COUNTY TO MEET

A meeting of the wool growers of Haskell county and this im-mediate section has been scheduled for Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the courthouse, at which time L. F. Astin, manager of the Mid-Western Wool Marketing Association of Fort Worth will discuss marketing of wool produced in this section, a problem of increasing concern to wool producers of this area.

The annual wool clip in Haskell county amounts to about 50,000 pounds, County Agent Schumann estimated and growers are compelled to market the fleece in San Angelo and Abilene or Ft. Worth, nearest wool markets. Principal purpose of the meeting here on Friday will be to discuss probability of establishing a wool pool city for the erection and operaor other means of handling the tion clip from this section on an ad- Haskell.

ATTENTION VOTERS!

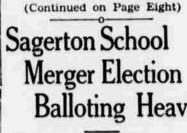

In the recent election a good many voters lost their vote because their ballots were improperly marked, and a number lost part of their vote for the same reason.

The law is plain and voting is very simple if you will just remember this:

1. Do not mark or do anything to the name of the candidate you wish to vote for. Leave that name untouched in any

2. Draw a plain black mark through the name of every one you do not wish to vote for. Mark out or black out every name except the name of the person you want to vote for.

A good many voters apparently tried to indicate the names they wished to vote for by a check mark or a cross mark opposite the name. This ruins your vote and it has to be cast out. Leave the name of the candidate you favor, and black out or mark out all other names.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

When a man finds no peace within himself t is useless to seek it elsewhere. -La Rochefoucauld

Stephen Foster

Some interesting sidelights on the life of Stephen Collins Foster, sweet singer of Southern songs, who never lived in the South, are given in book by John Tasker Howard, an authority on American music.

Foster was a native of Pittsburgh, where he spent most of his life and it is said that he formed his taste for music through a negro girl servant in his home, who took him to colored revivals and early minstrel shows. Her influence is seen in his predilection for songs of the cabin and plantation.

When he wrote "Old Folks at Home" he had difficulty in finding a pleasing name of a Southern river to fit the meter of the first line. He tried "Pedee," and then "Yazoo," finally searching an atlas until he found "Suwanee." The song was sold to Edwin P. Christy, a minstrel singer, for $15, under condition that Christy be allowed to pose as its author, and first editions of the song bore Christy's name

Foster's songs numbered in all about 125, for which he wrote both words and music, sometimes on wrapping paper, when nothing better was at hand. They earned for him about $15,000, but he was a ne'er-do-well and drank pretty heavily. His wife worked as a telegraph operator to help eke cut a livelihood, according to Howard.

An old record in Bellevue Hospital, New York, gives an account of his death in 1864, at the age of 37, as the result of a fall in a Bowery rooming house

Stephen Foster's life might not have been considered much of a success by his contemporaries. but his matchless songs have won for him something akin to immortal fame.

According to the best information available. Germany had only about 65 submarines at the beginning of the present war. It is believed that about one-fourth of these have been destroyed since hostilities began.

A tall story that may be true is told by Capt. Martis Vidos of the trawler Lion, which recently put into port at Morgan City, La. He declares that a big shark got away with the ship's anchor when it was dropped a short distance off shore.

In Baltimore, Md., railroad cars are prohibited from standing in the streets "unless properly chained.

The Nation's Capital

Among the troublesome questions which confronted Congress in the early days of the Republic was that of selecting a permanent seat of government. Between 1774 and 1788 the old Continental Congress held sessions at various times in no less than eight different towns.

These were Philadelphia, Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa.; York, Pa.; Princeton, N. J.; Annapolis, Md.; Trenton, N. J. and New York. This continual moving about of the seat of government caused Francis Hopkinson, one of the singers of the Declaration of Independence to facetiously suggest that the capital be placed on wheels, so that it might be moved readily from place to place as desired.

When the new government under the present constitution was formed in 1789, the seat of gov ermment was temporarily located in New York but was removed to Philadelphia the following year. After much discussion the present site was elected and the cornersione of the capitol was aid by President Washington on September 18, 1793, with Masonic ceremonies.

The government was removed to Washington in 1800, during the administration of President Adams. Of the condition of the place at that time writer says: "The new city's streets and parks existed on paper only. New arrivals saw gangs of aborers making the first improvements since the clearing away of the forest trees on what has become the most famous street in the country, the broad stretch of Pennsylvania Avenue."

U. S. Motor Transport

The extent to which motor transport serves the nation is little realized by the average citizen. Recent statistics issud by the Automobile Manuacturers Association showed that there were 4. 224,000 motor trucks registered in the United States, Over 48,000 communities are served solely by highway transport, having no direct rail service and more than six and a half million Americans earn their living either directly or indirectly through the medium of highway haulage.

One of the most interesting examples of the adaptability of the modern commercial vehicle come to light recently in the town of Bowling Green, Missouri, where a failure in the water system, due to unusual freezing conditions caused a drought. The hard pressed town finding itself completely out of water appealed in every direction for aid. Coming to the rescue of the situation, a 4.000 gallon Fruehauf tank trailer was put into service hauling water from the neighboring town of Louisiano, Missouri. This one tank trailer kept the town of Bowling Green supplied with water for more than three weeks until repairs could be made to the local water system and the reservoir refilled.

Highway haulage plays a very important part in the economic life of this country. There are more than three millon truck drivers who earn and spend a total of four billion dollars annually. Commercial vehicles pay in taxes more than million dollars a day to the state and national governments and this does not include the passenger cars which are used for business travel.

Several days after robbers ransacked the safe the offices of the Cole Nursery in Painesville, O., the loot-$46-was returned by mail to the nurserv.

Fearing the two-carat diamond given him by the late Will Rogers might be stolen. Chief White Eagle of Trenton, Ill., has had a dentist set the stone in one of his upper teeth.

City officials of Detroit, notified that a certain downtown building had violated three sections of the construction code, discovered the building was the City Hall.

There is one general principle that can be set down here, how-ever. Briefly, it is this. Any part of your house that it is not practi-cal to replace should have the best in construction and materials. By this, we mean such items as footings and foundation, timber skelewindow frames, which are really part of the house frame, concealed ducts and wiring. All these things must last the life of the house.
