Senators delay bingo bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bingo buffs are having trouble getting senators to play along with a bill to legalize their fun.

For the third week in a row, the Senate State Affairs Committee has refused to approve the measure making bingo legal for certain charitable, religious and not-for-profit organizations.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, had said he assumed a House-Senate conference committee would write the final proposal.

But at Monday's meeting the committee approved the measure only 5-3, two votes shy of the number Truan needed.

The bill was left as pending business.

It would implement a 1980 constitutional amendment by authorizing bingo games.

Warsaw Pact exercises end, European NATO sources say

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Military exercises by Warsaw Pact forces in Poland and other Soviet Bloc countries have ended after about two weeks, North Atlantic Treaty Organization sources said today.

The maneuvers were watched closely because of the touchy Polish situation.

The sources said information received at NATO headquarters indicated the exercises have stopped, but that military facilities used during the exercises were still in place.

"As far as we can tell the exercises have stopped, but some of the equipment is still in place," an official said.

The exercises, code-named Soyuz 81, were reported to have been predominantly paper exercises, in which Warsaw Pact armies could test procedures and readiness plans rather than engage in large scale military movements or simulate battles.

Sources said it was too early to tell if the structures and equipment left in place would be dismantled or used in future exercises.

"Often times, there isn't just one or two sides of a story. There are sometimes three, four or five sides to a story."

— Joe Murray

Journalist advises MC students

By SUE FAHLGREN
Staff Writer

Joe Murray, editor and publisher of the Lufkin Daily News and winner of the 1977 Pulitzer Prize, gave writing advice to journalism students at Midland College this morning in three separate speeches.

"The big story seldom comes in stamped, 'This is it! This is the big story!'" Murray warned. He said many reporters thought they could sit and wait for a big story to build their careers. "While you're sitting there waiting, you probably aren't doing your job," he said.

The message, he said, is "do the best you can on every assignment you get." Then when one of the stories becomes a major story, the reporter has already done his best.

"Prizes are so capricious," Murray said. He added a reporter shouldn't select stories just because the story may win a prize. "Prizes mean absolutely nothing — unless you win one," he grinned.

Murray quoted former Washington Post reporter Carl Bernstein as saying, "Good journalism is simply getting the best attainable version of the facts."

The Pulitzer Prize was awarded to the Lufkin newspaper for community service on a series of stories about a young Lufkin man, Lynn McClure, who was beaten to death in the Marine Corps.

"He was a young man who indeed was a misfit," Murray explained. "But somehow, he had managed to get in the Marine Corps and he had managed to get himself killed."

The story, Murray said, just "walked in the front door" one day. The man's great uncle came into the paper to get help.

"Initially I thought, just as some of you might think," Murray explained, "it does sound wrong and it does sound like something ought to be done, but it's so big and I'm just one man and this is just a newspaper — what can I do?"

He decided to let the man talk out his frustration. "He made one statement — 'They beat that boy's brains out — literally' — that changed my mind," Murray said. Even today, the phrase "makes a cold chill go down my spine," he added.

"I didn't know what one newspaper could do, but we'd do it," he said.

Ken Herman, who wrote the stories that would eventually bring national attention to military reforms, was a fresh-out-of-college journalist on his first job. Now Herman is a writer for the Associated Press, Murray said.

But he cautioned journalists not to wait for the story that would send their careers to the big leagues. "I know a lot more investigative reporters that have trench mouth rather than a trench coat," he said.

It is important, Murray said, for a reporter to get every angle on a story. "Often times, there isn't just one or two sides of a story," he said. "There are sometimes three, four and five sides to a story."

The most important thing, he said, is "get the story, get the story, get the story." Murray added reporters need not be arrogant and rude with individuals to get a tough story. "Sometimes you have to be tough," he admitted, "but sometimes you have to be nice."

He cautioned students about being scared to ask questions. "The more people you ask questions, the better the story is," he said. He added some officials try to embarrass reporters by saying, "you should already know that" in answer to a question. Murray reminded the students, "There are no stupid questions, just stupid answers."

In his earlier years, Murray said he had covered such things as Ku Klux Klan and neo-Nazi meetings. He reminded the students, "It didn't really matter how I felt — I was there to get the story."

Soviet military maneuvers ease around Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Soviet bloc military maneuvers in and around Poland were reported winding down today as another labor-government confrontation eased. The government promised to punish those responsible for the beating of union leaders 12 days ago and the independent union Solidarity called off a threatened general strike.

Sources here confirmed reports out of NATO headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, that the two-week-old East bloc exercises were over. The NATO sources said the facilities used for the exercises were still in place, however. The exercises were watched closely in the West for any sign of Soviet intervention in the political scene.

"Common sense and moderation have won," said Solidarity leader Lech Walesa after he and Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski negotiated an agreement Monday. Walesa said he was satisfied with "70 percent of the agreement."

"Tomorrow we go to work," Andrzej Gwiazda, the No. 2 man in the 10-million-member federation, said Monday night.

Ruling on man's death awaits autopsy report

Justice of the Peace Charlie Sprayberry said today he is awaiting the results of an autopsy before making a ruling in the death of a 25-year-old Midland man found dead in his residence Monday.

The body of Michael J. Gessner, 4713 Neely, was discovered in the bedroom of his home shortly before noon. Death apparently occurred between 10 and 11 a.m.

Sprayberry said he expected preliminary autopsy results today or Wednesday.

Services for Gessner, who was employed as an air traffic controller at Midland Regional Airport, are being handled by Nannie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Council holding emergency meet

Midland City Council will hold a special emergency session at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Council Chambers.

According to City Secretary James McCullough, the council will go into executive session at that time to consider personnel matters and pending litigation.

Papal message recalls early days of church

By SAMUEL KOO
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II in a message on Christian unity called today for Christian renewal through the remembrance and re-living of the days when the Christian church was undivided.

He asked the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church to come to Rome for Pentecost, June 7, to stress "the one common faith of the Church of the whole of Christianity."

"I am impelled to write you this letter, which is both a theological reflection and a pastoral invitation coming from the depths of my heart," the pontiff said in the 22-page message. It was issued in English, French, Italian, Spanish and German.

The pope said he wrote it to commemorate the 1,600th anniversary of the First Council of Constantinople and the 1,550th anniversary of the Council of Ephesus, which defined some of the key doctrines forming the theological basis of all major Christian churches.

The church's second ecumenical council at Constantinople (now Istanbul) in 381 confirmed the divinity and power of the Holy Spirit. The third ecumenical council at Ephesus, in Turkey in 431, declared the Virgin Mary to be the mother of God.

The pope said he hoped that the commemoration of the two councils, "which were expressions of the faith taught and professed by the undivided Church, will make us grow in mutual understanding with our beloved brothers in the East and in the West."

"What indeed can more effectively hasten the journey toward that unity than the memory and, at the same time, the re-living of that which for so many centuries has been the content of the faith professed in common, indeed which has not ceased to be so, even after the sad divisions which have occurred in the course of the centuries?"

He said Christians should not only remember the councils' achievements but "must give them life with our own times and establish a deep link between them and the life and role of the church of our period."

Since his election in October 1978, John Paul often has called for stepped up efforts to unite the Christian churches.

Oscars to be broadcast tonight

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It was not an evening for celebration," said producer Norman Jewison, explaining why the Academy Awards were postponed for the third time in the awards' 53-year history.

The decision to delay the Oscar telecast 24 hours was made three hours after the attempted assassination of President Ronald Reagan on Monday and just 4 1/2 hours before the star-studded event was to begin.

Jewison conferred with Academy President Fay Kanin, host Johnny Carson and ABC network officials before deciding on the postponement.

President Reagan, a onetime movie actor, had taped a brief introduction for the program 10 days ago.

"The presidential portion of the program will be decided by the White House tomorrow morning," said Jewison.

He said the program, originally scheduled to be broadcast on ABC Monday at 10 p.m. EST, "will obviously require certain changes." He added that the introductory remarks would reflect the tragic events in Washington D.C., but the basic elements of the telecast tonight would remain the same.

The show was rescheduled to go on at the Los Angeles Music Center at 10 p.m. EST tonight.

"I think the show will be probably the same length as planned — about two hours and 15 minutes," Jewison said.

Some presenters may be absent because of previous commitments, Jewison added, but the major nominees are expected to attend the program tonight.

The academy normally spends up to $800,000 putting on the glittering Oscar program, and it was unclear what extra expense would result from the postponement.

The Academy Awards were postponed in 1938, when flooding in Los Angeles prevented the presentations, and in 1968, when the televised show was postponed three days because of the assassination of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Among the nominees who will be in the audience tonight are Robert Redford, the expected winner as director for "Ordinary People;" Robert DeNiro, the favorite as best actor for "Raging Bull;" and Sissy Spacek, who has been touted as the winner of best actress award for "Coal Miner's Daughter."

Reagan had been scheduled to introduce the awards with a brief talk. His comments touched on his having been a former member of the academy, and he had spoken of this year's theme of "Film is Forever."

Vatican makes celibacy statement

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican said today that the admittance of some married Episcopal priests in the United States to the Roman Catholic clergy does not imply any change in the Church's mandatory celibacy doctrine for priests.

The Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith issued the statement regarding the admittance of about 1,000 Episcopalians to full communion with the Catholic Church, making clear the Vatican's position for the married priests in the group was an exception.

The group, which had broken with the Episcopal Church mainly over its decision to ordain women priests, included about 65 ministers, many of them married. The Vatican agreed to admit the breakaway group last year at the request of the U.S. Catholic Bishops Conference.

"The admittance of such persons to the Catholic Church must be intended as a reconciliation of individuals who desire a full Catholic communion,"

30 rebels dead in Philippine fight

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Government soldiers killed 30 Moslem rebels on the southern island of Basilan in a battle lasting about 10 minutes, the military reported today.

It said there were no government losses in the fighting Sunday with about 100 insurgents.

In another clash on Basilan Sunday, one soldier was wounded and a rebel killed, a military field report said.

according to the requirements established by the ecumenical decree of the Second Vatican Council," the statement said.

"In accepting former Episcopalian clergy who are married into the Catholic priesthood, the Holy See has specified that this exception to the rule of celibacy is granted in favor of these individual persons, and should not be understood as implying any change in the Church's conviction of the value of priestly celibacy, which will remain the rule for future candidates for the priesthood from this group."

The statement by the Vatican congregation, the former Holy Office, said Bishop Bernard F. Law of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo., will work out proposals on the issue, which will then be submitted to the Vatican for approval.

Chinese army to clean house

PEKING (AP) — China's 3.5 million-member army is undergoing a purge of some senior officers who allegedly cling to discredited revolutionary ideas and obstruct pragmatic policies of the Communist Party, according to diplomatic sources.

The army also is undergoing a massive political re-education for all soldiers, who are told to obey the party first and not to blindly follow the politics of late party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

All new recruits now must swear allegiance to the party.

The long-rumored political purge affects an undetermined number of division-level commanders and other senior officers, said the sources, who asked not to be identified.

They said most of the officers are being transferred out of sensitive posts and regions.

Confirmation of the purge follows months of criticism and warnings that the once exalted army is not a law unto itself and must bow before the party.

Today the army has trouble finding recruits because its prestige has plummeted in the public eye and many of its special privileges have been taken away.

The army also has long supported the Maoist idea of the guerrilla people's war. In recent years it has been dismayed over the new emphasis on modern warfare.

Army leaders also are grumbling over a $2 billion budget cut.

Forecast of giant quakes rejected as bad science

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With a title like "The Jupiter Effect," it was a shoo-in to interest cult followers and sci-fi buffs.

But when its authors said the celestial phenomenon would trigger earthquakes, Californians and others with reason to worry about the shifting Earth perked up.

Seven years later, and one year before the book said the planets of the solar system would align themselves against the sun and spark a worldwide wave of earthquakes, the theory has largely been put to rest.

Serious scientists, disdainful of the hypothesis when it was first proposed in 1974, emphatically reject "The Jupiter Effect" as bad science. Even one of the two British authors has recanted.

"I have bad news for the doomsayers: the book has now been proven wrong. The whole basis of the 1982 prediction is gone," the co-author, astrophysicist John Gribbin, wrote in Omni magazine's June 1980 issue.

ONLY A CULT of determined believers insist the book's worst scenario will come to pass, bringing a flurry of quakes to California's susceptible San Andreas Fault. And Gribbin wrote the Omni article with them in mind.

"Because of the way the book has been misused by cultists who must never have read it," he said, "I want to make it clear that there is no reason now to expect any unusual seismic disturbance in 1982 from the causes given in the book."

"The Jupiter Effect," which Gribbin wrote with Stephen Plagemann, contended: "Planetary alignment is ... the key to the trigger for unusually high levels of terrestrial earthquake activity. It turns out that there will be a very rare alignment of the planets, with all of them pulling together on the sun, in the early 1980s, and becoming most potent in 1982.

The idea is that the combined gravitational forces of the nine planets will be aimed at the sun, where the resulting tidal forces would spark extraordinary solar activity.

This activity, in turn, would greatly increase the number of charged particles streaming from the sun, known as the solar wind. This flood of subatomic particles racing toward Earth would cause such turbulence in the atmosphere that the Earth's rotation would be changed slightly.

That, the book contends, "will agitate regions of geologic instability into life. There will be many earthquakes, large and small, around susceptible regions of the globe."

Scientists flatly reject almost every point in that scenario, beginning with "the grand alignment" or what some people have called "the ultimate syzygy." Syzygy is the configuration of the sun, Earth and moon or planets in a straight line.

SIMILAR ALIGNMENTS of the planets occur about once every 179 years, so "it is something that has happened periodically and none of these things have ever been proven to actually have occurred," said Kenneth Seidelmann, director of the U.S. Naval Observatory's Nautical Almanac Office.

"I don't think it's going to have any impact," Seidelmann said, adding that at the time the planets are supposed to be lined up they'll actually be spread over much of the sky.

The closest alignment will be on March 10, 1982, he said. But on that day, if the sun were at the center of a giant clock, Neptune would be at about 11:30, the Earth at about 3:15, with the others scattered in between.

Gravity, the force that keeps the planets orbiting the sun and the moon orbiting the Earth, decreases very quickly with distance. Thus the moon has a much stronger influence on Earth than distant Jupiter, which is 24,000 times as massive as the moon.

Gravity from even the most favorable planetary alignment, scientists say, would be 20,000 times weaker on the sun than the influence of the moon on Earth.

"As far as (the alignment) having any physical effect on the sun, it's very doubtful," Seidelmann said.

Moreover, he said, there is no evidence that increased solar activity does much more than interfere with radio signals and create the visual phenomenon known as the Northern Lights.

And the Earth's rotation rate already varies by as much as a few thousandths of a second, but such changes don't fit any seismic patterns.

"Probably the most severe change we know of was in 1896 and we can't match that or correlate that with anything," including planetary alignments, solar activity or earthquake activity, Seidelmann said.

Gribbin, in his Omni article called "Jupiter's Noneffect," said he and Plagemann had based their theory on two lines of evidence.

He cited a 1971 study that "suggested a small but significant increase in seismic activity at the time of maximum solar activity," which occurs roughly every 11 years. Other scientists, however, deny such a link exists.

Gribbin said other evidence indicated that when the sun is most active, changes may occur in the Earth's atmosphere and perhaps even in the planet's rotation rate.

Armadillo lobby returns to Capitol

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The armadillo lobby, two years wiser to the ways of the Legislature, returned to the Capitol on Monday.

In 1979 they failed to get lawmakers to declare the armadillo the state mammal. House members voted for the idea, but senators did not approve the resolution.

"We had a lot of help in the House," said Greg Lado, a seventh-grader at Wells Middle School in Houston, "but not enough in the Senate. They were having problems with Killer Bees."

Senate action was stalled in 1979 by a walkout by 12 senators, dubbed the Killer Bees.

Rep. Don Henderson, sponsoring the armadillo resolution again this year, told the House Committee on Rules on Monday, "the Senate, having no sense of humor, didn't see it our way and chose not to adopt a state mammal last session."

Henderson, R-Houston, said Oak Creek Elementary School students, some who have moved on to Wells, came to him with the idea. They wanted the armadillo honored.

"The armadillo lobby is a powerful lobby and it's become a statewide lobby," he said. "I couldn't resist the pressure."

"They don't even have a PAC," he said, referring to the political action committees set up by many lobbies to make campaign contributions.

What the armadillo lobby does have is cookies — "ginger dillos."

The lobby has a specific critter in mind for state mammal, said Henderson.

"Not just any armadillo but the nine-banded armadillo. They've got the seven-banded armadillo in South America, but we won't talk about that today," Henderson said.

The student lobbyists easily swayed the committee, which unanimously recommended House approval.

The armadillo is the perfect state mammal because it represents all Texans, not just some, like the longhorns, mustangs or cougars used as mascots by universities, according to the students.

Donna Snow of Wells Middle School, wearing her cheerleader outfit, said "I want to cheer for the nine-banded armadillo."

"Texans and armadillos get along real well," she said.

Jane Allen, 12, presented a bit of a problem when she took the witness chair. Chairman Brad Wright, R-Houston, looked at her armadillo costume and began to issue the oath.

Lawyer testifies against trade act exemptions

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorneys ought to have to live up to their advertised claims and should not be exempted from the state's Deceptive Trade Practices Act, lawyer Joe Longley testified to a legislative committee.

Pointing to attorney ads in the telephone book's Yellow Pages, Longley said, "These are not unlike used car ads."

And he told the Senate Economic Development Committee that if lawyers misled clients, "there should be a cause of action against these folks for deceptive trade practices."

Despite Longley's testimony, committee members voted 6-1 to favorably report Sen. Ike Harris' bill exempting certified public accountants, architects, dentists, engineers and physicians from the Deceptive Trade Practices Act of 1973.

"It was never intended to include the learned professions," said Harris, R-Dallas, whose bill was sent to the Senate floor for further action.

The act allows consumers to sue for false or misleading claims. Harris, a lawyer, said professionals can be sued for malpractice, and therefore should not be under the trade practices act. Some professions, including lawyers, have grievance committees to hear consumer complaints.

Sharon Stagg, a Houston lawyer and board member with the Texas Association of Defense Counsel, said professionals "in the business of making judgment calls" should not be made to be "guarantors" of their opinions. She favored Harris' bill.

The act punishes professionals for "failure to make that opinion come true," she said.

Houston architect Ben Frank Worley testified for the bill. He said the Deceptive Trade Practices Act "changes the way architects have to do business in Texas."

The Texas Supreme Court recently upheld a deceptive trade practice verdict against a Houston lawyer who mishandled a client's name change case.

Police may have caused wife's bruises

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Bruises suffered by Vickie Daniel on the night her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., was fatally shot could have come from a scuffle with ambulance attendants who had to restrain the hysterical Mrs. Daniel, an attorney has suggested.

Mrs. Daniel, who charges she was beaten by her husband before he was fatally shot on Jan. 19, had a 2-inch bruise across on her left forehead and two smaller bruises on her left arm and forearm, according to testimony Monday by Dr. Jerry Bunce.

"Could a person who had been in a scuffle with ambulance attendants suffer similar bruises on her arms and a tenderness about the wrist?" asked J.D. "Zeke" Zbraneck, an attorney for Jean Daniel Murph, who is seeking custody of Mrs. Daniel's two children.

Bunce replied it was possible.

Ambulance attendants testified earlier they had to physically restrain Mrs. Daniel when they arrived the family home shortly after the shooting.

Mrs. Daniel, who is charged with murder in the case, was hospitalized five days following the shooting.

Zbraneck called Bunce, Mrs. Daniel's physician for the past 10 years, to tell about the 21 times Mrs. Daniel visited his office during her stormy 4-year marriage to Daniel.

Bunce testified he had never discovered bruises on Mrs. Daniel on any of the 21 visits. Under cross-examination by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, Mrs. Daniel's attorney, Bunce testified Mrs. Daniel had been required to disrobe at only one of the visits.

Bunce also testified Mrs. Daniel became agitated when he told her June 19, 1979, that she was pregnant. The physician said Mrs. Daniel told him she was concerned because her husband did not want any more children and had earlier forced her to have an abortion.

"I believe she was upset because she had never talked about any problems at home before," Bunce testified. "She made me promise not to tell anyone she had had an abortion."

"She actually got up and came over and looked at the chart to make sure I didn't write anything down," he said.

Bunce said Mrs. Daniel was in state of hysteria when he examined her the night of the shooting. In answer to a question by Zbraneck, Bunce admitted a trained person might be able to fake hysteria but he did not think Mrs. Daniel was faking.

The only other witness to testify Monday in the 11th day of the trial was attorney Houston Daniel, 35, brother of the former legislator.

Although Mrs. Daniel has testified her husband was an excessive drinker, Houston Daniel said he had seen his brother drunk only once and that was when the two were in college together.

Vote fraud scandal hits Valley

MCCALLEN, Texas (AP) — Large-scale voter registration fraud — including registrations by residents of Reynosa, Mexico, just across the U.S.-Mexico border — has been uncovered here, Mayor Othal Brand says.

The mayor told a news conference Monday that the FBI, Attorney General Mark White and Secretary of State George Shaker had been notified of his findings.

Brand, running for re-election Saturday, said computer cross-checks of voters showed about 500 pairs of duplicate listings.

"I don't think we've scratched the surface," he said.

The voter affidavit forms for the questioned registrations will be given to Hidalgo County District Attorney Robert Salinas, the mayor said.

Brand said he discovered the possible irregularities when he obtained official voter lists to use in his re-election campaign.

In printouts listed by precinct and in alphabetical order, Brand said he found persons registered twice in the same precinct. Some registrations were later traced to vacant lots or to business addresses, he added.

Hinckley looked like a man down on his luck

By JOE STROOP
Associated Press Writer

The shabbily dressed young fellow "looked like a man down on his luck" when he came to G.I. Joe's Pawn Shop in Denver to hock his guitar and typewriter before heading out of town.

Clerk Brent Morris, who waited on him, recalled Monday that the man had asked for directions to the bus stop.

Three weeks later, John Warnock Hinckley Jr., a troubled 25-year-old who had wandered from city to city trying new jobs, was in Washington charged with trying to kill the president of the United States.

What brought this son of a devout Christian oilman to the Washington Hilton? What drove this college dropout to allegedly open fire on Ronald Reagan Monday with a $47 "Saturday Night Special"?

Today these are questions without definite answers.

Harold Covington, leader of a neo-Nazi group, the National Socialist Party of America, said that Hinckley was a member of the group, but left in the summer of 1979 because "he felt that we were not sufficiently militant for him."

"He wanted us to go out and commit unlawful acts," Covington said. "We sort of carried on a debate about it."

Covington described Hinckley as "fairly intelligent. Hinckley was a cut above average. He struck me as a sincere person who felt something had to be done."

It is known that Hinckley has long-standing psychological problems and recently had been under psychiatric care. But "his evaluation didn't alert anyone to the seriousness of his condition," his parents in Evergreen, Colo., said in a statement.

"John was simply what you would call their loner," an unidentified family friend told the Dallas Morning News. "They only talked about him in the way parents would when they hoped their individualist would come around and become one of the gang."

It is also known is that he was arrested in Nashville, Tenn., on Oct. 9 when he tried to board an American Airlines jetliner with three guns and 50 rounds of ammunition in his suitcase.

President Carter was visiting Nashville that day, but there was no apparent link between the arrest and the president's arrival, police said Monday. Hinckley later forfeited $62,500 cash bond on the state charges.

The Secret Service said Hinckley was not listed among the 400 people it considers to be the most likely potential assassins or among the 25,000 less likely assassins.

Four days after his arrest in Nashville, Hinckley went to Rocky's Pawn Shop in Dallas and bought two .22-caliber revolvers, reportedly for $47 each.

Monday the FBI said one of those guns, which it described as a "Saturday Night Special," was used to shoot Reagan. White House Press Secretary James S. Brady and two other men at the Washington Hilton.

When Hinckley's troubles began is not clear. Former teachers and classmates at his high school in the Dallas suburb of Highland Park said Hinckley "was a typical kid." His sister, Diane, was a popular cheerleader.

"He was very quiet, very reserved," said Bill Lieberman, sponsor of the school's Rodeo Club to which Hinckley belonged. "He didn't give anyone any trouble. ... He was not a rowdy."

In addition to the Rodeo Club,

Hinckley belonged to the Spanish Club and the Student Government Club, the school yearbook said. Dr. A.E. Sigler, the principal, recalled seeing Hinckley in school but remembered "nothing special" about him.

After graduating from Highland Park in 1974, he enrolled at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. He attended sporadically through the summer of 1980 but never received a degree.

In between, he worked. In a job application filed with a Denver concern last year Hinckley said that between June 1976 and August 1978 he'd worked as a salesman in Hollywood, a bartender in Denver and a bookkeeper in Dallas.

Last October, he applied for a job at the Rocky Mountain News, asking for any jobs paying $4 an hour or more.

"The interesting thing is that under 'hobbies,' he entered 'politics' along with reading and other things," said Managing Editor E.B. Blackburn. It was not clear what Hinckley's political beliefs were.

Hinckley was born May 29, 1955, in Ardmore, Okla. In 1974, his family moved to Colorado, where J.W. "Jack" Hinckley is president of Denver-based Vanderbilt Energy Corp., an oil and gas exploration company. Evergreen is about 20 miles southwest of Denver.

The senior Hinckley was described by business associates as a devout Christian who belonged to a weekly Bible reading club and offered his professional services as a volunteer overseas.

He recently did work in Africa for Vision World, a California-based Christian service organization. The agency said Monday Hinckley had told its staff his son's psychological problems were a source of "great anxiety."

"What happened today was 180 degrees from what Jack stood for," said Evergreen insurance agent Richard Alexander, a member of a weekly businessmen's Bible group to which the elder Hinckley belonged.

"I knew he was concerned about the boy, but it seemed in the way every father is concerned about his son," Alexander continued. "It was nothing unusual."

Hinckley's brother to have met with Bush

HOUSTON (AP) — Scott Hinckley, the brother of the man charged with shooting President Reagan and three others, were to have dined tonight in Denver at the home of Neil Bush, son of Vice President George Bush, the Houston Post has reported in a copyright story.

Neil Bush said he once had met Scott Hinckley, brother of John W. Hinckley Jr., and the Bush family knew the Hinckley family because of the large political contributions they had made to the vice president's campaign, the Post added.

The newspaper said it was unable to reach Scott Hinckley, vice president of his father's Denver-based Vanderbilt Energy Corp., for comment. Neil Bush lives in Denver, where he is a land man for Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

In 1978, Neil served as campaign manager for his brother, George W. Bush, the vice president's oldest son, who was running for Congress. Neil lived in Lubbock throughout much of 1978, where John Hinckley lived from 1974 through 1980.

On Monday, Neil Bush said he did not know if he had ever met the 25-year-old Hinckley.

"I have no idea. I don't recognize any pictures of him. I just wish I could see a better picture of him."

Sharon Bush, Neil's wife, said Scott Hinckley was coming to their house as a date of a girl friend of hers.

"I don't even know the brother. From what I know and I've heard, they (the Hinckleys) are a very nice family and have given a lot of money to the Bush campaign. I understand he was just the renegade brother in the family. They must feel awful," she said.

The dinner was canceled, she added.

George W. Bush said he was unsure whether he had met John W. Hinckley.

Interviewed by telephone from his home at Midland, George W. Bush said, "It's certainly conceivable that I met him or might have been introduced to him" when running an unsuccessful campaign for Congress in 1978.

Bush, a Republican, was beaten by Kent Hance of Lubbock, now a second-term Democratic congressman from Texas' 19th district.

"I don't recognize his face from the brief, distorted kind of thing they had on TV. And the name doesn't ring any bells. I know he wasn't on our staff."

Other workers, in the campaigns of both Vice President Bush and of his son, said they did not know Hinckley and didn't recall hearing of him before Monday.

Opening arguments due in Williams' Abscam trial

NEW YORK (AP) — An undercover FBI agent who posed as a favor-seeking Arab sheik will make his public television debut in the Abscam trial of U.S. Sen. Harrison Williams Jr., the most powerful figure snared in the federal corruption-bribery probe.

Before jury selection got under way Monday in Williams' trial, U.S. District Judge George Pratt approved a request from the major television networks for the same-day broadcast of videotapes introduced as evidence. One of those tapes shows the phony sheik.

A jury of seven men and five women was selected on the first day of the trial of Williams and Alexander Feinberg, a Cherry Hill, N.J., lawyer and Williams' associate. Williams, 61, and Feinberg, 72, are accused of conspiracy and bribery stemming from an alleged promise by the senator to introduce an immigration bill on behalf of the fictitious sheik, who has figured in previous Abscam trials.

Williams, in his fourth Senate term, also is accused of accepting a hidden, 18-percent interest in a Virginia titanium mine in return for promising to use his influence to gain military contracts for the mine.

After receiving instructions today from Pratt, the jury in Brooklyn federal court was to hear opening arguments from Edward A. McDonald, assistant attorney in charge of the government's organized-crime strike force here. McDonald was to be followed by George Koelzer, attorney for Williams, and Harry C. Batchelder Jr., Feinberg's lawyer.

Batchelder told the judge Monday he may ask the jury to consider whether the government improperly induced the defendants to commit a crime.

The defense of entrapment was used unsuccessfully by Rep. Raymond Lederer, D-Pa., and former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., at previous Abscam trials. However, it was partly the reason a federal judge in Philadelphia threw out Abscam convictions against two Philadelphia city councilmen last year.

Two make guilty plea

HOUSTON (AP) — Two California men accused of trying to kill former model Barbara Pirowski have pleaded guilty to attempted capital murder charges and were sentenced to 35 years in prison and fined $5,000 apiece.

The trial of Patrick Tony Steen, 22, and Nathaniel Ivery, 26, both of Riverside, Calif., ended abruptly Monday when the defendants entered their pleas before State District Judge George Walker.

Jury selection resumes in Marcello's Brilab trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Prospective jurors are being asked whether they would be prejudiced by profanity and racial epithets expected to turn up on secretly made tapes submitted as evidence in the Brilab trial of organized-crime boss Carlos Marcello and four others.

The defendants are accused of scheming to bribe state officials for lucrative insurance contracts.

Five prospective jurors were questioned and excused for various reasons Monday in the first day of jury selection in U.S. District Court. Jury selection resumes today.

Brilab — which stands for bribery-labor — was the code for FBI investigations into alleged official corruption and labor-group contracts.

Judge Morey Sear told prospective jurors Monday the trial might last three months or longer. Among other questions, he asked prospective jurors whether they would be prejudiced by profanity or racial epithets.

Marcello has long been described by government investigators as a boss of organized crime along the Gulf Coast.

In addition to Marcello, 70, of New Orleans, the defendants include Charles Roemer, 57, of Baton Rouge, who ran day-to-day operations of state government for eight years as commissioner of administration, a post he relinquished a year ago.

All five defendants are charged with conspiracy, racketeering and mail and wire fraud in an alleged scheme to bribe state officials to give them multimillion-dollar group insurance contracts covering state employees in Louisiana. The government charged that the men would have shared the lucrative commissions from the insurance.

Other defendants are Irving Davidson, 59, a Washington lobbyist; Vincent Marinello, 43, a New Orleans lawyer accused of delivering bribe money; and Aubrey Young, 58, an alleged intermediary for Marcello. Young, after being indicted, resigned as aide to Lt. Gov. Bobby Freeman.

A key government witness is expected to be Joseph Hauser, 49, who agreed to work for the FBI in exchange for a lesser penalty when he pleaded guilty in Phoenix, Ariz., to insurance fraud charges.

The current trial is the second in the Brilab investigation. In the first Brilab trial, in Houston, a federal jury acquitted the speaker of the Texas House, Billy Clayton, and two Austin lawyers accused of conspiring with Hauser.

The maximum punishment for Marcello and Davidson, who were named in all 12 counts, would be 90 years in prison and $69,000 in fines. For Roemer it would be 85 years and $59,000; for Marinello, 75 years and $57,000, and for Young, 50 years and $52,000.

Violent crime soared 13 percent in 1980

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary FBI figures show that violent crime soared by 13 percent during 1980, the biggest jump in a dozen years.

The overall crime index, combining violent crimes with the more-frequent property crimes, rose by 10 percent in 1980 compared with 1979, according to the preliminary 1980 FBI Uniform Crime Index released today.

"The reported increase underscores the need for intensified efforts at combating crime, especially violent crime which surged 13 percent last year," said Attorney General William French Smith.

"Not since 1975 has the crime index shown such a significant increase, a continuing cause for concern by law enforcement and the American people," said FBI Director William H. Webster.

In 1975, the overall index rose 9.8 percent. The 1980 increase is actually the largest overall rise since the 17.6 percent jump in 1974.

Among violent crimes, robbery was up 20 percent, forcible rape rose 9 percent, aggravated assault increased 8 percent and murder jumped 7 percent.

Violent crime has increased in 11 of the last 12 years, with the largest previous jump being the 19.1 percent recorded in 1968. Violent crime declined 4 percent in 1976.

Overall, property crime rose 9 percent during 1980, equaling the 1979 increase. Burglary was up 14 percent, larceny-theft increased 8 percent, and motor vehicle theft was up 2 percent.

The index records only crimes reported to law enforcement agencies, which voluntarily submit their data to the FBI. The figures come from more than 12,000 law enforcement agencies nationwide.

In the past, Justice Department surveys of victims, from both crimes reported and not reported to the police, have shown smaller increases in crime than the FBI index. Smith has said the two sources of data are not necessarily inconsistent and that by either measure violent crime is at intolerable levels.

The new attorney general has made increased federal leadership against violent crime his top priority in the department and has named an eight-member task force to see what more the federal government can do.

Cities of all sizes, as well as suburban and rural areas, reported overall crime increases during 1980. The greatest increase was in cities with more than 1 million in population, where the overall crime count jumped 14 percent. Rural areas reported a 12 percent uptick, and suburban areas registered an overall rise of 9 percent.

Police nab suspected gang

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Five Alabama men arrested here for allegedly stealing money from parking meters may be members of a gang that has stolen thousands of dollars from meters across the country, police say.

The gang operates in cities that have numerous metered parking lots, investigators said Monday.

"The operation is very sophisticated," said Police Chief William Corbett, adding that last week's arrests represented only "the tip of the iceberg."

In Ann Arbor alone, the meter thieves have stolen "at least a few thousand dollars," Corbett said. "It involves a lot of jurisdictions, a lot of people and a lot of money," a law enforcement official added. The FBI is investigating "out-of-state leads," spokesman John Anthony said.

Police said Richard B. Whitehead, 34, of Altoona, Ala.; Buddy L. Dobbins, 32, and Timothy L. Samples, 19, both of Albertville, Ala., were charged Thursday in Ann Arbor District Court with burglary of a coin box. They were being held in Washenaw County Jail on $35,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing Wednesday, police said.

Stock market rallies

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a sharp rally today on word that President Reagan was recovering rapidly from the bullet wound he suffered Monday afternoon.

All the nation's major exchanges and the over-the-counter market closed about 45 minutes early on Monday after the attempt on Reagan's life.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 12.07 to 1,004.23 by noon.

Bond prices also rose sharply. And the price of gold, which spiked upward late Monday on the news of the assassination attempt, fell back about $16 to $509 an ounce.

Gainers on the active list included Standard Oil of Indiana, up 1 1/4 at 73 1/4; Merrill Lynch, up 1/4 at 87 1/4; and Holiday Inns, up 3/4 at 27 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index rose .88 to 78.24. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.99 at 359.64.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 22.82 million shares at noon, against 14.68 million at the same point Monday.

Leslie R. Hinds, director of personnel for Midland Independent School District, today took issue with School Board candidate Ann Page, who has been campaigning on, among other issues, the need for higher standards in teacher hiring practices.

Propane conversion very simple at Midland 66

That pickup you see racing along the road raising a dust cloud, and that tractor plowing the field to its right just may be running on propane! So says Ken Peeler of Midland 66 Oil Company Inc. at 1612 Garden City Highway in Midland.

It is true that many farmers and ranchers have converted their farm equipment from gasoline to propane. It is a relatively simple procedure that involves the gas tank and the carburetor. It usually costs between $800 and $900, but you can save from 55 cents to 65 cents a gallon on fuel and may move the system from car to car as it is replaced.

Many farmers and ranchers will replace their present tank with a 90-gallon tank and thus eliminate the time necessary to make frequent refills. Propane is a cleaner burning fuel that won't clog spark plugs and adds no pollution to the atmosphere. Midland 66 furnishes the LPG (propane) commercially and to farms and ranches and even on occasion refills recreational vehicles and propane camp stoves.

Propane is still the number one fuel for motor homes, travel trailers, camping trailers and truck campers, say the manufacturers. When people choose propane nine to one over any other kind of fuel, the meaning is clear — they like the cleanliness, convenience, efficiency, availability and economy of propane. If you're thinking of converting to or using propane, contact the folks at Midland 66 and let them help you. You can phone them at 682-9404.

Propane conversion at Midland 66 may be one of the best decisions you will ever make. Audie Porter is shown at the workbench making a conversion, which costs less than you may think. Talk to the professionals at Midland 66 at 1612 Garden City Highway, or call 682-9404.

Chamber supports stricter building code enforcement

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

The Midland Chamber of Commerce agreed in principle Monday afternoon to support a proposal from the Midland Housing Association requesting the city to follow stricter building code enforcement.

Don Hellinghausen, chairman of the association, asked for stricter code enforcement "along with making housing available to those who might be displaced. The housing problem has so many angles," he acknowledged.

"We're not doing the people any favors by letting them stay in substandard housing. We should make a commitment to long-term code enforcement, along with new housing."

A lack of code enforcement was brought to light last winter when four children were burned to death and another four were burned seriously in two separate fires in substandard city housing. City officials follow the policy of not forcing people out of substandard housing.

HELLINGHAUSEN POINTED out that code enforcement would follow the chamber's Objectives for Midland in the 80s. It also would upgrade the city's tax base and improve the quality of life in Midland.

Representatives from Walter Moore and Associates, Inc., of Houston are working on the downtown parking study, according to Joe Kloesel, past president of the chamber.

The time schedule calls for field work in Midland and updating the parking inventory the week of April 6, analyzing field data and preparing a parking program by April 20. The Houston-based firm should have a presentation ready for the chamber's executive committee on April 27.

Fred Baker, director of public works for the city, reviewed paving and road construction projects, saying that while the city has contracted for 28 road projects, 24 haven't even been started.

"Our paving contractors are up to the hilt with work," he noted. Looking at the paving required for the new residential subdivisions going in, coupled with the downtown projects, Baker said the city is facing a paving problem. And trying to attract out-of-town contractors for bids hasn't worked.

Timing the downtown traffic lights properly has been another headache for the city, Baker said. He elaborated on the problem, explaining that builders putting up office buildings have broken the city's lighting system downtown nine times.

One-way streets may soon be a reality, according to Baker, who described these as a method to provide "decent traffic patterns and flow."

GROUND WATER flowing through the current landfill south of the city has cropped up in recent weeks, Baker pointed out, but said the city is working to put in a new landfill. Already, the city has purchased 420 acres six miles outside the city limits and is working to obtain the necessary permits from the state, he said.

In other action, the chamber voted to support the proposed $6.6 million bond issue to build two elementary schools and make repairs at Lee and Midland high schools. Taxes on a $70,000 house should be increased by $25 a year, related Parker Humes, a member of the school board.

Clyde Wilson, director of the Midland High School band, announced his students have been selected to perform in the Pasadena Rose Bowl Parade next year. The trip, however, will cost about $100,000 and he is soliciting monetary help from the community. A benefit will be held May 14 in Theatre Midland to raise money for the trip, he said.

The Midland band is the only one selected to represent a region that includes Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

THE CHAMBER VOTED to pursue setting up a permanent clean-up committee in accordance with guidelines established by the national Keep America Beautiful, Inc., organization.

Mike Williams with the Objectives for Midland in the 80s program said a task force has been appointed to find some way of implementing the priority of redeveloping Hidalgo Park in East Midland. The Urban Land Institute, which studied Midland's problems last fall and submitted recommendations on how to resolve them, suggested the city first tackle the east side and Hidalgo Park.

During the economic development report, Grant Billingsley with the chamber related that 450 housing units had been sold through March 30, compared with 430 last year for the same period.

"Housing is one of our leading problems in this boom growth," he said. "If we can't provide housing, we'll be stifled in our growth."

Total building permits issued so far this year are up by 40 percent over the same time last year, Billingsley added.

Fred Tyler, executive vice president for the chamber, reported the Visual Improvements Program committee was moving ahead with a plan to plant 206 pecan trees in Scharbauer Draw from Golf Course Road to Big Spring Street. Cost of the project is $40,000 to $50,000, he said, and the committee is finding sources for the money.

Developers very anxious to find cause of collapse

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Developers of a condominium that collapsed and killed 11 workers say they "are as anxious" as federal investigators to find out what caused the unfinished building to fall.

Mike Mervis, a spokesman for Univel Inc., said the firm "agreed to cooperate fully" in the Occupational Safety and Health Administration probe. "We told OSHA we are as anxious as they are to find out what happened," he said.

Mervis said detailed construction information about the project may be handed over to the federal officials as early as today.

The accident Friday injured 23 people at the Harbour Cay condominiums on the Banana River in east central Florida.

Investigators from OSHA met with Univel officials on Monday and asked for specifics on concrete preparations and other construction information on the Harbour Cay project.

OSHA officials said they would not comment until the probe is finished, but Mervis said the investigators had asked for 10 items, most of them dealing with how the concrete was mixed and how it was supported once it was poured.

There was some speculation that the accident resulted from supports being pulled from the concrete while it was still wet, but investigators refused to comment on the theory.

OSHA officials told the Cocoa Today newspaper that Univel had been cited at construction sites for unspecified violations.

Mervis called the violations minor and stressed that the problems had been corrected immediately.

Early Monday morning, rescue workers called off the search for additional victims. The crushed body of the 11th man, Darrell Nowakowski, 22, was pulled from the rubble Sunday afternoon. Ironically, Nowakowski's father, Con, insured the project.

Harbour Cay, a $10 million five-story structure, was to be the first of five buildings in the project. Mervis said no plans on redeveloping the site will be made until investigations are completed.

One saleswoman who asked not to be identified said she already received several "ghoulish calls" from prospective buyers waiting for the prices of the plush units to drop in the wake of the disaster. Prices were to have started at $90,000, and 80 percent of the 45-unit building had been sold.

Michigan workers seeking promise of jobs in South

DETROIT (AP) — The promise of jobs in the Sun Belt is beckoning to Michigan residents, and hundreds of unemployed factory workers are forsaking the Great Lake state for warmer climes, particularly Texas.

While no statistics on migration to the South are available, Houston real estate agents say they're finding homes for Michigan families every week.

Shops in metropolitan Detroit advertise Sun Belt newspapers and newsstands sell out stacks of Houston and Dallas papers to people who just want the "help wanted" ads.

"Anybody who can't find a job here just isn't looking," said Dale Crumbaugh, a Texas Employment Commission labor analyst in Houston.

The Detroit Public Library has become a popular place to look for Sun Belt newspapers for jobs. "We've even had guys get in a fistfight over the papers," Jeff Tong, a library spokesman, said Monday.

The Detroit Free Press and Detroit News each carried barely a page of help wanted ads on March 19. But on the same day, the Houston Chronicle and Houston Post each had listed about 15 pages of job vacancies.

More than 2,000 copies of the Houston Sunday Chronicle are sold each week in southeastern Michigan alone, says Bill Bynum, the newspaper's state circulation manager. "That's in the last six months," Bynum said. "We used to sell about 300."

Mary Alice at Chamberlain Real Estate in Detroit said 90 percent of her referrals are to Texas. Mayflower Van Lines officials reported moving 3,770 families out of Michigan in 1980.

and a third of those went to Florida, California and Texas in that order.

"There's a job for anybody who wants one," says Ron Landwehr, 25, a journeyman carpenter from Chelsea, Mich., 50 miles west of Detroit, who went to work building houses almost immediately after he and three friends moved to Houston in February.

But when Michigan residents find jobs in their trek to the sun, they also find some surprises.

Inflation in Dallas, for example, is 18.5 percent compared with the Detroit area's 12.4 percent, and the cost of electricity to heat and cool homes is high by comparison.

Metropolitan Detroit, where the Big Three carmakers are headquartered, saw a loss of more than 25,000 jobs in the auto industry in the past year. On Monday, the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported 209,400 people were employed in Detroit-area automaking jobs in January 1980, but the total dropped to 194,200 a year later.

One Texas company seeking Detroit-area workers is Bell Helicopter Textron in Fort Worth. "Engineers are in short supply, so we are interested in hiring automotive engineers from the Detroit area," explained its engineering personnel manager, David McDavid.

Preliminary 1980 census figures show Houston gained 321,457 residents in the past decade, surpassing Detroit as the nation's fifth-most populous city. Over the 10 years, Detroit's population declined by 321,841 people.

Police work to identify another child found dead

ATLANTA (AP) — A 21st case has been added to the list of unsolved child deaths in the Atlanta area, and authorities were trying to determine today whether the body of a black youth found in a river was that of one of three youths who have been reported missing.

At least seven other bodies have been found in the Fulton County region where the partly decomposed body was discovered Monday. And, as was the case with several other victims, the body was found in a river and clad only in undershorts, police said.

Medical examiners planned an autopsy today on the body of the boy found hung up on debris in a remote area of the Chattahoochee River.

The youth was the 21st black child found dead here since July 1979. At least three young black males are reported missing in the Atlanta area, although only two of those disappearances are being investigated by the special police task force assigned to the child deaths.

Fulton County Police Chief Clinton Chafin said the body appeared to have been in the river "several days." Another Fulton County officer, Sgt. Denny Hendrix, said the victim looked to be from 10 to 20 years old.

Dr. Robert Stivers, chief medical examiner for Fulton County, said the body was "pretty well decomposed" and could not be identified until today at the earliest.

Although officials did not immediately determine how the child died, Chafin said there was little doubt the killing was a case for the special police task force.

The two disappearances being handled by the task force are those of 10-year-old Darron Glass, last seen Sept. 14, and 16-year-old Joseph Bell, who disappeared March 3.

Another black child, 13-year-old Timothy Hill, has been missing since March 13, but his case has not been turned over to the task force because of reports that he has been sighted since then.

Chafin said a youth who lives in the area of southwest Fulton County where the latest body was discovered saw it "hung up on some debris" in the river.

Housecalls Are Not A Thing Of The Past...
Our Carriers Make Them
Every Day.

One of the first things you'll discover about being a Reporter Telegram carrier is that you make housecalls every day. And those housecalls are pretty important for a couple of reasons.

First, you're responsible for delivering the paper to your customers every day, rain or shine, because they want to be kept informed. It's not always an easy job, but it's a very important one.

Second, you'll find that your on-time housecalls pay off for you in profits and experience. On your newspaper route, you'll learn the essentials of operating an independent business while enjoying the financial rewards that accompany hard work. That's a job you can bank on, both now and in your future.

If you're interested in becoming a Reporter Telegram carrier, call our circulation department today at 682-5311. Several positions are now available and waiting for you.

Aging Phillies seek repeat in NL East

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Will success spoil the Philadelphia Phillies?
After almost a century of failure, the Phillies won their first world championship in 1980, thanks mostly to brilliant seasons by Steve Carlton and Mike Schmidt.
At the age of 35, Carlton (24-9) led the National League with 24 victories and 286 strikeouts in 304 innings, ranked second in earned run average (2.34) and captured the Cy Young Award.
MEANWHILE, MVP Schmidt led the majors with 48 home runs and topped the league with 121 RBIs, 342 total bases and a .624 slugging percentage.
The modern-day Phillies are far removed from the 1950 Whiz Kids. Carlton and relief ace Tug McGraw are 36, catcher Bob Boone 33, first baseman Pete Rose 40, shortstop Larry Bowa 35, and left fielder Greg Luzinski is on the way out.
Lonnie Smith is the only regular under 30, and that includes second baseman Manny Trillo, center fielder Garry Maddox and right fielder Bake McBride, along with Schmidt and Gary Matthews. The speedy, aggressive Smith gave the Phillies a new dimension by stealing 33 bases in only 100 games.
Carlton and Dick Ruthven (17-10) are a solid lefty-right punch and Marty Bystrom (5-0) was an impressive rookie in September. Boone, a superb defensive catcher, hopes to rebound from an off-year with the bat and Rose, who failed to bat .300 for only the second time in the last 16 years, needs just 74 hits to break Stan Musial's NL record.
The key to Philadelphia's season probably will be how much injured pitchers Larry Christenson and Nino Espinosa can contribute.

IN 1979, the Montreal Expos wound up two games behind Pittsburgh in the NL East. Last year, they won five fewer games but came within one of the Phillies in another runner-up finish.
"The experience of consecutive pennant races going down to the last weekend of the season will definitely help this club in the late stages of 1981," says Manager Dick Williams.
He lists two problems. The first is the void in left field created when Ron LeFlore opted for free agency and jumped to the Chicago White Sox; the other, however, is no more serious than finding a backup for workhorse catcher Gary Carter.
Rookie Tim Lincecum, who stole 77 bases in 108 games as a second baseman in the American Association and five more in 15 games with the Expos, will get a shot at replacing LeFlore, who led the NL by swiping 97 in 139 games. If Raines flops, Warren Cromartie will return to left field after a year at first base and Willie Montanez will be the regular first baseman.
Raines, second baseman Rodney Scott (63 steals) and center fielder Andre Dawson (34) give the Expos loads of speed in front of Carter and the rest of the power people — right fielder Ellis Valentine, third baseman Larry Parrish and Cromartie. Chris Speier will again be the shortstop.
The pitching staff is young and talented. Steve Rogers and Scott Sanderson were 16-game winners and Bill Gullickson is on the verge of stardom. He fanned 18 Chicago Cubs in a September game. A veteran bullpen includes Woodie Fryman, Stan Bahnsen and Elias Sosa.

"One thing for sure — 1980 wasn't nearly as much fun as 1979," says Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner. That's because the Pirates skidded from the world championship to a third-place finish.
MANY OF the Bucs' big guns played hurt or were sidelined — right fielder Dave Parker, first baseman Willie Stargell, center fielder Omar Moreno (96 steals), third baseman Bill Madlock, second baseman Phil Garner, first baseman-outfielder Bill Robinson, pitcher Don Robinson. Comebacks are essential from them, as well as left-hander John Candelaria and relief ace Kent Tekulve, who slumped. All the injuries gave left fielder Mike Easler (.338, 21 homers) a chance to reach stardom.

For MIDLAND CITY COUNCIL, PLACE ONE

Capable of making critical decisions today for the Midland of tomorrow

Giffert Alstrin is uniquely qualified to help Midland achieve intelligent, orderly development during a period of rapid growth. Reared in Midland, he spent 15 years in Houston where he was involved in advisory positions to the City of Houston and Chamber of Commerce. He knows what steps to take, and what mistakes to avoid.

"Of course we must provide the vital city services we need to keep pace with Midland's tremendous growth...street repairs, parking, parks, adequate law enforcement. But beyond that, we need to recognize the impact of planning and zoning for the whole city and not just the immediate neighborhood affected."

Gretzky wrecks NHL scoring records

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — At 20, most pro hockey players are trying to prove themselves and build a career in the National Hockey League. At 20, Wayne Gretzky has little left to prove.

Sunday night, he broke the NHL points record of 152 set by Phil Esposito in 1970-71. And on Wednesday night he may break the assists record he now shares with Bobby Orr when he plays against visiting Colorado.

Sunday, he drew three assists when the Edmonton Oilers beat Pittsburgh 5-2. His first assist was his 100th of the year and 153rd point. His third assist tied him with Orr, who collected 102, also during the 1970-71 season. He has 53 goals and no chance this year of breaking Esposito's record of 76.

"The pressure doesn't bother me too much during the games, but it's still nice to be over with it," Gretzky said. "It's a thrill to break the record, but by breaking it now I can turn all my thoughts over to helping us make the playoffs."

After the record 153rd assist, Pittsburgh goalie Greg Millen, Gretzky's teammate in junior hockey, retrieved the puck and handed it to the Oilers' super center.

"He didn't say a word, though. What could he say? But it was a nice gesture on his part," said Gretzky.

There's one other feat he's after — to average two points a game. The record is 1.97, by Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins in 1943-44. This year, Gretzky's 155 points have come in 77 games for an average of 2.01.

It won't come as much of a surprise if he does it. His remaining games are against Colorado, Vancouver and Winnipeg, none noted for defensive strength.

Esposito, who retired this year from the New York Rangers, said he was not sad his record had fallen.

"I've said this to the point of redundancy, but records are made to be broken. I'm proud of my accomplishments. My proudest thing is being the first to get 100 points in a season and the first to get 60 goals in a season, Esposito explained."

In less than two full seasons in the NHL, Gretzky has scored 292 points. Last year he won the Hart Trophy as the NHL's Most Valuable Player and the Lady Byng as the player who best combines talent with sportsmanship.

Twins trade Landreaux

Minnesota traded center fielder Ken Landreaux to Los Angeles for third baseman Mickey Hatcher, first baseman Kelly Snider and left-handed pitcher Matt Reeves. Hatcher, 26, batted .226 with LA and 3.59 with Albuquerque while Landreaux, 25, batted .281 and had a 31-game hitting streak. Landreaux played for El Paso in the Texas League and Hatcher and Snider are products of San Antonio.

Former Arizona State football Coach Frank Kush wished punter Kevin Rutledge "would quit the team because he was wasting a scholarship" in 1978, a friend of the Rutledge family testified Monday. Sandra McCormack also told the court that she "was really disturbed" by Kush's comment "because I thought he'd be smart enough not to say that to me." Rutledge's attorney, Robert Hing, called Kush "a sadistic animal" who used "physical force and mental humiliation to make players give up their scholarships."

The Volvo Grand Prix in Costa Rica was canceled after 14 players, including Jimmy Connors, pulled out. "They were all medical reasons, not political," said Butch Buchholz Jr., executive director of the ATP. The Central American country has been the scene of recent attacks on American installations.

Mark Alcorn, who dropped from the LSU cage team when it was discovered he had cancer, received the Most Courageous Athlete Award from the U.S.

Basketball Writers' Association. Alcorn twice postponed surgery as LSU advanced through the regionals. The 22-year-old guard said he will have an operation Friday to remove lymph nodes and tumors from his chest.

Five Florida State football players and one former player pleaded innocent charges of buying or selling property. A sixth player, Ken Lanier, offensive tackle, submitted a written request through his lawyer for a delay in his arraignment until next Monday.

Nelson Skalbania, the Vancouver millionaire who collects sports franchises, was confirmed as owner of the CFL Montreal Alouettes. Sale price was $2.4 million plus $600,000 to cover outstanding debts.

Alabama and LSU will kickoff ABC-TV's 1981 college football schedules at 8 p.m. Sept. 5 while Stanford-Purdue also will play a nationally televised game 2 p.m. Sept. 12. Welterweight champions Thomas Hearns and Sugar Ray Leonard are expected to sign for a fall bout within 10 days, claims Emanuel Steward, Hearns' manager. Former pro basketball player Marvin Barnes, 28, was placed on three months probation on a charge of eluding Providence police. Another charge of possessing marijuana was dropped. Allen Van Winkle, coach at Jackson (Mich.) Community College, is the new Southern Illinois-Carbondale basketball coach, taking over a 7-19 club that went winless in the MVC.

NBA playoffs begin tonight

By Associated Press
In comedy, timing is everything. The Chicago Bulls hope the same applies to the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bulls are the NBA's hottest team, riding an eight-game winning streak into tonight's opener of their three-game Eastern Conference mini-series against the New York Knicks.

"We're just about as ready as we're ever going to be," said forward David Greenwood, at 6-foot-9½ the shortest member of the Bulls' starting frontcourt.

Added Artis Gilmore, their 7-2 center: "The way we're playing now excites me."

In tonight's other Eastern Conference mini-series opener, the Philadelphia 76ers host the Indiana Pacers.

The Western Conference playoffs begin Wednesday night. The Los Angeles Lakers, the defending champions, will be home against the Houston Rockets, while the Portland Trail Blazers will host the Kansas City Kings.

Those four games begin the long road to the championship, which will probably be decided in late May or early June.

O'Berry making grade

improve...at least it was over .200 and climbing.

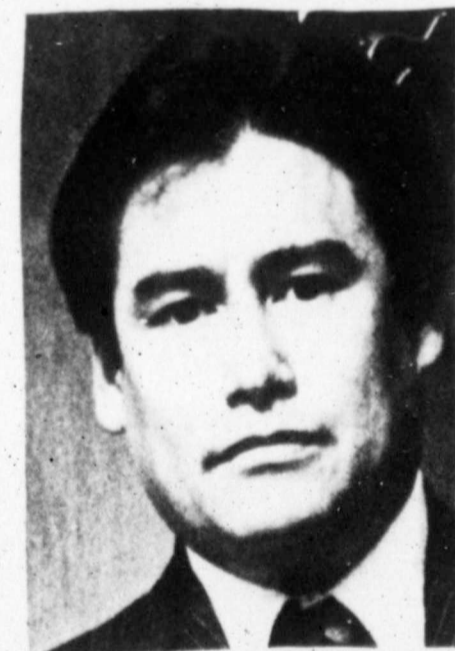

Just when things were looking good, O'Berry was sent back to Midland to the accompaniment of groans silver-lined with optimism, like "Maybe Randy will keep him on the bench and let Shepton catch."

RANDY DIDN'T let O'Berry ride the bench which gave Cubs' fans an opportunity to see the O'Berry everyone had expected in the first place. In one Cub victory, he was such a dominating force that we gave him the victory rather than the pitcher. He not only threw out runners, and got key base hits, but stole home with the winning run, blocked the plate to prevent a vital run and even spotted an illegal bat after a home run, thereby nullifying the roundtripper.

Then, last winter he was traded to Cincinnati and communicates out of Florida glowingly report he has performed so capably in spring training that the Reds indeed may be able to grant Johnny Bench his fondest wish, semi retirement from the daily catching grind.

Now Chicago must be wondering if they shouldn't have kept him.
