's our war."

State Department officials contend the junta is a moderate force, caught between right-wing extremists and Marxist guerrillas drawing support from Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Hope to have Valentine's Special

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope may be TV's biggest star — as popular today with millions 'round the world as he was more than 30 years ago, when he first took his act to the then-fledgling medium. And yet, for all of his success, you're not likely to see Bob Hope in that most common TV mode — the rerun.

"With my stuff, there's not much residual value," the comedian says. "This is my 31st year on televi-taining material, and I think it's a pretty good show."

Hope, who will be 78 in May, spends countless hours on each show he does, reworking sketches and honing his monologue, often right up to taping. The primary objective, he says, is to keep the material fresh.

"One of the secrets of my longevity," he says, "is that we do different things all the time. That's why I would never do a series. You get stuck doing the same thing over and over."

For his "Valentine Special," the innovation is "Dear Bobby," an advice to the lovelorn column. "Bobby" Hope, with help from Dr. Joyce Brothers, the psychologist who writes an advice column of her own, answers letters from his guest stars.

The "Valentine Special," like most of Hope's television shows, was taped before an audience. The entertainer says he wouldn't have it any other way. "It helps with the timing," he says. "No matter how hard you try, you can't dub a show without missing a beat or two. And the audience at home knows that the guy on stage is doing his thing live. You can't fake that chemistry."

Hope appears several times a year on NBC, generally to high ratings. His "Bob Hope Christmas Show," broadcast annually in January or February during the war in Vietnam, was the year's highest-rated program on several occasions, and his specials normally rival the Super Bowl and the Academy Awards show in the audience sweepstakes.

His tradition of performing for the troops began during World War II.

He was host of the "Colgate Comedy Hour" in the 1952-53 season, and starred in "The Bob Hope Show" beginning Oct. 12, 1953.

sion, and the monologues have always been so topical, if you go back and look at shows we've done before, you really can't use most of them a second time."

That's good news for Hope's fans — something new every few weeks, it seems. And the man himself doesn't mind the condition, either.

"It's a new challenge every time you go on," he says. "It's a great mental challenge to me, and I love it."

Hope's next appearance — he's done well over 300 television shows for NBC since Easter Sunday, 1950 — comes Wednesday evening at 9 EST in a pre-Valentine's Day special.

Three of TV's current stars — Barbara Mandrell from "Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters" on NBC, Charlene Tilton from CBS' "Dallas," and Cathy Lee Crosby from ABC's "That's Incredible" — join Phyllis Diller as Hope's guests for the hour-long "Valentine Special."

"The date we got from NBC was right around Valentine's," Hope says, "and that's a pretty good springboard. We've got a good cast and some enter-

Identical twins not always identical

Dear Dr. Solomon: I recently met two brothers who claimed to be identical twins. Although they did bear a family resemblance to each other, it was certainly a simple matter to tell them apart. Is it possible for identical twins to be so unlike each other in so many ways? — Connie

Dear Connie: Identical twins, as you have learned, are not always identical. Dr. Jack A. Pritchard, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Texas Health Science Center, explains that although twins may result from the division of one fertilized ovum, that division may not take place evenly. As a result, the two parts are not exactly equal, and the twins not exactly alike. Often such twins may appear identical at birth, but reveal differences as they grow older.

Dear Dr. Solomon: At 60 years of age, I'm not so much interested in living longer, as in living better. If you try to sell me the idea of exercise on the grounds that it will add a few years to my life, you're wasting your time. A few years more or less don't mean that much to me. But if you tell me I'll have a better life if I exercise, I'm willing to listen. Which is it? — Mr. T.H.

Dear Mr. H.: I'm really not trying to sell you anything. All I can do is present the facts and offer some suggestions based on those facts and my experience. What you do with the advice is up to you.

If you are looking for hard scientific evidence that exercise both lengthens and improves the quality of life — in other words, if you are looking for the "smoking gun" — I'm afraid you won't find it. As you know, some people still are not convinced that there is an association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer. However, a reasonable person can find plenty of evidence pointing up the value of exercise.

For example, Dr. Michael Klein, director of the coronary care unit at University Hospital in Boston, reports on one such survey. He studied 65 male corporate executives who participated in a 10-week, three-times-a-week, aerobic exercise program. Their average age was 45.

Dr. Klein found that among those who completed the program, their cholesterol levels, percentage of body fat, diastolic blood pressure, heart rate, and weight all decreased significantly, while their high-density lipoprotein cholesterol levels increased. Moreover, from a psychological standpoint, the men showed significant decreases in the amount of tension, anxiety, anger, and hostility they experienced.

These physiological and psychological improvements should assure those who continue to follow an exercise program that they can look forward to both a longer and better life.

A more detailed discussion of the benefits of exercise with some specific suggestions for becoming involved in an exercise program, and the role of cholesterol in the diet, can be found in my book, "Dr. Solomon's High Health Diet & Exercise Plan," published by G.P. Putnam's and Sons.

Honor Society delivering valentines

By MARTHA WENTWORTH, JANET LANDENBERGER and DEBRA FOSTER

This is the week that Cupid is aiming his arrows at all the lovers throughout Reband. The National Honor Society is delivering these arrows as singing telegrams, carnations and written valentines. Thursday is the big day, so if you have a special sweetheart, don't miss out on this special occasion.

Another special occasion coming is the night of February 19th when all the seniors get together for a special dinner in honor of the Senior Class of 1981. This is the time when the seniors will gather all their good memories and talk about good times. This year the dinner will be held at Greentree Country Club at 7 p.m., at which time several dubious awards will be presented. Be sure to buy your tickets for $11 this week so you won't miss out.

Last week the 1981 batgirls for our Varsity Baseball team were picked. These girls are Janet Landenberger, Risa Reddell, Terri Williams, Cathy Olsen, Susan Elig, Katherine Kinney and Carolyn Richardson. Congratulations to all these girls. We know our Rebs will have a great season.

In basketball action last week our Rebel women gunned down the Bulldogs. They won with a super score of 52-27. On Thursday night the girls had an easy victory over the Odessa High Bronchos. Our men didn't start out the week quite so well as they lost to the Bulldogs with a score of 80-57, but came back with a victory over Odessa High Friday night. We're proud of both teams!

B.C. says: Thanks Melinda Hagar and Tina Harrington for your help Sunday.

All Padre-bound seniors will meet Friday morning at 7:45 a.m. for a short (but important) meeting in the Youth Center. Be there!

THE WORLD'S GREATEST EQUINE EXTRAVAGANZA

The Newspaper BIBLE

THIS GOOD NEWS IS FOR YOU!

When Jesus came to the village of Nazareth, His boyhood home, He went as usual to the synagogue on Saturday, and stood up to read the Scriptures.

The book of Isaiah the prophet was handed to Him, and He opened it to the place where it says:

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me; to preach Good News to the poor; He has sent Me to announce that captives shall be released and the blind shall see, that the downtrodden shall be freed from their oppressors, and that God is ready to give blessings to all who come to Him."

He closed the book and handed it back to the attendant and sat down, while everyone in the synagogue gazed at Him intently.

Then He added, "These Scriptures came true today!"

All who were there spoke well of Him and were amazed by the beautiful words that fell from His lips. "How can this be?" they asked. "Isn't this Joseph's son?"

Patient testifies on doctor's call

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A woman who was sitting in Dr. Herman Tarnower's office the day the Scarsdale Diet developer was killed says she overheard a telephone conversation in which he called Jean Harris a liar and a cheat and demanded she leave him alone.

Juanita Edwards was the first prosecution rebuttal witness in the murder trial of Mrs. Harris, a former headmistress. The rebuttal began Monday with a three-hour delay and ended with a bomb scare caused by a child's red and white plastic football.

Mrs. Edwards' testimony, which provoked applause and laughter from courtroom spectators, contradicted Mrs. Harris' statements that Tarnower had invited her to spend a weekend with him in April after she called March 10.

Mrs. Harris, 57, the former headmistress of The Madeira School for girls in McLean, Va., is accused of shooting her lover of 14 years in a bedroom of his home at Purchase, N.Y., that night.

The prosecution charges the defendant killed the millionaire cardiologist in a jealous rage over his affair with a 38-year-old divorcee, Lynne Tryforos, his office assistant.

The defense contends the 69-year-old physician was accidentally shot as he grappled for Mrs. Harris' gun as she tried to commit suicide.

A patient at Tarnower's Scarsdale Medical Group for 20 years, Mrs. Edwards said she had a 10 a.m. appointment March 10 and was promptly ushered into an examining room when she arrived early.

Tarnower came in immediately, but the examination was interrupted when he answered a wall telephone in the room, Mrs. Edwards said.

"I'll take the call in my office," she quoted Tarnower as saying, as he set the receiver on the telephone but not on the cradle.

From her position five feet away, Mrs. Edwards testified, she heard muffled voices over the receiver.

"All of a sudden, I heard a man's voice which I recognized as Dr. Tarnower's," she said. "It was very loud and very angry."

"He said, '...Jean, I want you to stop bothering me.'"

The voices became muffled again, Mrs. Edwards said, but then she heard Tarnower shout, "You've lied and you've cheated!"

"Then again the voices were muffled and then I heard him say, 'Well, you're going to inherit $240,000.'" Mrs. Edwards said.

Mrs. Harris has testified she called Tarnower that morning to ask him to disregard a "whining" letter she mailed him moments before the call. She complained in the letter of being cut out of his will.

She said the call ended amicably when he said a patient was waiting.

Cross-examination of Mrs. Edwards by defense lawyer Joel Aurnou was interrupted when an unidentified woman spectator told a court deputy she suspected a freelance writer of having brought a bomb onto the 12th floor, where the trial is being conducted.

Court was abruptly recessed and proceedings were moved to the 8th floor before it was discovered that the writer had brought in a red and white plastic football—a friend's belated Christmas present to her 13-year-old son.

Freelance writer Karin Mayer tosses a football outside the White Plains, N.Y., courthouse Monday. She had left the wrapped football on a coatrack while covering the Jean Harris murder trial, and a delay occurred when authorities, thinking the package might be a bomb, evacuated the court. Lawyers trying to block execution of murderer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Defense lawyer Richard Shapiro was going before the state Supreme Court today in an effort to block the execution of David Dene Martin, who is sentenced to die Friday in the electric chair.

The high court already has ruled once in the case, deciding that Martin could be executed.

Shapiro's request for a delay was rejected Monday by state District Judge Walter I. Lanier.

The attorney failed to convince Lanier that Martin, who was convicted of killing four people in Terrebonne Parish in 1977, did not have adequate legal counsel at his murder trial.

Shapiro, a lawyer for the Southern Prisoners Defense Committee, argued that Martin's trial lawyer spent only a brief time preparing a case with his client, did not gather enough evidence on Martin's history with drugs and despite heavy news coverage of the case failed to ask the trial be held in another part of the state.

He also argued the trial lawyer failed to have Martin examined by psychiatrists to see if a defense of innocent by reason of insanity could be used.

Lanier ruled the defense motions did not constitute grounds for cancelling the execution.

Meanwhile, state officials said they were preparing to carry out the death penalty.

"We have a court order which says that between 12 midnight and 3 a.m. on Feb. 13, Martin is to be executed," said Richard Crane, a lawyer with the state Department of Corrections.

"Unless we get an order which supersedes that order, we will proceed. But we anticipate we will get another order before then, based on my conversations with Shapiro and my knowledge of the law."

New gun faster than Army's

DOVER, N.J. (AP) — A magnetic gun that brings the technology of the sling shot into the space age can already fling a projectile four times faster than the U.S. Army's best gun, and could be a boon to nuclear energy research, an Army scientist says.

Scientists at the Picatinny Arsenal are working on the experimental magnetic launcher, known as the rail gun.

"Right now the rail gun technology can already contribute greatly to the solution of energy fusion, and work where other experiments have failed to produce energy sources," Dr. Harry Fair Jr., chief of propulsion technology at the arsenal, said Monday.

The rail gun also could be used to launch flights of aircraft and create ultra-strong welds of metal, Fair said.

The gun being studied at the Army Armament Research and Development Command, unlike an explosive rail gun developed in California, operates by passing a powerful electrical current through two copper rails.

The home of Ralph Simpson Sr. shows the damage caused by a fire thought set by Simpson early Monday morning at the Terrell, Tex., residence. Simpson, his wife Mildred, 50, and their two daughters, Patti, 12, and Rebecca, 17, were all found lying in the Simpson's bed shortly after 6 a.m. Police Chief Joseph Patton said it was his understanding, that Simpson apparently shot his wife and two daughters, then set the home on fire and turned the gun on himself. (AP Laserphoto)

Former minister kills family, then himself

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — A former Southern Baptist minister, possibly fearful of financial ruin and imprisonment, apparently signed a suicide pact with his crippled wife and two daughters, then shot them and torched his house before killing himself, authorities say.

All had been shot with a .22-caliber rifle, Patton said. The weapon was found near the bodies, and the suicide note signed by all four family members was found in the family car.

The one-page typed note read, in part: "We choose to die by our own hand."

"The note said the money was gone," said Justice of the Peace L.T. Smith. "It said there was no other reason than things had not gone well (financially) with the father."

Simpson was convicted of aggravated assault in August 1979 on charges he threatened a man with a deer rifle and was free on a $10,000 appeal bond at the time of his death, Van Zandt County court records say.

The bodies of Ralph A. Simpson, 57, his partially paralyzed wife, Mildred, 50, and their daughters, Patti, 12, and Rebecca, 17, were found side-by-side on the Southern Baptist minister's bed Monday when firefighters arrived at the one-story frame house, investigators said. The bodies had similar bullet wounds in their heads.

"I guess they gave up on the world," said Police Chief Joseph Patton. Simpson's son, Jim, 27, said he had moved out of the house three days earlier — rebelling, he said, against a domineering father who would not permit his invalid wife to have visitors and kept his daughters out of public schools and away from neighborhood children.

He said the prospect of a prison term may have driven his father to despair. "I think prison, to him, was just like death and he didn't want his family to face it without him," the son said. Another son, Ralph Jr., also lived away from home.

Real estate agent Hardy Jones, who rented the house to the Simpsons, said the minister had "seemed a little fanatical... a religious fanatic. He quoted a lot of scripture and verse." Jones said Simpson left the Southern Baptists because of religious differences and had started a "mail-order ministry," as well as a mail-order shoe business.

Jones said he last spoke with Simpson about 10 days ago when Simpson paid the rent, and "nothing seemed wrong then." "He was always cordial," Jones said. "They were all playing a family game when I stopped by last month and stopped to talk with them."

Marines at Camp Lejeune building mock POW camp

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marines at this base, where Pfc. Robert Garwood was convicted of collaborating with the enemy while in a Vietnam prison camp, are building a mock POW camp to train soldiers to withstand psychological torture during captivity.

The program will consist of a two-day classroom instruction period and a three-day application of classroom training, with enlisted men and officers receiving the same treatment. But the emphasis will be on infantry units likely to be on patrol. "Those are the front-line troops, mostly those you would expect to be captured," Mundy said. The mock captors will teach Marines about the various ways to break down a prisoner's will to resist, he said.

ligence operations officer for the 2nd Marine Division. The program is the only one of its kind in the U.S. Marine Corps and one of three in the U.S. military, officials said. It is scheduled to begin next month.

The training course comes as officers, psychiatrists and others here debate the proper behavior of military captives. The debate intensified during the trial of Garwood, convicted last week of collaborating with the Viet Cong during two of the 14 years he spent as a prisoner of war.

His attorneys contended his treatment in the camp had pushed him into insanity. Marine officials said Garwood's case had nothing to do with the training program. They said the camp was built at the request of Maj. Gen. David Twomey, 2nd Marine Division commander.

Col. Carl E. Mundy Jr., chief of intelligence activities for the division, said the camp is an extension of the military's Survival Evasion Resistance and Escape training, which trains men to live in the wilderness. The camp consists of guarded concrete block buildings, originally marked for demolition, on a remote area of the base. It will house about 150 Marines, and Mundy said former POWs probably will serve as advisers.

The camp will focus on the psychological torture soldiers may suffer in captivity, teaching "a resistance to interrogation-type things," said Maj. D.H. Ingram intel-

Man jailed on charges of indecency with a child

A 25-year-old Midland man was in the city jail this morning on third-degree felony charges of indecency with a child. Joe Dolores Duran, 406 E. Mississippi St., was arrested at his residence within an hour after he allegedly abducted a 7-year-old Midland girl in the 700 block of Fort Worth Street about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Police said the girl was walking to a store when a man approached on foot and forced her to walk to his home, where he allegedly made sexual advances toward the child. Justice of the Peace Charlie Sprayberry set bond of $60,000 on Duran Monday afternoon. Police said aggravated kidnapping charges also may be filed against him. Indecency with a child carries a sentence of 2-10 years in prison.

Firms easing moving pains

By JAMES M. WOODARD
Copley News Service

Relocating from one city to another and one home to another is becoming a bigger pain than ever before.

That pain involves more money and more complexities than at any other point in history. But relocations are still taking place in large numbers, and new techniques are being used to ease the pain.

The average cost for a company to transfer an employee is now a staggering $28,000, according to a report from the Employee Relocation Council. That includes costs of helping the employee sell one home and purchase another.

The primary problem now being faced by business firms that must transfer employees is the high mortgage interest rates. More specifically, the difference in interest rates between the home sold and home purchased.

This is currently "problem No. 1", according to responses to a survey conducted by Relocation Resources, Inc. — an organization formed to serve the needs of relocating employees and their firms.

Approaches being taken to solve that problem vary from firm to firm. But nearly all the surveyed firms have developed some kind of formula for payment of interest rate differentials to relocating employees.

Campaign launched

NASHVILLE (AP) — The Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission is launching a stepped up, four-year campaign to combat immorality on television. The Rev. Foy Valen-time, the commission's executive director, says, "If Southern Baptists act together as a group to search out the facts, plan strategy and act in forceful unity, changes will take place."

Expertise in hand

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — At an exploratory oil well in remote Arizona, a geologist with no computer-science background does a complex analysis of underground pressures. He uses a $600 hand-held calculator.

Ten years ago, he would have needed a roomful of computers costing $70,000 a month and would have waited two days for the information, reports a U.S. oil company.

Organized delight

ARCHBOLD, Ohio (AP) — Neapolitan ice cream contains several flavors and colors, usually chocolate, strawberry and vanilla.

To get the best of the flavors, says Dale L. Nafziger, president of his own ice cream company, eat the vanilla first, then the strawberry.

"Chocolate should be the last, as it has such a strong flavor it covers up the vanilla flavor if chocolate is eaten first," he says.

indicated, is to first establish the difference between the interest rate on the old and new home mortgage. This amount is multiplied by the mortgage balance of the new or old mortgage (or medium point between the loan balances) times a specified number of years, usually three.

Most firms that have developed such plans also stipulate a maximum amount that can be paid to the employee to compensate for home mortgage loan cost increases.

There are other methods being used to solve or at least ease the problem. Some are simple, others highly complex. Some simply increase the employee's salary to make up the difference.

One firm reportedly gives its employees one week's salary for each percentage point the new home mortgage rate exceeded the old. Another firm gives employees a flat month's salary.

Still another firm's approach is to reimburse employees quarterly at the rate of $150 for each one-eighth percent increase in the new mortgage interest rate over the old.

Other key trends are emerging in the wake of new and complex factors involved in relocating employees.

For example, more firms are using the services of third-party home-buying companies. These companies actually buy the home from the transferred employee, then market the property.

Ten years ago, about 19 percent of major firms used such a home buying company. Today, nearly half the firms use their services.

Also, more transferred employees are using the services of inter-city referral-relocation networks of real estate brokers. Examples are Inter-City Relocation (RELO) and All Points Relocation Service.

These groups offer a variety of relocation services to both the employee and employer. They are structured specifically to assist in the relocation process.

Q. Does a Multiple Listing Service within a community really provide a needed service?

A. Art Godi, 1981 president of the California Association of Realtors, put it this way: "If MLS did not provide a valid service as an active part of real estate, its existence would have become outmoded by other marketing forms long ago."

Q. Which is more numerous — investors in stocks or investors in homes?

A. There are now about 29.8 million direct owners of corporate stock and mutual funds, according to the New York Stock Exchange.

There are about 55 million home owners. Those total households consist of 150 million people. The average equity in those homes is $35,000.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Economical cleaning solution

DEAR HELOISE:

For a very economical, fantastic window, mirror and appliance cleaning solution, mix one pint rubbing alcohol with 10 pints water, then add two drops of liquid dishwashing detergent.

Mix well and place in a spray bottle. Use as you would any glass-appliance cleaner.

This formula was given to me by a co-worker who is a chemist. I find it does a very good job of cleaning and doesn't leave streaks.

Also, the solution is much more economical than bought cleaners. When you compare the cost, you'll find the savings are considerable. — Evalyne Sheppard

True, and the cleaner really does work very well. As you said, it left no streaks but it was a little harder to wipe off than 'bought' cleaners.

This can be remedied by adding one part alcohol to five parts water but, of course, the savings would be a little less — but still substantial. Thanks for writing. — Heloise

SO THEY WON'T STICK

Dear Heloise: My mother offered me a solution to sticky marshmallows in a bag...

She added cornstarch, shook the bag very well, and worked the outside of the bag a little with her fingers (bag still closed). No marshmallows stuck together and they were like new again. Shake off the excess cornstarch before using the marshmallows. — Mrs. J.A. Jones

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: Being a new bride of nine months, I have been so proud of the fact that I am such a good cook. My husband has thanked his lucky stars many times for marrying me. We enjoy a variety of foods and are willing to try new and different dishes.

You can only imagine my embarrassment when I recently found out that the tough skin on the hams I had been serving was actually a paper protector.

I just had to share this laugh. Just goes to show that sometimes we are not as great as we think we are. I just love your column! — Terri

Little things have a way of humbling us on occasion. But, if it's any consolation, I'd wager many of us "more experienced" cooks have done this more times than we'd care to admit. Anyway, thanks for sharing a chuckle. — Heloise

SHARP POINTS

Dear Heloise: I just discovered a new and easy way to sharpen the lead of a dull pencil when you either don't have a sharpener or just want to sharpen the lead point and not the whole pencil.

Just use an old emery board, rotating the pencil lead back and forth across it.

Works great, giving the lead a real sharp point without wasting any of the pencil. — Betty Ann Svendsen

Fantastic! Just lay the pencil on its side and, using a small amount of pressure, rub gently. Works every time! — Heloise

A MONEY SAVER

Dear Heloise: You asked for money-saving ideas. Here's mine...

I buy a package of chicken necks — about 12 in a package — add a little water, a small can of tomatoes, a carrot or two, an onion, and any leftover vegetables.

We have a lovely pot of chicken soup and the necks to nibble on as there is quite a bit of meat on them.

My husband and I have a nutritious meal which is very easy on the budget. — Millie Freitag Found a great way to stretch that food dollar? Send it to your friend Heloise care of this newspaper. She can't answer your letter personally but you can bet a zillion she'll use the best money-savers received in her column.

Man jailed in child abduction plot

GRETNA, La. (AP) — Authorities have set $100,000 bond for a man accused of arranging the abduction of his 17-month-old daughter, but revealed no clues about a motive for the abduction last week of Lori Hocum, who was taken from her home in a gift-wrapped box.

Meanwhile, the father of another suspect in the case pleaded with his son to turn himself in. The man said his wife had collapsed when she heard of the alleged plot.

Ronald Hocum, 47, was arraigned Monday before District Judge Fred Bowes on charges of aggravated burglary of his own house, simple kidnapping, contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile and falsifying a police report. He had been arrested Friday and remained jailed in lieu of bond.

Jefferson Parish deputies allege Hocum offered three other men a total of $5,000 to carry off the abduction. They said there were no ransom demands or threats on the child's life, and said they could not give details for fear of jeopardizing the case.

The New Orleans Times-Picayune, States-Item quoted unidentified sources as saying Hocum was suspected of staging the abduction in an attempt to save his marriage. Susan Hocum, 28, told investigators she was planning to leave her husband, who has been married twice before, the sources said.

But an unidentified relative was quoted as saying Hocum and his wife were happily married.

The little girl was snatched from her family's home by a gunman who bound and gagged a maid and fled after putting the child in a box.

Hocum made a televised plea for her release and told police he received a telephone call from a man who said he was releasing the girl because she was "too pretty to kill."

The Hocums found the girl wandering at a shopping mall, unharmed and wearing fresh diapers.

Robert Werling, 22, accused of being the man who actually took the baby, remained at large.

His mother was hospitalized after hearing about the case and his father, John Werling, 74, begged him to surrender.

"I do not want him to shoot anyone," Werling said. "I do not want them to kill him. ... Maybe he will ring me and we will be able to take him home."

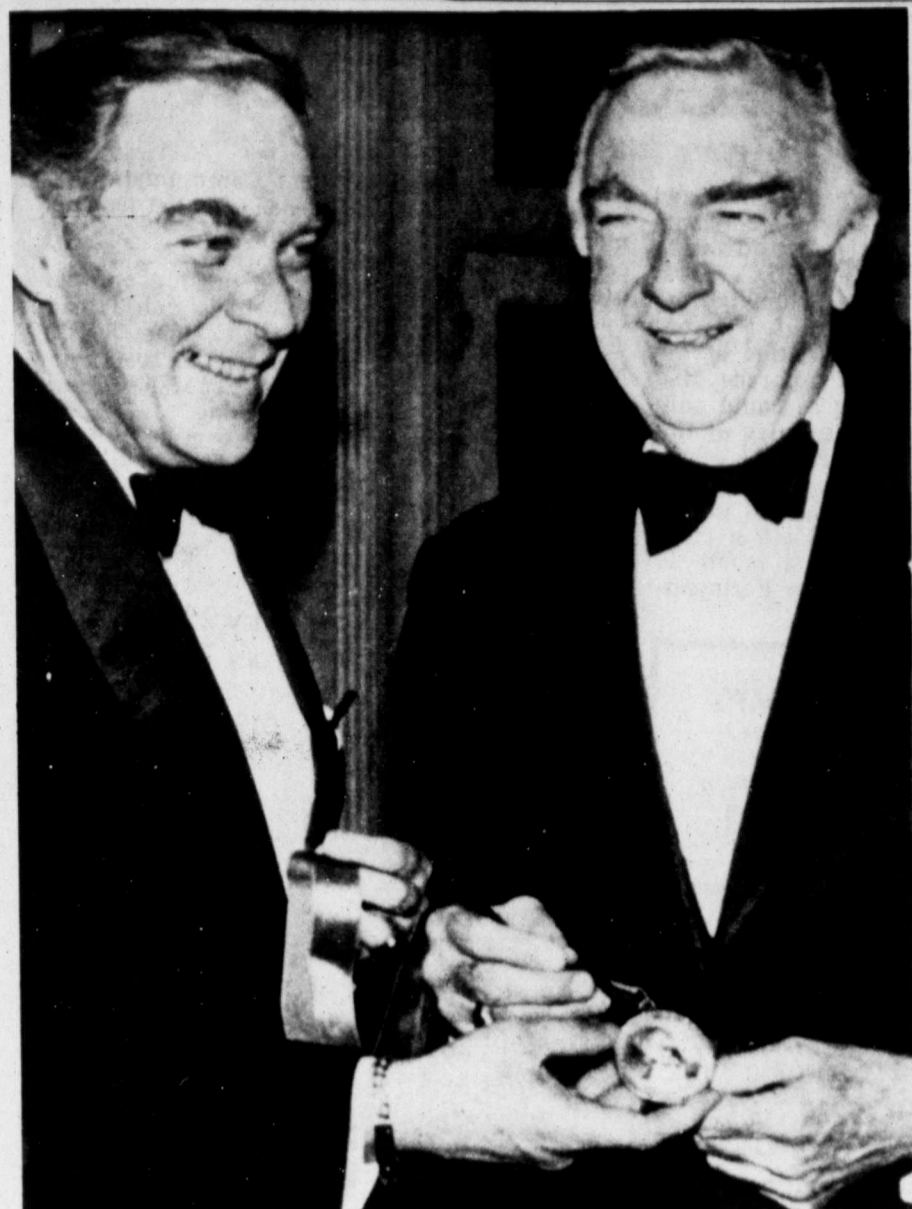

"I want him back here. If that boy dies, my wife is going to die!"

Two other men, Clay Z. Gaulon, 20, and Levi Cage, 32, were booked as accomplices.

Chief of Detectives Gene Fields said Cage was offered about $2,000 to drive the alleged abductor to Hocum's house and to make babysitting arrangements.

"Levi Cage did not know what was going on. He didn't know a crime was being committed. He was set up in this and he was duped," said his lawyer Roy Ladner.

Hocum has denied any involvement in the kidnapping, and both his wife and her mother have said they cannot believe the charges against him.

Haig gives Cronkite humanitarian medal

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite received a humanitarian medal from the hands of Secretary of State Alexander Haig Jr. Monday night and responded with some avuncular words to the secretary about press freedom and human rights.

Cronkite, who will turn over his anchor duties next month to Dan Rather, received the National Conference of Christians and Jews' 16th annual Charles Evans Hughes Gold Medal, named for the late chief justice and awarded for "courageous leadership in governmental, civic and humanitarian affairs."

Haig, who received the medal last year, noted that he had just retired as a general when he was honored, and added:

"But let me tell you this, Walter: If the last three weeks are any indication, there is life after retirement."

Haig reiterated his recent warnings of the dangers to freedom of "rampant international terrorism" and said he believed the time had come to "face up" to this worldwide threat.

"We do not...have to take this as a 'for-granted' phenomenon," he added.

Haig questioned whether "modern methods of communication" had not contributed to the growth of terrorist groups and said the media must decide whether it should provide "a platform for specious ideologies."

Cronkite said he agreed with Haig about the seriousness of the threat of expanding terrorism and said journalists have "pondered long and hard" about their role in giving the terrorists such a platform. But he added:

"If at any time we feel the press conspires ... to suppress any part of the news, we are treading on terribly dangerous ground ... We're asked to play God ... I don't think I'm equipped to play that role."

Denouncing recent court decisions aimed at limiting press freedom and such actions as newsroom searches and banning reporters from courtrooms, Cronkite said:

"Telling the press it has no special rights is telling the public that it may not have any particular right to know."

He also urged his listeners to "avoid acquiescing in the chipping away of First Amendment press freedom."

"No true democracy can exist without it," he said. "It is the only early warning system ... of the approach of tyranny."

Missing youth in Florida jail

ATLANTA (AP) — A black youth who turned up in a Florida jail after being sought by the police missing person unit here says he saw three men trying to abduct a black child in his Atlanta neighborhood. Police said they could not confirm his statements.

The 15-year-old runaway was not one of the two missing black children whose cases have been turned over to a special police task force investigating a series of slayings and disappearances.

The task force planned to question Lee Manuel Gooch today to see "if there's any truth to his statements," a spokesman said.

A state legislator, meanwhile, drafted a bill to give the governor authority to create a state commission for coordinating police investigations into the slayings or disappearances of 17 black children in the past 19 months.

Rep. Johnny Isakson, R-Marietta, today planned to introduce the bill that would provide sweeping powers for distributing funds and assigning personnel.

Gooch was reported missing Jan. 5, but authorities discovered Sunday that he had been in jail in Tallahassee, Fla., from Jan. 14 through Saturday, when he was released.

He was re-arrested Monday after calling authorities to ask whether he could regain possession of a car he was driving when he was first picked up on traffic charges Jan. 14, authorities said.

Gooch said he had seen three men — two blacks and a white — trying to abduct a black child.

Around the world balloon flight delayed

LUXOR, Egypt (AP) — Despite veiled threats from Iran that it might shoot down their craft, two American adventurers prepared to take off from here tonight on what they hope will be the first nonstop balloon trip around the world.

Maxie L. Anderson, 46, and Donald H. Ida, 47, had planned to lift off before dawn but bad weather again postponed the delay-plagued flight.

Anderson and Ida have been waiting in this ancient southern Egyptian city for winds that would carry their helium-filled balloon south of Iran, which has been fighting a war with Iraq since September.

Informed through Algerian intermediaries last week that the 11-story-high craft, the "Jules Verne," might drift over the Islamic Republic, Iran responded that it would not regard it as "friendly."

A senior member of the expedition's ground crew commented, "Yes, that means they would shoot them down."

The balloon is named after the 19th century French science fiction writer and author of "Around the World in 80 Days."

Anderson, of Albuquerque, N.M., and Ida, of Boulder, Colo., hope to make the 20,000-mile circuit in 10 days, though they will carry food and supplies for twice that.

Luxor's telex and telephone service were falling periodically Monday, making it difficult for the balloonists to contact their weather tracking station in Bedford, Mass. The bureau has been advising Anderson and Ida on fluctuations in wind speeds and directions that could determine the balloon's course.

In addition to concerns about violating Iranian airspace, take-off has been put off due to delays in the arrival here of cannisters of gas for heating the aluminum gondola cabin. The craft will fly at altitudes up to 30,000 feet, where the temperature drops to as low as 60 degrees below zero. The crew hopes to keep the gondola temperature just above freezing.

"Antsy" is the way one associate described the mood of Anderson, who with different crewmates was the first to make balloon crossings of the Atlantic Ocean and the North American continent.

Anderson, a mining executive, and Ida, a tree nursery owner, have ballooned together, but this is the longest, highest and fastest attempt they will have made.

Mao's party making comeback

PEKING (AP) — Mao Tse-tung is making a limited comeback. The Chinese Communist Party's current leaders have stopped their harsh criticism of the late party chairman and now say his thoughts are the "magic weapon" for the modernization program that is their first priority.

Vice Chairman Deng Xiaoping and his associates are making a strategic retreat from their campaign to pull Mao from his pedestal and discredit his ideas of political purity and revolutionary upheaval.

Criticism of Mao has not been abandoned, just muted. He is still blamed for launching the 1966-76 "decade of disaster" known as the Cultural Revolution. He is accused of making economic blunders and of permitting himself to be defied.

But his image and those of his sayings that the leadership considers useful have been polished up and put back into service. A torrent of official articles now says that Mao's contributions far outweigh his errors and that his thoughts and revolutionary spirit still are China's guiding lights.

The government banned a recent Asian edition of Newsweek magazine because its cover showed a statue of Mao being toppled by smiling people.

The turnaround indicates that the reassessment of Mao which the party was expected to publish has run into trouble. The draft document was too much of a hatchet job, according to Chinese and foreign diplomatic sources.

"Chairman Mao Tse-tung's thought remains one of our magic weapons in carrying out economic readjustment and promoting the four modernizations," said an editorial Jan. 27 in a newspaper in Shaanxi Province.

"Exaggeration of the faults of Comrade Mao Tse-tung ... could only harm the unity of the whole party, the whole army and the people of all nationalities in our country," said a commentary last month in the magazine Fortnightly Forum.

The foreign-language Peking Review said last month: "One thing is certain: the Chinese people will never do to Chairman Mao as (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev did to Stalin" in his speech to the 1956 congress of the Soviet Communist Party denouncing the dead dictator.

The turning point in the criticism of Mao appeared to come Dec. 29, when the prosecutor at the trial of Mao's widow, Jiang Qing,

Draft resolution to ignore Soviet troops

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A mildly-worded resolution on Afghanistan, one that would not call for the withdrawal of foreign troops from that country, took shape today at the ministerial conference of non-aligned nations underway here.

In what amounted to a defeat for Pakistan, a drafting committee agreed to work within the framework of an Indian proposal that merely notes the situation in Afghanistan "with grave concern." It emphasizes "the inadmissibility of the use of force in international relations or of intervention or interference in the internal affairs of sovereign states." It calls for a "political settlement through peaceful means."

Observers said the committee's decision means the conference, attended by representatives of 60 of the movement's 94 members, will almost certainly produce a final statement on Afghanistan that does not mention the Soviet Union or call for removal of the estimated 85,000 Soviet troops stationed in the Central Asian nation.

Soviet troops entered Afghanistan in December 1979, engineered a coup against the existing Marxist government and replaced it with another communist regime headed by Babrak Karmal. The troops have remained to help Afghan army forces put down a rebellion by anti-communist fundamentalist Moslems.

Pakistan had proposed a resolution calling for the withdrawal of "foreign troops."

In an opening day address to the conference Monday, Pakistani Foreign Minister Aga Shahi said the Soviet presence in Afghanistan "is tantamount not only to a violation of (Afghanistan's) political independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity but a threat to the stability of the region."

The drafting committee set up a four-member subcommittee of Argentina, Tanzania, Nigeria and the Palestine Liberation Organization to prepare a draft along the lines of the Indian proposal.

But other representatives echoed the Pakistani call for a tough stance against the Soviet intervention.

Bangladesh Foreign Minister Muhammad Shamsul Haq demanded the withdrawal "of all foreign troops from the troubled lands" of Afghanistan and Cambodia, where an estimated 200,000 Vietnamese troops have been stationed since early 1979.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Mochar Kusumaatmadja charged the Soviet incursion has "intensified superpower rivalry to a dangerous point and has created a climate of distrust and suspicion."

Kusumaatmadja also referred to the absence of a Cambodian delegation here.

The seat is being kept vacant until the organization decides whether the Vietnam-installed government of Heng Samrin or the ousted government of Pol Pot is the war-torn land's legitimate representative.

Cuba and Vietnam were scheduled to speak at the conference later today.

Iran claims 300 Iraqis killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran claimed today its troops and helicopter gunships killed more than 300 Iraqi invaders in Ilam Province in western Iran.

Iraq reported 163 Iranians killed as Iraqi forces pushed back an enemy counterattack aimed at dislodging the Iraqis from the foothills in the region.

The highlands command highway routes from the Iranian border to the Iraqi capital from the northeast and southeast. They stand at the northern end of the 300-mile battlefield.

War claims could not be independently verified. Both Iraq and Iran have barred Western reporters from most of the battle zones since Iraq invaded Iran Sept. 22.

Iraq is trying to gain sovereignty over the Iranian side of the Shatt al-Arab estuary, Iraq's only waterway to the Persian Gulf.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim announced Monday that his personal envoy, former Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme, will return to Baghdad and Tehran in the second half of February in another attempt to end the fighting.

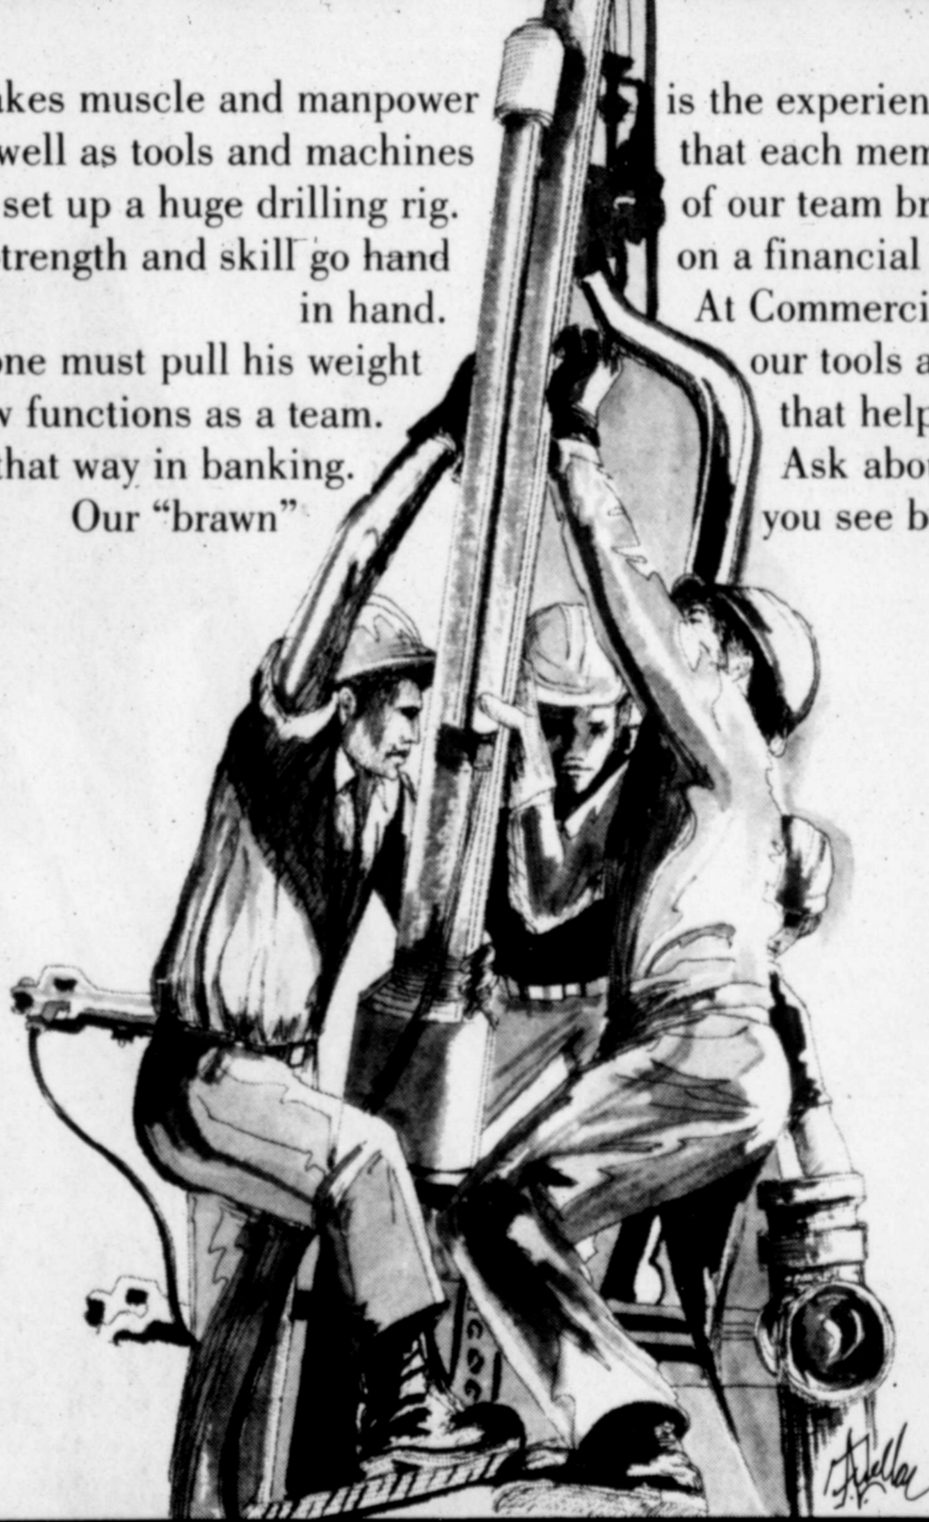

Associated Press apologizes for error

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The Associated Press erroneously reported that composer-musician Hugo Montenegro, who died Friday, wrote the scores for such well-known "spaghetti westerns" as "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly," "A Fistful of Dollars" and "For A Few Dollars More."

Scores and themes to the Italian westerns that made Clint Eastwood a star were composed by Ennio Morricone, and Montenegro's recordings made two of them hit records.

Wednesday, February 11, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Box office favorite Burt Reynolds was born on this day, as was one of America's greatest inventors, Thomas Alva Edison. Give free rein to your innovative thoughts and this will be a year of both pleasant surprises and substantial successes. Short trips could play an important role in a business triumph. You are more interested than ever in broadening your circle of friends, contacts. Finances can suffer if you are overly modest about your talents, abilities. If you feel you deserve a raise, ask for it! Romance is especially satisfying throughout the rest of February and again in summer. Your willingness to compromise keeps love strong.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A good day for taking care of routine chores such as bookkeeping. Be wary of accepting offers that have strings attached. Someone new and exciting may walk into your life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The work day goes especially well, although a member of the opposite sex may make concentration somewhat difficult. If entertaining this evening, resist an urge to spend more than you can afford.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Close relative may come to you with difficult problem. Family member's dilemma could get your day off to a depressing start, but by evening, you will be in good spirits again. Romance is joyous!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Solitude is important to your efforts to solve a difficult financial problem. Travel plans are subject to change. Make allowances for loved one. Lost article will be found.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Cooperation is yours for the asking! Stay out of the limelight and concentrate on negotiating new agreements. Romance is an important part of the day's plan. Tensions disappear when you make the first move.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Good luck and the cooperation of close associates can combine to make this a red letter day! Keep friends and finances separate, however. Someone who appears to be quite knowledgeable may be misinformed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Watch your step in situations involving office politics. Patience and diplomacy are absolutely essential. Winning streak results in greater financial security! Bank any extra money at the earliest opportunity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be careful not to underestimate higher-up's intelligence! Do your homework diligently! A relationship of long duration may soon come to an end. Realize this change could be for the best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An excellent day for those who keep their minds on the work at hand. Romance is under temporarily cloudy skies. Try not to ask for favors. Work on your own whenever possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Luck favors your efforts to advance, and you can afford to take a risk or two. Try to gain the confidence of influential higher-up. Today is a good time to sign legal papers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Get to the root of the trouble that is brewing between you and loved one. More is involved than finances. Do what you can to get others to assist with special project.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Romance provides some very happy moments now. Start a savings campaign and enlist your loved ones in the battle against unnecessary spending. If in need of investment advice, turn to the experts.

On many hands declarer can assure his contract by selecting a "sure-trick" line of play. But more often such guarantees are not available. The best declarer can do under these circumstances is to make the percentage play and hope that the cards lie favorably.

North's hand revealed to 13 points in support of spades, just enough for a jump raise. With a minimum opening bid, South had no aspirations so he simply went on to game.

The defenders started with three rounds of clubs, declarer ruffing the third. A diamond loser seemed unavoidable, so the fate of the contract appeared to hinge on the trump suit. If trumps broke evenly, there would be no trump loser and the contract would be assured.

Since there was no point in postponing the inevitable, declarer cashed the ace and king of spades. East's discard of a club was a grievous, but not necessarily a mortal blow. Declarer had spotted that he could still make his contract if the defender with the high trump—in this case, West—had started with only two diamonds. Then the hand could be brought home via a partial strip.

To set the scene, declarer cashed his high hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy on the third round. Next came the ace and king of diamonds.

Now West was thrown on lead with his high trump and the result was most gratifying. All he had left was a heart and a club, so he had to concede a ruff-and-suff. Declarer thus managed to avoid losing a diamond trick. Note that declarer could not be sure that this line of play would land the contract. West might have started with a third diamond, in which case he would have been able to set the contract by cashing a diamond.

Nevertheless, declarer's line of play cost nothing and yielded a tangible extra chance of success that was realized because of a fortunate lie of the cards.

Determined golfers in LPGA Coca Cola Classic

By RUTH BONAPACE
AP Sports Writer

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — Neither rain nor babies nor the side effects of diabetes will stop a pair of determined golfers from competing in this spring's Coca Cola Classic pro golf tournament.

The $125,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament, which Donna Horton White captured from defending champ Nancy Lopez Melton in a driving rainstorm last year, will be held May 11-17 at the Ridgewood Country Club.

Cougar is player of the week

DALLAS (AP) — The Houston Cougars' Rob Williams notched 61 points and 10 assists last week and was the solid choice of Southwest Conference basketball coaches for the second straight time as player of the week.

In leading the Cougars to victories over SMU and Texas, Williams increased his conference-leading scoring average to 25.6 points per game. He has gone over with 1,000 career points in just 50 games.

NHL All-Star tilt stars first-timers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Exuberance and enthusiasm should be the hallmark of tonight's 33rd National Hockey League All-Star Game, since nearly half the players will be appearing in their initial hockey classic.
