Rep. Courtney Hunt Warns Against 'Pension Racket'

Relative to recent distribution in Haskell county of literature soliciting contributions in the form of one dollar "membership" in an organization, reputedly promising to assist in securing Old Age Pensions of $30 per month for all 65-year-old residents of Texas, several inquiries have been received by this newspaper as to whether aged persons who are not receiving Old Age Assistance should pay $1.00 for membership in the association.

In response to these inquiries, The Free Press gives the following letter from Hon. Courtney Hunt, State Representative of the 113th district, in which the legislator warns against any and all advertising or soliciting schemes purporting to be of aid in securing Social Security benefits.

Mr. Hunt writes: "To My Friends in Haskell County: "You have probably received from the Texas Pension Union, who give their address as Capitol Station, Austin, Texas, a letter in which you are solicited to send them $1.00 and become a charter member of their union. This amount of money 'is to help cover the cost of security, printing, radio,

BABY SHOW PROCEEDS WILL BE DONATED TO CHARITABLE CAUSES

Program Will Be Sponsored by Welfare Leaders and Local Merchants

A dire need on the part of a certain number of Haskell residents for both food and medicine has been brought to the attention of Mrs. C. M. Kaigler by Mrs. Sam P. Herrin and Mrs. Kate Perdue, and it has been decided to stage a Baby Show in the near future, with proceeds from the program going for relief of destitute residents. Mrs. Kaigler, a successful director of talent, will be in charge of the affair.

Age of the little folks eligible for entry in the show will range from six months to six years.

In addition to the Baby Show, added features will provide additional entertainment on the program. At the conclusion of the Baby Show, the cycle of Time will be skipped a few years to present "Haskell High School Peaches and Plums" in divisions according to age. The grand prize for both "peaches" and plums will be a boy. At least five boys will stand in a row before them and the winning beauty from the peaches and plums will be given her selection from the five boys. Sponsors have definitely stated that the boys would be "real"—and not a young animal.

Final presentation on the program will be "baby boys" ranging in age from 25 to 55 years—and one can imagine how cute they will be in caps and bonnets. These little "boy babies" will compete in cutest smiles, lustiest cry, laugh-out-loud, and in saying "da-da" and "ma-ma"—the plainest. Prizes for this group will be rattlers, teaching rings, A-B-C plate, toy dog and a rubber doll, with the grand prize a nursing bottle.

Merchants of Haskell are co-operating with the sponsors of this show and it is Mrs. Perdue's plan to consult all civic organizations and the various churches in choosing a date for the program that will not conflict with other gatherings. In urging support of the charitable program, sponsors said:

"The Bible definition for charity is love and there is a sincere hope on the part of the committee that we will love our unfortunate neighbors to the extent of making any reasonable sacrifice on the night of this show and go and take the whole family. The place and date will be announced next week."

All mothers wishing to enter their babies and small children according to from six months to six years, are asked to see either Mrs. Kate Perdue or Mrs. C. M. Kaigler. There will be no entrance fee. You will be helping a good cause by just entering your child.

"For your information, I will state that this Texas Pension Union is now being investigated by a Legislative Committee, with a view of criminal protection for irregularities. Regardless of the findings of this committee, I would advise my friends to not send any amount of money to any person or organization in order that they secure a pension for you, for in my opinion your money would be a total loss.

"The fact that the people of Texas are being subjected to nefarious advertising and soliciting schemes that result in obtaining money from various persons of the people of Texas, which persons can in no way assist them in their efforts to secure Social Security benefit provided for now under the laws of the State of Texas or the United States.

"As your Representative, I feel it my duty to give you this warning.

Respectfully yours, Courtney Hunt, Representative 113th District."

WEEKLY AUCTION SALE ATTRACTING WIDER INTEREST

Both Livestock, Merchandise Will Be Listed For All Future Sales

The weekly livestock auction sale, inaugurated several weeks ago by the Haskell County Livestock Commission Company, has been broadened in scope to include the sale of movable merchandise and farm equipment, it was announced this week.

Beginning with the sale held on Thursday of this week, services of the company's auctioneer were offered free of charge to all persons desiring to offer merchandise for sale—in the event that an acceptable offer was not received and the merchandise remained unsold.

Thursday's merchandise sale was a successful affair, according to Messrs. Fogue and Clanton, sale sponsors. A much larger list is expected for the next sale, on Thursday May 4th.

Receipts and sales of livestock have increased at each auction since the sales were inaugurated, and sales closed Thursday saw prices well above the market paid for choice butcher cattle and hogs.

New Farm Owners Repay Government Loans Before Due

Twenty-four of the 149 Texas tenant farmers who became farm owners more than a year ago under the Bankhead-Jones act have repaid more on their loan than is due, according to C. M. Evans, of Dallas, regional director of the Farm Security Administration.

"The first year is the hardest," Mr. Evans said, "but the group ended their first full year of ownership satisfactorily and are working toward a debt-free farm of their own. None of them has 'blown up,' and none is seriously delinquent in his repayments. This is strong evidence that most of our tenant farmers in Texas can become farm owners if given proper assistance and guidance."

The former tenant farmers, six of whom are in Haskell county, were loaned money late in 1937 or early '38 to buy farms of their choice. The loan included money to terrace the land and otherwise put the farm in first-class condition, and for improvement so that the farmers can get maximum economic production. Only three percent interest is charged and the farmers have as long as 40 years to repay the loans.

Checks received to date represent approximately one-half the amount which has been earned by Haskell county farmers. Mr. Schumann estimated. Payments have been received covering 1,203 farms in the county. It is estimated that about five and one-half thousand dollars will be paid farmers of the county for compliance in the 1938 soil program.

In addition, an estimated $30,000 in wheat subsidy benefits will be paid farmers of the county, with these payments expected in the near future, to be followed with disbursement of about $264,000 in cotton subsidy payments during the summer months, based on the present subsidy schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Dean of Olney visited friends in Haskell over the week end.

Miss Eloise Edwards entered the Stamford hospital Saturday for medical observation.

Haskell Resident Who Believed Himself U.S. Citizen 50 Years Gets Naturalization Papers

A. Tonn, well-known Haskell resident for more than twenty years, and who until only a few weeks ago believed himself a citizen of the United States, recently was issued his full naturalization papers in Federal Court at Abilene.

Tonn, former blacksmith, mechanic and woodworker, is 68 years old, and has been voting as an American citizen since he was of age. In addition, he has held public office, having served as school trustee in Knox county before coming to Haskell.

Born in Johannesguyen, Germany, Mr. Tonn came to America as a child and believed until a few months ago that he was an American citizen because his father became a naturalized American. A check, however, revealed the father had only taken out first papers. If a foreign-born parents is naturalized children under 21 become citizens too. Under this assumption, Tonn had voted and otherwise believed himself a full-fledged citizen.

The Haskell man was one in a group of eight foreign citizens who took out their final naturalization papers recently in Abilene federal court.

Mrs. Sam Herren left this week for San Francisco, Calif., where she will visit in the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Urrea, and attend the Exposition in that city. Later she will go to New York to visit another daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCreey and attend the World's Fair.

$263,510 Distributed to Farmers of County In Recent Weeks

The sum of $263,519.83 has been distributed to Haskell county farmers during recent weeks in the form of payments for compliance in the soil conservation program of 1938, according to records in the office of County Agent G. R. Schumann. First checks for compliance were received last month, with additional allotments coming in every few days.

Checks received to date represent approximately one-half the amount which has been earned by Haskell county farmers. Mr. Schumann estimated. Payments have been received covering 1,203 farms in the county. It is estimated that about five and one-half thousand dollars will be paid farmers of the county for compliance in the 1938 soil program.

Magazine Club Has Meeting Friday Afternoon
 Mrs. J. M. Diggs used roses from her rose garden to make the Magazine Club room more attractive for the program Friday afternoon. Mrs. Ben Bagwell directed the following numbers on "Everyday Manners": "Standard Etiquette" given by Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, "Genuine vs. Artificial Manner", Mrs. Elizabeth Martin and a "Question Box" conducted by Mrs. T. R. Odell.
 The theme for the program was one of having just one set of manners and using those at all times. Something was told of manners in other countries, and contrasts were made between real manners and artificial ones.
 The correct way to use everyday manners was brought out by Mrs. Odell by having members of the club answer her questions and demonstrate how they would use different forms everyday.
South Ward P.-T. A. Meeting Is Well Attended
 "A bunch of golden keys is mine To make each day with gladness shine."

Odell, the retiring president of the Thirteenth District and a state officer, gave a very interesting discussion on what the state office could do toward helping us attain this goal.

The First Census

Provision for the taking of a census of the United States every 10 years is made in the Constitution, and this was originally intended principally for the purpose of determining how the representation in the House of Representatives should be apportioned.

The first census was taken in 1790, in accordance with the act introduced in the House by James Madison, who later became President. This simply provided for a count of the population, divided into the following classes: White males over 16, white males under 16, white females, free blacks, and slaves.

Madison at first wanted to list the occupation of the people, but fear of opposition by the citizens, who might suspect that the government was trying to get a line on their incomes so as to levy higher taxes, caused the Senate to strike out that provision.

Six months was allowed for the taking of the first census, the total cost of which was $44,377. In some sections a good many people objected to giving the mere information concerning age, but a fairly good job was done and it was shown that the new nation had a population of 3,929,214.

The taking of the 1940 census will probably require the services of 130,000 persons, and the enumerators will be expected to complete their part of the work in 30 days. The count is expected to show a population of about 132 million. The population shown by the census of 1930 was 122,773,048.

O'Brien Vs. Baugh

Another sports "battle of the century" is in the offing for this fall, when Texas Christian's former great All-American football back, Sammie Baugh, and Davey O'Brien, will clash on the professional gridiron.

When Baugh was making his amazing collegiate record for T. C. U., O'Brien was his understudy for a number of years, then took his place when Baugh was graduated. Little Davey then proceeded to make a record of his own, and then fate has had them at arm's length over what is the better passer of the two.

Both are now professionals on different teams in the same league, and when they appear each other next season it will be something for the customers in the stands. Baugh has played professional football with the Washington Redskins for two seasons already, while O'Brien has his professional debut with the Philadelphia Eagles a year ago. In his first pro season, Baugh led his team to the professional championship almost single-handed, but last year he was hampered by injuries part of the time, although his record was excellent in the games played.

The three-year passing records of the two of garbage, Patrick Cotter of Boston found a $500 player at Texas Christian are briefly as follows: diamond ring.

Baugh, in 36 games, attempted 599 passes, of which 274 were completed for a total of 3,479 yards; percentage 456. O'Brien in 27 games attempted 444, completed 210 for 2,708 yards; percentage 473. These figures do not prove anything, of course, as the playing of team mates and the opposition can not be reduced to statistics. They indicate, however, that when the Redskins and the Eagles meet there will be some royal battles.

New Stamp "Automat"

Tests of a new stamp vending machine are being made by the Post Office Department in a large Philadelphia department store, with a view to its wide use if it proves satisfactory.

The new machine is different from those at present used in various public places, in that it gives full value for the customer's money, instead of only two 2-cent stamps for a nickel. It is intended to be used in post offices to relieve patrons from waiting in line at stamp windows during rush hours.

Stamp "automats" deliver a 1-cent stamp for a penny, a 5-cent stamp or five 1-cent stamps for a nickel, and either one special delivery stamp, two 5-cent stamps or five 2-cent stamps for a dime. Three-cent stamps are not sold by the automat, as there is no coin of that denomination in use at present.

When any compartment of the automat is out of stamps, the corresponding slot is closed. If a counterfeit coin or slug is inserted, it is rejected by the machine and returned, accompanied by the ringing of a small bell. Coins which are too badly worn are similarly rejected.

The new machines should prove a great convenience for the public, especially when installed in post office lobbies, and available when stamp windows are closed.

World's Languages

In a comprehensive work on languages of the world, published in Paris, no less than 6,760 tongues and systems of writing are listed. But the actual number of languages is classified as distinct languages for the purpose of the French Academy to be 2,796.

Chinese, including its many dialects, is used by more people than any other language in the world, about 475 million. There are about 43,000 different characters used in Chinese writing.

English is spoken by about 223 million people far more than one-half of whom are citizens of the United States. Several million more in various parts of the world know enough English words to make it possible for them to carry on simple conversations for the purpose of barter and the like.

Russians and its various dialects is spoken by more than 160 million. Other principal languages, with figures representing the number of millions by whom they are spoken, include the following: Japanese, 90; Spanish, 80; German, 78; French, 62; Portuguese, 47; Italian, 43.

The above figures are estimates of the number of people actually speaking the languages named, and do not include those of native colonies and others who do not use the languages of the governing nation. India, for example, while under British rule, has more than 300 million inhabitants who do not speak English, but use scores of native languages and dialects.

Two women fruit vendors in Chicago pulled a wooden wagon with rotten fruit when it attempted to stop their quarrel.

After waiting his father's death the first several years, the small son of Dr. John Williams, of Tallahassee, Fla., tried to start one using 13 one-dollar bills.

Spike, a St. Bernard dog, furnished a half pint of blood to aid his pal, Mac, a Great Dane, victim of pneumonia in a Los Angeles hospital.

Dr. Charles F. Pabst, chief dermatologist of the Greenpoint Hospital, Brooklyn, says that women should strive to retain their schoolgirl's complexion.

As he turned over the last forklift of 55 tons of garbage, Patrick Cotter of Boston found a $500 player at Texas Christian are briefly as follows: diamond ring.

The First American Basketball Court

THREE hundred years before Columbus, Americans were playing basketball at Chichen Itza, the South American Mayan metropolis. They used a stone court 350 feet long surrounded by walls 35 feet high. The "basket," at either side, is a vertical limestone hoop through which the Mayans knocked the ball—not with their hands but with heads, shoulders, hips and knees. Far from pitted losing teams were usually slaughtered by the victors immediately after the contest. So perfect are acoustics in the court that a man's voice re-echoes 12 times, back and forth.

Detail Planning Needed to Build Water Reservoir

Approximately two to four acre feet of water storage is required to furnish sufficient water for fifteen head of livestock and the sub-irrigation of a small garden, according to Meredith Owen, Project Engineer on the California Creek Water Facilities Project.

The small type reservoir to be constructed in conjunction with water facilities program requires detail planning and design before actual construction begins, Owen said. Factors entering into this plan and design include economic justification, proper location, size and condition of drainage area, soil type, construction of dam, and efficient economical spillway development.

A location should be chosen that will allow drainage from only clean pasture land. Water from barnyards should never be allowed to drain into stock ponds. When convenience makes it necessary to locate the pond in such a position that it will include drainage from barnyards or lots, terraces should be constructed and carry the contaminated water to another watershed where it will not pollute the pond water, if possible.

The size of the drainage area and the type of vegetative cover will have much to do with the success of a pond for stock water. When much larger drainage areas than are required for storage are used, the water in excess of what can be stored in the pond presents a serious problem. A badly gullied or cultivated drainage area will result in much silting of the pond, and should be avoided if possible if the pond is to be used strictly for water storage.

The location for the dam should be stripped of all surface vegetation and dense root systems before construction of the dam proper is started. If this is not done, a satisfactory seal between the fresh fill and the original earth will not be obtained, and serious seepage losses are likely to occur. The dam should be started at the proper case width and built up a layer at a time, conforming to the approximate side slope. In this way, the earth is moved no higher than where it is to be left in the dam. When a narrow dam is constructed and the dirt rolled over the side to acquire the necessary bottom width and side slopes, much unnecessary work is done. Proper construction assists in preventing sliding and caving of the dam. In porous soils, a core trench filled with clay and puddled will be necessary to prevent excessive seepage.

Inadequate spillways are common causes of failure in farm ponds. There is always the possibility of the heaviest rain in many years occurring before the dam has had time to settle and sod, and if the spillway is not adequate, the dam is apt to be lost. The spillway should be located out from the dam far enough to be constructed on original ground. Spillways should be made broad so that water flowing through them may be kept to a minimum depth. The dam should have at least three feet above the maximum flow in the spillway.

SENIORS GUESTS AT McMURRY

The Seniors of W. H. S. report a super-excellent trip to McMurry College on Saturday, April 22. All students were admitted free to two Shakespearean plays presented by the students of McMurry College. At four o'clock the students were free to wander at will over the campus. Some skated and some explored but all were interested. A delicious picnic supper was served in the gymnasium at six o'clock served by students in the college. After supper a group of our students went to Hardin Simmons where they learned more about the colleges in Abilene. The entire group is grateful to McMurry for the invitations to visit their college.

GIRLS TO CANCEL GALVESTON VISIT

Due to the cancellation of school, Wanda Dakan and Joannah Gordy will be unable to represent Weinert in the annual State Rally of Home Economics students at Galveston. These girls placed in the division of wool dresses in this school in the spring. They were planning to attend the rally and were very disappointed when they found they could not.

We are very sorry girls, but perhaps you will have another chance later to go on the trip.

I have noticed that even the poorest mathematics student is adept at figuring himself out of difficulties.

CHURCHES

CHURCH OF CHRIST J. G. Malpas, Minister

The Great Commission is the constitution (by way of comparison) of the New Testament church. It is stated in the last chapters of Matthew, Mark and Luke; the three put together making the Lord's commission to his apostles, and the church complete. It was given to the disciples and to us after his resurrection. In his personal ministry our Lord gave two other commissions to his disciples, Matt. 10:5-15, and Luke 10:1-12. These two commissions were limited to the "lost sheep of the house of Israel" within Palestine. (Matt. 10:5, 6). They did not preach the resurrection of Jesus, and their commission ended when their Lord died on the cross. The resurrection of Jesus called for a new and a greater commission. It must be one great enough to last until Jesus returns; it must be broad enough to include all nations, all the world; it must be simple enough to be readily understood by men of all races and degrees of learning; it must include what the Giver of salvation requires of every soul for citizenship in the kingdom of heaven. Such is our Lord's Commission. It must not be tampered with. Those who were saved before his resurrection were not saved by its terms; all souls saved since then have been saved by complying with it, if saved at all. The churches of Christ urge full obedience of the Great Commission. All our regular services at the usual hours. Next Thursday night at eight o'clock there is to be a singing. Representatives are to come from Rule and Rochester. Come to all the services and to the singing.
