Settlement 'protects U.S. honor'

Ex-hostages hold emotional news conference

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) - The highest-ranking diplomat among the 52 freed hostages said today the agreement which liberated them from Iran did no damage to America's honor

Bruce Laingen, who was the charge d'affaires in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, also said that the nation must assume that it will happen again that, somewhere else, American officials will be seized and held by hostile

He said the way the Carter administration handled the situation could not be compared to making a bargain

He said he did not like the word "deal" to describe the accord, under which Iran received only a fraction of the Iranian assets in the United States frozen by former President Jimmy Carter as a way to bring pressure on

At an emotional news conference on the campus of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, Laingen said the accord reached between the United States and Iran was "not damaging to that principle" of not negotiating with terrorists and was "a settlement which very much protects" the interests of the United States.

Victor Tomseth, another diplomat among the former hostages, said some form of negotiations always take place when hostages are seized.

The news conference was the freed Americans' last obligation here before a flight today to Washington for the nation's official welcome home from President Reagan and 6,000 dig nitaries at the White House Fifty of the 52 released Americans participated in the news conference. Laingen opened it by paying tribute to the eight servicemen who died in the Iranian desert in last April's failed rescue effort.

They put their lives on the line because they wanted us to be free," he said.

He said the former hostages were overhwelmed with the efforts to win their release and with the reception accorded them upon their return

He paraphrased Winston Churchill: Never has so small a group owed so much to so many.

As the hostages return to their hometowns this week, the nation comes face to face with the possibility that some of them bear psychogical wounds that will not heal soon. That concern is tempering the joy of their homecoming

All along it had been feared that the 141/2 months of imprisonment, isolation and reported subhuman treatment in Iran would take a toll on some of the 52. Psychiatrists who have stud ied prisoners and hostages say such people often develop feelings of guilt and become depressed.

Ever since their arrival at Wiesbaden, West Germany, a week ago, there have been reports that some of the former prisoners have kept to themselves and shown little of the exuberance of the others.

Word that about a quarter of the freed Americans had not weathered their ordeal well and may require months of psychiatric attention reached President Reagan on Mon-

Islamic leaders urge 'holy war' against Israel

TAIF, Saudi Arabia (AP) - King Hassan II of Morocco and Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat today urged the Islamic summit to wage a 'Jihad," or "holy war," against Israel and its backers to regain Arab sovereignty over Jerusalem.

But the conservative North African monarch was careful to define the holy war as a "moral and material struggle" so as not to imply military action against the Jewish state which claims all of Jerusalem as its "eter-

Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization and vice chairman of the Islamic Conference, seconded Hassan's call, saying, "I'm sure that his majesty will pursue his Jihad until the Palestinians and all Moslems have liberated Palestine, with Jerusalem as it capital."

Hassan asked the leaders to draw a lesson from the inaugural session of the summit at the Grand Mosque in Mecca when "we (prayed) on the same floor in equality and humility to Allah, to live up to the responsibility given to us to liberate Jerusalem and regain Palestinian and Islamic

The monarch is head of a committee drafting a document that is reported to call for collective economic and diplomatic action by Islamic states to counter the Israeli annexation of Jerusalem. The call for Jihad was last sounded in July by Saudi Crown Prince Fahd after Israel's Parliament declared the Arab sector of Jerusalem part of its capital.

Saudi Arabia, America's chief supplier of Arab oil, attacked the United States at the Islamic summit Monday for its support of Israel and pledged unlimited support to the Palestinians' struggle to "regain their rights.

It indicated, however, its support would not include an oil embargo. As the 37-nation meeting moved toward adoption of an anti-Israeli resolution and approval of another attempt to mediate between warring Iraq and Iran, Fahd, the strongman of the Saudi government, accused the United States of "perpetuating Israel as an alien presence within the Arab structure.

His foreign minister, Prince Saud al Faisal, told a news conference the Moslem world hopes President Reagan will produce a new Middle East policy "that bases itself on the realities and real factors that create the conflict in the area.

He urged the new president to take into account Arab and Islamic demands for Israel's withdrawal from East Jerusalem and other territory captured in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War and recognition of the rights of the

A resolution introduced Monday, the second day of the conference, called for pressure on Israel's supporters so they would force the Jewish state to give up the occupied territories and the "freezing" of Israel's membership in the United Nations.

It also called on Islamic nations to use "all their military, political, economic and natural resources — including oil — as an effective means for upholding the natural, inalienable rights of the Palestinian people." But Prince Faisal reiterated the opposition of his government, the Arab world's biggest oil producer, to "using the weapon of oil" against Israel's supporters. For the second time in two days, Prince Fahd called on Arab-Moslem

Iraq and Persian-Moslem Iran to stop fighting and resolve their disputes by peaceful means. And he again accused the Soviet Union of invading and occupying "Islamic Afghanistan" and demanded a Soviet withdrawal Conference sources said that despite the failure of attempts by the Islamic nations and the United Nations to mediate between Iraq and Iran, the conference would authorize still another attempt.

The sources said a high-level committee would be formed to try to find solution acceptable to the two warring countries and would coordinate its efforts with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Habib Chatti, the Tunisian secretary-general of the Islamic Conference, and President Zia ul-Haq of Pakistan also appealed for an end to the Persian Gulf war and insisted on the immediate withdrawal of Soviet forces from Afghanis-

Public approves hostage deal

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans give former President Carter good marks for his handling of the hostage crisis, but they believe Iranian fear of dealing with Ronald Reagan as president was a key to winning freedom for the 52 men and women, a new Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Public judgment of the agreement that ended the crisis is that it was the best deal possible. And, given a choice between honoring the agreement and breaking it in order to punish Iran, Americans say the Reagan administration should abide by the terms of the deal.

The latest AP-NBC News poll is based on telephone interviews with 2,407 adults nationwide conducted Jan. 21-23, after the hostages were released, but before they returned to the United States.

The hostage crisis dominated the final year of the Carter presidency and was a major factor in Carter's failure to win re-election as the public took a dim view of his efforts to free the hostages.

But the agreement that came in the closing hours of the Carter administration changed that perception dra-

Fifty-three percent of those interviewed said they approved of Carter's handling of the crisis, while 39 percent disapproved. That's a complete reversal of the 36 percent approval, 53 percent disapproval found in the AP-NBC News poll taken in late October last year. The remainder in each case were not sure.

While Carter does get a good deal of credit for ending the crisis, many Americans said that Carter's election loss to Reagan helped bring about a Seventy-one percent said the Iranians settled with Carter because they were afraid of dealing with Reagan, who had taken a hardline stance on the issue. Twenty-three percent disagreed with that conclusion and 6 percent were not sure.

The final agreement ending the crisis came in the early morning hours of Jan. 20, just before Reagan took the reins of power from Carter. The hostages took off from Iran minutes after Reagan took the oath of office.

The agreement that the Carter Administration negotiated with Iran to spring the hostages has been criticized on a number of grounds since its terms were made known last week.

And stories about mistreatment by the Iranian captors have triggered calls for repudiation of the agreement by the Reagan administration.

Americans generally said the deal was the best possible.

The deal called for the release of the hostages in exchange for the release of $11 billion in Iranian assets frozen by the U.S. government shortly after the hostages were seized on Nov. 4, 1979; a pledge not to intervene in Iran; and establishment of an international tribunal to settle remaining financial disputes between Iran and

Appropriations panel seeking glimpse of economic policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators are trying to get an early idea of the new administration's economic program as they question President Reagan's top advisers about his plans to fulfill promises to revive the nation's Called to testify today before a Senate Appropriations Committee hearing were Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan and Budget Director-designate David Stockman as well as Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker and Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office.

Almost simultaneous with the hearing, the full Senate planned to debate Stockman's nomination as director of the White House Office of Management and Budget. He was almost certain to gain easy confirmation, despite questions raised by several Democrats about his conservative ec-

The Reagan administration has promised a broad economic package, which is expected to be sent to Congress in mid-February. But, so far, there have been no firm details about what it will contain.

Democrats on the Appropriations Committee wanted to ask Stockman and Regan to be precise about the administration's plans for cutting federal spending, reducing taxes, easing government regulation of business and stimulating the economy. Volcker also was likely to be questioned about the Federal Reserve Board's tight money and tight credit policies, which he says are necessary to fight inflation.

Government figures released last week showed consumer prices jumped 12.4 percent in 1980, marking the worst three-year period of inflation in the United States since World

Need for two schools outlined

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Comparing Midland Independent School District to a business, school board member Parker Humes presented his case Monday before the Chamber of Commerce board for two new schools.

Humes, appearing at the chamber's monthly meeting, explained the trustees' reasons for putting a bond issue on the April ballot.

"We are faced with a space crisis in the public schools," he said, citing the numerous metal buildings the school board has been buying to serve as additional classrooms. Bowie Ele-mentary has two such buildings, and the school board recently purchased three more. Each costs $15,000 to $20,000, and Humes is opposed to the idea of children attending classes in these structures.

Six elementary schools are severely vercrowded, he said. Two on the west side - Anson Jones and Burnett - are getting eight to 15 more students each week. Midland schools are growing by 400 to 500 additional students each year in the kindergarten through fourth grades, he explained. The school board is proposing to construct two elementary schools one on the east side to replace De Zavala and a new one north of FM

"I feel we'll be coming back to more of these bond issues if the city keeps growing," said Humes. "The last time a new school was built in Midland was in 1965. How has your business changed since then?" he asked the chamber directors.

He predicted that if the bond issue fails, the school board will have to resort to half-day classes to ease the classroom crunch.

The exact amount of the bond issue and how it would increase the tax rate hasn't been determined, he added Questioned as to why additional wings couldn't be added to current elementary buildings to ease the space shortage, Humes replied that De Zavala has had six wings added to it since it was built in the late 1920s. "It's a Mickey Mouse thing and the school is rundown now.'

The school board isn't adding much more to this planned bond issue, he said. "We're running scared because a $10 million bond issue last year went

That bond issue would have provided for building a new elementary school in north Midland.

In other action, the chamber direc-

In other action, the chamber directors approved their 1981 budget, which includes a $39,214 deficit. The membership dues structure is being increased 25 percent.

Fred Tyler, executive vice president of the chamber, explained the 1980 budget called for a deficit. But the chamber ended the year with a surplus "because we watched our expenses elegaly."

Mickey Cappadonna was selected to head up a hospital committee to fight Odessa's application for a 6MEV linear accelerator. Bill Ortloff, chamber president, said a legal firm has been hired to represent the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center in its fight against Odessa in Austin Feb. 25-27.

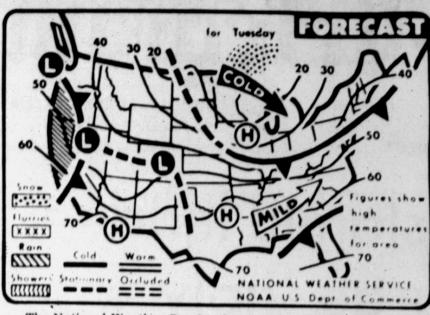

Betty McDearmon with Adobe Realtors said 243 housing units were sold in December for $16,685,171.

In 1980, 1,939 housing units were sold for $123,612,748. This was substantially higher than in 1979, she said, when 1,693 housing units were sold for $92,713,888.

Joe Kloesel, chairman of a parking committee, said his group would be seeking professional advice from the Urban Land Institute and National Parking Association as to how the problem could be resolved in the Spring-like temperatures to continue

If you like spring weather, you're in luck because Midland's early springlike temperatures will continue through Wednesday. Wednesday's high is expected to be near 70 degrees, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Winds will be warm and southerly tonight and Wednesday, at a slight 5-10 mph tonight and increasing to 15-20 mph on Wednesday.

The low tonight should dip into the mid-30s again.

This morning's low was 33 degrees - fairly warm compared to the 9 degrees recorded on the date in 1948.

Monday's high reached a mild 63 degrees, but still fell shy of the record high temperature for the date set in 1953 at 81 degrees.

No rain is in sight to complete this spring visit; however, Midland is currently "a little above normal" on its amount of precipitation at .56 of an inch for the year. Usually Midland records .59 of an inch by the end of the month, the Weather Service spokes man said, adding that there are still a few days of January left.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Traditionminded senators rallied behind one of their colleagues Monday in blocking the appointment of a Pan American University regent the senator called 'personally obnoxious.

As a courtesy to Sen. Carlos Truan, the Senate voted 28-0 against the appointment of Billie Pickard of Raymondville, a former school board president in that Lower Rio Grande Valley city.

Traditionally, governors clear appointments to state boards and commissions with the hometown senators. Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said Gov. Bill Clements named Mrs. Pickard to the board although the governor "knew full well" Truan was opposed to her Truan said Mrs. Pickard as a member of the Raymondville school board in 1968-77 was "beyond a doubt... insensitive to the needs of children."

The rejection was a political defeat for Clements and a personal loss for Tobin Armstrong, the governor's special assistant for appointments and a close friend of Mrs. Pickard.

Although Armstrong was quoted last month as saying "there's not much we can do about' Truan's opposition, Truan maintains that Armstrong's "parting shot" to him was, "We'll run over you on this Truan said Mrs. Pickard consistently opposed federally funded bilingual education programs as well as other remedial programs and school lunches for children from low-income families. He noted most of the school children in Raymondville are Mexican-Americans.

Officers quizzed on alien's death

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A state grand jury has begun questioning police officers who were at the scene where a Piedras Negras, Mexico, man was shot to death by a police officer on Christmas Day. Police patrolman James Cammack reported he shot Hector Santoscoy, 25, because the burglary suspect threatened him with a brick after seeking refuge beneath a house

Cammack and his police dog went beneath the house where Santoscoy was hiding after officers saw a man run from a fast-food restaurant whose windows were broken, police reported.

The Bexar County grand jury is expected to take several days to complete its investigation. On Monday, the panel began interviewing nine police officers who were at the scene when Santoscoy was fatally wounded.

A trio of local civil rights attorneys, who said they were employed by the Santoscoy family and the Mexican government, also lined up witnesses to support their claim that Cammack used unnecessary deadly force in subduing Santoscoy.

Attorneys Ruben Sandoval, Augustin Mata and Vicente Gonzalez, of the local Civil Rights Litigation Center, said Eusebio and Adelia Castillo, residents of the house beneath which Santoscoy was hiding; and police buff Paul Hernandez, a member of the local REACT citizen's band club who was at the scene, would support their contention that Cammack was unwarranted in firing at least four bullets at Santoscoy in the cramped 18-inch crawl space

Polish stage more warning strikes

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Workers and students in southern, central and northeastern Poland staged warning strikes today to press demands for the registration of a private farmers union, the abolition of compulsory Marxism classes and the publication of independent union literature.

Lech Walesa, leader of the giant Solidarity independent labor federation, arrived in the southeastern city of Rzeszow for talks with some 300 farmers and peasants who have been occupying a union building since Jan.

The farmers, pressing for official recognition of a "Rural Solidarity" union to represent much of the na tion's private agriculture, have said they would call on fellow independent unionists in local factories to strike if. a government commission did not arrive by today to negotiate their

No commission had arrived by midday, and despite the arrival of Walesa, employees at an unspecified number of enterprises struck in support of the private farmers, who produce most of the nation's food.

Independent union spokesmen said work stopped at the WSK aircraft engine factory in Rzeszow, the WSK aircraft factory in nearby in Bielec and the Jarlan chemical plant in Jaroslaw.

A Solidarity spokesman at the union's headquarters in the Baltic port of Gdansk said Walesa would ask the farmers staging the sit in to tone down their militancy "because of the very tense situation in Rzeszow and elswhere in southern Poland.

A Solidarity spokesman in Rzeszow said a government commission led by Stanislaw Closek, minister of trade union affairs, was expected to arrive there later today.

In Bialystock, in northeastern Poland near the Soviet border, most enterprises, including city transport. staged a four-hour warning strike to protest an official ban on publication of a recent Solidarity newsletter, according to a spokesman for the independent union.

Polish state radio, in its noon newscast, also reported brief warning strikes in the city of Lodz southwest of Warsaw, where students continued a sit-in to protest compulsory classes in Marxism. It was unclear whether the Lodz job actions, which temporarily shut down city transport, were directly connected with the student pro-

The continuing labor unrest in Poland has raised the possibility of a Soviet-led military intervention similar to that in Czechoslovakia in 1968.

In Warsaw, Politburo member Mieczyslaw Moczar called today for a widespread purge of functionaries who wielded power and influence under Edward Gierek, the party chief ousted after last summer's crippling strikes that gave rise to the independent union movement

"Obviously we could have avoided such great social tremors. They had long been forecast by political seismographs. Those signals were ignored and the accumulated conflicts led to a mighty quake," Moczar wrote in the party paper Trybuna Ludu.

"I believe that in this great historic renewal of social life there is and there can be no place for the enemies of socialism, who prey on great social movements, seeing them to be the field for their destructive activity.

"I also believe that the renewal of personnel must continue. Not only those who out of thoughtlessness or deprayed by power showed destruction and damage around them must

Tree pruning to be shown

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: M'A'S'H star Alan Alda shares this birthday with you. Highly interested in humanitarian causes, you can find great satisfaction in devoting long hours to a special project to help the needy. Money will be a factor in decisions you make regarding travel this year, and romance may have to take a backseat to business at times.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Ration your time and energies carefully. Think in terms of long-range objectives. A visit with an old friend could result in a very happy, rewarding evening. Share expenses.

TAURUS (April 20-May (n). Promises made by influential people may not pan out. Play hard to get in business, romance! Mate or partner will advance exciting idea. You find new ways to reduce everyday expenses.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). Friend could play a maor role in your fortunes now. Make the best possible use of any important contacts you might have. Last-minute social invitation may be both fun and expensive.

One of the best books we have read in a long time is Partnership Defense in Bridge" by Kit Woolsey (Devyn Press, 1327 Walnut St., Shelbyville, Ky. 40065, 303 pp., paperback, $8.95). Most books on defensive play concentrate on one hand only. But bridge is a partnership game, in the play of the cards as well as in the bidding. Woolsey sets out to show how the actions of both defenders are inter-related.

For example, consider this hand from the book. To test your defense, cover up the East and South hands and imagine you are sitting West defending against four hearts. You lead the queen of clubs, won by the king as partner contributes the three. Declarer runs the queen of hearts from dummy to your king. What do you lead to the third trick?

The answer lies in the card partner played to the first trick. The three of clubs was a discouraging card, suggesting a shift. The obvious switch is to a spade - partner can't want a diamond shift, because the ace of diamonds in unlikely to go away. And if he wasn't prepared for a

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A golden opportunity presents itself. Move quickly to forestall competitors! Luck plays a major role in advancing a love interest. Refuse to dwell on any past romantic disappointments. New relationship holds great promise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A special talent could mean greater prestige or increased pay. Younger person may single you out. Do everything you can to help this individual in a time of emer-

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Private concerns occupy your thoughts during most of the day. Romance could be hazardous to your pocketbook. Slow down. Friends, social events bring you happiness. Be prompt in answering all correspon-

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Someone behind the scenes may be plotting mischief. Stay on your toes! Loved ones could be feeling. extravagant. Do what you can to negotiate a mutually beneficial agreement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The cooperation of strangers could help achieve a career goal. Be on the lookout for interesting new opportunities. Romance may be somewhat topsy-turvy. Refuse to commit funds you do not have.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An excellent day for gathering information. Do not allow domestic concerns to interfere with business. Romance will be much more rewarding if you work at it.

spade, he would simply have played a high club at the first trick to request that you continue that suit.

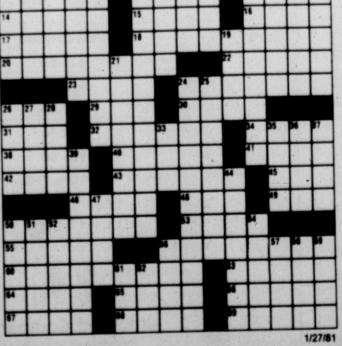

But it is not enough to shift to the ace of spades. You should cater to the possibility that partner has the doubleton king of spades. . Lead a low spade. Partner wins the king, returns a spade to your ace and ruffs the spade continuation for a one trick set

The price of the book may be slightly high, considering that it is a paperback. But buy it all the same-you should recover the outlay in one evening's bridge even if you play for very low stakes.

Note one point in the bidding. South had no hesitation in going to game after his partner made a jump raise. Two aces is an excellent holding opposite a partner who could make a jump

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Learn to find the winning attack with Charles Goren's "Opening Leads." For your copy, send $1.85 to "Goren-Leads," clo this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - Led by declining oil and precious metals issues, the stock market posted a small loss Monday in relatively slow trading activity.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, down more than 5 points at midsession, staged a weak rally to finished the day off 1.28 at 938.91, marking the sixth straight losing session. Last week the market gave up 33.10 points.

Volume on the Big Board was 35.38 million shares, down from 37.22 million on Friday

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 9-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange listed issues

The market has been dampened by uncertainty over the future course of interest rates and some investor anxiety over the development of President Reagan's economic package, analysts said.

Precious metals stocks, hurt by falling gold prices, were among the day's biggest losers. Gold prices dropped by more than $20 an ounce in Europe and by about $30 an ounce in New York

Campbell Red Lake lost 41/2 to 481/4. Homestake Mining was off 4% at 53%, and Dome Mines fell 3% to 76%.

The oil stocks, which have shown significant weakness in recent sessions, continued to slide. Texaco led the NYSE most-active list, down 1% at 42%. Atlantic Richfield reported a 16.1 percent earnings gain in the 1980 fourth quarter and rose 1/4 to

Among airline stocks, American Airlines gained 1/4 to 10. The Dow Jones average of 20 transportation stocks was off 2.42 at 389.19. The NYSE's composite

GM trying for 70 percent of market

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. wants to make its huge market share even lead bigger, and is prepared to spend lots of money in the attempt, the automaker's new chairman says.

"I'd like to see us taking 70 percent of the domestic market," Roger B. Smith said in an interview published Monday in the trade journal Automotive News.

Smith's remark was the first disclosure of GM's long-term marketing targets since the half-joking "60-60-60" slogan of the middle 1970s. That referred to a saying of Smith's predecessor, Thomas Murphy, and President Elliott Estes that they wanted 60 percent of the market and a price of $60 a share for GM stock before their 60th birthdays.

It was nearly four years past their birthdays before GM took 60 percent of the domestic auto market in the fourth quarter of 1979. For all of 1979, GM's share was 59.4 percent, or 45.9 percent of the total market when imports are included.

Today, five of every eight buyers of domestic cars drives a GM product. Last year, 62.6 percent of all domestic cars sold were GM cars, again 45.9 percent of the total market.

Murphy frequently said GM wanted every possible sale - and Smith echoed him.

Referring to the 70 percent goal, Smith said, 'We're out there trying to get it." "If we do the right things with our product programs — if we get our engineering, our quality and our pricing right — we'll get a bigger piece of the market," he said. "We're trying to get every damn piece of it we can. GM already has programmed spending of $40 billion through 1984 to modernize its plants, and Smith disclosed that capital expenditures for 1985 through 1990 could equal that sum "I don't want to spend another $40 billion on another round of car downsizing," he said. "But it wouldn't bother me if we're doing it on new components factories, our new electric car, new microprocessor factories, new robot-producing factories, new products and all the other things I see coming down the road.

Midland, Ector sales over $200 million

Midland and Ector counties each reported more than $200 million in sales subject to being taxed during the third quarter of 1980, according to the state comptroller's office in Austin. With 1,957 reporting outlets, Midland County had gross sales of $435,275,692 with that same amount qualifying under gross taxable sales. Minus deductions of $254,849,765 and use tax purchases of $27,133,-746, the county is left with $207,559,673 that is subject to a tax

Ector County has 2,939 reporting outlets, according to the comptroller's report. For the third quarter, the county had $845,153,618 in gross sales and the same in gross taxable sales.

Minus deductions of $605,388,866 and use tax purchases of $18,591,849, the county is left with $258,356, 601 subject to be taxed.

Japan told auto union The NASDAQ composite won't sit idle on imports

TOKYO (AP) - AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland told Japanese labor officials today his 17 million-member union will not "stand idle" in the face of what he characterized as the U.S. auto industry "catastrophe" due principally to auto imports. In an address to the Japan Institute of Labor. Kirkland said auto import restrictions, a thorny issue between the United States and Japan. are "essential to the future economic health of the United States.

He said Americans "de with Japan's export poliand noted Japan must be an aggressive exporter to raise foreign exchange to import oil and critical raw materi-

Kelly convicted, but 'war goes on WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Rep. Richard Kelly, declaring "I have not been a crook," is vowing to press his challenge of the propriety of the FBI's Abscam investigation as he appeals his bribery and conspiracy convictions.

"The war goes on," the former Florida congressman told reporters after a jury deliberated 61/2 hours Monday before convicting him and two co-defendants of taking part in a $250,000 bribery conspiracy.

U.S. District Judge William Bryant set sentencing for Feb. 23. Each defendant faces a maximum prison term of 25 years, including 15 years on the most serious bribery charge.

Kelly, 56, the only Republican member of Congress indicted in the Abscam probe, was convicted of taking a $25,000 bribe from an FBI agent posing as a representative of two Arab sheiks seeking legislation to immigrate to the United States. He testified he accepted the payoff only to conduct his own investigation of men he said he regarded as shady charac-

Kelly, a former state judge, said he will continue to press that assertion and expand his own probe of Abscam to include the government, which he claimed entrapped him by inducing him to take the money.

The government "has not proved that I've been involved in any kind of corruption," Kelly insisted. "The story of my life has been that I have not been a crook. I have not tried to save my own hide at the expense of the people.

The government said Kelly's co-defendants, businessman Gino Ciuzio of Longwood, Fla., and accountant Stanley Weisz, of Smithtown, N.Y. were middlemen in a scheme in which Kelly eventually was to receive a total of $100,000.

Kelly was convicted of bribery and Weisz and Ciuzio of aiding and abetting bribery, punishable by up to 15 years in prison. All three were convicted of conspiracy, which carries a maximum term of five years. And each was convicted of a separate count of traveling across state lines to further an illegal activity, a crime punishable by up to five years' imprisonment

Attorneys for Weisz and Ciuzio said they would base their appeal on arguments of government misconduct in

More court-TV battles ahead

By RICHARD CARELLI Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Whether most Americans ever get to see or hear for themselves what goes on inside their local courtrooms now depends on what state they live in. That could change, but probably not in the immediate future.

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that states are free to allow radio, television and still photography coverage of criminal trials, even when defendants

A defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial, the court said, is not automatically jeopardized when the news media are allowed to augment their paper, pencils and chalk with cameras and microphones.

The ruling provided no new "right of access." What it did was beat back arguments - advanced by the influential American Bar Association and the American College of Trial Lawyers, among others that televised trials never can be constitution-

Only criminal trials held in the state courts of Florida, Iowa, Massachusetts, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin can be televised without the consent of all participants.

Monday's decision left unanswered whether states which flatly ban broadcast and photographic coverage of courtroom proceedings have any constitutional duty to provide such access.

That is likely to be the basis of a future First Amendment fray.

Last July, in a case entitled Richmond Newspapers vs. Virginia, the Supreme Court ruled 7-1 that the public and newspaper reporters enjoy a First Amendment right to attend criminal trials over a defendant's objection.

In writing for three of the court's members Monday, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said. "Instead of acquiring information about trials by first-hand observation or by word of mouth from those who attended, people now acquire it chiefly through the print and electronic media.

In a sense, this validates the media claim of functioning as surrogates for the public;" Burger
