

Curry County sheriff 'makes it legal'

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — With an assist from Texas Gov. Bill Clements, the Curry County Commission now is confident it has a sheriff that is legally qualified to serve.

The county was without a sheriff for about five minutes Monday — long enough for Wesley Myers to resign and then be appointed to clear the air of confusing legal questions surrounding his eligibility for the office.

The unusual procedure was taken on the informal advice of Jill Cooper, a deputy state attorney general, whose opinion had been sought by District Attorney Bill Bonem.

Questions arose after disclosure of a 1961 felony conviction in Texas for theft over $50 against Myers, who was 17 at the time of the crime. Myers and several other youths stole an automotive transmission.

Several days before Myers was to be sworn in as sheriff on Dec. 31, 1980, someone told Bonem they had learned Myers had a record in Texas.

Bonem contacted Myers, who traveled to Lubbock to talk with District Judge Denzil Bevers about the matter.

Bevers issued an order Dec. 29 releasing Myers from all penalties and disabilities resulting from the crime. Two days later, Bevers issued an amended order discharging Myers from probation, permitting him to withdraw his plea of guilty and dismissing the indictment with a full and complete relief from all penalties and disabilities.

The order restored all of Myers' political rights retroactive to Aug. 28, 1963, which was two years after the conviction. This allowed Myers to be sworn in.

New Mexico law says no person convicted of a felony, unless such person has been pardoned or restored to political rights, shall be qualified to be elected or appointed to any public office in the state.

There were still legal questions in the minds of some because Myers signed a declaration of candidacy before the 1980 primary saying he would be eligible and legally qualified to hold office, although at that point he had not been pardoned or restored to political rights.

Bonem held that although when Myers filed the declaration it was flawed, when it came time to hold the office, Myers was statutorily qualified.

Monday's events were conducted because some commissioners questioned whether the county might be liable if Myers performed a function that might bring about a lawsuit.

Ms. Cooper said her suggestion to the county commission that Myers resign "was a possible alternative to resolve the outstanding problem. If he resigned his office, then executed a new affidavit of voter registration now that he has been properly pardoned, he would then be eligible to be appointed sheriff by the commission."

Haig defends involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. went before a House panel today in an effort to rebut Capitol Hill concerns over the Reagan administration's escalating military involvement in El Salvador.

The closed-door briefing for members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee came the morning after a State Department announcement that the United States is sending $25 million in new military aid and 20 more U.S. military training experts to the strife-torn Central American nation.

The increased U.S. support is needed to help the embattled junta put down Marxist rebels who the administration contends are armed by Cuba and other communist countries, administration officials said.

Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., told reporters after the briefing that the secretary had presented a "justification" for the administration's policy and voiced "a rather fervent plea for congressional and presidential harmony" in dealing with the El Salvador issue.

But Solarz said he personally still has "the gravest reservations" about current U.S. policy toward El Salvador, arguing that it may be "contributing to the militarization of what is primarily a political struggle."

Haig declined to speak with reporters, as did Rep. Michael D. Barnes, D-Md., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on inter-American affairs.

A spokesman said Barnes, whose subcommittee plans to hold a hearing on El Salvador later this week, would have no comment on the briefing.

State Department spokesman William Dyess said Monday four five-man teams of advisers will be sent to El Salvador to train the Salvadoran military in communications, logistics, intelligence and other skills to stop infiltration and respond to terrorist attacks.

Dyess said the extra advisers, bringing to 54 the number of Americans serving in military-related capacities in El Salvador, will not go beyond the garrison area or take part in combat operations.

Nevertheless, more than 40 members of the House said in a telegram Monday to President Reagan that one or more of the advisers are likely to be killed, "forcing the United States into another Vietnam or a humiliating withdrawal."

And Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, warned that the new advisers "go down there as prime targets" for the guerrilla rebels.

But Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., supported the administration action, saying there are "nervous Nellies saying we've got to do nothing, not even unhook the fire hose when the house is burning down."

The "nervous Nellies" phrase in itself evoked memories of Vietnam. Former President Lyndon B. Johnson used those words in the late 1960s to deride critics of the Indochina war effort.

Urban leaders critical of Reagan

Their budget interests aren't 'selfish'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urban leaders, insisting President Reagan must have someone else in mind when he refers to "selfish interest groups" sniping at his economic recovery plan, are refusing to hold their fire to drive home the impact of proposed budget cuts.

The board of the National League of Cities reacted to the president's speech to the group Monday by adopting a critique which agrees to a few of the concessions Reagan asked of the cities but balks at far more.

"What he was concerned about was 'selfish' self-interest groups," said Mayor William Hudnut of Indianapolis, the league's president. "I do not view us as a selfish, knee-jerk, self-interest group."

Mayor William Schafer of Baltimore said he won't let himself be cast "in that defensive position, that if we suggest certain things we are selfish."

"I'm going to let everybody know the impact on the city (of Reagan's planned budget cuts) and if they're satisfied, I will have done everything I possibly can," Schafer said.

Mayor Charles Royer of Seattle said: "Of course, we are supportive of means to fight inflation. We just don't want it to be done at the expense of people who are helpless or who are at or near the survival level already."

Councilman Donald Tucker of Newark, N.J., chairman of the city officials' black caucus, said: "It means that the disadvantaged and the poor are going to be dumped directly on the cities, and I don't believe we should stand by and let that happen, whether it's the president of the United States or anyone else."

Councilman Woody Etherly of Flint, Mich., said Reagan is right when he says the public supports his austerity moves, "but I don't think they really realize what those cuts mean... what that change means to them directly."

Reagan told the urban leaders they should view his election last fall as a signal to shake up the economy and wind down government at all levels "because it is a mandate for us all."

"We are all in the same boat, and we have to get the engines started before the ship goes over the falls," Reagan said. "The real threat to recovery comes from those who will oppose only a small part of the overall program while supporting the overall effort."

"The small portion these parochial groups oppose always deals with cuts that affect them directly. Those cuts they oppose. They favor cutting somebody else's subsidy. The accumulative effect of this short-sightedness can be damaging."

The league's position paper, drafted during a three-day meeting here, endorsed Reagan's program in general terms. It even agreed to some of the 340,000 job cuts he proposes, from public employment subsidies and some of the trimming in public housing money.

But the league directly objected to:

- Most of the job cuts.
- Most of the public housing losses.
- Changes in the Urban Development Action Grant program.
- Reagan's plan to kill the Economic Development Administration.
- Phasing out mass transit subsides.

—Imposing a tax on federally subsidized sewer and water subsidies.

Reagan's speech at the league's annual winter meeting was his first public foray in defense of his program since he outlined it Feb. 18 in an address to a joint session of Congress.

The administration, meanwhile, already is moving to implement some parts of the plan.

The Labor Department announced Monday it invoked a freeze last week on hiring public service workers under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

The New York Times today quoted Robert B. Carlson, a special assistant to Reagan for policy development, as saying the administration also is considering a sharp reduction in employees in 10 federal regional centers to shift control of numerous health and social service programs to the states. The affected cities would be New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, Dallas, Kansas City, San Francisco and Seattle.

Attorney says he's 'target' of Wood investigation

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A local defense attorney whose home was the subject of a surprise, 13-hour search, says two FBI agents told him he is a "target" in the investigation of the murder of U.S. District Judge John Wood.

"There's no doubt in my mind I'm a target of the grand jury investigation of Judge Wood's assassination," lawyer Joe Chagra, brother of convicted drug trafficker Jimmy Chagra, said Monday night. "They told me I was now a target."

He said the agents were among about 70 federal officers who searched his home and that of four other Chagra relatives Friday, seizing a truckload of items including documents, jewelry and cash.

Afterward, federal sources here and in Washington said the agents were looking for evidence in the May 29, 1979 assassination of Wood. Both sources said a resolution to the 21-month-old investigation — the largest since the assassination of President John Kennedy — was near.

Wood, who had been assigned to preside over the narcotics trial of Jimmy Chagra, was shot in the back and killed by a sniper in San Antonio. Chagra was later tried by another judge and sentenced last year to 30 years in prison without parole for continuing criminal enterprise.

Joe Chagra, who helped defend his brother, denied any involvement or knowledge of the death of the federal judge. "I had nothing to do with Judge Wood's murder, before, during, after or anytime to the present time," he said. "In my own mind I know I haven't done anything wrong."

Officially, federal agencies have held to a strict "no comment" policy when asked about the Chagra searches, but in Washington a federal law enforcement source who asked that his name not be used said, "Execution of the search warrants indicated that progress is being made in the investigation of Judge Wood's murder."

He added he was "confident of a resolution to that case," but gave no prediction as to when. His information agreed with that of a federal source based in El Paso who said during the weekend "if we find what we're looking for it should lead to indictments" in the Wood case.

Shanks given 99-year sentence

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Pale, blue-eyed Rex Shanks got 99 years for his "master-mind" role in a murder-for-hire scheme.

And defense attorney Michael McLeaish got rather incensed and indignant over the guilty verdict.

"I do believe the decision is a tragic miscarriage of justice," McLeaish said in rebuking the 10-woman, two-man jury, which spent about an hour's deliberation Monday afternoon to find 27-year-old Shanks guilty of stabbing James David McPeters, 46, to death on the night July 28.

"For somebody I truly believe not guilty," an "hour considering a week's testimony" seemed somewhat rash, the defense attorney suggested.

In contrast, the prosecution conformed to etiquette and custom and politely thanked the jurors for their service. So did the judge.

Shanks was the second person found guilty by a jury for killing McPeters on an isolated spot off Interstate 20 between Midland and Odessa.

McPeters' widow, Patricia Louise "Patty" McPeters, 27, was sentenced to 50 years in prison for her part in plotting her husband's death.

Mrs. McPeters, a stoic, impassive woman, and Shanks, who seemed equally unflappable, were charged with plotting McPeters' death even as they were "lovers" for a week. They had renewed their high school friendship in an Abilene bar in mid-July 1980 and began cohabitating.

The prosecution had claimed Mrs. McPeters and Shanks had planned to cash in on McPeters' $39,000 life insurance policies. Both had contracted with Shanks' Wichita Falls friend, Willie Wayne Jennings, 20, for several thousand dollars to help kill McPeters.

Jennings, who turned state witness in testifying against Shanks and Mrs. McPeters, is under a murder indictment.

His 22-year-old wife, Tammy, who tagged along as an alleged disinterested and unbelieving witness to the scheme, has been granted immunity by a Midland County Grand Jury in exchange for her testimony, which was crucial in the Shanks-Mrs. McPeters trials.

McLeaish had pleaded that Mrs. Jennings should be considered an accomplice and indicted. Such did not occur, however.

He also had made at least eight motions for mistrials; all were denied by 142nd State District Court Presiding Judge Pat Baskin. McLeaish had made numerous objections, mostly to Prosecutors David Joers' and Jim Rex's tactics and questions to the witnesses; most were overruled.

But Baskin did grant McLeaish's motion for a hearing on suspected jury tampering, which the defense attorney claimed was prejudicial to his client. On a motion by the prosecution last Thursday, Baskin one-by-one questioned the jurors to determine if anyone had directed or indirectly tried to influence their view of the proceedings; none had.

"It (jury-tampering proceedings) planted the seeds in the jury's mind that somebody was fooling with this jury," said McLeaish, who suspected that the jurors probably thought "the defendant or his family was doing it."

"I don't know what the state had in

Three more sheriff's office members injured during scuffle at county jail

Three more members of the sheriff's department, including Sheriff Dallas Smith, fell victim Monday to a prisoner who sent Chief Jailer Richard Sexton to the hospital Sunday. The prisoner, a Mexican national arrested Sunday afternoon, had just been arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Pine on public intoxication charges about 1 p.m. Monday when, deputies said, he began kicking Lt. Pat Fuller, who was escorting him back to his cell.

Smith, Matlock and Fuller reportedly suffered minor injuries that did not require medical attention. Meanwhile, Chief Jailer Richard Sexton, 27, remains in satisfactory condition at Midland Memorial Hospital, where he was taken Sunday after being kicked in the groin by the man as deputies were attempting to book him on the drunk charge.

DEATHS

Kenneth Holmes

Kenneth B. Holmes, 84, of 2800 W. Illinois Ave., Apt. C, died Monday morning in a Midland hospital. Services are pending at the Rains-Talley Funeral Home in Marshall. Local arrangements were handled by the Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Holmes was born Sept. 20, 1896. He was the son of Edmund Meek Holmes and Carrie Merrill Page Holmes of Boone, Iowa. He received his education primarily in Des Moines and Indianola, Iowa. He graduated from Simpson College in Indianola in 1917. Holmes subsequently continued graduate studies at Iowa State University and the University of Nebraska.

From 1925 to 1933, Holmes lived in York, Neb., and was head of the Science Department at York High School, actively teaching elementary physics and chemistry classes.

In 1936, he moved to Kilgore and its surrounding area.

The balance of his life, before and after his teaching years, Holmes spent in connection with the petroleum industry. He worked for Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Company for 20 years. On his last location, he was a chief chemist of the Waskom Gasoline Plant of the Arkla Chemical Co. He retired Oct. 1, 1961.

He moved to Marshall in 1961 and to Midland in February 1973.

He married Lois Elizabeth Roberts June 16, 1923. She died May 27, 1972.

In his earlier life, Holmes had been active in several Masonic orders, the American Chemistry Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Phi Delta Kappa and Phi Mu Alpha. He was a veteran of World War II and a member of the American Legion. He was a member of St. Luke's Methodist Church.

Survivors include two sons, Kenneth B. Holmes Jr. of New Brunswick, N.J., and John P. Holmes of Midland; a brother, Elmer M. Holmes of St. Louis, Mo.; three grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Woman handed life, man gets guillotine for murder

PARIS (AP) — The woman pulled the trigger and got life while her lover was sentenced to the guillotine, demonstrating once again that sexism works in the woman's favor in France when the death penalty is involved.

Yves Maupetit, a 31-year-old escaped convict, and Jeanine Terriel, a 49-year-old ex-prostitute, were convicted last week of murdering a farmer and a married couple they encountered while Maupetit was on the run.

The prosecuting attorney asked the death penalty for both. The jury of nine men and three women deliberated for 7½ hours, an unusually long time for a French jury, then sentenced him to die and her to life imprisonment.

"Jeanine Terriel was saved because she was a woman," said the headline in the tabloid France-Soir.

"The gallant death penalty," said Le Quotidien de Paris, another tabloid.

France's capital punishment laws make no distinction between the sexes except to specify that a pregnant woman cannot be executed until after her child is born. However, no woman has died under the guillotine, France's official instrument of execution, since 1949. Twelve were sentenced to death, but all the sentences were commuted to life imprisonment. Meanwhile, 60 men were beheaded during that period.

Miss Terriel, a plain, plump woman, admitting shooting one of the victims — the man's two children saw her do it — but said her good-looking lover 18 years her junior "told me to fire and I fired."

"I pulled the trigger, and I deserve to die for it," she told the jury, tears running down her cheeks, then appealed for mercy and "most profound forgiveness."

"It's often very difficult to convict someone so repentant," said one lawyer involved in the case.

Maupetit and Miss Terriel were the only witnesses to the other two shootings, so each accused the other of firing the shots.

"I didn't kill those three persons," he testified, "but I am in a way responsible for their deaths because I was with Jeanine when she killed them."

U.N. Assembly bars South Africa

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly barred South Africa's delegation from its special session on South-West Africa, and a parade of members began calling for stiff sanctions to force Africa's last white government to give up the neighboring territory.

Zambian Ambassador Paul J.F. Lusaka, president of the U.N. Council for Namibia, as South-West Africa is also known, and Niels Peter George Hølskov of Denmark, vice chairman of the Special Committee on Decolonization, urged the assembly to demand that the Security Council put South Africa in quarantine.

The U.N. General Assembly can only propose sanctions to the 11-member council, where the United States or any of the four other permanent members can veto any action. Only arms sales to South Africa are now banned, and the United States is expected to use its veto if necessary to prevent any substantial expansion of the embargo.

Panama's foreign minister, Jorge

Enrique Illueca, said his government, which now holds one of the six rotating Security Council seats, also advocated sanctions to compel South Africa to recognize South-West Africa's independence. He warned that the issue has "the potential to destroy the United Nations" if the world body proves to be ineffectual.

South Africa's delegation took its seats at the start of the special session Monday for the second time since 1974, when the assembly ruled the white-minority government did not have proper credentials to represent South Africa's people. And as in 1979, also before a debate on South-West Africa, the assembly refused to seat the South Africans.

The body voted 112-22 with six abstentions to accept a credentials committee recommendation that the South African delegation be barred. The delegation immediately left the hall.

The Reagan administration's new chief delegate to the United Nations, Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick, cast her first vote against the ouster. She noted that the United States took the same stand in 1974, holding that the U.N. charter prohibits expulsion of a member without a recommendation from the Security Council.

"The passage of time has not given the General Assembly a better basis for doing in 1981 what it did improperly in 1974," she said.

In Johannesburg, South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha said the ouster was "scandalous and revengeful."

"It must be remembered that South Africa is told daily to help achieve a peaceful settlement in South-West Africa-Namibia and therefore to act internationally responsible in that sense," he told the South African Broadcasting Corp. "But now you can see for yourself just how impossible this is being made."

South Africa captured South-West Africa from Germany during World War I and got a League of Nations mandate in 1920 to administer it. The United Nations canceled the mandate in 1966, but South Africa refused to give up the territory and is fighting a war against guerrillas of the South-West African People's Organization, or SWAPO, which the United Nations recognizes as the only legitimate representative of the Namibian people.

Theo-Ben Gurirab, SWAPO's U.N. observer, said Monday that South Africa was "digging its menacing heels more and more into the ground in order to further entrench the illegal occupations, colonial oppressions and exploitation in our country."

South Africa is resisting a plan adopted in 1978 by the Security Council calling for U.N.-supervised elections and independence for South-West Africa later this year. The South Africans say the United Nations is biased toward SWAPO and would not protect the interests of the white minority in the territory or of black factions opposed to SWAPO. About 10 percent of the estimated 1 million population are white.

Lions Club members selling Pancake Jamboree tickets

The more than 300 members of the Midland Downtown Lions Club are engaged in the advance sale of tickets for the club's 25th annual Pancake Jamboree, to be held March 14 in the Dellwood Plaza Mall Shopping Center.

Serving hours are scheduled from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., with special entertainment to be furnished throughout the day.

Morris Hulsey, club president, said plans are being made to feed 10,000 persons at this year's jamboree. Pancake mix, sausage, butter, syrup, coffee, milk and soft drinks to take care of the record number of patrons already are on order.

Captains in charge of the advance ticket sale include Eloy Villfranca, Paul Lawrence, Ray Vaden, David Messersmith, Clyde Peterson, Jack Hilliard, John Phipps, Brad Blackburn, Jim Galyean, Dan Foreman, Tom Probasco, Dave Hoff, Charles Phillips, David Cristiani, Roy Darden, J.D. Webster and Paul Murray.

All members of the club will work in staging the event, which has come to be recognized as one of the Tall City's major annual attractions. All chores, from mixing the batter and cooking the pancakes, to frying the sausage, to serving the meal, to the final clean-up, will be handled by club members.

Proceeds will be used to finance the club's many and varied activities and projects, ranging from sight conservation, aid to the deaf, youth welfare projects, aid to senior citizens, Eye Bank support, park improvements, charity and other community programs.

San Francisco Bay area hit by moderate quake

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A moderate earthquake estimated at 4.1 on the Richter scale toppled bottles from shelves, triggered a minor rockslide and jolted people awake throughout the San Francisco Bay area early today.

There were no immediate reports of injuries or serious damage.

The 2:45 a.m. PST quake was centered in the Fremont area south of Oakland and was followed by a 2.7-rated aftershock at 2:57 a.m., said Robert Uhrhammer, research seismologist at the University of California seismology laboratory in Berkeley.

The earthquake information center of the U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., said the quake registered 4.0 on the Richter scale.

The main quake was felt along at least 100 miles of the California coast from Monterey to Marin County, according to the state Office of Emergency Services.

"It just knocked a lot of wine bottles off, soda pop, medicine, books, coffee pots ..." said Larry Foster, a worker at a Fremont 7-11 store.

"It scared ... me," he added. "I've been through mortar explosions, but I've never been through anything like this."

The California Highway Patrol said the quake triggered a small rockslide, blocking part of Niles Canyon Road in Fremont, but workers quickly cleaned the debris off the roadway.

Fremont police said that "probably about a half dozen" shop windows were broken in the city.

"It was hard," said Nancy Day, a waitress at a Denny's Restaurant in Fremont. "It felt like somebody picked up Denny's and dropped it. The business just went real quiet."

She said one customer bolted out the door and another quickly put down his coffee cup and left when the quake struck.

The Richter scale measures ground motion and the amount of energy released. A 4.0 quake is considered capable of moderate damage in a populated area.

Funding libraries

There's an interesting tale that answers the question: How important are libraries?

According to that tale, if every source of our knowledge — every school, every university — was destroyed, in some catastrophe but the library survived, then civilization, too, would survive. Civilization as we know it could be rebuilt and mankind could resume its progress.

The Texas Library Association says that despite the importance of libraries, public halls of knowledge in Texas have been kept on a starvation diet throughout our history. The association wants that fact changed.

This year libraries are asking for nine hundredths of 1 percent of the state budget. That would amount to about $1 per capita for libraries from an appropriation for 1982 for statewide library development of $12,880,561 out of state revenues of some $13 billion.

Furthermore, the Texas Conference of Libraries urged that level of support and at its meeting in Austin in 1978 passed a resolution asking "... the State Library budget item of Statewide Library Development be aggressively sought

... at the level of $1 per capita, through concerted action by the State Library, the Texas Library Association, and the citizens of Texas at the earliest possible date ..."

During 1980 California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin all spent more on libraries than Texas. In fact, the TLA says, figured on a per capita basis Texas is 34th in the nation on library financing.

Texas' 378 public libraries are vast sources of knowledge. They feed young minds, expand adult minds and entertain all minds. But it's up to all of us to keep our libraries adequate sources of knowledge.

Even if the type of catastrophe noted writer Harrison E. Salisbury was talking about never comes to pass, we have an obligation to see that the knowledge we have accumulated is left behind for our posterity.

In that context, the funding being sought by the Texas Library Association doesn't appear unreasonable.

Marcos' essential ally

Millions of Filipinos saw a remarkable scene on their television sets recently: Pope John Paul II delivering a homily on human rights in the opulent presidential palace while, next to him, President Ferdinand Marcos sat stiffly in a throne-like guilt chair. The political implications of the pope's two-edged message of praise and warning could not have been clearer.

Pope John Paul's visit came barely a month after Marcos lifted eight years of martial law in a nation plagued by violence and human rights violations. The timing of the pontiff's visit and his carefully chosen words in praise of "recent initiatives" obviously were designed to encourage further liberalization of government policies.

The pope made clear that nothing, not even perceived threats to state security, can justify depriving Filipinos of their basic human rights. Although those words gave hope to activist priests and nuns, practitioners of liberation theology, John Paul reminded them that their mission is to carry the Gospel, not rifles, to the poor, that they should concern themselves more with their faith and less with advancing the political and social cause of the oppressed.

The pope's message was more than a pious homily of good wishes and Marcos understands that. The Catholic Church plays a central role in the lives of 40 million of the nation's 48 million people.

Marcos needs the church as an ally. He may find that restoring some semblance of human rights is a small price to pay for the alliance.

CHARLIE REESE

Kaiser waging private war against TV irresponsibility

Kaiser Aluminum Co. is waging a war against what it calls trial by television that every fair-minded American should support. The reason is simple. The ultimate victim of unscrupulous network television activities is the viewer.

Kaiser originally obtained an agreement by ABC Television to give it four minutes of air time for an unedited rebuttal to ABC's "20/20" episode in which Geraldo Rivera accused Kaiser of marketing unsafe aluminum wiring. But ABC has reneged.

Unlike many victims of network irresponsibility, Kaiser bravely asserted that the accusation was false and demanded time for a rebuttal. It also began to prepare a slander suit and launched a print media advertising campaign to inform the public: It is now going ahead with the slander suit, a complaint with the Federal Communications Commission and with an approach to Congress.

Right on! This is an issue that is long overdue for settling. If it is kept alive, it will at least educate the public that in television, seeing is not believing. A long line of abuses of the viewer can be arranged for any congressional committee interested.

If you want to understand how television producers can distort the truth, all you have to keep in mind is the principle of selectivity. By selecting what pictures the viewer will see and what words the viewer will hear, the producer can build a case for any point of view he chooses.

The accused is without defense. Even when television claims that it will interview the accused to allow him to present "his side of the story," how the interview is conducted and how it is edited can completely distort what was said. A person or company faced by an accusing TV journalist is a fool to give him an interview. A skilled technician can make the final result incredibly damaging to the subject. In some instances, TV journalists have been caught dubbing in differently worded questions from the ones they asked the subject on the air. This is a blatant deception of the viewer.

One thing which misleads the public is the phrase "investigative journalism" as applied to television. "Investigative journalism" implies that an investigation is conducted to gather facts and that after the facts have been gathered and analyzed, some conclusion is drawn. Television producers work for the opposite end. They start with a conclusion and construct "the facts" to fit the conclusion.

The reason is simple economics. An honest investigation may or may not turn up a good story. Networks are not prone to investing thousands of dollars in what might turn out to be a wild goose chase. Therefore, they start with a story.

Another factor in television's habitually sleazy performance is that the nature of the medium requires drama. In most cases, truth is not especially dramatic. Few situations are clear-cut with easy villains and easy good guys wrapped up in 15 minutes of air time. Television news is a misnomer. It is really another variety of entertainment.

The pious claims of TV journalists to the contrary don't hold much water. All one has to do is look at the cultural garbage poured into American living rooms for the sake of a big buck to understand clearly the morality of network television.

The worst indictment of television journalism comes from the journalists themselves who moaned that ABC's original offer of rebuttal time would have a "chilling effect" on television reporting. If being required to be honest, fair and accurate is a "chilling prospect" then Kaiser can rest its case.

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

It's nice to see that Great Britain's Prince Charles will marry Lady Diana Spencer. Considering the British economy, these kids probably figured two can live as cheaply as one.

Charles and Diana used to live in the same neighborhood. Charles, quite a bit older, would let Diana play with some of his old toys — Ireland, Wales and Rhodesia.

Diana will replace Princess Margaret as the object of attention in the press. It's all part of the back to basics morality of England's Reaganaut Prime Minister Thatcher. Besides, there's nothing like a nice wedding to take the people's minds off starvation for a while.

Charles, a 32-year-old bachelor, was getting tired of the bar scene. Every time he discussed romance with a girl, she would ask, "But will you crown me in the morning?"

I confess that I've made all of this up. Charles and Diana are to be wed, however, and it's heartening to see two people so very perfectly matched. Therefore, it comes as no surprise that they met through a computer dating service.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Budget-cutters overlooking Defense waste?

WASHINGTON — More than 20 years ago, President Eisenhower shocked his old military buddies by warning of the growing power of what he called the "military-industrial complex." But it is doubtful that even Ike foresaw the extent to which the sweetheart relationship between Big Business and the brass has taken control of the single biggest slice of the federal government's budget pie.

President Reagan may have given his budget cutters an unintended signal in his economic address to Congress when he singled out waste and fraud in the social service agencies as the target for cuts in federal spending. By omitting mention of the Defense Department, he apparently encouraged his budget officials to ignore the monumental waste and fraud in the Pentagon.

As a result of being given more money than they can spend themselves, the Pentagon brass have farmed out an increasing number of their own military functions to private consulting firms. Many of these consultants are former high-ranking Defense Department officials. They are, in effect, charging the government for the expertise they gained while they were in government service.

What makes the "old boy" system particularly disturbing is that the private consultants have not only taken over jobs the Defense Department should be doing itself — but the profit-motivated contractors are identifying, defining and dictating the very programs the Pentagon hires them to run.

Jack Anderson

In short, the former officers are telling the Pentagon that it needs a particular job done, and that they're the only ones who can do it right. And their old buddies in the Pentagon — perhaps hoping for a post-retirement job themselves — OK the project. It's a self-perpetuating boondoggle.

A confidential government report obtained by my associate Indy Badwar details the problems raised by the "privatization" of the Defense Department. And it's not chicken feed involved: The Pentagon is currently spending about $3 billion a year on private consultants whose "expertise" is often matched by high-salaried Defense Department employees.

The government investigators said they found a few cost comparisons done by the Pentagon to determine if the functions performed by contractors could be carried out by DOD's own civil servants at less cost. In the rare instances where comparisons were done, they showed that the government would have saved money by doing its own work "in-house." For example, a Navy study showed that it could have saved $159,000 over a five-year period by letting its own employees design a manpower planning system.

Here are some examples the report gives of the way the old-boy network operates:

— A $43,835 contract went to a private individual who acted as the Defense Secretary's Man Friday. The contractor helped prepare the secretary's annual report to Congress.

— An $82,000 contract to review Army support unit requirements for the first 30 days of a NATO war was awarded to former DOD employees, including a retired lieutenant general and a retired lieutenant colonel. A month after the private study was completed, Pentagon civil servants were ordered to prepare a similar report.

— A $304,000 contract to assess the Pentagon's responsibilities in the event of general mobilization went to a firm that employed a former vice chief of the Army, a former Air Force general and a onetime deputy assistant secretary of defense.

— An Air Force contract originally costing about $1 million has been going up by about $500,000 a year. The private contractor is studying the problems of command and control in electronic warfare. Ten of the contractor's employees are former Pentagon officials.

— The boondoggle is not only self-perpetuating, but self-aggrandizing. Every contract gives the private consultant additional expertise on Pentagon operations, providing a "snowball" effect for additional consulting contracts.

UNKEPT PROMISES: Back in 1961, the 22nd Soviet Party Congress adopted a 20-year plan for the Soviet Union. Igor Glagolev worked for the Soviet Academy of Sciences at the time and helped draft the party "platform."

Glagolev has since defected and now lives in this country. But he remembers what the 20-year plan called for: free apartments, kindergartens, nurseries and rest homes for all Soviet citizens, plus the shortest working day and the highest standard of living of any communist country.

Observing the program at its deadline this year, Glagolev concludes that the 20-year plan was "a total failure." Largely because of inflation, he says, the standard of living in the Soviet Union has actually declined in the past 20 years.

UNFRIENDLY SKIES: The flight engineers' union recently tried to buy a full-page ad in the Pan Am Clipper — the slick magazine that is offered to passengers along with their coffee, tea or milk. To the union's surprise, Pan Am refused to run the ad, even though it contained no suggestion of any management-union problems. "What are we supposed to do now," asked the union's rep, "hand it out to the passengers?" "Do what you want," replied an airline spokesman, in a tone as icy as a miniature-on-the-rocks.

INSIDE REPORT:

Kemp's 'veto talk' request to Baker falls on deaf ears

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jack Kemp won from President Reagan agreement that significant congressional change in his tax program deserves a veto. But any such warning was excluded from the press briefing of Reagan's private weekly session with House Republican leaders.

As newly-elected chairman of the House Republican Conference, Kemp gets to attend those weekly sessions where most other Republican leaders are less than enthusiastic about Reagan's embrace of the Kemp-Roth tax-reduction bill. At the Feb. 24 session, Kemp suggested vetoing any bill that had the net effect of raising taxes or that significantly departed from the Reagan policy. "Jack's right," the president replied, recalling that he had vetoed hundreds of bills as governor of California.

After the meeting, Kemp suggested to Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker that he repeat Reagan's veto talk in his briefing to the press on the day's meeting. But Baker, never an enthusiastic tax-cutter, said not a word about it.

CASEY STRIKES OUT

A power play by CIA Director William Casey to name a Vietnam amputee veteran as head of the Veterans Administration (VA) backfired, embarrassing Casey and Pendleton James, President Reagan's personnel adviser.

Casey ordered John L. Behan's name put back on the "active consideration" list for veterans administrator after he was ruled out as not qualified for that major management job. On Feb. 19, in Reagan's helicopter on the way to Andrews Air Force Base, James persuaded the president to approve the appointment of Behan, now a New York assemblyman from Long Island (Casey's home).

But when the president's unannounced decision was leaked to the press, veterans' organizations protested to the White House. The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars had broken a long-standing neutrality rule to back Reagan for president. Now they demand and almost surely have won a voice in filling the top VA job. Former Republican Rep. William H. Ayres of Ohio, who arranged Reagan's endorsement by the veterans' organizations, has strong veterans' support to supplant the sidetracked Behan.

BREZHNEV'S MAN IN D.C.

The second-ranking diplomat in the Soviet Union's Washington embassy, Vladilen Vasev, found himself toe-to-toe with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev over the question of an early summit meeting with President Reagan. As expected, Vasev lost.

Vasev, in charge of the Soviet Embassy while Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin attended the Communist Party Congress in Moscow, ruled out an early Brezhnev-Reagan summit in his interview with Cable News Network on Feb. 14. When asked whether the Soviet government would "welcome" a summit to "clear the air,"

Vasev replied: "If you ask me personally, I would have difficulty in recommending such a meeting ... it's not prepared."

Nine days later, Brezhnev stunned the world with his call for a quick summit meeting with Reagan. That put Vasev in the curious position of having espoused the opinion of Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander Haig that now is definitely not the time for any summit.

TROUBLE AT HUD

While most Reagan Cabinet members have been leaning over backwards to accommodate budget-cutting in their department, Secretary Samuel Pierce of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has antagonized the White House and the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) by resisting deep slashes in federal housing programs.

Pierce has had several confrontations with budget director David Stockman over the HUD budget. Other Reagan Cabinet members have few ties with their constituency groups, but Pierce does. "I think he lets himself get pushed around by the mayors," a Reagan adviser told us. Pierce, the only black in the Cabinet, feels responsible for representing the inner city.

That brings murmurs of I-told-you-so from right-wing New York Republicans, who were unpleasantly surprised when Pierce was named to the Cabinet without their clearance. Pierce, a Manhattan lawyer, has been associated with the liberal wing of the state party that was headed by the late Nelson Rockefeller and had no previous association with Reagan.

He was deeply fascinated by actresses, Kilty says, and for years showered a flow of lively, but less than passionate, letters on two prominent leading ladies of the time, Ellen Terry and Janet Ashvren, who was the first to play the part of Shaw's Candida.

His lengthiest correspondence was with Mrs. Campbell, for whom he wrote the part of Eliza in "Pygmalion," which Americans came to know as the musical, "My Fair Lady." A powerful, often unpredictable actress, "Mrs. Pat" possessed an acid wit and biting tongue which matched Shaw's own.

"She was fascinated by the brilliant dramatist and set out to captivate him," Kilty says. "But Shaw, though often proclaiming himself in love with her, never left the wife he had married for convenience, nor curtailed his rigorous schedule of writing and lecturing."

DEAR ABBY

Bigots' consistency a sign of little minds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am sending you something written by the late, beloved humorist Sam Levenson. If you appreciate it as much as I, please share it with your readers. — MRS. B. FLEMING, L. A.

DEAR MRS. FLEMING: I did, and I will: SAM LEVENSON'S ANSWER TO AN ANTI-SEMITITE

"It's a free world; you don't have to like Jews, but if you don't, I suggest that you boycott certain Jewish products like the Wassermann Test for syphilis; digitalis, discovered by a Dr. Nuslin; insulin, discovered by Dr. Minofsky; chlorhydrate for convulsions, discovered by Dr. Lifreich; the Shick test for diphtheria; vitamins discovered by Dr. Funk; streptomycin, discovered by Dr. Z. Wronan; the polio pill by Dr. A. Sabin and the polio vaccine by Dr. Jonas Salk.

"Good! Boycott! Humanitarian consistency requires that my people offer all these gifts to all people of the world. Fanatic consistency requires that all bigots accept syphilis, diabetes, convulsions, malnutrition, infantile paralysis and tuberculosis as a matter of principle. "You want to be mad? Be mad! But I'm telling you, you ain't going to feel so good!"

DEAR ABBY: For my birthday, my husband took me and some relatives out for dinner at a nice restaurant. When the waitress brought the main course, she served everyone but me, saying my steak would take a little longer as she had to send it back to be cooked "well done" as I had requested.

Well, her "little longer" turned out to be more like 15 minutes, and everyone except my husband, who had the good manners to wait for me, was halfway finished eating by the time my food arrived.

I was so humiliated and embarrassed, I told the waitress she should not have served anyone until she could have served everyone.

She was slightly miffed, and said if she had waited, everyone else's food would have been cold.

My family was embarrassed because I said anything. I say they were an ill-mannered bunch to have eaten without me.

Who is wrong here? Me? The waitress? Or the others who ate without me? — ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I think you were wrong to have made an issue of it. Although it is considered impolite to eat until everyone is served, it would have been gracious were you to have said, "Please don't wait for me. Your food will get cold."

A conscientious waitress would have asked the chef to start your steak first in order to serve everyone at the same time. (Perhaps she did, but the chef slipped up.)

DEAR ABBY: There is a group of us in a mental (psychiatric) hospital who read your column daily.

We would just like to say that it's sometimes very relieving to read about problems that we do not have. Our problems weigh heavily on our shoulders day after day, and sometimes it seems that we are the only ones having difficulty handling our problems and society's hassles. We tend to forget that not everyone's burdens are concentrated on the few of us.

We thank you, Dear Abby, for reminding us daily that we don't have to be perfect to be part of society again. — GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Thank you. Your letter made my day.

Replace IUDs every two years, doctor advises

By SANDRA BALMER

Associated Press Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Calcium can build up on intrauterine devices and cause pelvic infection, says a Texas pathologist who recommends the birth control devices be replaced every two years.

A link between long-term IUD use and actinomycosis — a virulent infection which can leave women sterile — was previously identified by researchers at the University of Texas Medical School, but they were puzzled why the statistical link occurred.

The researchers, headed by Dr. Waldemar Schmidt, have now attributed the link to buildups of calcium on the IUD. Their findings were presented Monday at an annual meeting of the International Academy of Pathology.

IUDs in place for three years or longer had the most noticeable calcium deposits, Schmidt said. He advised women who low-grade fever) are not easily identified," Schmidt said. The calcium deposits apparently are a natural response, as the body places a layer of calcium around a foreign substance as a protective shield. But it had previously been thought the IUDs were non-reactive with body tissue, Schmidt said.

Now it appears that the deposits somehow create "an ecological niche" — a favorable environment allowing the actinomyces bacteria to grow where they normally wouldn't, he said.

The bacteria have been known to cause serious disease in from 8,000 to 25,000 women each year out of the 700,000 to 1 million women between the ages of 15 and 44 who use the IUD to routinely replace them about every two to three years, before the calcium deposits become significant.

"It's not the woman who's unhappy with the IUD as a form of birth control who is at risk, it's the woman who is happy with her IUD. She's at risk quietly, because the symptoms, (including vague discomfort and use the devices, Schmidt said. The disease may be occurring much more frequently, but is often misdiagnosed as less serious forms of pelvic inflammatory disease, he said. The disease can occur without easily identifiable symptoms and frequently destroys tissue in the ovaries and uterus and leaves a woman sterile, he added.

Normal pelvic inflammations are common in women using IUDs. One study showed that 41 percent of women with acute pelvic inflammatory disease were IUD users, Schmidt said. He speculated that buildups of calcium could be a factor in the incidence of these other pelvic infections as well.

Schmidt said it's still unclear what specific role calcium plays in infection growth, if some women are more likely to develop the pelvic inflammation than others.

But he recommended changing the IUDs every two to three years "as preventative maintenance" to guard against infections.

Schmidt said there appeared to be no difference in infection in IUDs examined, except that those made with an added copper wrapping appeared to be temporarily less likely to result in infection.

Modern women might fill Shaw with awe, says expert

NEW YORK (AP) — If George Bernard Shaw were alive today, he would be gratified by the gains made by women in politics, but warier than ever about their hold on the home front, declares an expert in Shavian lore. Shaw was a vociferous supporter of women's right to work where they wished, to be admitted to all professions and to hold office, according to Jerome Kilty. Kilty is the adapter and director of an upcoming television special based on the famous Irish writer's mainly-by-mail romance with one of the then-reigning beauties of the British stage, Mrs. Patrick Campbell. But in his writing about sex and marriage, Kilty explains, Shaw visualized the male as a victim of complete domination, with women ruling the roost, selecting her mate and, in the long run, deciding his destiny. Fearing and mistrusting women as he did, Kilty points out, Shaw nevertheless was constantly involved with them, though most of his affairs were platonic. He was deeply fascinated by actresses, Kilty says, and for years showered a flow of lively, but less than passionate, letters on two prominent leading ladies of the time, Ellen Terry and Janet Ashvren, who was the first to play the part of Shaw's Candida.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Clothes-whitening formula

DEAR HELOISE: I am really in need of your help on how to get my washable white uniforms white again. They are so dull-looking I'm ashamed to wear them, yet they are far too good to just toss out. I know other gals who have to wear white uniforms would appreciate this information also. Thank you very much. — B.W.

Dear Heloise: A tip on folding clothes... I do mine while watching my favorite TV program, then put them away during commercials. An unrelated tip.

Dust a little powder on the table too each time you play with the cards.

"Tis my pleasure,luv, especially since I've had oodles of requests from those "other gals" who have the same problem. There are two or three things you can do, but the one I like most uses chlorine bleach and dishwasher detergent — items most of us already have around the house. Besides that, it's very simple to do. (Be sure to check the care label first to be certain it doesn't say "don't use bleach.") Pour one gallon of very hot water into a plastic, stainless steel or enamel container — DO NOT use aluminum as it will discolor. Add one cup of dishwasher detergent and one-fourth cup household liquid chlorine bleach. Stir until the detergent is thoroughly dissolved then add the uniforms. Let them soak for about 30 minutes, then wash as usual. This formula is also great for other dingy white clothes, especially baby clothes. However, you may need to soak these longer than 30 minutes as baby stains are very difficult to remove. Another thing you can do for white uniforms is buy a nylon brightener available in supermarets or buy a package of color remover, also available in supermarkets. Follow directions on the package. Whichever method you choose, you should have the whitest, brightest, uniforms in town. — Hugs, Heloise

HE EVEN ATE WITH THE PIGS!

To illustrate His point, Jesus told this story: "A man had two sons. When the younger told his father, 'I want my share of your estate now, instead of waiting until you die!' his father agreed to divide his wealth between his sons."

"A few days later this younger son packed all his belongings and took a trip to a distant land, and there wasted all his money on parties and prostitutes."

"About the time his money was gone a great famine swept over the land, and he began to starve. He persuaded a local farmer to hire him to feed his pigs. The boy became so hungry that even the pods he was feeding the swine looked good to him. And no one gave him anything."

"When he finally came to his senses, he said to himself, 'At home even the hired men have food enough and to spare, and here I am, dying of hunger! I will go home to my father and say, 'Father, I have sinned against both heaven and you, and am no longer worthy of being called your son. Please take me on as a hired man.'"

"So he returned home to his father. And while he was still a long distance away, his father saw him coming, and was filled with loving pity and ran and embraced him and kissed him."

"His son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and you, and am not worthy of being called your son.'"

"But his father said to the slaves, 'Quick! Bring the finest robe in the house and put it on him. And a jeweled ring for his finger, and shoes! And kill the calf we have in the fattening pen. We must celebrate with a feast, for this son of mine was dead and has returned to life. He was lost and is found.' So the party began."

Strike by writers, directors feared

By JAY ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The film and television industry, which only recently struggled to its feet after last summer's 10-week actors strike, is stockpiling scripts and moving up schedules amid fears of a strike by writers and directors.

The 6,000-member Directors Guild of America and the Writers Guild of America, the industry's creative, behind-the-scenes personnel, are pledging to get their share of the burgeoning home video market — the issue that split the actors and producers for so long.

From poolside to the cutting rooms, the talk is that a strike is almost inevitable.

"What we hear is troubling," said the directors' National Executive Secretary Michael Franklin, "because they (the producers) seem to be beating the drums for a strike. We're not beating those drums, but they are. The word that they've sent out is they're pretty much banking the furnaces."

In anticipation of a strike, Franklin said the producers are moving up schedules and amassing scripts.

"I have been told that the companies are doing their utmost ... so that there is a minimum of production scheduled on or about July 1," he said. The writers, whose contract expired March 1, voted Sunday to continue talks with the proviso that it would give producers two weeks notice on termination of talks.

Writers' spokesman Allen Rivkin said the writers' primary demands are for a 100 percent increase in current film and television minimums — currently $26,000 for a full-length motion picture — plus increased pension, health and welfare benefits, cost-of-living catch-up, minimums for educational and industrial films, a standard definition of net profits and an equally controversial bite out of the home video pie — pay TV, videodisks and videocassettes. The writers seek a 6 percent advance to apply against the distributor's gross of pay TV programs, plus 8 percent of the distributor's gross on videocassettes and videodisks, from the first dollar earned.

Last summer, the Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists settled for home video payments of 4.95 percent of the distributor's pay TV gross after a program has played 10 times in 12 months, and the same percentage of the producers gross on discs and cassettes after 100,000 units have been sold.

The producers reportedly have offered the writers less than that.

Although Franklin said the directors have not yet completed their list of demands, he did acknowledge that the main point of discussion in negotiations would be home video.

The directors will begin network negotiations in New York about mid-month before shifting back here in April for the critical free-lance film and TV negotiations.

Franklin said a pre-strike production speedup by producers would be neither easy nor inexpensive and would become a high-stakes gamble to strip the directors of a strike weapon.

Franklin, the DGA's chief negotiator, led the writers in a 15-week strike in 1973 and sees another difficult period of discussion-upcoming between his union and film-TV executives, who will be represented by Billy H. Hunt.

But, he adds, "What we expect to do is to accomplish a new agreement by the expiration date of our present contracts" on July 1.

Science supports Lindbergh probe

By R. BRIERLEY THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Modern science supports the investigation a half-century ago that indicated Bruno Richard Hauptmann was guilty in the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, a state police report says.

A summary of a review spanning several years said Monday evidence unequivocally supported Hauptmann's guilt and the identification of an infant's body as that of Charles Lindbergh Jr., son of the pioneering aviator.

There has been speculation ever since the toddler was abducted and slain in 1932 that Hauptmann was framed or the baby survived.

The baby's fingerprints could not be located and there is no clear-cut finding on a possible kidnapping conspiracy.

"Some speculation can never be resolved to the satisfaction of all," said the report.

At least two men claim to be the missing son — Harold Olson of Westport, Conn., and Kenneth Kerwin of Biddeford, Maine. Several authors claim Hauptmann was the victim of inept investigators and unfair prosecution.

Olson and Kerwin have court suits pending to open records included in the state police review.

Although 90,000 documents were reviewed, none will be shown publicly until a state police museum is built, said Col. Clinton Pagano, state police superintendent.

Hauptmann was executed at Trenton State Prison in 1936, but the case wasn't closed and technically remains active today.

Olson and Kerwin contend a body found near the Lindbergh's former Hopewell estate in May 1932 was not the infant supposedly taken down a ladder from his nursery two months earlier.

Instead, the pair say the real baby was spirited away and the 20-month-old infant grew up with a new identity.

Pagano's summary said hair samples from the body studied by the latest scientific techniques match hair trimmed from the son of the first man to fly solo across the Atlantic Ocean.

The report also says a flannel shirt on the body was made from the same cloth as garments in the estate nursery.

In addition, a handwriting analysis shows Hauptmann wrote ransom notes and the immigrant carpenter had some ransom money, said the report.

Autopsy due on Spenkelnik

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Medical examiners performing an autopsy on convicted killer John A. Spenkelnik say they should know by Wednesday whether he was already dead or unconscious when strapped into the electric chair nearly two years ago.

Lois Spenkelnik stood among a crowd of about 70 reporters and photographers Monday and watched as her son's body was exhumed from his Los Angeles County grave.

She said she agrees with a Florida evangelist's contention that Spenkelnik's neck was broken and his voice box damaged when the executioner slipped a black hood over his head in Florida's death chamber May 25, 1979.

The Buena Park, Calif. resident says she believes her son planned to make a death-day statement about Florida prison officials.

Spenkelink was sent to the electric chair at the Florida State Prison in Starke after he was convicted of murdering a hitchhiker. Two investigations concluded he was not mistreated prior to his execution.

Florida Corrections Department spokesman Vernon Bradford has repeatedly denied allegations that Spenkelnik was mistreated.

Spenkelink was the first prisoner executed against his will since states started reinstating the death penalty based on U.S. Supreme Court guidelines set down in 1972.

Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi said the autopsy, probably would be completed by Wednesday.

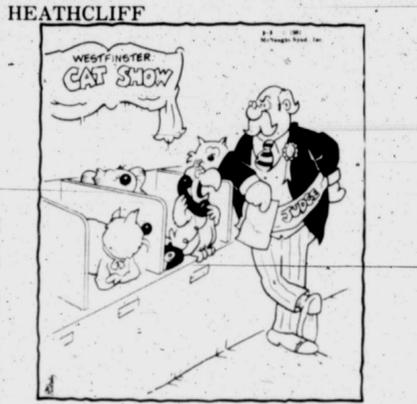

Spenkelink's sister, Carol Myers, and Jacksonville, Fla., evangelist Warren H. Folks also were at the cemetery to watch the exhumation.

In Florida, state Rep. Andy Johnson, D-Jacksonville, said Spenkelnik was alive and breathing before the current was turned on. The death penalty opponent said he would have been "one of the first to speak up" if he thought there was any sign of foul play in Spenkelnik's death.

He accused Folks, who runs the Conservative Church of Christ Inc. in Jacksonville, of trying to get publicity for himself.

Mrs. Myers said she feels the same way about Folks, but believes her brother may have been injured when he was taken to the death chamber.

"I viewed his body...the day after he died," she said. "There was so much swelling from the waist up — the part of him I could see. He was about twice his (normal) size."

HELLO? HEATHCLIFF'S ANSWERING SERVICE...

Wedding date announced

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer will be married July 29 in St. Paul's Cathedral, their personal choice, Buckingham Palace announced today.

Palace spokesman Michael Shea said the choice of St. Paul's instead of Westminster Abbey, traditional site for recent royal weddings, was influenced by the greater size of the cathedral, which can seat 2,500.

"An important consideration in the decision was that there are many more places for guests at St. Paul's," said Shea.

Shea said St. Paul's was the personal choice of Charles and Diana, rather than the Abbey, where Charles' mother, Queen Elizabeth II, married Prince Philip in 1947.

St. Paul's has been the scene of many great state occasions, the most notable being the 1965 funeral of World War II leader Sir Winston Churchill.

Charles, 32-year-old heir to the throne, and Diana, 19-year-old daughter of the Earl Spencer, announced their engagement Tuesday, ending months of speculation.

Shea confirmed that the wedding would be conducted by Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, spiritual head of the Church of England and leader of the world's 65 million Anglicans.

The high summer wedding day is expected to be declared a national holiday.

The guest list, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said, has not yet been drawn up.

President Reagan has said he wants to be there, and the list is expected to include statesmen and ruling — or deposed — monarchs from all the world.

The domed St. Paul's, designed by Sir Christopher Wren, is among London's most famous landmarks with its American chapel, Whispering Gallery and many statues and relics. It is visited by some 2 million tourists every year.

The site has been a place of worship since the 7th century. One church was laid waste by the Vikings, and two others destroyed by fire — one in 1087 and the other in London's Great Fire of 1666.

The present cathedral, completed in 1708, was bombed during the Nazi blitz of World War II. The high altar was demolished, the crypt damaged and most windows shattered. But the golden dome survived and the cathedral was restored.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Take that aspirin with lots of water

Dear Dr. Solomon: The only drug I ever take is an occasional aspirin for a rare headache. In one of your columns you gave some very helpful advice about not taking tetracycline with milk. Are there any similar precautions in regard to the use of aspirin? — Barney disease, a progressive brain disorder that affects the ability of otherwise healthy people to think and remember. The condition also may appear in middle-aged individuals, those 45 years of age and older. While it was once believed that senility was due to arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), it is now known to result from a degenerative process of nerve cells.

Dear Barney: For aspirin to be most effective, it should be taken on an empty stomach together with a large amount of water. The absorption is delayed when it is taken with food in the stomach.

Aside from the loss of memory caused by brain disease, the other major health problem of aged persons is stroke, which disabled more than two million people in the United States last year. Stroke is a disease of the blood vessels which results either in a blockage of the flow of blood to the brain or a rupture of the wall of the vessel. When this occurs, a part of the brain is destroyed, possibly causing paralysis, loss of sensation or alteration of speech. However, most strokes affect only relatively small portions of the brain.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I had occasion recently to have dinner with a gentleman who is in his 80s. What impressed me most about him was the clarity of his mind. He spoke on a variety of subjects, from politics to sports, is an avid photographer, and simply enjoys living. When we said goodbye, my main thought was that it wouldn't be so bad to grow old if we could remain as sharp and clear as my dinner companion. How do you account for the fact that some people retain all their faculties to a ripe old age, while others lose theirs many years earlier? — Gladys Stroke tends to occur more often in older people because it is almost always due to arteriosclerosis. Arteriosclerosis, in turn, is associated with cigarette smoking, high cholesterol levels and high blood pressure. Fortunately, all three of these risk factors are controllable to some extent. For the prudent person, the message is clear: Stop smoking. And if high cholesterol or blood pressure levels are problems, place yourself in the hands of a competent physician for whatever treatment is indicated in the individual case.

Dear Gladys: As your experience indicates, the loss of intellectual functioning is not an inevitable characteristic of old age. Many people retain this capacity well into their 80s and even beyond.

According to Dr. Albert Heyman, professor of neurology at the Duke University Medical Center, about five percent of the population over 65 years of age suffer from Alzheimer's

Hunts fight subpoena

DALLAS (AP) — Six members of the wealthy Hunt family of Dallas have filed suit in federal court trying to block a U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission subpoena for family loan records.

The Hunts claimed making the information available would be costly, time-consuming and harmful to the family's financial position, divulging information that could be critical to the Hunts' business competitors.

SEC attorneys secured the subpoena for the agency's investigation into last summer's roller-coaster silver market prices that resulted in a precipitous drop in the price of silver from $52.20 an ounce to $10.80 an ounce in three months.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, March 4, 1981
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Actress Paula Prentiss—who is married to equally talented Richard Benjamin—was born on this day, as was the late John Garfield. A rash of Garfield movies are due to attract a whole new generation of watchers on late night TV this year. Patience and greater consideration towards others are your keys to lasting success in an interesting 1981. Love and romance travel a mostly smooth road. When faced with a roadblock, look for an alternate route! Mutual resources are subject to mixed trends. Be sure prospective partner shares your strong sense of thrift, conservation. Few things anger you more than waste!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You need to open new lines of communication at work. Decisions regarding finances should be postponed. Make the best of a difficult social situation. New opportunities merit careful consideration.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tend to routine duties before embarking on new projects. Something you say or do today makes a highly favorable impression. Be consistent when dealing with young person.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Community interests come into clearer focus. Take advantage of a rare business opportunity. Romance must find its own course. Be patient. The evening will be more enjoyable than the daytime.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Deal only in facts if negotiating new contracts. A change in personnel could result in a much more pleasant atmosphere at work. Catch up on your letter writing tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Leave your finances alone today and be wary of any new propositions. Creative hobby can be turned into a commercial venture. Contact the professionals who can help you get started.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A good day to spruce up your living quarters. A coat of paint and a little elbow grease may be all that is needed! Family member will give you a helping hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Channel your thoughts towards your regular work. Overseas contacts can provide valuable information. Make greater use of the telephone and mails. Dance or exercise class may be part of evening's plan.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Welcome the peace and quiet—this slow-paced day provides. Read about subjects that will increase your knowledge or skills. A nice promotion or pay raise is in sight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be inventive. Original ideas will receive a warm welcome if they are practical. You can benefit greatly from listening to older individual. Social life takes a pleasant turn.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Things should go well at work today. Teamwork boosts profits appreciably. Social life, group activities look promising. Member of opposite sex pays you meaningful compliment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Family affairs are easier to handle when you employ diplomacy. Some good financial luck will reduce tension. You can move up the ladder of success with greater confidence.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Personal relationship takes on new significance. Give your best at place of employment. An independent attitude is a sign of a healthy ego! Follow a strong hunch and you can increase your earnings.

While four hearts can be made double dummy (try it, if you like), in practice it could and should be defeated. All the information West needed was conveyed by the auction and his holding in spades. From the bidding, it was likely that North held a singleton spade and that, given time, declarer would be able to ruff losing spades in dummy.

West's defense, therefore, should have been designed to prevent declarer from ruffing his losers in dummy. So he should have selected a trump as his opening shot. When he got in with a spade, he could play another trump, thus limiting dummy to one spade ruff.

Unless he adopted a rather unusual line, declarer would have ended a trick short. West would simply sit back and wait for three more spade tricks to defeat the contract.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Get Home Spa today and enjoy pure water

The Home Spa water purifier is one of the simplest, easy-to-use, most efficient, trouble-free, economical water purifiers on the market today. The incredible activated carbon (charcoal) filter in the Home Spa transforms polluted, chlorinated tap water into delicious, refreshing mountain spring water for less than two cents a gallon. You no longer need to pay inflated prices for bottled water when you have a Home Spa from Acme Marketing located at 3103 E. 31st St. in Odessa.

water, you can save up to $20 a month and more with the Home Spa. House plants, pets and goldfish will thrive on Home Spa filtered water. Beans will cook up in much less time with water filtered through the activated charcoal filter in the Home Spa. Nature's water that comes through your faucet with the impurities and chlorine removed is much more healthful than distilled water with a few minerals added.

The human body is approximately 60 to 70 percent water, so it is very essential to drink good, healthful water to have and maintain good health. Soft water is excellent for your plumbing and laundering, but is hazardous to your health if used for drinking.

The Home Spa water purifier has been on the market now for a little over three years. It was invented by Leo Weiss, a nationally known filter engineer. It is made of durable polyethylene and will last for many, many years without showing wear. If it should crack, chip, leak or break within a five-year period, it will be replaced free of charge. This guarantee is in writing. Anyone not 100 percent satisfied with the performance of the Home Spa can return it for a full refund of the purchase price.

Factory suggested retail price of the Home Spa is $24.95, but West Texas residents can get the Spa for only $19.95 from Acme Marketing. Replacement filters for the Home Spa are also on sale: one for $7.95, two for $14.95 and three for only $19.95. Now is the time to stock up as the cost could double in the next two years.

Acme Marketing, Inc., at 3103 E. 31st St. in Odessa, also has filters for automatic ice makers on home refrigerators, commercial ice making machines and drinking water fountains. They not only purify ice cubes, the will also keep your ice maker from clogging up, saving huge plumbing bills. Call Tony at 367-6977 for free home delivery or more information.

Acme Marketing, Inc. is also a local distributor for DMSO, Dimethyl Sulfoxide (99.9 percent undiluted) as seen on "60 Minutes."

Student files suit

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A University of Maryland sophomore has filed a $5,000 suit alleging that the school failed to grant basic board services including safe showering facilities for dormitory residents last fall. The suit, filed by Jeffrey T. Winans against resident life director Richard P. Stimpson, claims that showers in a university dormitory were not provided on a continual basis and health and safety violations in that building went unremedied despite frequent requests.

Davis Photo Service Inc. offers lifetime quality

The professionals at Davis Fast Photo Service Inc. in the Town & Country Shopping Center can get you your color pictures in a hurry — with quality to last a lifetime. Troy Davis, owner of Davis Fast Photo, has been a professional photographer in West Texas a number of years. In December, Davis opened Midland's first true "quick prints" shop featuring film developing and printing with one-hour service. How can he do it so fast? Davis owns one of 12 brand new, complete photo finishing machines called a C-41 Processor. This new machine can develop color negatives and process a roll of prints in less than one hour's time — at no extra cost. The most modern processing equipment available, the C-41 Processor is commanding so much attention from photo professionals Davis says there is a three-year waiting list on orders. A completely color-balanced machine, the C-41 Processor is checked for accuracy daily. Able to develop 35mm film, as well as 126 and 110, the processor produces quality glossy prints that you will want to keep for a lifetime. And Davis Fast Photo can do reprints of color negatives in one hour as well. Beginning this week, Davis Fast Photo will offer black & white development with one-day service. And Davis Fast Photo does passport photos while you wait — about a minute. Instant color-passport photos done to the specifications of the U.S. Government. Davis Fast Photo is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Stop by and see them at the Town & Country Shopping Center, across from Furr's Cafeteria.

Phillips: 'Campbell will play'

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

New Orleans Saints head coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips, in Midland Monday night as featured speaker at the Midland "Texas Exes" Texas Independence Day Celebration feast, held a press conference at the airport and expressed his views on several matters.

Phillips predicted that Earl Campbell will not be a holdout in the upcoming 1981 football season.

Phillips, the former Houston Oilers coach, said that Campbell has a contract and he believes that Campbell will honor it.

ASKED IF Campbell would follow him to New Orleans, Phillips answered, "He can't do that, first of all. He can't play anywhere but Houston and the Oilers aren't about to let him go. They may give up the Astro dome and everything else but they wouldn't give up Earl Campbell."

"I don't think he will sit out," the coach added. "I think he will play. He might not be as happy as he might be if they renegotiated, but at the same time, he'll play."

Concerning the upcoming college draft, Phillips said, "We (the Saints) have 18 picks and with a team that went 1-15 last year we need help everywhere." Phillips added, "We have the No. 1 pick, but I don't know if we will keep it or trade. We have had George Rogers (South Carolina Hiesman Trophy running back) down for a physical and talked to him but I don't know if we really need help at running back. In the early rounds we will probably draft for defensive help."

Archie Manning, Saints starting quarterback, had been making retirement noise since the end of last season but Phillips stated, "Manning has been working out four days a week."

PHILLIPS SAID that many of the Saints' problems last season were psychological rather than physical. "I think morale has been the major problem with the Saints, they went 9-7, 8-8 and were hoping for a good season in 1980 and then went 1-15. I don't care what happened in the past, I'm only interested in what happens now."

When asked if Phillips could produce a winner next year he replied, "Perhaps, but what is more important is how many games we win three years from now. The only goal I have right now is to take the team and get it on the right track."

Phillips added, "The Saints have good fans, they have been supporting a losing football team. They averaged about 60,000 a game last year. It's easy to fill the stadium when your team is winning but not when you are losing. I hope they will realize that we did not turn things around in Houston overnight it's going to take some time."

A few years ago when the head football coaching position was open at Odessa High, Phillips said, "My wife's first cousin was superintendent and I'm sure I could have gotten the job but I never applied for it. I wasn't sure I could move from a small school with one assistant to a 4A school with a seven man staff." Phillips went on to say, "I wouldn't want to coach in high school any more. You have to have important games to spur you on. In high school they don't have the Super Bowl."

When asked if New Orleans fans would accept his cowboy hat, boots and laid back style, Phillips said, "Boots and hat don't make a good football team. I am just as good as my team and if we don't win I'm not so relaxed."

Georgia Tech may fire Morrison

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech athletic officials say it's not true that head basketball Coach Dwane Morrison has been fired, but published reports quote university sources as saying he won't be returning next season.

The Atlanta Journal and the Atlanta Constitution quoted sources as saying the decision was made at a board meeting Monday to fire the man who steered the Yellow Jackets to a dismal 4-22 record this season.

The papers said Athletic Director Homer Rice had recommended termination of Morrison's contract, which still had one year remaining.

"The athletic board met this morning at its regular March meeting but I've heard no announcement of any firing," said John Culver, assistant vice president for institute relations and development.

Rice said no decision had been made, although he acknowledged that he did meet with the athletic board.

"When there's a decision made either way, we will get it out right away. We won't sit on it. I don't believe in sitting on things like this," he said.

"All I did was meet with the board," Rice continued. "We discussed the basketball program. I can't deny that. I just can't say much more than that at this time."

The Tech basketball team, in addition to losing 22 of 26 games, finished the regular season 0-14 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Morrison, who was hired in 1973, would not comment on the report.

Tech's season is likely to end Thursday, when the Yellow Jackets face powerful Virginia in the first round of the ACC tournament. Morrison will coach that game.

The Constitution said players acknowledged that Morrison told them Saturday a coaching change was under consideration.

"Morrison said Homer Rice and (university President) Dr. (Joseph) Pettit had informed him they want to make a coaching change," said guard Brook Steppe, who has been practicing with the team this season but has not played due to academic ineligibility.

Midlander is 6th in PBA tourney

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Consistency was the key for Richard Hartman of Alton, Ill. who took the first-round lead in the $135,000 Professional Bowlers Association National Championship Monday.

Hartman rolled seven of eight games over the 200 mark at the Imperial Lanes for a 227 average and a total of 1,818.

Steve Martin of Kingsport, Tenn., was second with 1,815. Martin highlighted the day with a 285 round in his fourth game. Midland's Charles Lacy was sixth with 1,768 pins.

Gary Dickinson, Burleson, Texas, gained third place with a total of 1,775, followed by Mark Roth of Spring Lake Heights, N.J., in fourth with 1,773, and Tommy Hudson, Akron, the winner of the 1977 National Championship, in fifth at 1,772.

Leading money winner Marshall Holman, Medford, Ore. fired a 1,748 and stood tenth.

One third of the 360-man field remained to bowl the first round.

MC men place fourth

AUSTIN — Midland College's men's golf team finished fourth out of 17 teams at the Great Hill Golf Tournament held in Austin over the weekend.

McLennan College won the tournament with a score of 580 while the Chaparrals finished with a two-round total of 597.

Leading MC in the final round was Tom Spillman with a 74. Other Midland golfers and their final round scores were Bruce Carroll 75, Steve Goetmann 77, David Waszak 77, Doug Dabbs 81 and Dean Hulsey 81.

MC holds down eighth place

BRYAN — The Midland College women's golf team held onto eighth place here Monday in the second round of the 54-hole Texas A&M Women's Invitational golf tournament at Briarcrest Country Club.

After 36 holes, A&M leads the meet with 604, nine strokes ahead of TCU and 13 ahead of SMU. The Chaps own a two-day 658 heading into today's last round.

MC is two strokes ahead of Texas Tech, prompting coach Susan Holland to say, "This is the first time in Midland College's history that we have been ahead of Tech at any point in any tournament. I was pleased with that."

Michelle Wilks leads MC with 160 after two days while Wendy Swift owns a 161. Both have rounds of 77. Debra Kargetta has a 162 after a 79 Monday and is followed by Debroah Latham 182 and Sheryl Bunton 184.

Other teams ahead of MC include Lamar 637, UTA 639, Oklahoma 647 and Houston Baptist 652. Houston Baptist moved ahead of MC and Texas Tech Monday.

Bulldogs win 1981 opener

Mark Hewitt throws strikes to 14 Snyder Tigers

SNYDER — The Midland High Bulldogs made an unexpected trip to Moffitt Field here Monday for their 1981 baseball opener, but the results couldn't have been better if they had played at home as scheduled.

The arm of Mark Hewitt carried the Bulldogs to a 3-1 victory as the senior combined an assortment of curves and fastballs for an impressive 14 strikeouts, four-hit and one walk performance.

The game had been scheduled for the Memorial Stadium diamond, but was switched Monday morning to Snyder because of a wet field. Snyder had not received the moisture that fell on Midland.

The change didn't seem to bother Hewitt as he dominated the Tigers. He made only one mistake in the fifth inning when he gave up a homer to Snyder's Mike Roemisch.

"Mark just pitched an excellent game and we knew we would need a big game from him since Snyder was using Tony DeGrate, who is one of the best pitchers around," MHS coach Tim Whalen stated. "We had only three hits, but two of them were for extra bases. The pitching is definitely ahead of the hitting right now."

The Bulldogs jumped to a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Jerry Zachery opened the frame with a single. Hewitt brought Zachery home with a run and hit double.

In the fifth, the Bulldogs got the winning run on the feet of pinch hitter Benny Ozuna. Ozuna doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice by Fabian Ramos and scored when the Tigers threw the ball away.

The Tigers got the homer from Roemisch in the bottom of the fifth to keep the game close, but Snyder gave away another run in the sixth when Zachery and Hewitt reached safely on errors. Zachery scored from third on a Kyle Ford grounder when Snyder tried to go for a double play.

3A Dimmitt shocks 'Dogs in warmup

LEVELLAND — Midland High's 17-game basketball winning streak came to an end here Monday night as the Bulldogs dropped a 67-63 decision to the Dimmitt Bobcats, who are ranked as the No. 2 AAA team in the state.

The loss leaves the No. 9 ranked 5A Bulldogs at 31-4 for the season while Dimmitt is 32-2. The game was a warmup for both teams before next week's bi-district playoffs. Midland High will meet 20-12 Denton at 8 p.m. Monday at Abilene's Moody Coliseum. Dimmitt is to face No. 1 Perryton in a classic bi-district matchup next week.

"We did not play very well," said MHS coach Jack Stephenson. "I don't know if it was because we were playing a 3A school or if it was a letdown. But Dimmitt is a very good basketball team. They have two of the finest guards we have seen and they shot the eyes out of the basket. I know one thing, they could compete in our district."

"We were dead-legged and I don't think any of our kids performed to their capability. The fortunate thing is that we can come back and practice and you always hope it will give the kids a new perspective. We can't have any more games like that."

Washington led Dimmitt with 24 points while Cleveland, both guards, had 16. Dimmitt also got 10 each from Watts and King.

Herbert Johnson led MHS with 26 points while Michael Feldt had 11 and Horace Brown 10. Mike Velasco and Booker Mackey both fouled out of the game and Stephenson said, "That really hurt us because it took away our quickness from their quickness."

Dimmitt led 38-36 at the half, but the Bulldogs stormed to a 51-46 lead at the end of the third period. But Velasco and Mackey were on the bench in the fourth quarter while Cleveland and Washington helped outscore the Bulldogs 21-12 in the final period.

Midland High was called for 25 fouls during the contest while Dimmitt was called for only 12. Dimmitt won at the free throw line by a 21-15 margin.

Midland High (63): Velasco, 1-0-2; Feldt, 4-3-11; Bartley, 1-0-2; Mackey, 0-0-0; Parker, 0-0-0; Brown, 1-2-3; Morrell, 2-0-0; Miller, 2-0-0; Sharnowski, 2-0-1; Johnson, 8-10-26. Totals: 24-15-62.

Dimmitt (67): Cleveland, 4-8-18; Nino, 2-3-7; Smith, 0-0-0; Watts, 3-1-10; Washington, 9-6-24; King, 5-0-3. Totals: 23-12-67.

Oregon State nears cage poll perfection

By The AP

Perfect may be the only word that can describe top-ranked Oregon State's season. Well, almost.

Oregon State missed perfection by a single point Monday as Ralph Miller's cagers retained the No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press college basketball poll. The Beavers, 25-0 and the only major undefeated team in college basketball, collected 60-of-61 first-place votes and 1,219 points of a possible 1,220.

"One by one we're accomplishing all the goals we set for ourselves," Miller said after Oregon State defeated No. 13 UCLA 82-76 last Sunday to clinch at least a tie for the Pac 10 title.

"Naturally I'm pleased," added Miller who is in his 11th season at OSU. "I'd have to say this is my best team at Oregon State. We should be in good shape for the (NCAA) playoffs because we have used a lot of people this year and our players are pretty well rested."

Guerrilla spokesman hints Bitterman was executed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A spokesman for the guerrillas who kidnaped Bible translator Chester Bitterman on Jan. 19 hinted that the Lancaster, Pa., man accused of being a CIA spy has been executed.

But the anonymous spokesman, whose claim to speak for the guerrillas could not be confirmed, refused Monday night to say outright that Bitterman is dead or to offer proof that he is alive.

The spokesman talked by telephone with a dozen reporters summoned to a Protestant minister's office in Bogota. He was asked to send the reporters a photograph of the missing American with a current newspaper in the picture to prove he is alive.

"I can't send any proof that he is still living," the spokesman replied. "Sending new photos isn't possible. Perhaps photos taken previously."

But asked if the 28-year-old Bitterman had been killed, the spokesman said: "I can't confirm that."

The minister who arranged the telephone interview, the Rev. Alfredo Torres, had been an intermediary between the kidnapers and the Summer Institute of Linguistics, the Bible-translating organization with which Bitterman was associated.

He said that because of the refusal to send proof that Bitterman is alive, he got the impression that he is dead. But other people kidnaped by leftists in Colombia have been held for many months and then set free. One U.S. Peace Corps member was held for three years without word of his fate and then released last year.

Torres previously received photos of Bitterman in captivity, some of his personal belongings and letters and tape recordings to his wife. The minister said he negotiated for several weeks with the man who spoke with the reporters Monday night.

The reporters talked one-by-one with the kidnapers' spokesman. He refused to be pinned down on Bitterman's fate, but talked as if he were dead.

"It wasn't us, but the Summer Institute of Linguistics that decided the fate of Bitterman," he said, apparently referring to the guerrillas' previous claim that the institute refused to negotiate or to meet their ransom demands.

The kidnapers said previously they were dissident members of the April 19 Movement, Colombia's most active urban guerrilla group, who broke with the front's leaders because they were getting soft. They charged that the linguistics institute is a CIA front and said Bitterman would be executed if it did not leave Colombia. The institute rejected the demand.

The spokesman also read a communique which said the guerrillas rejected an offer of ransom money from the institute "because we can't sell the nation's sovereignty," Torres said. Mrs. Bitterman has her own negotiator and offered an undisclosed amount to the guerrillas.

The communique also denied a report that negotiations for Bitterman's release are continuing.

Bitterman was kidnaped at the institute's guest house in Bogota. He had come to the Colombian capital from the institute's remote field headquarters for a gallbladder operation. In April he was to have started his first field assignment, living with a tribe of Indians with no written language.

The institute's linguists learn little-known languages and translate the Bible.

Million greet Mardi Gras parade

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A million partygoers greeted Fat Tuesday today with costumed revelry and plenty of spirit as the Mardi Gras festival ended with the traditionally ornate parades that foreshadow an Ash Wednesday hangover of headachs and littered streets.

Twenty-three of the former American hostages in Iran were in town for the festivities and a French Quarter hotel balcony was reserved so that nine ex-hostage Marines could watch today's parades above the throng.

But as the celebration wound down the city's streets, police were investigating the shooting of two young men.

Ray Johnson, 17, shot through the cheek and neck as he led the St. Augustine High School band in the Krewe of Bacchus parade Sunday night, was in good condition at a hospital. A bystander, John Barker, 20, of Plaquemines, was also in good condition with a gunshot wound to the groin.

City police detective John Walters, 30, was suspended without pay Monday, accused of discharging his weapon in violation of department rules. No criminal charges were filed in the incident.

The most prestigious of today's parades, the last of five dozen to roll through New Orleans and its suburbs, was sponsored by the Krewe of Rex, whose king was to raise his goblet six times along the parade route to toast various celebrities, including the former hostages and Mayor Ernest Morial. More than a million people were expected to line the parade route.

Rex follows the Krewe of Zulu, a black group that was formed to ridicule the white Carnival krewes and now has a splashy and expensive parade as any. Also on tap was a parade by the Mardi Gras Indians, who don headdresses and warpaint.

At least eight other parades were rolling in the suburbs. Mardi Gras is the climax of the pre-Lent revelry that begins on Twelfth Night, soon after Christmas. It ends with Ash Wednesday, the start of Lent, a season of abstinence for various Christian groups.

In between, there are flashy costumes and overindulgence, and tension in the crowds is not uncommon. One band this year wound up with half of its brass horns battered and bent after an altercation with spectators who said they were jabbed by trombone slides.

"It gets worse every year," said Johnson. "They throw beer on you. They throw doubloons and beads down our instruments."

The shooting followed a scuffle on the parade route, some distance behind the floats carrying Sgt. John D. McKeel and eight other Marines who had been held hostage in Iran for 444 days.

The scuffle broke out when a chaperone tried to push crowds back from the parade route for the passing of the St. Augustine band, according to Robert Pavlak, assistant principal of the school.

Police said they were still trying to determine what happened in the shooting.

"We don't know whether it was accidental or intentional," said Sgt. Don Joly, chief spokesman for the police department.

"What actually started this is always a problem every year," Pavlak said. "Crowds push out to get to the floats, and the bands come in and they're wider than the floats, so they have to be moved back."

"There was a man who wouldn't move," Johnson remembered as he lay in his hospital bed. "He and our chaperone exchanged words and they began to push and shove."

"I saw he had a drink in his hand. ... He had a gun in an open holster and he pulled it. Our chaperone tried to get it from him. There was a scuffle. I heard the noise and saw the sparks, and then I felt the pain."

South Korean president stresses national security

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chun Doo-hwan reaffirmed his commitment to a four-point reform program today, but said the goals were meaningless "unless our national security is unflinchingly preserved."

In an inaugural address kicking off his seven-year term, Chun referred to the "volatile situations surrounding the Korean peninsula," and said the "grim bleakness of life" in the communist North is without parallel.

Chun said he had previously proposed as national goals the development of a viable democracy, the construction of a welfare state, the realization of a just society and the promotion of innovative education and culture.

"I will devote my best efforts to these four major goals during my tenure," he said, while adding that "the overriding importance of national security must be indelibly ingrained in our minds."

Chun said freedom from war should mean not only the prevention of war, but also the absence of the fear of war.

"This requires the attainment of a lasting peace on the Korean peninsula and the normalization of living conditions for all the Korean people, eventually leading to a peaceful unification," he said.

Korea was divided following World War II in what was to have been a temporary partition, but the decision resulted in a deep split and a continuing confrontation.

Chun repeated his proposal for an exchange of visits by the top leaders of the south and north.

Chun said the Korean people seek freedom from the threat of war, poverty, political repression and abuses of power.

"I want to make it clear that all my ability and all my heart will be devoted to attaining the freedoms all Koreans have yearned for so long," he said.

"The key to freedom from political repression and abuses of power is faithful compliance with the constitution and the other laws of this land," he continued.

"I want to emphasize that while the government should set an example of abiding by the laws of the country, it is equally important that all citizens obey them.

"The rule of law cannot prevail if individuals violate the laws they do not like, or if citizens feel no pangs of conscience when they do so."

Amnesty International accused the South Korean government Monday of torture, unfair trials and misuse of the death penalty, but the South Korean Embassy in London said the allegations were "totally groundless" and "ill advised."

"Any attempt to interfere with due process of law in the Republic of South Korea will be unacceptable and unproductive," the embassy said. "It will help only those who wish to undermine the stability and progress of the Korean people."

Alberta cuts oil production; protests Ottawa's tax policy

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada imposed an additional tax of about two cents a gallon on all oil products Monday because of production cutbacks by Alberta, Energy Minister Marc Lalonde announced in the House of Commons.

He said the action by the federal government was necessary because of Alberta's "regrettable" decision Sunday to reduce production immediately by 100,000 barrels a day. Over the next three months the reduction is expected to average 60,000 barrels a day.

He added that the tax could be increased if Alberta fulfills threats to cut production even more later in the year.

Western Alberta Province has a capacity of 1.2 million barrels a day and produces about 90 percent of Canada's domestic oil supply. Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed had warned of the cutback last October in response to the federal government's energy pricing and tax policies.

The budget presented at that time by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberal Party government would nearly double oil prices by 1983.

Power lost

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Several thousand residential customers and the Sheppard Air Force Base lost electrical power about 8:30 p.m. Friday night when a substation of the Texas Electric Service Co. apparently malfunctioned.

The blackout extended from the north to south sides of the city and included a portion of the eastside. Several sections of downtown Wichita Falls were without power from about 8:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. Power was still off in other sections of the city half an hour later.

Under the new formula, out of each $1-per-barrel increase, Alberta's share would drop from 45 to 43 cents and the federal government's share would go from 10 to 24 cents. The remainder would go to the oil companies, most of which are American owned.

Lalonde said the increased tax would amount to half a Canadian cent a liter, or about 75 Canadian cents a barrel. A liter is slightly larger than a quart and the Canadian dollar is worth about 83 U.S. cents.

Lalonde told reporters the new levy would be rescinded if Alberta resumed normal production, but might be increased if the province carried out its threat to cut production an additional 60,000 barrels a day in June and another 60,000 barrels a day starting in September.

In that case, the levy could increase to as much as 1.5 cents a liter by September, he said.

Some legislators immediately accused the Liberals of breaking their promise to keep oil-price increases this year to $4.50 per barrel. The tax hike puts the total at $5.25 so far. John Crosbie, finance minister in the former Progressive Conservative government, said in an interview there was no immediate need for the levy because the effects of Alberta's cuts "are weeks and months away."

Lalonde, in a document distributed in Parliament, said the government would consider applications for special compensation from eastern refiners forced to pay extra to obtain foreign supplies to replace Alberta oil.

It said that because of the Alberta cuts, it will cost almost $1.5 million a day to subsidize eastern refiners for the difference between the price of domestic and imported oil so the cost of fuel will be uniform throughout the country.

Imported oil costs about $43 a barrel, double the cost of domestic crude.

In Edmonton, Alberta Energy Minister Merv Leitch said his province was making oil available at "fire-sale" prices while the levy would be going to pay for foreign oil purchased at twice the price.

"I find it pretty difficult to understand how consumers can say this is Alberta's fault," he said.

Several legislators urged that the federal government initiate moves to get stalled negotiations going again with Alberta on the federal oil tax and price formula.

The well is a northwest offset to the Kemp (Canyon and Fry) field and is the second producer in the pay. It is located 1,533 feet from the north and 3,830 feet from the eastlines of section 21, block 2, H&TC survey, three miles west of Roby.

IRION COUNTY
Texas Oil and Gas Co. Midland has reported two completions, one in Canyon D and the other in the Dove Creek multipay.

No. 5 Jones "K" was completed for 200 barrels of 42 gravity oil, with 10 barrels of water and a gas-oil ratio of 2,500-1. Production was through a 3/8 inch choke with perforations at 6,365 to 6,466. The well was acidized with 5,000 gallons and fractured with 50,000 gallons and 75,000 pounds.

Total depth is 6,600 feet with 4 1/2 inch casing at 6,594 feet, plugged back to 6,520 feet.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 24, block 20, H&TC survey. Ground elevation is 2,270 feet.

No. 1 Winterbotham "J" finished for a calculated absolute open flow of 13,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The gas-liquid ratio was 160,357-1, with condensate gravity of 70.5 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 5,739 to 6,339 feet, acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 70,000 gallons and 124,000 pounds.

The location of the well is 660 feet from the most westerly westline and 660 from the most northerly north line of section 1, CPI&M survey. Ground elevation is 2,248 feet. The project is 1 1/2 miles southeast of Mertzon in the multipay Dove Creek area.

MENARD COUNTY

Tucker Drilling Co. No. 1 Pfluger "A" has been completed to pump 27.3 barrels of 33.3 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 581-1. Production was through perforations at 2,912 to 2,925 feet, acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 24,000 gallons and 35,000 pounds.

Total depth is 3,150 feet with 4 1/2 inch casing set at 3,128.

Location is 2,280 feet from south and 2,173 feet from east lines of F. Rau survey No. 8 and 1/2 mile south of an undesignated lower Straun discovery. It is also 7/8 of a mile southwest of the lone well in the Celery (Straun B) field.

NOLAN COUNTY

The third producer in the Vogan (Straun reef) field as Aminol USA, Inc. has completed No. 1 Redway, to pump 118 barrels of 39.6 gravity oil, with 300 barrel of water. Gas-oil ratio is 305-1.

Production was through perforations at 6,649 to 6,683 feet, washed with 1,500 gallons.

The project is two miles northwest of Roscoe, which has two wells in the same field. Location is 467 feet from north and 1,860 feet from west lines of section 33, block 23, T&P survey.

STERLING COUNTY

Coastal Oil and Gas Corp. of Midland has plugged and abandoned its No. 1-40 Reed Trust. The failure is located 1/2 mile west of the depleted Iolanthe field which produced at 8,200 feet. The total depth of the project was 9,000 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 40, block 2, H&TC survey.

TEXAS BRIEFS

Group OKs higher lid for loan interest rate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A 30 percent limit on loan interest rates is either a consumer protection act or legalized loan sharking, depending on which legislator is doing the talking. Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, sponsored the bill to create a floating ceiling pegged to the rate of six-month treasury bills, with an outside limit of 30 percent. The measure is needed because federal law overriding Texas' usury limits expires April 1, 1983, and the ceiling will revert to 1967 levels, which are entirely too low, Jones said. "The ceilings have absolutely no relation to reality," he said. "The availability of money in Texas will dry up if we keep these artificially low interest rate ceilings." According to Robert Lane of First International Bancshares, a bank-holding company, if the limits are imposed on lenders "the small borrower, the consumer borrower, will get squeezed out. Funds float to seek the highest rates available."

Request denied in Daniel hearing

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — The bitter custody battle over the two children Vickie Daniel bore the husband she is accused of slaying will be conducted here, despite pleas from defense attorneys for a delay or a move. Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, representing Mrs. Daniel, said he was not retained to handle the case until Feb. 13 and needs more time to prepare. Haynes was unsuccessful in seeking a venue change last week from the Texas Supreme Court, asking that the case be moved away from here, the Daniel home town, to Mrs. Daniel's residence in Tyler. State District Judge W.G. "Dub" Woods asked that attorneys for both sides meet with him prior to today's hearing.

Bill may improve employee morale

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' bill creating a new state personnel system could improve employee morale by taking away the rewards of apple-polishing, its House sponsor says. Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, told the House State Affairs Committee a key provision of the bill is requirement that all agencies develop yardsticks for evaluating employee performance. He said this would improve both productivity and morale, with a potential saving of tax dollars.

Nuclear waste bill wins in House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Legislation authorizing state-owned disposal sites for low-level radioactive wastes has won House committee approval after a hearing in which Texas' only licensed nuclear waste disposal company announced it was quitting the business. "It can be very serious," State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein said of Nuclear Sources and Services Inc.'s withdrawal as a disposer of Texas' radioactive waste.

'Kid' describes how he became rich

WACO, Texas (AP) — One of the "Alice rich kids" has told a civil court jury a fourth story describing how he and a friend came to be driving through Waco with $490,000 in the trunk of a brand-new Thunderbird four years ago. James Dean Bridges, 19, said he was led to dig up the money, wrapped in aluminum foil and stashed in an ice chest, because of birds scratching at the ground that covered it.

'Turtle Man' found dead in car

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Earl Lippoldt, the retired Kansas farmer who once said he spent $100,000 to help the endangered Atlantic Ridley sea turtles, apparently could not face the prospect of seeing his efforts strangled in bureaucratic red tape. A tourist found Lippoldt sitting in his station wagon 22 miles north of the city on a remote stretch of beach. Lippoldt was 56. A hose had been put over the vehicle's exhaust pipe and stretched through a window to the car's interior, said Justice of the Peace Benny Ochoa of Port Isabel, who ruled the death a suicide Wednesday.

Government takes back $1 million given to charity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is taking back $1 million of the $4 million given to four national charities to help poor people pay their heating bills.

In return, the Reagan administration is dropping efforts to get all the money back and will let the charities resume handing out the other $3 million. Paul Bloom, the lame-duck Carter administration official who started the furor by handing out the money on his last day in office, said Reagan officials decided to settle in order to get out of the embarrassing position of "shooting at Santa Claus."

Nevertheless, Eric Fygi, the Energy Department's acting general counsel, refused to say whether the department planned to try to prosecute Bloom for his action. "We have not ruled out anything at this point," Fygi said.

Reagan officials asked the charities to halt distribution of the money three weeks ago when they determined that Bloom, the department's former special counsel, had acted without authorization in giving the money to the charities to begin with.

The charities — the National Council of Churches, the Salvation Army, the National Conference of Catholic Charities and the Council of Jewish Federations — disputed this. They contended the agreement reached with Bloom was perfectly legal.

At first, the charities refused to return any money. However, they relented Monday, deciding that further legal arguments would keep poor people from getting help they desperately need this winter. "We figured extended dispute would prevent us from distributing the money in a timely fashion," said Monsignor Lawrence J. Corcoran, executive director of Catholic Charities.

The agreement means each charity will return $250,000 and keep $750,000 to distribute under terms of the agreement negotiated by Bloom.

Fygi said the $250,000 figure was an average of what each charity still had not committed to local branches for distribution to the poor. Calculating a more exact figure would require unnecessary auditing costs by the four charities, who had agreed to distribute the money without deducting any administrative overhead, Fygi said.

Sadat leads funeral for Egyptian minister

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat, appearing shaken, led a funeral procession today for Defense Minister Ahmed Badawy, a hero of the 1973 Midest war killed in a helicopter crash with 13 other top Egyptian military officers.

Walking beside Sadat in the parade were Reza Pahlavi, the self-proclaimed successor to the late Shah of Iran; Badawy's teen-aged son, and Sadat's son, Gamal. Pahlavi lives in exile in Cairo as Sadat's guest.

Badawy's coffin, draped in the red-white-and-black Egyptian flag, was carried on a horse-drawn caisson in the procession from the defense ministry headquarters in the suburb of Heliopolis. After the procession, Badawy's coffin was taken by jeep to Martyrs' Cemetery, the war-memorial graveyard where he and the other victims were being buried.

Full military honors were bestowed on Badawy, a 53-year-old lieutenant general, who was killed Monday on an inspection tour near the tense Libyan-Egyptian border.

He and the other victims were in a helicopter that reportedly struck a metal pylon after being caught in a strong gust of wind.
