WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, returning to action with a pronouncement that he is "much improved" but the economy is as sick as ever, is on the verge of getting Congress to fill his prescription for the nation's economic ills, Republican leaders say.

In his first public appearance since last month's assassination attempt, Reagan told a joint session of Congress on Tuesday night that it should move quickly on his proposed spending and tax cuts. Voters are getting impatient, he Inactivity "will delay even longer - and more painfully - the cure which must come," he told lawmakers in the nationally broadcast, 20-minute address on the eve of his 100th day in office, the traditional time for the first assessment of a new president.

Congressional leaders said the speech helped put much of the president's program back on the right track.

Democrats and Republicans planned to meet today to assess what effect the speech will have on House floor action on the budget, which begins Thursday. 'If we didn't have the votes before, we sure ought to have them now, " said

But Michel said that while victory on the president's budget proposals seems near, the vote may "be a cakewalk" compared with other, tougher votes on his program further down the road, expecially on Reagan's proposed three-year, across-the-board, 30 percent tax cut.

Many members of Congress fear the president's tax proposal runs too great a risk of worsening inflation. Thus, there is considerable support, especially among Democrats, for a one-year tax reduction, with further installments after spending is reduced and a balanced budget is assured.

Reagan said his 'tax-cut proposal is an "integral part" of his economic package, which he called the "only answer we have left Unless Congress acts, he said, "a gigantic tax increase" will be imposed on plan written by Reps. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, and Phil Gramm, D-Texas, and backed by House Republicans and many conservative Democrats. He said it would accomplish all his "essential aims."

Midland High had both. The invitation came as a surprise, however, because the band had applied to march in the 1981 parade.

During a Tuesday afternoon interview Coombes explained how the invitation came a year late.

Council unsure how to enforce building codes

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Midland City Council had no trouble agreeing with the Midland Housing Association "in principle" to enforce building codes on substandard housing units. But the city panel entangled itself in the sticky web of what means to use to achieve the end result and could find no clear way out.

Meeting in regular session Tuesday in City Hall Council Chambers, the council listened to a request from Don Hellinghausen, president of Midland Housing Association, to become stricter in enforcing the building codes.

The request stems from two fires last December in substandard housing in which four children were burned severely in the first blaze and four others died in the second.

"After several fires, people have agreed on the need for code enforcement but there is no place for these people to go," said Hellinghausen.

PEOPLE LIVING in such substandard structures fall into the low-income category and can't afford better housing. And that is the crux of the problem in Midland, the council pointed out: No affordable housing for these people. After an hour of discussion, the council came up empty-handed on a solution for this issue

While lack of housing is a serious problem, conceded Hellinghausen, "there is no reason not to proceed with code enforcement. In the long run, it would be better for all concerned. You can't be lax on any ordinance. I don't think we can relax any further on code enforcement.

"We (MHA) feel it is now time to make a whole-hearted commitment. You don't have to lower the hammer all at once, but move with prudent dispatch," he added.

As chairman of MHA, Hellinghausen proposed the city use Community Development funds in relocating persons living in substandard housing while it is being repaired or until substitute housing can be found.

He noted that "new construction is an essential part of the program," in light of the lack of low-cost housing.

Councilman Steve Davidson remarked he could "see a large role for a volunteer organization, such as MHA," for getting Hellinghausen's request accomplished quicker. "Y'all can act as a middleman and help people bring homes up to code.

Hellinghausen agreed with offering MHA's services, but it is the city officials who must enforce the building codes, he said.

IN MAYOR G. THANE AKINS' view, "one eviction is just as difficult as a massive amount. We need housing first for people to go to. There is the problem of being even-handed and across-the-board in this. If we tell the landlord to move out his renters and put the unit up to shape, he'll say Joe Blow's house across the street is worse than his and he hasn't been touched by the city."

Another councilman, Gordon Marcum II, quipped that the city could draw up a list of slum landlords and publish it.

Doris Howbert, attending her last session as a member of the council, remarked that code enforcement "is an area we need to address."

And the enforcement should be focused on rental units. "Both fires involving children were in rental units. But if you force a landlord to fix it up, he'll probably just tear it down.'

In defense of the city, Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, claimed that "we don't fail to enforce the code. If a renter tells us to inspect the property we will and take appropriate action.

Helpful hints on housing aid included in day-long seminar

By PATRICK DEAREN

Two officials with Texas Department of Community Affairs, Housing Division, explained major federal housing programs in an all-day seminar Tuesday in Midland.

Alva Fink and Bob Brooking, both of Austin, highlighted eligibility requirements, terms and rates associated with the federal programs.

Farmers Home Rural Rental Housing Program was among those discussed in detail, with Brooking explaining its purpose as providing direct loans to eligible borrowers for development of new rental housing or rehabilitation of existing rental housing in

There are quite a number of loan options," he noted. However, he ided, "Farmers Home requires you make a survey of your community to find out how many people would be willing to move in when it's complet-

Fink added that it is imperative that a specific market for the housing be determined, whether it is the el derly, low-income, moderate income, single or married.

The next step, he explained, is to approach the district director to see which of the various options available in the program is best suited to the market.

Fink noted that such applications are rated against certain priorities: -Rental assistance, section 8; Prejects from areas or communities having a high percentage of substandard housing: -Projects from areas or communities having lowest per capita in

-Projects having highest percentage of three or more bedroom units; -Projects which will serve rural communities situated at least 50 state office," Fink said. Under proposed federal budget cuts, however, noted Brooking, the rural rental housing program may be cut 20 percent.

"I think it's a good program, but it needs more funding," said Fink.

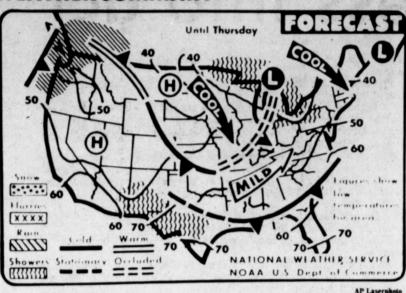

FmHA Farm Labor Housing Program also was perused, with Fink noting that it applies specifically to persons who derive at least 51 per cent of their income from farm labu. The program, he explained, is a loan and grant program which "usually ends up about 90 percent grant and 10 percent loan... Here, we're dealing with the lowest income group of people in America. The program's aim is to construct or repair housing for farm laborers suitable for use on a year-round basis, as well as improve the land on which

Council agrees enforcement of building code needed

The problem is we don't get renters asking us to come into their home.

That's why we haven't had enforcement." He suggested that the city could make a policy of inspecting rental units once the renter moves out and before a new person moves in and has the utilities turned on. Then Hennessy mentioned a reason why that route wouldn't work - the landlord would pay for utilities to keep the city inspectors out of his property.

"THE CITY CAN inspect a place we feel is not up to standard, but we have a policy of not going in without an invitation," he added. Concerning replacement housing mentioned by Hellinghausen, Hennessy said it couldn't be temporary. "We're talking about Section 8 rental subsidy for these displaced people to afford other housing. But there is only so much Section 8 money and I don't know if we can earmark it for displaced persons. The only city official that can walk into a building and inspect it for violations of the building code is the fire marshal, related City Attorney Joe Nuessle. But even the fire marshal is restricted to inspecting only commercial and office buildings.

"But I don't understand why they can inspect housing after a fire and not before one occurs," pondered Mrs. Howbert. Terri Trentham read a statement from the League of Women Voters in which that organization is "concerned that speedy, strict code enforcement would hurt the very people it is designed to help. Therefore, we recommend careful and cautious application of the codes keeping in mind the unavailability of adequate low-income housing in Midland.' Hellinghausen suggested the council begin by "closely examining the codes on the books now and then closely enforcing them. We must begin with a commitment by this body."

"IT'S THE NUTS and bolts that get you down," countered the mayor. "But it doesn't seem to stand in the way of progress in this town," replied "But those other things don't involve people and homes," said the mayor. Mrs. Howbert reiterated her belief the council "ought to review the codes" and concoct ways to work on the problem.

She added, "You don't always have to move a person out of a house to repair it. Even if the landlords fix up the units and raise the rents, Midland would be further ahead than having people living in substandard hous-

Two Midland police officers who were investigating a routine automo-bile burglary on a misty night last September wound up in a shoot-out with a 25-year-old Midland man.

And seven months later, the lawmen became the state's principal witnesses in an attempted capital murder case.

They were frightened but unscathed.

The defendant was twice wounded. The case, being tried this week before a jury in 142nd State District Court, is pitting the accused, Mitchell Lee McDonald, against police offi-cers Walter Knight and Ricky Ben-

The jury was to listen to closing arguments by prosecuting and defense attorneys this morning and was expected to render its verdict before the day is over. If the defendant is found guilty, presiding Judge Pat Baskin is, at the request of defendant McDonald, to assess punishment, which could range from five years to 99 years or life in prison. McDonald limps from the effects of a .38-caliber police slug that struck and smashed his lower left leg.

The defendant is proposing that he was unaware that Knight and Benton, who were wearing yellow raincoats over their police uniforms, were peace officers at the time of the exchange of 13 rounds shortly after 4 a.m. on Sept. 28 in front of Red's Drive-In at 1807 E. Front Ave.

Showdown due in shoot-out trial

"I JUST THOUGHT they were friends and were having a good time," Benton testified.

But the policeman's opinion quickly changed after McDonald allegedly pulled a .38-caliber pistol, pointed it at one of his (McDonald's) 'friends who was standing with him in the street, and tried to push the handgun aside.

But McDonald then spun around toward the yellow-coated policemen and fired off three rounds. The policemen testified they had shouted "Police!" and warned McDonald to "Freeze!" after he had drawn his "Saturday night special" but before they (police) commenced firing. McDonald fired first and ran. "I was scared," he admitted in a lull in the Bystander Walter Hunter, who was standing near the police patrol car when the firing was triggered off, was wounded, however slightly.

All told, 13 shots were fired from three pistols. Ten rounds came from police service revolvers wielded by Benton and Knight.

Firing distance closed in from about 50 yards to 25 yards.

Benton said he saw an "orange flash about that (basketball) size explode from McDonald's handgun. "I returned fire," he said, "and Officer Knight also returned fire." McDonald, pistol in hand, ran from the street and toward Red's Drive-In but fell at the curb and dropped the handgun. His right foot and left leg were hit by pistol fire.

Officer Knight recounted the incident for the jurors.

"His (McDonald's) feet came out from under him, and he hit the ground," Knight said. "The defendant continued to hop, skip, jump, run. It was obvious he was hurt."

MOMENTS LATER, after McDonald had hobbled over to a doorway at Red's Drive-In, Knight attacked him, pushed him down and onto his back, and pointed his pistol into McDonald's face and told him to "Freeze, -

McDonald was hospitalized until mid-October, when he was transferred to the Midland County Jail and subsequently was bailed out.

While at the hospital, he was under guard. And policeman Albert Grindstaff, who was one who stood guard, said he overheard McDonald make what he later interpreted as a threatening remark.

"Mr. McDonald said, 'When I get out of here, I'm going to buy a Smith & Wesson .44-magnum (pistol)," Grindstaff quoted McDonald, "'because the next time I won't miss."

Hirsch questioned the serious intent of McDonald's alleged statement.

Riot trial near end in Miami

MIAMI (AP) - A jury of 10 whites and two blacks was going to court today to hear closing arguments in the riot-murder trial of a 19-year-old black man accused of leading a mob attack on three young whites during last year's racial rioting here.

Nathaniel Lane, charged with three counts of first-degree murder, could be sentenced to the electric chair if convicted.

Before the state and defense rested their cases Tuesday, the star prosecution witness testified she saw Lane bash one victim in the head with a large rock. Defense lawyer Joe Kershaw Jr.

Presented no witnesses or evidence, entitling him to the first closing argument and rebuttal of the state's closing statement

Circuit Judge Mario Goderich denied defense motions to dismiss two of the first-degree murder charges and to reduce the charges to second-degree murder. Three nights of rioting erupted in May after an all-white jury in Tampa acquitted four white former police officers of charges stemming from the beating death of black Miam insurance man Arthur McDuffie. The violence claimed 18 lives. Lane, who pleaded innocent, was charged in the deaths of Benny Higdon, 21, Robert Owens, 15, and Charles Barreca, 15, who unknowingly drove into the predominantly black Liberty City area of Miami the night of May 17.

Doris Jones, 33, told the jury Tuesday she watched from the secondfloor balcony of her apartment house as an angry mob attacked the three whites.

"They started pulling them out of the car, beating them, stomping on them," Mrs. Jones said. "They were doing everything to them. All the people in the car - three of them were all lying on the passenger side of the car when I saw them. They beat them with rocks and bottles and everything.' Asked by Assistant State Attorney

Robert Kaye whether she recognized anyone in court as a member of the mob, Mrs. Jones pointed to Lane. "He had this big rock," she said, indicating with her hands a distance of about a foot. "And he hit him on the head with it." Mrs. Jones said the driver of the car, Higdon, was then hit with a newspaper vending machine. She said Lane beat down on the machine with the rock while it was still on top of

"They were hitting them with real bad blows. They weren't kidding, they were real death blows," Mrs. Jones said. "It was a death blow because I saw the blood come shooting out.' Mrs. Jones said she never saw Lane hit anybody besides Higdon.

Three other black youths have been found guilty in the mob attacks, while a fourth black was acquitted in March.

Little known before hunger strike, Sands now a hero to IRA members

By ED BLANCHE Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Until he stopped eating on March 1, Bobby Sands was little known outside his family and friends.

The 27-year-old Irish Republican Army guerrilla's hunger strike has made him a hero to Irish nationalists seeking to reunite British-ruled Northern Ireland with the independent Irish Republic to the south.

While he fasted in the Maze Prison near Belfast, the IRA engineered his election on April 9 to the British House of Commons for Fermanagh and Scuth Tyrone, a predominantly Roman Catholic district of Northern Ireland. The holder of the seat died, and no other Catholic entered the Sands electoral victory over a hardline Protestant was a slap in the faces of the British and the province's million Protestants majority and a propaganda boost for the IRA, which is overwhelmingly Roman Catholic:

Sands says he is ready to die in the tradition of other IRA hunger strikers, a line that stretches back to Terence McSwiney, rebel Lord Mayor of Cork, who died in London's Brixton Prison in 1920 after a 74-day fast.

Sands fasted to force the British to give imprisoned IRA members the same privileges given political prisoners - their own clothes instead of prison uniforms, no prison work, associating freely with each other and one visitor a week. The British refused, sticking to their position that IRA guerrillas are criminal terror-

Sands was bitter over the failure of a mass hunger strike for special statuslast year. At that time he was the "officer commanding" convicted IRA men in the Maze.

He claimed the British tricked them into abandoning their protest - one of the men was close to death after 53 days - by offering what appeared to be concessions

The slightly-built, 5-foot-9 Sands told friends the day before he began his fast that he rejected warnings he was committing suicide, a mortal sin for Katholics. "If I die, God will understand," he said.

"I know I'm right," he once wrote while in prison. "I must resist. I have nowhere to run."

Sands was born in Rathcoole, a predominantly Protestant suburb of Belfast, on March 9, 1954. In those days it was possible for Catholics and Protestants to work and play togeth-

Thatcher refuses concessions

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher again refused to make any concessions to hunger striker Bobby Sands as the imprisoned IRA guerrilla rejected a personal plea from Pope John Paul II to end the fast that has brought him to the verge of "The government will not be blackmailed," said Humphrey Atkins, the Cabinet secretary for Northern Ireland. "If Mr. Sands persists in his wish to commit suicide, that is his choice.

Mrs. Thatcher told the House of Commons her sympathies lay not with Sands but with the relatives of the 1,600 civilians and 600 soldiers and police killed since the Irish Republican Army launched its guerrilla war in 1969 to end British rule in Northern Ireland.

"I totally condemn those who try to impose their will by terrorism," she declared.

More than 2,000 Protestant militants marched in Belfast Tuesday night, demonstrating their readiness to fight back if the mostly Roman Catholic IRA carries out its threat of widespread violence if Sands

Earlier Tuesday, terrorists killed a Protestant soldier of the Ulster Defense Regiment and wounded another one south of Belfast. Several gasoline bombs were thrown in Belfast, but no one was injured, and 10 more IRA members were reported arrested in a continuing roundup of potential demonstration leaders.

fast for safety.
"Soon after I was intimidated from my work," he wrote. "Shortly after that I joined the Provos," the IRA's combatant Provisional wing. It was three years after the start of the Catholic-Protestant troubles in Northern Ireland, and Sands was 18.

His career as a guerrilla was brief. He was arrested in October 1972 when British troops found five handguns in a "safe house" where he was holed up. He was sentenced early the next year to five years and sent to the Long Kesh prison camp.

The British until 1976 gave IRA guerrillas the special status Sands is now fasting for. In Long Kesh he shared a hut with 30 other Provos. They ran their compound themselves, carried on military drills and at night underwent political indoctrination and weapons training with dummy guns they fashioned out of wood.

A senior British official called the'Long Kesh cages "a university of terror" because hundreds of youngsters held there came out hardened terrorists taught by experts and with a deep hatred of the British.

Sands was released in April 1976 after serving nearly three years with time off for good behavior. Six months later he was captured again after a gun battle with police near a South Belfast furniture warehouse the Provos had just bombed. He was sentenced to 14 years imprisonment for possession of firearms and sent to the Maze, a cellblock prison built beside

Long Kesh. Sands immediately joined a cam-paign protesting the abolition of the "special category" status the IRA prisoners had until the year before. Some 500 "blanket men" refused to wear prison uniforms, wouldn't work, wouldn't use the toilets and smeared their cells with their own excrement. Sands also studied Gaelic, the ancient Irish tongue, and began writing poems and essays that revealed his despair. In "The Lark and the Freedom Fighter," he wrote of a lark caged by a cruel man who starved the bird to death because it refused to sing.

"Like the lark, I, too have fought for my freedom," he wrote.

DEAD; AND BURIED IN A BRAND NEW TOMB

When the crowd that came to see the crucifixion saw that Jesus was dead, they went home in deep sorrow

Meanwhile, Jesus' friends, including the women who had followed Him down from Galilee, stood in the distance watching. Then a man named Joseph, a member of the Jewish Supreme Court, from the city of Arimathea in Judea, went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. He was a godly man who had been expecting the Messiah's coming and had not agreed with the decision and actions of the other lewish leaders.

So he took down Jesus' body and wrapped it in a long linen cloth and laid it in a new, unused tomb hewn into the rock (at the side of a hill). This was done late on Friday afternoon, the day of preparation

As the body was taken away, the women from Galilee followed and saw it carried into the tomb.

Then they went home and prepared spiced and ointments to embalm Him; but by the time they were finished it was the Sabbath. so they rested all that day as required by the Jewish law.

Council approves airport changes

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Protests from two fixed base operators at Midland Regional Airport about a proposed corporate aircraft area failed to daunt the Midland City Council on Tuesday in giving the go-ahead for the corporate hangars.

In other related business during a relatively short session that ended about 5:30 p.m. in City Hall Council Chambers, the panel told Aquila Aero it could proceed with plans for capital improvements of their business, including a new passenger waiting lounge

Scott Shelton with Perry Gas of Odessa has been instrumental in pursuing the idea of a corporate hangar area at Midland Regional Airport. He said the area at the airport has been designated and financing could be through industrial bonds. These hangars would house planes belonging directly to the various corporations paying the rent, and gas would be available, he said.

But Ed Box, president of Chaparral Aviation, an FBO located at the airport, contended that approval of the "No fixed base operator can make a profit out of furnishing hangar space; we do make money on pumping gas. You're taking the nucleus out of the FBO operation. And I can't believe that they (corporations) can't find good service with an FBO," he said.

Hal Spragins III, president of Memphis Aero Corp., which is the parent company to Aquila Aero, pointed out that by the end of two years there will be nine new hangars to accommodate 70 airplanes at the regional airport. This should provide enough space for the corporate-owned airplanes.

In answer to charges that the corporate hangar would hurt the FBO business, Ed Vogler, chairman of the city's Airport Board, said, "We have been after Aquila for two years to give us some definite plans (for capital improvements) which we got yesterday morning. It wasn't until they heard of a corporate hangar that they did get interested (in completing plans). I don't believe that a corporate hangar would shut down the

Charles Priddy, president of Magnatex Corp., spoke to the FBO charges that their businesses would

"The failed threat of an FBO doesn't concern us," he remarked. "We could put in our own FBO. We (corporations) feel we've been abused. We're doing it (corporate hangar) because of high fuel prices and because we're willing to help ourselves...we don't want to go in competition with the others. But if the corporate hangar fails, we would put in our own FBO."

Councilman Carroll Thomas referred to a vote taken by the council a few months ago on the possibility of a corporate hangar, and that vote was in favor of the idea. "I move to complete the corporate area that has been set up.'

Tom Sloan, another councilman. disagreed, saying he had changed his mind since that vote. "We should serve the general public and the best way is through the FBO."

But the vote went 4 to 1 in favor of the corporate hangar area.

Capital improvements at Aquila, announced by Spragins, would include new hangars and a two-story flight lounge with 10,000 square feet for the lobby area. The design would be patterned after the exterior of the airport Terminal building, he said.

A fuel dump, however, would need to be relocated and the council approved the move.

With a quip that the city was getting "deregulated," the council voted to draw up an ordinance to delete the ordinance banning skating on side-

Contracts were awarded for coating and repairs to selected city pools and for new light fixtures in Washington Park's softball field. Sloan was durark's sortball field. Sloan was dubious about installing new lights in Washington Park "because too many are broken out there." The council changed the specifications to include heavy plastic shields which should deflect bullets.

The panel approved a contract with the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission to accept funds to operate Midland College buses for senior citizens under MidTran.

Latest victim had criminal record

ATLANTA (AP) - Jimmy Ray Payne, the 26th victim in Atlanta's string of slayings of young blacks, had a criminal record and tried to change his identity shortly before he disappeared, perhaps to elude police, a newspaper reported today.

The Atlanta Constitution quoted sources close to the investigation of the killing as saying that Payne apparently tried to get an identity card under another name several days before his disappearance. The newspaper reported today that police believe Payne was trying to elude authorities by assuming a new identity.

Payne, an unemployed 21-year-old, was found in the Chattahoochee River Monday. Medical examiners ruled Tuesday that he probably died of asyphxiation, the same as 14 other young victims since July 1979.

In another development Tuesday, an attorney for Larry Marshall, who police want to question in connection with the killings, said one of the victims - 13-year-old Timothy Hill showed two threatening letters to Marshall before Hill was killed.

The attorney, Sharman Meade, said Marshall was told the letters came from the killer, who feared Marshall knew something about the string of slayings. Meade said Marshall does not have the letters.

Marshall, jailed here on an armed robbery charge, has refused to talk to a special task force investigating the slayings until he is promised immunity from prosecution on the robbery charge. Fulton County District Attorney Lewis Slaton has refused to meet the demands.

Authorities have repeatedly said Marshall is not a suspect in the slay-

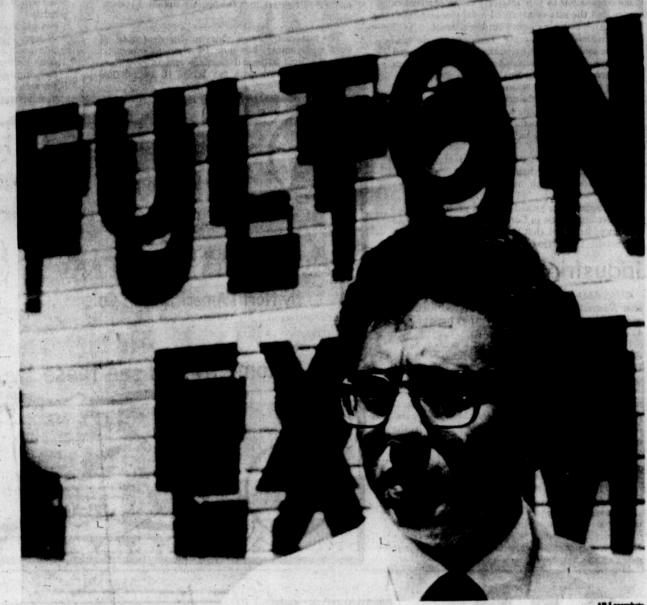

Meanwhile, authorities said Tuesday that two other young blacks who had been reported missing were found unharmed.

Herman Pittman, 21, was reported missing by his mother. But police said he called home from work Tuesday after hearing reports of his disap-

The other missing person report was filed on 33-year-old Richard Character, whose mother said she had not seen him since April 14. A police sergeant found Character, described by police as mentally retarded, in a downtown park Tuesday night and returned him home.

A special task force investigating the child deaths currently is looking into one disappearance, that of 10year-old Darron Glass, who vanished last year.

Slaton said Tuesday night that Payne was paroled from prison in late December 1980. He had been serving convictions.

Those convictions were not Payne's first brush with the law. He was convicted twice before on burglary charges, sentenced first at age 16 to a halfway house and later to a state prison, Slaton said.

Slaton said he did not know if Payne was wanted by police at the time of his death, and Atlanta police refused to answer questions on the subject.

But Slaton said when Payne was arrested in 1979 for the third time on burglary charges, he gave authorities a different name, and his real identity was not established until his finger prints were taken and compared with earlier records.

Meanwhile, Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown told a news conference Tuesday that police are concerned about the change in pattern in the killings. He noted the last four victims were small adults rather than children, as had been the case in the earlier slayings.

Drug trafficking bill passed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Bills that would provide maximum life sentences for bankroll the illegal drug trade have won final House approval.

The measures, recommended by H. Ross Perot and his Texas War on Drugs Committee, were sent to the Senate Tuesday on a voice vote. Gov. Bill Clements appointed the War on Drugs Committee and endorsed its drug legislation.

One bill conceivably could result in a life sentence for an 18-year-old who gives drugs to a 17-year-old, and the House refused by lopsided votes to soften it. Rep. Paul Elizondo, D-San Antonio, attempted to raise the age that would trigger the potential life sentence from 18 to 21.

He said it would be "kind of tragic" for an 18-year-old to draw a life sentence for passing a marijuana cigarette to a 17-year-old.

Elizondo's amendment failed, 28-105, and a subsequent attempt to raise the age to 19 failed, 38-97.

Grand jury reconvenes, Chagra's movements probed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The federal grand jury investigating the assassination of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr. reconvened today to delve into the movements of convicted drug trafficker Jimmy Chagra.

The first two witnesses called today were Chagra's brother-in-law, Edward Nichols, and the operator of a Las Vegas, Nev. air charter service, Jimmy Walker.

Nichols gave his name and address and told the grand jurors he was a student at the University of Texas at El Paso, then took the fifth amendment to all other questions, according to his father, Leon Nichols.

"I didn't have anything to tell them," Walker told reporters after spending ten minutes with the jury He would not comment other than to say he had flown certain persons. Apparently the grand jury is interested in Chagra's movements during the six months he was a fugitive from mid-1979 until early 1980.

Chagra is serving a 30-year, no-pa-role sentence in federal prison for continuing criminal enterprise. He was captured in Las Vegas February 1980, after he jumped bond on his conviction by an Austin jury, Leon Nichols, a retired El Paso businessman, waited in the hallway for his son and accused the Justice Department of "harrassing" him and his son because they are in-laws of Chagra.

Haig hints Saudis might make concessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. is hinting that Saudi Arabia will make concessions to U.S. interests in the Mideast to ensure that the sale of advanced radar planes to the oil-rich Arab country doesn't threaten Israel.

Haig refused to elaborate Tuesday on details, which he said are still to be worked out, but he urged the House Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations to wait for the final Saudi package before jumping to conclusions against the sale.
"I think that it would be prudent for all to wait until they see the precise character, nature and modality of this proposed sale before they describe it as the most dangerous threat facing the state of Israel,"

He assured the panel that President Reagan's "firm commitment to maintain Israel's qualitative advantage (over Arab military forces) will be

The administration is delaying the deal until at least mid-summer, however, to avoid interferring with the June 30 Israeli elections and to give Congress time to work with the White House on final details. The chairman of the House subcommittee, Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., is a leading opponent of the sale, which he contends would threaten Israel's security.

Several members of the subcommittee told Haig on Tuesday that they cannot support the sale without Saudi concessions on oil and cooperation in seeking a Middle East peace settlement.

Haig hinted in reply that such concessions are being sought.

It's cleanup time!

Midland Chamber of Commerce and the City of Midland conducted a joint citywide clean-up late last year - and it was so successful they decided to do it again this Midlanders will have the opportunity May 18 through June 1 to get rid of some of that unsightly, unsanitary clutter that's been collecting around their homes over the winter months. Dead tree limbs, large trash items, old appliances and junk vehicles can be removed during the spring cleanup campaign, according to Fred Baker, director of public works for the city.

All the city is asking is that the chamber be notified at least a week in advance of large items that need to be removed and that other items to be removed be placed alongside dumpsters. That's little enough to ask for the benefit most Midlanders will receive from the cleanup cam-

The object, of course, is to make safer place in which to live.

"We're hoping people jump in and get rid of those items that are unneeded, unwanted and unsightly," Baker added.

The campaign conducted in mid-November last year was extremely successful. Baker noted that about 1,000 telephone calls were received in connection with that cleanup period. City and chamber officials are hoping for an even greater response to the campaign this time.

The cooperative spirit between the chamber and the city should serve to inspire Midlanders to get involved in the cleanup campaign. Most Midlanders are involved in yardwork, garage cleaning and other spring cleanup work at this time of the year anyway. It only will take a little more effort to become completely involved in the cleanup program.

Spring is synonomous with freshness and cleanliness. Let's all get involved in the spring cleanup campaign and make Midland a city we can all be proud to

Blood-for-cardiologist arrangement quashed

Protecting a machine gun can entail major expense

Rumor has it that the military is asking to go ahead with the ABM system, which had been scrubbed as too expensive and riot practical by two U.S. presidents and Congress.

The Pentagon says it needs the anti-ballistic missile system to protect its MX missile system, which is now being built.

It wouldn't surprise me if the next step would be a request to build a new system to protect the ABM system, so it could protect the MX system.

The military should not be criticized for wanting to build all the new systems. It is c'harged with guaranteeing our security, and it's very difficult for a civilian to say the military doesn't need what it's asking for. Let me give you an example of how it works. As part of our strategic defense, it was decided to build a 50-caliber machine gun emplacement in Utah manned by two soldiers, a PFC and a corporal.

Then someone in planning suggested that they put in an anti-aircraft gun to protect the machine gun. This was OK'd. But the Army officer pointed out that you couldn't have an anti-aircraft gun without infantry protection, and a battalion of GIs was ordered to build a perimeter around the anti-nircraft gun.

Air Force said you can't have a bunch of soldiers guarding a large gun without air protection, so the Army engineers were called in to build a fighter strip, and a squadron of F-16 planes was assigned to the area to give the GIs fighter cover.

As soon as the squadron was in place, strategic planners recom-mended an armored division to protect the planes against ground attack. But everyone knows an armored division is vulnerable without tactical nuclear weapons. So a top-secret tac-tical nuclear force was assigned to protect the tanks.

There was some nervousness in the Pentagon that the tactical nuclear weapons were subject to a surprise attack by the Russians, since they were only capable of firing ground-toground missiles. So the Air Force was assigned the job of digging silos for ground-to-air missiles with the role of knocking down the Soviet missiles before they could wipe out a large part of Utah.

Pentagon intelligence got word that the Russians had the area pinpointed and told their bosses that, in a first-strike raid, they found the commies could knock out the ground-to-air missiles, endangering the armored division, the fighter strip, the antiaircraft gun and the machine gun

A meeting of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was called, and it was recommended that a SAC bomber base be placed in the area as a warning to the Russians that we intended to protect our 50-caliber machine gun at any

But there were those in the Pentagon who felt this would not be a strong enough deterrent. They recommended we build a MX missile system in Utah, making it possible to move our missiles around underground, so the Soviets would not know where they were. The cost was estimated at $30 billion, but because of inflation and delays, the true price placed on it was $60 billion

To really do it right, they would need 25-percent of Utah and Nevada. for the construction site.

The president was all for it and said he wanted the project to proceed right

It was only after work started on the MX missile system, that a Pentagon task force came up with a report that the system had a weakness. Rather than pinpoint the target, the Soviets would now have to devastate two states for insurance.

The only answer was for the U.S. military to bring back the anti-ballistic-missile system, and place it in the surrounding states as a means of stopping the Russian missiles from doing their jobs.

The probability of Congress buying this now is much greater than it was during detente, and the Pentagon feels if it doesn't get the ABM during this administration it never will.

As for the machine gun which started the entire ball rolling, it's been sold to El Salvador where it is now guarding the presidential palace.

Reagan says shooting won't make him hang up his cleats

WASHINGTON - It is fair to ask, what psychological effect did the shooting have on President Reagan? Will he have the same confidence and enthusiasm for his job, knowing how unpredictable his personal security

In his interview last week, the president acknowledged that "I'll be more alert" when out in public, and on reviewing reports of his previous exposures to crowds, he wondered, "Well, why didn't this happen 27 times before?' Those who have visited the president say he is showing no psychological effects of the March 30 assassination attempt. Naturally his White House associates claim that he is as chipper as ever and eager to get back to a full-time work schedule. He smiled broadly when he walked into a Cabinet meeting last week, and received a standing ovation. Mr. Reagan's speech to a joint-session of Congress this week is a sort of test of his public composure. He could well open that address with, "Well, as I was saying . . . " Mr. Reagan was pushing his economic program in a speech the day he was shot. In the four weeks since, the entire nation spent one week focused on the medical conditions of the president and the other three wounded men; Congress took two weeks off for Easter holidays; and perhaps one week was devoted to substantive legislative work. The White House - and the president's program - were greatly slowed by the effects of that frightful Monday.

No matter how stout his spirit, Mr. Reagan has to be shook by his experience. He lost a great deal of blood from that wound, and if he hadn't been rushed to a hospital with excellent shock-trauma facilities, he would have been a goner. "It still seems unreal," he said last week. It is understandable that it hasn't sunk into the president's mind that the four men wounded that day could just as easily have been killed.

The first optimistic reports about his medical condition, and the flow of Reagan wit and humor from the hospital, gave the country a lift. Now the reality is that his recovery has slowed, and he is still in pain. One lousy bullet can cause a lot of mis-

John Connally was badly wounded the day President Kennedy was assassinated. He tried to rise from his seat in the limousine, but fell over. His chest had a jagged wound, his lung collapsed, and he was in severe pain. But Connally's commanding presence was not diminished by this shocking experience. He never showed fear of crowds after that, nor lost his relish for politics or public

President Johnson initially was afraid that there was a worldwide conspiracy against the U.S. government and was quite apprehensive immediately after the shooting of President Kennedy. Most public figures exposed to the quick violence of demented persons cannot afford to think about it. But if a public figure has been wounded, or come close, that's another story. Every man or woman in public life can't be as lucky or dramatic as, say, Teddy Roosevelt was when he was running for President in 1912. Roosevelt was wounded during a campaign speech in Milwaukee. Instead of withdrawing, he continued speaking, and when the crowd surged toward the man who shot him, Teddy cried: 'Stand back! Don't hurt the man!" Despite a bullet in his chest, T.R. continued to speak, and waved a bloody handkerchief to emphasize his

The attitude of a public figure who has been wounded toward returning to crowd scenes is one matter. There is also the soul-searching that follows such violence. John Connally and Robert F. Kennedy became fatalistic about life after Dallas. LBJ, after that initial trepidation, paid no mind to the dangers although the violent demonstrations against the Vietnam war caused him to spend more time inside or visiting military bases.

We really don't now what searing effect his bad experience has had on the psyche of Mr. Reagan. He has always felt comfortable about himself, and was convinced that he didn't have to work 14 hours a day to govern a state or lead a nation. So his days ran to eight hours. He came into the presidency, resolved to make major changes in government and in our economy. His confidants say that his spirit wasn't diminished a bit by that black Monday. When he was interviewed last week about how he "felt," one question dealt with whether he wanted "to hang up your cleats . . . because of this incident.

An official indicated this might happen because, he explained to my associate Lucette Lagnado, while they can't seem to find a law that allows such a practical arrange-

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE: On the staff of every president are image personality appeals to the American public. Then they try to fit their man into the mold. But in the case of Ronald Reagan, the image of a warm, just-folks guy seems to be authentic. He does not change personalities when he moves from his private world into the public spotlight. - President Reagan has made a believer even out of the most important Democrat on Capitol Hill -House Speaker Tip O'Neill. Maybe it's the way the White House has treated him. O'Neill has been wined and dined by the Reagans. This star treatment has obviously impressed him. He recently told friends that Reagan is "the most popular president since George Washington." That's a startling statement to come from a deepdyed Democratic partisan like Tip O'Neill.

Pneumonia rate rises after biological tests

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) - Recently declassified documents indicate the Army conducted 12 open-air biologi-cal warfare tests at Fort McClellan in 1952 — the same year pneumonia cases rose by 240 percent in Calhoun County in east Alabama, resulting in

Bacteria used by the Army during the tests were capable of causing pneumonia, according to the docu-ments obtained by The Anniston Star under the Freedom of Information

There has been no scientific evidence of a link between the tests and the cases, but the Army conducted the tests despite debate within its biological warfare command over the safety of the bacteria, the Star said in a four-part series last week.

The Army contends that any relationship between the illnesses and the testing was coincidental.

Before the tests at McClellan. which lies adjacent to Anniston, one top army officer tried to cancel all open-air field exercises involving this bacteria near populated areas, the newspaper said.

Brig. Gen. William M. Creasey took the action when one civilian died after open-air tests in California in 1950, the Star said. A $300,000 lawsuit stemming from the death is now before the courts in San Francisco.

The two organisms used in both tests were Serratia marcescens and Bacillus globigii. The latter still is considered harmless. But after the California tests in 1950, debate began on the effect of Serratia marcescens bacteria, the Star said.

The McClellan tests involved spraying bacteria into the air from aircraft, exploding dozens of bacteria-filled bombs and dispersing clouds of bacteria through powerful generators, according to the government documents.

According to a 1953 Army report, the purpose of the tests from July 16 to Sept. 28, 1952 was "to determine some potential markets" of the tactical use of biological warfare."

In 1951, 98 pneumonia cases were reported in Calhoun County, 4.6 percent of the state's total. In 1952, 333 cases were reported, or 12.3 percent. In 1952, 29 people died of pneumonia in the county. The following year, 139 cases were reported, or 4 percent of

The Army did not monitor the McClellan or the San Francisco tests to determine if a relationship between the illnesses and the bacteria existed,

By 1969, the military officially recognized that Serratia marcescens had "limited pathogenic (disease causing) capabilities and should not be used for study of experimental infections in man ... (it is) an opportunist, producing disease if man is exposed to large doses and-or when the body defenses are weakened by debilitory disease, drug abuse or antibiotics.' During the 1950 California tests, a combined Army-Navy operation used both kinds of bacteria. Without informing the residents of San Francisco, military personnel sprayed con-centrations of the two bacteria into the air from a ship.

Several cases of infection by chromobacteria, a group to which Serratia marcescens belongs, were reported within weeks after the tests.

On May 20, 1952, Creasey, the commanding general of the research and engineering command of the Army Chemical Center, issued a confidential order ordering a halt to tests involving use of "viable non-pathogenic organisms ... over populated areas which contain hospitals or similar institutions," the Star said.

Other Army officials protested Creasey's order as over-reaction to the California tests, the newspaper said. A committee was formed to study the Serratia marcescens' effects — the summer the tests were conducted at Fort McClellan.

The committee reported on Aug. 5, 1952 that the bacteria should contin to be used in tests, even over populat-ed areas, but monitoring should be conducted to determine whether the infections were "purely coincidental or ... related to biological warfare field tests," the Star said.

Hate campaign against small town a mystery

VINTONDALE, Pa. (AP) — Vintondale is an old coal-mining town tucked in the mountains east of Pittsburgh, but the mine that once provided steady work was exhausted years ago. Some 850 people still live here, most of them old and retired. They have elected the same man mayor for 35 unbroken years. But for the past year, someone has waged a hate campaign against the town and the mayor, a string of bombings, mail threats, attempted extortion and the apparent poisoning of the public water supply.

"Everybody's concerned. It would be a lie to say they're not," Bill Roberts said as he sipped a beer while waiting on customers at the service station he has operated for three decades at the end of Main Street.

"I don't think anybody knows what to do about it. And the police, like everywhere, are spread too thin,"

"Somebody has a vendetta, probably against me," said the beleaguered bly against me," said the beleaguered mayor, Stephen Oblackovich. "I just wish they'd get off my back."

Vintondale has one police officer, Chief Leroy Campbell. "It's all connected. It's all one thing," he said. "We have no idea who's behind it at this point. But I think the guy has a grudge against the whole town." grudge against the whole town.'

The mystery, already under investigation by state police, has recently drawn the interest of federal authorities, chiefly agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

State troopers and BATF agents have made a psychological profile of possible suspects and are studying who might have access to explosives and harbor any sort of grudge, said a BATF agent who asked not to be identified. The agent said the U.S. Attorney's office is coordinating the

Last October, the Shuman Run Reservoir, then the sole source of the town's water, was found polluted with kerosene and asbestos, apparently deliberately, officials say.

Health authorities forbade area residents to drink tap water for four days, until the water system could be hooked up to the Bracken Run Reservoir, a more remote water source located in woods outside of town.

Texans generally enthusiastic on budget speech

By CHARLES RICHARDS Associated Prss Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas congressmen reacted enthusiastically Tuesday night to President Reagan's speech, and most of them said his appeal guaranteed passage of his economic recovery program now before them.

"He did an excellent job. He had a firm grip and a great smile and it was apparent he was glad to be back in front of Congress," Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, said after the address.

"My prediction is the bipartisan budget proposal will pass by at least 40 to 50 votes. There's no doubt he won votes tonight, and the speech was so excellent he'll pick up even more votes between tonight and next Tuesday," Hance added.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, termed Reagan an excellent communicator and said he accomplished what he set out to do - "increase popular support for his economic program and reassure Americans that their president is back in full command after the attempt on his life."

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said: "The president has sounded an impressive rallying cry to the Congress for support of a program the vast majority of our people want, a program that will set us on the road to economic recovery.

Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas, said he greeted the president as he was leaving the House chambers. "I told him that was the most enthusiasm I've seen in eight terms of Congress. The warmth with which he was greeted was amazing," Collins said.

At one point, the Republican lawmakers stood in an ovation. Although the Democrats for the most part remained seated, Collins said, "I felt a hundred of them wanted to stand. We all stood and they were sitting and then some of them began to feel the call, as we say in church, and a lot of them (Democrats) finally stood up too.

Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, the minority deputy whip in the House, said: "The American people have popped the whip, and the president has set the course and thrown us a perfect loop. It is now up to Congress to cut the slack out of the rope.

Loeffler said he strongly supports the bipartisan resolution so warmly endorsed by the president "and I will fight any scheme that weakens our defense capability, increases our spending and raises our

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, a veteran Democrat whose San Antonio district would be among those most affected by the cuts to social programs Reagan has recommended, said the president's speech didn't change his vote.

"I was delighted to see him look so well and fit. I had been one of those who had really prayed for him and those who were wounded, so that was a happy note," Gonzalez said.

"However, he didn't succeed in recruiting me in his war against the poor, and the elderly, and the handicapped, and the students, and other targets of what would happen if we were to rubber stamp the recommendations thus far given," Gonzalez added.

"But essentially, the main thing was that he's fully recovered and looks good, trim and fit.'

Rep. Bill Archer, R-Houston, said: "I feel better about this nation's economic welfare right now than I've felt in years. The president talked straight to Congress and I think Congress responded. He has once more proved he is totally in tune with the thinking of the American people."

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, one of the two co-sponsors of the bipartisan budget version that Reagan favors, called it "a strong, effective speech. The president has an ability to communicate complex ideas in simple, straightforward ways that people understand."

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, said he thought the president sounded a little weak at first, "but I thought it was well done. I committed to his economic goals when he first articulated them some time ago. Last week, I personally committed to the president to support the Gramm-Latta substitute, and I believe it'll pass."

Questions remain on Reagan tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - As President Reagan declares that his economic program "is the only answer we have left," his tax-cut proposal remains a question in Congress. And there are signs it is in

In an address before a joint session of Congress on Tuesday night, Reagan pictured his economic program, built around tax cuts and reductions in the growth of federal spending, as the courageous and creative solution demanded by a public he said is growing impatient.

"The one sure way to continue the inflationary spiral is to fall back into the predictable patterns of old economic practices," Reagan said. "Isn't it time that we tried something new?'

But many members of Congress seem willing to stick with the "old economic practices" of modest tax cuts and a balanced budget. They fea the presiden's plan for a three-year cut in personal taxes runs too great a risk of worsening inflation.

Thus, there is considerable support, especially among Democrats, for a one-year tax reduction, with further installments after spending is reined in and a balanced budget is assured.

"He'll get his entire program except he's not going to get all his tax program," Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said after the speech. "The person in the street has difficulty reconciling a big tax cut at a time of high inflation.'

A one-year tax cut is the heart of a budget blueprint drawn by the House Budget Committee for fiscal 1982, the bookkeeping year that begins next Oct. 1. Reagan would have no part of it.

"It adheres to the failed policy of trying to balance the budget on the taxpayer's back," Reagan said. "It would increase tax payments by over a third (from 1982 through 1984) — adding up to a staggering quarter-trillion dollars."

Reagan said a "giant tax increase" already is built into the system. "We propose nothing more than a reduction of that increase," he said.

"The people have a right to know that even with our plan they will be paying more in taxes, but not as much more as they will without it," he said. Reagan's proposal would result in a $120 billion increase in taxes between 1982 and 1984. In a new effort to woo conservative Democrats, House leaders lofted a trial balloon Tuesday that would produce a balanced budget in 1982 - two years ahead of Reagan's schedule - but only at the cost of delaying any personal tax cut until Oct. 1, 1982. "Oh, no," Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan told reporters. "I wouldn't agree to that at all." Reagan apparently is assured at least a temporary victory on spending reductions, with indications that both the House and Senate are ready to approve target budgets for 1982 that are close to what he recommended. And, while those targets would accommodate gis three-year cut in personal income-tax rates, they would not assure it at all.

Any votes out there?

session of Congress Tuesday night, assembled to hear President Ronald Reagan's speech on his economic package. Democrats trying to stall

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan's economic speech to Congress is sending House Democratic leaders scrambling to slow the "velvet steamroller" that seems to be flattening opposition to his proposals for slashing federal spending. While Republicans praised Reagan's nationally broadcast speech Tuesday night and predicted it will increase momentum for his proposed budget and tax cuts, Democrats reassessed their position and looked for a way to bring their own defectors back into the fold.

With a solid Republican majority in the Senate, the administration is almost assured of victory there. Just hours before Reagan's personal appeal, the Senate Budget Committee gave the president a major victory by approving a budget blueprint that accommodates the sharp spending and tax cuts he

DEAR ABBY

Dating-waiting struggle

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a very pretty and bright 11-year-old daughter who for the past several months has been asking for permission to "go with" boys. Many of Debby's friends (her age) are forming such attachments, however temporary and innocent, and Debby wants to follow suit.

I told her I thought she was much too young to be going with boys, and she was very disappointed and resentful. Abby, if you agree with me, please tell me how to handle this without alienating my daughter. It is so important that Debby and I be good friends during this very important time in her life. — DEBBY'S MOTH-

DEAR MOTHER: I'm not sure I know what "going with" means in this case, but don't panic. To some youngsters, a telephone conversation once a week means you're "going with" someone.

I agree, an 11-year-old girl is much too young to date boys, but as soon as children indicate that they want to socialize with the opposite sex, they should be allowed to do so in order to build healthy boy-girl relationships. Encourage well-chaperoned get-togethers, and make all Debby's friends welcome in your home. You will not alienate your daughter by refusing to let her go out with boys at her age. All youngsters need guidelines and rules. They feel more loved and secure when they know their limits.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, middle-aged, still fit and attractive. I have many friends, divorced or widowed - all women. In seeking male companionship we have tried the singles clubs and find them abhorrent. We don't want to go to singles bars. Everyone says, "Engage in activities that interest you and you will meet men who are interested in similar

OK, I'm doing that, but, Abby, how do you know who is single and who isn't in big, general gatherings?

I'm considering starting a trend of having single people wear a button — maybe with an "S" or "Single" — so we can identify each other on trains, planes, walking on the beach, at an art gallery, whatever.

Is this a sound idea, or would such a button look like a come-on, or worse yet, solicitation? I'm desperate, but not that desperate. - M.

DEAR M.: It wouldn't work. Married folks who want to pass as singles would wear the button.

DEAR ABBY: IN CONFIDEN-TIAL TO THINKING IT OVER IN SALEM, N.J., you wisely pointed out that "money isn't everything."

That caused me to recall the words of B.C. Forbes, the founder of Forbes magazine: "The money or place of fame that our endeavors may bring when crowned with so-called success will not yield all the joy we anticipated; such things may charm, may tickle our vanity, may effervesce a hectic sort of happiness for a little while; but we soon find out teeth grating at the core. The consciousness of the worthwhileness of the achievement itself can alone produce in us a state of happiness. Riches are mental, not material." - ARTHUR H.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are facing an upcoming event with great joy and trepidation. We will soon be adopting an infant. For us, it will be an occasion for much happiness after many years of failing to conceive a baby.

Our anticipated problem concerns my husband's parents, who live close enough for monthly visits. Grandma and Grandpa are less than thrilled about our adopting a child, even though it will be an infant of our racial background. (They make Archie Bunker look like a liberal.)

Our fear is that they will reject our child, which could cause a family split. There are natural grandchildren to compare our child with.

We hope our fears are ill-founded, but if discrimination occurs, what should we do? - EXPECTANT PAR-

DEAR PARENTS: I suggest you give no thought to what Grandma and Grandpa "might" say, do or think. Should your fears become realities, write again, and I will offer some appropriate suggestions.

(Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

A fireplace-cleaning "blueprint" isn't really necessary for the job, but this one might help:

FIRST STEPS

First, spread a plastic dropcloth or newspapers around the hearth to prevent damage to floor or carpeting. Remove chunks of logs and ashes that have accumulated. Use a wide spatula or scraper to dislodge sooty deposits from the fireplace walls.

CHECK CHIMNEY

And, while you're down on your hands and knees, it's a good time to take flashlight in hand and check out the condition of the chimney itself. Heavy accumulations of soot and creosote in the flue can cause smoking by restricting the upward movement of gases — and it can result in fires.

Make it a practice to clean the chimney regularly - once a year if the fireplace gets frequent use. Clean it twice a year if you build a fire every

FIREPLACE ACCESSORIES

Take fireplace tools and screens outside and sweep or vacuum them before wahing with detergent and water. Avoid using abrasives such as powder or teel wool on brass, copper

To clean heat-resistant glass doors on some fireplaces, do the job only when they're cool to te touch.

For cleaning brick and masonry fireplaces, there are commercial cleaning products designed to do these jobs. They are made to safely remove grime, grease, smoke, soot and discoloration. Is your household haunted by a ouse or garden problem?

Duil decor, droopy dahlias, cramped closets, high heating costs, leaky faucets, leaky roof? These things can turn a home sweet home into a nightmare.

To tackle such traumas and recapture the dream house quality of your home life, you need to know what to do, how to do it, who can help and what it will cost.

In other words, what you need is information.

And the place to go for information is the library.

The library is the best information center around. It has up-to-date books, magazines and newspaper articles on everything from construction to cutting gardens, from how to finance a house to how to build a retaining wall, from how to appraise collectibles to how to get energy tax credits. Whether you want to know about interior design or exterior refurbishing, kitchens or bathrooms, anemones or zinnias, creative financing or creative decorating, the library is the place to start.

To make the most of a good thing, experts at the American Library Association offer these tips: USE THE LIBRARY AS AN IDEA BANK. Before making any home furnishing, decorating, remodeling, purchase or landscaping decisions, clarify your ideas by looking through books and magazines at the library.

Economical heating with kerosene

By TED WILSON Copley News Service

If you are looking for an inexpensive way to heat the basement you are about to refinish or your newly added family room, take a good look at a portable kerosene heater.

Portable kerosene heaters are fast becoming a major heat source for basement playrooms and new additions. They are especially popular with do-it-yourselfers, as they eliminate the high cost of prossional installation of electric heating units or central heating air ducts or plumbing.

Unlike the "pot burners" of a previous generation, the heaters are virtually odorless and

And they can actually save you money. A portable kerosene heater that costs $230, for example, may very well pay for itself during the first heating season because of its highly efficient burner mechanism

Some of the new heaters are 99.9 percent efficient and will heat a large 13x25-foot room for more than 24 hours on less than two gallons of fuel.

Some smaller models will burn nearly 40 hours without refilling.

In addition to saving you money, the heaters will provide an extra measure of comfort in virtually

Before buying a portable kerosene heater, one user had to close off the den over her garage every winter because heating it overburdened the central heating system — and sent her fuel bill through the roof. With the kerosene heater, she is now able to use the room year-round.

Although most people use the units in the winter as an alternative or supplement to central heat, more and more people are using them in the spring and summer on sun porches and in vacation homes to ward off the morning and evening chill.

Another advantage is that the new portable heaters are safer than their predecessors. The better ones have a number of safety features built in and some have been approved by nationally recognized testing services, such as Underwriters' Laboratories.

"There are a wide variety of portable space heaters on the market today, but not all heaters are appropriate for all uses," said William Litwin, president of Kero-Sun Inc. "Consumers should look for and demand the latest technology, especially where safety is concerned."

Better units are constructed of heavy gauge steel with protective grills and an automatic sl device that snuffs out the flame if the heater is jarred. To guard against tipping, new technology heaters have a low center of gravity with the fuel tank located below the burner. Many units have convenience features such as battery-powered ignition and base trays to protect floors and carpets.

Determining the heater that is best for you is not difficult. A good rule of thumb is to multiply the number of square feet in the room or area that you want to heat by 28. That gives you the number of British thermal units (Btu) that the unit must generate. Look for a heater with the clo-

Egan has said the system must end or it will destroy the guild. But publishers view the cost-savings as essential to remaining competitive. They maintain many clerical employees are paid considerably more than workers in similar jobs at private

As the Allied Printing Trades Council, composed of leaders of 10 AFL-CIO unions, joined by Murray Schwartz, president of the independent Deliverers, met with guild officials, negotiations among the papers and the guild proceeded.

Federal mediator Robert L. Kyler continued efforts to resolve remaining issues between the Publishers Association of New York City, bargaining for the News and Times, while the Post bargained separately with other guild officials.

There was agreement among the unions on an economic pattern set earlier by the Deliverers. It called for increases in weekly pay of $124 over a three-year term, retroactive to March 31. Included was a cost of living adjustment for inflation exceeding 6 percent in the final two years. Current pay ranges from $400 a week for paper andlers to $617 for experienced reporters and photographers under the pact which expired March 30.

Rush-hour protest planned in Boston

BOSTON (AP) - State police were put on alert for an early-morning demonstration by off-duty police officers, firefighters and others angry with stiff cutbacks in the police and fire departments. Demonstrations were planned for 7 a.m. EDT today on five major thoroughfares leading into Boston from the suburbs, according to Richard Besse, an off-duty firefighter.

"Basically, we want to tell the people that the firefighters and police have enough problems pro-tecting the city and can't deal with one and a half million people coming in from the suburbs because of the cutbacks," Besse said Tuesday.

"This is their capital city. They use it every day. They want protection from us. But they do nothing for us. This capital city needs their support.' Off-duty police officers and firefighters and others planned to participate, said Besse.

The protests followed two weeks of demonstrations at the tunnels in East Boston and citizen takeovers of vacated police and fire stations in East and South Boston and the Charlestown neighborhoods.

About 200 police and 200 firefighters have been laid off recently and police and fire stations closed in an economy drive.

Hair or fiber found on body of dead New York violinist

NEW YORK (AP) -Hair or fiber was recovered from between the breasts of violinist Helen Hagnes Mintiks when her crushed body was found in an airshaft of the Metropolitan Opera House, the city's chief medical examiner has testified

Dr. Elliott Gross was not asked the significance of the hair or fiber Tuesday when he testified during the trial of former Met stagehand Craig Crimmins, 22, who is charged with Mrs. Mintiks' murder. The existence of the hair or fiber was not disclosed before.

Gross reiterated his ruling that Mrs. Mintiks was alive when she fell down the shaft. He said she died of "multiple fractures of the skull and ribs" when she landed on a steel beam inside the shaft. Gross also testified he had ordered samples taken from various parts of the body to be exa mined for the presence of semen. He did not disclose the results. Prosecutors, quoting

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE

Epilepsy not associated with mental illness in any way

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

QUESTION: Are epileptics also usually mentally ill? It seems to me that quite a few people who have epilepsy also have mental problems.

ANSWER: Epilepsy is a neurological condition which is usually associated with abnormal electrical activity within the brain. This abnormal electrical activity can be detected by means of an electroencephalogram (EEG). Epilepsy may occur without a known cause or it may result from an injury, lesion, trauma or toxin which has affected the brain.

Epilepsy is not a mental illness nor is it associated with mental problems in any statistically significant way. That is to say a person with epilepsy is no more likely to have mental problems than is a person with dia-betes or asthma or whatever.

Persons with epilepsy often do have problems in adjusting to their disorder. Society still often views the epileptic as some sort of deviant. The epileptic, throughout recorded history, has been the object of many superstitious beliefs and practices.
The epileptic has been thought to have special gifts or powers, which were derived either from God or from the devil. To this day, many people look upon the epileptic as a "posperson or as someone who has been singled out for some kind of divine intervention or punishment.

Facing this set of beliefs and misconceptions, many epileptics find it difficult to adjust and function well in a psychological sense. Many potential employers are reluctant to hire an epileptic, not because of any danger to the epileptic in the work area, but because of the stigma and embarrassment which is often associated with the epileptic seizure.

Of course, there are work environments which do present a hazard to the epileptic whose seizure are not well controlled. Many epileptics, however, are well controlled with medication and the element of danger in the work area is therefore quite mini-

The epileptic's problems in adjusting to his condition and to the reaction of society may manifest themselves as anger, suspiciousness, anxiety, depression or withdrawal from people. Many epileptics, however, are quite well-adjusted. Through education, society may be helped to alter its sometimes archaic beliefs about and practices toward epileptics. Such a change would go far to lessen the adjustment problems that may epileptics experi-

QUESTION: What is meant by a person having a "split personality?" I have heard this term used a lot and am not sure what it means.

ANSWER: The term "split personality" has a very vague and indefinite meaning. One reason for the confusion is that movies and television programs which have depicted people with more than one distinct personality, such as "Three Faces of Eve" or "Sybil," have referred to these people as having "split personalities" or even "schizophrenic."

A person with more than one distinct personality is a very rare occurrence. Such disorders are not schizophrenia, despite popular misconceptions to the contrary. Conversely, schizophrenia is not manifested by

"split personality" therefore has very little information value and is not used by clinicians in the field, since its meaning varies depending upon who uses the term.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the munitions and weapons maintenance field.

Smoke can cause loss of appetite

Dear Dr. Solomon: I can really sympathize with people who find it difficult to break the smoking habit. I know how hard it was for me to lose a substantial amount of weight a few years ago, even though I desperately wanted to do so. I imagine that smokers must be addicted to nicotine the way I used to be addicted to food. What I don't understand, however, is why a mother can't refrain from smoking while feeding her child. A niece of mine is guilty of this, and I have all I can do to control myself and not say anything that would only create animosity between us. To top it. off, she complains that the child won't eat. I know that when I go into a restaurant and someone at a table next to mine is smoking, I lose my appetite. Isn't it possible that my niece's smoking is the reason her child is not a good eater? — Dottie

Dear Dottie: While a child may not be a good eater for a variety of reasons, what you suggest is certainly plausible. The same mechanism that causes you to lose your appetite when someone seated near you in a restaurant is smoking can operate even more strongly in a child. This has been shown to be true in laboratory mice, and logically would apply to

Even a relatively small amount of nicotine can produce nausea in a small child. Therefore, if a child is exposed to cigarette smoke at the same time that he is being fed, the infant may associate the unpleasant feeling of nausea with the food being served and develop an aversion to it.

The next time your niece complains that her child does not eat well, you might simply comment that he might be bothered by the cigarette smoke. If you keep from sounding accusatory, she might even welcome your sugges-

FAA warns against spray cans

Citizens who carry their canned weapons of Mace or other irritating chemicals with them everywhere to ward off attackers will have to get rid of the cans before boarding an air-

The Federal Aviation Administration is warning airline passengers that they face "tough penalties" if they try to bring the sprays on board an aircraft.

This, the agency said, is because the sprays are classified as dangerous weapons and as hazardous mate-

A passenger who violates the regulations barring dangerous weapons would face a fine of up to $1,000. Under the hazardous materials regulations, the penalty could go as high as a $25,000 fine or five years in prison, or both.

In addition, under local laws where possession of such sprays is illegal, the passenger could face arrest and prosecution when the substance is detected at the airport screening

The agency said it is issuing the warning because of an increase in the number of containers of these sprays being detected at screening points. At three airports in California, for ex-ample, the number of such containers detected nearly doubled from the third quarter of 1980 to the fourth quarter — from 138 to 261. Those airports were Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego.

A report from the FAA noted that similar increases have been reported at other airports and the FAA is now investigating about 100 of the alleged violations to determine if the passengers should be fined.

Ector, Winkler, get two wildcats

Two wildcats were reported in Ector and Winkler Counties of the Texas Railroad Commission district 8.

ECTOR EXPLORER:

Jack N. Blair Co. of Midland has scheduled to drill a 9,100-foot new field wildcat 11 miles west of Penwell.

The No. 2 Vest Ranch is located 5,940 feet from the north, 660 feet from the west lines of section 6, block B-14 of Public School Lands survey. The location is one mile southwest of No. 1-A Vest Ranch, a dry and abandoned wildcat, drilled to 10,885 feet and abandoned on July 5, 1951. It is also 4,000 feet southwest of a completed oil production, No. 2 Vest Ranch, in an undesignated field.

School Revenues suffer from strike

By The Associated Press

The month-long strike that has paralyzed Eastern coalfields is taking its toll on some states dependent on coal-tax revenues for running schools and paying for other government ser-

Charles Davis, a top aide to Virginia Gov. John Dalton said the "direct economic effect" of the strike by the United Mine Workers is estimated at $48 million a month. The total will climb higher when the state Department of Taxation computes the loss of miners' wages and spending power and osses incurred by coal industry support com-panies, he said.

West Virginia, home of the UMW's two largest districts, is losing up to $500,000 a day, or $15 million a month, Gov. Jay Rockefeller said Tues-

Rockefeller said coal tax losses are placing an "intolerable" burden on the public school system and has asked the state gency $8.8 million appropriation to keep the 55 county school systems open for the rest of the

In Illinois, state and local governments have lost $7.5 million in coal tax revenues during the past month, the Illinois Coal Association said. And the state's economy is suffering the loss of $30 million in miners' wages, the group added.

The union's 160,000 miners were off the job for the 34th consecutive day today, and there were no indications contract talks would resume

UMW President Sam Church was scheduled to appear at a union rally Thursday in Pittsburgh, but there has been no word whether he'll make a substantive speech. 'I'm not sure what he's going to talk about," said Donald Redman, president of UMW District 5 in western Pennsylvania. "But as far as the negotiations go, he's the chief negotiator for the UMW, and he's the only one who's getting first-hand information.'

Negotiators for the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the soft-coal industry's bargaining arm, have not met since April 17, and the BCOA has rejected subsequent union requests to return to the bargaining table.

Union officials have said rank-and-file miners are prepared for a prolonged strike. Jack Perry, president of UMW District 17 in southern West Virginia, said miners "don't want the union to beg" for a new contract.

Scattered picketing continued in several states Tuesday, but there were no reports of vio-

Elsewhere, an official of an eastern Ohio coal company trying to nego-tiate an independent contract with the UMW said he was pleased with talks Tuesday with union officials

"I think they were meeting in real good faith," said Abe Bryan, director of employee relations for Boich Mining Co., which employs 300 UMW miners.

Casey warns of dependence on foreign minerals economy would suffer a "massive shock," equal to that which would occur if oil imports were suspended.

Addressing the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Casey said American prosperity is controlled by foreign nations more than ever before.

"Others, well away from our borders, can now place their hands on our economic throttles," he said. "International threats are not limited to military ones.

"There are other power projections far more subtle because they are largely unseen and thus not readily

Among the imported minerals available mostly from southern African nations — regarded as strategic by Casey are chromite, cobalt and Without these and other minerals, we cannot make TV sets, or computers or heart-lung machines or produce high-grade stainless steel for a thousand uses," Casey said. "The implications for our defense capabilities are just as grim. No supersonic jets and no sophisticated submarines.

Casey said American access to strategic minerals is becoming increasingly questionable, partly because the Soviet Union is beginning to compete with the United States for the same resources in Third World countries.

Beyond that, control over these resources in the developing countries has been shifting from commercial to state dominance. This represents a change in the political environment which could mean a competitive ad-vantag for the oviets, he said. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., alluded to the same issue during a panel discussion before Casey spoke. Goldwater criticized previous administrations for failing to buy up critical

As one possible solution, Goldwater said he believes many strategic minerals are available in the American West but remain untapped because of environmental controls. He recommended that these controls be relaxed to permit expanded exploration.

Proponents of mining, including coal companies, have said mining in the forest will create jobs.

But the West Virginia Highlands Conservancy, in a petition filed last year, contended that acid mine drainage would destroy water quality in Shavers Fork, a tributary of the Cheat and Monongahela rivers and one of West Virginia's best trout

The group's spokesmen were not immediately available for comment. State studies have shown the fork's waters already contain relatively high levels of acid from mine sites abandoned before the area became federal property.

Boggs, however, said a yearlong study of the area commissioned by the government shows "it is possible to mine coal and protect the environment" at the same time. The decision followed a 10-year battle between environmental groups and coal companies that own mineral rights under federal land in the forest. The companies had threatened to demand compensation had mining not been approved.

'Heaven's Gate' opens slowly

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - United Artists is keeping its new, trimmed-down version of Michael Cimino's "Heaven's Gate" on release for another week, but at least one studio executive says the results of the film's premiere weekend were less than encouraging.

The second version of the film apparently is faring no better with the public than it did with critics.

Jerry Esbin, senior vice president in charge of sales and advertising for United Artists, said receipts for the $36 million film's first weekend in about 800 theaters nationwide totaled only about $1.3 million. He said he had been hoping for $5 million.

"It did extremely bad," Esbin said in a telephone intervew from UA's New York headquarters. "I haven't seen numbers this low on a major motion picture in my life."

Despite poor reviews and public response, Esbin said United Artists would keep the picture in release for at least another week but was scaling down its promotional campaign to newspapers only.

"I'm not supporting it (with ads and promotion) the way I would have if it did what I asked it to do the first week, but I am supporting it with newsprint so people know where it's playing "Esbin said.

Esbin is hoping there is a "group out there that didn't get to it the first week."

"The picture is not a classic," he said. "It won't go down in the annals as being 'Godfather.' It won't go down in the annals of being an Ingmar Bergman picture. It won't be a 'Deer Hunter,' another one of Ciminoglpictures. But whatever it won't go down for, I don't think it's that bad a picture for the reception it's getting.... But I guess that's what makes horse rac-

The original 219-minute film was edited into a 153-minute version of an epic of cattlemen-farmer warfare in 1892 Wyoming. The new version opened last Friday after five months of re-editing.

The first version opened in New York last October to brutal reviews. United Artists immediately withdrew the film, and director Cimino made more than 300

But critics Friday found the film to be little improved: The Herald Examiner called it "a child's idea of a great movie;" the Los Angeles Times said the movie had the "same resonance as a salad oil commercial;" Daily Variety called it "still too far from Paradise," and The Associated Press said, "Rarely has a majr film ben so badly acted."

Times Mirror earns operating profit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Times Mirror Co. reported Tuesday that its first-quarter earnings rose to $25.99 million from $24.35 million a year earlier as operating profits improved for most of the company's divisions. Newspaper publishing profits improved 17 percent, the company said, with significant contributions from newspapers in the company's major metropolitan markets and from The Denver Post, which Times Mirror acquired Dec. 30, 1980. The profits amounted to 76 cents a share, up from 71 cents a share in the first quarter of 1980. Revenues for the latest quarter rose to $500.7 million from $403.3 million in the first three months last year.

Times Mirror noted that because of an accounting change, the first quarter of 1981 was five days longer than the first quarter last year.

Anti-war march set for Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) - In an echo of the Vietnam era a decade ago, anti-war activists are gearing up for their first major national protest aganst U.S. military involvement in El Salvador - a march Sunday on the Pentagon.

While hesitant to give a firm prediction on how many people will take part, organizers for the People's Anti-War Mobilization said they expect "tens of thousands" to participate from as far west as Texas and as far north as Minnesota.

"This will be the largest manifestation of resistance to Reagan's war policies and insane domestic policies," said Brian Becker, a national organizer for the march. "We expect this to be a kickoff to a new movement.

Smaller marches are planned Sunday in San Francisco, Seattle, Denver, Kansas City and Tucson,

The focus of the protests will be President Reagan's decision to increase the number of U.S. military advisers in El Salvador from 34 to 54 and to send $25 million in weapons to bolster the ruling junta. But organizers also are trying to link that action to the president's proposed cuts in domestic spending.

"Given the cutback in social services, many black and minority groups see ... a connection between another war drive and the money going into an already bloated Pentagon budget," said Bill Roundtree, another march organizer.

One of the march's slogans, a reference to the unsolved murders of black children in Atlanta, says: "Defend Atlanta's Children, Not El Salvador's

Although many of the organizers are veterans of Vietnam protests in the late 1960s and early 1970s, march organizers say a new generation of college students has become active in the anti-El Salvador demonstrations

"People who were too young to be involved in the anti-war movement (a decade ago) are responding to the call," Becker said.

Much of the opposition has come on college campuses, largely with teach-ins and picketing, tactics reminiscent of the Vietnam era.

But unlike the Vietnam protests, the early leadership of the anti-El Salvador movement came from U.S. Catholic leaders, some of whom apparently are shying away from Sunday's march.

"This is not an activity they (religious leaders) are supporting very strongly," said Heidi Tarver, coordinator for the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador, a group founded largely by Catholic critics of Reagan's policies. "They're not very interested in going to the Pentagon.'

The Pentagon protest is supported by about 20 civil rights, labor, student, religious, homosexual and community organizations around the country, march organizers said.

A young boy suffering from burns hangs onto a tree at a refugee camp at Labermuda, about 30 miles north of San Salvador recently. About 2,200 people have taken refuge from the country's civil war. Eighty percent of the refugees are children.

Government says it foiled sea invasion of Dominica

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Ten wellarmed adventurers - including several alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan — planned a sea assault to take over the tiny Caribbean nation of Dominica, federal authorities allege.

Bonds totaling $4.6 million were set Tuesday for the men, who were arrested as they headed to port to launch a boat they allegedly planned to use for the attack.

Today, we're trying to figure out why these people are here, who they are and why they decided to do these things," Edmund J. Pistey, FBI agent in charge of the New Orleans office, said Tuesday in announcing the arrests.

Officials said the plan apparently was to use one boat to invade the Windward Islands nation of 70,000 people — an island one-fourth the size of Rhode Island. Confiscated were several automatic weapons, handguns, 20 sticks of dynamite and plastic explosives.

Two undercover agents from the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms stayed with the men for three months, authorities said, putting up $15,600 to buy and equip a vessel for the 2,000-mile trip from

But when the agents drove the men to the spot where they were supposed to launch their voyage, they were met by local, state and federal law enforcement officers.

"You are accused of furnishing money for a naval expedition to overthrow the Republic of Dominica," Magistrate Kenneth Hughes said at Tuesday's arraignment.

Three in the group were reported to have Klan ties.

U.S. Attorney John Volz would not confirm reports about the alleged Klan membership of several of those arrested.

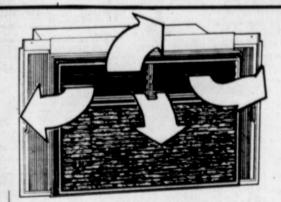

Pistey said Eugenia Charles, Dominica's prime minister, had been notified of the alleged conspiracy against her island nation

Arrested were the alleged ringleader, Michael E. Perdue, 32, of Houston; Don Black, 27, of Birmingham, Ala.; William B. Waldrop, 33, of Braxton, Miss.; George T. Malvaney, 21, and Joe D. Hawkins, 37, both of Jackson, Miss.; Michael S. Norris, 21, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Robert W. Prichard Jr., 30, of Raleigh, N.C.; Christopher B. Anderson, 41, of Oklahoma City; Larry L. Why sweat out another hot summer?

With an evaporative cooler, you'll enjoy outside air that's washed until it's fresh and cool. Pollen, dust and major pollutants are filtered out. And an evaporative cooler is most effective during the hottest time of day—that's when humidity is lowest. Instead of the stale, recirculated air that refrigeration provides, you'll get outside air that's as refreshing as a spring breeze.

Yet an evaporative cooler costs less to buy, less to install and up to 75% less to operate than refrigeration. So you can tear up most of your air conditioning bill.

Rebels drill Steers, 14-6

By MIKE CRUVER Sports Writer

Midland Lee took advantage of 11 walks issued by Big Spring pitchers and some timely hitting to post a 14-6 win over the Steers in an important District 5-5A contest Tuesday afternoon at the Lee diamond.

The victory leaves the Rebels with a 3-0 second half district record while the Steers slip to 2-1.

Coach Emie Johnson said, "If we can win four more games we will be district champions. But, winning four straight in this district is hard to

Lee jumped on the Steers quickly. In the first inning, Randy Velarde led off with a single but was erased when Barry Blackwell hit into a double play. With two outs, it looked like the Steers would get out of the inning without any trouble. That third out was a long time coming. Lee bunched two hits, three walks and three Steer errors into five big runs.

AFTER BLACKWELL hit into the DP, Ron Smedley reached on an error and Alan Koonce followed with a RBI double. Bill Dern was safe on an error and then Koonce scored when Chris Parker's grounder was bobbled by Tom Rogriguez at short.

With all the errors behind him, Steer starter Moe Robio lost his composure and walked Ricky Wright and Barry Corley to force in a run. Randy Pepper chased home a run with an infield hit and Blackwell ended the inning by grounding out.

In the second inning, the Rebels were at it again. Smedley grounded out, Koonce doubled to left, Dern struck out, Koonce scored on a passed ball as Parker walked and Wright then doubled to right field for a run. Rubio walked three straight batters to force in one run before Steer coach Frank Ibarra went to his bullpen for Tony Ontiveros. Ontiveros walked Blackwell to force in another run before he retired the Rebs on a SCORING WAS so much fun, the Rebels decided to do a little more of it in the third. Koonce was safe on Rusty Hayworth's error at third, Dern singled and Parker belted an RBI-single to left. Wright popped to the pitcher trying to bunt before Corley walked, Pepper popped to short and then Velarde singled sharply up the middle for two more runs. Blackwell walked again to load the bases and Ibarra brought in Adam Rodriguez. Rodriguez gave up a two-run single to Smedley before ending the inning by getting Koonce to fly to center.

Koonce, who picked up his fourth district win against one loss, was lifted by coach Ernie Johnson after

Kings face elimination tonight against Rockets

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Center Sam Lacey says the Kansas City Kings will have to clamp down on Houston's ball movement tonight to avoid elimination in the National Basketball Association's Western Conference final series.

'We can't let them move the ball so freely around the perimeter and get the ball into Moses (Malone) inside,' said Lacey, referring to the Rockets' star center. "We have to put more pressure on the ball, deny some passes as well."

With a sweep of Games 3 and 4 in Houston, the Rockets hold a 3-1 advantage in the best-of-seven series and need only one more victory to become the first team with a sub-.500 regular-season record to reach the NBA championship round since the 1958-59 Minneapolis Lakers. Tipoff was scheduled fo 9:05 p.m. CDT. If necessary, a sixth game would be Friday night in Houston and a seventh the following Sunday in Kansas City.

The Kings and Rockets, both at 40-42, were the only losing teams to make this year's playoffs and each overcame big odds to get this far. Houston beat defending NBA champ Los Angeles, then turned aside San Antonio in seven games, and the Kings downed Portland and Phoenix.

Whatever way we have been described - be it in terms of Cinderella or what have you, you could substitute Kansas City's name for ours." said Houston's Billy Paultz.

With guard Phil Ford rounding back into form after missing 26 games with an eye injury, the Kings might try to put their running game back into high gear.

And having their backs to the wall is a familiar position for the Kings. They had to defeat Dallas on the last day of the regular season to qualify for the playoffs, then defeated Portland and Phoenix on the road in the final games of those series.

"We've always come back," said Lacey. "I have great confidence in these guys. The Rockets haven't won the fourth game yet."

three innings. Johnson said, "Koonce said he could finish the game but I told him we might need him some time later this season. I want to keep him as ready as possible.

Dern came in the fourth and put the Steers down without any difficulty. In the fifth, Dern ran into trouble.

AFTER BEEF Armandariz grounded out, Tommy Rodriguez hit a sinking liner to right that Moose Fuentes, playing in relief of Wright, tried to make a shoestring catch on. The ball got by him and Rodriguez trucked into third with a triple. Dern then walked Mark Warren and Mitch Williams, in relief in left field, dropped Dickie Wrightsil's drive after a long run to allow a run to

The Steers went on to rally for five more runs on three singles a walk and an error at third by Parker to cut the margin to 14-6. With two out and the bases loaded, Johnson went to Pepper. Armandariz, the first man to face Pepper, singled to drive in two runs before he could retire the side on a ground ball.

Pepper then pitched the seventh inning and put the Steers down in Johnson said, "I didn't mean for the game to get so sloppy. But, Dern keep getting behind on the hitters and if he didn't walk them they would get a hit when he got the ball across.

Lee has little time to celebrate their win. Thursday the Rebels travel to Odessa to face the Odessa High Bronchos in a 4 p.m. game on the OHS field. In the first meeting between the two teams, Odessa won on a homer in the seventh inning to spoil a brilliant pitching effort by Koonce.

out of 7-game losing streak

The agony finally ended in ecstacy when shortstop Dave Owen dropped a two-out bunt down the third baseline in the 10th inning and beat it out for a base hit that scored Bill Morgan from third with the run that ended the Midland Cubs' seven-game losing streak.

The resulting 4-3 win over Amarillo at Cubs Stadium Tuesday night followed a dramatic off the wall catch by Tom Grant in right to end the 10th and provided a fitting climax for what perhaps was the Cubs' pitching gem of the young season by Joe McClain, the righthander from Johnson City, Tenn., who spent most of 1980 in the dugout trying to grow a callous on a

THE CUBS AND Gold Sox conclude what has been a superbly played series at 7 p.m. tonight with lefty Craig Lefferts, 1-2, out of the University of Arizona, going against Tim Hamm, 4-0, better known as "Fernando" to teammates. El Paso opens a fivegame series at Cubs Stadium starting Thursday.

But back to the slump chaser. Morgan had reached third after singling to open the 10th and moving up on a sacrifice and infield out and a 1-1 count bunt wasn't exactly standard strategy in the two-out situation

"No, it wasn't a spur of the moment thing," Owen explained later, "Skip (Manager Roy Hartsfield) has a signal when it's a good time to bunt and when I stepped back to check the sign, he gave it. Alvarez (third baseman Jesse) was back and the time was ripe. He's a good third baseman and made a good play, but I had to beat it

ALVAREZ' barehanded scoop and throw missed nipping Owen by an eyelash as Morgan dashed home.

"It's something we work on. In fact, we'd worked on it today," Hartsfield said. "The third baseman was back so the idea was to bunt close to the line or foul to keep the pitcher from making the play.'

In the top of the 10th, Grant robbed Amarillo shortstop John Stevenson of extra bases on a ball that appeared to be headed for the fairway beyond the right field fence. Grant slammed off the wall and slumped slowly into a sitting position, holding the ball

'I saw him circling the bases like' he'd hit a dinger," said Grant. "I just wanted him to know I had it."

"I didn't think he had a chance for it," said McClain, who saw a night's working sailing into the night. "He

Owen's bunt lifts Midland

EVEN AFTER Grant thudded into the wall, everyone continued to hold their breath. "The ball hit my glove the same time I hit the wall," Tom reviewed.

Owen's bunt and Grant's catch were the frills that made a magnificent pitching job by McClain a suc-

Midland took a 2-0 lead with Mel Hall, who had walked, scoring on Grant's double in the first and then Morgan doubling and scoring on Mike Diaz single in the second.

It looked like another long night for Midland when the Sox exploded for three runs in the fourth on a single by Alvarez, a triple by John Steels and Jeff Pyburn's two-run homer that just missed the flagpole.

"I was getting the ball up in the fourth inning," McClain said after his second straight complete game. "But the rest of the night I had good control and kept the ball low. The only inning I got behind in the count was in the fourth. The rest of the time I was staying ahead so I could make them look at my breaking stuff and I got a lot of ground balls and weak

IT WAS McClain's third straight strong showing this spring, which has to be encouraging for the 25-year-old Tennesseean who was 1-5 in nine games last year at Wichita, spending

most of the season on the disabled

"I had this inverted wart on my middle finger," McClain said overcoming a good-natured chorus of "not that inverted wart story again" from

They operated in spring training, but it left a scar. I couldn't develop a callous on it, so I had blisters all season. This year there have been no problems and I'm real pleased.'

Against the Sox, McClain fanned nine and allowed only six hits in 10 innings. Three of those hits came in the fourth. BRUIN BREWIN'S-The win couldn't have come at a better time for the Cubs. As one player put it before the game, "We know we've got a good team and we're going to be okay once we start hitting, but we'd better win one soon, or we're going to bave one unhappy skipper...in fact, he's pretty unhappy now." For Cubs who were here last year, the feeling is that the pitching is greatly improved over last year and "all we need is a few hits." Reliefer Rob Blyth added an Amen, "Last year I wore myself out early in the season. This year we're getting much better pitching."...A couple of vociferous Georgia Tech fans got on Pyburn in the ninth...Mel Hall caught a knee between the eyes in attempted steal of second in the sixth and had to leave the game, but was okay after it

Pack scores five in top of the ninth

SAN ANGELO - The Midland High Bulldogs kept their second half District 5-5A baseball hopes alive here Friday afternoon by pushing across five runs in the ninth inning to hand the San Angelo Bobcats a 9-4 loss.

Midland got four of its eight hits in the deciding ninth inning, but three San Angelo errors also helped the Pack's cause.

The victory gives MHS a 1-1 second half record while San Angelo fell to Joel Castenada went all nine innings for the Bulldogs to pick up the victory. He gave up seven hits, walked seven and struck out four Bobcats. The only real trouble he had came in the fourth inning when San Angelo scored three times to knot the score at four. Midland High scored four runs in the second for a 4-1 lead. The Bobcats other run came in the first inning.

Tim Davis led the Pack's hitting attack with two singles which plated two runs. Joe Carrasco scored twice and had two singles to plate another run for the Pack. David Bledsoe's double was the only extra base hit by either team and Kyle Ford plated a run with a sacrifice fly.

San Angelo's Steve Simmons survived eight innings before he was replaced in the ninth by Zeke Barron. MHS assaulted Barron for four hits and four runs to nail down the vic-

Howard Payne joins NCAA Division II play

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) -Howard Payne University has been accepted into the National Collegiate Athletic Association and will compete for championships in six sports, Athletic Director Harold Mayo announced Tuesday. Mayo said the school will be in eligible Sept. 1 in NCAA Division II. It applied for membership this spring and the acceptance came Tuesday morning from Shirley Whitaker, NCAA membership chairman.

Mayo emphasized that Howard Payne will retain membership in the National Athletic Intercollegiate AsHPU will compete in football, bas-ketball, track, indoor track, cross country and golf.

This is definitely a step in the right direction in upgrading our athletic program," Mayo said. "This will give our program more credibility and will allow us in the future to play larger universities in our non-conference football and basketball schedules. It will also enable to us make money out of the playoff system.

HPU is the seventh Lone Star Conference school to join the NCAA and retain affilation with NAIA. Sam Houston State is the only LSC school not a NCAA member.

Tall City thinclads climb tough path of rags to riches

When the Region I track meets opens at the Texas Tech oval in Lubbock Friday, there will be the names of Robert Schooler, James Beverley, Arthur Williams, David Piccolo, and Keith Brown in lights as

However, a deep breath is needed before mentioning the names of Robert Crawford, Michael Goodley and Jim Kemper. For they too have earned Region

I track berths and a dream of state glory. At best, these imponderable additions to the Tall City's list of entries, leaves the mind almost void of thought. If you could have listed those three names as Region I track qualifiers last Feburary, Jimmy The Greek would be out of a

CRAWFORD HAS always been a contributor to the Midland High track program the past two years, but no one dreamed — but maybe himself

- that he would ever be a 300 intermediate hurdle threat in district. He posted a 38.83 to finish second behind Lee's Piccolo, who had a 38.82 winning with a last gasp dash to the finish. Both times broke the 5-5A mark of 38.84 set by Piccolo last year. Crawford had never been under 40 seconds until three weeks ago and two weeks ago he defeated Piccolo in Monahans. He appeared to have Piccolo beaten in the district meet, but the Lee ace reached down inside to find the victory tape once again. Lee's Goodley is a senior who has had the title of an also-ran for so long that his name could be lost to the most avid Lee track booster. That is until three weeks ago when he started popping eyes by knocking literal seconds off his 800 meter time in At district, Goodley recorded an 800 meter 1:54.95, finishing behind Midland High sophomore sensation Beverley. Goodley had never been under two minutes in the 800 in his life until three weeks ago. He couldn't even score points in the event until recently. But then two seconds fell, three more and then two more and he is suddenly a region threat. His time knocked just over two seconds off the district record, however, Beverley's 1:53.56 is almost four seconds better than the loop mark. And Kemper? He didn't do anything but get out of bed with vault and a second place finish. That tied his season best. Of course, 12-6 is not a height that brings visions of championships in the region meet, but this is an event where bests aren't recorded week in and week out. Stranger things have happened. But the thing to keep in mind is that Kemper even made it to the region meet. There were some who thought he wouldn't score a point at district.

AND ALTHOUGH the other names are famaliar with West Texas track fans, they too went through the mold of obscurity before success came home to roost. That is all except Beverley, who burst upon the 5-5A and state 800 meter scene in explosive fashion, still wondering what defeat tastes like.

Beverley has not tasted defeat and is a unique athlete in that regard. His time may come to suffer that agony, but right now he is still regarded as one of the state's finest in this event. How fast can he go before his high school days are over? No one

NFL now searches for diamond in rough to go with gems

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Football League draft entered the "who's he?" phase today as teams sought a diamond-in-the-rough to go along with the gems they picked up 24 hours earlier.

There were no George Rogerses, no Lawrence Taylors, no Kenny Easleys up for grabs — at least not visibly so. More than a few low-round selections stick in the NFL each year. Guard Tyrone McGriff, the last pick a year ago (No.333), not only stuck with the Pittsburgh Steelers but thanks to injuries to his teammates he was starting by season's end.

But the bottom-round rookies, the free-agent catch-ons, they are the

The seventh-through-12th-rounders show up in training camp with high hopes and high odds against them. Often they are cut early and, as they tour the training camps, cut more

Not so the blue-chippers, the instant millionaires, the college kids with agents in tow. They are all but guaranteed not only to make the roster but to start, and to be paid handsomely for doing so.

Rogers, for example, is as sure a thing as you can find in the NFL this year. Bum Phillips turned Houston into a year-to-year winner when the Oilers drafted Earl Campbell three years ago. If could happen once, why not again?

So, after being fired by the Oilers because they couldn't win playoff games, and after being hired to coach New Orleans, he went to the Heisman well again this year and picked Rogers with the Saints' No. 1 selection Tuesday. The 6-foot-2, 220-pound Heisman Trophy winner says he's not a "franchise" the way Campbell has become (three rushing titles in three seasons in Houston), but he's as close to one you'll find in the draft.

"I don't think I'm an Earl Campbell," Rogers said. "I can't turn it around by myself. I'm not a one-man team. I play with a team. As an individual, I can't do it. It has to be the team that'll do it."

He was one of six running backs picked in the first round and one of 20 to go among the 166 players chosen in Tuesday's six rounds. Defensive backs led the first-day ranks with 27 being picked, followed by linebackers with 23. The first linebacker to go was Taylor, rated by many as the "best athlete available." The New York Giants got the North Carolina star with their No. 2 pick.

The first quarterback to go was Rich Campbell of California, selected by Green Bay, which has been looking for a really good one since Bart Starr, now its embattled coach, retired after the Packers' halcyon days of the

Just before the Pack made its firstround pick (No. 6 overall), St. Louis chose Alabama linebacker E.J. Junior. It was a mild surprise. The Cardinals' fans have been wondering just how much longer Jim Hart can be their quarterback.

The last time St. Louis went for a quarterback in the first round, it was Steve Pisarciewicz. He never panned out and ultimately became the cause celebre over which Bud Wilkinson, the Cards' gentlemanly coach, was fired by boss Billy Bidwill.

If St. Louis made a calculated gamble this time, it paid off. When the Cards' choice in the second round came up, the other blue-chip quarterback, Portland State's Neil Lomax, was still available. They took him.

A third "name" quarterback, Purdue's Mark Herrmann, didn't go until the fourth round, when Denver selected him. His mobility is highly suspect — which makes the Broncos' pick even than more interesting since their No.1 quarterback, Craig Morton, also can't get anywhere very fast.

Easley, the UCLA safety far and away the star of the defensive backs, was picked by the defense-poor Seat-tle Seahawks. Hugh Green, the Pitt defensive end projected as a linebacker in the pros, was the favorite of man of the New York Jets' fans crowded into the draft headquarters at the Sheraton Hotel. But it was Tampa Bay which got him, four picks after the Jets had used their No.3 selection to claim Freeman McNeil, the UCLA running back.

Perhaps the best offensive lineman to go was Keith Van Horne of Southern Cal, the tackle who led the Trojans' famous "student body right" sweeps. The Chicago Bears figure to put him to good use paving the way for Walter Payton to roam where he

Another top offensive tackle to go in the first round was Mark May of Pitt, winner of the Outland Trophy winner as the nation's best interior lineman in college. He was one of 11 Panthers picked in the first six rounds, the most any school lost to the pros.

The Washington Redskins took May shortly after they had swung a trade with Baltimore, giving away three draft choices in exchange for all-purpose back Joe Washington.

In the other trade of interest, Tony Reed, a fine blocker and 1,000-yard rusher three years ago but stopped in his tracks by knee surgery two sea-sons back, was dealt to Denver by Kansas City, also for draft picks.

Miami picks Midland's Brad Wright

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) -University of New Mexico quar-terback Brad Wright, a former standout for the Midland Lee Rebels, was selected in the first day of the National Football League draft.

Wright, the talented athlete from Midland, was picked by the Miami Dolphins in the fourth round, despite the fact he was hampered by injuries during the past two years.

Wright was the fourth quarterback selected in Tuesday's draft and the 96th player over-all. He was picked ahead of Purdue sensation Mark Herrmann.

"I hate to say it, but I always thought I was better than him," said Wright.

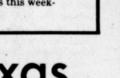

Wright suffered torn knee ligaments midway through his junior year and a broken collarbone last season. However, he said he does not believe the old injuries will hamper his bid to make the Dolphins team.

"I could be in a little better shape, but now that the motivation factor is there, it won't take me long to get in shape," he

Wright said he met Miami Coach Don Shula at the Senior Bowl, where Shula coached and Wright played. Wright said although he did not have a particularly good game, Shula assured him the Dolphins were interested in drafting him.

Wright planned to be in Miami today to begin preparing for a minicamp for rookies this week-

Watts leads way for Texas

By The Associated Press

Nine Texas college football players have been selected by National League Football teams through the first six rounds of the NFL draft, with Texas Tech defensive back Ted Watts leading the way as the Oakland Raiders' first round-pick.

"I had to pinch myself a couple of times to make sure it was all real," Watts said Tuesday after being the 21st player selected in the first day of the two-day affair.

Watts, a 6-1, 285-pound consensus all-Southwest Conference selection from Tarpon Springs, Fla., was picked by the reigning NFL champions after they obtained a first-round choice from Houston in the trade that sent tight end Dave Casper to the

"I think I'll be real happy in Oakland," said Watts, who has a reputation as a devastating open field tackler and boasts 4.45 speed in the 40-yard dash.

Gary Lewis, a hulking 6-5, 232-pound tight end from Texas-Arlington, got the nod from Green Bay in the second round and said he had a "very postive feeling" about the Packers.

"Green Bay receiver coach Lou Carpenter kind of stuck his neck out for me," said Lewis, a Daingerfield product. I talked to Green Bay once and Carpenter came down and I worked out with them and had a positive feeling about Green Bay."

Also going in the second round was Baylor linebacker Mike Singletary, who got the nod from the Chicago Bears.

"I feel good about going to Chicago," said Singletary, an All-America selection for the past two years.

He said he got some help from the "man upstairs" when he was not picked in the first round. "I nearly fainted when I prayed about going there (Chicago) and that's where I ended up," he said. The 5-11, 230-pound Singletary, who made 145 tackles in 11 games this year, said he walked out after the first round was over and prayed that he would go to Chicago. "I have to give the man upstairs all the credit for that," he said. "It was a great feeling to find out I had been

Cowboys go for offense

DALLAS (AP) - The smart money was on the Dallas Cowboys going for a defensive back or a linebacker in the early rounds.

But the only smart money on draft day involving the Cowboys is the kind that says you can't tell what they are going to do.

The Cowboys, who have gone to five Super Bowls on talent accumulated during the National Football League's annual player lottery, opted for a big offensive tackle and a swift wide receiver - offensive help - in the first two rounds. They did admit the Atlanta Falcons, who got to pick just ahead of the Cowboys by virtue of Dallas' playoff win over them last winter, stole a defensive back secondary Coach

Gene Stallings needed.

Picked in the first round Tuesday was 6-foot-5, 254-pound offensive tackle Howard Richards of Missouri, the 25th selection. In the second round, Coach Tom Landry decided he liked Doug "White Lightning" Donley, the all-time career receiver at Ohio State. Taken in the third round was Brigh-

Atlanta broke the Cowboys' hearts by picking Florida State defensive back Bobby Butler just one selection ahead of the Cowboys.

Landry said Richards was "a very good lineman ... very intelligent ... should fit well into our system."

Landry will look at Richards at both tackle and guard. He has excellent 5.0

guard.
"He has real good size," said Landry. "We lacked a 6-5 player." Howard said "I had no idea Dallas was interested. I'm totally elated." Kansas City, St. Louis, Tampa Bay and Philadelphia had talked to Howard, he said.

Donley, who caught 106 passes for 2,252 yards and 16 touchdowns at Ohio State, was another surprise.

Landry said the fact that Butch Johnson wanted to be traded had nothing to do with the pick.

"Donley is the kind of player who could start for us in a couple of years," Landry said. "If Donley plays like we thinks he will and we don't trade Johnson then we'll carry four wide receivers.

Donley has 4.45 speed and once ran a 9.4 in the 100 yard dash at Cambridge, Ohio High School. He also is cross country meet to a three-time 5-5A champion. But Schooler's march hasn't slowed at this point in time. His 1600 meter time of 4:20.40 broke his own district mark by nearly 18 seconds and his 3200 meter district time of 9:22.59 knocked off 10 seconds from his previous best. That is a district mark also, but it was the first year for the event. Still, Schooler marches on in the Lee history books. It's no wonder he is Mr. LHS. PICCOLO IS another rags-to-riches story. He is the two-time 5-5A 300 hurdle champion, both wins coming with record setting performances. But he is still remembered by 5-5A writers for the district meet in Big Spring in 1979. In that meet, the sophomore went down in 5-5A history when officials omitted him from the hurdle preliminaries. That heat had to be run again, and everyone knew he didn't have a chance at making the finals. It made Odessa Permian very angry because they had a legitimate contender in that heat and he had to run that race three times and didn't get out of district. Piccolo didn't even get From that unpopular start, Piccolo has become one of the finest in his trade. He has come to know the heights of glory, but he has also felt the sting of rejection. He stands above it all. Lée's Williams hit the track as a junior in 1980. It took time for the victories to come, but he has always been a contributor. He was best known for his relay help last year. This year he is known for the 200 meters and the anchor leg on both of Lee's region qualifying relays. His 20.97 at district is a loop mark and one of the state's best. He may be the best athlete of the lot. He has pure speed and the desire to use it right. He is the coach's athlete. Put it all together and you have another performer who hasn't tasted defeat this season. Brown is also undefeated in the shot put this year, but again it took time for him to blossom. He had to live in the shadow of many Tall City athletes who have been awesome in this event like David Simmons, Jeff McCowan and James Lary. He has not been over 60-feet like Simmons and McCowan, but he may be ready for that too. He won district with a 58-94, but scratched on one throw of 59-8. However, Brown probably won't be remembered for the shot put at Lee. He was a two-way all-district choice in football and was such an awesome lineman that opposing coaches feared him every week. Brown is headed for Oklahoma State on a football scholarship. His future is ahead of him.

THE ONE name missing is Lee's Darrin Williams. He had lost in the 100 meters only once this year heading into the district meet. He placed third, missing a region berth. He could have been the region favorite.

Lee assistant track coach Eddie Wolski explains best why Darrin lost, "We were not able to work on starts for two weeks due to the rain. He got a horrible start in the 100 and couldn't recover. If we had an all-weather track, I don't think this would have ever happened. There is no question in my mind that Darrin is the best 100 meter man in the district. I think it's a shame that one of our athletes missed out on a region trip because we didn't have adequate facilities to work

So Darrin joins the list of those who have paid their dues. Fortunately, he has another year to join the list of winners. And maybe next year, our 5-5A hopefuls can workout at the facilities of Class A Greenwood. After all, they have an all-weather track first class all the way. Maybe some kind of rental agreement can be worked out with the Greenwood school. After all, that would save money nd a town in Midland's condition needs all the help it can get.

Ken Stabler trade fails as Oilers pick Holston

HOUSTON (AP) -Houston Oiler Coach Ed Biles played golf on Monday and spent most of Tuesday as a spectator in the National Football League draft.

All Biles had to spice up his day was discussions early in the day about trading quarterback Kenny Stabler to Los Angeles and finally, in the third round, he made his first pick as a head coach — Morgan State receiver Michael Holston.

Talks with Los Angeles broke off before the draft ever started concerning the veteran Stabler.

We were interested in a trade because we don't have too many draft choices," Biles said. "We talked back and forth but we were asking more than they wanted to give. I wasn't interested in tearing the team apart just to prove I'm a horse

The Oilers did not have first or second round selections because former coach Bum Phillips traded the picks to Oakland in exchange for tight end Dave Casper.
Biles had to wait six hours and 50 minutes before the 80th pick in the draft came up and he took Holston, 6-3, 188, who caught 67 passes for Morgan State last season and feels his track abilities will help him catch passes for the Oilers.

But Biles, who re-placed Bum Phillips last

December, said he considered Holston a good future pick.

Tiny Bernazard rips Bird pitching

By The Associated Press

Tony Bernazard stands just 5-foot-9 and weighs only 160 pounds, but he's beginning to look like Superman to the Baltimore Orioles.

The Chicago White Sox second baseman pounded out two doubles and a single Tuesday night in leading a 15-hit attack that carried the hot White Sox to an 8-6 victory over the Orioles.

Bernazard's three hits gave him a total of 14 in 24 trips to the plate against Baltimore this season. That's a .583 batting average.

And that's just the tip of the iceberg, since Bernazard and his teammates have combined to bat a lusty .373 against the Orioles, while winning four of five games from them

The White Sox came up with six runs in a second-inning explosion that included run-scoring doubles by Bill Almon and Bernazard among seven straight hits. The victory, combined with Oakland's second straight loss, moved the White Sox within 31/2 games of the A's, the leaders in the AL West.

Bernazard, who came to the White Sox in an off-season trade with Montreal, also made two diving stops of Baltimore grounders and turned them into force plays to halt a pair of

The Alabama House voted 73-8 Tuesday to pass the Senate-approved bill. The measure now goes to Gov. Fob James, who was a star running back in the mid-1950s at Alabama's cross-state rival, Auburn.

James has not disclosed how he intends to handle the bill, but his administration has been rigid in its enforcement of the mandatory retirement age. After some initial reluctance, James made his one of his secretaries, Kate Simmons, retire last year because she was over 70.

The bill authorizes the University of Alabama Board of Trustees to continue the employment of any university employee 70 years old or older.

Aase allowed four more hits, three of them in the ninth inning before giving way to Sanchez with two outs and two men on base. Sanchez then picked up his second save of the season by striking out Shooty Babbit to end the game.

The California runs came on a single by Fred Lynn in the third inning, Bobby Grich's third homer of the season in the fourth and a run-scoring single by Rod Carew in the top of the Tommy John's six-hitter, backed by home runs from Barry Foote and Willie Randolph, sent Detroit reeling to its ninth straight loss.

Foote, making his first appearance at the plate since being obtained by the Yankees Monday in a trade with the Chicago Cubs, hit a leadoff homer in the third to tie the game 1-1. He was 0-for-22 for the Cubs.

Detroit starter Dan Schatzeder, 1-1, walked Graig Nettles and Bucky Dent before giving up a three-run shot by Randolph in the fifth. The two-out homer, into the lower left-field seats, ended an 0-for-10 streak for Randolph.

Blue Jays 6, Brewers 2

Ken Macha's two-run double ignited a four-run sixth inning, and Lloyd Moseby and Otto Velez added solo homers for the Blue Javs.

Mark Bomback, 2-1, allowed two runs on eight hits in seven innings and Joey McLaughlin stopped the Brewers on three hits the rest of the way. Milwaukee starter Mike Caldwell, 2-2, took the loss.

Twins 4, Mariners 1

Richie Zisk set a Seattle record by hitting his fifth home run in five games, but Minnesota's Pete Redfern, 2-1, held the rest of the Mariners in check, finishing with a five-hitter.

Zisk's major league-leading seventh homer of the season gave him one homer in each of the last five games, moving him within one of the American league record. It has been done six times, the last by Reggie Jackson with Baltimore in 1976. The major league record of eight games in a row with at least one homer was set in 1956 by Pittsburgh's Dale Long.

Erving is key for Sixers against Boston Celtics

BOSTON (AP) - Julius Erving is averaging 19.8 points per game in Philadelphia's playoff series against the Boston Celtics, and while that's nearly five below his regular-season average, 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham couldn't be happier about Dr. J's

Erving's ability to get his teammates involved in the offense and his success in harassing Celtics star Larry Bird on defense have helped the 76ers move to a 3-1 lead over Boston in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference showdowm.

The 76ers, who took the homecourt advantage away from the Celtics by winning the opener 105-104 last Tuesday, can wrap up the best-of-seven conference final with another victory at Boston Garden tonight. If the Celtics win, the series shifts back to Philadelphia for Game 6 Friday night.

So far the big move in the series has been Cunningham's decision, after watching Bird score 67 points in the first two games, to switch the assignment of guarding Boston's 6-foot-9 forward from 7-footer Caldwell Jones to the 6-7 Erving. While Jones is noted for his defensive prowess and Erving is not, Cunningham said he never hesitated about making the change. "Larry was shooting the ball from so far out on the court," Cunningham explained, "I felt Caldwell was not able to guard him and also do the job on the defensive boards. So what choice did I have? I had to put Erving on him.'

The move couldn't have worked better. Erving's defense has helped limit Bird to 40 points and kept him from being a dominating force in either of the last two games, while Jones' rebounding and shot-blocking have enabled the 76ers to cope with Boston's strong inside game. And the bottom line is that Philadelphia won both games to assume a commanding position in this series - only three teams in NBA history (Boston in 1968, Los Angeles in 1970 and Washington in 1979) have come back from 3-1 deficits to win playoff series.

Sutton nails down first Astro victory

By The Associated Press

Don Sutton won 230 games with the Los Angeles Dodgers, but few were sweeter than the one he won for the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

Sutton, a 36-year-old free agent who signed with the Astros this year after 15 seasons with the Dodgers, lost two tough one-run games — including a 1-0 decision to his former teammates earlier this month.

Lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth, Sutton allowed only two hits in eight innings, one a home run by Bob Horner. Houston reliever Dave Smith yielded a single before retiring the Braves in the ninth.

"Leaving the game was my idea," said Sutton. "I wasn't going out to the mound in the ninth no matter what. I had had it. I wasn't going to jeopardize our chances and go out and pitch the last inning. It would have been stupid with the bullpen we've got." Sutton got all the runs he needed

There are few things in life more important and of a more personal nature than providing life insurance for the protection of one's family. Because of the almost sacred nature that is usually associated with a family's life insurance program, it would only seem logical that a family would proceed very cautiously if anyone suggests that their insurance program be abandoned, in favor of something new. We have all learned that new is not necessarily better.

In recent weeks our local association has received notice that a sales force, mostly out-of-town people, is working in West Texas with a "new" way to provide a life insurance program. Whatever else their suggestions might be, the main thrust of their approach seems to be based onreplacing policies that are already in force. Be very careful if someone approaches you with such a suggestion. In fact, the following guidelines might prove to be helpful:

(1) Contact your local insurance agent and get his opinion. Closely compare the benefits of both your present policy or policies with those you are being offered. It may surprise you to find out what benefits you may lose if the change is made. A comparison of this type should either confirm that you ought to make a change or that you might be making a mistake.

(2) If the salesperson represents himself as a Financial Planner, Consultant, etc., find out if he has a permanent license. Depending on individual circumstances, the person with a temporary license might not be around long enought to service what he sells. Since you are contemplating doing business with him, you owe it to yourself to find out.

Aggies hold slim hopes

DALLAS (AP) - The Southwest Conference post-season baseball tournament has cast three of its four teams with the final spot to be determined at College Station this week-

While Texas, Arkansas and Houston will finish first, second and third, respectively, in the final tournament seeding, Texas A&M can earn the fourth berth this weekend while Rice. under first-year head Coach David Hall, plays the waiting game.

The plot is simple. The Aggies host SWC champion Texas Friday and Sat-urday. If A&M wins all three games, it would pass Rice with a final winning percentage of .548 and take the final spot in the tournament.

But if Texas wins just one of the series, then the Owls would celebrate their first appearance ever in the post-season tournament. With its regular season over, Rice is currently in fourth place at 11-10 (.524). Even if A&M loses one to Texas, TCU could tie Rice at 11-10 with a sweep of Texas Tech this weekend. But that wouldn't put TCU in the tournament since the tie breaker would favor Rice by virtue of the Owls' three-game sweep of the Frogs two weeks ago.

And if it rains? In order for the Aggies to capture the berth, they must win either three-of-three or, if the series is shortened to two games. win two-of-two. A win of a singlegame series wouldn't be enough.

The Owls, who finished last in the SWC in 1978 and 1979, broke an 11-year old conference record for team fielding with a .978 average. In 746 putouts and assists, Rice committed just 17 errors. Ironically, the record broke that of the 1970 Texas team which fielded .975. The third baseman for that Texas team was David Hall.

Islanders spill Rangers, 5-2

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) - For a month, the New York Rangers have forced opponents to play their style of hockey. Tuesday night, in the first game of the National Hockey League semifinals, the Rangers ran up against a team that wasn't about to be forced into anything.

The defending Stanley Cup champion Islanders dictated the tempo for most of Game 1 of "The Battle of New York" and skated to a 5-2 victory that was built on the offensive exploits of some of the Islanders' less-touted

Once the Islanders took control of the game - and the lead - with a power-play goal by McEwen, a former Ranger, at 4:50 and Tonelli's game-winner at 6:47, Rangers rear-guard Tom Laidlaw said, "The tide has turned in the enemy's favor."

McEnroe wars with net fans

DALLAS (AP) - The chemistry between the fans at the World Championship of Tennis and fiery John McEnroe proved once again to be a volatile mix Tuesday night.

"It was the same old story," said a miffed McEnroe after he had disposed of scrappy Sandy Mayer 7-5, 6-4, and 6-3 in the quarter-finals.

"There was this guy who kept clapping when I missed easy shots then somebody else started it," he said. "I don't know why they did it. It was so ridiculous but you guys (the press) will write bad things about me.

McEnroe said he's not sure "why in the hell I come here.... Every year I get abuse. Then he answered his own question:

"I'm a competitor ... that's why I The 22-year-old McEnroe put on a pyrotechnical show for the spectators

during the course of his straight set victory over the substitute for defending champion Jimmy Connors, who called in sick Monday with a stomach ailment

McEnroe became the first tennis player to bounce a ball off the ceiling of brand new Reunion Arena, which was the site of the tournament for only the second time.

He engaged in a running feud with a series of box seat spectators and drew a conduct violation warning and delay of game warning.

Referee Joe Lynch felt McEnroe's wrath on a disputed call.

Netters take junior high titles

'Wings' loses drummer

LONDON (AP) - Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney, who formed the group Wings after the Beatles split up in 1970, is now facing problems with Denny Laine, the band's drummer since it was formed in 1971, quit suddenly Tuesday in a disagreement over McCartney's decision to halt the group's public appearances temporarily.

The departure left only two permanent members of the group, McCartney and his wife, Linda, "There is no row," said Laine's manager Brian Adams. "But Denny likes to tour and Paul has decided that Wings will not make any tour plans

A London newspaper reported Laine, 36, decided to quit the group during a recent recording session in the West Indies, where the next Wings album was made. It claimed McCartney halted public appearances because he had received several death threats since the murder in New Gork of fellow ex-Beatle John Lennon on Dec 8.

A McCartney spokesman denied that report, adding that Wings would still exist.

Wings are Paul and Linda McCartney and whoever they wish to record with," he said. The group usually has at least two other backup musicians for public appearances.

Sinatra to sing in S. Africa

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Although Frank Sinatra will appear in concert in South Africa this summer, a spokesman for the entertainer says the contract will ban racial segregation at the performances.

Publicist Lee Solters said a standard clause was included in Sinatra's contract prohibiting segregation during the July 24 to Aug. 2 concerts at Sun City in Bophuthatswana.

The clause reads: "Promoter warrants and represents that there will be no segregation practiced at Sinatra performances in Sun City, either in the hotel or the site of the performances, and that all people, regardless of their race, color or creed, will be allowed to use all the facilities of Promoter and Southern Sun Hotels in Bophuthatswana.

Ford attends college reunion

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford attended a reunion at the University of Michigan, but most of the reminiscing concerned affairs of state, not college life.

Tuesday's gathering reunited the Ford Cabinet. The ex-president said the session brought back "some very good memories."

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger recalled that there "never has been a closer coordination between domestic and foreign policy" than during the Ford administration, which was in power from August 1974 to January 1977.

The reunion was held one day after the dedication of the Gerald R. Ford Library at the University of Michigan, Ford's alma mater.

Senate committee approves military spending bill early

WASHINGTON (AP) - A military spending bill totaling $136.4 billion - $12 million below the Reagan administration request and $20 billion above current levels has been approved by the Senate Armed Services

The action Tuesday, coming earlier than normal in a congressional session, indicated the committee's "support for the priority given to national security programs by the Reagan administration," said the chairman, Sen. John Tower, R-Texas.

Tower said he expects a Senate vote on the main defense spending authorization bill in a few days and anticipates that the House Armed Services Committee will recommend about the same amount for fiscal

He predicted that a major House-Senate difference will be over the administration's request for $364 million to reactivate the aircraft carrier Oriskany.

The Senate committee denied the money as well as deferring full-scale authorization for the Navy to buy its 10th Trident nuclear submarine.

It also reduced the Army's $900.5 million request for the Patriot air defense missile system to $527.1 million. The committee added $526.1 million for combat trainers, transports, helicopters and patrol air-craft for the National Guard and Reserve.

The committee added $79 million to the administration's request to reactivate the battleship New Jersey. This money would increase the number of cruise missiles and other new weapons to be put on the 38-year-old

Also approved was $88 million to buy equipment to get a start during fiscal 1983 on reactivating another World War II battleship, the Iowa.

Asked how the Navy would get enough recruits to man these and other vessels it is seeking as part of a 600-ship fleet, Tower said he thinks "we are ultimately going to have to go back to Selective Service." He did not say how soon he thought a draft might be revived. After the authorization bill is passed, the money must still be appropriated. Tower said he was anxious to reach this stage as soon as possible because "the longer you wait, the more chance there is that you are going to get reduc-

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market continued a broad retreat today as several major banks raised their prime lending rates to 18 percent.
The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which toppled 7.12 points Tuesday from an eight-year high, plunged another 7.65 points to 1,009.28

by noon. Losers held a 3-1 edge over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed

After the start of trading this morning, Chase Man-hattan Bank, the nation's third-largest commercial bank, increased its prime lending rate from the industrywide level of 17.5 per-

The move was followed by No. 4 Manufacturers Hanover Trust. No. 7 Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co., No. 8 Bankers Trust, and No. 9 First National Bank of Chicago.

As trading began today, the Commerce Department announced that its index of leading indicators, a barometer of future economic trends, rose 1.4 percent in March following three straight months of declines. The department attributed much of the increase to a surge in petroleum prices following the decontrol of U.S. oil prices.

GM posts profit in first quarter

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. says intensive cost-cutting efforts were responsible for its $190.3 million profit in the first three months this year — a 22.6 percent increase from $154.7 million in the same period last year.

The earnings amounted to 63 cents a share, compared with 52 cents a share in the first quarter of 1980. It was the second consecutive quarter that the nation's No. 1 automaker has made money.

GM lost $763 million in 1980, its first annual deficit since 1921, despite a $62 million profit in the fourth

"This improvement is encouraging and reflects intensive efforts to reduce costs," GM Chairman Roger B. Smith and President F. James McDonald said in a statement Monday.

The rise in profits came despite a 17 percent drop in the number of cars sold, to 1.69 million from 2.03 million in the 1980 quarter, the automaker said.

Thursday, April 30, 1981 YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Today is truly a superstar birthday! Hollywood celebrities sharing this birthday with you include Marlon Brando, Jill Clayburgh, Cloris Leachman and Eve Arden. This should be a year of great renewal for you. Unusual projects and career opportunities challenge you to make the best possible use of your talents. The actions of others will continue to have a strong impact on the decisions you make. Put forth that extra effort that will make higher-ups sit up and take notice. Creative ventures are more profitable than in the past. Steady financial gain is part of the picture. Romance could lead to a major change in lifestyle. ARIES (March 21-April 19): If in need of a shortterm loan, turn to family member. Loved one is willing to lend a helping hand. Joint financial ventures deserve closer attention. Check records, receipts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You can expect an active, and probably profitable, day. Certain roadblocks are now removed. Financial si-A short trip could prove very useful. Consult partner before making new commit-

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take your time today and be thorough in everything you do. The spotlight is on your relationship with an older person. Be a good listener. You benefit greatly from this individual's expertise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Replace bad habits with good ones! Put your financial house in order. A sense of humor is your best ally today. Study letters and phone calls for hidden messages.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An older person pulls some strings for you but progress remains slow. Do not give up the ship! Mate offers encouragement and understanding. Avoid making any large purchases for a while.

waste is doomed! Light action by both West and East almost kept North-South out of the auction. However, South took the bold course by venturing three hearts and, when North raised to game, West should have considered a sacrifice, since the vulnerability was in his favor and his hand was not impressive defensively. Indeed, East-West can actually make four spades if declarer guesses to drop the singleton king of trumps. West led the ace of spades, felling the king, and East signaled vigorously for a continuation. He wanted to force dummy to ruff so that the trump suit would not provide entries to dummy's long diamonds. West obliged by continuing with a high spade and declarer ruffed.

A diamond to the queen won and the diamond continuation went to East's ace perforce. He shifted to a club.

The governor predicted I&R would pass in 1983.

"I think some of those members who voted against it this time and played the game of charades with us will regret it. I am sure initiative and referendum will be a significant issue in the elections of 1982," Clements

Clements became interested in I&R after Californians cut their property taxes by means of the Proposition 13

Rep. John Sharp, D-Placedo, sponsor of the proposal, said in the next session the Senate - not the House - should move first on I&R, since representatives stuck their political necks out and voted on it both in 1979 and

Sharp voted for Rep. Carlyle Smith's amendment that changed Sharp's limited I&R proposal to a

"This simply puts the clothes back on the emperor, so to speak," Sharp said of Smith's amendment.

A number of representatives who voted to broaden the I&R proposal later voted to defeat the measure

Sharp attempted to answer fears that I&R would lead to a Proposition 13-type vote to strip schools and state government of funds

"I think the people of Texas are eminently more sensible than the
