Modern New Building Can Be Provided at Small Cost as WPA Project

Plans were set in motion this week to enlarge local school facilities needed to accommodate an increasing enrollment, especially in the primary grades, within of the Haskell Independent School district announced this week following their regular meeting Monday night.

An additional modern school building can be erected at a cost of only a few thousand dollars, through razing the unused East Ward building and use of WPA labor it was pointed out.

A badly overcrowded condition in the North Ward school makes it necessary to provide more room by another year. At the present time the school is using one room in the high school building, but will not be able to do so next year because a large seventh grade class graduating into high school will make it imperative to use all that building for high school purpose. In addition to that, overcrowded several rooms are badly overcrowded and must necessarily be divided.

The school board has been making a careful study of the situation and has reached the conclusion that the most satisfactory solution is the erection of another building to house the primary department. An architect has been retained and instructed to prepare estimates to determine the cost of such a structure.

The board proposed to apply for a W. P. A. project to salvage all material in the old East Ward building and use it in the erection of the proposed new structure. To provide the community's part of the funds it will be necessary to float a small bond issue, probably about $5,500. This can be done without increasing either property valuations or tax rates. The question will likely be submitted to the voters as soon as definite plans can be worked out.

WORDS & PICTURES

Around the World

By William LaVarre

Victoria Regina, the Biggest Leaf!

RICHARD SCHOMBURGH, an early South American explorer, discovered this giant lily leaf in the jungles of South America and named it after his sponsor, the English queen. It lies on the still water of tropical lakes and backwaters, provides sun-parlors for large frogs and little alligators. It can't support a child, as do the old geography books depicted, but two people, if they like, can give a shadow show on each glistening pad.

Diagnostic Tests Are Taken By Seniors

Included with the Seniors new English work books are diagnostic tests. The intention of these tests was to find what the majority were lacking in their knowledge of grammar. This test was taken last week. They are now proceeding rapidly in the work book, working to master the parts in which they found themselves weak. After all that is what the work book is for as its name, "The Mastery of English" implies. When the work book is finished an achievement test will be taken which will be similar to the diagnostic test, and which will show what things have been mastered. All seniors are working to raise their score.

Those present were: Eula Newsom, Aleatha Liles, Elizabeth Medley, Inez Medley, Alpha Mary Monke, Juanita Duff, Lonna Mae Sanders, Clara Sportman, Fawn Baldwin, Fern Baldwin, Junior Cadenhead, Howard Sloan, J. B. King, Royce Teaff, Ben Sloan, Vernon Anderson.

The truth of the thing is that the seniors are beginning in earnest to collect material for the annual. The students, so far, are cooperating wonderfully, and the seniors wish to express their gratitude to the lower classesmen.

Interesting Assembly Program Held Mr. Perrin directed the program Monday afternoon. He told us the life of Washington, which was very interesting. The group sang some songs and Mr. Hawkins gave us a talk that made everyone laugh and giggle. Center Point H. D. Club Studies Orchards

"We should examine our soil for nematods and alkali before planting in orchard," stated Mrs. H. F. Harwell to twelve members of Center Point Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Bill Pennington, Feb. 16, at 2:30 p. m.

Fruit trees will grow in many types of soil, stated Mrs. Pennington, but a deep sandy loam is the choice. Heavy soils may be made reasonably good by plowing under a green crop of some sort, even if weeds and spreading manure before trees are set out. Trees set on terraced tops do especially well. A slope steep enough to drain off water and give circulation to the air is important for low, flat places collect water and cold air.

Guam Suddenly Becomes Important to the U. S.

In June of 1898, the U. S. cruiser Charleston came into the port of Agaña in Guam and fired a shot. The Spanish governor of the island, thinking it was a salute came out to explain that he couldn't reply to it, having no guns or ammunition.

This is something into which every American ought to look with the greatest care. It is vital to the decision made here may affect the whole future of the country.

Guam is 6250 miles from San Francisco, 11,950 miles from the Panama Canal, 11,385 miles from Honolulu, which for years we have called our "outpost" defense in the Pacific.

Assume that we are interested only in the defense of our "outpost" United States, the Panama Canal and Alaska. That's been our usual assumption, but we are to leave the Philippines within a few years—we have promised.

There may be good military defensive reasons for fortifying Guam. That is for the military to show, and it would seem to want a lot of showing.

A Baseball Bargain

Judging from the record, the Boston Bees got a pretty good bargain recently when the veteran slugger and star outfielder, Al Simmons, was purchased from the Washington Senators for a paltry $3,000.

Simmons was the biggest gun in Connie Mack's Philadelphia team when it won three pennants in a row, and two world championships, beginning with the season of 1929. He led the American League batters in 1930 and 1931.

Al was in his prime in those days, but he is now only 35 years old, and his 1938 record with the Senators showed 21 home runs, 6 three-baggers, 23 two-baggers and 92 runs batted in. His batting average was .302 for the 125 games in which he played. He even stole two bases, and his fielding percentage was .983, being fourth among the regular fielders of his league.

The sale of Simmons by Washington is said to have been due to personal differences with Clark Griffith, the club's president. Griffith fined Simmons $200 for alleged obscene language directed at certain customers on the last day of the season. Simmons said Griffith had promised him a bonus if he batted over 300 for the season, and fined him to get it back.

However all this may be, the old-timer's admirers will wish him luck with the Boston team, and hope he may hold his own for many seasons to come.

Harry Can Write One—If He Will

At 79, full of years and recollections, Harry Daugherty says he is going to write one more book.

The attorney general of the Harding administration, now spending his declining years oscillating between Florida and Columbus, Ohio, has confided to Michael Desmond, Columbus Citizen reporter, that he is going to make public a lot of "sacred but important secrets" in the book on which he is now working.

A completely candid book on the Harding administration by an insider like Daugherty would be illuminating to those who lived through it, and a rich source for the historian. Exactly how candid Mr. Daugherty is going to be remains to be seen.

Harding is gone, and Coolidge and Tom Walsh and Jess Smith and nearly all of the others, Harding's papers have never been published, and probably never will be. There is a rumor that they were all destroyed by Mrs. Harding before her death.

In fact, the mortality of documents concerned with the "normalcy period" of American history has been pretty high. Thus Mr. Daugherty can undoubtedly throw unique light on it if he chooses.

In the meantime, Daugherty publicly reminisced to Desmond for the first time in many years of his retirement. Asked to comment on the plan to change the Supreme Court, Daugherty replied:

"The Supreme Court is being made over again. Well, I made it over myself. Neither Mr. Harding or Mr. Coolidge ever refused to send in the name of the man I recommended. Stanford, Sutherland, Taft and Butler were specified."

The best thing about men like Harry Daugherty is that you know where they stand. "I was a stand-patter," affirms Daugherty today. "A corporation lawyer. Still am. I never change."

So the public may await whatever sensational revelations Harry Daugherty may choose to make as a stand-patter and a corporation lawyer who never changes. Private advice to the public: "Don't hold your breath."

The up-swept hair-do has not a serious obstacle in England, as it interferes with the fitting use of gas masks so they will stay put. This is probably the reason that the style will be abandoned over there, where everyone must have a gas mask.

After a Negro took a pot shot at George Spikler of Chicago, bystanders noticed a bullet hole in his right trousers leg and called an ambulance. Spikler protested, saying: "I don't need a doctor; I need a carpenter. This leg is made of hickory."

Free Texts Adopted In Safety Education

The State Board of Education is to be congratulated for adopting free texts in safety education. In a single year 105,000 people died from accidents. The tragic thing about it all is the fact that most of these accidents might have been prevented.

If we are to reduce the number of accidents, we should form more desirable habits. The public school should do its part toward developing sound safety habits. It is hoped that these texts will be widely and effectively used.

Dramatic Club Holds Regular Meeting

The Dramatic Club of Paint Creek High School met at their regular meeting period Monday morning, February 20. Instead of presenting the three one-act plays March 3rd, they decided to present them in chapel sometime in the near future.

As the business of the club does not use a full period a program committee was appointed to work up plans for our next meeting which will be Monday, February 27. Nannie Bell Sandefur is chairman of the program committee for next week.

Obituary

The following beautiful tribute was given by the Rev. G. Robt. Forrester at the funeral service for Miss Dulin Fields last Thursday afternoon. Rev. Forrester is a former minister of the First Christian Church, of which Miss Fields was a faithful and devoted member.

My Christian friends and neighbors: It is always with mingled emotions that one returns to the scenes of a former ministry to render a service such as that which calls us here today. I believe, however, that it will arouse no tinge of resentment or of envy in the heart of anyone for me to say publicly that no family of my acquaintance could have called for such a ministry with whom I could have felt a keener and more genuine sympathy, or to whom I would have more readily responded. For of all those to whom it has been my privilege to minister I hold this bereaved family in the deepest and most tender regard. To them I have long been bound by cords of a deep and abiding affection.

I come to this responsibility this afternoon without any concern for the future, well-being or eternal destiny of the one whose body lies before us, for she is safe from all harm in that realm where the things that disturb us here can never touch her or disturb her happy state. My ministry is, therefore, to those who remain here to grieve her going.

Upon such an occasion there are multitudes of Scriptures that rush into our minds and fairly clamor for consideration, any of which would be appropriate. But from all of these I should like to quote just two. The first is taken from Psalms 116:15—a passage from the Old Testament Scriptures. It reads: "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints." The second is taken from the last book of the New Testament Scriptures, Rev. 14:13, and reads: "And I heard a voice from heaven saying, Write, Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works will follow them."

From our human point of view it is difficult for us to realize how this can be. In our short vision we cannot see the preciousness nor understand the blessedness of the death of our loved ones. We see only the dark and tragic loss. Into our vision comes the circle that is broken; the vacant chair by the fireside that will never more be filled. We see our loved ones taken from the home; we hear the rattle of clogs upon the carpet, and like Rachel weeping for her children, we refuse to be comforted because our loved ones are not. We see this tragic side, I say, because we are human and are only able to see from the human point of view. But God sees in a different light. From heaven's perspective he sees the triumph and the glorious victory of His saints.

My friends, if you and I were able to pull aside the curtain and glimpse the land that lies beyond the experience we call death, we would, like the disciples on the Mount of Transfiguration, could see the transfigured glory of the eternal living Christ, and hear Him in conversation with the spirits of just men made perfect through the ages. Thus we should discover the close proximity of the realm in which our departed loved ones dwell. This philosophy found such beautiful expression in the lines of Ella Wheeler Wilcox that I quote them here:

"It seemeth such a little way to me Across to that strange country, the Beyond; And yet not strange, for it has grown to be The home of those of whom I am so fond. They make it seem familiar and most dear. As journeying friends bring distant regions near."

"So close it lies that when my sight is clear I think I almost see the gleaming strand; I know I feel those who have gone from here. Come near enough sometimes to touch my hand. I often think, but for our veiled eyes, We should find heaven right about us lies."

"I cannot make it seem a day to dread When from this dear earth I shall journey out"

Seventh Grade Presents Assembly Program

Mr. Knowles and his seventh graders had charge of the assembly Monday. He had a very interesting program planned. He told a few jokes on some of the students and teachers. Several scenes were acted out on the stage and the student body had to guess the name of the scene. There were three declamations given by Joyce Nanny, Joy Grand, and D. W. Gipson. Mr. Knowles and Miss Loveless sang a duet. They were accompanied by Mrs. Everett.

I Wonder Why—

Frances isn't so crazy about the Paint Creek boys? Could it be that she is interested in an outsider?

All of Paint Creek is studying so hard this week? Could it be six weeks exams?

Irvin looked so down hearted this week? Fay didn't come back to school for a good many days after the basketball boys party?

Jimmie looked so downhearted last week? Could it be because she didn't get that expected letter?

Sybil's face turned so red in the third period study hall?

Seniors Begin Work On Annual

For the past two weeks the Seniors of Paint Creek have been working very hard on their annual. They have made much progress and they plan to put out a good annual. The adds have not yet been sold but they plan to begin in the near future.

To that still dearer country of the in it.

And join the lost ones so long like to say of her is that she was dreamed about.

I love this world, yet I shall love to get

And meet the friends who wait for me, I know.

"I never stand above a bier and see

The seal of death set on some well-loved face

But what I think: 'One more to welcome me

When I shall cross the intervening space

Between this land and that one 'over there';

One more to make the strange beyond seem fair."

"And so, for me, there is no sting of death.

And so the grave hath lost its victory.

It is but crossing with abated breath.

And white, set face—a little strip of sea—

To find the loved ones waiting on the shore.

More beautiful, more precious than before."

This, my friends, I believe to be true. Therefore, those who have passed beyond the limits of our earthly vision are just as real and just as much our own as they have been before.

So because our heavenly Father is not subject to our human limitations, but sees from the standpoint of the divine, He is able to see the blessed and precious side of the death of His saints.

By way of tribute I should like to say three things with reference to Sister Dulin this afternoon. To these simple statements might be added many others, but these seem to me sufficient, for the life which she has so nobly lived in your midst is its own sufficient eulogy.

The first thing that I should like to say is that she was a good woman—a true and worthy citizen.

Her life was lived from day to day in such a self forgettable way, that even when she knelt to pray her prayer was made for others. The world is happier and we better because of her having lived

The second thing that I should like to say of her is that she was a faithful, loyal and devoted daughter and sister—a worthy member of a christian family. In all of her thoughts and in every deed she did, her first consideration was not for self but for those she loved. That she might lighten the burdens of her loved ones; that she might make lighter and happier the family circle—they were the things for which she lived.

And last of all, I should like to say that she was a christian in all that the term implies. Having said this, there remains nothing more to be said than this. For there is no higher tribute that could be paid anyone. She lived in humble and quiet devotion to her divine Lord, and freely devoted her time and her talents to the service of His church. She has worthily won for herself the plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter into the joy of thy Lord."

Her city will miss her; her family will miss her and the church she has so faithfully served will find it difficult to replace her, and will miss her through the days that are ahead.

Having said these things there remains this to be said: that her going is precious in the sight of the Lord because it means the calling home of one of His children. It means that the battles of life are over for her, because He is ready to say of her:

"Servant of God, well done; thy faithful warfare's past. The battle's fought; the victory's won. And thou art crowned at last."

God sees the end of all sorrow, sickness, pain and death for her. He sees His child safe at home.

During the years of my ministry I have been called upon to try to minister comfort to scores and scores of families in bereavement. In those years I have reached certain definite convictions, and these have become as definitely fixed in my heart as the fact that sun rises in the morning and sinks at evening time beneath the western horizon. One of these convictions is this: The experience which we call death does not come from God as a means of punishment or discipline either of the one who is taken, or of those who are bereaved. I say this on the authority of Jesus who when His disciples brought Him a man who had been blind from his birth, and said: "Master, who sinned, this man or his parents that he should be born blind?" He replied: "Neither this man nor his parents, but that the work of God should be made manifest in him."

The second of these convictions is that the grave is not the all nor the end of all. On the dual foundation of the divine Lordship of Jesus and the inspiration of the word of God I base this conviction.

Jesus said that the hour would come when all that were in the grave should hear the voice of the Son of God and should come forth, they that had done good into the resurrection of life, and they that had done evil into the resurrection of condemnation. As He stood beside the grave of Lazarus and sought to comfort the weeping sisters He said: "Whosoever believeth on Me, though he were dead yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die."

And so, my friends, when this life is over, with all its heartache and struggle, we shall all join again the loved ones who await us in that eternal realm of light and life and love.

Precious in the sight of God is the death of His saints, and blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from hence forth, yea, saith the Spirit; that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them. This is a glorious thought for those who loved ones have died in the Lord. But there is in it, likewise, a solemn warning to those who are out of Christ that they, too, should enter into fellowship with Him, for the blessedness can only come to those who belong to Him.

Bible School—9:45 a. m.

Morning Worship—10:45 a. m.

Sermon: "Wonderful."

Evening Worship—7:00 p. m.

Sermon: "The Threefold Secret of the Apostle Paul's Life."

At the present time, we are trying to stimulate attendance at the Church. There are various reasons why people stay home from Church as this little p.c.m. suggests:

"Some stay home because it's cold and some because it's hot."

And some because they're getting old, and some, because they're not!

Some stay home because their hat the milliner's not finished;

And some, because their liking for the minister has diminished.

Some declare they don't enjoy the singing of the choir; and some because a fellow saint aroused their wrathful ire.

Alas! Alas! How excuses grow to derive our thoughts from God, and turn us from the House of Prayer—the place our Father's throne.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

J. G. Malphurs, Minister

Apostasy from the New Testament religion is never brought about overnight. It takes years, the overlapping of generations, to make a decisive departure. The greater the apostasy the longer time is needed. Taking the liberty to do things which neither Christ nor his apostles enjoined on the church is the usual beginning of apostasy. Motives might have been good, but they can't justify us before God in doing things as work or worship which He has not authorized. Motive of the next generation might be good in adding another departure from the New Testament order, and on the apostasy goes until there is no likeness to the original pattern made by the Lord. Therefore we, as a congregation of Christians, reject all creeds and doctrines of men, human names and take the New Testament as our guide in all church work and worship. We believe this is safe, and the only ground for union among Christians.

The subject for our morning sermon will be, "The Goodness of God Leadeth Thee to Repentance" (Rom. 2:4). At the evening hour, 7:45, we have the third of a connected series in the life of Christ, "Jesus Jumping off Temple" (Mat. 4:5-7).

You are urged to worship God with us, enjoy our fellowship and to measure our teaching by the Bible.

27,019 Trench Silos Built By Farmers of Texas During 1938

Texas farmers and ranchmen filled 27,019 trench silos in 1938 in cooperation with county agricultural agents, the annual report of E. R. Eudaly, dairyman of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service shows. This represents an increase of 7,536 over the number in use at the end of 1937.

A total of 1,734,000 tons of feed or more than a million tons over the 1937 figure is stored in these trenches. It would require a trench 12 feet wide, 6 feet deep and 262 miles long to hold the silage, or one, Eudaly says, that would reach "from College Station to the city limits of Durant, Oklahoma."

Even in a year of a comparatively large feed crop the silage represents a value of around 7 million dollars. There is enough feed stored in trenches in Texas fed at the rate of 30 pounds an animal per day, to feed 642,000 animals for three months.

One record of 3 year's standing was lost as the number of trench silos failed to double that of the previous year's. At the same time the 7,536 increase made in 1938 far exceeds any previous year's gain.

"County agents have learned that the trench silo is the most economical and efficient way to store feed and they recommend the trench storage to their farmers and ranchmen without reserve, Eudaly pointed out. "Feed in a trench silo is safe from weevils, rats, fire, rain, floods and time itself."

Vaccination Is Urged By State Health Officer

Smallpox can be eliminated as a cause of illness and death if every person would be vaccinated against this disease at least every five years, declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. There were over 600 cases of smallpox reported to the State Health Department in 1938.

Smallpox occurs most frequently among young children under 14 years of age. The incubation period averages from 8 to 14 days, and the disease begins suddenly with a severe headache and a high fever. The severe headache and the intense pain in the loins, back and extremities are more characteristic of smallpox than of any other disease occurring in temperate climates. At the end of 3 or 4 days of these preliminary symptoms, an eruption appears which, within a few hours becomes distinctly raised above the general level of the skin. With the appearance of the eruption the fever subsides and the patient becomes more comfortable. In contradistinction to chickenpox, the eruption does not occur in crops, but goes through its development in a characteristic fashion nearly simultaneously all over the body. Every community is in a position to determine the amount of smallpox it wishes to have. Vaccination against the disease is economical, safe and sure and brings complete protection. Smallpox stands as one disease which science has brought completely within human control, and the State Health Department's advice is to be vaccinated immediately if you have not been vaccinated within the last five years.

Mr. and Mrs. N. I. McCollum attended a meeting of hardware dealers and a luncheon held in Big Spring Sunday.

Enlarged Aerial Map of Farms To Be Sold Farmers

How to get an enlarged portrait of your farm or ranch, showing everything from the bucket by the well to the sheep in the meadow, has been outlined by the AAA.

In its state-wide aerial mapping program, the AAA has acquired a photographic bird's eye view of approximately seven-tenths of the area of Texas including 370,000 farms and ranches. Photos will be used in 176 counties this year to check compliance in the farm program.

County offices this month received instructions for handling private orders for the enlargements which are to the scale or 660 feet to the inch.

Schedule of prices for the pictures varies from section to section, depending upon the source from which the photos were obtained. George Slaughter, Chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, explained.

Farmers or others wanting aerial maps for private use are urged to call on county AAA offices, since instructions are not uniform throughout the state.

All orders must be pooled in the county office and submitted to the state office of the AAA at College Station.

Since the photos show fence lines and other field boundaries and show accurate acreage measurements, with comparatively little effort, Slaughter believes the maps, if privately owned, would contribute toward better farm planning. Except in areas where farms are widely scattered, the aerial maps are found to be the cheapest and most practical means of checking performance of farmers in the acreage control program. C. H. Moseley, who handles the air mapping project in Texas, said from six to ten farms a day can be checked by photographs, though, where by other means, two farms checked would represent a good day's work.

Last Word in Convenience

The desire to make a car reflect its owner's individuality is a potent factor in the average motorist's choice of accessory equipment. And it would be hard to find a more thoroughly "personalized" car than this new Chevrolet in which Mary Pickford is shown applying a touch of makeup. As if the handy illuminated vanity mirror were not enough, the car has a special kit of Miss Pickford's own famous beauty aids, now on the market under her name. The container, holding lipstick, rouge, powder and cream, folds neatly up into the glove compartment when not in use. Inset shows close-up of vanity case.

Two Men Added On Staff of Area Soil Project Recently

Tom P. Porter and James G. McCallum have recently been transferred to the staff of the California Creek Watershed project, according to James M. Bird, Project Conservationist of Stamford.

Mr. Porter is a graduate of Texas A. & M. of 1934, and comes from the Regional Office Mobile Survey Unit of Fort Worth and will assume duties as the project agronomist.

Mr. McCallum has been transferred from the Garland, Texas, project and will assume duties as an agricultural aide.

Both men come highly recommended from their former headquarters, Bird said.

Home From Hospital

W. A. Lyles, Haskell jeweler who has been in the Stamford hospital for the past ten days after being stricken with pneumonia, had recovered sufficiently Saturday to be returned to his home here. The trip was made in a Holden ambulance. Mr. Lyles' many friends will be glad to learn that he is recuperating nicely.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends and neighbors for their loving sympathy and kindness toward us during the illness and death of our loved one. Such love makes our sorrow more bearable, and the beautiful floral offering made us feel your love for her and us too. We pray that you may find the same true friendship in your hour of sorrow and that we may be more deserving of such kindness.

Mrs. R. B. Fields and Family.

Citizenship Is Now Required of Relief Workers

Affidavits of citizenship must be executed by all persons receiving employment under the terms of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1933 if their employment is to be continued after March 5, it was announced this week by State Works Progress Administrator H. P. Drought at San Antonio.

Affecting an estimated 147,000 persons in Texas, the citizenship regulations written into the act by Congress requires the execution of affidavits by all WPA and NYA project workers and student aid employees as well as supervisory and administrative personnel. In releasing instructions on methods of obtaining affidavits, Drought expressed the hope that it will be possible for destitute workers employed in the works program to obtain notary service with out cost. WPA administrative employees who are notaries public will be relieved of regular duties so that they may devote their time to notarial work. WPA administrative officers are seeking the cooperation of counties, cities and others sponsoring agencies to assist in providing free notary service to project workers.

Project employees who lose working time in order to obtain citizenship affidavits will be given an opportunity to make up the time lost, Drought said.

Mayor Proclaims Week of February 26th to March 4 as "Texas Week"

Mayor F. G. Alexander has called upon the citizenship of Haskell to join in a statewide observance from Feb. 26 to March 4 as "Texas Week" in the following proclamation:

"WHEREAS, the State of Texas is an empire within itself, vast in its area, unparalleled in the glory of its heroic deeds, and romantic history, unrivaled in the splendid progress and achievements of its brilliant past and living present, and unmatched in the marvelous opportunities it has in store for its citizens ever in the future; and

"Whereas, we are approaching the date, March the Second, which marks the birth of Texas Liberty and the beginning of the Republic of Texas, and its subsequent entry into the Sisterhood of States of this Union; and

"Whereas, there is a movement throughout this State that TEXAS WEEK, beginning February 26th and closing March 4th, 1939, be properly observed in commemoration of the birth of the Republic of Texas;

"Now, Therefore, I, F. G. Alexander, Mayor of the City of Haskell, in accordance with Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8 of the Forty Second Legislature, proclaim TEXAS WEEK and invite our citizens to observe TEXAS WEEK, not as a season of holidays but as a week of better work and better living;

"First, I urge every home, office, place of business and industry, every public and private school to fly a Texas Flag each day during TEXAS WEEK and;

"Second, I urge all schools and colleges to observe TEXAS WEEK with appropriate assembly programs; make TEXAS WEEK education week and book week hang Texas pictures in home, school, and office; plant trees and flowers and dedicate them; and make patriotic pilgrimages to places of historical significance and;

"Third, I urge all the people in the arts and industries, professional pursuits, clubs, conventions, churches, lodges and other assemblies to render appropriate programs during TEXAS WEEK; and

"Fourth, Let us carefully consider more plans for the further industrial development of our state. By putting to use our abundant natural resources, Texas may soon be a leader in industry as well as in agriculture; and

"Fifth, We Texans should cooperate in the growing movement for the preservation of scenic beauty and wild life in our state. Texas is an exquisitely beautiful state and only by the support of every loyal Texan can the beauty be made to endure, and

"Sixth, Let us all, for the brief space of TEXAS WEEK, extol the cultural and spiritual values of the romantic traditions of our history and dedicate ourselves to the lofty ideals of statesmanship, character, and leadership which our forefathers exhibited in their lives consecrated to liberty, happiness and service.

F. G. ALEXANDER
Mayor of the City of Haskell
